collar, which is narrow front and back, meeting at the neck band and extending out over the sleeves in the form of an epaulette, is especially good style. The wide fancy collar is a feature of the new thin bodices of gauze or chiffon, as well as the heavier materials, and it is sometimes made of the same thin fabric, shirred full of tiny tucks or of tulle in some contrasting color, lined with silk of the color of the body. The dark muslin gowns of the daintiest description have the same style of collar, made of alternate rows of tucks and insertion finished around the edge with a lace frill, or entirely lace over colored silk. An example of this in the new shape is shown in the first illustration, which is a charming model for a colored or white organdie or an écru batiste. White organdie is the material employed in this case, and the new fine Swiss embroidery so popular this season is the trimming, set in two rows of insertion down either side of the skirt and in the bodices and sleeves. Two ruffles of edging trim the bottom, and the color of pale green and white shot taffeta is covered with the embroidery. The silk also forms the dress, and the underdress is of pale green, fine and sheer.

The underdresses of organdie or very sheer lawn are trimmed with ruffles at the bottom, which make the skirts stand out and preserve the lightness in effect much better than the silk lining.

Lace jackets worn with very thin gowns are one of the latest novelties, and the newest form shows a postillion back.

Dashmere is coming into vogue again. Dealers say that its return is being greeted with enthusiasm. Those better was a more manageable or graceful material.

EACH ONE FOR ALL.

SUCCESS OF AN INTERESTING COLONY OF SOCIALISTS.

Labor Problem Solved—No Matter What the Work, Each Member Receives the Same Wages. Their Chief Business in Publishing a Socialistic Paper.

There is in Ruskin, Tenn., a thriving community of some two hundred souls. It is a successful socialistic colony, and probably the most interesting one on the continent. Its people are persons of high ideals, who seek to carry out in actual life the dreams of their philosophy. They could be more prosperous. They are happy and contented.

"Every member of this association shall surrender his natural freedom which leads him to disregard the rights of others, for the sake of civil or social freedom which, being based upon the principles of right and justice, has regard for his rights and the rights of all."

That is the corner stone of the community. Each member is an equal stockholder in the association, and all share exactly alike. Every member has a guaranteed employment all the day's labor is fixed at nine hours. Every member receives exactly the same compensation for his work, no matter what it is; if sick his pay goes on just the same.

There is no interference with individual tastes or private, religious or domestic affairs. The association owns all the land and means of production and distribution, and owns all buildings, but each member owns his own household furniture and clothing. Members have expensive houses, but there is a common kitchen and dining hall. Some of the best laundry machinery has been put in. Schooling, medicine and medical attendance are furnished free, and there is a good school now in progress of doing, with twenty-five or thirty children.

The people in this little ideal world are nearly all Americans. There are a few Germans. They come from all over the Union, but there are few if any from the South. Ohio and Pennsylvania furnish the largest quota. Very few come from farms, and those who do have lived at least for a few years in cities, so that it can be said to be wholly a city community.

There is no preacher or minister in the place, and no official religious services. If any one wished to start religious services there would be no objection, but I doubt if it would be possible to get them officially recognized by the association. Individual members are pronounced free thinkers. Almost all of them are bitter against church organizations as not doing their duty. Still of them admire Jesus Christ and many are deeply religious. The animating spirit of the colony is distinctively altruistic.

Imagine a community without police or sheriffs. Such a place is Ruskin. There are no officials save that one member is notary public and another postmaster. There is no immorality, no thieving, no drunkenness. They do not keep or sell liquors.

The principal business of the community is the publishing of a socialistic weekly paper. This paper accepts no advertisements and prints no news, but it has an outside circulation of 35,000 copies, and on one occasion sold an edition of 100,000. They also publish, at telegraphers' journal that has a considerable circulation, and they issue yearly a number of books, chiefly on socialistic topics. The authors and editors are all members of the community, and receive for their literary labor precisely the same wages as woodchoppers and farmers and stablemen.

WHERE CLAY PIPES ARE MADE.

Braseley, England, Where They Have Been Made for 297 Years.

It is difficult to state with any degree of accuracy when tobacco was first introduced into Europe, but it is generally believed that Sir Walter Raleigh took it to England toward the end of the sixteenth century. With the introduction of tobacco came the need of tobacco pipes, as before tobacco smoking the practice smoking of herbs and leaves even for medicinal purposes was not at all general. It is stated that at Braseley, in Shropshire, the first clay pipes were made; and although many pipes are made in Glasgow and elsewhere, yet the Braseley clay pipes are the best known among old smokers the world over, and their manufacture is still continued by descendants of the original makers.

The clay for making the pipes is and always has been obtained from Devon and Cornwall, the absence of coal in these districts and the abundance of it in Brasely having offered sufficient inducement to the early manufacturers to settle there. In making in the early days of its introduction, a very different matter from what it is now. Then the greater part of the manipulation was performed by the master, and twenty or twenty-four grows was the number that could be burned in one kiln. This required about a ton of coal. Each pipe rested on its bowl, and the stem was supported by rings of pipe clay placed one upon the other as the kiln became filled; the result was that at least 50 per cent were warped or broken in the kiln.

At the present time the preliminary preparations of the clay are made by men, but the most delicate part is almost entirely intrusted to the hands of women. The pipes are placed in "saggers," to be burned after the Dutch mode, and from 350 to 400 gross in one kiln are not an uncommon quantity. The breakages amount to not more than 1 per cent. One collector has a splendid collection of old clay pipes, the oldest of them, from their trade marks, hailing from Brasley, and being dated as long ago as the year 160[illegible].—New York Sun.

ANOTHER LITTLE BOOM.

A SOUTH JERSEY CONGRESSMAN TROTTED OUT FOR GOVERNOR.

Gardner Strong in Many Points—If North Jersey Gets the Senatorship He May Loom up Big as a Candidate for Executive Chair.

"How would Congressman John J. Gardner do for Governor?" was a question put by a prominent Republican politician a day or two ago. "It is already conceded," added this leader, "that the United States Senatorship is to go to the upper end of the State, and that, in the event of Republican success, either John Kean or Governor Griggs will get the prize. It would be a stroke of good politics, then, to recognize the ever-faithful army of Republicans in South Jersey by allowing them to name the candidate for Governor. Should the agreement like that be reached, and it probably will, then the nomination of John J. Gardner would be the logical sequence." This is a South Jersey-man's opinion, and, of course, it is naturally very friendly to Mr. Gardner. Should the Congressman become a candidate there would be an interesting struggle between him and Comptroller Hancock in the event of his friends pushing him for the nomination. Congressman Pitney might also conclude to become a factor in the contest.

Congressman Gardner is a Republican war-horse. Twenty-one years ago he became a State Senator, and he served as such for an unknown period of fifteen years. In 1892 he was elected to Congress, and is now serving his third term. He has been president of the Senate, and during his career as a law maker has always been prominent before the public. He is quite an orator and a debater, and as a Republican leader in his own peculiar way, he has helped his party to a large extent. Mr. Gardner is a close friend of General Sewell, and it is well known that he has always been a stout champion of railroad interests. It is this latter fact which might seriously militate against Mr. Gardner should he permit the use of his name in connection with the nomination.

If nominated for Governor he would make an active campaign, as he is a power on the hustings. At the same time Comptroller Hancock and Congressman Pitney are just as popular as Mr. Gardner. In these men the Republican party has good material from which to select a Gubernatorial candidate.

Another name mentioned in connection with the office is that of Judge John Franklin Fort, of Newark. He is one of the best orators and ablest lawyers in the State, and should Essex county conclude to go into the contest the candidacy of Judge Fort would cause much enthusiasm. But it seems that the upper end of the of the State cannot have the two big slices. Either John Kean or Governor Griggs will succeed Senator Smith unless the Republican chickens are counted before they are hatched. Then South Jersey must get the Governor, and the present situation indicates that the Republican nominee will be either Comptroller Hancock or Congressman Gardner.

Should Mr. Hancock be chosen as the Republican standard bearer it is suggested that about the strongest man the Democrats could name against him would be General Donnelly.

WATER COMPANY SALE.

South Plainfield Property Sold at Public Auction.

The effects of the Midland Water Company located at South Plainfield were sold Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the president, Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth. There was a good crowd present and the sale was a short one. The engine was sold to Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, for $110, and the pulleys and shafting was sold to Morgan C. Bird, of Plainfield, for $16. Mr. Kaufman, of Elizabeth, purchased the elevator for $9. The buildings were purchased by P. A. Pope and Amos Andrews, of this city. A portion of the buildings, 50 x 30, will be moved to an adjoining lot and two houses will be constructed of it. The rest of it will be torn down and sold in quantities to suit. In the latter there is a good lot of yellow pine. All of the goods disposed of will be moved in a day or two.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. We, the undersigned, have known F. J Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm. WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O. WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale druggists, Toledo, O. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Eddie F. Randolph, of West Front street, is ill at his home.

FILLED WITH REMORSE.

THE BOUND BROOK MURDERER IN POOR SPIRITS.

Spends Most of His Time in Prayer and Says He is Afraid of Ghosts—To be Tried Again in September.

Joseph Chaldea, the Italian who murdered his wife at Bound Brook last February and who is now confined in the Somerset county jail at Somerville awaiting a second trial, seems to be down-hearted and has lost a great deal of the nerve that carried him through his first trial. He has fallen away in flesh, cannot sleep nights and refuses to eat his meals part of the time.

He still claims that he did not kill his wife, but says that on the morning when he and his wife had the fight he did not have the fatal knife that was the cause of her death in his hand until after it was all over, when he picked it up from the floor and threw it into the fireplace. During the fracas, he says, she cut him two or three times with the knife, changing it from one hand to the other when he tried to get it away from her, and that finally, when they were clinched in a close embrace, the knife being in her own hand, it was forced into her breast below the heart, and afterwards dropped out upon the floor while she was sitting on the bed, she exclaiming, "Oh! Joe, I am cut!"

Chaldea sleeps with two lights burning in his cell at night, being afraid to remain in the dark as, he says, he is haunted by the spirit of his wife who visits him nights, and he makes such a noise about ghosts at nights that the other prisoners in the jail can get no sleep.

Chaldea has a way of praying aloud three or four times a day and night. He has been known to pray for one hour and a half at a time.

He says that his friends in Connecticut, where he used to work as a fireman for stationary engines, have subscribed $700 toward getting him extra counsel for his second trial in September next.

Chaldea occupies No. 1 cell on the lower tier on the west side of the jail, and faces the window in front of which the scaffold was erected on which Johnson and Clawson were hung last May. He threatens if found guilty to make away with himself, saying that rather than be hung or go to prison at Trenton he would find a way to kill himself.

RAILROAD DEFY THE CITY.

The "Royal Blue Line" Starts New Ferry Line Regardless of Officials.

In defence of the city authorities, says the New York Press, the "Royal Blue Line" Monday established a ferry service between the foot of Whitehall street and Communipaw.

The double-decked ferryboats Easton and Mauch Chunk began making regular trips in the morning. The Royal Blue Line comprises the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Philadelphia and Reading and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads.

When this ferry matter was broached Controller Fitch said that the franchise would have to be put up at auction and sold to the person or corporation willing to pay the city the largest percentage on its gross receipts.

The matter went to the Corporation Counsel's office, and the last heard from Mr. Turner was that "Nothing will be done until the law is violated."

When Controller Fitch learned that he boats were running Monday he said:

"I shall apply to the Supreme Court for an injunction. The city should receive a revenue from that as well as all other ferries."

LESSON IN ROAD BUILDING.

New Brunswick Not Satisfied With the Experience of Government Experts.

Residents of College avenue, New Brunswick, have reluctantly reached the conclusion that road building under government supervision is a failure. That they have formed such opinion is probably due to the fact that both experts and improved road machinery sent to Brunswick have been taken away when the pavement which was begun several weeks ago, on College avenue, is only half done.

In addition to these facts, Asher Atkinson, the city engineer, has made a report on the work, and, according to what he has learned, the road will cost the property owners much more than if it had been built in the usual way by contract, and it is not constructed as well as some of the roads which have been built in this manner. Some recently invented road machinery was given a practical test for the first time.

Aside from this, the road will cost the taxpayers more than under the usual method of giving it out to the lowest bidder. Had the government experts remained and finished the road, as it was expected they would do when they were sent to New Brunswick, there would have been no dissatisfaction. Just what practical value has resulted from the building of the rode in this manner the property owners are unable to determine.

James Smith, of Elmwood place, is visiting his daughter at Newark.

The Vessel of Life.

The Strongest Vessel Ever Made.

The body of a patient who died in the London Hospital was delivered to the doctors that they might demonstrate the amount of iron in the ordinary man. Later age of them fashioned the iron into the form of a vessel and named it the "vessel of life." As the natural food their blood is always well filled with iron, but man's food, often fancifully prepared, is nearly always lacking in iron. The blood of animals, therefore, furnishes the best source from which to refill the blood of man with iron. Dr. Campbell has secured natural iron from bullocks blood and put it up in the form of Capsuloids. Any one can take it.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

FOR SALE BY

L. W. Randolph, 143 W. Front St.

PASSING COMMENT.

South Plainfield is the mecca to which all the Izaak Waltons wend their way now. Catfish are biting in a manner to bring joy to the fisherman's heart, and perched upon an old tin can or some other handy article, the fishermen intently watch the lines thrown from ten to fifty feet out into the pond in much the same manner as a cat watches a mouse or some other prey.

* * * *

In the line of sensations New Jersey offers more to the readers of the New York papers than does the metropolis itself. One of the latest is the divorce proceedings instituted by two Indians who went on a big drunk one day and woke up the next morning to find themselves married. They make affidavits to the effect that they were too drunk to know what they were doing and want the courts to declare the blessedness of being single men again.

* * * *

A Plainfield meat dealer, who has been making a trial for the past two or three weeks of an enclosed glass dust-proof and germ-proof delivery wagon, announces that the vehicle is a success in every particular, and he has given orders for two more of similar construction. The sides and top are of glass and in the bottom is a place for the storing of ice, so that when the meat is placed within the wagon and the doors closed, the interior is cool and perfectly protected from the dust particles and germs of various sorts with which the air of a city is laden. It would not be surprising if these enclosed delivery wagons soon came into general use in the city.

* * * *

No matter how many pessimists cry that times are hard, there is one industry in Plainfield that is making rapid strides to large proportions, and that is the bootblacking business. No matter which way you walk in the business section of the city the cry of colored gent is heard thuswise:

"Polish, sah, black your shoes, shine 'em up. Give yere a nice polish there gent."

The boys who formerly filled this field of industry by scouring the town with a box containing their implements of trade slung over their back, have been superseded by the chairs that are stationed in front of every barber shop and almost on every street corner, wherein the customer sits in an easy attitude while his shoes are made to resemble looking glass. The bootblacks in this city make between $3 and $12 a week.

ASKED FOR WATER, TOOK A WHEEL.

Then the Beggar Accepted His Opportunity to Steal a Bike.

John Mundy, who lives in Piscataway township, had a bicycle stolen from his residence on Sunday noon. He, with other members of his family, were enjoying dinner, when a stranger approached the house and asked for a drink of water. The bicycle stood beside the porch and out of view of those at the table. The stranger was told that there was a cup at the well and that he might help himself to the water.

He seemed to follow directions without further questioning and the family supposed he got the water and nothing else. When Mr. Mundy arose from the table and looked for his bicycle he found that it had disappeared and that the man who had asked for water had rode away with it. The wheel had new tires and was in first-class condition in every way. Search was made for the thief, but he was not discovered anywhere.

Wise men know it is folly to build on a poor foundation. Relief obtained by deadening symptoms is short. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures and gives lasting health.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sick headache, indigestion, biliousness. All druggists. 25c.

—At present special marshals are doing duty in the borough pending permanent action by the council.

—The business of upholstering and awning making which has been conducted on Park avenue by Frank Wikoff will hereafter be conducted by Wikoff & Stiglitz. The new member of the firm is Andrew Stiglitz.

A FEATHERED DUELLIST

SCOTCH PLAINS WOMAN TRIFLED WITH A SETTING HEN.

A Game Fowl Resented being Disturbed and Attacked Mrs. Benjamin Elliott in a Ferocious Manner With Beak and Claws.

A novel duel between a woman and a setting hen in which the fowl came off an easy victor, occurred in Scotch Plains, last Saturday. Benjamin Elliott, of Park avenue, is interested in the raising of game chickens, and has a number of them in his yards. On Saturday morning Mrs. Elliott was in need of some eggs for her cooking, and went to the nests to search for them.

Finding one of the game hens on a nest wishing to set she threw it off and removed the eggs. No sooner had she secured the eggs and turned to leave the chicken house than the enraged hen flew at her, striking its long spurs into each side of Mrs. Elliott's head. Blinded and dazed with pain, she staggered toward the house, while the enraged hen flew after her and fought fiercely with beak and spurs.

The wounds in Mrs. Elliott's head had profusely and the nervous shock was also great. She is now able to be about the house again, but wears a bandage about her head.

The next time she meets a game hen with setting proclivities, Mrs. Elliot will think twice before rustling its feathers.

MUD THROWERS.

Dirty Trick of a Lot of Boys at Emorydale Station.

Early in the evening a crowd of small boys from Dunellen and New Market assembled about the end of the trolley and tried to amuse themselves. Many had been over to New Market pond for a swim and they wanted something lively.

They began by firing mud at Emory's place and at the men inside Mr. Emory chased them away several times and finally, the boys thinking that even that grew monotonous, opened fire on the passengers. There was a general scurrying and every body ran for shelter. Very little of the mud struck those for whom it was intended but one young man received a handful squarely in the face and one young girl had her white gown sadly soiled with the mud.

There seemed no way to stop it and the bombardment continued for a few minutes. The crowd of boys lingered around the end of the trolley most of the evening, gathering behind the shed and tossing over a quantity of mud at intervals to lend a little excitement to the scene. At last, they departed.

CATHOLIC CLUB ACTIVITY.

The Members Greatly Interested in the Reorganization.

The meeting of the Catholic Club, which was held in the club house, corner of West Sixth and Liberty streets, last Monday, was largely attended, and much interest was shown by those present in the work of completing the organization of the club.

George J. Tobin, the president, was in the chair. A number of new members were received, making the total enrollment 118. After transacting preliminary business, the members made a general inspection of the club house and talked over the question of needed repairs. It was announced by the chair that the repairs would be completed and the club house thrown open to members by August 1st.

The president then appointed a Literary Committee of three members, as Investigating Committee of three, and a House Committee of seven members. After the regular meeting adjourned, the Board of Directors and the House Committee met and discussed matters pertaining to the club's interests.

UNION COUNTY VALUATIONS.

A Large Increase Over Last Year—Appropriations For Various Purposes.

Union County's Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes met Monday to settle upon the valuations of the various wards and townships in the county for 1897, and also to fix the yearly tax rate.

The valuations, as approved by the Board, were as follows: Elizabeth, $16,916,300; Plainfield, $7,697,000; Summit, $3,021,500; Westfield, $2,109,; Union, $1,790,000; Westfield, $1,452,000; Cranford, $1,177,600; Roselle, $880,000; Linden, $850,400; Linden Borough, $221,500; Fanwood, $566,500; Fanwood Borough, $212,500; Springfield, $337,000; New Providence, $274,600; Clark, $246,400; Mountainside Borough, $136,400. Total valuation for the county, $37,975,600. This is a gain over last year of $1,203,500.

The Board had to raise $200,000 for county purposes this year, an increase of $10,000 over 1896, and for the support of the public schools, $101,393.92 had to be raised—an increase over last year of $4,479.73. This year $4,638.54 had to be raised for interest on county bonds—an increase of $1,000 over 1896.

—*The Lehigh Valley Railroad Com*pany has agreed to allow the G. A. R., of this city, a whole train for their Buffalo trip if a certain number of number of passengers are secured.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher, M. D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

THE PEOPLE'S FAVORITE

The Haller & Davis Piano

BUILT AND SOLD ON HONOR

$300 and up

and 5 years time if you want it. Other makes discount cash. Easy payments. $225 $7 a month. Tree music and catalogue by the asking.

THE TWAY PIANO COMPANY
88 FIFTH AVE.

FUNERAL OF MOSES CARNEY.

Last Tribute of Respect Paid to Good Citizen.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Moses Carney, who died on Sunday morning, were held Tuesday at 10 a. m. in St. Mary's church, and the procession of carriages was one of the largest ever seen in this city. At the church the requiem high mass for the dead was celebrated by Rev. P. E. Smyth, the pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Father Murphy, assistant pastor, and Rev. Father Smith, of Cranford.

The musical part of the service was given by the regular church choir The hymn "Jesu Mo" was beautifully rendered by a trio, M. J. Cashin, Miss May Flanagan and Miss Tessie Keely. Miss Keely also sang a solo at the conclusion of the services in the church.

The floral offerings were handsome, one particularly, a pillow, given by the children of the decedent, with the words inscribed "Dear Papa."

The pallbearers were five nephews of decedent, and John Connolly, of Meriden, Conn.

The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, this city, and the large number of people, by their presence, showed their last mark of respect at the loss of a man respected by all.

Y. M. C. A. Man Drowned.

Arthur B. Paine, eighteen years old, and Acting Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at Morristown, was drowned Monday in Shongum, at an outing he had arranged for the association. To three companions, Robert Leet, Clarence Bockoven and Arthur Bird, Paine proposed a bath and the others agreed. His companions had regained the boat, when Paine, who could not swim, started to wade to it. He suddenly found himself in deep water and shouted, but before his companions could reach him he sank. His body was recovered with grappling hooks.

Convict Captured.

Walter J. Kenney, who was suspected of stealing bicycles and other articles in Bound Brook last spring and who on June 13th escaped from the jail at Norristown, Pa., has been recaptured at Chicago and on payment of the reward offered by the Norristown authorities will be sent on to serve his sentence of five years in the Eastern Penitentiary of Pennsylvania.

A LOCAL Disease Climate Affection

Nothing but a local remedy or change of climate will cure Catarrh. Get a well-known pharmaceutical remedy:

Ely's Cream Balm

It is quickly Absorbed. Gives Relief at once. Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation. Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. No Cocaine, No Mercury, No Injurious Drugs. Full size 50c.; Trial Size by mail, 10c. at Druggists or by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM

COLD in HEAD

THE FACTORS ARE HERE.

Kennedy Players Rehearsing for Two Weeks in Music Hall.

Once more people are reminded that the theatrical season is here in the theaters that are seen strolling along the Italic of Plainfield. The Kennedy Players, to whom there is local interest; attached on account of the Vail Brothers having made their *debut with them last season, are re*hearsing their reportoire in Music Hall for two weeks, and will open the season at that theatre on August 2d. The Kennedy Players, headed by the versatile and funny comedian, John Kennedy, played an engagement at Music Hall last season and proved to be one of the best reportoire companies that ever appeared in Plainfield. The Kennedy family is prolific with actors, but John is by far the best actor among them. E. P. Sullivan, who has been in reportoire for a number of years, and has played more roles than he can call to mind offhand, is a member of the company. Mr. Sullivan is well-known in this city. Frank Vail will be a member of the company this year.

Extension of Trolley Lines.

The fare on the proposed Westfield and Elizabeth trolley line will be five cents from Elizabeth to Westfield. The time limit for its construction is July 1, 1898, but it is expected the line will be in operation by Thanksgiving Day. As soon as the line is built between Elizabeth and Westfield, which includes Elmora, Lorraine, Roselle, Aldine, Garwood, and Cranford, it will be extended to Plainfield, a distance of 12½ miles, when, it is expected, the fare will be ten cents.

Patrolman Saffron has returned from his vacation and is again doing duty.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL XXX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1897. NO. 30.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

HOPEFUL "STAFF" LITTLE

THE OLD-TIME JERSEY LEADER SAYS DEMOCRATS HAVE A CHANCE.

Harmony Is Very Essential—All the Elements of the Party Must Get Together, Forget Old Sores and Stick for Battles, Says Ex-Governor Stafford.

Henry Stafford Little, an old-time Democrat and some years ago a prominent leader, still likes to talk politics, although it has been a long time since he was actively engaged in the political field. "Staff" was one of the members of the old State House combination about a score of years ago when it held full sway over the affairs of the State. He and his associates used to nominate Governors and United States Senators, elect Legislatures, dictate legislation, fix salaries and offices and do lots of other things which made them a power to be feared as well as respected. This reign continued until Leon Abbett stepped to the front and rallied around him a force which soon undermined that great political structure and opened the way for the induction into office of new leaders.

The first break with his party which Mr. Little made was after Governor Ludlow had refused to reappoint him as Clerk in Chancery. He refused to support the nomination of George W. Patterson for State Senator in Monmouth county on two occasions, and his opposition led to the election of the Republican candidate each time. Mr. Little began a warfare against Leon Abbett at that period and kept it up until the death of the latter. He wielded a free lance for a number of years, and, as he says himself, he got lots of fun out of politics.

Mr. Little claims to be an old time Jeffersonian Democrat, a tariff reformer and a sound money man to the core. In an interview a few days ago he said that he did not care how many times he was read out of his party by the silver element, because it had no effect on him—he was still a Democrat and would die one. When asked what the prospects of his party were and whether there was any chance to elect a Democratic Governor, he replied that with a proper organization he saw no reason why the Democrats should not march on to victory. He said he was willing to help in every all the way he could, because all his efforts have lost prestige removed. Mr. Little entertains a poor opinion of the administration of Governor Griggs and says it has been a disappointment all the way through. "Anyhow," said Mr. Little, "Griggs would never have been elected Governor only that the people had made up their minds to turn out the Democratic officeholders, many of whom had disgraced their party. Any Republican would have been elected Governor at the time, and the Republican majority would have been 100,000 had not Chancellor McGill been the Democratic candidate. The time will soon be ripe for an old-fashioned Democratic victory," added Mr. Little, "and all the party has to do is to get together, make a declaration of true Democratic principles and nominate honest men for office."

There has never been any more astute politician in New Jersey than Mr. Little, and he is not yet too old in years to make another display of his fighting qualities. Should he and the other leaders of his party get together and agree upon a plan to harmonize the conflicting elements they could present a solid front which would give the Republicans much cause for merriment.

THE NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE.

A Great Array of Talented Men to Make Addresses.

The last of the summer conferences at Northfield, the general conference of Christian workers, will open on next Thursday, to continue until September 18. D. L. Moody, the evangelist, will have charge of the meetings. While it is impossible to give in advance the arrangements for the daily proceedings, it is learned that the Rev. George H. G. Macgregor, of London, will be one of the leaders during the conference, and that V. D. David, the Tamil evangelist of India; the Rev. R. A. Torrey, President of the Bible Institute of Chicago; Bishop J. P. Newman, and the Rev. Dr. A. C. Dixon of Brooklyn, will have prominent parts. Among other speakers expected are the Rev. Dr. H. C. Mable, Secretary of the Baptist Missionary Union; the Rev. W. J. Erdman of Philadelphia, Secretary of the Niagara Conference, and Major D. W. Whittle of Chicago. Mr. Moody will speak from time to time. This singing will be in charge of Ira D. Sankey and George C. Stebbins.

A number of Plainfielders will attend the conference.

—A regular meeting of the West End Hose Company will be held next Monday evening.

IN TERROR OF A SNAKE.

MAMMOTH REPTILE THAT HAS FRIGHTENED WEST ENDERS.

Described as Being Eight Feet Long and Has Killed Over a Hundred Chickens—Doomed to Death With Shot Guns.

People in the neighborhood of West Sixth street and Plainfield avenue are being terrorized by a black snake, big, bad and bold, which climbs over fences, carries off cats and chickens, suns itself in back yards on pleasant afternoons, and at night keeps people lying awake for fear that it will invade their houses.

For several weeks Mrs. Mary Burke, who lives at 547 West Fourth street, has been losing chickens at the rate of from one to three or four a day. At first it was thought that thieves were taking them, but this theory was abandoned when the carcasses of several fowls were found one day behind a wood pile with only the heads gone. Nearly a hundred chickens were destroyed in this way. Cats in the neighborhood also disappeared, and no clue to the cause of their taking off was discovered until one Saturday afternoon two weeks ago.

At that time Sheridan Jenkins, a colored man who boards next door to Mrs. Burke, was coming through the back yard on his way home when his eyes rested upon an object that caused them to bulge from their sockets.

From under the woodshed protruded the head and part of the body of a mammoth snake, which Jenkins says could not have been less than eight feet in length and a foot in circumference. When he recovered from his astonishment sufficiently to command his legs, Jenkins ran to the house and called Wm. Laden, with whom he boards, to come and take a look at the snake. When the two men returned the reptile had not moved.

"Quite a boy, ain't he?" remarked Laden.

"Yes, siree," replied Jenkins, "but between you and me, Bill, I'm as near to that feller now as I care to get."

They threw a brick at the snake and when the huge body commenced to emerge from under the shed they ran into the house.

On Tuesday Saturday about sundown Mrs. Burke heard cries from one of her chickens and going into the yard she saw the fowl close to a hole in the fence. She attempted to pull it away but found something was pulling in an opposite direction. In a moment she discovered it was held by the snake, and letting go she ran away in terror. The fowl was carried away. On the following night Wm. Laden went into the wood house and saw the snake there. He fired three shots at it from a revolver.

Charles Scudder, of West Fourth street, and Thomas Harland, of 313 Plainfield avenue, also saw it the following day. They all state that it is the largest snake they ever saw, and that it is about eight feet in length. On Monday night it was shot at again, but made its escape under Mrs. Burke's woodhouse.

The sight of the snake and the knowledge of the harm it may do, especially to children, has caused the people in the neighborhood to formulate a systematic plan for its destruction. It has been seen to crawl under the woodshed whenever fired at, and this building is now being torn down by Jenkins and Laden. The men are armed with shot guns, and it is their plan to unearth the serpent and fill its head and body with buckshot.

From the description which the men give it is probably a black snake. The body is bluish-black in color, with a whitish tint underneath, and the eyes are a dull red.

FIVE WOULD BE JUDGE.

No Lack of Aspirants for Elizabeth's Judicial Plum.

There are no less than five aspirants for the Judgeship of the Elizabeth Police Court, made vacant by the death last week of Justice Neill. The candidates are Justices Morris Helfield, Max Rapps, John Collins, Charles Jacobs, and Ira J. Hall.

The latter officiated in the Police Court during Judge Neill's last illness.

Settled the Case.

Winslow Carson, who was arrested several days ago on complaint of F. L. C. Martin, charged with selling a wheel he bought on the installment plan and had not paid for, was released from the Union county jail Tuesday. He came to a satisfactory settlement of his trouble and the complaint was withdrawn before the matter came to trial.

Harvesting Retarded.

The following is John Neagle's crop report this week:

Continued showers have greatly retarded the harvesting of oats; some grain is shock sprouting; considerable damage done by the storm on the 25th, corn down and some broken; rainfall, 2.94 inches; highest temperature, 87 degrees; lowest, 69 degrees.

THE SUN TO BE ECLIPSED.

AN INTERESTING EVENT TO BE WATCHED TOMORROW.

Known as the Annular Eclipse in Which the Moon's Shadow is Not Large Enough to Entirely Cover the Face of the Sun; Not Visible Here.

For the first time since October 20th, 1892, the people will, today, clouds permitting, have an opportunity to view an eclipse of the sun. It is what is known as an annular eclipse, one in which the moon's shadow, at the middle of the eclipse, is not large enough to completely cover the face of the sun, but leaves a ring of light encircling the eclipsed portion. This phenomenon, however, can only be seen in a certain limited belt in New York and throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and the northern part of South America generally, the eclipse is only visible as a partial eclipse. The path of the annulus, as the region in which the eclipse is annular is called, passes from a point in the Pacific Ocean, across Mexico, Cuba, and a few of the Leeward Islands, touching Cape St. Roque, ending in the South Atlantic Ocean.

The eclipse should commence at about 8h. 30m. in New York time. The ending of the eclipse is at 4h. 20m. Greenwich time, or 11h. 20m. Eastern standard time. This is sufficiently accurate for popular purposes. A more careful computation gives these times for New York city: Begins 8.46 a. m.; ends 11.11 a. m.

The eclipse may be watched with a smoked glass, if nothing better is at hand. At the time of greatest obscurity there will be a sensible diminution in the sun's light. If an opera or field glass is protected by smoked or colored glasses, very good views may be obtained. While very interesting from a popular standpoint, the scientific facts to be learned from an annular eclipse are not regarded as very important.

This is the second and last eclipse of the year, the other having been a partial eclipse of the sun on February 14. Two is the lowest number of eclipses which can possibly occur in one year, and when there are only two both are of the sun.

ROAD HOUSE IN FLAMES.

LOCATED ON COUNTY ROAD BETWEEN WESTFIELD AND CRANFORD.

Origin of the Fire is Unknown—Westfield and Fanwood Firemen Responded—A Young Man's Hands Were Badly Burned.

The road house and beer-bottling establishment of Matthew Schwinefurth, on the county road, half-way between Westfield and Cranford, was totally destroyed by fire last Tuesday.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The family were at supper when the smell of smoke was detected and the upper part of the building was found to be in flames.

Alarms were sent to Westfield and Fanwood as soon as possible, and the firemen of both places responded promptly. When they reached the place, however, the flames were beyond control, and all that could be done was to save the large barns on the property.

The fire spread so rapidly that the family lost most of their personal effects. Frank Schwinefurth, a nephew of the proprietor, was badly burned about the hands and face in his attempts to save his watch and chain and money which were up stairs.

It was reported some time ago that Schwinefurth had sold the place to some Newark parties, but they had not taken possession. The loss is estimated at $2,500, which is covered by insurance.

SUIT TO COMPEL A SALE.

Mrs. Rosa Frucht Alleges That Wm. Kelly Will Not Do as He Agreed.

There has been some misunderstanding in the big real estate transaction which was told of in The Press some time ago. The property in question is that on Park avenue, including the stores occupied by Miss A. E. Lincoln, James Dunn and L. A. Hummer. The price was $20,000, of which $10,000 was to be taken in a mortgage, a piece of property on Liberty street was to be given in exchange and the remainder of the debt was to be paid in cash.

Mrs. Rosa Frucht, wife of Siegmund Frucht, was the purchaser from Wm. Kelly. Mrs. Frucht now claims, through her attorneys, Swackhamer & Williams, that Mr. Kelly is trying to back out of the agreement. Papers have been filed in the Court of Chancery for the purpose of compelling Kelly to carry out the contract and convey the property according to the terms of the agreement. Swackhamer & Williams are associated in the case with Assemblyman W. R. Codington.

—The work on J. A. Smith's new barn on Central avenue is now being rapidly pushed toward completion.

ANOTHER DISMAL DAY.

THERE IS NO LET UP IN THE DOWNPOUR OF EXCESSIVE RAIN.

This is the Fourteenth Day of Storm, But the Weather Observers Predict That Fair Conditions Will Prevail Tomorrow.

Another long dreary and dismal day is in progress. The cold east wind still blows and the rain falls with a steadiness that is disheartening indeed to those who are hoping for clear weather. The farmers ring their hands in dispair for they see ruin staring them in the face. Their crops lie decaying in the field, water-soaked, and the rain prevents them from saving what remains. Thousands of dollars worth of damage is being done to the New Jersey farmer by this rain.

Poor St. Swithin! If his ghost does not walk tonight, it will not be the fault of the many Jerseyites who have taken his name in vain during the last twenty-four hours. The fourteenth day of the rain is half gone and it falls as easily and forcibly as at the very beginning. In fact, it seems to have forgotten how to stop.

Yesterday was a most unpleasant day and today promises to be as bad. The rain began to fall Tuesday morning and has kept it up with slight intermissions ever since. Several times the dull leaden sky seemed to break and the clouds looked lighter and there were signs of a break in the storm. It was a false alarm, though.

The streets have been partially flooded for the last twenty-four hours. In the West End, particularly, has the water been in mastery. Many of the streets are not macadamized there and they have become veritable seas of sticky jersey mud, which makes progression for vehicle or pedestrian a difficult fest. As told in yesterday's Press, there has been much damage in that end of the city by washouts of culverts, drains, sewers and the like. This continued rain has added to the damage and the city will find that water has wrought considerable damage there.

In the farming districts the outlook is the same. The farmers have been driven indoors by the torrents from above and there remain, imprisoned by the rain, while their crops lie in the field rotting. The grain that is out is water-soaked and cannot be brought in until dry, and the over-ripe oats cannot be cut on account of the rain. Altogether the farmer is in hard luck at present.

Farmer Dunn, Weather Observer Neagle and the other authorities have some comfort for the afflicted. It's going to clear off some day, they say, and they think that some day will arrive tonight or tomorrow morning. Then it's going to get warm again, not only warm but hot, and everybody is going to swelter in the heat and long for the cool weather that they are now enjoying. Whether the fabled forty days rain is to be a reality or will exist only in the imagination of some water soaked brain, they cannot or will not say.

The water in the New Market pond is so high after this local rain that the low land behind the mill has been flooded.

UMBRELLA AND BICYCLE THIEF

Man With a Nerve Took the Articles From a Front Porch.

A man with an abundant supply of nerve walked up on the piazza of A. M. Wilcox, of 122 West Fifth street, last Tuesday and departed with a bicycle and two umbrellas. It is supposed that the umbrellas were taken to keep the rain off the wheel.

Mr. Wilcox and his family were sitting in the parlor, last evening, while Miss Wilcox's Crescent wheel, '95 model, number 137,569, remained out on the piazza. Two umbrellas had been left on the piazza to dry. The people in the house heard no one but when they went to look up the house and bring the wheel in, the wheel was gone and so were the umbrellas. There was no clue to the thief.

The matter was reported to the police and to the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company, of whom the wheel was purchased. Mr. Wilcox has offered a reward of $5 for the return of the wheel, no questions asked.

S. B. Joseph, Physical Instructor.

Manager Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A. physical department, left Tuesday for a two weeks' vacation. During his absence the physical department, which has been overhauled and is in thorough condition, will be in charge of General Secretary Manning and Mr. Bristol. The work in the gymnasium will be under the supervision of S. B. Joseph, of the physical department committee. The hours for Juniors will be from 4 to 5 o'clock on Tuesdays, and from 10 to 11 o'clock on Saturdays, until the fall work commences about October 1st.

—"Gamey" Nelson is now catching for the Lakewood baseball team.

NEW DEPOT TO BE BUILT.

CENTRAL RAILROAD HAVE PLANS UNDERWAY FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

The Company Has Also Made an Offer For the Rheaume Property, But There is Considerable Difference as to the Price.

After a long silence concerning the new depot to be built opposite the North Avenue station, the people of Plainfield are now given assurance that that the work will be started this summer, and early in the fall it will probably be completed. For some time past there has been a quiet deal in course of progress whereby the railroad company has been trying to purchase the lumber yard held by Rheaume, but for some reason the company has failed to effect a consummation. Mr. Rheaume says that he will sell his property for $37,000, and the company has offered him $35,000. At the proper time when the company get ready to make the intended improvements, it is said that the company will offer Mr. Rheaume the sum of $35,000, and if he still refuses to sell at that figure, another move will be made.

The company thinks that $25,000 is a good figure for the property, but it is said that Mr. Rheaume is determined that it shall not go for that sum.

The stone to be used in constructing the tunnels under the railroads tracks are now on their way to Plainfield, as soon as they arrive the work of construction will be started.

For some time freight cars have been allowed to stand on the tracks opposite the North Avenue station, and almost every day commuters are heard complaining about it. The latter often approach the station from the other side of the city and it makes it exceedingly dangerous for them to take the trains from that side. However, it is authoratively stated that this inconvenience will not last much longer and in its place will be a handsome and commodious new station.

HAVE THE YUKON FEVER.

An Elizabeth Concern Preparing to Send Out a Supply Boat.

The Elizabeth Mining and Supply Company was incorporated yesterday at the County Clerk's office with a capital of $100,000. There was a meeting of the projectors last night at the Clark Hotel, Elizabeth. They propose to have a steamer built at Lewis Nixon's shipyard that can be taken apart, boxed up and shipped to St. Michael's, Alaska, which will be put together ready for a sail up the Yukon to the Klondike gold fields.

John A. Staats, proprietor of the Clark Hotel, may head the undertaking. The company does not intend to go gold digging, but will carry up provisions.

Mr. Staats says he has received more than one hundred letters from those who wish to join the expedition. A woman said she would contribute $50 but could not go to the Klondike.

A Bonbon Party.

In spite of the severe rain-storm Tuesday a large number of young people gathered at the home of the Misses Nellie and Stella Vermeule, of 28 Jackson avenue, to enjoy a bonbon party from 3 until 8 o'clock. The party was held in honor of their cousin, Miss Nellie Ransom, of Bronxville, N. Y. An exceedingly pleasant time was enjoyed by all, the only fault being that the time passed too quickly. Games, music, instrumental and vocal, and the serving of refreshments furnished the amusements.

Found Dead Near the Tracks.

The body of an unknown man was found lying near the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad near Monmouth Junction, Tuesday afternoon. The body was taken to the railroad morgue and word sent to County Physician Long in New Brunswick. The clothing of the dead man was searched, but nothing was found except a pack of cards.

Death of an Aged Woman.

The death of Mrs. Mary L. Johnson, aged 82 years occurred, Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jas. C. Seek, 32 Myrtle avenue, where she had been living for some time past. The funeral will be held this morning at 10 o'clock from the above residence. Interment will be at Warren, R. I.

Bicycle Run Postponed.

The Y. M. C. A. league bicycle run to Morristown which was to take place this evening has been postponed on account of the sudden death of the acting Secretary of the Morristown Y. M. C. A. F. A. Cumming will answer all inquiries concerning the future arrangements for the run.

A Prosperous Institution.

The stability and prosperity of the City National Bank is evidenced in the semi-annual dividend of four per cent. on the capital stock that has been declared.

NEW DEPOT TO BE BUILT.

CENTRAL RAILROAD HAVE PLANS UNDERWAY FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

The Company Has Also Made an Offer For the Rheaume Property, But There is Considerable Difference as to the Price.

After a long silence concerning the new depot to be built opposite the North Avenue station, the people of Plainfield are now given assurance that that the work will be started this summer, and early in the fall it will probably be completed. For some time past there has been a quiet deal in course of progress whereby the railroad company has been trying to purchase the lumber yard held by Rheaume, but for some reason the company has failed to effect a consummation. Mr. Rheaume says that he will sell his property for $37,000, and the company has offered him $35,000. At the proper time when the company get ready to make the intended improvements, it is said that the company will offer Mr. Rheaume the sum of $35,000, and if he still refuses to sell at that figure, another move will be made.

The company thinks that $25,000 is a good figure for the property, but it is said that Mr. Rheaume is determined that it shall not go for that sum.

The stone to be used in constructing the tunnels under the railroads tracks are now on their way to Plainfield, as soon as they arrive the work of construction will be started.

For some time freight cars have been allowed to stand on the tracks opposite the North Avenue station, and almost every day commuters are heard complaining about it. The latter often approach the station from the other side of the city and it makes it exceedingly dangerous for them to take the trains from that side. However, it is authoratively stated that this inconvenience will not last much longer and in its place will be a handsome and commodious new station.

HAVE THE YUKON FEVER.

An Elizabeth Concern Preparing to Send Out a Supply Boat.

The Elizabeth Mining and Supply Company was incorporated yesterday at the County Clerk's office with a capital of $100,000. There was a meeting of the projectors last night at the Clark Hotel, Elizabeth. They propose to have a steamer built at Lewis Nixon's shipyard that can be taken apart, boxed up and shipped to St. Michael's, Alaska, which will be put together ready for a sail up the Yukon to the Klondike gold fields.

John A. Staats, proprietor of the Clark Hotel, may head the undertaking. The company does not intend to go gold digging, but will carry up provisions.

Mr. Staats says he has received more than one hundred letters from those who wish to join the expedition. A woman said she would contribute $50 but could not go to the Klondike.

A Bonbon Party.

In spite of the severe rain-storm Tuesday a large number of young people gathered at the home of the Misses Nellie and Stella Vermeule, of 28 Jackson avenue, to enjoy a bonbon party from 3 until 8 o'clock. The party was held in honor of their cousin, Miss Nellie Ransom, of Bronxville, N. Y. An exceedingly pleasant time was enjoyed by all, the only fault being that the time passed too quickly. Games, music, instrumental and vocal, and the serving of refreshments furnished the amusements.

Found Dead Near the Tracks.

The body of an unknown man was found lying near the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad near Monmouth Junction, Tuesday afternoon. The body was taken to the railroad morgue and word sent to County Physician Long in New Brunswick. The clothing of the dead man was searched, but nothing was found except a pack of cards.

Death of an Aged Woman.

The death of Mrs. Mary L. Johnson, aged 82 years occurred, Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jas. C. Seek, 32 Myrtle avenue, where she had been living for some time past. The funeral will be held this morning at 10 o'clock from the above residence. Interment will be at Warren, R. I.

Bicycle Run Postponed.

The Y. M. C. A. league bicycle run to Morristown which was to take place this evening has been postponed on account of the sudden death of the acting Secretary of the Morristown Y. M. C. A. F. A. Cumming will answer all inquiries concerning the future arrangements for the run.

A Prosperous Institution.

The stability and prosperity of the City National Bank is evidenced in the semi-annual dividend of four per cent. on the capital stock that has been declared.

HEALTH OF THE CITY.

MONTHLY REPORT MADE BY INSPECTOR ADDIS.

Forty-seven Houses With Fifty-nine Occupants Were Under Quarantine in the Past Few Weeks—Several Other Details.

It has been many years since the Plainfield Board of Health attained such prominence as it has during the last two months. Fortunately, the Board was in such an efficient condition and was doing such excellent work that the public attention it received impressed all favorably. The scarlet fever scare was handled carefully and successfully, and the trouble with one of the local milkmen ended satisfactorily.

The last month has not been as very active for the Board compared with that of June, for while many of the cases were still quarantined there have been very few new ones, as the report of the sanitary inspector will show.

The monthly meeting of the Plainfield Board of Health was held last Tuesday. There was little of importance to come before the Board beside the routine business and the paying of bills. The members discussed several subjects informally but took no action on any of them. The question of licensing the milk dealers received some attention as did the recent condition of the local milkraces.

The report of Sanitary Inspector William Addis was received and the interesting facts disclosed were discussed. The report was as follows:

To the Honorable, Board of Health, City of Plainfield:

I herewith submit my report for month ending July 27th, 1897:

Number of houses under quarantine under last report	47
Number of persons in above houses with contagious disease	59
Number of houses quarantined during the month	2
Number of houses fumigated and released from quarantine during the month	2
Number of persons now with contagious disease in above houses	59
Number of visits to houses with contagious disease	200
Number of visits to sewer farm	8
Number of inspections of cesspools	2
Number of inspections of water tests of soil pipe	10
Number of applications of peppermint tests of soil pipe	2
Number of inspections of sewer connections	10
Number of inspections of plumbing connections	4
Number of inspections of outside water closets	2
Number of house inspections	8
Number of visits to persons with contagious disease, not, as per daily memorandum	200

Respectfully,
William Addis,
Sanitary Inspector.

JERSEY'S SPECIAL ELECTION.

A Mistake in Appointing the Date, and Complications Feared.

Another complication has been discovered in the law passed by the State Legislature at the recent special session providing for the submission to popular vote of the three amendments to the Constitution, prohibiting the legalizing of race-track gambling, forbidding the Governor to appoint to office persons whose nominations have been rejected by the Senate, and giving to women the right to vote at school elections outside of cities having appointive Boards of Education. The law fixes Sept. 28 as the date for the election. This is one of the dates upon which the Board of Registry meets in every city having a population of over 40,000. The election laws require personal registration every fall. The cities affected are Jersey City, Newark, Paterson, Trenton, Camden and Hoboken.

For voting on the amendments the polls are open from 8 in the morning till 7 o'clock in the evening, and for registration purposes the boards sit from 1 till 9 o'clock. The Election Boards will be obliged to do double work and for one day's pay. In some of the cities the vote will be large, and while there are two other days for registration, some of the leaders fear there will be a serious conflict and that the boards will not be able to do the work. There is some talk of having another extra session of the Legislature called to cure the defect in the law, but it is not believed Gov. Griggs will consent, as he was loath to call the extra session to rectify the mistake made by the typewriter in the original law providing for the special election.

A Busy Man.

Mayor George Clinton Miller, of Fanwood, and family are summering at Nathaway Inn, Deal Beach. The extensive business interests of the Mayor in New York and Bridgeport, Conn., owing to the absence of a partner in Europe, require his daily attendance in the city, returning to the Beach every evening. A European trip in the fall is in contemplation. The service of the Mayor in the Seventy first Regiment and official service in the Twenty-second Regiment of New York and the Twenty-third Regiment of Brooklyn have gained for him a legion of friends in the military walks of life.

BLIND TOM'S OLD AGE.

HIS CHARACTERISTIC DIVERSION AT HIS HOME IN JERSEY.

Like a Child in Many Ways—Selfish in Some Respects and Deeply Religious in Others. Has no Desire for the Companionship of his Relation.

"What has become of Blind Tom?"

This question is often asked by old theatre-goers, who remember the days before the war, when the gifted musical idiot was the star attraction in big opera houses and concert rooms, with which the simpler tastes of most amusement seekers of those times were satisfied.

Tom was only a lad then, the slave of a Georgia planter, and his mental weakness, together with his blindness, served to increase the interest of those who saw and heard this ignorant little fellow, with unerring touch, draw from the piano-forte its sweetest and most melodious strains as well as its grandest and most solemn harmonies.

The question as to Blind Tom's whereabouts can be answered best by a tall, broad-shouldered, neatly dressed colored man, whose gray hair and sightless eyes increase the impressiveness of his features. In a comfortable cottage at the Highlands of Navesink, on the New Jersey side of the lower New York bay. This elderly colored man is the Blind Tom of today, and for several years he has lived under the close and constant with his guardian, Mrs. Eliza Lerche, who was appointed ten years ago by Justice Andrews of the Supreme Court as committee of the person and property of the musician. She was then the widow of Bethune, to whom she had charge of Blind Tom for many years, and the old man was given into her care only after a long legal struggle with her father-in-law, James N. Bethune.

When Mrs. Bethune took charge of Tom she found that his popularity as a public attraction had greatly waned, owing to the fact that he had been before the public many years, and that his former managers had made all the money they could out of the peculiar musical talent of the simple-minded colored man without preserving his value as an attraction by replacing his worn-out repertoire with more modern musical pieces. Tom was also getting old, and was physically worn out by the night and day travel consequent on one-night-stand performances. He had been handed over to Mrs. Bethune with no money and no property, personal or otherwise, out of the hundreds of dollars which he had earned during the previous quarter of a century. So it was necessary to keep him at work a while longer to provide for his future maintenance in case he became disabled by age or infirmities, and also to enable him to take care of his old brother, who was living in a cabin in the Southern States, and looked to Tom for support.

More than three years ago Mrs. Bethune, who was then Mrs. Lerche, having married Albrecht J. Lerche, the lawyer, who had fought her legal battles in the courts, had saved enough money to warrant the temporary withdrawal of Blind Tom from the amusement world, so that he might recover his health, and, at the same time, familiarize himself with modern musical compositions.

Tom enjoys his long rest, after so many years of incessant travel and work. He does very little visiting among his neighbors and receives few callers at his cottage. He finds sufficient companionship in his piano. He passes hours at a time at the piano, playing his old pieces and practising new ones.

In spite of his advanced years and his reserved, formal demeanor in company, Tom is merely an overgrown child, and he must be closely watched by a male nurse, specially hired for that purpose. He has all the selfishness of a spoiled child, and is jealous of any attention paid to any one else in his presence. He has little natural affection, and cares for no one but Tom, who minister directly to his wants. He is willing that his mother should be taken care of out of the money he has earned, but he does not wish to have her or his brother and sisters near him, for fear that they may annoy him or prevent his being the sole object of the attentions of those around him. With the exception of this child-like selfishness Blind Tom is extremely moral and religious in his habits and disposition. He never eats without first offering a prayer, and on Sundays will only play church music on his piano. He will have nothing to do with any one who drinks liquor, and will quickly order from the room any person who uses profane or improper language in his presence.—New York Sun.

For the Reputation of the Sex.

A stylishly attired young woman boarded a market street car and stared haughtily over the occupants. A young man arose and offered his seat. She sank into it without even a glance or nod in acknowledgment.

A white-haired, kindly-faced old lady who sat opposite looked surprised, then pained, then rose, and with a bow and a smile, said to the young man:

"For the reputation of our sex I must thank you for your politeness."

The young lady flushed, and fixed her gaze on the opposite sidewalk.—San Francisco Post.

The bald-headed man stroked his pate. "I was a football player once," said he. "I raised a lovely shock of hair—just for novelty's sake, you know. Now"—the bald-headed man stroked his pate again—"the novelty seems to have worn off." Spare Moments.

CRANKS' COLUMN.

Suggestions that Emanate from Pens of Bicycle Riders.

From all present indications this season will produce better racing on the bicycle path than any previous season in the history of the sport in this country. There are more men in training than ever before and, altogether, they are faster than those of any former year. From all the training camps of the south come tales of good performances, and the merchants who will follow the circuit and the report that nearly every man of them is in better condition for fast work than usual at this early period.

The great number of men of prominence in the racing game this year gives the principal promise of success for the season. In many former years nearly all the prominence of the bicycle track was monopolized by one or two men like Zimmerman, Sanger, Johnson and Bald. This season that is not the case. Bald and Cooper are without doubt the most prominent of all the racing men on the track at present, not more by virtue of their racing ability than because of judicious advertising, but they have no monopoly on the cycle fame and it is by no means sure that the present season will not see them pushed back to obscure positions by some of the rising and promising riders, who will do it in some not far distant year if not in this.

From all parts of the country of late have come protests against bicycle road racing—protests uttered with such vigor and from such sources as to threaten the continued existence of this branch of bicycle sport. Nobody except the ambitious youngsters who engage in road races seems to have much use for them now, and any action that tends to stop them is greeted with general applause.

Here in Chicago, where the streets used to be given up almost entirely to half-dressed young scorchers every Saturday afternoon, road racing has been limited to one day in the year in the parks on two sides of the city. The action of the park commissioners placing this limit was enthusiastically welcomed by a long-suffering public.

Hunting on bicycles seems to be a popular pastime in the south of England. According to the latest departure, the "hare" is a rustic cyclist mounted on an ancient bicycle. He has a quarter of an hour's start of the hounds, and trails behind him a rabbit's skin soaked in oil of aniseed. A pair of beagles are then laid on the "scent," and with half a dozen terriers and the cycling huntsmen start off in hot chase. The "hare" checks the course at intervals with paper, and if he be at all cunning, can cut out a very exciting "scent" by going through a wood, crossing a hedge, or wading a stream, thus at the same time giving the dogs a "check."

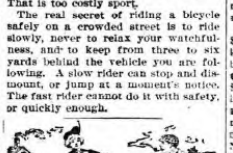
When the bicycle first appeared in India, it was not at all an uncommon thing for natives to fall down and worship it. Calcutta can probably claim more women cyclists than any other city in England, and more very small too. Bicycles have a rough time in India, chiefly owing to the ignorance of the native servants who clean them. They have never improved a bicycle yet, and the state of rust the bearings get in, and the way the tires and rims and frames, is heart-rending to those who can appreciate a good bicycle. There are laws in India compelling cyclists to carry lights, but most of the constables being natives, and the cyclists white, arrests are rare.

Physicians have issued a warning to parents who allow their children to ride upon bicycles that are not fitted to them. Every small boy wants to ride a wheel. It is easy for him to learn, and he likes to be able to show his father a few tricks that the head of the family doesn't care to attempt. Nevertheless, when he is permitted to take his father's bicycle, or that of an older brother, and start for a long ride, he is granted permission to do something that may result in permanent and serious injury.

A jumping bicycle is said to have been invented by a resident of Buenos Ayres. The jumping action is obtain'd by means of a powerful coil spring so arranged that it may be wound up by the pedalling action of the rider. At the moment the leap is to be taken a knob is touched and two strong light steel rods are released, on either side of the front wheel, which, striking the ground just below the pedals, causes the machine to rise in the air and clear the fence or other obstruction. The arrangement is not, however, thought to be of much practical use.

There are indications that the festive scorcher will tire of his fun before long. The police are arresting these fast youth in all directions, and it costs every one of them from five to ten dollars to attain his freedom. That is too costly sport.

The real secret of riding a bicycle safely on a crowded street is to ride slowly, never to relax your watchfulness, and to keep from three to six yards behind the vehicle you are following. A slow rider can stop and dismount, or jump at a moment's notice. The fast rider cannot do it with safety, or quickly enough.



She—When we were married you said our life would be one long tandem ride.

He—And so it is. I take the back seat, do all the work, and you insist on steering.—New York Journal.

DEPEW ON WEALTH.

DISTINGUISHED OPTIMIST DOES NOT REGARD TIMES OUT OF JOINT.

The Good Old Days Afforded More Opportunity for Getting Rich, Perhaps, but There are Chances Left to Those Who are Smart Enough to Take Advantage.

Dr. Chauncey M. Depew recently talked to a reporter on wealth.

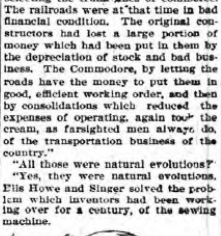
He was asked if it were not true that opportunities for acquiring wealth had decreased.

"Well, that is true," said Mr. Depew. "The opportunities to make wealth in a new country are always greater than in an old one. For the last fifty years America has been especially favored as a field for men of enterprise, far-sightedness and courage to accumulate large fortunes. One was the development aided by an immense immigration, and the other the inventions by which steam and electricity had their productive power so enormously increased and the cost so largely reduced.

"Commodore Vanderbilt, for instance, made a fortune in steamboats which was quite large for that period. He saw the opportunities in steamships, and largely increased his wealth. Then he saw, before any one else did, that the railroad was to supplant transportation upon water, and, selling his steamboats and his steamships, he put his fortune into railways, selecting the trunk lines of commerce. The railroads were at that time in bad financial condition. The original constructors had lost a large portion of money which had been put in them by the depreciation of stock and bad business. The Commodore, by letting the roads have the money to put them in good, efficient working order, and then by consolidations which reduced the expenses of operating, again took the roads, as farsighted men always do, of the transportation business of the country."

"All those were natural evolutions?"

"Yes, they were natural evolutions. Elis Howe and Singer solved the problem which invention had been working over for a century, of the sewing machine.



CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW.

"Before the expiration of the patent they had divided $50,000,000 between themselves, and the needle had been brought into universal use, where thousands more were employed and the cost of all articles enormously reduced. That is a natural evolution by which the inventor got a very large reward for his invention, and the public got a tremendous benefit from it also.

"The same is true of the telephone and of the associates of Morse with his invention of the telegraph. The same is true in the development of electricity as applied to the electric light, and it will be still further extended wherever is the successful inventor of the electric motor."

"Now, that is all natural. The next point is, is it true now that rich men endeavor to buy opportunities to make wealth in legislation and so on, as compared with the past?" I asked.

"Legislators," Mr. Depew replied, "grow all the while. When bank charters were first granted in our State, seventy years ago, a portion of the stock was granted by succession among the members of the Legislature for their votes. No company could now distribute stock among members of the Legislature without the members going into State Prison, and the promoters also. That shows the distinct advance in seventy years. But seventy years ago that sort of thing was regarded as perfectly proper and was thoroughly well known and understood."

"Most men who make money, when they have a million, risk a million to make five, they risk the five on small margins to make ten; if they make ten, they risk the ten on equally small margins to make twenty, and, like the gambler at Monte Carlo, they ultimately reach the point where the card turns and it is all gone."

"I knew Daniel Drew when he had $19,000,000, and he died in debt. I knew a gentleman who at one time had $3,000,000 in the bank, who is now earning about $1,200 a year. The $3,000,000 was cash, in addition to his investments of various kinds. There are a dozen men in this town who ask me for occasional loans from fifty cents to $5 who, when I first came to New York, were among the rich men of the town. What I mean by this is that they were worth over $1,000,000 each, and thirty years ago a man worth over $1,000,000 was of more account in New York than a man worth over $5,000,000 now."

"The man who will make money is the one who perfects an electric motor which will enable the railway companies to move passenger and freight trains at less cost than now by the steam locomotive; which will solve the problem of street transportation, so as to supersede the overhead trolley, at less cost."

AN ENOCH ARDEN'S DIVORCE SUIT.

Clark, After Fourteen Years' Absence, Found His Wife Married to His Chum.

In the case of Alpheus E. Clark for an absolute divorce from his wife, Mary A., whom he found on his return to Fort Hamilton on Long Island, after an absence of fourteen years, married to Sylvester Folsom, the evidence produces some peculiar situations.

The Clarks were married in 1873, while he was a lieutenant stationed at Fort Hamilton. In the same company of the United States Army was Folsom. Clark disappeared in 1876, and his wife, believing that he was dead, married Folsom in 1882. She was living at Fort Hamilton with Folsom when Clark reappeared in 1890. Unlike Enoch Arden, Clark made his presence known, and the defendant and Folsom separated. Clark taking the defendant to live with him. Clark disappeared again, but came back in 1896 and brought the action for divorce.

Mrs. Clark relied for defence on the fact that Clark by living with her in 1890 had condoned her fault.

Thomas Keegan, who had a hotel at Fort Hamilton in 1890, when Clark returned, testified that he did not recognize Clark until the latter told him how his wife Mary was getting along. By chance she passed the hotel while Clark was there, and Clark went out and spoke to her. The marriage to Folsom and her living with Folsom until 1890 having been known, the defence called witnesses to show that Clark and the defendant had lived together at the Coleman House in this city in 1890. The case was then closed.

Later Folsom told what he knew about the case. "Clark and I were soldiers together," he said, "After he got in some trouble and left her in 1876, I continued my acquaintance with her. She did not hear from him as years went by, and I wrote to Washington, but could get no positive information about Clark. I believed he was dead when I married. Why, he ought to be made to give Mrs. Clark $100 a day for coming back at all. A man has no right to hunt a woman up after so many years. My wife, or ex-wife, as you call her, was arrested for non-support, and with her husband living, beat me at that. She's been in court nearly twenty-five times to my knowledge, and won about every time."—New York Sun.

WASHINGTON ON PEACE AND WAR.

His Words were Prophetic and To-Day Inspire Patriotism.

In his speech to both houses of Congress on January 8, 1790, George Washington gave advice which seems peculiarly timely now: "To be prepared for war," said Washington, "is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace."

In his immortal Farewell Address, of September, 1796, he gave other counsel on international relations and on peace and war:

"The great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations, is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible. So far as we have already formed engagements, let them be fulfilled with perfect good faith. Here, let us stop. Europe has a set of primary interests, which to us have none, or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the cause of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves, by artificial ties, in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities.

"Our detached and distant situation invites and enables us to pursue a different course. If we remain one people, under an efficient Government, the period is not far off when we may defy material injury from external annoyance; when we may take such an attitude as will cause the neutrality we may at any time resolve upon to be scrupulously respected; when belligerent nations under the impossibility of making acquisitions upon us, will not lightly hazard the giving us provocation; when we may choose peace or war, as our interest, guided by justice, shall counsel."

These wise words of George Washington are always in season, and are especially worthy to be pondered now.

TOO MUCH FOR A HARLEM FLAT.

Jerkules, the strong man, who lives on the top floor, is expanding his chest.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Next year four new steamships will be ready for service between Great Britain and Canada, the former allowing them an annual subsidy of $250,000 and the latter $500,000.

The enlarged city of New York will contain one farm of 280 acres in a high state of cultivation. This is one of the ideal kinds of rural life that agricultural writers do not mention.

The popularity of the American bicycle abroad may be inferred from the fact that the United Kingdom bought $613,292 worth last year, and Canada's investment was $492,085.

A Hartford paper says that woman suffrage fails in Connecticut pass one house, out of courtesy, and are killed in the other, out of regard for the women themselves. The agitators insist that they want something more than a combination of courtesy and chivalry.

Gen. Lew Wallace in discussing the neglected opportunities of the Greek navy in the present war, declares that a Farragut could take a fleet right up to Constantinople without losing a ship. It appears to be a fact that Greece has built an excellent navy without producing the men to make it useful. As to Farraguts—they are not grown outside of America.

A large majority of those who ride bicycles conscientiously respect the rules of the road and obey the ordinances of councils, but there is a minority who risk their own lives and limbs and the lives and limbs of others by tearing at breakneck speed along the crowded thoroughfares in open defiance of the rights of others. The reckless acts of the minority tend to bring the whole army of wheelmen into disrepute.

In the course of a long and—it is pleasant to make the admission—convincing demonstration of Philadelphia's claims to respectful treatment from the newspapers of other cities, the Inquirer lists among the attractions of the place the fact that there visiting strangers "can go to sleep when they wish and get some sort of rest." This is a statement upon which the humorists about whose jeers The Inquirer complains are sure to base a long series of new references to the quietude of Philadelphia.

Governor Bushnell's proposition of a pension for every Union veteran, whether disabled or not, may be all right, but it is difficult to see where his special plea for it, on the ground that it would dispense with the service of any army of examiners and clerks, comes in. It would require more rather than less of this kind of service, since the clerical work would be increased and a much larger force of examiners would be required to prevent fraud and preserve the proper ratio in pensions among the disabled veterans. There may be patriotism in the Bushnell scheme, but there is no economy.

A New York insurance company, which added burglar insurance to other lines some time ago, has dropped it again, for reasons of its own, and has published some interesting facts derived from its experience with the business. One of these is that the losses by burglary are usually small, the largest loss reported being $2,000. From this figure the claims run all the way down to $5. To people accustomed to reading of great burglaries this may be a surprise; but it is, perhaps, to be accounted for, on the hypothesis that only bulky goods, of which it would be impossible to carry off a very great value, are insured. Banks and jewelers have their easily portable valuables so well protected by watchmen and burglar alarms that they probably do not feel the need of insurance against burglary. It is also intimated that the profit in this branch of insurance is greatly diminished by what is delicately called "the moral risk," or, in plain language, the tendency of the intruder to "burglarize" themselves. Altogether, it would appear from the company's report that burglar insurance is more calculated to give the insurer a knowledge of human nature than to increase his store of wealth by the profits accruing from it.

A PERIS SUGGESTION.

HIGH PRICED DOGS

MORE VALUABLE THAN HORSES NOW IN THE NORTHWEST.

A Great Demand for Them to Haul Supplies to the Gold Miners in the Yukon Country in Alaska. Boarding Houses Kept for their Special Purpose.

Word comes from Tacoma, Wash., that dogs have suddenly become more valuable than horses in that section of the Northwest. This state of affairs results from the great and growing demand for dogs to be used in hauling sledges in the Yukon country, Alaska. While thousands of horses which their owners cannot get in a head are roaming over the plains of Eastern Washington and Oregon, good-sized dogs are bringing from $15 to $30 each in the local market. At Juneau their value is double what it is here, and on the Yukon River a good dog brings from $100 to $150. To the Yukon miner the dog has become what the reindeer is to the Lapland nomad, the pony to the cowboys of Texas and Mexico—a beast of service and a most valuable one.

The sledge dogs are too valuable not to be taken well care of when that is possible. Their owners first thought of this, and there is always plenty of food for them. Their food consists principally of fish, usually salmon, caught in the Yukon River by the natives. An ordinary dog will eat during the five months of dried salmon, which equals seven pounds of fresh fish. At Forty Mile last winter dried salmon sold at from 20 to 50 cents a pound, and bacon that was fit only for dogs to eat sold for 37½ cents a pound. In some of the larger camps on the Yukon dog boarding houses have been established, where the animals are properly cared for at from $6 to $15 a month, according to the season and the price of dog food.

The native Yukon dog is much more valuable than the importations from Puget Sound. The dogs must be acclimated in order to stand the severities of winter. It is found that dogs taken from Montana and Dakota endure the Yukon winters with less suffering than those bred in the milder climate of Puget Sound. Two splendid specimens of native Alaska dogs were brought here a few days ago, their owner finding it cheaper to pay their passage on the steamer than to leave them behind at Dyea during his trip here for supplies. The animals weigh, one 82 and the other 88 pounds. The large one cost its owner $117 at Circle City. Both animals are stout, well proportioned and muscled, and have splendid heads and bushy tails. Their ears are short and lifted like those of the Eskimo dog. Their coats are dark, and the hair, while not close, is smooth and heavy enough to form a comfortable protection against the severities of the Yukon mosquitoes, by the side of which the ferocity of the New Jersey variety pales into insignificance. A specially prepared dog food made out of meat and coarse meal from the packing houses of Chicago is manufactured in the form of a cracker and seems likely to come into general use.

Buskskin moccasins are provided by many owners to keep the feet of the animals from being torn raw by the ice and snow. They are about nine inches long and made much after the pattern of a child's stocking. Pack saddles are also coming into use this spring. These are so arranged that the dog can carry a weight of from 10 to 20 pounds besides drawing a sled. The saddlebags fall on either side, and straps are arranged to prevent the pack from sliding forward or backward.—New York Sun.

Persons of Note.

Jenny Lind's daughter, Mrs. Raymond Maude, of London, has much of her mother's brilliancy of voice, but has always preferred cultivate it for the stage. "I suppose there was too much music in me," she explained to a friend. Mrs. Maude has three children, none of whom is musical.

Carmen Sylva has received the decoration for Arts and Sciences from the Emperor of Austria. She is the first woman to win this title.

The anniversaries of victories won in the Crimean War are never forgotten by Florence Nightingale, in spite of her 76 years and her broken health. She always remembers to send a message to the veterans of the Crimea, and at Christmas time she never fails to send some token of remembrance to the London institution for trained nurses which she founded at St. Thomas' Hospital not long after the close of the war.

According to the London Court Journal, Li Hung Chang has a most arduous task before him. The story is that the Chinese Emperor, being anxious to learn French, appointed the erstwhile possessor of the yellow jacket as his tutor. But when he discovered that his teacher had but a smattering of the tongue, he ordained that Li be incarcerated until he learns it.

Mrs. Nansen, Sr., mother of the well-known explorer, Dr. Nansen, is accredited with having inaugurated the healthful pastime for women of tobogganing and sliding on snowshoes. She was the first woman of Norway to become an enthusiast along this line which has since become so popular in that country.

Count Tolstoi's enthusiasm for chess is unbounded, and it is said that the tables in his house are nearly all marked out as chess-boards, and even the dogs and other family pets have received the names of chess pieces, Rook, Knight, Pawn, and so forth.

AMERICAN CAMELS.

THE "SHIP OF THE DESERT" IMPORTED FROM ARABIA AND EGYPT.

An Experiment Which Proved of No Value to the Government. The Animals at Last Allowed to Wander Over the Prairies at Their Own Sweet Will.

In 1852, when millions of gold were being mined in California, while thousands of people were crossing the plains to the new Dorado, and when a transcontinental railroad was only a vague dream of a few enthusiasts, Lieutenant Edward B. Beale (afterward General Beale) was stationed at Fort Yuma, between California and Arizona on the Colorado Desert. A stream of immigration and freight passed that way every week. The disease, suffering and frequent death among the horses and mules in that dry, solar heat convinced Lieutenant Beale that camels, in places, was where the camels of Sahara and Arabia could be used to advantage. In connection with Captain Adams, of the garrison, he wrote at length upon the subject to Jefferson Davis, Secretary of War.

The ideas of the young military men in the West had immediate and enthusiastic reception by the Secretary. A Commission was soon sent out from San Antonio, Tex., to Arizona, to ascertain the uses that camels could be put to in military transportation. The Commission made its favorable report, and with Secretary Davis's annual report to Congress in 1852 there was a request for an appropriation for the purchase of camels for the War Department.

On March 3, 1853, a bill appropriating $30,000 for the purpose became a law by the President's signature, and Secretary Davis appointed Major C. Wayne in December, 1854, to go to Egypt and Arabia to buy seventy-five camels.

Lieutenant Porter and Major Wayne bought their first camels in Tunis. From Egypt Major Wayne and Lieutenant Porter went leisurely over to Arabia. There they bought more camels of another breed. The expedition received at Smyrna thirty-three camels from the interior.

In the Government book Secretary Davis tells in detail how he instructed Major Wayne to proceed from Paris to Cairo, and when he had bought his camels to bring them to New York on the Naval Storeship Supply, then under command of Lieutenant D. D. Porter.

Lieutenant Porter's instructions were to await Major Wayne at some convenient point in the Mediterranean, to disembark a land force at Beirout, and to see that the expedition was properly protected against attacks from the warlike tribes of the interior. On returning, the lieutenant was to land his cargo at some point on the coast of Texas.

The storeship Supply reached Indianola, Tex., on February 10, having lost three camels on the voyage. Those that survived were well, and the whole drove was taken under the care of Captain J. N. Palmer, U. S. A., to Camp Verde, Texas, there to be kept several years. The Suwanee brought in a herd of forty-one camels on February 10, 1857, and these, too, were sent to the interior.

Almost from the first there was difficulty in grooming and feeding the animals. In a few weeks several died of unknown diseases, and others languished and became unfit for work. The military officers found it hard to get any hostler to attend to the camels, towards which all the cavalrymen and troopers took a violent dislike. The horses became restive and ugly when stabled or corralled with the strange beasts. There were frequent reports that a camel or two had broken away during the night and wandered away; and it has been suspected that extraordinary thirst was not always put forth to find the animals and bring them back.

From May 5, 1861, some thirty of the camels that had become partly domesticated to American ways and adapted to the climate of the Southwest, were sold by the United States forts at El Paso and Bowie, Ariz. They were fed and cared for at the expense of the War Department, but because the troopers and teamsters could not be got use them in place of horses or mules, and especially because of the clumsiness of the harness and the unusual labor in packing, animals were seldom used. In the last year or two of their stay at the garrison they were merely pensioners upon Uncle Sam's bounty, and were never brought into service. In 1861 the herd had increased to forty-four head. Then the Civil War came on, and in the stir of those days in every fort in the South all attention was turned to the great crisis. The forts fell into disuse, and the beasts were allowed to wander away at will. They travelled in pairs, and sometimes in bodies of four and six, across the deserts and into the mountains. Some lived for years in the Panamanite of Texas, and in the Colorado River. In some instances the camels multiplied, but in twenty years most of them died among the mountains or were killed by the Indians.

At intervals in the last decade cowboys and cow-boys in New Mexico and Arizona have seen the strays. Reports are that the animals have grown white with age, are as wild as any mustang, and have hard, bony hoofs, unlike the delicate cushions of the well-kept camel, and that their hide has assumed a hard, leathery appearance. It is likely there are few left in America. They have not been seen in the central part of either New-Mexico or Arizona in several years.—From the Land of Sunshine.

HE HAILED PRINCE GEORGE.

An American in a Predicament in Greek Waters Got Royal Help.

When Prince George of Greece was in the United States to attend the World's Fair his presence was hardly noticed, and he was not compelled to run the gauntlet of Chicago interviewers. So it came that perhaps the Prince's first experience with the American method of acquiring knowledge at first hand was afforded by an American artist who attended the Olympic games to illustrate an article for a New York magazine.

On the day of the swimming contests the artist was unable to find the boat which he, together with a party of friends, had chartered for the occasion. The races took place on the harbor, about three miles from the city, and the artist, armed with camera and sketching tools, wandered about on the crowded shores until he bargained shrewdly with two small men for a boat. After paddling about for a time without seeing much chance of viewing the races, he made up his mind to board one of the larger vessels with which the water was crowded. As he neared the more he commanded the more emphatic became their expostulations. He finally overruled their objections and induced them to row within calling distance of the big vessel. The artist hailed a man on deck in French, calling him who he was and what he wanted. The stranger answered in very good English, and after inviting the artist aboard, he brought a chair and arranged a place from which a good view of the start and finish could be had. Then he excused himself.

The American was very busy for a while, but it gradually occurred to him that the boat he was on was receiving a great deal of attention. After it began to move every other vessel saluted. When the races were finished and his boat returned to the dock the artist learned that he had been received by Prince George of Greece. He suffered a little consternation at the beginning, but the Prince did not appear to notice it and chatted pleasantly with his guests as he stood about the vessel, finally posing before the camera. The artist was set ashore at his own request after a little trip about the bay, in the course of which the missing boat was encountered, and the two vessels made obeisance to the friends from the deck of the royal yacht.

At one of the fetes following the games, at which there were many Americans present, one of the young Americans regarded the Prince with boyish awe, and gravely saluted as he saw the Greeks salute. The Prince told him, tactfully, that he need not salute thus, "because you are an American."New York Sun.

THE FLOOR OF A CHURCH.

The Source from Which the Design of the Stars and Stripes Came.

The origin of national flags would be a deep, unfathomably deep subject in most cases, but our flag, the stars and stripes, is so young in this old world that it is possible to find out a good deal about its origin; still, even as to ours, we can only guess how in its first form it came to be just as it was, but the guess is so well founded that it ought to satisfy Yankee seeking the source of the Yankee flag. The first flag of the United States of America was raised by Washington at Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 2, 1776. It consisted of thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, with a blue field emblazoned with the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew. The next year Congress substituted thirteen white stars for the crosses. Now in Northamptonshire, in England, in a village called Brington, is an old church containing the tomb of one of George Washington's ancestors. It is inscribed to the memory of Lawrence Washington, who died in 1616, leaving behind him (this is on the tomb, mind you) eight sons and five daughters. Two of these sons emigrated to America, and from one of them descended our great man. Several of the Washington family of the same generation are buried here, and the Washington coat of arms is engraved on one, bearing an inscription to "Elis. Washington," who died in 1622. Now, on this coat of arms appear three stars, with the stripes or bars beneath them. No one could see it without being reminded of the "star spangled banner." Undoubtedly when Washington was arranging to raise that flag at Cambridge, and arranging the flag, too, he took the idea of the stripes from his own old coat of arms. To wanting to make the new banner too personal, so to speak, he kept in the blue field and the crosses, used in the British flag, but Congress, when it took up the subject, was pleased to follow the old coat of arms that belonged to the great general, who was fighting for them, and substituted the beautiful stars for the crosses that the redcoats carried. Charles Sumner took a deep interest in all these traces of the Washington family in England, and he once said, "The source of the design of the American flag lies on the old floor of Brington Church." He had a copy of the coat of arms, made by a local mason, in native stone.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A Tight Hold.

Miss Kittish—What do you mean by saying that Miss Fosdick holds her age well?

Miss Fosdick—She never gives it away.—New York Journal.

TRUST IN THEIR CHILDREN.

An Unusual Financial Arrangement Made for Two Young Persons.

There is a very charming family in New York where the subject of an income for the son and daughter is arranged most satisfactorily for all concerned.

The two are now abroad together completing their education and cultivating their respective talents. As far as finances are concerned, they are absolutely independent, and this is how it is managed. At the beginning of their financial year the father in New York gives to his banker and deposits to the credit of his son and daughter each a certain amount of money, which is to last them the entire year. It is a comfortable sum, but not extravagant, when it is considered that they must pay their tuition, board, and for their clothes from it during that time. It is possible that they might be called upon to economise with it. At all events, whichever way it may be, it is all the money they will have for the entire twelve months.

"Do you not fear that this money is to be subject to the order of your son and daughter?" asked the astonished cashier at the bank when the first deposit was made. "Why, I know young people who would have a grand time and spend all that money in three days."

"Well," returned pater familias complacently, "if my children do that, they know what they will have to expect; they will support themselves the remainder of the year."

But notwithstanding his apparent complaisance, if the money should be used unwisely, the hearts of these exceptionable parents would be sadly wrung. An incident emphasizing this fact occurred during the college days of the young people, when a similar arrangement was made. The money for the son was placed in a bank, in a town to which the college was adjacent, subject to his order. In the bank was a relative of the family, who for some reason, perhaps certain suggestions of the green-eyed monster, was not amiably inclined to the young man.

At any rate, the mother at home was filled with horror and dismay one day at receiving a note from the relative which read curtly: "Black has overdrawn his account. I have made it good this time, but do not let it occur again."

In great haste she telegraphed money on to the bank, and then waited in agony to hear from her son. What could he done? What was the cause of it? He was only human, like other boys, and there were so many temptations that might beset him; but her boy! It seemed ages before a letter came, and then it was explanation.

It was not a temptation which had led him astray; it was bad arithmetic. He had miscalculated. He had overdrawn his account to the amount of—four cents.

CLOCK MADE OF BICYCLES.

A Curious Mechanism that will Adorn a Public Building in Paris.

What is probably the oddest clock ever manufactured has been made by a Frenchman. It should appeal to every wheelman, for it is constructed solely of bicycles and parts thereof. It stands eleven and a half feet high, and is the queerest combination in appearance at which any cyclist ever gazed. What, it keeps correct time, and the man whose duty it is to keep it in order has a very easy time of it, for so delicately is it constructed that the gain or loss is almost infinitesimal. It bears the appearance at first glance of a circlet of bicycle wheels intertwined, in the center being an immense rim, while within this rim are the figures that denote time and the hands that point the hour and the minute.

The name of the inventor and the maker is Alphonse Duhamel. He is a Parisian clockmaker. The clock will be placed in one of the public buildings of Paris.

His Hammock Under Cars.

A queer character, "Jack, the hammock rider, who lives by his wits," is attracting the attention of the people throughout the State of Michigan.

"Jack's" hammock is of his own construction and bears the mark of considerable ingenuity. It is designed to fasten under a sleeping car to aid "Jack" in "beating" the railroad. The hammock is made of heavy canvass, quilted on the inside and fastened to a stout stick at each end. Two large iron hooks project from the wooden rods and by these he attaches his novel resting place to the two iron bars which run the length of each side of the car. A cover is sewed to one side and almost covers the ends, the sewed side being fastened to the car window, so that the wind pressure will keep out the dust as the car speeds along.—Chicago Tribune.

Floating Houses.

Bangkok, the principal city of Siam, out-Venices Venice. Not only are its thoroughfares canals, but many of its houses are floating, being, built of bamboo upon bamboo rafts. When the dwellers in one of these floating houses wish to move, they cast off the moorings, and float with the tide, up or down the river, as the case may be. When the capital was moved to Bangkok from Ayuthia, some hundred years ago, the cholers attacked the inhabitants with such fatality that the king ordered the dwellers on the shore to build upon the river itself, and, probably owing to greater cleanliness and better ventilation, the place was thereafter much more healthful.—Golden Days.

The difference between a planet and a star is this: A star shines by its own light, a planet by light reflected by another body.

THE DE HIRSCH PHILANTHROPY.

A Million Dollars Recently Given to the Fund in New York.

With the marriage of the late Baron de Hirsch were united two remarkable figures in the world's history of philanthropists. The wife, no less than the husband, was a master of the art of money making, and under the skilled guidance of this unique couple, their individual fortunes grew to colossal proportions. A love of their fellowmen was the predominating characteristic of both the Baron and the Baroness. With similar tastes, vast wealth, and the ability to use it wisely and well, they acted as a mighty compound engine in the field of education and charity.

The Baron Maurice de Hirsch de Gereuth was born to be a money king. He made millions while still a youth by consolidating the ruins of the greatest bank in Belgium. The Baron gave away millions, but wasted not a cent. It is said of him that he would save a franc by condensing a telegram announcing the gift of a fortune to some hospital or school.

Money making was merely an incident with him. His chief energies were devoted to spending his fortune properly. His social aspirations were gratified throughout Europe, in nearly every capital of which he was a chosen friend of sovereigns and princes, among his most intimate friends was the Prince of Wales. The baron was born near Munich in 1833, and died in Vienna, April 21, 1896.

It was through long association with her father, who was a private banker, that Baroness de Hirsch learned the business principles which enable her to use her vast wealth toward the improvement of mankind. She never fritters away money. Some of her friends regard her as the superior of her husband in the skillful handling of enormous sums of money. When she was a girl she acted as secretary to her father, the late Senator Bischofheim, who was himself a philanthropist. She was but twenty years old when she married Baron de Hirsch, and for nearly twoscore years she assisted him in his business and charitable work. Small wonder is it, then, that at the age of sixty, after a lifetime of experience, she manages her affairs unaided, except by clerks. She herself is a hard worker, and frequently spends part of the evening after dinner at her desk. An ordinary woman, carrying on the vast operations which her wonderful energies involve, would have no time left for social diversions, but the Baroness knows so well how to economize time that she is able to enjoy the company of her friends freely.

Of late her eyes have turned toward America as a field for philanthropic endeavor. The crowded condition of the east side of New York has been the subject of special study, and she has decided to place at the disposal of the Baron de Hirsch Fund $1,000,000, to be devoted to the work of improving these conditions. A home for the benefit of Hebrew working girls and immigrant girls is now being organized here.

Another American donation was $100,000, which was used to pay off a mortgage upon the building of the Educational Alliance in Jefferson street. It is supposed also that the Baroness was the anonymous donor of nearly $200,000 to the Paris Charity Bazaar, whose success was marred by the dreadful fire.

A distinguished trait of the world's greatest woman philanthropist is her aversion to anything approaching show or ostentation. Her large benefactions it is impossible to conceal from the public, but no one knows the extent of her personal work among the poor on a smaller scale.—New York Times.

The Rabbit Problem Solved.

The vexed question of the extermination of the Australian rabbit, which has hitherto constituted the chief problem that has confronted every antipodean administration, has at length received a satisfactory solution. There is no longer any need for importing the services of great scientists, such as the late Dr. Pasteur and Professor Koch, to devise means for their extermination, for the invention of the cold-storage rooms has left the whole matter to be reported in a refrigerated condition to the omnivorous market of the mother country. Rabbit pie is a favorite dish in the United Kingdom, and the rabbit which could not be successfully canned for consumption at present is now leaving Australia for England at such a rate that soon there will not be a single one of them left in the antipodes.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The Passing of Courtesy.

"While woman," said the Cumminsville Sage, "has succeeded in gaining much more standing in the business world, it would also be noted that her standing in the street cars has increased in far greater proportion."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Bravery.

Mrs. Brown-Smith—My husband is a brave man. He fought with a rival for me.

Mrs. Jones-Brown—My husband is a braver man. He fought with my mother for me.—New York Journal.

Two Horns to the Dilemma.

Young husband—If we break up housekeeping and go to live with your mother there'll be the devil to pay.

His wife—Yes, but if we don't there'll be the rent to pay.—Truth.

The Responsibility.

Bass—"Was that baby talk your wife was talking as I came in?"

Fogg—"That was mother talk; no baby I ever saw indulged in such gibberish."—Boston Transcript.

LARGE FEES OF A FEW LAWYERS.

Henry W. Oliver Said to Have Obtained $2,000,000 from One Organization.

It is said in Pittsburg that Henry W. Oliver was paid a "fee" of $2,000,000 for arranging a combination which gives the control of the Messaba iron range and the practical control of the ore market to an organization of manufacturers with the Carnegie Iron Company at its head.

If this is to be considered as a fee, it is undoubtedly the largest ever paid. All the fees ever paid to Patrick Henry, Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, Abraham Lincoln and any dozen of the greatest orators in the best ten years of their lives never amounted to half so much.

It is reported that Lawyer Hart, of San Francisco, who bore the brunt of the legal fight for the recovery to Florence Blythe of the Blythe millions, received a fee of $100,000. The estate in litigation aggregated $4,000,000. Hart carried on the fight for years, paying the expenses out of his own pocket, so that his great fee is not all profit.

It is said that the largest fee ever before paid was $200,000 to William Nelson Cromwell for acting as assignee in the case of Lecker, Howell & Co., New York, bankers and brokers. In the protests which such payments naturally call out it was asserted that this was at the rate of over $40,000 a week for the time he was employed. The fee paid by the Sugar Trust to John E. Parsons is stated at $250,000, and that paid to Henry L. Clinton in the Vanderbilt will case at from $100,000 to $150,000. Chauncey M. Depew's fee from the elevated roads was given at $75,000, and that of Robert Sewell from the elevated roads at $125,000.—New York World.

BICYCLE GIRL'S PERILOUS RIDE.

Rode the Tireless Wheel Over a High Bridge on the Outside of the Rail.

Ever since Joe Henley made his perilous sprint across the ties of the Milwaukee bridge on the bare rims of his bicycle a number of ambitious cyclists have professed a willingness to equal the performance.

The other day a woman, Dora Dewitt, of Kansas City, equalled Henley's feat and went him one better, for she rode along on the outside of the rail in a space of seventeen inches wide. It was a hair-raising performance, and one that is not likely to be equalled soon. Miss Dewitt rode a light racer. The tires had been removed, leaving only the bare rims to run upon. She started at a fast clip, knowing that in no other way could she get across. A single mishap would have hurled her into the Missouri river, ninety feet below. Once, near the center of the bridge, she swerved slightly, and for a few feet the wheel rushed along within an inch of the edge of the ties, but the girl was cool, and in a moment she was in control of her wheel, and finished the trip without further danger. The greatest peril lay in the expansions two feet wide which exist at regular intervals from one end of the bridge to the other. But she crossed all of these firmly, though the shock each time seemed as if it would throw her from the wheel. Many of the close kin of Miss Dewitt's arms were so numb that she could not lift them. Several well-known wheelmen witnessed the feat.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

SERVANTS IN JAPAN.

No Care for the Mistress of a House in That Country.

Servants are very cheap and very good in Japan. The foreign housewife has nothing to do and she lives like a queen. The Japanese cooks are far better than most American cooks, and $20 a month will pay the board and salaries of the help of an eight-room house. A certain foreign resident in Japan, who has since died as a millionaire would in the United States pays his cook $5 a month; his butler gets $2.50, and his gardener and second girl get about the same. These servants all board themselves, and the cook does the marketing. The housekeeping cost less than $20 a month, and a coachman could be had at $5 a month more. There is no trouble in getting good servants, and they watch after their employer's interests, and there is no cheated by none other than themselves.

Jap families pay still less for their servants. Only a few of the middle class have more than one servant, and among the poor the wife does the cooking and sees that the house is kept. Some families, however, have a woman to cook and do general housework, and such women are paid from $1 to $2 a month, and are lodged and fed. They generally receive a present of a dress from the mistress on New Year's and in midsummer, each costing from $1.60 to $2, and they expect to get a cent or two three times a week for bath money.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

More and More.

"Jeremiah," she said to her husband, who dislikes pets, "you know that you think a great deal more of that dog than you used to."

"What's true."

"I'm glad to hear you say so."

"Every night now he refuses to let me think of anything else."—Washington Star.

Corrigan—That's good for a cowkl?

Casey—How you got th' proice uv two bot whiskeys about you?

Corrigan—Oi boy not.

Casey—Wull, thin, Corrigan, it wud be a mercy not t' tell you.—Puck.

A bee is never caught in the rain, and you will notice that ants, wasps and spiders always prepare their nests against the coming of a storm many hours in advance.

BE AMIABLE ALWAYS.

ADVICE TO THE WIFE WHICH IS APPLICABLE TO THE HUSBAND.

Good Digestion Waits on Appetite and Appetite on Cheerfulness — Bounding Good Nature Leads to Health and Friends, and the Enjoyment of Life.

"Every other country," says Miss Parloa, "speaks of what one thing about Americans. They are always in a hurry. We ought to take time to cultivate ease, cheerfulness and pleasant conversation at the table, at least, for they add more to digestion than anything else. Nothing brings on indigestion so quickly as being irritated, annoyed and disgusted at table, and the housewife should be responsible for many things cheerful. Make the table as bright and dainty as possible. There is no excuse now for ugly, plain china when you can get dainty things for the same price. Pick up cups and saucers here and there, and pretty individual plates. A pretty cup and saucer, a delicate plate, a dainty centre piece, a vase of flowers, or even just a bit of grass, will brighten the table and afford a pleasant subject of conversation. Food is necessary for the body, but we don't want to be animals only.

"The food question is a complicated one, many things entering into its proper solution. First, there is the cost, depending upon income and what you can afford to buy. Then the nutritive value must be considered, the season, the climate and the age and condition of the persons for whom you are providing. There are always eccentricities of taste and digestion, and the oft-repeated 'it is good for you and you must eat it,' when there is a strong feeling of repugnance for some special dish, should not be continued. Do not compel a child to eat things absolutely distasteful.

"In buying, the market value of food does not indicate its nutritive value. A pound of tenderloin is not as nutritious as a pound of flank, on which account tenderloin should not be given to an invalid. Knowledge and judgment in buying will supplement a slender purse."

In selecting meats Miss Parloa advises the housekeeper to go to market herself. The larger the family the more economically they can be fed; but there is no economy in buying what is not wanted. Joints of beef and mutton can hang after killing and be kept perfectly sweet, the more tender they will be. Lamb and veal, on the other hand, being immature, spoil quickly.

Queen Olga of Greece.

When Christian William Ferdinand Adolphus George, second son of the King of Denmark, accepted the crown of Greece, he soon bethought himself that the King of Greece must have a consort. So he asked Olga, Grand Duchess, lovely daughter of Grand Duke Constantine of Russia, to sit beside him, and she came. They were married in St. Petersburg on October 27, 1867. He was 22 years old, and she seven years younger. Even now Athenians talk of the happy meeting of the girl queen. She at once won a warm place in the hearts of her adopted people, and she boasts that she speaks the Greek better than her native tongue.

QUEEN OLGA.

Guarding Sleeping Royalty.

The most extraordinary precautions are taken in Spain to provide for the safety of the sovereign at night.

His slumbers are watched throughout the night by the Monteros de Espinosa, a body of men who for 400 years have enjoyed the exclusive privilege of guarding of their royal master or his trees from sunset to sunrise.

This custom is bound by tradition to be natives of the town of Espinosa, and to have served with honor in the army. They lock the palace gates with much ceremony and solemnity at midnight, and open them again at seven o'clock in the morning.

Their fidelity to the person of the sovereign is well tried, and does not admit of any question.—Harper's Round Table.

A Dummy Editor.

"Japanese journalism," says a missionary's wife, "is a singular profession. In many of its features it is practically no such thing as freedom of the press in Japan. Whenever a newspaper publishes something unfriendly to the Government, it is suppressed, and the editor is sent to prison. Frequently he serves more than once, though. Every newspaper has what the Japanese call a 'dummy editor,' and it is his sole duty to go to jail every time the paper is suppressed for offending the Mikado. Then the real editor changes the name of the paper, and keeps on publishing it. Dummy editors spend most of their time in prison."—New York Tribune.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

ANENT DOGS.

The New York Herald is devoting a column or two of space every day to the subject of how dogs are treated during dog-days—whether humanely or cruelly. Judging from the graphic reports received from some sections of the country the canines that are found without muzzles or masters on the public thoroughfares are faring in a pretty tough manner, frequently forfeiting their life as a penalty for being astray. In this respect, the Plainfield dogs are a privileged lot. They are free to roam without fear of the dog-catcher or his auxiliary, the pound-keeper and canine executioner. They can amuse bicyclists, horsemen, boloes, bankers, brokers, mechanics, and last, but not least, the gentlemen friends of their master's daughter, to their heart's content. The only fear they live in is a passing kick or cuss word. Truly, the Plainfield dog has a nice time of it. But we warn him to not cross the brook, else Oscar Vaughn, who is an adept and experienced captor of unmuzzled canines meandering about to the peril of the peace and welfare of the borough, is liable to pounce upon Mr. Dog and make him a prisoner until his master forks forth a dollar for his release.

YANKEE PERSEVERANCE.

The indomitable will of Messrs. French and Vail, and those associated with them, in the efforts to secure the right of way for an electric railway up the side of the mountain to Mountain Park Inn, is but another evidence of the perseverance that marks the life of the Yankee and has made this country what it is today. The building of the trolley line through this rugged and wooded territory to the point where one can gaze into beautiful and prosperous valleys on either side, the consummation of which will open up and develop more rapidly the land that some day will be a mecca to which the people of the metropolitan district will journey for a breath of fresh and invigorating air, is an enterprise and improvement of sufficient public moment for every Plainfielder to lend a word of commendation.

WHY THE "BIRD" IS HERE.

There is no subject more timely at the present than the cause of the presence of hordes of New Jersey "birds." State Entomologist Smith gives this explanation:

The causes of the mosquito pest are the plentiful and long lasting puddles, and the great heat causing the rapid development of microscopic plants and animals in them and supplying abundance of food for the mosquito larvæ.

Upon the puddles that form in low places the mosquito always deposits her eggs. Each mosquito shells out about one hundred eggs at a time, and from these the larvæ develop and feed on the microscopic plants that grow rapidly in still water under the influence of the heat.

The conditions this year have been especially favorable to the propagation of the mosquito. Much rain has fallen and the marshes and meadows are full of water. There has been a good deal of sultry weather, with but little wind, and all these conditions are very favorable to the hatching out and development of the long-billed pest.

ADMITTED AT LAST.

The following editorial taken from the New Brunswick Home News, admits the superiority of Plainfield as compared with New Brunswick in attracting trade from the surrounding country:

Many people believe that a trolley line from this city to Perth Amboy would be more profitable than the route to Bound Brook. Plainfield being nearer, is likely to be more benefitted by the trolley trade from Bound Brook and Somerville than are the merchants of this city, while the trade to Perth Amboy would bring the people of that place to the county seat, where they have business almost daily. The Brunswick Traction Company have, however, not overlooked the Perth Amboy line, and are another twelvemonth it may be possible to jump on a car in this city and be in Amboy in less than one hour at an expense of fifteen or twenty cents. Within five years there will be a regular network of trolley in the county, all owned and controlled by the Brunswick Traction Company.

LEGEND OF ST. SWITHIN.

St. Swithin, bishop of Winchester, England, in the ninth century, died and was buried in the church yard of the old cathedral. It was his desire to be laid where men could walk over him and rain fall on his grave. A century afterwards it was determined to remove his dust to a shrine in the sacred edifice. On the day the ceremony was to take place it rained, and for forty days thereafter Jupiter Pluvius exercised his office to prevent the wish of the deceased bishop from being violated. The remains were, however, enshrined on July 15th, and ever since, so the old saying goes, if it rains on St. Swithin's Day it will rain every day thereafter until there has been forty days rain. The present year bids fair to verify the old tradition.—Trenton Times.

KIRKMAN'S BORAX SOAP.

WAGONS FREE

A pretty and useful wagon will be sent free to any Boy or Girl who will mail 50 wrappers of Kirkman's Borax Soap to our factory, cor. Bridge and Water Streets, Brooklyn. The wagon is a good strong one, 13 inches wide by 24 inches long, with spoke wheels as shown in the picture. Our advertisement is printed on the sides and ends of each wagon.

This offer is made to the residents of Plainfield, Dunellen and Westfield, and is not good after September 1st, 1897.

Any boy or girl can easily gather 50 of the Kirkman's Borax Soap wrappers. Get your folks, get your friends, get your neighbors to buy Kirkman's Borax Soap and collect the wrappers.

It is the very best laundry soap made. Every one who uses it likes it. Read the wrappers and see the list of premiums we give.

☞ NOTICE.—Don't send the entire wrappers. Send the Coupons only, and be sure to send your name and address. We may not be able to deliver the wagon to your house promptly but we will send it as soon as possible. Deliveries will be made in Westfield, Plainfield and Dunellen only. This offer is good to September 1, 1897.

WRITE TO US FOR COMPLETE LIST.
NOVELTIES WILL BE CONTINUALLY ADDED.

Established 1837. KIRKMAN & SON, Brooklyn, N. Y.

42, 44, 46, 48, & 50 Bridge St.,
224, 226, 227, 229, 231, 233 & 235 Water St.,

JERSEY SENATORS DISCUSS BOOMS.

The "Senatorial Picnic" tendered his colleagues by State Senator Engle at Beach Haven was prolific of much political gossip. The United States Senatorial boom and the Gubernatorial boom were given fresh impetus. Whenever Comptroller Hancock's back was turned his boom for Governor was given a perceptible boost. Congressman Gardner, of the Second District, was also favorably talked of in the event of the Senatorship going to North Jersey. The general opinion seemed to be that the Senatorship was likely to go to John Kean, the almost utter impossibility of a Governor reaching that position being pointed out by reference to New Jersey history. Moreover, in every county where an election for State Senator is to be held this fall the Kean forces are active, while there as yet seems to be no outside pressure exerted by Gov. Griggs' followers.

A LAW NOT ENFORCED.

It has just come to light that the fifty-five hour law is not enforced, and that the factory inspector has paid no attention to it. When the law was passed five years ago a case was taken into the Supreme Court to contest its constitutionality; the court, however, threw it out on a technicality, and did not touch the main issue. Pending the court's decision, Lawrence T. Fell, the chief factory inspector, instructed the deputy inspectors not to do anything, and that order has never been revoked. It is a pity that the court did not pass upon the constitutionality of the act because the question is bound to come up again sooner or later.—Tribune.

SCHOOL QUARRELS.

Railway people are up in arms over the intention of their Common Council to locate a new school building, to cost $90,000, upon a site that is not considered desirable by the majority of citizens. It is a matter for regret that in such important matters as school management, when a community should be a unanimity in determining the details, that there should be so much disputing. There are no public affairs in New Jersey that are more prolific of quarrels than those of the school, and, though it shows a lively and healthy interest on the part of the people, it deteriorates the good work of the institutions so afflicted.

RACE DISCRIMINATION.

There are said to be four thousand colored persons in Plainfield, and, according to reports, they are more or less aggrieved because a local confectioner refused to serve ice-cream to several members of their race. As the store is not a licensed place of public entertainment, it is doubtful if they can do anything with the proposed prosecution. The most sensible course is to take their trade where it is desired.—Tribune.

Sunday-School Convention.

The Union Sunday-School Picnic and Convention of Bernards, Warren and North Plainfield townships will be held August 11th, either on Washington Camp Grounds or at Washington Rock.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

USED HOE HANDLE ON GOP

DISASTROUS EFFECT OF JERSEY LIGHTNING ON JAMES CLEARAY.

Attempting to Clean Out the West End When Patrolman Mattox Arrested Him After a Tussel—Got Sixty Days in Jail.

James Clearay is a hod carrier by profession and lives on South Second street, near Clinton avenue. Martin Gegan, an old and faithful citizen, lives near by. All went well until Sunday when Clearay sampled some "Jersey lightning." The fumes floated to his brain and he was not exactly accountable for what happened afterwards.

Clearay went over and told Gegan that he had a nuisance in his back yard, and that he, Clearay, was going to complain to the Board of Health. Clearay grew worse as the afternoon went by and his language kept pace with his temper. He at last decided that it was time to kill Gegan, so the latter related, and picked up a hoe handle with that intent. They dashed about the yard and Gegan fled for his life while his neighbor flourished his hoe in the rear.

Unlike real life, Patrolman Mattox put in an appearance at an opportune moment.

"What do you want?" demanded the intoxicated man of the officer. "You want this," and he began to use his hoe handle on the top of the officer's cranium. He knocked Mattox down and the officer jumped up again and returned the compliment. At last Mattox put up the handbuffs on his prisoner and started on a march to the jail.

Clearay swore at everybody and everything with great ease and wriggled somewhat in the grasp of the officer.

Monday morning Clearay came up for trial. Besides his victim and the officer, the witnesses against him were Patrick Ward and Prof. Jones. Ward told what he had seen and then explained that he was going to leave for the "ould countree" on Saturday and assured the Judge he would have a good time if he would only come along. As the Judge couldn't do that he promised him a blackthorn.

Prof. Walter Jones, colored, is a professor of wood carving. "Can't be beat in this city, sah," he explained. He had seen the "conjunction," he said, while sitting on the piazza with his girl.

Cleary declared everybody was lying, the Judge included, and claimed to be the victim of a put-up job. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and go to jail for 60 days.

BITTEN BY A SPIDER.

Westfield Boy's Nose Swollen to Twice Its Natural Size.

Charles Hart, a fifteen-year-old boy, of Westfield, was bitten by a spider while in bathing at Echo Lake on Sunday afternoon. The insect, which was of the large black species, inflicted its sting upon young Hart's nose, which has since swollen to twice its natural size. Considerable pain accompanies the swelling, and some anxiety is felt as to the final result of the injury.

Pulpit Supplies.

The pulpit supplies at the Crescent Avenue church during the absence of the pastor on his vacation will be as follows:

August 1st—Rev. A. J. Brown, D. D., of New York city.
August 8th—Rev. John Balcom Shaw, D. D., of New York city.
August 15th—Rev. W. R. Terrett, D. D., of Clinton, N. Y.
August 22d—Rev. James McLeod, D. D., of Scranton, Pa.
August 29th—Rev. James McLeod, D. D., of Scranton, Pa.
Sept. 5th—Rev. G. L. Spining, D. D., of South Orange.

SLAUGHTER OF CANINES

A MAD DOG AT SPRINGFIELD CAUSES GREAT EXCITEMENT.

Chased Bicyclists and Bit Twenty-five Other Dogs That Were Killed—Furious Attack on Constabulary Executioner.

There was a wholesale slaughter of dogs at Springfield Sunday, and all on account of a visit of a mad dog the day before.

A canine belonging in that village, which is about ten miles from this city, began to act very queerly Saturday morning. The animal began to run about the streets, and before the people realized it the dog was stark mad, biting and snapping at everything in its path and groveling in the dirt, while the tell-tale froth issued from its mouth.

The cry of "mad dog" was taken up and soon the streets were cleared. Several cyclists were passing through the town at the time and the dog ran after them, but they escaped by a lively spurt. The dogs in the village did not escape so easily. Mongrel curs belonging to nobody in particular and pet dogs as well were all victims of the dreaded animal. He bit and snapped at the other dogs, injuring several.

Then the village constable started forth to put an end to the dangerous canine. The animal flew at him and before he had a chance to use his revolver the dog sprang at his shoulder and set its teeth in his coat. The shoulder and arm of the constable's coat was torn off, but luckily the teeth of the animal did not tear the flesh. Then the constable pointed his revolver at the maddened animal and fired before the brute had another chance to spring.

Sunday, an investigation was made of all the dogs in the village to see which had been bitten on Saturday. Several valuable dogs had been acting queerly since the appearance of the animal suffering from the rabies and their owners had tied them up for safe-keeping. These and a number of others, twenty-six in all, were shot yesterday afternoon by the constable as a result of the visit of the mad one.

MISS LUND IS NATURALIZED.

Going to China and Thinks Americans Are Safe There.

Miss Hannah Lund, of Plainfield, was Monday naturalized by Judge Kirkpatrick, of the United States District Court. Miss Lund is twenty-two and has been in this country seven years. She came from Sweden. Since her arrival she has educated herself with funds saved from her own hard work. In a few weeks she will go to Mongolia, China, as a Christian missionary.

Judge Kirkpatrick asked Miss Lund why she wished to become naturalized. She said she considered the Americans as most certain of protection in such countries. He asked what was the matter with King Oscar. She replied that he was all right, but Uncle Sam was much better.

Serious Fire Averted.

An alarm of fire was sent in Sunday afternoon at 12:30 from Box 46, corner of Liberty and West Second streets, by William Classen, of Liberty street. An oil stove in the house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George Firstbrook became unmanageable and threatened to set fire to the furniture. By the time the department arrived the fire was out and the damage was slight. The oil stove was wrecked in the attempt to extinguish the flames. The fire frightened Mrs. Firstbrook to such an exent that she fainted. It was not long, however, before she recovered.

You may hunt the world over and you will not find another medicine equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy for bowel complaints. *It is pleasant, safe and reli*able. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Running Full Time.

The Scott Printing Press works are now running full time and are giving full pay to all the force of men.

HIRAX

A NON-POISONOUS LOTION
For Instantly removing Inflammation caused by BITES AND STINGS OF MOSQUITOES
AND
ALL POISONOUS INSECTS

Spiders, Bees, Black Flies, Yellow Jackets, &c.

A Most Effective Remedy
—FOR—
IVY POISONING

For sale by the following Druggists who are authorized by the Manufacturers to refund the price, 25 cents, if unsatisfactory.
F. S. Armstrong, Park & North Aves. Pharmacy.
R. J. Shaw, Cor. Park and Eastern Aves.
North Ave. Pharmacy, Plainfield.
T. W. Brakely, M. D., Dunellen.

Your bones need lime.

Your hair needs sulphur.

Your teeth need dentine.

Your blood needs sodium.

What is best suited to the body as a whole is best for the proper growth of each individual member of it. If you want to "eat to live," you must eat

H-O

Be sure and get the package with the big H-O on the end.

Subscriptions Free to

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly
Illustrated American (Weekly)
Truth (Weekly)
New England Magazine
Clatterson (Monthly)
The American Kitchen Magazine
Home Magazine (Monthly)
of Binghamton, N. Y.

WITH COUPONS FROM THE

H.O. Co.'s Goods

RUNAWAY ON THE MOUNTAIN.

The Exhausted Horse Was Finally Stopped at the Mountain Park Inn.

Plagued beyond endurance by the large horse flies, a horse ran away near Scotch Plains, Sunday afternoon, ran up the hill to Johnston drive and followed that road all along the summit of the mountain. Almost exhausted, the animal was finally turned into the driveway at Mountain Park Inn and a half a dozen young men from that hotel reached the animal's head and brought his flight to an end.

The Mixed Esterbrook, of East Front street, near Netherwood, started out for a drive Sunday afternoon in a buggy. They intended to drive over the mountain. They had just left Scotch Plains behind when the horse became unmanageable and ran away. Hoping to stop the animal, the young woman driving drove up the steep hill. The animal kept up, however, and finally reached the Inn almost exhausted.

Both of the occupants were badly frightened and one of them fainted after the horse was stopped. They remained at the Inn until they recovered from their fright and were then driven home.

Sanitary Machinery Here.

The machinery for the plant to be operated by the Plainfield Sanitary Company arrived Monday, and William Hand & Son's truck was used to transfer it from the freightshouse to the plant on DeKalb avenue. Everything went well until DeKalb avenue was reached and there the truck became fastened in the deep sand. The two horses were unable to pull the heavy load out and additional horses were secured for the purpose.

Postal Appointment.

The many friends of Ernest Mallard, of North avenue, will be pleased to learn of the success in passing the examination for the position of clerk at the local post office. Mr. Mallard will assume his duties next Monday.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 9:25, 11:30 a. m., 2:20, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7:20, 9:30, 11 a. m., 1:20, 2:50 and 7:20 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA AND KINSTON.

Arrive—8:30 a. m., 2 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:15 and 4:20 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:30, 11:30 a. m., 2:00, and 9:20 p. m.
Close—7:20, 9:30, 11 a. m., 12:15 and 4:20 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—10:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 4:00 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively. Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JULY 3rd, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 34, 3 32, 5 02, 6 25, 6 50, 7 36, 7 56, 8 36, 9 07, 9 32, 10 06, 10 32, 11 06 a. m., 12 06, 1 06, 2 07, 3 02, 3 53, 4 40, 5 04, 5 40, 6 10, 6 40, 7 10, 7 40, 8 10, 8 40, 9 10, 9 40, 10 10, 11 40 p. m., 12 01 night. Sunday, 2 34, 4 08, 5 02, 6 25, 7 36, 8 36, 9 07, 9 32, 10 06, 10 32, 11 06 a. m., 12 06, 1 06, 2 07, 3 02, 3 53, 4 40, 5 04, 5 40, 6 10, 6 40, 7 10, 7 40, 8 10, 8 40, 9 10, 9 40, 10 10, 11 40 p. m., 12 01 night.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, 8 45, 10 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 00 night. Sunday, 8 45, 10 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 00 night.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 18, 9 54, 11 00 a. m., 12 01, 1 41, 3 40, 4 50, 5 40, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 37, 11 29 p. m., 12 35 night. Sunday only, 5 45, 8 18, 9 54, 11 00 a. m., 12 01, 1 41, 3 40, 4 50, 5 40, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 37, 11 29 p. m., 12 35 night. Sunday 5 45, 9 54, 11 00 a. m., 12 01, 1 41, 3 40, 4 50, 5 40, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 37, 11 29 p. m., 12 35 night.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 35, 11 35 a. m., 12 35, 1 35, 2 35, 3 35, 4 35, 5 35, 6 35, 7 35, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35 p. m. Sunday, 6 00, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 35, 11 35 a. m., 12 35, 1 35, 2 35, 3 35, 4 35, 5 35, 6 35, 7 35, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 9 15, 9 54 a. m., 2 11, 4 50, 6 30 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 9 15, 9 54 a. m., 6 30 p. m.

Leave Easton at 7 00, 9 34 a. m., 2 11, 5 05, 6 45 p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 05 a. m., 5 05 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 10, 9 54 a. m., 2 11, 5 05, 6 45 p. m. Sunday 8 06 a. m.

CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bound Brook, Bethlehem, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk and Williamsport.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting at High Bridge for stations on Lehigh Valley R. R.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre and Binghamton.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge, Bound Brook, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Manunka Chunk, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Catawissa, Williamsport, Elmira, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. 5 45 p. m. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk and Through coach to Reading.

7 01 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Binghamton, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

9 11 p. m.—For High Bridge Branch for Flemington. Bound Brook Branch for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

6 00 p. m.—For Flemington and Easton, connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

4 58 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Reading, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Binghamton, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R. to Scranton.

3 00 p. m.—For Flemington.

5 00 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

9 20 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 30 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

7 10 a. m. Sundays—For Long Branch, 7 10, 9 54 a. m., 2 11, 5 05 p. m. Sundays, for Ocean Grove, 10 05 a. m., 6 30 p. m. Sundays, for Asbury Park, 10 05 a. m., 6 30 p. m.

For Bayonne, 5 45, 9 15, 9 54 a. m., 2 11, 5 05, 6 45, 8 06 p. m. Sundays, 5 45, 9 54 a. m., 6 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 9 54 a. m., 5 05 p. m.

For Cape May, 9 54 a. m., 5 05 p. m.

For Brooklyn, 5 45, 9 15, 9 54 a. m., 2 11, 5 05, 6 45, 8 06 p. m. Sundays, 5 45, 9 54 a. m., 6 30 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield, Philadelphia, 5 37, 8 45, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 3 37, 6 37, 9 37, 11 37 p. m. night. Sundays, 5 37, 8 45, 10 44 a. m., 2 17, 6 37, 9 37 p. m., 12 37 night.

For Trenton, 5 37, 8 45, 9 45 a. m., 1 05, 2 17, 6 37, 9 37, 11 37 p. m. night. Sundays, 5 37, 8 45, 9 45 a. m., 2 17, 6 37, 9 37 p. m., 12 37 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 2 45, 10 40 a. m., 3 50, 8 10 p. m. Sundays, 2 45, 10 40 a. m., 3 50, 8 10 p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, 9 54 a. m., 5 05 p. m. Sundays, 9 54 a. m., 5 05 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked change cars at Bound Brook.

Tickets and full information at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
F. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect June 13, 1897.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. and 4 44 p. m. Daily (Sundays 9 42) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m., 2 52, 7 22 p. m. daily except Sunday. (Sundays 11 20 a. m.) Local for Bound Brook 11 34 a. m. daily, except Sunday, local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. Daily except Sunday. "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 34 and 4 38 p.m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazelton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m., 2 52, 7 22 p. m. daily except Sunday. (Sundays 11 20 a. m.) Local for Bound Brook 11 34 a. m. daily, except Sunday, local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52 p. m. Daily except Sunday. "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 34 and 4 38 p.m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazelton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn—Local 6 47, 7 15, 7 40 a. m., 2 20, 4 40, and 7 10 p. m. Sundays 7 50 a. m., 2 21, 7 10 p. m. Express—7 25, 8 27, 10 02 a. m., 2 13, 2 21, 5 13, 7 07 and 9 06 p. m. Sundays—7 25 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 08 a. m., 12 13, 2 33, 5 56, 7 10 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 00, 10 08 a. m., 7 10 and 7 10 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 25 p. m. except Sunday. For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.
S. BERGEN PAUL,
General Passenger Agent.
CHARLES M. PUGH,
General Manager.
E. W. SUNNER, Jr.,
Assistant General Passenger Agent.
South Bethlehem, Pa.
J. M. SCHAICHER,
Ticket Agent.
NEW YORK TERMINAL—Foot of Cortlandt st.

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

STILL IN THE LAW'S TOILS

SMEDBERG IS RELEASED ON ONE CHARGE, AND THEN RE-ARRESTED.

Burglary is Now the Accusation That is Made Against the Young Man—Recommitted to Jail to Await Hearing.

Joseph Duncan Smedberg, who was charged with stealing the Marshall diamonds, was discharged Saturday afternoon. But before Smedberg had a chance to leave the office of Justice Nash, State Detective John L. Blackford stepped forward with a warrant and arrested Smedberg on the charge of burglary. Now Smedberg has gone back to the county jail in Elizabeth to await his hearing which is to take place in this city next Monday afternoon.

The mystery connected with the robbery of the jewelry and diamonds belonging to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marshall, of East Fifth street, which took place on the evening of June 20th, as has already been told in The Daily Press, and the romance in which the alleged thief had played such a prominent part, combined to attract many to the hearing of Joseph Duncan Smedberg, which was to have been held before Justice Nash at his office on Park avenue, Saturday afternoon. While he has none in this city who might be called his friends, Smedberg was known to quite a number and it was curiousity that attracted many to see him. There seemed to be a general supposition that there was to be something sensational in the developments that would be made public at the hearing, but those who had any such idea were sadly disappointed.

Last Thursday morning, Smedberg was arrested by Detective Blackford while on his way to his work as draughtsman at the Scott Printing Press works. The warrant charged him with grand larceny. He was brought before Justice Nash, but refused to have anything to say until he had conferred with an attorney. He was committed to the county jail to appear last Saturday afternoon for a hearing.

The hearing was set down for 2:30 o'clock and the prisoner was to be brought to this city on the train arriving here at 2:32 o'clock. Long before that hour, a crowd began to gather at the Justice's office. There were a number of. Mr. Marshall's friends who came to see the results of his attempt to bring the supposed thief to justice. The train was late and the crowd grew impatient. Then Smedberg appeared on the arm of the Detective.

Smedburg is a smooth-faced young man, apparently about twenty-five, rather good looking. He looked very pale and his eyes were sunken in his head. He looked rather nervous as he was led between the two lines of curious spectators but seemed cool enough when the hearing began. He looked around the crowd as if searching for a friendly face and his gaze frequently lingered on the pretty face of his young wife. Mrs. Smedberg arrived at the Judge's office, unescorted, before her husband did and waited his arrival in the private office of the Justice.

When the prisoner was brought, then was a lengthy conference between the young couple and their attorney, Marshall Van Winkle, of Jersey City. Then the Justice opened court in his private office while the spectators crowded around the doors and windows to watch the proceedings. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall were both present but had nothing to say to their former friends, the Smedbergs. Occasionally, Mrs. Smedberg glanced scornfully at them but that was all. She did not seem frightened by the occasion but sat beside her husband, very straight, and looked at the two lawyers most of the time.

At the start the prisoner's lawyer protested against the crowd, but the Judge refused to have the hearing a private one. Then City Judge De-Meza, who had been retained by Mr. Marshall, acted as attorney for the State and conducted the prosecution. He first moved to dismiss the charge of grand larceny. Lawyer Van Winkle wanted to know his reasons but the City Judge laughingly refused and the first of a long series of tiffs between the legal lights followed. Justice Nash dismissed the complaint, at last, and discharged the prisoner. Detec-warrant and arrested Smedberg at once on the charge of burglary. Van Winkle vigorously protested against the complaint, saying that it was not correct, but the Justice decided otherwise and held the prisoner on it. The lawyer for the defence was very careful that all his objections should be recorded in the court docket.

Van Winkle demanded an immediate hearing for his client, which, the Justice said, was impossible. Then Van Winkle requested that the State disclose the names and addresses of its witnesses, which DeMeza refused to do. The lawyer for the defence wanted all these requests recorded.

Judge DeMeza then moved that the examination be set down for the afternoon of Monday, August 2d, and the motion was granted. That ended the court and the prisoner remained in the office until the time for the next train for Elizabeth when he was taken to the station by Detective Blackford.

Neither the prisoner nor his wife had anything to say in court although there were numerous whispered conferences between them and their lawyer. The prisoner lounged back on his chair but showed that he was still somewhat nervous by his frequent change of position. Mr. and Mrs. Marshal sat directly opposite the prisoner and his wife and both looked worried. Mr. Marshal does not like to press the charge and only does so to recover his property. He is said to have offered Smedberg the $200 reward if he would return the stolen property but Smedberg denied ever having stolen it. Smedberg was suspected sometime before his arrest and was accused of the burglary to his face but denied it up and down.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the Best.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

The 25 and 50c. sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park & North Aves.

Primary Teachers' Union

The devotional exercises at the meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union held Monday afternoon were conducted by Mrs. Jones, while the lesson, "Paul's Ministry at Corinth," was taught by Mrs. G. H. Batchelor. She gave a very interesting review of Paul's second journey, and the organization of many churches along the route where he stopped. In closing Mrs. Batchelor illustrated her remarks with the use of blocks showing that a church built on the foundation of Jesus Christ was sure and that those built on goodness was sure to topple over.

At a Ripe Old Age.

Monday Mrs. Aaron Dunn, of Elm place, celebrated the anniversary of her eighty-fourth birthday, and in the afternoon the presence of her children and grandchildren made the occasion an enjoyable one and long to be remembered. Mrs. Dunn was nicely remembered by receiving a number of useful presents, and all of her guests wished her many happy returns of the day

Furniture Gone Astray.

J. L. Wiseman, formerly manager of the Jersey Cycle Academy on Watchung avenue, is making efforts to discover the whereabouts of a carload of furniture which he shipped to the sea shore about one month ago. The furniture has not yet reached its destination. Mr. Wiseman is the manager of the Seaside House, at Asbury Park, and sent his furniture from this city about a month ago. The railroad officials have been making efforts to trace the goods, but have not yet succeeded in locating them.

A Chapel For Garwood.

Frank E. Morse announces his intention of building a chapel at Garwood, to be used for worshiping purposes by the people of the community. It will be ready for occupancy sometime this fall. Mr. Morse also intends to erect a dwelling house for his own use at Garwood and desires to have both buildings constructed by Plainfield contractors.

"Last summer one of our grandchildren was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs.E. G. Gregory, of Frederickstown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried Chamberlains Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, North Ave., Park & North Aves.

STATE C. E. CONVENTION

PROGRAMME TO BE CARRIED OUT IN PATERSON IN OCTOBER.

The Convention to be Held October 6th, 7th and 8th—A Number of Plainfield Workers to Take Prominent Part.

The New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union will meet in annual convention in Paterson, October 6th, 7th and 8th. The sessions will be held in the building of the Young Men's Christian Association, the First Baptist church and the Market Street Methodist church. These buildings are centrally located and will accommodate 1,000 persons. The local union will provide entertainment for all delegates who apply before October 1st. The programme committee announces the following outline of the three days' session:

Wednesday afternoon, in the Y. M. C. A. building—Christian citizenship report, Rev. W. E. Davis, Lebanon; Christian citizenship address, Merrill E. Gates, president of Amherst College; address on Sabbath observance, Rev. Dr. D. J. Burrell, New York city. Wednesday night—Welcomes, Rev. F. E. Miller, Rev. E. W. Thompson, Paterson; convention sermon, Rev. Maltbie D. Babcock, Baltimore; appointment of committees. In the First Baptist church—Welcome, Rev. J. W. Brougher, Paterson; convention sermon, Rev. Wayland Hoyt, Philadelphia; appointment of committees.

Thursday morning—9:15 to 10:15, committee conferences; 10:30 to 11:45, denominational rallies. Thursday afternoon—Junior rally, blackboard exercise, Miss Struble, Trenton; exercise by the children, Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman. In the Y. M. C. A. building, Thursday night—President's annual address, Rev. Dr. J. C. French, Newark; Bible study, Rev. Hugh B. MacCauley, Freehold; reception by State officers. In the First Baptist church—Bible study by Rev. W. J. Harsha, New York; president's annual address, Rev. Dr. J. C. French, Newark; reception by State officers at Y. M. C. A. In the Market Street Methodist church—Annual address, Rev. C. Brett, first vice-president State Union; address, Rev. J. W. Chapman, Philadelphia; reception by State officers at Y. M. C. A.

The Young Men's Christian Association building, Friday morning, report of press department, the Rev. G. H. Ingram, Trenton; correspondence report, W. R. Ward, Lyons Farms; missionary report, Miss A. B. Spangenberg, Plainfield; foreign missionary address, the Rev. F. J. Stanley, Atlantic City. In the First Baptist church, Junior report, the Rev. A. W. Spooner, Camden; home missionary address, the Rev. W. G. Puddefoot, New York city; address, the Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman. In the Young Men's Christian Association building, Friday afternoon, evangelistic report, the Rev. F. B. Everitt, Trenton; address, the Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman. In the First Baptist Church, address, the Rev. Luther R. Dyott, of Newark, President Essex Christian Endeavor Union; evangelistic report, the Rev. F. B. Everitt, Trenton. In the Young Men's Christian Association building, Friday night, address, Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, Boston, President of World Union of Christian Endeavor; consecration service, led by Dr. Clark. First Baptist Church, address by Mrs. Ballington Booth, New York city; consecration service led by Mrs. Booth. In the Market Street Methodist Church, address by the Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman; consecration service, led by Dr. Chapman. The usual denominational rallies will be held Thursday, from 10:30 a. m. to 11:45, conducted as follows: Presbyterian, the Rev. Sylvester Beach, Bridgeton; Baptist; the Rev. Frank Smith, Somerville; Congregational, the Rev. Charles A. Savage, Orange; Reformed, the Rev. P. T. Pockman, New Brunswick; Methodist Protestant, the Rev. J. W. Trout, Elizabeth; Methodist Episcopal, the Rev. F. K. Bloom; Seventh Day Baptist, the Rev. A. E. Main, Plainfield; Church of Christ, the Rev. William Hainer, Irvington; Lutheran, the Rev. Carton Bannister, Ramseys; African Methodist, the Rev. J. W. Roundtree.

Committee conferences, a new feature, will be led by the following: Evangelistic, the Rev. F. B. Everitt, Trenton; junior, the Rev. A. W. Spooner, Camden; district secretaries, Miss Ina B. Stephens, Hackettstown; lookout, the Rev. D. W. Stutts, Bridgeton; prayer meeting, Mr. J. Stevens, East Orange; social, flower and calling, Miss Leslie Taylor, Newark; missionary, the Rev. Walter Brooks, Trenton; society presidents, Mrs. F. J. Collier, union officers, J. L. Connet; good literature, the Rev. F. J. Goodwin, Glen Ridge; Bible study, the Rev. Hugh B. MacCauley, Freehold.

There will be special music at each session, led by a chorus choir.

Mr. C. L. Hasbrouck, a druggist at Mendon, Mich., says all of the good testimonials that have been published by the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy could be duplicated in that town. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves.

Merit

is what gives Hood's Sarsaparilla its great popularity; its constantly increasing sales, and enables it to accomplish its wonderful and unequalled cures. The combination, proportion and process used in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla are unknown to other medicines, and make Hood's Sarsaparilla

Peculiar to Itself

It cures a wide range of diseases because of its power as a blood purifier. It acts directly and positively upon the blood, and the blood reaches every nook and corner of the human system. Thus all the nerves, muscles, bones and tissues come under the beneficent influence of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Fine Machinists' Tools In Stock.

Gasoline and oil stoves of best makes.

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our high grade inspected Nursery Stock. Many new specialties offered this year for the first time, as well as the standard varieties of fruits and ornamentals. No previous experience necessary. Write for terms, stating age, etc.

Mongon, Bro. & Co., Nurserymen, Maple Grove Nurseries, West Chester, Pa.

DIED.

LOWRIE—In this city, Sunday July 25, 1897, Harriet Nichols, wife of Edward Addie Lowrie, aged 8 months and 17 days.

PERRY—In Fanwood Township, July 25, 1897, Charles Mantooth, son of Mahlon S. and Minnie Terry, aged 6 months and 15 days.

DORAN—In this city, July 26, 1897, John Doran, aged 1 year, 1 month and 4 days.

CUMISKEY—In this city, July 27, 1897, Ellen Cumiskey, aged 1 year and 7 months.

JOHNSON—In North Plainfield, on Tuesday, July 27, 1897, Mary L. Johnson, aged 52 years and 9 days.

Trusses! Rupture! Trusses!

Dr. Marsley has opened a branch office at No. 220 West Second street, corner Central avenue, Plainfield, for the treatment of Rupture. 30 years experience and the most modern appliances warrants satisfactory results. No occasion to go to New York for what you can get better at home. Irreducible, difficult and complicated cases solicited. The treatment of rupture, whether mechanical or otherwise, most properly belongs to a surgeon of long experience in that particular line. No charge for examination or advice. Hours 9-12 a. m., 1-4 p. m. and evenings.

UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES of AMERICA

Rev. L. D. BASS, D. D., Manager,
Pittsburg, Pa.; Toronto, Canada; New Orleans; New York; Washington, D. C.; San Francisco, Cal.; Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo.; and Denver, Colorado.
There are thousands of positions to be filled within the next few months.
Address all applications to UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES, Salisbury, Pa. 6 m

NEW POSTMASTERS.

Plums That Fell at Washington for Jersey Republicans.

New Jersey postmasters were appointed Monday as follows:—Dunellen, Middlesex County, C. A. Coriell, vice P. C. Staats, removed; Frankfort, Somerset County, V. B. Martin, vice V. P. Schony, resigned; Peapack, Somerset County, G. S. Vanarsdale, vice Theodore Allen, removed; Stillman, Somarset County, W. M. Stillman, vice Edward Brophy, removed; Stelton, Middleesx County, James Burk, vice Augustus Steele, removed.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At a meeting of the County Board of Assessors held July 19th, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Learning of the death of the wife of our fellow-member, J. F. Hubbard, of Plainfield, be it

Resolved, That our heartfelt sympathy be extended to him in this, his sad affliction; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes and a copy of the same be sent to the family and printed in the Press and Courier-News of Plainfield.

Wm. Eckerson, chairman.
John J. Farrelly, secretary.

Decided in Supreme Court.

The case of Hand and MacIntyre against John G. Bicknell, on contract, in the New Jersey Supreme Court has been decided in favor of the plaintiff who are awarded judgment and costs amounting to $439.88. The attorneys for the plaintiff are Pope & Runyon, of this city.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES,
FRUITS &c
GARDEN SEEDS
fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.
Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.
CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt, answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.
Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & Co., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. DRAKE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's
Marble and Granite Works,
30
Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.
I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.
I employ no agents and therefore am entitled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.
I am under a very small expense in running my business myself and can afford the largest portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.
Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.
Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue.

SAVED

After years of suffering. It has at last been proven beyond a doubt that

NASALENE

Is a positive remedy for local diseases which are the result of cold and climatic changes. Cold in the Head. Hay Fever.

CATARRH

Deafness, (caused by catarrh) are instantly relieved.
It is pleasant to use, convenient to carry. Price 50c. and $1.00, at all druggists.
O. V. SAGE, Warden of Sing Sing, says: "Nasalene is very beneficial."
HUNTER MEDICAL CO.,
54 E. 31st Street, N. Y.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Bilious and Nervous Diseases. They purify the blood and give Healthy action to the entire system.

Cure DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
Corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing.
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and wormanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS.
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles. Store removed from 232 W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 4jly7

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL
BARBER AND
HAIR DRESSER.
204 PARK AVE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed. fly21

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS,
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & CO., 361 Broadway, New York.
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

What a Lot of Eggs
the hens lay when fed a Green Cut Bone. With a dozen hens
Mann's
Green Bone
Cutter
will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 BUYS ONE, Sent on trial. 100 highest awards received. Catalogue free if you name this paper. F. W. MANN CO., Milford, Mass.
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12—9 mos.

A TERRIFIC RAIN STORM.

TORRENTS OF WATER FELL AND FLOODED THE LOWLANDS.

Accompanied by Sharp Lightning, Heavy Thunder and a Strong Gale That Made Things Lively for an Hour Friday.

A storm of unusual violence swept over New Jersey Friday afternoon, leaving in its wake destruction on every hand. A remarkably heavy fall of rain, a high wind, a hail storm and an atmosphere heavily charged with electricity, all combined to make the storm a destructive one.

Friday promised to be a beautiful day. There was a suggestion of cloudiness at the start, but the clouds soon floated away and the sun shone forth in all its glory. Blue sky was on every side and everybody rejoiced that the long spell of rainy weather was at an end. The roads dried up and the farmers harnessed up their horses and prepared to go forth to work once more.

At noon, the delightful weather continued and the mercury joined in the general celebration by climbing up to the ninety mark. Pedestrians mopped the perspiration from their brows and declared that the day was a hot but delightful one.

Soon after 2 o'clock, a little cloud appeared over in the northwest, over the top of the ridge of the Watchung Mountains. Nobody noticed the insignificant little cloud and it continued on its way unheeded. Bicycle riders started forth in the afternoon and the little cloud laughed as it saw them go forth, for from its lofty perch it could see an army of little clouds that were steadily advancing to take the city by storm. The little cloud was joined by other little clouds and soon a bank of murky black clouds had formed and hovered over the mountains.

People glanced apprehensively at the gathering storm but the clear blue sky that covered the rest of the heavens assured them. At first, the clouds came in a long unbroken line but soon they broke and ugly grey clouds boiled forth and rolled and tossed as if struggling to be free. Then it was seen that more rain was at hand and everybody hurried for shelter.

There was a puff of wind that heralded the storm and then the rain began to fall, gently at first but gradually increasing. A cold wind came at first in gusts and then, growing in force, twisted the limbs of the trees and shrieked and sighed amid the swaying boughs. The mercury has stood at ninety when the storm struck, but the breeze, which was as cold as if it came from an ice field, caused the fall with great rapidity. Fifteen minutes after the storm began, at 3:30 o'clock, the thermometer registered 72 degrees.

The rain fell in torrents and soon the streets became veritable rivers. The storm sewers could not carry off the water fast enough and small-sized lakes were formed under the railroad bridges. The downfall of water amounted to over 1.05 of an inch. All the gutters were filled to overflowing, and in some cases the water covered the entire width of the street. South avenue, just west of Netherwood hill, was flooded for several hundred feet. On the centre of the roadway the water was four inches deep.

With the rain came wind, and the rain was blown in sheets that veered and shifted in every direction with the blast. The wind was very high, reaching a velocity of 52 miles an hour part of the time.

The lightning was very sharp and seemed almost overhead, while the thunder pealed and crashed at very short intervals. Hail was reported up the road; it is not known that any fell in this vicinity. The wind that that came from the hail storm was very cold, and those who ventured out were glad to wrap up to keep warm.

At Orange a house, in course of construction for a Miss Burgh, was blown down and lightning struck Dominie Mali's home in South street, causing a slight fire.

At High Bridge, hail broke the windows of houses and piled up on the ground until it was two and a-half inches deep. The track of the hail storm was half a mile in width and eighteen miles long.

At Flemington, Three Bridges, Landsdowne, Stanton, Jutland, Clinton and Annandale hail also fell, and some of the hailstones were one and a-half inches in diameter.

At Trenton, lightning struck the flagpole on the foundry of Duncan Mackenzie's machine works and knocked off all but two feet of it at the base. The same pole had been struck on Thursday and three feet of its top splintered.

The new Church of Our Lady, Star of the Sea, at Atlantic City, which has just been erected on the site of St. Monica's church, destroyed by fire last winter, narrowly escaped the fate of its predecessor during the storm. An electric light switchboard was burned out by lightning and the current set fire to the sacristy. Father Allen happened to be in the room and extinguished the blaze with a bucket of water.

The county road between Westfield and Fanwood was submerged by water for nearly a quarter of a mile and bicyclists found it impossible to cross the flooded place upon their wheels.

In Westfield a number of streets were submerged by water. The tunnel at the Central Railroad station was flooded to the depth of about six inches, making it well-nigh impossible for passengers to get from one station to the other. On Broad street near the railroad crossing the macadam pavement was undermined by the water, and early this morning a portion of the street caved in under a heavy four-horse truck. The vehicle sank deeply and remained in the cave-in for nearly three hours before it was found possible to remove it.

The lightning burned out a number of the electric lights on South Second street and that part of the West End was left in darkness during the early part of the evening until the damage could be repaired.

A large tree on Rockview avenue, near the residence of T. B. Penton, was struck by lightning and torn and twisted.

A pole belonging to the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, near Lincoln, was splintered by lightning during the storm.

Lightning struck the roof of the Potter Press Works Friday afternoon. The lightning ran along half the length of the roof, loosening many of the joints, but doing comparatively little damage. Several of the men working in the shop felt the shock slightly. The fire was thrown out of one the forges in the machine shop.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company suffered but little from the storm, thanks to the adoption of an improved kind of fuse in the switchboard. The Hayes Head fuses were put in only a short time ago and proved very successful, not over six lines being burned out, instead of 150 as formerly. A number of the wires became crossed as a result of the high wind, but the trouble was soon remedied.

ON THE WILD SEA WAVES

EXCITING TIME OF THE EXCURSIONISTS IN A GALE.

The Storm Was of Such Severity That the Steamship Was Anchored—Three Young Ladies Were Nearly Blown Overboard.

Those who went on the Methodist church excursion Friday will always remember the trip, as aside from the pleasant features there will be a remembrance of things not quite so pleasant. The excursionists had reached Cornwalton-Grove on Long Island Sound, and had spent their allotted time there in an enjoyable manner. At the appointed hour all boarded the Steamer Tolchester for the return trip. They had not been gone from the Grove over ten minutes when the boat run into a terrible gale which lasted nearly fifteen minutes. The thunder roared and the lightning flashed vivid at frequent intervals.

During this time the water was exceedingly boisterous and rough, while the wind played havoc with everything in sight. Those in charge of the boat decided that it was best to cast the anchor until the storm was over, and this was done. All the time the rain fell in torrents and many on board were thoroughly soaked.

Most of the passengers went inside, but there were a few who desired to see the storm and were more venturesome and remained outside. It was during this gale that Miss Lulu Randolph, Miss Mary Woolston, Miss Mamie Steiner and several other passengers were completely taken off their feet and thrown a considerable distance against the cabin. Miss Woolston and Miss Randolph came very near going overboard and it was only the quick actions of D.W. Littell, Mr. Brouard and Rev. H. J. Johnston that they were saved from a terrible fate. However, none of the passengers were injured, although nearly all were frightened beyond description. The ones who suffered mostly from the gale were taken in the cabin and were well taken care of. In a little while they recovered from their fright and the excursionists all reached home safely.

Firemen's Carnival.

It is the intention of the volunteer fireman of Trenton to hold an interState carnival in Trenton sometime during September or October, and Mayor Welling G. Sickel, of Trenton, has communicated with Chief T. O. Doane, of this city, asking him what support he thought the Plainfield volunteer firemen would give to the carnival. Similar letters have been sent throughout the State, and if favorable responces are received the affair may be held. It is proposed to have a large parade, also a test of speed, and valuable prizes will be offered.

The Soldier's Friend.

Gen. W. H. Sterling, the soldier's friend, has taken an interest in the claim of Mrs. Anna M. Smith, widow of Garrett P. Smith, deceased, for a pension. Recently he received a letter from Senator Sewell which stated that the claim has been taken up and will undoubtedly be granted.

WESTFIELD IS AROUSED.

A BIG REWARD TO BE GIVEN FOR DETECTION OF BURGLARS.

Largely Attended Meeting of Citizens Held Friday and the Suppression of Raids Considered in an Earnest Spirit.

In response to a circular letter calling upon the citizens of Westfield to meet and take action for the protection of the homes from burglars, about two hundred citizens met last night in Westfield Club Hall.

The meeting was called to order at 9:30 o'clock, and S. W. Reese was appointed chairman, and C. K. Pennington secretary. Among those present were a number of citizens who had suffered from the visits of the burglars.

After the object of the meeting had been stated, those present were invited to give their views as to the best means of securing protection for the town. Among the citizens who spoke were E. S. Smith, H. C. Cook, C. D. Losee, Theodore McGarrah, William Kennedy, J. T. Burke, Dr. J. B. Harrison, E. L. Taylor, A. K. Jones, A. L. Alpers, R. Mills, O. Knight, C. B. Peddle, A. L. Russell and J. J. Schmitt.

A suggestion of several present that the citizens raise a fund by subscription and either employ a detective or offer a reward sufficiently large to attract detectives to the town, was discussed.

Before the meeting had progressed far a committee consisting of H. G. Cook and Frank S. Smith was appointed to wait upon the Township Committee, which was then in session at the town rooms a few blocks away to inquire what action if any the Town Fathers intended to take in the matter of protection. While this committee was absent the discussion continued at the Club Hall. Several citizens, including Theodore McGarrah, C. B. Peddle and C. D. Losee made strong arguments to the effect that the Town Committee should provide protection for the property of the township. "It is one of the functions of government to protect its citizens" exclaimed Mr. McGarrah, and the meeting applauded.

C. B. Peddle wanted to know why, if the Township Committee had the power to borrow without the consent of the citizens nearly $100,000 for the construction of a sewer system, and bond the township for the amount, it did not also have the power to raise a few hundred dollars for the protection of homes and property.

The committee returned and reported that the Township Committee desired the meeting to appoint three, with power, to confer with them as to the best means of securing protection.

The chair was instructed to appoint a committee of three, and C. B. Peddle, Theodore McGarrah and C. D. Losee were selected. The meeting then passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that it is the duty of the Westfield Township Committee to appropriate sufficient funds to protect the town from burglary and violence, and that it is the duty of the committee to borrow sufficient funds for the purpose."

The committee at once waited upon the Township Committee and reported the resolution.

After some discussion, which hinged mainly upon the question of the Town Committee's power at this time to raise funds for the purpose of police protection, Mr. Harden offered a resolution that if advised by counsel that it has the power, the committee offer a reward of $300 for the arrest and conviction of the burglars who are committing depredations in the town.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

Without waiting to hear the action of the Town Committee, the citizens' meeting adjourned subject to the call of the present chairman.

If the action of the township authorities is not considered adequate to the needs of the situation, a call for another meeting will be issued early next week, and money will be raised by private subscription to employ detectives and ferret out the burglars.

Activity in Real Estate.

Among recent real estate transactions in this city, is the purchase of the premises at 327 Carlton avenue, by William W. Whelan, of Weehawken, who will take possession next week. C. Powell Carr, of Roseville, has rented the house at 1,108 Putnam avenue, and will occupy it the early part of August. Henry Manger, of New York city, has leased Dr. Jenkins' house at 1,103 Watchung avenue, and will take possession the latter part of August; and the house of E. B. Clark, corner of West Front street and Waynewood place will be occupied September first by Edgar B. Smith. E. C. Mulford was the agent in each of the transactions.

New Form of City Invoice.

The form of invoice for bills against the city has been changed, and those having bills against the city can have the new form by applying at the office of the City Clerk. Bills will not be taken by the city except as made out on the new form of blank.

SHE PREFERRED JAIL.

UNUSUAL DETERMINATION OF A WOMAN PRISONER IN COURT.

Michael Watson's Wife Said That the Bastile Would Be Preferable to Returning to Her Husband's Domicile.

The outcome of the arrest and punishment of his wife was not exactly what Michael Watson, the hotelkeeper on Grant avenue, expected. Rather sensational were the developments, which promise to involve Watson in more trouble. In addition to his matrimonial troubles, Watson is likely to run athwart the city in another illegal liquor selling case in the city court. Charges have been made against him which, if proven, may go very hard with him.

Married life at Watson's has not been a success. Some time ago Annie Watson, wife of Michael Watson, was arraigned before the City Judge on the charge of disturbing the peace of the neighborhood. She escaped with a light sentence.

Friday, Watson made another complaint against his wife, charging her with being drunk and disorderly, throwing crockery at him, and generally disturbing the peace of the neighborhood. She was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza in his office, Friday morning.

She pleaded guilty to the charge, but went on to explain that her husband threw a soap stone at her first and she retaliated with two cups. She said that she was not allowed enough to eat or drink, and while the doctor had ordered her to have two or three quarts of milk a day for herself and baby, that her husband had said that one quart was enough. Her brother-in-law, she said, had charge of the food, and if he felt gracious would allow her to have some, otherwise, she said, she went hungry. Watson and his attorney, S. S. Swackhamer, denied all her charges.

When the Judge suggested a term in the county jail, she explained:

"I'd rather go to jail than live with him." And she glanced at her husband.

"I will impose a fine of $5, or twenty days in the county jail," said the Judge.

"I'll go to jail," promptly replied the angry wife. Then Watson and his counsel filed out of the room and the woman continued to relate her grievances. Then the told the Judge that her husband had been regularly selling whiskey to his customers although he had no license and she declared that she could prove it in court. She also declared that she was going to try to secure separation papers.

NOAH RABY SEES AGAIN.

Piscataway's 125-Year-Old Poorhouse Inmate Suddenly Recovers His Sight.

There is much excitement at the Piscataway Township Poorhouse. Old Noah Raby, who celebrated the 125th anniversary of his birth on April 1st, has had his sight partially restored. About ten years ago a cataract formed in his eye, and he has been sightless ever since. Last spring an operation was performed on the eye, and now the pupil has cleared sufficiently to permit the old man to see once more.

The delight of the old man is so great that he feels sure that he will live to be 150 at least. The physicians do not think Noah's sight will last very long, but they have not told him so, and he is profuse in his expressions of gradtitute to them.

Noah continues to have so many visitors that Overseer Hummer has decided to limit visiting days to Saturday afternoons. Raby still tells the story of his long life, and is very positive about his being born in Gates county, N. C., on April 1st, 1772. Those who have known him all their lives are sure he is considerably over 100 years of age.

MISS MILES MAY CONSENT.

If She Does the Trolley Will Go Up the Mountain.

The promoters back of the project for a trolley road up the side of the mountain to Mountain Park Inn, though temporarily eschered in their efforts to push the line to reality, have not given up hope. They are now earnestly and actively at work to gain the consent of Miss Annie R. Miles to have the road built along Jenning's lane next to her property. Miss Miles has been the only objector to the use of that route, which would be even shorter and more desirable than the line along Hudson's lane. It is understood that the promoters of the line are now in a fair way to secure the consent of Miss Miles, and if they are successful the road will be built so as to be in operation before the end of summer.

There Will Be American Day.

The report that there would be no American Day at Asbury Park this year is erroneous. The third Thursday in August will see a big parade and turnout of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics from all parts of the State at the shore. Officials of Franklin Council, this city, state they have received advices from Elizabeth and Newark that gurrantee large delegations from those towns, and Plainfield can be depended upon to contribute her quota to the crowd.

HOLDUP AT NOON HOUR.

DARING ACT OF TWO MEN AT GARWOOD FRIDAY.

Asked for a Ride With a Peddler and Then Assaulted Him With the Evident Intention of Committing a Robbery.

Two highwaymen attempted to hold up a Hebrew peddler on the county road between Westfield and Garwood Friday. The peddler was driving a wagon, and upon leaving Westfield was accosted by the two men who asked to be allowed to ride to Cranford. The men, who were young and well dressed, were allowed to climb into the wagon. When a short distance out of Westfield the two men fell upon the peddler and attempted to eject him from the wagon, with the probable intention of stealing the horse and conveyance.

The cries of the victim attracted the attention of employes at the Garwood Steel Tubings Factory and at the C. and C. Company, who went to his aid.

The United States Express Company's delivery wagon also came along and the drivers, John and Carl Zell, joined the rescuing party. When the highwaymen saw that help for their victim was at hand they jumped from the wagon and fled into the woods that border the road.

The peddler was severly bruised by the blows of his assailants, and it was some time before he could be induced to venture on to Garwood.

It is thought that the two highwaymen are members of the gang of burglars that are operating in Westfield. Their description tallies with that of two suspicious looking characters who have been seen loitering about the town, and whom the authorities have been watching closely.

IN A CHAMBER OF FIRE.

LAMP EXPLODED WITH DANGEROUS RESULTS IN WESTFIELD.

William J. Bogert's Family Aroused by the Servant Girl's Screams, in Whose Presence the Fire Fiend Was.

A fire which endangered the life of a woman and threatened serious damage to property, occurred at the home of William J. Bogert, on Central avenue, Westfield, Sunday night.

About 11 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Bogert were awakened by screams from the floor above. Mr. Bogert and E. H. Faulkner, a guest of the family, rushed upstairs to the cook's room from whence the screams came.

Upon opening the door they were confronted with a blinding cloud of smoke and flame. The bed and carpet were burning fiercely, and scattered about were the fragments of a glass lamp. The two men seized rugs and blankets and bravely fought the flames.

Their hands and faces were burned badly, and Mr. Bogert was cut by pieces of the broken lamp.

The bed clothing and carpet were entirely burned up and everything in the room was blackened by fire and smoke. It is probable that the lamp either exploded or was knocked from the table and broken in the girl's sleep. She was awakened by the flames about her bed, and escaped as by a miracle from being burned to death. The damage will be adjusted by the insurance companies.

A LAWN FESTIVAL.

Pleasant and Successful Outdoor Event for a Good Cause.

The threatening weather last Saturday afternoon did not in the least put a damper on the lawn festival held at the home of Mr. Ross, corner of Plainfield avenue and Eighth street, for the benefit of the Westfield Camp Fresh Air fund. Through the kindness of Mrs. Ross and her daughters, they loaned their grounds and house for the worthy object which was in every particular a success. The affair was arranged by Jeanie Douglass, J. Florence Maclay and May Batchelor, while those assisting were Lillian Maclay, Helen Hall, Jack Pickering, Archie Douglass, Jack Douglass, Willie Douglas and Edwin Daniel.

The rooms in the house were attractively arranged with tables on which were kept fancy articles, candy, cake, etc., while ice cream was an important article for sale. The young folks carried on the affair in a most thorough business-like manner. Several older persons assisted. Those in charge desire to thank Mr. Klinsman, the baker, for his gift.

Their Pictures Seen all Over.

Recently the New York Coupling Supply Company, of New York, through one of their agents gave an exhibition of a nozzel near the Plainfield Electric Light Station. Chief Doane and Driver Townley, together with Fireman L. M. Dunavan, assisted in the exhibition and views were taken by G. Thorn of the various tests. These views have just appeared in a convenient form and are being circulated all over the country. The pictures are excellent and especially good of the local firemen.

—There will be no services in the Congregational church during the month of August. The last Sunday services until September were held yesterday. The last mid-week service will be held on Wednesday afternoon.

GAME LOST IN THE BOX

CRESCENTS DEFEATED BY THE DOMESTICS OF NEWARK.

Only an Exhibition Contest, However, and McLarty Was Not Allowed to Pitch for Fear of Injuring His Arm.

There came very near being no baseball game in Plainfield on Saturday afternoon, but the rain stopped and the sun came forth in time to allow the cranks to see a game after all. The diamond had been converted into a marsh by the rain and nobody could play particularly well. The Crescents were defeated by their opponents, the Domesties, of Newark, by a score of 10 to 8 after a five inning game.

The Crescents were defeated and fairly so by good batting. Rather than take the chances of injuring McLarty by having him pitch in a slippery box so that he could not play next Saturday against the strong Williamsburg Field Club team, Manager Mumford put Hollister in the box and Mac at short in Hollister's place. Hollister does not pretend to be a pitcher any more, but after the first excitement were off he settled down to business and with the assistance of a good infield, held the visitors down. While waiting for Hollister to settle down, the visitors took the liberty to score ten runs in two innings, seven of which were earned. Then the Crescents fell in with the Domesties pitcher and proceeded to hammer him about while the visiting third baseman and shortstop very conveniently dropped grounders and allowed them to glide by. The Crescents made a hard struggle for it, but five innings was too short to overcome the big lead and the Domesties won by two runs.

Considering the muddy diamond, which even sawdust could but slightly improve, the Plainfield boys put up a good game. MacLarty made quite a hit at short and stopped some pretty hot liners, and altogether, played the position with great credit. He would be said of the game that McBeth played at left field. The grass was wet and he found it hard to stand up, but he scattered around after the balls in lively fashion. Twice he ran toward the diamond and just managed to get under the ball when he slipped and fell headlong. The attempts were good ones and deserve credit.

McLarty did the star batting for the home team, making a hit every time he went to the bat. Cooney continued his excellent running and managerial work quite successfully, a difficult thing to do with Small behind the bat.

There was a total absence of kicking throughout the game that made it very enjoyable. The visitors were a very gentlemanly set and behaved themselves in a stately manner. They coached well while the Crescents made a big improvement in that direction. MacLarty woke up at third and did some wonderful talking which livened up the audience as well as the players.

The detailed score was as follows:

CRESCENTS.

	A.	R.	B.	S.	P.	O.	A.	E.
Erickson, rf	4	1	1	0	1	0	0
Mumford, 2b	4	1	1	0	0	1	2
Vroom, c	3	2	1	2	1	1	1
McLarty, ss	4	2	2	1	0	0	3
Corbin, lb	4	0	0	1	0	7	0
Cooney, 3b	3	0	0	0	0	0	2
Mellor, cf	3	0	1	0	1	0	0
Hollister, p	3	0	0	0	0	0	2
Mumford, cf	3	0	0	0	0	0	0
Cooney, rf	3	0	0	0	0	0	0
	34	8	6	4	3	9	10

DOMESTICS.

	A.	R.	B.	S.	P.	O.	A.	E.
Hector, 2b	4	0	1	1	1	0	3
Ikenberg, lf	4	1	1	1	1	0	0
Steele, 2b	3	0	0	0	1	1	0
Yeagle, lb	3	1	0	1	1	9	0
Small, c	4	2	2	1	1	6	1
Bell, ss	4	2	2	2	1	1	3
Hughes, cf	3	2	2	2	1	1	0
Steele, rf	3	1	1	1	1	0	0
Hunkele, p	3	1	1	1	1	0	3
	31	10	11	10	9	18	10

BY INNINGS.

Domestics	0	2	1	4	0	0	3	0	0	10
Crescents	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	8	8

Earned runs, Crescents, 1; Domestics, 7. Two-base hits, Crescents, 1. Three-base hits, Ikenberg. Sacrifice hits, Hector, Small, Steele, Bases on balls, Hollister, 1; Small, 3; Hunkele, 4. Passed balls, Small, 3; Stolen bases, Hollister, Ledger, McBeth, Cooney, (2.) Double plays, Hollister, Ledger and Corbin. Left on base, Crescents, 6; Domestics, 5. Time of game, One hour and forty minutes. Umpire, Warren MacLaughlin, of Elizabeth.

The game that was played Saturday was merely an exhibition game. The game, so far as the Crescents were concerned, was postponed until September, when the Domestics will come to the city again. After the game was postponed the players agreed to play the game among themselves for their own benefit rather than go home.

West End Social Club's Outing.

The West End Social Club will take a trip by stage to Florida Grove next Sunday, and a feature of the day's amusements will be a baseball game between the Social Club's team and a nine from Prideville. The game will be called at 10 a. m.

Will Not go to the Combine.

TenEyck & Harris, the South Plainfield coal dealers, say that they are not only not members of the Coal Dealers Exchange, but that they have no intention of becoming such.

—The members of the First Baptist church and the Park Avenue Baptist church have been given an invitation to participate in the 150th anniversary exercises to be held in the Scotch Plains Baptist church Thursday, August 5th. Exercises will be held morning, afternoon and evening.

MILK THIEVES ABROAD.

BOTTLES OF LACTEAL FLUID MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED.

One Morning, However, a Small Boy Was Seen to Approach a Rear Piazza and Run Away With the Bottle of Milk.

Several of the milk dealers who supply a large trade in Washington Park and other parts of the borough as well are accustomed to bring the milk in bottles which are left at the rear of the house, on the steps of verandas. The bottles are afterwards returned and an allowance made for them. It was nearly two months ago when the milkdealers began to have complaints made by their customers that the milk was not received. A few cases might be accounted for but the marked increase in the number of disappearing bottles showed that there was something out of the regular order of events.

Early one morning, a resident of Grove street happened to be looking out of a rear window and noticed a small boy in a neighbor's yard. The lad stole silently around to the back of the house and cautiously gazed about the place. He could see no one. Then he carefully crept up on the back steps and seized the bottle of milk and fled. The boy was too far off to be recognized but the cause of the disappearance of the many milk bottles was no longer a mystery.

It is evident that there are several youngsters who are getting in the habit of making a circuit of the place and carrying away the milk bottles. They not only get the milk but may return the bottles which are worth six cents.

AN EMINENT SPECIALIST.

Dr. Marcley Has Established an Office in This City.

Dr. Marcley, an eminent specialist on the treatment of ruptures, has opened an office at 325 West Second street, this city. His advertisement appears in another column of The Press.

There are very few surgeons in this country, not over half a dozen, who make the treatment of rupture a specialty. This is remarkable on account of the large number of cases and the expert attention such a serious condition would seem to demand, both as to health and comfort. Dr. Marcley ranks as one of the best, if not the very best. The following from the Buffalo Times speaks volumes for the esteem in which the Doctor is held in that city where, and in New York city, he has practiced for the past 23 years. The Times speaking of the establishment of the hospital for the ruptured, etc., says: "The staff includes such a successful specialist as Dr. J. I. Marcley, who is at the head of the institution. Dr. Marcley is well and favorably known and has had just this experience and success which places him at the topmost round of his profession. He has received honors and high tributes from the public and his associates. He has practiced in Buffalo for 20 years; is a a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York; a member of the Erie County Society; Buffalo Medical and Surgical Association; of the Microscopical Club; of the Society of Natural Sciences, etc.; has held the office of district physician, special health physician, and United States Health Officer and Sanitary Inspector. Dr. Marcley has the highest testimonials from professional and lay people in Buffalo as to the remarkable results he has obtained." C.

DOWNFALL OF THE ROOKERY.

The Rain Undermined the Wall and It Took a Tumble.

The downfall of the condemned city jail began last Friday. For the information of those who have never had occasion to visit that establishment, it may be stated that the first floor of the jail, on which are the cells and the courtroom, is two feet below the level of the ground. The entrance is made through a door which opens into a sunken areaway. The areaway is covered on the top and sides and is reached by a flight of dilapidated stone steps.

Saturday morning, the startling news went forth that the rookery had caved in. Examination proved that the damage was slight, but that the downfall of that building, which was condemned some time ago by the Board of Health, has begun. The sides of the areaway are made of boards. Yesterday's storm was a severe one and the weight of the wet earth was so great as to cause the boards in the rear of the areaway to give way and allow the earth to come tumbling into the hollow, right in front of the door to the jail.

Morgan Bird, the owner of the building, will repair the break and the jail will probably last another week, at least.

An Unexpected Pr'y.

Fred G. Smith, the grocer, who resides at No. 4 Mercer avenue, in the borough, was seen scampering around the cellar of his house a few nights ago brandishing a broom. He tells his friends he thought he saw a big rat and made for it with the broom. He succeeded in killing it, but it proved to be a half grown opposum.

GEO. THATCHER'S PARTY.

MINSTREL MAN GAVE A TROLLEY RIDE LAST WEEK.

The Host Was Unable to Be Present Himself, But Fifty of His Friends Were Out in Force and a Royal Time Was Enjoyed.

The business of George Thatcher—he of minstrel fame—is to make people laugh, but last Thursday the merry comedian fulfilled a two-fold function in that he occupied the boards of Kieth's vaudville theatre with his old time friend, Ed Marble, and entertained the urban citizens for half an hour, while at the same moment his suburban friends were having "a hot time in the old town" at his expense. To be concise, George Thatcher gave a trolley party Thursday. The only thing lacking in the affair was the presence of the host himself, but as George believes in business before pleasure he tore himself away from his friends and became, for the nonce, the stellar attraction at Kieth's.

Convivality and all-around good-fellowship is one of the marked characteristics of the comedian and long ago Plainfielders were made aware of his handsome hospitality while "off the road." The trolley is the thing nowadays and so Mr. Thatcher proceeded to utilize its advantages for one night to give his neighbors and cronies a good time.

A few days ago his friends received a neat little badge in the shape of a blue ribbon which served also as an invitation, with the appropriate wording that "You are invited to George Thatcher's trolley party." A miniature photograph of the minstrel man accompanied the badge.

Thursday, a trolley car gayly decorated with flags and Chinese lanterns arrived at North avenue at 7 o'clock where a crowd of the guests were waiting for the commencement of the trip. Soon after, the car, occupied by about fifty of the guests, started out. A trip was made over all the branches of the street railroad, meanwhile the guests entering into the spirit of the occasion and enjoying sociability as well as vocal and instrumental music by a party of colored gents whose race the genial George was at that moment impersonating with unctious humor. That made a strange anomaly—George essaying the negro for the delectation of his white brethern of New York and the real article of Southern nativity was doing the same thing for George's bosom friends in Plainfield.

After viewing the sights of Plainfield by trolley and under electric light, the party made a stop in front of Charles Smith's dispensary and hurried inside, where their thirsts were quenched with various decoctions. Then the trip was resumed to the Dunellen terminus of the road, where three stages awaited their coming. Transferring the vehicles the party was driven to Nelson's hotel at New Market, where refreshments of liquid and material quality were served with lavish hand. After spending a couple of hours in an enjoyable manner at the hotel the return trip was made and the guests arrived home at 1 o'clock this morning.

In the absence of Mr. Thatcher, Charles Smith, Wm. Emery and Lewis McIntosh officiated as masters of ceremonies. There were a few guests from out of town.

NO AMERICAN DAY.

Con cils at Loggerheads Over the Observance of the Occasion.

The Junior Order of United American Mechanics in this State has for the last four years observed August 19 as American Day and has celebrated it at Asbury Park. These gatherings have served the double purpose of exhibiting the strength of the order in New Jersey and affording amusement to the members. Last year over 20,000 members attended. The affair was only successful, however, in that it afforded recreation. The State officers and councils in former years get the members to parade and exhibit the strength of the organization.

It was the custom for each retiring State Councilor to suggest on retiring from office that American Day be kept. Owing to the omission of the parade, the last State Councilor failed to make the recommendation that all the Councils observe American Day this year. The result is that some councils will observe the day by holding the regular annual excursion to Asbury Park, while others are ignoring it entirely and are planning excursions on other days.

Bergen to Push His Trolley Scheme.

Frank Bergen, who proposes that the county of Union should build the trolley lines on its county roads, will in September next call a public meeting to consider the feasibility of his proposition. The meeting will be of the same nature of the public meeting which was held to discuss the project of building county roads. Citizens of all parts of the county will be welcomed, and expressions of opinion will be free for all. Mr. Bergen will present his plan, and will have specifications showing how the work can be done, and the costs, together with the advantages.

BREAK IN COAL COMBINE

C. H. RUGG BIDS BELOW THE REGULAR SCALE OF PRICES.

Awarded the Contract for Supplying 500 Tons to the Public Schools—His Action a Surprise to Local Dealers.

It was a genuine surprise party that was prepared for the coal dealers of Plainfield last Thursday. There has always been a unanimity of opinion and prices among the local dealers who have formed the Plainfield Coal Dealers' Exchange, and have always bid the same for any contract that has been offered in the city. Last Thursday bids were opened at a special meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education for the coal supply for the public schools, and one of the prominent members of the Exchange, C. H. Rugg, bid considerably below the schedule of prices arranged by the Exchange and was awarded the contract.

Never since the formation of the Plainfield association has there been any differing from the schedule adopted by the association. All the local dealers have advanced the same price for their commodity, and there has been no discord between them. Last year TenEyck & Harris, the agents for the Lehigh Valley Coal Company in South Plainfield, came over and underbid the local dealers and carried away the coveted plum, the contract for the school coal supply. There was considerable talk at the time about giving the contract to outside parties, but it did no good.

This year, the South Plainfield dealers came in the combination and agreed to the schedule of the local association. There was no thought of any of the local dealers deserting the schedule and the information came like a thunderclap to the rest.

It was a special meeting of the Board called for the purpose of awarding the contract for the winter supply of coal for the schools. All the members of the Board were present. There were also present representatives of most of the bidding firms. Mr. Rugg was not present. The first business was the opening of the bids.

The contract called for 500 tons, more or less, to be delivered at the different schools, cleaned and screened. Bids were received and opened from Michael Powers & Son, E. H. Holmes, Bolce, Runyon & Co., W. D. Manning, Hensume and Saxton, all of Plainfield, and Ten Eyck & Harris of South Plainfield. The price of egg, stove, broken or nut coal was $5.20, and pea coal $4. These were the schedule prices and such were all the bids except that of Rugg. He bid $5 a ton for egg, stove, broken or nut coal, and $3 50 for pea coal. When Rugg's bid was read there was a general movement among the dealers.

After the reading of the bids, Mr. Holmes, secretary of the Exchange, made a few remarks. He said that he was greatly surprised at the action of Mr. Rugg, which, he declared, was very strange. Mr. Harris spoke for the South Plainfield dealers and read a letter he had received from Mr. Barrett, general sales' agent for the Lehigh Valley Company in New York, in which he was instructed to conform with the schedule of the local dealers. He explained that he had done so.

Then the Board went into executive session and considered the bids while there was a steady hum among the representatives of the bidding firms who were completely taken back by Mr. Rugg's action. The break in the schedule was a great surprise to the members of the Board who had not been posted for it in the least. The difference in the bids was worth considering, however, and the Board at last decided to award the contract to Mr. Rugg. That ended the meeting as far as the coal dealers were concerned and they departed accordingly.

A report was made by the building committee concerning the macadamizing of the school yard at the Lincoln school. The committee had secured a bid of $390 for the work from Smalley Brothers but the Board at the last meeting had directed the company to secure more bids. The committee reported that J. H. Wilson & Co. would do the work for $440, and John G. Cook, of Scotch Plains would do it for $350. The contract has been awarded to Smalley Brothers.

The Board again went into executive session and accepted the resignation of Miss Mary E. Lavers, drawing teacher at the schools. Miss Lavers was anxious to secure a position near her home and had been offered one at Woonsocket, Rhode Island. Her successor will be appointed at a future meeting.

Mr. Harris was very angry at the Plainfield dealers at first, claiming that he had been the victim of a put-up job, the local dealers fixing a price, and then agreeing to have one of their number underbid it and out him out altogether.

Mr. Rugg told a reporter Friday morning that he had not understood that there was any agreement, and so had gone into the contest to do the best he could. He said that he had expected that he would be underbid by Ten Eyck & Harris and that the local dealers would bid at least as low as he did.

NEW WATER COMPANY

TO SUPPLY A SECTION HERETOFORE WITHOUT GOOD SUPPLY.

It Is Expected That the Effect Will Be the Inducement of Manufacturing Concerns to Use the New Water Supply.

A new water company has just been formed by consolidation of the Midland Water Company and Middlesex Water Company. The original companies were organized about a year ago. The Midland Water Company pany acquired extensive water rights at South Plainfield, in Middlesex county, capable of supplying at least 10,000,000 gallons of pure water daily. The water is obtained from wells driven through sand rock to the depth of 200 feet. Water flows from the wells without pumping.

The Middlesex Water Company was organized to supply the village of Woodbridge, and factories and railroads along the sound in the vicinity of Cartaret.

The consolidated company assumed the name of Middlesex Water Company—the name of one of the constituent companies. The new company is now engaged in laying a main from South Plainfield to Staten Island Sound through Cartaret, by way of Metuchen and Woodbridge. The length of the principal main will be fourteen and three-fourths miles. Lateral systems are being constructed in Metuchen and Woodbridge. At least twenty-four miles of mains will be laid by the 1st of October. More than eight miles have already been laid, and the work is progressing at the rate of about two miles a week.

A large tank reservoir, 50 feet in diameter and 30 feet high, will be constructed on Bloomfield's hill, a mile and a half east of Metuchen, and three miles from Perth Amboy and Woodbridge. The hill is 212 feet above sea level. All the distributing mains of the company will radiate from that point. The company expects to begin supplying water in Metuchen about the 1st of September, and in Woodbridge and Carteret by the 1st of October.

The directors of the company are Senator Foster M. Voorhees, William H. Corbin, Edward M. Wood, Edward C. Woodruff, Meline W. Halsey and Frank Bergen of Elizabeth, and Harry G. Runkle of Plainfield. Mr. Bergen is president of the company, and Mr. Halsey secretary and treasurer. The capital stock of the new company is $200,000. All the capital stock has been subscribed, and among the stockholders are some of the most prominent business men of the state.

The territory between Elizabethport and Perth Amboy, fronting on Staten Island Sound, is an admirable locality for factory sites. Many large factories have already been constructed there, as well as the terminal of several important railroads. The principal impediment to the prosperity of that region has been the lack of water fit for manufacturing purposes and boilers. This want the company proposes to supply.

WORK FOR 1,000 TO 2,000 MEN.

Plant of a German Explosive Company to Be Moved to Spotswood.

At Spotswood, nine miles from New Brunswick, work has been commenced on the buildings which are to form the plant of the Rhenish-Westphalian Explosive Company of Germany. Men are now at work on the foundations for the dwelling houses of employes. The factory buildings will be started later. The Rhenish-Westphalian Company's plant is at Cologne, Germany. When the company's agents came to this country to select a site the Pennsylvania Railroad induced the company to establish its plant at Spotswood, on the line of the old Camden and Amboy Railroad, a branch of the Pennsylvania system. Frank H. Pownall, of Lambertville, secured the building contract. All the men employed by him are residents of the villages around Spotswood. The factories will, it is said, give employment to from 1,000 to 2,000 men.

A Ball Bearing Wheel.

The Turner Manufacturing Company, of No. 245 Broadway, New York, gratuitously placed a new ball-bearing fifth wheel on Zephyr Hook and Ladder truck a few days ago. This idea is a new one and Chief Doane is much pleased with the way it works. With the old method a great deal of grease was required to keep the turning point in good order and then it never could be depended upon. The new method works much easier and so far proves that it can be depended upon.

Against Sunday Amusement.

Bayonne's Woman's Christian Temperance Union is undertaking a crusade directed against places of amusement on the Hudson County Boulevard and shore resorts. Objections are raised to the disturbing of rest on Sundays by baseball games and various other attractions provided by these resorts to draw crowds there. The two branches of the union have forwarded petitions to the various churches for signatures, and will present them to the mayor and council.

ALL EIGHT MAY RETURN.

LONG SERVICE IS AN ADVANTAGE IN THE HOUSE OF CONGRESS.

Jerseymen Have Not Been Much Inclined to Return Congressman for More Than a Term But Now a Different Feeling Exists.

There is a possibility that all eight of the Republican Congressman in New Jersey will be returned, says the Philadelphia Press. In some districts, this may be against the custom, but the Republicans are not such sticklers for political custom as they have been in the past. The general constituency are beginning to discover that a good Congressman gains rather than loses by a long term as Congressman.

As the custom has been, a Jersey Congressman seldom ever acquired any prestige in the House of Representative, because he was hardly educated to the duties before his term was over, and he went back to civil life. Other States have continued their Congressman as long as they were worthy, and as a result they acquired prominence and became of great value to themselves.

When Congressman Loudenslager, of the First District, came up for the third term, there was a general howl throughout his district about custom and precedent. He secured the nomination and has proven what his friends claimed for him, that the longer a good man stays in Congress the more valuable he becomes to his constituents. Congressman Loudenslager has received more recognition than any recent Jerseyman in Congress, and the other Congressmen see what continuous service has done for him. There is no doubt of his getting the fourth term. The same honor will go to Congressman Gardner, who has been of great value to the pottery manufacturers of his district in securing for them a proper schedule in the tariff bill. In the Third the general disposition is to give Congressman Howell a third term. There is, however, a candidate in the field against him, and that is Senator Reed, of Somerset, but it is understood Reed will withdraw when he finds how general is the demand for Howell's reelection.

In the Fourth Congressman Pitney will surely be returned unless he becomes the Republican candidate or governor. In the Sixth there is some doubt about Congressman James Stewart getting the third term. It is said that Vice-President Hobart and Governor Griggs favor the nomination of Col. William S. Barbour. He is a wealthy silk manufacturer, who is growing fond of public life. Congressman Stewart is not in any mood to give up the office without a struggle, and a very warm fight can be had in this district.

Congressmen Parker, McEwan and Fowler are all in the line for a renomination. The Jersey delegation was unusually strong and there could be no mistake made in returning the whole eight members. This is likely to happen

CHURCH FACTS.

Journal Issued of the Recent Episcopal Convention in This City.

The journal of the proceedings of the 125th convention, the 112th year of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of New Jersey, has been issued. The convention was held in this city May 4 and 5. Right Rev. John Scarborough, D. D., is the bishop of the diocese, having held his position since 1875.

New Jersey is divided into two dioceses, Right Rev. Thos. A. Starkey bishop of the Diocese of Newark. The Diocese of New Jersey reports 121 parties and missions; clergymen canonically resident of the diocese, 124; churches, missions and chapels, 139; candidates for holy orders, 15; lay readers, 73; confirmations during the year, 1010; Sunday-school scholars, 11,041; communicants added, 1351; present number of communicants in the diocese, 14,912.

Among the parochial expenditures are the following: Diocesan missions, $8479.85; Episcopal, $3344.52; general missions, $2408.25; domestic missions, $3737.44, foreign missions, $2402.74; missions to colored people, $1101.34; total parochial expenditures, $254,572.46; total diocesan, $11,645 02; total general, $13,611.82; total for all objects, $279,829.24.

Nominated For Grand Warden.

The Grand Secretary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of New Jersey, Lewis Parker, officially announces the nomination of William A. Stryker, Past Grand of Mansfield Lodge, No. 42, of Washington, and formerly District-Attorney of Warren county, as Grand Warden, by twenty-three lodges of the State. The election will take place in October next.

The Largest Catch.

The Asbury Park Daily Spray says that U. B. Crane and his son, Robert, of this city, have the record of the largest catch of sea bass for the season. They captured thirty of the bass, weighing over fifty pounds.

Not Members of the Exchange.

Ten Eyk & Harris, the South Plainfield coal dealers, state that they are not members of the Coal Dealers Exchange.

AT MRS. HUBBARD'S BIER.

LARGE ASSEMBLAGE OF FRIENDS PAY A LAST TRIBUTE.

Remarks Made by Several Ministers Who Spoke of Her Excellent Character and Christian Life—Many Floral Offerings.

The funeral services of Charlotte Elizabeth, wife of Joseph A. Hubbard, was held at her late home, 103 West Fifth street, at last week Thursday afternoon. A large number of relatives and friends were present to pay a last tribute of respect to the departed. The services were begun by a hymn "The Homeland," by a quartette consisting of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Titsworth, Miss Nancy Randolph and Elmer Runyon.

Rev. A. E. Main next read selections from the Scriptures. President T. L. Gardner, of Salem College, a nephew of Mrs. Hubbard, next gave a reading of favorite passages in the Gospel of St. John, which the deceased had marked in her Bible. The passages indicated the strength of her faith and her aspirations for a Heavenly life. An eloquent prayer by Rev. Dr. R. E. Livermore, followed. A brief funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, from the text, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints," Psalms 116: 15. The speaker dwelt upon the definition of the term "Precious," especially as applied to the welcoming of earth's weary ones into the Heavenly rest, and God's evident delight in receiving them after earth's services.

Dr. Lewis then spoke feelingly of the exceptionally patient and charitable Christian life of the deceased, and of her excellent influence in her own home, church and community. The speaker then mentioned the beauty of the heavenly life and the removal of the sting of death from all those fully prepared for the change. His gave great comfort and encouragement, by his remarks, to the bereaved family and friends.

At the close of the sermon the choir sang the hymn "Asleep in Jesus," and the services were brought to a close.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful, consisting mostly of bunches of pink and white roses and carnations. A wreath of white roses encircled the casket. There were also a number of bunches of lilies of the valley.

The pallbearers were J. A. Hubbard, the husband of the deceased, William C. Hubbard and Frank J. Hubbard, her two sons, Charles Robertson, of Friendship, N. Y., a brother, and S. N. VanSyckle and W. H. Rogers, nephews.

The interment was made at Hillside cemetery, in the family plot.

"IT'S A NICKEL OR WALK"

Trolley Magnates Who Attempt to Use Boxes Are Sued.

C. W. Boynton, president of the Union and Middlesex Traction Company, was served with papers yesterday in damage suits for $5,000 each by Walter Shires and Edward Marshall, of Rahway. Both men were passengers on a trolley car operated by the company and were put off by the conductor and compelled to walk from Woodbridge to Rahway.

The company has a peculiar method of collecting fares instead of allowing the conductor to handle the money. They are furnished with glass jars with a top similar to a nickel-in-the-slot machine. The passengers must each drop a nickel, which registers each fare. The collecting machine is about four by ten inches and looks like a square fruit jar.

Marshall and Shires boarded a car at Boynton Beach and started for Rahway. The conductor came around and pushed the money jug in their faces. Shires started to drop in five pennies, but was stopped by the conductor, who said the orders were "a nickel or walk," as pennies would not register. Shires refused to tender anything but the pennies and was put off the car.

When the conductor came to Marshall he offered a 10-cent piece and demanded five cents in change. This was also refused and Marshall, too, was put off the car.

Both men walked to their homes in Rahway. Heroes their suits.

SOMERSET COUNTY FAIR.

Those Who Will Supervise the Various Exhibits.

The prices of admission for the Somerset county fair have been agreed upon as follows: Single tickets will be 25 cents; children under 12, 15 cents; carriages, 25 cents; grand stand, 25 cents. Theodore Wass was appointed Chief of Police for the occasion.

Department superintendents were appointed as follows: Cattle, Bernhard Meyer; sheep and swine, Peter Tiger; poultry, pigeons and pets, Wm. J. Logan; merchants and traders, display, E. Stevens; art and ladies' fancy work, Geo. W. Cooper and S. Keaney; home and dairy products, James Q. Ten Eyck; agricultural and horticultural products, Geo. H. Miller; farm machinery and implements, John Enk; carriages and vehicles, James U. Case.

—On Friday evening of this week a preparatory service will be held at the First Baptist church.

DAMAGE TO CITY STREETS

ESTIMATED THAT IT WILL TAKE $500 TO MAKE REPAIRS.

Principal Havoc was With the Culverts, Drains and Gutters—Top Dressing Also Washed Off the Macadamized Roads.

Not only have private citizens suffered considerable damage from the heavy rains of late, but the city of Plainfield has felt the effects also. The streets, particularly in the West End, have suffered greatly from the torrents of water that have poured down on them and the damage to the city has amounted to several hundred dollars.

A meeting of the street committee of the Common Council was held last Monday when the members conferred with the street commissioner to ascertain the amount of damage that has been done to the streets by the heavy rains of the last week. There is a certain amount of wear and tear that eventually wears off the top dressing on the macadamized streets and finally necessitates repairs. The torrents of rain have assisted in carrying away the fine dust and crushed stone from the centre of the roadway. The amount of this damage cannot be estimated. It merely shortens the life of the road.

The other damage was to culverts, gutters, and street cess pools, which has been washed out by the flood. The storm sewer that drains the hollow under the Clinton avenue railroad bridge was blocked up and the water flooded the road under the bridge for the depth of several feet. Most of the damage was on Clinton avenue, Albert and West Front streets. The committee estimated that it will cost $500 to repair the damage. The money thus expended will make but little showing, but all the repairs are necessary.

An inestimable amount of damage has been done by the heavy rain that has fallen at intervals every day for the past eight days in Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties. The rain has laid fields of corn flat to the ground, totally ruining the crops that two weeks ago gave promise of an exceedingly large yield.

Farmers with grain stacked in the fields will lose it all. Wheat and rye have been destroyed and potatoes are rotting in the ground. A conservative estimate of the damage is $150,000.

PASSING COMMENT.

Charles Lewis, of the Crescent Avenue church choir, who will leave the city this week to enjoy his annual vacation, has been telling his friends a good story which is reported to be true. It seems that a good deacon met a little boy one Sunday recently and said, "I did not see your father at church this morning?" "O, no," the boy said, "he went into the woods." Whereupon the deacon replied "O, that is bad, my son, I do not think that he fears God?" "O, yes he does," replied the boy, "for he took his gun with him."

* * *

The slight that is such a frequent one to passengers at the North avenue station of the "coal commuters" who sail by on the passing coal and freight trains, is one that can be seen on the American side alone. In Europe, governments make special regulation for the control of the big tramping contingent. The "kights of the road" are not allowed to wander about European countries as in America. There may be a time when the Congress will take action in the matter but until then the tramps will wander about the country.

* * *

One of the reddeming features of the new revenue law is that provision relating to cigarettes, chewing and smoking tobacco. It provides that nothing shall be given away with packages, no more picture cards, buttons, vouchers for pipes or presents or anything else in the way of bait. Tobacco must sell upon its merits now. The new law says that there shall be nothing attached to packages other than the manufacturer's labels and the internal revenue stamp, and further that there shall not be affixed to, or attended, placed, marked, written or printed upon said packages any promise or offer of, or any order or any certificate for any gift, prize premium, payment or reward.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. We, the undersigned, have known F. J Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm. WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O. WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale druggists, Toledo, O. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

—Extra telephone wires are being stretched in the borough, owing to the increase in business.

DEATH OF S. A. SMITH.

ONCE A VERY PROMINENT AND INFLUENTIAL PLAINFIELD CITIZEN.

Was a Republican Leader in This Section and President of the Common Council at the Time of Agitation of Track Elevation

S. Alpheus Smith, once a prominent and influential resident of this city, and remembered by all the older citizens, died at his home, 327 Clinton street, Brooklyn, Sunday, at the age of 82 yers.

Mr. Smith removed from Plainfield about twenty years ago, but during his residence here he was one of the most active men in public life. He was the Republican leader for a number of years and was the principal mentor in all party conferences and convention. He was president of the Common Council in 1870 and 1871 when the town was stirred to its depths by the agitation of track elevation, and which at the time met with strong opposition on the part of many influential citizens. Mr. Smith was steadfast in his support of the improvement and the soundness of his position was long ago demonstrated and recognized by even the opponents of the project. Among the members of the Common Council at the time of his service were James E. Martine and Nathan Harper. Nelson Runyon was city clerk at the time. Mr. Martine and Mr. Runyon speak highly of the great executive ability evidenced by Mr. Smith at that time.

Mr. Smith was not only prominent locally, but he was also a power in the State organization of the Republican party and for a number of years was secretary of the State Committee. He was often prominently spoken of for nomination to important offices, but he never accepted the honors.

He was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and for one term was honored by election to the Grand Master's chair, the highest office in New Jersey.

Before he left Plainfield he was employed in the Custom House in New York and up to the time of his death he still occupied an important position there.

His latter years were in strange contrast, however, to those active ones spent in Plainfield, because since he has lived in Brooklyn he has rather shunned participation in public affairs and sought the quietude and pleasures to be found in a happy home.

Mr. Smith leaves five children, as follows: S. Alpheus Smith, Jr., of Brooklyn, Frank V., and Charles J., of Rhode Island, Mrs. Emma Rogers and Mrs. Philip Comstock, of Brooklyn.

LOCKJAW FROM A COW'S KICK.

Apparently Insignificant Wound Resulted in the Death of Jeremiah Hurley.

Jeremiah Hurley, of Millburn, on July 13th was milking his cow, when it kicked him on the hand, breaking the skin. He continued to work, and the wound appeared to be healing until July 20th, when Mr. Hurley felt a stiffness of the throat and jaws, and it was difficult for him to swallow solid food.

His jaws were set still firmer the next day, and thereafter he partook of no food. He called on Dr. D. E. English on that day, and the physician told him to go home and go to bed. Mr. Hurley did not go to bed that day, but remained in bed on Thursday until evening, when he went down stairs.

He was unable to arise on Friday and sank gradually until he died, on Monday night.

Mrs. Hurley is loath to believe that lockjaw caused the death of her husband. She says that when he was ill on former occasions his jaws stiffened. Dr. English gives the cause of death as lockjaw and exhaustion.

MINING BOOM IN HUNTERDON.

Iron Mines to be Opened at West Portal at Once.

West Portal, Hunterdon county, has a big mining boom. New York capitalists have obtained large tracts of land and will begin mining iron at once. Tuesday 200 Italians were landed. Two car loads of tools have also arrived. About 400 more workmen will arrive in a day or two. The iron, which is said to be in large quantities, and of excellent quality, was discovered on Swayze's mountain, near West Portal. The gang of workmen, who are under the supervision of D. W. Losse, will commence at once to clear away the underbrush and trees on the mountain, and then the work of mining the ore will commence in earnest. It is reported the mines will be run similar to those of Wizard Edison's up in Morris county. An oven with a baking capacity of 100 loaves of bread daily has been constructed. It is expected the company will erect extensive buildings for the the manufacture of various articles.

The election of H. G. Runkle, of West Eighth street, to the office of President of the Golf Club recently formed at the Hotel Champlain, is recorded in the gossip of the golfers. The course is described as a royal one, overlooking the waters of the lake.

Blood Vitality.

Dr. Campbell Succeeds in Restoring Iron to the Blood and its Natural Form thus Increasing the Supply of Oxygen and Curing Disease. A Marvelous Process.

Modern science teaches us that the blood is the vehicle by which the nutriment of food is taken from the stomach and carried throughout the entire system.

While it is being carried by the blood, it becomes oxidized and is thus converted into a form that can be taken up by the tissues.

If this nutriment was not oxidized it would filter through the kidneys as really occurs in Bright's disease, and no benefit would be derived from it. Oxygen is absolutely essential to this process. Its existence in turn is dependent upon the iron or Hemoglobin in the blood without which anæmia would result and no benefit whatever would be derived from the food.

Physicians long ago recognized that to discover a method of renewing this Hæmoglobin would be to discover the true method of curing disease.

Little advance was made until Dr. Campbell, an eminent English physician, learned that the component parts of the blood of the bullock were identical with human blood and sought to extract from it the natural iron or Hæmoglobin.

Success crowned his efforts, and for the first time man has it in his power to renew at will the vital element in his own blood.

Dr. Campbell enclosed the fruit of his labor in small, pointed globes of pure gelatine called Capsuloids, with which the most remarkable results have been obtained in the hospitals of London and elsewhere in curing all diseases of the blood; rheumatism, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous prostration and St. Vitus' dance.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Bowling Building, 103 Fulton Street, New York City.

FOR SALE BY

L. W. Randolph, 143 W. Front St.

SAD VACATION PERIOD.

HAROLD NOMER SUSTAINED A SERIOUS DISLOCATION OF THE ELBOW.

Jumping in a Basket When He Lost His Balance and Fell With Painful Results—He Fainted Just After the Accident.

The day before his summer vacation was to begin, Harold Nomer, of LaGrande avenue, met with an accident that will put an end to all thoughts of a summer outing for some time. He is now confined to his home suffering from a dislocation of the elbow, which is even more serious than a fracture.

Monday morning, Harold, who is the fourteen years-old son of Henry C. Nomer, of 433 LaGrande avenue, was working about the yard. The grapevines had just been trimmed and he was collecting the sprouts and leaves in an old peach basket. Not caring to make a great many trips with the basket, the lad packed the contents of the basket down by jumping on top of it. His mother warned him to be careful.

He was jumping up and down in the basket to pack down the contents, when he lost his balance and fell. His feet were caught in the basket and he put out one arm to stop his fall. His entire weight fell on his right arm, which twisted and the bone of the arm was dislocated at the elbow.

Young Nomer thought he had broken his arm and told his mother so. The pain was so great he fainted after reaching the house. Dr. B. Van-D. Hedges and Dr. Probasco were summoned. They found the dislocation a remarkable one and several photographs were taken of the arm to show the positions of the bones. It was necessary to give the lad chloroform before the bone could be forced back.

The Nomers had intended to leave today for Connecticut to spend their summer outing, but it was necessary to postpone the trip indefinitely.

The Storm's Effect.

The heavy seas which began pounding the Asbury Park boardwalk Monday night increased in violence last Tuesday. The most serious damage is between Third and Fifth avenues. Many of the bath-houses at the Third avenue grounds are wrecked. Several times the surf was so strong that dashing against the bulwarks beneath the group of bath-houses, it knocked up their floors and then lifted off the roofs. The grassplot between the board walk and the bicycle path has been washed away for fifty feet, and the plank promenade is exposed to the full force of the breakers. Workmen from all parts of the city were engaged during last night in bracing up the walk at its weak spots. The bulwarks at Second avenue, where great damage was done two weeks ago, have thus far stood the strain. The board walk has been torn up between Fourth and Fifth avenues. The surf last night was so high that it washed over the end of the fishing pier and floor of the Asbury pavilion.

THEATRICAL.

The following list of productions are presented by the "Kennedy Players": "The Midnight Express," Colonel James Snelweisser's great London comedy, "The Two Thieves," "The Octoroon," "The Two Orphans," "A Brother's Crime," "Ingomar," "The Dark Side of London," "A Celebrated Case," "Daly's Daughters," "Legally Dead," "Two Kids," and "Boy from Boston." This is a great list of plays and should pack any place of amusement to the doors. This company carries every particle of scenery used in its productions, and will be seen as each play is presented next week.

MORE HOSPITAL ROOM.

THE NEED CONSIDERED BY THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

Seems to be the Opinion that a New and Modern Structure Should be Built—Monthly Report of Cases Treated.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital was held last Monday at the Public Library. For some reason there was not a full attendance and there was just a quorum present to transact the business for the month. The report concerning the number of patients treated during the past month showed that there were 17 patients admitted and 13 discharged cured; 3 were discharged improved, and 1 not improved. Four patients died, and in each case the patient was almost beyond cure when received. The total number treated was 30 In the dispensary there were 29 cases and 84 visits.

The subject of the coming Spielkarfenfest to be held in the cycle academy for the benefit of the hospital, was introduced and the president of the board appointed Messrs. Cock, Reynolds and Saunders as a committee to confer with the committee from the Woman's Auxiliary. The former committee will get to work at once and confer with the latter committee in the arrangement for the affair which will be held November 15th to 20th, under the direction of Miss Stewart who so ably conducted the Kirmess.

Another subject introduced was that of building additions to the hospital. It was stated that more room is needed and will have to be secured at an early date. The idea of one member of the board is to have the complete plans of a suitable building to be used as a hospital and from time to time to build additions as they are needed. It seems to be the opinion that the present structure has outlived its usefulness and it has now reached that point where it is impossible to carry on the actual necessities of such an institution, and it is not unlikely that before a great while Plainfield will have a more commodious building as a hospital. The question will be agitated from now on with the idea of securing such a building at the earliest possible convenience.

NOTED THIEF ARRESTED

"JERRY JIMMY" MAY HAVE BEEN THE WESTFIELD BURGLAR.

Taken Into Custody at Philadelphia Last Friday—Had Railroad Tickets and Admitted Being in Towns in This Section.

If James Johnston, alias "Jersey Jimmy," were to give a truthful account of his doings during the past month or two, it is possible that he might a tale unfold which would prove most exciting reading for people in this section. If he choose to do so this man could probably tell a great deal about recent burglaries in Westfield and this city.

It is said that he was detained in the Court of Common Pleas at New Brunswick, between John W. Beekman of Perth Amboy, and Miss Mary Philbrook, of Jersey City, the New Jersey Portia. Miss Philbrook won.

It was in the case of J. Edward Addicks and Edward Bacot, receivers for the Staten Island Brick and Terra Cotta Company, against Dayton & Williams. Mr. Beekman appeared for the defense, and Miss Philbrook for the plaintiffs.

Beekman wanted set aside an order made June 25th allowing an amendment to the proceedings, because the summons, as prepared by Miss Philbrook, did not specify the defendants with sufficient clearness, referring to them by their last names and the initials of the first name instead of the first name in full.

Miss Philbrook quoted law and cited precedent to show that her summons was all right, and Judge Strong thought so too.

Another defect claimed by Beekman was that no notice to amend had been given. Miss Philbrook admitted this, but said it had not been necessary.

Judge Strong remarked that Mr. Beekman was ungallantly persistent in objecting on technicalities.

"That may be, Your Honor," he replied, "but the rules governing the practice of law should be adhered to."

"Well, I will look into the case," replied the Judge. "We old lawyers might have had too much stress upon technicalities, but the new lawyers may be right in proceeding differently." He laid an emphasis upon "new" that made every one, including Miss Philbrook, smile.

Judge Strong reserved decision.

Stop drugging yourself with quack nostrums or "cures." Get a well known pharmaceutical remedy that will do the work. Catarrh and cold in the head will not cause suffering if Ely's Cream Balm is used. Druggist will supply 10c. trial size or 50c. full size. We mail it. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City. Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, Pastor Central Pres. Church, Helena, Mont.

9 to 60 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Dr. SAMUEL PITCHER, A Pharmacist, Boston, Mass.

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhœa, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher NEW YORK.

At 6 months old 35 DOSES—35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

THE PEOPLE'S FAVORITE

The Haller & Davis Piano

BUILT AND SOLD ON HONOR

$300 and up. 3 years free. Other makes $150 and up. Instalments $5 per month. Old pianos taken in exchange.

THE IVAY PIANO COMPANY

TEASES A "NEW" LAWYER.

Miss Philbrook Met a Veteran and the Judge Seemed to Agree With Her.

There was a tilt Tuesday in the Court of Common Pleas at New Brunswick, between John W. Beekman of Perth Amboy, and Miss Mary Philbrook, of Jersey City, the New Jersey Portia. Miss Philbrook won.

It was in the case of J. Edward Addicks and Edward Bacot, receivers for the Staten Island Brick and Terra Cotta Company, against Dayton & Williams. Mr. Beekman appeared for the defense, and Miss Philbrook for the plaintiffs.

Beekman wanted set aside an order made June 25th allowing an amendment to the proceedings, because the summons, as prepared by Miss Philbrook, did not specify the defendants with sufficient clearness, referring to them by their last names and the initials of the first name instead of the first name in full.

Miss Philbrook quoted law and cited precedent to show that her summons was all right, and Judge Strong thought so too.

Another defect claimed by Beekman was that no notice to amend had been given. Miss Philbrook admitted this, but said it had not been necessary.

Judge Strong remarked that Mr. Beekman was ungallantly persistent in objecting on technicalities.

"That may be, Your Honor," he replied, "but the rules governing the practice of law should be adhered to."

"Well, I will look into the case," replied the Judge. "We old lawyers might have had too much stress upon technicalities, but the new lawyers may be right in proceeding differently." He laid an emphasis upon "new" that made every one, including Miss Philbrook, smile.

Judge Strong reserved decision.

BEAR IN LINDEN WOOD.

Escaped From His Italian Captors and is Exciting the Farmers' Children.

Somewhere in the woods near Linden, a cinnamon bear is roaming contentedly, enjoying a respite from a long term of enforced exhibition at the end of a chain, and living on luscious blackberries. He escaped Thursday from two swarthy sons of Italy, who had trained him to do several tricks, in return for which they took up the usual collection.

Wednesday evening the Italians camped at a grove near Linden. Bruin was chained to a tree while his masters slept. During the night he slipped his muzzle and wandered off. The Italians discovered their loss at daylight and started in pursuit. Bruin's trail was easily found. The bones and feathers of a chicken showed where he had breakfasted.

Inquiry at the farmhouses availed them nothing until they reached Linden, where a woman said some preserves she had left on the stoop to cool the previous night had been scattered over the porch. The Italians detected the bear's footprints in the mud on the street close by. The trail then led direct into Linden woods where it was lost. The Italians are heartbroken over their loss, and the country people are afraid to go into the woods to pick berries.

Work on the State Reformatory.

The Kingsbridge Iron Company, which has the contract for putting the roof on the State Reformatory at Rahway, has just begun the work of roofing in the northwest wing, which is the only part of the reformatory that is to be entirely enclosed. The firm has about thirty men at work, and the job will be finished before October 1 or later. This is the only work being done at the reformatory, as the state appropriation has been nearly all used up, and nothing more can be done this year or until the Legislature for 1898 meets and appropriates more money. General Contractor Hooper has only about a dozen men at work cleaning up things around the place, and their labor will soon be ended.

His Services Recognized.

Rev. Titus E. Davis, of Bound Brook, the Transportation Manager for the New Jersey Christian Endeavorers, has been presented with a purse of $100 by the section containing the people from this vicinity.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL XXX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1897. NO. 31.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

DEATH A GREAT GAIN.

Dr. Yerkes' Exposition On The Uncertainties Of Life

AT THE FUNERAL OF MR. THICKSTUN.

The Departed Has Now Fought the Fight, Finished His Course and Has Received the Crown That Has Been Prepared for Him in Heaven—He Always Liked to be in God's House and With God's People.

The funeral services of the late John A. Thickstun were held Tuesday afternoon from the house, 66 Duer street, at 2:30. The large gathering of friends, acquaintances and neighbors was a beautiful expression of esteem and personal regard felt by all present. Rev. Dr D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the departed, officiated and opened the service with appropriate Scripture reading. This was followed with a beautiful vocal solo, "Some Sweet Day," by E. E. Runyon. Dr. Yerkes then made a few remarks, a portion of which follows:

"Sometimes, my friends, we pry too far into the mysteries of God, because of our familiarity. We need to be very careful and studious. We walk, as it were, in a vain show. There is uncertainty in everything in this life. We don't know where, when or how we die. There is so little substance or reliability in life, while there are some things that are settled and established. There is nothing more certain than God's Word. John says "I know," and Paul says "I know in whom I have believed. We walk by faith and not by sight. While we are here we are absent from the Lord. This is the season of the year when so many people are going to Europe. They are absent from their homes and yet their abiding place is at home. Home is the sweetest place on earth, but Heaven is far better with its companionship and joys.

"Our natural tendency is to tarry here and we do not like to sever the dearest ties on earth. Our highest hopes should be to be with the Lord. Our dead brother is now with Christ for he lived in communion with Him. Death was a great gain for him. I know him for many years. Before my pastorate commenced in Plainfield I came here to preach on several occasions and on the occasion of my second visit to Plainfield I was a guest at the home of our departed brother's father. It was then that I first became acquainted with him. He had a true heart and he loved God, and on one occasion he told me that there was no place that he would rather be than in the House of God. On another occasion he said, "I cannot thank the Lord enough for His goodness to me," and that was his constant prayer. He was a true, generous and kind hearted man. He has now fought the fight, finished his course and has received the crown which the Lord had prepared for him.

"In speaking to the bereaved ones, there are no words adequate in comparison to the sorrow. The source is to find relief and consolation where the departed found it, in the Lord.

"It would certainly be a great delusion if I should not speak to the unconverted ones present today, and thus interpret the faith shown in the death of our brother. Those who have not made it right with God should not lose the opportunity now offered."

At the close of Dr Yerkes' remarks he offered a fervent and comforting prayer which seemed to reach the hearts of all present. This was followed with another solo by E. E. Runyon entitled "Asleep in Jesus," after which those present viewed for the last time the face of one whom they loved and esteemed.

The floral tributes consisted of a large pillow bearing the inscription, "In God's Care," and a large bunch of white roses and palms. Both were from relatives.

Those who served as pall bearers were friends and neighbors, and they were Robert M. Cook, L. L. Manning, R. S. Bralder, Samuel Wallace, W. H. Rodwell, Andrew Love and A. L. Force. Interment was in the family plot at Sampton.

The Trolley Off.

The trolley pole to one of the electric cars of the Plainfield Street Railway slipped from the wire near the corner of Front and Somerset streets, Tuesday morning, and snapped two of the guard wires. The repair wagon of the company was on the scene soon afterward and the damage was repaired.

Horse Ran Away.

A horse belonging to Patrick Keely, and in charge of James Sullivan, ran away at the Grant avenue sand pits at noon, Tuesday. The animal ran along West Third street to Arlington avenue, where it was captured by Deole Galbraith before any harm resulted from its flight.

ACTED LIKE A CANNIBAL.

A Drunken Man Said He Would Chew Up a Colored Man.

The victim of "Jersey lightning" rolled off the bank and staggered to his feet.

"I'm going to do you. I'm going to chew you up!" he growled at a very frightened colored man, and started for the dusky passerby. The colored man begged for mercy.

"You're no good nohow. Gimme a drink or I'll kill you," and the big Swede continued his zigzag path toward the colored man. This all happened last Tuesday at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fourth street. The prospects for an exciting time were very good when Patrolman Saffron put in an appearance, and dragged the swearing Swede away to the abode of the crawling things, known as the city jail.

Wednesday City Judge DeMeza heard the story and saw John Louis Kawalki, as he is known on the docket. All he had to say was that he was from Cranford and maybe he was drunk, last night.

The Judge was not favorably impressed and gave the offender his choice between paying a fine of $10 or going to jail for thirty days. He will go to Elizabeth and take the time.

KNOCKED OUT TWO FOOTPADS.

The Third Fled Rather Than Encounter Mr. Gulick's Fists.

Peter Gulick, a town committeeman, of Raritan, was attacked Tuesday afternoon by three footpads while on his way home along Somerset street.

Mr. Gulick noticed the men sitting on a culvert near where he passed. One of them pretended to be asleep. Mr. Gulick paid little attention to them, but as soon as he had passed he saw a man's shadow approaching him from behind, and, looking over his shoulder, he saw the sleepy-looking tramp making for him. The committeeman is a powerful man. He swung his right arm around, and just as the tramp was within reach he landed a blow behind his ear which laid him unconscious on the pavement. By this time the second tramp came up, but Mr. Gulick was ready for him and landed a knock-out blow between his eyes, stretching him by the side of his companion. The third tramp was dismayed at this effective slugging and fled across the fields.

Mr. Gulick had about $200 in his pocket.

PEACH CROP IS ALL RIGHT.

In Spite of Frosts and Hail the New Jersey Output Will Be Large.

Conflicting statements have been published concerning the peach crop in Hunterdon, Warren, Sussex and Somerset counties. First it was reported that early frosts had ruined the crop, later that the fruit was not maturing properly, and a few days ago the alarming news was spread broadcast that a hail storm had visited the peach growing districts and pelted the fruit from the trees, and what remained was worthless.

In spite of all, the outlook for the peach crop is promising. Conservative estimates place the crop in Hunterdon this year at from three-quarters of a million to a million baskets. Warren will probably equal Hunterdon, while Sussex and Somerset will probably reach half a million each. The hail damaged only a few orchards in the vicinity of High Bridge, Fairmount and Cokesbury.

AT POINT BREEZE CAMP.

Jovial Borough People From Whom Piscatorial Stories are Expected.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murray, Mr. Mrs. W. Journeay Roome and family, Henry D. Brewster and family, Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and children, Mrs. James T. Scott and Master James T. Scott, Jr., and Mrs. W. L. Saunders and children, of Plainfield and North Plainfield, are all at Point Breeze Camp, N. H. William L. Saunders, James T. Scott and B. A. Hegeman, Jr., will join their families later in the month. Now that this party has all gotten together again in that beautiful New Hampshire Camp, it is expected that friends of the party will hear some of those wonderful fish stories which came with such regularity last season. Mr. Roome has a new rod and full line of the most alluring flies, and the story is that he is out this year to surpass the great record made by his most genial brother-in-law, Henry D. Brewster.

A Service of Prayer.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance will hold a service of prayer Thursday morning from 9 to 12 o'clock in the parlors of the W.C.T.U., Watchung avenue. In the evening, weather permitting, at 8 they will unite with Rev. George C. Needham in the Gospel tent meeting, Park avenue and Fifth street. J. D. Williams, of the New York Missionary Training Institute, will speak.

CYCLISTS HALED TO CADI.

Patrolman Cash Formally Arrested Thirty Offenders.

THEY ALL RODE ON THE SIDEWALK.

Only Eight Appeared in City Court This Morning—Each Fined $1—The Delinquent Ones Will be Locked Up—Cash Said That Many of the Cyclists Passed Very Uncomplimentary Talk.

The police made a haul Tuesday afternoon that netted $8 to the city treasury and promises to more than double that amount before it is last heard of. The sufferers, or rather the offenders, were wheelmen and the trouble was that they were riding on the sidewalk.

The steam roller has been at work for several weeks on East Front street macadamizing it with the assistance of a gang of Street Commissioner Gavott's men.

During the last week the road beyond Richmond street was being repaired. The roadway for a distance of nearly 200 feet was unridable and many cyclists who passed took to the sidewalk in preference to walking. For several days complaints have been made to Chief Grant that wheelmen were tracking the mud all over the sidewalks in the vicinity. Tuesday afternoon Special Patrolman Cash was detailed to look for the wheelmen and went to the scene of action in his citizen's clothes.

The bicyclists began to appear and Cash began to capture them, one after another, to the great delight of the spectators. He proceed to enter the names of the offenders in a book and told them to appear Wednesday for trial. One wheelman from Trenton gave his name and then departed, remarking as he left that in the morning he would be fifty miles away. It is needless to say he did not appear next morning.

A young woman from Scotch Plains was stopped. Rather frightened and somewhat fearful, she still had courage enough to be indignant at the officer. She gave her name and departed and has not been seen since.

One wheelman declared that he did not believe that Cash was an officer; he did not look like one at all, he said. He made Cash show his badge of authority and then used uncomplimentary terms to the officer, at least so Cash claims.

A party of young men going swimming at the Feltville pond were caught and ordered up.

Some of the offenders escaped. Other wheelmen who had been caught yelled at them to ride away which they did and waved a farewell to Cash.

Cash pleaded guilty, and the Judge declared his sentence to be a fine of $1 or 3 days in jail, although he knew that the bicycle ordinance does not provide for imprisonment.

William Jeffrey rode, pleaded guilty and was fined the same.

Henry W. Brower, Rhay T. Snodgrass and George A. Horne were going swimming when they were caught. They pleaded guilty, explained the circumstances, and put up the necessary dollar fine.

W. A. Phillips did not think Cash looked like one of the "finest," and paid his dollar.

There will be measures taken to arrest those who failed to appear, and they are likely to receive a much heavier sentence, for City Judge DeMeza is not inclined to deal lightly with those who fail to appear when ordered.

THE ACADEMY ENGAGED.

Spielgartenfest will Probably be Held in the Middle of November.

The committee from the Auxiliary and Board of Governors of the Muhlenberg Hospital held a conference with Charles H. Hand, the owner of the Pierce Cycle Academy, Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. D. T. Van Buren, on Central avenue. The object of the conference was to settle the terms for the engagement of the Academy for the Spielgartenfest, which is to be given this winter for the benefit of the Hospital.

$1,000 Less Than Reported.

The property at the corner of Watchung avenue and Second street, offered by Charles Hand and J. T. Vail as a city hall site, can be purchased for $13,000 instead of $14,000, as reported at the city council meeting last Monday evening.

VICTORY FOR TROLLEY.

Piscataway Officials Grant the Right of Way.

FAVORABLE ACTION LONG DELAYED.

The Ordinance Giving Them the Right of Way to Raritan's Line Was Adopted Last Night—Middlesex Freeholders Will Now Be Asked to Act—The Proposed Route—Will Have Many Advantageous Features.

After a long and determined effort, the Brunswick Traction Company has at last secured the permission of the necessary authorities to extend its tracks for trolley lines from New Brunswick to Bound Brook. It has been a long and hard fight on the part of the officials of that company and they have met with strong opposition from their rivals, the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company.

It has been the plan of the Brunswick Traction Company to run its lines on the east bank of the Raritan river from New Brunswick. After a sharp fight, the Raritan township committee granted the company permission to build its track along the river as far as that township extended. The remainder of the proposed route lay through Piscataway township. The township committee there made no permanent objection to the location of the trolley line along the river until the company proposed running their tracks all the way to Bound Brook by the river and going under the railroad bridge. The Bound Brook council absolutely refused to allow the trolley cars to pass under the railroad bridge and that scheme was brought to a sudden end.

Then the trolley prospectors proposed running the line away from the river, crossing the railroads near East Bound Brook on overhead bridges and then entering Bound Brook on that side. The plan was suggested to the Piscataway Township Committee and several conferences and inspections of the land resulted. An ordinance allowing the company to follow the last plan was introduced in the meeting of the Township Committee at New Market some time ago. It was passed on its second reading.

Tuesday, Piscataway Township Committee held a meeting at New Market at which the ordinance came up for third reading. The necessary majority voted for the measure and it was passed on the third reading and adopted. The Brunswick Traction Company officials were jubilant, as they now have a clear road from New Brunswick to Bound Brook. All that is now needed is permission to enter Bound Brook and to cross the Albany street bridge at New Brunswick, and so reach the city.

The Freeholders of Middlesex county held a meeting at New Brunswick, Wednesday afternoon, when the question of allowing the Brunswick Traction Company to extend its lines over the bridge will be considered. The railroad men are very confident that the necessary permission will be granted by the Freeholders.

KEEPS BOUND BROOK AWAKE.

Garabed, the Salvationist, Heeds the Mayor's Notice to Leave Town.

Joe Garabed, known in the Salvation Army as Joe the Turk, received notice Monday morning from Mayor Coddington, of Bound Brook, to leave town as soon as possible or he would be in danger of the borough lockup. He soon left town, and as he was billed to be in town until August 9 his vacancy will be filled by some other member of the army.

Joe Garabed seems to have an ear for music and during the day he promenaded up and down the main street playing his cornet. When near houses in which lived men who worked nights his music disturbed their rest. They appealed to the Mayor and he gave Garabed notice.

DEATH OF MRS. BENNER.

A Well-Known Hotel Keeper Loses His Helpmeet in Life.

Elizabeth Fischer, the wife of John Benner, the proprietor of the wheelmen's rest on the county road between Netherwood and Fanwood, died at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon of a complication of diseases. Mrs. Benner had been ill for about two years. She leaves a large circle of relatives and friends who mourn their loss.

The funeral services will be held at the house at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the Rev. T. L. Murphy, of North Plainfield, will officiate. Interment will be in the Presbyterian cemetery in North Plainfield.

Mrs. D. E. Titsworth and children, of West Seventh street, have gone on their summer vacation.

Arthur J. Spicer, of West Fifth street, has returned after spending a few days in Asbury Park.

A DROWNING BOY RESCUED.

Shirley Kinsman's Foot Slipped and in the "Big Six" He Fell.

Shirley Kinsman, aged 14 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Kinsman, of Sherman avenue, had a narrow escape from drowning Tuesday afternoon while bathing in what is known as "Big Six," a swimming pool back of the Manning property on West Front street, near Green brook. With several companions he had been in the water for sometime, and had come out on the bank to dry off. Some of the boys were dressed, when young Kinsman slipped from the bank into the pool at a place where the depth is about twelve feet deep. The suddenness of the fall gave him no time to save himself and he was helpless and struggling when his companions noticed him. At first there was a hesitancy on the part of the other boys to jump in after Kinsman for the reason that they had on their clothes, but when they saw him go down the second time, they became frightened and decided that something must be done.

Thomas Chamberlain, aged fifteen years, a resident of the West End, happened to come along and hearing of the trouble jumped in the water as quick as a flash and rescued young Kinsman. When the boy was brought to the bank he was in a very weak condition and his lips were almost blue in color. The companions at once began to roll Kinsman about on the grass and in a little while he recovered from his shock and was able to return home.

LOVERS PART AND QUARREL.

Now the Beau is Haled Before a Justice of the Peace.

The course of true love has not been running smooth of late with James Saunders, the Beau Brummel of colored society circles in the West End. The trouble between James and his former sweetheart, Miss Lulu Bland came to a climax Tuesday when she appeared before Justice Mosher and swore out warrants for the arrest of Saunders and Mary Walker, a young colored woman with whom he has been on friendly terms of late. Miss Walker is "the other woman" in the case. The charge was assault and battery.

At 3:30 o'clock all the parties concerned appeared before the Justice and told their stories.

Saunders averred that Miss Bland was a terror, that out of jealousy she had followed him and Miss Walker home from church Sunday night, and had attempted to choke him on the front stoop. He pushed her away in self-defense. Miss Bland, he said, had taken his necktie and a gold pin with her when she departed and he hadn't been able to recover them.

When questioned, Lulu admitted having taken hold of James' necktie before he offered any violence, and after a good lecture admonishing all the parties to behave better hereafter, the Justice dismissed the case.

LEGAL LIGHTS TO PLAY.

They Will Meet the Law Students in Baseball Wednesday.

If the efforts of the law students of this city are successful there will be a baseball game played in this city next Wednesday that will rival in interest any contest of the kind that has ever been held in Plainfield. It is to be a baseball game between the lawyers and the law student. The attorneys and counselors are to desert their gowns and come out for a little recreation, chase each other and the ball all around the field and generally enjoy themselves.

The game has not been positively arranged, but there seems to be no doubt but that it will be successfully carried out. Neither team has announced its makeup, but that will be settled in a few days, when it will be properly announced.

The law students are the challengers, but they are not trying to make anything out of the game. It will be necessary to charge admission to pay for the rent of the Crescent's grounds and other expenses.

The Heywood-Dickson Wedding.

The wedding of C. E. A. Heywood, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., and a Miss Dickson, of Verbank, Dutchess County, N. Y., took place at the bride's home at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Heywood will take an extended wedding trip, returning to this city about September 1st. They will then take up residence in the Jackson flats, on West Front street.

A. D. Cook, of East Seventh street, has purchased a new surrey of J. P. Homan.

At the meeting of the West End Hose Company last Monday evening two members were elected.

DIED BY HIS OWN HAND

David W. Pond, Tired of Life, Commits Suicide.

WAS A PROMINENT PLAINFIELDER.

The Fatal Act Was Committed By the Side of His Bed at 6 o'Clock Yesterday—Pistol Shot Awakened His Wife, Who Found Him in a Pool of Blood—Said to Have Met With Reverses.

In the stillness and serenity of the early morning hours yesterday the life of David W. Pond, of East Front street, passed out of this world almost instantly, and presumably by his own hand.

It was about 5 o'clock when Mrs. Pond, who sleeps in an adjoining room, was awakened by a pistol shot. She hastened from her bed to that of her husband and there she found him upon the floor, dead, with a revolver close by his side. From the left side of his head could be seen the bullet wound, from which was coursing a stream of blood. Mrs. Pond was terror-stricken, but attempted to awaken her husband. There was no response, as the heart had ceased to beat.

A messenger was hurriedly sent to Dr. J. T. Fritts, the family physician, who reached the house soon after and found life extent. The bullet entered the head on the left side not far from the temple and was well aimed, for the effect was instaneous.

As regards the reason for the deed, it is said that business reverses and financial troubles were the cause. Mrs. Pond says that her husband returned from New York Tuesday afternoon rather early and seemed to be in excellent spirits and particularly jovial. One of his boys was not feeling well and he devoted considerable time to him. When Mrs. Pond returned she found her husband in a happy mood and everything was as pleasant as usual. At the dinner table there was the usual exchange of pleasantry, and at the proper time all retired for the night in the best of spirits. Mr. Pond occupied a room by himself and his wife's room was adjoining, while the son slept close by.

As might be imagined, when the pistol shot was heard yesterday Mrs. Pond was terribly agitated. In her affliction she has the sympathy of the entire community.

Mr. Pond, together with his family, moved to Plainfield about eight years ago. At that time the Pond Tool and Machine Works, of which he was the president, established their plant in the western section of the city. The plant is a very large one and employs many hundred men. The company was the outcome of a similar establishment in Worcester, Mass., which was for years conducted by Mr. Pond's father. It is said that the latter met with reverses, and to save the business the son took it up and conducted it successfully.

Between two and three years ago Mr. Pond retired from the company and the remaining stockholders purchased his interest in the business. During a portion of the intervening time Mr. Pond led a retired life, and during the latter he became engaged in the brokerage business on Wall street, New York. This he followed up with more or less success.

He was a man very reserved and of a quiet manner, but always easy to approach. He was strictly his own counselor and advisor, and never had the habit of imposing his tribulations or others. He was friendly to those he came in contact with and always had a good word for all.

Manning, Maxwell & Moore, an old firm, became interested in what is now known as the Pond Tool Machine Works, and of which Mr. Pond was the leading man. Eventually the above firm secured the entire plant from Mr. Pond sold his interest to them.

Mr. Pond was a Free Mason and a member of the Knights Templar, but was not an active member. He and his family were attendants at All Souls' Unitarian church on Park avenue, where they were identified with all of the interests of the church.

Mr. Pond was a native of Massachusetts and was about fifty years old. He was more closely identified with the business interests of Worcester, Mass., where he lived for many years and carried on the machine business.

During yesterday Dr. Westcott, the county physician, was summoned to the scene of the suicide and after viewing the remains and making an investigation, he granted a burial permit. The result of his examination was that suicide was the cause of death.

Arrangements have not yet been made for the funeral owing to the fact that Mrs. Pond is waiting for the arrival of Mr. Pond's mother and relatives who live in Massachusetts and have been notified of the death.

RAVAGES OF THE RAIN.

Fourteen Days' Storm Ended in a Spiteful Manner.

Great Damage Wrought Throughout This Section of the Country—Small Streams Became Raging Torrents That Swept All Frail Things Along With the Current—Washingtonville Dam Unable to Stand the Strain and a Portion of the Structure Collapsed—No Loss of Life, But Several Narrow Escapes—Loss Will Amount to Thousands of Dollars.

(From The Daily Press of July 29th.)

The fourteen days' rain ended last night in a spiteful manner, bringing devastating results to this particular section in a manner that for the time being was threatening to both life and property. Fortunately, no loss of life is reported, though there were narrow escapes, but the financial loss that is realized directly, and will be felt as seriously in the aftermath, will run up into the thousands of dollars. The ravages of the rain, as visited upon the community in ordinarily harmless rivulets, with scarcely enough water to cover their stony beds, becoming raging torrents, augmented every moment by streams that tore their way down mountains and through valleys in the endeavor to find a level, were widespread. It was not any particular section that suffered from the overflow, but the whole surrounding country felt the effects in a manner seldom, if ever, experienced before. While the people of Washingtonville and the upper end of North Plainfield were, perhaps, the heaviest sufferers, the residents of the very center of the city, usually believed to be secure from great inconvenience or loss by freshet floods, were also proportionate losers.

However, the sun shines with its old-time brightness and warmth today, in verification of the words hopefully advanced by the weather prognosticators yesterday. Weather Observer Neagle stated this morning that from 8 p. m. on Tuesday to 8 p.m. last night 4.33 inches of water fell in this section. The details of the damage wrought are given below:

The steady rains of the afternoon swelled the streams in the Washington valley far above their usual size even before night came on. The residents of Washingtonville realized that a flood was threatened and preparations began to be made for a hasty departure to the hills.

The new pond and dam of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, in the valley just west of Washingtonville, was the centre of all the excitement. Andrew Wilson, with a gang of ten men and a team of horses and wagon, were working there early in afternoon to prevent a break in the dam. The water poured over the stone outlet while the outlet pipe was filled with a torrent of rushing water. Late in the afternoon the earth embankment, just to the right of the stone portion of the dam, began to give way. A little stream of water poured over, but Mr. Wilson and his assistants worked rapidly and stopped the break with logs, stone and earth.

The pond covers an area of fifteen acres and is usually about twenty feet deep in the middle. The dam is twenty-six feet high and a little over 200 feet long. At 10 o'clock, there was four feet of water pouring over the stone outlet, which is 100 feet wide, with a great roar, washing great holes in the earth below. The water seemed steadily to rise.

J. H. Koch lives on the edge of the pond, next to the Warrenville road. The water poured in torrents down the road and his house looked like an island in the flood. His outhouses were flooded, but the house escaped. The occupants were greatly excited.

Jerard Underhill lives above the on the Smalleytown road. He keeps ducks, many of which were swept away by the current in the afternoon. His house was on the high ground.

When it was seen that the big dam was in danger, the residents of Washingtonville prepared to move. Charles Lee lives just below the dam on the Warrenville road. The flood threatened his house. Neighbors from the high ground came in and assisted. The carpets were taken up and placed on the second floor. Furniture was also carried to a place of safety. The piano was also moved to the second floor.

In assisting to carry the piano upstairs Robert M. Clark had his hand smashed between the piano and the wall.

The horses, cattle and wagons were were put in the barns of Robert Clark, Jr., on the high grounds. The water flooded the barn and came up to the first story of the house, filling the cellar.

There was great excitement at the store and house of William Demler, at the cross roads. His horses and cattle were driven through the water to a place of safety at the barns of Robert Clark, Jr. Edward O. Clark was nearly washed away while trying to lead a blind horse to the high ground. The horse became frightened at the thunder and nearly dragged Clark into the roaring torrent.

The water came up to the doorsill of Demler's place and flooded his cellar. The stream left its banks and invaded his garden, washing away fences and ruining the garden.

James Totten, who lives on the mountain, had a narrow escape from drowning. He indulged in liquor rather freely during the afternoon and lay down on the Spencer bridge for a nap. The water came over the bridge and he was finally rescued in the nick of time, before he was washed off by the powerful current.

The road up the mountain to Union Village was washed out by the water that came down there until it was impassable. Great gullies were cut in the roadway.

It was a lively time at Washingtonville. The rain fell in torrents. Lanterns twinkled here and there where the excited villagers were conveying their movable property to the high ground. The dam was still watched with great anxiety. At 11 o'clock the great stones used as capping gave way and were carried away by the water. Then the great boulders that were used in building the dam began to give way slowly and the water poured over the new break in an ever-increasing volume; the gap was carrying off much of the water and the water in the pond was lowered several feet.

At 11:40 o'clock, the bottom of the stone part of the dam gave way and the water rushed out with a mighty roar that sounded to the villagers below like thunder. The great boulders, some of them weighing 1,000 pounds, was carried down stream. Some are to be found a hundred yards from the dam. It is supposed that the great volume of water that went down over the dam undermined the stone work and caused the bottom to give way. A third of the volume of water in the pond escaped through the break before the final collapse of the dam. The part that was washed out was about fifty feet long.

The water was a foot over the two bridges near Washingtonville and covered the road to the depth of three feet, converting it into a dashing torrent.

Stony brook is the name given to the stream that flows westward down the valley into the big pond and then around through the Notch At Washingtonville another stream joins Stony brook, coming from the west part of the valley, filling the big Wilson pond. The dam to that pond withstood the torrent that came in that direction and the water united with that of Stony brook.

The road in the Notch was flooded almost its entire length, in some places to the depth of four and five feet. No preparations were made to move at Finger's hotel, this side of Washingtonville on the Notch road, but a sharp watch was kept of the water. When the dam broke, the water rose four feet in less than five minutes and reached the stables. The water went up to the hotel piazza. Many small articles were washed away.

The dam, commonly known as Wetumpka Falls, stood the strain. The water went over the dam to the depth of five feet and poured along the road, waistdeep, digging up the road and flooding the quarries. The stone abutments, supporting part of the stone crusher nearby, were washed away. This morning, there was a foot of water going over the dam.

The water poured down the sides of the mountain into the road, washing away parts of the roadway and washing great stones down the slope of the mountain. The banks of the stream were cut and torn by the water and were covered with debris, this morning, that had been brought down by the flood.

At the site of the old Coddington dam and ice pond at the beginning of the Notch, the torrent rushed with great violence. The bridge at the point was washed away during the evening and it was rumored that a man had been carried away on it, but it proved false. The wreckage of the bridge could not be found in the neighborhood. The old ice house at that point was threatened and the abutments to it washed away. A portion of the side caved in.

The cellar to the blacksmith shop of Winan & Kleiner was filled up with water and the building threatened with destruction.

The bridge leading to the Brookside Sanitarium was washed away during the afternoon and the debris was thrown on the bank at the turn. Cooley's dam at the same place was partly washed away. The house of John Coley, coachman for Dr. Cooley, stands at the bend in the brook. Part of the wreckage of the bridge was piled against the house. The piazza was wrecked and the water entered the first story. Mr. Coley had to carry his family out in his arms, the water in the road at that place being four feet deep, and, rushing along with great vigor.

The Johnston drive bridge escaped the water just reaching the floor of the bridge. The road at that point was gullied by the water. The road to the Mountain Park Inn was badly cut up by the torrents that flowed down the side of the mountain.

Winan's blacksmith shop was flooded. A large log was driven against the side of the building by the current. The grounds surrounding the residence of W. H. Miles were flooded and all the cellars in the neighborhood were filled with water.

Up Somerset street as far as Greenbrook road, the upper dressing of fine stone on the street was all washed away leaving the large stones exposed. Sidewalks were washed away and deep ditches made in the walk that proved very dangerous to pedestrians. The fence in front of Israel Lewis's residence was washed away.

The water was eighteen inches deep on top of the bridge on Somerset street, near Coddington avenue. The wooden sidewalks on that thorough fare were washed into the gutter.

The water invaded the chickencoops of B. R. Waldron, of Coddington avenue, and fifteen spring chickens were drowned. The water was also a foot deep in his barn. He removed his chickens to the coal bins in his house. A foot of water was reported to be in all the cellars on Coddington avenue. Fences, boxes, barrels and the like were carried away by the flood.

Four of the trolley cars were stalled on Somerset street, near Coddington avenue, at about 10 o'clock. There was sand and gravel from six to eight inches deep on the tracks. The cars had to wait until the water went down and they could be dug out by a gang of men from the carhouse.

The residents of the lower end of Grove street, in the vicinity of the Stony brook bridge, felt the flood severely.

The handsome place of Mayor John F. Wilson was much damaged. The grass and shrubbery were torn and wrecked while the fence surrounding the place was partially carried away. Many fences along Greenbrook road were washed down and some outhouses upset. A private foot bridge over Stony brook, belonging to a resident of Rockview avenue, was washed away and the others were covered with the debris brought down by the water.

The wooden culvert at the corner of Greenbrook road and Rockview terrace was torn up and the roadway blocked.

A large tree was lodged against the Grove street bridge over Stony brook. Had the tree followed the course of the other wreckage one of Faber's row would have probably been wrecked.

The water was up to the first floors of the row of houses owned by Charles Faber, of Mercer avenue.

A rescuing party was formed by Charles Sprague, of Howard street, Frank Hull, of Grove street, and James Brown, of Stone street, and the occupants of the row were carried to a place of safety. Mrs. Hull and her two children, Mrs. Frank Small and her two children and Mrs. Peter Burnett and her two children were all carried out in the arms of the rescuers, who had to wade through water up to their waists. The current was very strong and they had to keep hold of fences to prevent the rescued from being washed away.

Charles Burnett had 250 planks for scaffolding piled in a lot behind the row of houses. This morning fifty were found lodged against a fence on the opposite side of the road and the rest are scattered at a distance of a mile along the course of the flood.

Two excavations for new houses at the corner of Washinton avenue and Linden avenue were filled with water and dirt that had been washed in by the storm. They will have to be dug again.

The tremendous downpour of rain was felt in the eastern end of the city as well as in other parts. During the rain, the streets were most of them flooded from curb to curb and progress on foot was almost impossible.

One of the trolley cars ran off the track on Woodland avenue at nine o'clock on account of the mud and sand that was washed upon the track.

South avenue was flooded from fence to fence and was converted into a veritable lake. It was flooded from the foot of the hill to Scott's Press Works. The fields on either side were also flooded. Cedar brook was transformed into a powerful stream. Where it passed under the railroad at the Berckman street bridge, the stream was far too large for the culvert to carry off and the water flowed through the road. The water was four feet deep under the bridge.

At Rahway the bridge over the Rahway river, on New Brunswick avenue, was carried away.

Kahl & Co., contractor, will lose about $75 by the rain, inasmuch as he will be compelled to lay about 1,600 feet of the stone flagging in the eastern end of the city.

At Dunellen the water did not do much damage, although in several places it rose to a fairly good height. At the floor of Jefferson avenue, near Greenbrook, David Lowry was obliged to take his horses out of the barn which was rapidly filling with water.

New Market experienced some high water which rose high enough to enter the floor of the tenement owned by Mr. Otto. A small quantity of flour was damaged. The Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks were flooded but traffic was not stopped at any time. Here the damage was slight.

Last evening an unknown woman was running after a trolley car which was passing under the Watchung avenue railroad bridge, and not being aware of the high water under the bridge, rushed wildly into the water. She was standing in the water almost to her waist when Frank Denoklan happened along and assisted to women out of her difficulty. She would not give her name and finally caught a car to her destination.

In Elizabeth traffic in two-thirds of the city was suspended at 8 o'clock in the evening, and householders and storekeepers were moving their goods to places of safety. County roads were impassable, and several bridges were swept away. The railroad companies put forces of men at work near Elizabeth patching up the roadbeds.

The lower section of Elizabeth was inundated, and the great salt meadows were flooded to a depth of three feet. Shipyards, lumber yards and warehouses were flooded, and the rise of the Elizabeth river, which flows through the heart of the city, had not been equalled in years. Trees and buildings along either bank were swept away. A doghouse on which was crouched a chained dog, while close at his side clung a hen, passed down the river to be buy early in the evening. The dog's howls attracted a crowd, and several men tried to rescue it, but in vain.

The sewers were all blocked up, and in Broad, East Broad and North Broad streets and Morris avenue, the busiest section of Elizabeth, the streets under the railroad tracks were flooded to a depth of ten feet, and the surface cars were stopped. New York business men who reached their homes after 6 o'clock found it impossible to leave the railroad station.

In Westfield the livery stable of A. E. Decker was flooded by the overflowing of the brook which runs through the town. At 9 o'clock last night the water rose to a height of three or four feet in the horses' stalls, and the animals had to be removed to other quarters. On Broad street, the principal street of the town, the water was about ten inches deep at 9 o'clock, and the storekeepers began to make preparations for moving their stock to the upper stories. At Henry's Park, on Elm street, a bridge was washed about 100 yards down the brook and Elm street was under inches of water. In many parts of the town cellars are flooded to the depth of two or three feet.

At Somerville the damage was not extensive, though the Raritan river overflowed its banks in several places and inundated the adjoining streets—especially Bridge street. Houses bordering the bank of the stream had the cellars flooded. The meadows were also covered with two or three feet of water and agricultural crops somewhat damaged.

Reports came from Neshanic last night that the water in the North Branch river was as high as it was on February 6th, 1896, when that section of the country was devastated by the overflow. The North Branch is fed by innumerable mountain rivulets whose supply is not perceptibly felt in time of a freshet, but last night the channel of the stream was utterly unable to afford an avenue for the water that descended from the mountains. In some places it is reported that small and frail buildings were swept off their foundations and floated down the river to mix with the other driftwood already picked up in the seething current. Several farmers removed their cattle from barns that were in danger of destruction by the raging stream, but in order to do so they had to wade up over their boots.

Peter C. Johnson, of South Plainfield, reports that on Plainfield avenue, from Eighth street out to the hill near the place, the road is greatly damaged. Near the hill there is a large culvert about 100 feet long which was completely wrecked by the storm last evening. The fact that there are no gutters along the road at that point makes it exceedingly dangerous in a severe storm. Large stones were washed from the highways to the road causing quite an obstruction. Last night the water was so high at that point that it was almost impossible for wagons to pass in safety, and in fact there was no travel along that road of any account after the condition became known. This morning it looks as though a mighty flood had swept that section.

The recent rains have made the corner of Washington and East Sixth streets, almost impassable. Street Commissioner Gavett's men have been there but could do nothing until better arrangements are made to drain that corner. There is only one crosswalk, but if there were others they would be covered with water, which floods the street, gutters and part of the sidewalk at times. The water is nearly a foot deep in places, and boots are required to pass through it without a wetting.

The few residents who live on Dupont street in the borough had a thrilling time of it. The water invaded their dooryards and arose to the height of window sills. Several women waded out into the water waist deep, holding their small children above their heads, while men carried the children to places of safety. Household furniture was practically ruined.

At South Plainfield the water covered the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad so that the fires in the locomotives that attempted to run through it were put out.

The water in the Fanwood cut almost reached the car steps, but trains were not delayed.

During the heaviest part of the storm, from 8 to 9 o'clock, a Press reporter drove to Washingtonville and other parts of the city seeking the the news of devastation. Returning from Washingtonville, the rig was driven for several blocks along Somerset street from one to three feet of water. Park avenue, between Front and Second streets, was completely submerged. Messenger boys hustled through the rain with bare feet and trousers rolled above their knees.

The hollows under the railroad bridges on Park and avenues were formed into miniature lakes with the water reaching to the bodies of the buggies and in some instances above them. Pedestrians were unable to cross these streets without wading through two feet of water on the elevated sidewalks.

Frightening reports came from Bound Brook concerning the overflow of the Raritan and it is said that the flood of February 6, 1896, was equalled. Investigation on the part of The Press reporters, however, showed that they were greatly exaggerated. The Raritan overflowed its banks in one end of town and submerged several of the streets but at no time was the danger anything equal to that of the former freshet.

The Park Club suffered by last night's flood to the amount of $400 or $500. The piling, which was put in a couple of years ago to keep the brook in its course and from overflowing the banks on it and eating the bank away, was torn out and carried downstream where it lodged against fences and trees. There is a bend in the brook at this point and the swift current of last night soon swept away the bank for a distance of nearly twenty feet, where formerly the Park Club's lawn was situated. The water submerged the courts and ruined the hard finish which time and work had made. Logs and debris of every kind now covers the entire lawn.

The pilings all along the entire brook have been weakened and below the Washington avenue bridge there is not enough left to tell that there were ever any there.

The entire course of the brook was changed opposite the Park Club. Where the brook now runs is the property of the Park Club.

The former course of the stream at this point is entirely filled with gravel, sand and rubbish of all sorts.

The Girard avenue bridge was overflowed by the water to a depth of one foot and three inches, but luckily it stood the strain.

The old ball grounds off of West Front street, near Washington avenue, was covered by a stream from one and a half to two feet deep. Near this point the new bridge for Sycamore avenue is to be built, and last fall the people who are having the street put through, erected abutments to keep the stream in its course. The water took these out like straws and carried a great deal of the bank with it. At this point is the brook boys have been going in bathing lately and called it the Willows. This morning a number of boys thought it would be a great time for a swim, and so several of the more venturesome disrobed and went into the water. Willie Edmundson, who was more daring than the rest, dove from a limb of a fallen tree, a distance of ten feet, into the water.

He disappeared and his companion thought he was longer than usual in coming to the top. When he did rise he yelled for help and said he was hurt. When he came up the second time he grasped a pole and was helped out of the water by some of his companions. He said he was stunned when he struck the water, and when he came to surface he was unable to swim at all.

The water rose so high under the stables at Slimm's Hotel, on Somerset street, that the wagons and horses and all other portable goods were removed at 9 o'clock last night. The horses were stabled at Roberts' livery.

There was a general wash out of everything about the new Watchung bridge. The foot bridge, which had been erected to serve pedestrians while the new one is being constructed, had the supports washed from under it early in the evening. Danger signals and lanterns were displayed, while a man at each end prevented people from crossing, who might be willing to trust their life to the frail support.

The middle pier of the new bridge was damaged to some extent, but $100 will probably cover the loss to the contractor. The water was up even with the floor of Slimm's lake house and poured over the dam in a wall two feet thick.

No other damage was reported along Green Brook except to chicken houses, fences and outhouses.

Cedar brook overflowed its banks between Putnam and LaGrande avenues and flooded adjacent fields. The water rose during the evening to the height of the Putnam avenue bridge and flooded the street at that point. Cellars in the vicinity suffered considerably from the water that was several feet deep in many of them. The brook made things lively at Peapest and Jones avenues, where it threatened to flood the roadway.

The Hotel Grenada was flooded during the rain. The roof was like a sieve and allowed the water to run into the upper bedrooms and leave them in terrible condition. The water came through into Perry's barber shop and covered the floor to the depth of two inches, so that it was necessary to drill holes in the floor to allow it to escape.

The rain fell with great force in the Passaic Valley and the meadows on either side of the river were flooded. The farmers who had oats standing in the field say their crop will be a complete loss.

Under L. M. French's carriage factory, on Somerset street, the water raised within a foot of the girders that support the building and Mr. French and men out watching the brook until 9 o'clock this morning for fear that the floating debris would do some damage to the building.

Hudson River Day Boats.

The Day Line company have issued a handsome book of 150 pages, with almost every other page a map or a picture of some famous resort on the line of the river, including a map of the river from New York to Albany, showing all the principal landings, also giving a variety of tours reached by their line, with the prices of tickets; also giving the names and location and prices of board at different hotels and boarding houses. The book is a handy guide to anyone contemplating a trip anywhere along the Hudson, and will be sent to any address on receipt of 6 cents in stamps by F. B. Hilliard, general passenger agent, Desbrosses street pier, New York city.

OVER THE SEA OF DEATH

CAPTAIN OSTROM DIED SUDDENLY AT SNUG HARBOR, JULY 28.

Had Been Away for a Week and was in Good Health When He Left—Known as a Thorough Christian in All Respects.

The death of Captain William B. Ostrom, of East Ninth street, which occurred at Sailors' Snug Harbor, S. I., July 28th, will greatly shock the very large circle of friends and acquaintance living in this city. Mr. Ostrom went there about a week ago as well as usual. It was his custom to spend considerable time during the year at the Harbor, where he was entitled to a home by reason of his service on sailing vessels.

For a long time past he had been trouble with kidney complaint and during the past four years he suffered intensely at times. However, he was seldom detained at home or confined to his bed. He was a man of sterling worth and intimately known by the largest part of Plainfield's population. He was greatly admired and loved by those who knew him for his many excellent qualities. He always had a kind word for everyone with whom he came in contact and was always doing for others who needed assistance. In the home, the church and business circles he will be greatly missed, for he has an important factar in each.

Mr. Ostrom was born on East Broadway, New York, in 1819, and was the second youngest child of Dr. and Mrs. Jacob Ostrom. His father was a well known and celebrated physician and died at the age of 33 years, when his son was seven years old. After his father died Mr. Ostrom followed out a strong developed plan of going to sea. He started in as a helper on a sailing vessel and followed the business for fourteen years. During the latter part of his sea life he filled the position of captain. In the year 1851 he made his last trip across the Atlantic to Liverpool. He was sought after by the owners of the vessels as they had a special trip to make and desired him to command the ship. He did so and made the trip in very quick time. He left the sea he engaged in the shipping business in New York where he remained for nearly thirty years.

From there he went to Philadelphia and continued the same business About four years ago he gave up that business and associated himself with D. C. Tvins, of this city, in the coal and lumber business. It was in 1874 that he came to Plainfield to live, but still he continued the shipping bust ness until four years ago.

As an active Christian he was well known. His first church connection was with Dr. Cuyler's church in New York, where he was one of the deacons. Later he joined the Lee Avenue Congregational church in Brooklyn where he served as an elder for seventeen years.

When he came to Plainfield he associated himself with the Crescent Avenue church and there he held the position of elder for about fifteen years. In the Bethel Mission he was an active worker and was one of the most prominent leaders. For a long time he taught a Sunday school class and gave it up when his health compelled him to do so. His valued assistance in church work made him a strong supporter of the church, and his generosity was felt in every department of work.

Personally speaking he had an exceedingly strong voice, and it is said that when he followed the life of a sailor he never used a trumphet, but relied entirely on his voice.

His first wife and nine children passed away sometime ago, and he married again later in life and now leaves a widow and six grandchildren.

ATTESTED RESPECT AND LOVE.

Large Attendance at the Obsequies of the Late W. C. Burt

The funeral services of the late William C. Burt were held from his residence on West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon. The funeral was largely attended by the many in this city who knew and respected him, and also by a delegation of the officers of the Seamen's Savings Bank, of New York, where he was employed.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell and James A. McGee were in charge of the services, which consisted of prayer, appropriate Scripture readings and a few remarks by both the leaders. They referred to the good work that he had done through his lifetime, of his valuable assistance to the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and also of his love and care for those at home.

After the funeral, the remains were interred in the family plot in the Bound Brook cemetery.

Yellow Cards Disappearing.

Plainfield has almost entirely recovered from her recent scarlet fever epidemic and the dreaded yellow cards of the Health Board are rapidly disappearing. The quarantine was removed from the houses of Edward Ingham, of Watchung avenue, and Edward Baker, of East Third street. Quarantine will be removed from a number of other houses this week.

Dr. O. R. King and wife, of Putnam avenue, are at St. Albans, Vt.

EX-MAYOR TAKES A WIFE

JOHN H. VANWINCKLE MARRIED TO ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS BELLE.

Miss Isabella M. Stout the Charming Bride—Nuptial Knot Tied in a Church, Which Was Handsomely Decorated.

Miss Isabella M. Stout, the youngest daughter of Former Mayor and Mrs. Stout, of Atlantic Highlands, and Former Mayor John H. VanWinckle, of Duer street, were united in marriage at the M. E. church, Atlantic Highlands, Thursday afternoon. The ceremony was a pretty one and was attended by many of the friends and relatives of the couple. The marriage took place at 3 o'clock, and was performed by Rev. Mr. Hines, pastor of the church.

The church was handsomely decorated with flowers for the occasion. The altar was a bank of potted plants and palms, with cut flowers to give give color to the effect. The bride was gowned in white satin and carried a large bouquet of white bride roses. She was escorted to the altar by her father and given away by him.

The four ushers, John H. Van Winkle, Jr., and Francis J. Blatz, of Plainfield, and Thomas Emery and Charles Ford, of Atlantic Highlands, headed the bridal past. They were followed by a niece and nephew of the bride, Miss Dolly Vanderbilt, of Atlantic Highlands, gowned in white silk, and Evan TenBrook Stedman, of Hoboken, who carried baskets of white roses. After the ceremony had been performed they scattered the roses in the path of the newly-married couple.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Van Winkle went to the handsome residence of the bride's father, where a reception was held for the relatives of the couple. A collation was served. The house was artistically decorated with flowers.

The children who scattered flowers in the path of the couple received dainty little gold rings. Each of the ushers received a pearl pin. There were many valuable and useful gifts presented to the newly wedded pair.

They took the 6 o'clock boat from Sandy Hook for New York and were given a rousing reception by their friends, who plentifully showered them with rice and old shoes. Mr. and Mrs. VanWinkle went to the Kitatinny House, Delaware Water Gap, to spend some time, and then go to Asbury Park to stay until Sept. 1st. They will reside at 19 Duer street, North Plainfield.

REALTY CHANGES.

Plainfield Matters of Recent Record in County Clerk's Office.

The New Jersey Contractor and Gazette publishes the following property transfers as recorded at County Clerk Howard's office, July 23d to 29th, inclusive:

Robert G. Hoperaft, New York, to John H Lush, New York, lot South avenue, near Belvidere avenue, Plainfield. $1. Adaline D. Townsend, et ux, New York, to Lewis C. Mack, Somerville, and Geo. MacLaughlin, North Plainfield, lots 1, block A; lots 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 10 and part of 11, same block, northerly line of Third street, Plainfield: also all of lot 13 and part of lot 12, block A; also lots No 17, 18, 19 and part of 20, block A; also lots 24, 25, 26, 27 and parts of lots 23 and 28, block A; also all of lot 29, block A, with part of lots 30 and 37, same block, and all of lot 46 and part of lots 37 and 41 in same block, with lots 47, 48, 49, 50, 51 and 52 and lots 1 to 20, block B, being the whole of block, with part of lots 1 to 4, block C, all lots from 5 to 9, same block; also lots from 1 to 4 and part of lot 5, block D, with lots 8 to 8 and lots 1 to 4, block E, Plainfield, $18,600. Annie Hand et ux to Cornelius Van Horne, Plainfield, lot South avenue. $1. J. DeLarry, Plainfield, to Asa B. Eastman, lot Crescent avenue, $1. William W. Gilly et ux, Westfield, to Elston A. French, Plainfield, 18 acres, more or leading through Westfield, adjoining Osborn land, $1. James C. Pope Plainfield, et al, executors, to Mary Brunson, North Plainfield, lot Second avenue, near Watchung avenue; lot southerly side of East Fourth street, near Washington street; also lot East Fourth street, southwest side of Washington street, Plainfield, $1. Hugh Aleser, Jr., Brooklyn, et ux, to Gertrude F. Haviland, North Plainfield, lot Fourth street, adjoining Thickstun property, Plainfield, $3,500. Gertrude T. Haviland, North Plainfield, et ux, to E. F. Vail, Plainfield, lot Fourth street, $1. E. F. Vail to Gertrude T. Haviland, tract southeasterly side of South avenue, 65 feet southwest of Dobbins place, $1. Georgianna Richtere, Perth Amboy, et ux, to John Rafferty, Plainfield, tract Sandford avenue northwesterly side of Front street, Plainfield, $1,500. Mary Brunson to James C. Pope, et al, lots East Second street, East Fourth street and Washington street, $1: Adeline E. King, Bernards, to W. E. King, Bernards, lot Front street, Plainfield, $1. Frances P. White et ux to Alonzo Aldrich, Plainfield, lot Monroe avenue, Plainfield, $1. Emma M. Gray, Plainfield, to G. W. Benson, Salem, lot Hillside avenue, Plainfield, $2,000.

The following contract was also filed:

Stillman School annex, Plainfield, with D. W Littell, plumbing and heating, $742.

MAY HAVE BEEN ACCIDENTAL.

Laudanum and Toothache Drops Found in Bed on Which Kate Whisset Died.

Regarding the death of Mrs. Kate Whisset, which occurred last week at McVey's Hotel on North avenue, certain things have since come to light to show that the gas was aided in its deadly work. In cleaning up the room after the body was removed, a half bottle of laudanum was found under the bed clothes in addition to some toothache drops. It is believed that Mrs. Whisset drank the missing half bottle of laudanum before she turned on the gas. The county physician did not find the bottles when he examined the case previous to granting a burial permit.

A STORM OF WORDS NOW.

EXCITED OPPONENTS TO THE WASHINGTONVILLE DAM MEET.

Sufferers From the High Water Want to Secure an Injunction to Prevent the Dam From Being Built Again.

It was altogether a stormy meeting that the property owners along the course of Stony brook held last Friday, when they gathered to discuss some course of action to take to protect themselves against a sudden inundation of their property by a future breaking of the dam at Washingtonville. The specific purpose of the meeting, as stated by its chairman, was to take action to prevent the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company from rebuilding their large dam at Washingtonville, or compel them to give a suitable guarantee that all damage occasioned by a future breaking of the dam would be settled for in full without lawsuit.

The damaged ones were there and so were several score of spectators who had come to see the fun, and were generally interested in the subject. Then there were the representatives of the Ice Company, who came to defend their own interests. The audience was apparently divided into two prominent delegations. The largest consisted of those who were opposed to the rebuilding of the dam and were down on the ice company in general. The other party consisted of the Ice Company men and their friends. There were over 100 delegates altogether and they filled Spencer's hall to overflowing.

The meeting had been called by several of the interested parties for 8 o'clock, but it was 8:40 o'clock before Dr. J. H. Cooley called the meeting to order. He was made chairman at once and then made a few remarks stating the object of the meeting. When the Ice Company had proposed to build the big dam, he said he had objected at first, but the company insured him that what would be his loss would be their loss also and that they would build a dam that could not break. The dam had been built, engineers had condemned it, and the first big storm had caused it to burst. It was the duty of the property owners along the line of Stony brook, he continued, to find out what rights they had in the matter and whether the Ice Company could continue to build dams and allow them to burst and destroy the property of others without the latter having any redress whatever. If that's the case, they might just as well turn over their property to the Ice Company. He then made a few remarks about dams built on mountain streams and how they are always a menace to the country below them, no matter how well the dam is built. He gave as an example the flood at Mattawan when a well-built dam was washed out. As to the high water question, he explained, it was all right, but when the debris washed down by the stream began to block that up and the water began to run around, the dam was sure to go, no matter how well built. No damage had ever been done along Stony brook, he said, except when a dam above had broken.

There was a few minutes silence and then he called on Mr. Beeching for his opinion. Mr. Beeching did not believe that a dam could be built there, except at very great expense, that would hold the water at the time of a freshet. A straight dam, he said, was weaker than the other kind.

Andrew Wilson, of the Ice Company, rose and asked to be heard. That he spoke on an unpopular side was evidenced by the constant interruptions that were made. All sorts of remarks about him and the dam were heard on every side. He went on to talk about the breaking of the dam and the cause, which, he said, the company understood. The dam had been engineered to death, he said. F. A. Dunham had been secured to draw plans for the dam. Then, he continued, all sorts of stories regarding the damage that would be done by the bursting of the dam had been circulated and those had all been proved to be false. Attempts had been made to stop the building of it by petitions to the Borough Council and the Township Committee and so the company had gone to Wallman, Keith & Co., well-known reservoir builders of New York, and given them the plans for revision. This was done to satisfy the people of North Plainfield and Washingtonville, he said.

The New York firm, he continued, had promised to delegate their best man to superintend the building of the dam. They refused to have anything to do with it, however, unless their plans were carried out to the letter. The Ice Company wanted to put up a log foundation under where the water fell, but the New Yorkers said no and that had been where the trouble was, for the apparently strong foundation was eaten into by the water and the dam undermined. The dam, had it not been undermined, could have easily held the water.

Then he went on to say that the highest water was at 9 o'clock and the dam burst at 11:30 o'clock. A roar of disapproval came from the listeners. Dr. Cooley rose in his seat and quietly remarked that the high water was between 11 and 12 o'clock and he was prepared to prove it. The damage done to his property was done at that time, except the loss of the bridge, which was wrecked by a big tree that came down stream.

Al Smalley joined in the controversy and said that Somerset street was flooded at 8 o'clock and that when the dam burst there was no water there.

"That's a lie," yelled a man in the back of the room, "I got my knees wet at 12 o'clock on Somerset street."

The spectators applauded and Adam Fritz jumped up amid great excitement. His remarks were received with vociferous applause.

Fritz said that the object of the meeting was action and not argument and that they would hire somebody to argue the question was, could an injunction be secured? There was water on Somerset street at 12 o'clock and it was higher than it was at 8 o'clock, so said Mr. Fritz. Sharp words were passed between some of the crowd and a lively time ensued. The meeting began to grow more and more exciting. Dr. Cooley was cool, but decisive in his remarks and Mr. Wilson argued with him. Then Wilson said that the flood on Somerset street was caused by the removal of the embankment near Dr. Cooley's place. To the Doctor. Washingtonville, he said, the water was only up to his shoe-tops on the bridge when the dam went while it had been waist-deep early in the evening.

Will Demler, of Washingtonville, said he was there and the water was seven times as high as Mr. Wilson's shoe tops and was within six inches of the highest water, at which statement the crowd howled. Then he added that Mr. Wilson had said that if he could not make the dam strong, he would make it weak. Mr. Wilson indignantly denied the statement but several shouted that it was true.

A. E. Faber, Jr., moved that all except the interested parties leave the room. That was a signal for a grand uproar and the crowd slowly departed. Angry words were passed between two of the speakers and blows appeared likely to follow but the disputants were content to use their tongues only. One man jumped up on a chair and angrily catechised the rest. At last the room was cleared. A few remarks by Dr. Cooley on the circumstances of the case resulted in a motion that a committe composed of Adam Fritz, Will Demler and Dr. Cooley secure counsel and see what rights the property owners had and whether it was possible to secure an injunction to restrain the Ice Company from building the dam. Will Demler resigned from the committee in favor of A. E. Faber, Jr., and the motion was unanimously. Then the meeting adjourned to meet again at the call of the chair.

FAST RACING ASSURED.

Events for Horsemen at the State Fair in September.

The fall campaign of the light harness horse looks bright for owners throughout the State. The purses announced by the managers of the New Jersey State Fair are of a most liberal order and it is anticipated that this season's race meet at the beautiful grounds of the society, located at Waverley Park, near Newark, will be the scene of some of the best races ever held in this the State. Altogether the purses offered for four days' races amounts to $6,400, divided into many classes.

This liberal encouragement by the society to owners of trotting stock is of particular benefit to the State, stimulating as it does the breeding interests. The people in auxiliary forts to its location between the great cities of New York and Philadelphia, and if the farmers would fully realize their opportunity the breeding and raising of high class horses for road and carriage use would bring them a round sum annually. The cities named furnish a ready market for the right class of horses at prices that pay.

Speed contests, such as those seen at "Old Waverley," Somerville, Trenton and Mt. Holly, have done good work in the past toward improving the breeding interests, and with continued encouragement in the shape of purses like those announced for the coming State Fair, to be held September 6th to 10th, it is safe to look forward to a revival in this branch of the animal industry.

The society has also arranged a full programme for show class horses in which are offered prizes amounting to $2,500, and to insure fair and impartial judgment they have selected some of the leading judges in the United States, Mr. James Walker, of Colbwater, Michigan, to serve as expert in placing the various awards to the horse department.

It is the desire of the society to make this year's meet a banner one, and all horsemen and lovers of the light harness horse are invited to take part in making the race events to be decided at this year's State Fair the best on record.

—W. J. Conroy, of the borough, is building an addition to his house and is having his entire house painted.

AN INVASION OF DEATH.

WILLIAM C. BURT PASSED AWAY AT HIS HOME LAST FRIDAY.

He Was Well-Known in Financial Circles in New York, Where He Was Receiving Teller in the Seamen's Savings Bank.

Another invasion into the ranks of Plainfield's old and respected citizens by death was recorded Friday, when at 12:30 o'clock William C. Burt passed away at his home on West Seventh street after confinement to the house for a month with an ailment which he was unable to overcome.

Mr. Burt has been a resident of this city for nineteen years and was well known to many Plainfielders, though his business connections were in New York, where for thirty-three years he has been in the employ of the Seamen's Savings Bank on Wall street. Entering the institution at an early age he worked himself up to the responsible position of receiving teller and was one of the best known bank officials in the business district of the metropolis. He was born in Yonkers, N. Y., but his long residence here had identified him thoroughly with this section.

He was an active worker in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, where his individual services and financial assistance did much to help build the church to its present prosperous condition. He was president of the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church Society.

He was also a member of the Royal Arcanum in which he carried a life insurance policy.

He was married thirty-three years ago, his wife, who survives him, being a daughter of the late Chauncey Shaffer, one of New York's well-known lawyers in his time. He leaves eight children, as follows: Warren S., Clara M., Florence G., Chauncey H., Edith L., Amy G., Jessie and Charles. He passed his sixtieth birthday the first of last February.

CLEMENT M. RUTTER DEAD.

One of the Oldest Members of the Stock Exchange Carried Off.

Clement Milton Rutter, once a well-known resident of Plainfield, and one of the oldest members of the Stock Exchange, died of heart trouble Tuesday July 27, at his home 206 West Fifty-second street, New York. His death, while sudden, was not altogether unexpected to his family, but the news of it came as a shock to many of his associates and acquaintances in the down-town financial district. He was at his office, 45 Broadway, attending to business Monday, and had a busy day.

He retired early Monday evening without any sign of illness. A little after midnight he aroused his wife, complaining of shortness of breath, and the family was called and a physician was summoned. All remedies proved of no avail, however, and at 12:40 o'clock he expired.

Mr. Rutter was born March 13, 1832, in Pottstown, Penn. His ancestors came to this country with William Penn and his mother belonged to the Potts family, after which that town was named. He went to Philadelphia to begin his business career and for two years was a member of the Stock Exchange in that city. Then seeing greater opportunities in New York he went there, his membership in the New York Stock Exchange dating from July 31, 1860. In the thirty-seven years of his Wall street experience he had many ups and downs of fortune, had won and lost, his friends say, several fortunes, yet he never failed, and his seat on the Exchange was never in jeopardy. Among his fellows he preserved the spotless reputation for reliability and integrity. He did not engage in speculation, but did a commission business. His transactions on the Exchange for many years past have been almost exclusively in the bond room.

He leaves a wife and one daughter, the wife of Harry W. Lindsley, a broker who has been closely associated with him for some years.

HELPFUL SERMONS.

Large Congregation Heard Rev. Dr. Carlos Martyn Preach.

Rev. Carlos Martyn, D. D., who preached to a large and fashionable church Sunday morning and evening, was greatly pleased with the large congregation that was present at both services. He repaid everybody in attendance by delivering excellent discourses. At the morning service his theme was "Our Influence," his text being "For None of Us Liveth to Himself," Romans 14th, part of the seventh verse. In the evening his subject was "Under the Juniper Tree," from the text 1st Kings, 19th chapter, fourth verse. It was a panacea to despondent persons and those afflicted with the blues. After the morning service the Consistory of the church was called together and Dr. Martyn was engaged to supply the pulpit for two more Sundays, the 8th and 15th instant.

Mayor Fisk as a Winner.

In the golf records of the Waumbek in the White Mountains, our worthy mayor, Charles W. Fisk, is mentioned as winning the first position in the first preliminary event, making 18 holes in 100 strokes.

AGAINST A STRONG TEAM

The Crescents Defeated by Williamsburgh Field Club.

VISITORS PLAYED WELL ALL THROUGH

Good Fielding and the Bunching of Their Hits at the Proper Time Were the Points That Won the Game—Tom Keller Was the Umpire —The Score in Detail Given Below.

The best baseball team that has played in Plainfield this year, the Williamsburgh Field Club, met the Crescents Saturday on the latter's grounds and administered a rousing defeat to the local players. The visitors won by a score of 13 to 5.

The visitors knew two things. They knew how to field the ball and they knew how to bunch their hits and that was where Plainfield lost the game. The Plainfield batters found the Williamsburgh pitcher easy to hit but, when the important moment arrived, they were too anxious. Charters, the Williamsburgh pitcher, smiled and threw a high ball whereat the home batter struck out. Then in fielding the visiting players made some wonderful catches that nobody expected them to and two double plays resulted. The visitors knew how to handle the ball on the bases and caught several base runners.

The game at the start was all right. It was close and although the visitors gained a lead it was so small that the audience was kept in doubt. At the end of the fourth inning, the score stood 4 to 3. Several bases on balls had materially aided the visitors, for they found MacLarty rather hard to hit. Then came the eventful fifth inning in which the Williamsburgh players waked up to the necessities of the occasion and batted like fiends. Three singles, a double, and a home run by Brady, aided by a base on balls and several expensive errors, netted seven runs for them.

In their half of the inning the Crescents started in. Symons hit for three bases, but was put out on second in a double play, the Williamsburg left fielder making a fine running catch and throwing the ball to second. Then the Crescents went in and made two runs with two men out. That was the last time they scored, for although they hit Charters freely, the hits were scattered. Their great chance for run getting was in the fourth, when the bases were filled and none out. MacBeth was so anxious to hit the ball that he hit at everything that came along and struck out on three high balls. Cooney made a sacrifice hit bringing in one man, and then Mumford struck at three high balls and ended the agony by going out.

The visitors never found MacLarty after the fifth. They scored one in the eighth on some expensive errors, but MacLarty ended their chances by striking out the man that made the home run and two other of their best batters. That home run would have probably not have been more than a two or three base hit at the most had not the ball lost itself in the weeds and refused to be found.

While the Williamsburgh team was composed entirely of professionals, there was one player that stood out from among the rest by his brilliant playing. That was Bryan, the first baseman. He was everywhere at once and probably had much to do with the small score of the Crescents, for he stopped everything, making some brilliant catches for the infielders threw very wild to first at times.

The detailed score is as follows:

CRESCENTS.

	A.B.	R.	B.H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Symons, rf	4	0	1	2	0	0
Hollister, ss	5	0	0	3	4	2
Keller, c	5	0	2	8	2	0
DeLarty, c	4	3	2	0	5	2
Corbin, 1b	4	0	2	9	0	1
Cooney, lf	4	0	2	1	1	1
Colbeth, If	4	0	0	1	0	0
Bleeker, 2b	4	0	0	2	2	0
Mumford, cf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Total	38	5	9	27	17	6

WILLIAMSBURGH F. C.

	A.B.	R.	B.H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Garner, 2b	5	2	0	2	1	1
Brady, lf	5	2	2	1	0	0
Bryan, 1b	5	2	3	9	1	1
McNeel, c	4	1	2	3	2	1
Bolton, rf	4	1	1	1	0	0
McNeel, P. rf	4	1	1	0	0	0
Ryan, ss	4	2	2	2	2	0
Dykins, c	4	0	1	3	1	0
Charters, p	4	0	0	0	3	0
Total	40	13	11	27	15	3

BY INNINGS.

Williamsburg F. C.	0	2	1	7	0	0	1	0	—13
Crescents	0	0	0	0	0	0	4	1	—5

Earned runs—Crescents, 1; Williamsburgh F. C., 2. Two-base hits—Symons, Bryan, Ryan, Garner. Three-base hits—Hollister, Bleeker. Stolen bases—Symons, Corbin, McNeel, Garner, Brady, Bryan, Ryan. Bases on balls—By McLarty, 5; by Charters, 3. Struck out—By McLarty, 6; by Charters, 3. Double plays—Hollister, Keller; Keller, Hollister and Corbin; Brady and Garner. Passed balls—Keller, 2; Charters, 1. Passed balls—Young, 1; Bolton, 1. Left on bases—Crescents, 9; Williamsburgh, 5. Time of game—1 hour, 45 minutes. Umpire—Thos. H. Keller, of Plainfield.

White Township Wins Two.

In the bicycle contests at Sherwin's store, which closed Saturday night, Willie Townley, of West Second street, had the largest amount of sales and won the bicycle. Ralph Bullman was second, and Edna Randolph third.

—D. W. Littell, the North avenue plumber, has received the contract for placing the sanitary improvements in the Public High School building and the work will be started soon.

—The Elizabeth dog ordinance has become a dead letter. There is no dog-catcher or pound, and for the first time in years dogs roam the city without restraint.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

OUSTING POSTMASTERS.

By securing the appointment and confirmation of George N. Wimer, as postmaster at Palmyria, Burlington county, Congressman Gardner believes he has established the precedent that the Democratic incumbents in New Jersey postoffices will be allowed to serve only for such a length of time as will cover four years from the date when Republican postmasters turned over their offices under the recent Cleveland administration. This precedent wholly ignores the date of a postmaster's confirmation, and makes no exceptions for cases in which Democratic postmasters either died or were removed and other Democrats were appointed for a new term of four years. There are many offices in New Jersey affected by this ruling, but it is believed that the particular office Mr. Gardner had in mind was the Atlantic City postoffice, to which Postmaster Devine was appointed last year and confirmed a few months ago. In the ordinary course of events, Mr. Devine's term would not expire until 1901, but as his predecessor was appointed in 1894, it is likely that Congressman Gardner will try to have him removed next year, and a Republican appointed in his stead.—Summit Record.

PROMPT PAY NOW.

The new method of rendering bills to the city and the accompanying manner of auditing and paying them, as devised by City Treasurer Arnold, is a splendid one and affords the city's creditors an opportunity of receiving their money the morning following the meeting of the Common Council when the accounts are passed upon. Under the old system it was necessary to wait for several days before compliance with the restrictions could be fulfilled. Now business men to whom the city is indebted can render their bills to the Council at night and the following day secure their money, an important factor in business affairs. Besides the promptness of paying, the new system has also the advantage of several other desirable features.

A LEGISLATIVE FORECAST.

A Trenton correspondent says that the Democrats cannot capture the next Legislature unless they get six or seven members in Essex county. On the legislative ticket, the Democrats may reasonably indulge the hope that they will elect Assemblymen as follows, that is if they are in a condition to make an earnest contest: Hudson, 11; Bergen, 2; Sussex, 1; Hunterdon, 2; Warren, 2; Monmouth, 3; Middlesex, 3. That would be a total of 24. Should they elect 11 in Essex then they would have the Legislature on joint ballot very probably. And besides they would have the counties of Union, Somerset, Cape May, Passaic and Salem to fall back upon with a chance of getting more members.

ROOM FOR ARGUMENT.

There are other things besides the weather which the summer boarding house-keepers of New Jersey have to contend with, and one of them is the Plainfield sewage beds, if Mrs. Sarah Milliken's argument holds good. Just what view the courts will take in deciding the question of how much, if any, injury the establishment and operation of the sewage beds have brought to Mrs. Milliken offers an unlimited field for argument. Doubtless if Mrs. Milliken should push her suit to a successful issue the city would be kept busy for several years defending other similar prosecutions.

And Still Another!

Another attempt at burglary was made in Westfield last Saturday night. The family of Dr. William Gale, on Elm street, were disturbed during the night by noises about the house, and on Sunday it was discovered that the shutters on the dining room windows had been pried open with a jimmy and an attempt made to force the catch on the window. The burglars were probably frightened away before completing their work.

Position of Street Lights Changed.

As a result of the recent tour of investigation made by the Common Council's committee on Streets and Lights, the position of several electric street lights in the city has been changed to secure better results.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

KIRKMAN'S BORAX SOAP.

WAGONS FREE

A pretty and useful wagon will be sent free to any Boy or Girl who will mail 50 wrappers of Kirkman's Borax Soap to our factory, cor. Bridge and Water Streets, Brooklyn. The wagon is a good strong one, 12 inches wide by 24 inches long, with spoke wheels as shown in the picture. Our advertisement is printed on the sides and ends of each wagon.

This offer is made to the residents of Plainfield, Dunellen and Westfield, and is not good after September 1st, 1897.

Any boy or girl can easily gather 50 of the Kirkman's Borax Soap wrappers. Get your folks, get your friends, get your neighbors to buy Kirkman's Borax Soap and give you the wrappers.

It is the very best laundry soap made. Every one who uses it likes it. Read the wrappers and see the list of premiums we give.

☞ NOTICE.—Don't send the entire wrappers. Send the Coupons only, and be sure to send your name and address. We may not be able to deliver the wagon to your house promptly but we will send it as soon as possible. Deliveries will be made in Westfield, Plainfield and Dunellen only. This offer is good to September 1, 1897.

WRITE TO-DAY FOR COMPLETE LIST.

NOVELTIES WILL BE CONTINUALLY ADDED.

Established 1837. KIRKMAN & SON, Brooklyn, N. Y.

42, 44, 46, 48, & 52 Bridge St., 224, 225, 227, 229, 231, 233 & 235 Water St.,

THE G. O. P. BY THE OCEAN

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE OUTING OF UNION COUNTY POLITICIANS.

The Date is August 24th, and It is Expected That a Big Time Will be Enjoyed in Many More Ways Than One by Guests.

The first of the annual outings of the Republicans of Union county will be held on August 24th, at Neptune Heights, near Avon-by-the-Sea. The purpose is to bring together socially the Republicans, and the suggestion was made to the county executive committee some months ago by Hon. Charles N. Codding, under whose direction the plans have been perfected.

The start will be from Elizabeth, and those who go will assemble at the Republican headquarters in the Dix building at 9 o'clock on the morning of August 24th. There will be a special train on the Central Railroad to take the party to Avon-by-the-Sea, which is below Ocean Grove, and they will march to Neptune Heights, where there is a large hotel, and pavilion, grove, bathing houses, etc.

Governor Griggs, Senator Sewell, Comptroller Hancock, State Treasurer Swain and other distinguished men of the State will be invited. A special feature of the day will be a Rhode Island clambake, served in fine style, at the hotel.

The guests will be furnished with handsome badges and canes, and the tickets, which will include everything, transportation and dinner, will be sold at $2.50, and will be ready in a few days.

FESTIVAL TO BE ARRANGED.

Activity Already Evidenced in Reorganized Catholic Club.

The first regular meeting of the Catholic Club was held in the clubhouse at Sixth and Liberty streets last Monday. The attendance was large, President George J. Tobin presided. As there are no general committees yet appointed, the reports were not lengthy.

The chair appointed John Powers, J. J. Kenney, M. Owen, M. Casben, and John Keenan a committee to act in conjunction with the Ladies' Sewing Society in arranging a peach festival to take place the latter part of the month. The clubhouse will hereafter be open regularly to members, who can secure keys from the janitor. Frank McInerney was legally installed as janitor.

A Remarkable Case of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERG, Allentown, Pa. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Cor. Park & North Aves., Plainfield.

A Home Party.

Mrs. Henry Woodland, of Grand view avenue, gave a home party last week. Among her guests were Mrs. Stultz, of Boston; Miss Whitehead and Charles Woodland of Newark; Harry Hottenroth, of East Orange, and Fred Baker, of Philadelphia.

Detective Blackford Promoted.

John L. Blackford, of East Fifth street, who has been doing detective work for the Central Railroad Company for some time, has been appointed to the responsible position of night man at the station in Communipaw.

HER BOARDERS ARE GONE

ATTRIBUTES THE CAUSE TO SEWAGE BEDS—WANTS $10,000 SALVAGE.

Mrs. Sarah Milliken Now Claims the Sewage Beds Have Ruined Her Business of Catering to the Summer Boarders.

There has been a great deal said about the damage that the residents in the neighborhood of the city farm claim has been done to their property by the sewer beds but now one of them, Mrs. Milliken, promises to take action. Her attorneys, Swackhamer & Williams, have looked over the situation and declare that there is able reason for a suit which Mrs. Milliken has instructed them to bring against the City of Plainfield in the near future. The suit is to be for $10,000.

When the city selected the present location for the sewer beds, there was much indignant protest from the people living in the vicinity. The city officials claimed that there would be no unpleasant odors or unhealthy features to the sewer beds and now say that their claim has been carried out. The residents do not agree with them, however, and say that the location of the beds in that vicinity has greatly depreciated the value of real estate in that immediate neighborhood.

Mrs. Milliken occupies a large house fronting on West Front street, nor far from the Dunellen line. Her property back to the sewer beds. She has taken boarders and before this year her house has been crowded with them. They greatly liked the place and all around it. This year a number of them came back, but she claims that they left very soon, complaining about the stench arising from the city farm which they declared they could not endure. Mrs. Milliken claims that it was very bad. Other boarders, she claims, have written to her telling her that they will not spend the summer with her on account of the sewage beds, complaining of being in close proximity on account of the odor and the unhealthy effects.

Mrs. Milliken depended greatly on the income from her boarders to support herself and family, and now that they have gone or refused to come back, she is placed in an unpleasant position. She has some powerful friends who are behind her, however, who are willing to support her in a suit against the city.

The neighbors all claim that they have suffered from the establishment of the sewer farm in that vicinity and are willing to support Mrs. Milliken in her efforts to obtain the redress she claims.

S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Swackhamer & Williams, paid a visit to the sewer farm, Saturday afternoon, to look around and see just what reason there was for a suit, if any. Mr. Swackhamer says that he found the situation far worse than he anticipated. He says he would not live in that vicinity if any one would give him a house and lot. He thinks that Mrs. Milliken has able reasons for suing the city and says that the suit will be started in the Supreme Court of New Jersey as soon as the necessary papers are drawn up.

Walked Six Miles.

John Newton Goddard and Fred Worth Goddard, of East Ninth street, rode over to Orange, Sunday, to spend the evening with friends there. As they left Orange, the lead to John N. Goddard's wheel gave way and he was thrown to the ground. He escaped uninjured but the wheel was a wreck. The trolley cars that go to Newark refused to take the wheel and he had to walk the six miles to Newark as the D. L. & W. trains do not run on Sunday. At Newark, he returned to Plainfield by the Jersey Central railroad.

For 25 Wrappers

Any one of the following—War Bible, Photo of U. S. Navy Ships, Silver Ring for Children, Pictures—large variety of subjects, Silver Knot Ring—very attractive.

For 50 Wrappers

Any one of the following—Pocket Book with Sterling Silver Corners, Pocket Knife, Silver Cuff Buttons, Stick Pin, your initial engraved on pearl, Silver Thimble, solid silver, Ladies' Silk Belt with plated buckle, Solid Silver Ring, Tea Spoons of superior quality, Silver Plated Scissors, Tea steel, Side Shell, Child's Set, plated knife fork and spoon, One Silver Buckle Pin, Hair Pin for Ladies, Hat Pin, butterfly enameled design.

For 100 Wrappers

Any one of the following—Scissors, Tea steel, Side Combs, solid silver ornaments, Tea Thimble, Tea Spoons, One Silver Plated Knife and Fork, Two Table Spoons, Two Silver Plated Table Spoons, Six Silver Plated Coffee Spoons, Six Silver Plated Dessert Forks, Solid Gold Ring, for baby, Gents' Silvered Knife, Watch, gilt case, good timekeeper, Fishing Hook solid silver, Nail File, sterling Silver handle.

☞ To get any of the following premiums, you must send the coupons to our main office, Kirkman's Borax Soap, 52 Bridge street, Brooklyn, N.Y., with your name and address, and we will mail you the premium.

IN A FOREIGN CIRCUS.

ROBERT WHITTAKER WRITES OF HIS EUROPEAN ENGAGEMENT.

He Has Been Laid Up Twice on Account of a Sprained Knee—He is Enthusiastic in Praise of Schumann's German Circus.

Having long ago won the plaudits of American people for his daring and graceful bareback riding in the circus arena, Robert Whittaker, who makes his home in this city and is well and popularly known, is now gratifying the ecoriums of the people of the European continent with the most celebrated tented show of Germany, Schumann's circus.

Mr. Whittaker arrived at Hamburg, after a pleasant voyage, April 26th. He remained at the seaport city for four days and then shipped for Chemnitze Lexion, the headquarters of the circus he had signed with. In making the trip overland to that point, Mr. Whittaker underwent an experience that he does at care to go through again. Though somewhat of a linguist, having acquired several foreign languages, he was utterly unable to make himself understood in Germany. The journey took twenty-four hours and during this time Mr. Whittaker was afraid to leave the car in which Dohlman, his horse, was quartered, lest it should be moved and he would be unable to find it or make himself understood in asking information. As a result, he had to go hungry until he arrived at his destination.

He opened with the circus May 8th and his riding made a great hit with the foreigners. Everything was going smoothly until the 15th of that month, when, as he finished his act and jumped from his horse, he sprained his knee and was laid up for nineteen days. He returned to work but his knee was still weak, and on July 8th he again sprained it and was laid up for two weeks more. Mr. Whittaker says that both Mr. and Mrs. Schumann and their associates were very kind to him.

Referring to the performances of the circus, Mr. Whittaker says that they are far superior to the American tented shows. He says Schumann is the greatest horse trainer he has ever met and that he has a troupe of eighteen black horses whose acts would set New York wild with wonder and delight. They do fifteen distinct acts; the Barnum trick horses are "not in it," in comparison, he says. Then there is a troupe of twelve trained lions that do more than the trick horses of Barnum, and in nearly all details the circus is prolific with new and startling acts that the American public has not yet seen. One of the principal riders is Joe Hodini, whose jockey acts excel any that Mr. Whittaker has ever witnessed.

Mr. Whittaker's engagement extends into the fall, and it is not known as yet whether or not he will return to this country immediately afterwards.

FORTUNE LEFT TO HIS WIFE.

J. G. Miller and His Better Half Bless the Pious Memory of Reuben Ayres.

J. G. Miller, formerly of this city, is of the opinion that it is good to be a married man. He is employed as clerk in a drug store in Elizabeth, on a small salary. On Friday he learned that his wife is one of the heirs interested in a very valuable tract of land at Alfred Centre, New York State.

Both ready cash and real estate will came at once into the hands of Mrs. Miller, who with her husband, was yesterday blessing the pious memory of the testator, Reuben Ayres, while they were receiving the congratulations of their numerous friends and acquaintances.

FATAL BICYCLE ACCIDENT.

Boy Caught His Trousers in the Chain and Was Thrown.

A sad death occurred Monday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock when Peter Rowe, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jere Rowe, of Grove street, passed away as the result of a bicycle accident which happened last Saturday afternoon. At the time young Rowe was riding his wheel in front of his home when his trouser leg caught in the chain on the wheel and threw him from the machine. In falling he struck on his head near the temple, and from that time until he died he remained in an unconscious condition. Dr. Adams was in attendance and did all that was in his power to bring the young man through, but medical skill was of no avail. The afflicted parents are nearly heart-broken over the loss of their son, and they have the sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances in their severe loss.

A Pleasant Birthday.

Last Saturday evening Mrs. John Rittenhouse, of New street, celebrated her sixty-ninth birthday anniversary in a pleasant manner. Sociability and exchanges of good wishes furnished the chief amusement for those present. Among those in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. William Addis, Miss Jennie Addis, Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell, of Plainfield; John Kennedy and family, of Dunellen; Mr. and Mrs. John Grisly, of Elizabeth; and friends from Annandale, Jersey City and New York.

IS IT A SUSTAINER?

How much manual labor do you think you do in a day? A post-man averages about 353 footsteps. An ordinary laborer 350 tons. A very hard day's work would be 400 tons. A clerk or bookkeeper may fall as low as from 15 to 20 tons. In Weston's recent walk to Albany, 150 miles, in 60 hours, we calculate his work was no less than 1005 footsteps, and his food consisted entirely of

H-O

Oatmeal. As an ideal sustainer, H-O meets every demand.

Subscriptions Free to

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly
Illustrated American (Weekly)
Truth (Weekly)
New England Magazine
Chatterbox (Monthly)
The American Kitchen Magazine
Home Magazine (Monthly)
of Binghamton, N. Y.

WITH COUPONS FROM THE

H.O.Co.'s Goods

ODD SORT OF EXPLOSION

A WESTFIELD LAD HANDLES A KETCHUP BOTTLE CARELESSLY.

The Contents Were Fermented and Had Generated Sufficient Pressure of Gas to Burst the Bottle With a Bad Effect.

William Moffett, Jr., a four-year-old boy living on Elmer street, Westfield, was injured Saturday evening by the explosion of a bottle of tomato ketchup. The youngster was playing in the cellar among some rubbish. Among the articles was an old bottle of tomato ketchup, which the boy handled and tossed about considerably. Suddenly there was a sharp report like the discharge of a gun, and when the family rushed downstairs the little fellow was found besmeared with ketchup and bleeding in several places from cuts made by pieces of the broken bottle.

Dr. Sinclair was sent for and dressed the cuts, which, while painful, were not of a serious nature.

It is probable that the ketchup, which was old, had been fermenting for some time and generated a large amount of gas in the bottle. The shaking which it received increased the pressure within until the bottle exploded.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy, than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. Bobey, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Mo.; "and as he has used the Remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years, he should certainly know. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

On the Kill Von Kull.

One of the New Jersey Athletic Club's four oared shells carried a party of young men from this city down the Kill von Kill to Boynton Beach and return, Saturday afternoon. Lindley M. Hillman acted as coxswain of the shell. The oarsman were Carroll L. Bunyon, A. Willis West, Walter H. Sergeil and George Proctor Smith. The distance was about twenty-five miles and they encountered some lively breezes in the Kill.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, always affords prompt relief. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively. Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Cortlandt Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JULY 22d, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3 34, 3 37, 5 22, 6 20, 6 30, 7 05, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m. Sunday, 3 34, 5 22, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, at 4 00, 7 25, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m. Sundays only, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m. Leave Newark (except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 45, 7 15, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 15, 10 45, 11 15, 11 45 a. m., 12 15, 12 45, 1 15, 1 45, 2 15, 2 45, 3 15, 3 45, 4 15, 4 45, 5 15, 5 45, 6 15, 6 45, 7 15, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 15, 10 45, 11 15, 11 45 p. m. Saturdays only, 1 15, 1 45, 2 15, 2 45, 3 15, 3 45, 4 15, 4 45, 5 15, 5 45, 6 15, 6 45, 7 15, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 15, 10 45, 11 15, 11 45 p. m. Leave New York, foot Liberty street, at 4 00, 7 25, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m. Sundays only, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m. Leave Newark (except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 45, 7 15, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 15, 10 45, 11 15, 11 45 a. m., 12 15, 12 45, 1 15, 1 45, 2 15, 2 45, 3 15, 3 45, 4 15, 4 45, 5 15, 5 45, 6 15, 6 45, 7 15, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 15, 10 45, 11 15, 11 45 p. m. Saturdays only, 1 15, 1 45, 2 15, 2 45, 3 15, 3 45, 4 15, 4 45, 5 15, 5 45, 6 15, 6 45, 7 15, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 15, 10 45, 11 15, 11 45 p. m. Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 11 05 a. m., 1 05, 2 05, 3 05, 4 05, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m. Sundays, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 1 05, 2 05, 3 05, 4 05, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m. Leave Somerville 6 35, 7 55, 8 55, 9 55, 11 55 a. m., 1 55, 2 55, 3 55, 4 55, 5 55, 6 55, 7 55, 8 55, 9 55, 10 55, 11 55 p. m. Sundays, 8 55, 9 55, 10 55, 11 55 a. m., 1 55, 2 55, 3 55, 4 55, 5 55, 6 55, 7 55, 8 55, 9 55, 10 55, 11 55 p. m. Passengers for Somerville change cars at Bound Brook.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield 7 34, 9 34 a. m., 12 32, 3 56, 6 25, 10 15 p. m. Sundays, 7 34, 9 34 a. m., 12 32, 3 56, 6 25 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

8 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Manunka Chunk, Blairstown, Hackettstown, Washington and Belvidere. Parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Easton.

9 34 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge, Lambertville, Trenton, Bristol, Morrisville, Tullytown, Bordentown, Burlington, Riverside, Beverly, Delanco, Palmyra, Riverton, Camden and Philadelphia. Parlor car to Trenton.

12 32 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge, Lambertville, Trenton, Bristol, Morrisville, Tullytown, Bordentown, Burlington, Riverside, Beverly, Delanco, Palmyra, Riverton, Camden and Philadelphia. Parlor car to Trenton.

3 56 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Manunka Chunk, Blairstown, Hackettstown, Washington and Belvidere. Parlor car to Mauch Chunk. Through coach to Easton.

6 25 p. m.—For Flemington, Lambertville, Trenton, Bristol, Morrisville, Tullytown, Bordentown, Burlington, Riverside, Beverly, Delanco, Palmyra, Riverton, Camden and Philadelphia. Parlor car to Trenton.

10 15 p. m.—For Flemington.

EASTWARD CONNECTIONS.

8 34 a. m.—For Plainfield, Elizabeth, Rahway, Metuchen, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Jamesburg, Freehold and Long Branch.

9 34 a. m.—For Plainfield, Elizabeth, Rahway, Metuchen, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Jamesburg, Freehold and Long Branch.

12 32 p. m.—For Plainfield, Elizabeth, Rahway, Metuchen, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Jamesburg, Freehold and Long Branch.

3 56 p. m.—For Plainfield, Elizabeth, Rahway, Metuchen, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Jamesburg, Freehold and Long Branch.

6 25 p. m.—For Plainfield, Elizabeth, Rahway, Metuchen, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Jamesburg, Freehold and Long Branch.

10 15 p. m.—For Plainfield, Elizabeth, Rahway, Metuchen, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Jamesburg, Freehold and Long Branch.

8 45 a. m., 3 56 p. m. (via Bridge) for Easton, connecting at Junction for Phillipsburg, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Manunka Chunk, Blairstown, Hackettstown, Washington and Belvidere. Parlor car to Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 34 a. m.—For Flemington and Easton connecting at Junction for Phillipsburg, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Manunka Chunk, Blairstown, Hackettstown, Washington and Belvidere. Parlor car to Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

12 32 p. m.—For Flemington and Easton connecting at Junction for Phillipsburg, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Manunka Chunk, Blairstown, Hackettstown, Washington and Belvidere. Parlor car to Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

3 56 p. m.—For Flemington and Easton connecting at Junction for Phillipsburg, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Manunka Chunk, Blairstown, Hackettstown, Washington and Belvidere. Parlor car to Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

6 25 p. m.—For Flemington.

10 15 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

8 45 a. m., 3 56 p. m. (via Bridge) for Easton, connecting at Junction for Phillipsburg, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Manunka Chunk, Blairstown, Hackettstown, Washington and Belvidere. Parlor car to Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 34 a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

12 32 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

3 56 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

6 25 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

10 15 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield 8 45 a. m., 12 32 p. m., 6 25 p. m. Sundays, 12 32 p. m., 6 25 p. m.

Leave Grove, 7 15, 9 15 a. m., 4 05, 7 05 p. m. Sundays, 12 00 m., 7 05 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 7 37, 9 37, 8 37 a. m., 1 37, 4 37, 6 37, 7 37 p. m. Sundays, 12 37, 7 37 p. m.

For Boynton Beach, 8 15, 10 27 a. m., 1 27, 5 27, 7 27, 8 27 p. m. Sundays, 1 27, 8 27 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 8 37, 11 15 a. m., 1 15, 5 15, 7 15, 8 15 p. m. Sundays, 1 15, 8 15 p. m.

For Long Branch, 8 15, 10 27 a. m., 1 15, 5 27, 7 27, 8 27 p. m. Sundays, 1 27, 8 27 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield 8 45, 12 32 p. m., 6 25, 8 45, 9 45, 10 45 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 12 32 p. m., 6 25, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For Trenton, 8 45, 9 45 a. m., 1 00, 2 15, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 1 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington at 8 45, 10 45 a. m., 2 15, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 10 45 a. m., 2 15, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Through cars for Chicago and all points West, every day at 9 45 a. m. and 8 00 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN, General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect June 13, 1897.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. and 1 55 p. m. Daily (Sundays 8 01 a. m.) Local for Manch Chunk.

9 36 a. m. Daily except Sunday. For Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m. 2 34, 7 22 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 08 a. m. Local for Bound Brook 11 34 a. m. daily, except Sunday, local for Manch Chunk.

2 52 p. m. Daily except Sunday. "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

5 24 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazelton, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 36 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

7 10 p. m., daily except Sunday, for Slatington and principal intermediate stations.

7 52 and 8 36 p. m. daily, with vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

2 18 p. m. Sundays, local for L. & B. Junction EASTWARD.

7 44 a. m. Daily except Sun. Local 4 45, 7 15, 7 45, 9 05 a. m., 2 15, 4 45, and 7 10 p. m. Sunday 7 55, 9 03 a. m., 2 34, 7 10 p. m. Express—7 55, 8 57, 10 02 a. m., 12 13, 2 17, 3 11, 7 07 and 9 06 p. m. Sundays—7 55 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 48, 7 50, 10 05 a. m., 12 13, 2 35, 5 20, 7 10 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 03, local a. m. 2 20 and 7 10 p. m.

For Metuchen only 5 25 p. m. except Sunday. For further information consult Ticket Agents.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR, General Superintendent.
S. HALLENBECK, General Passenger Agent.
CHAS. S. LEE, General Passenger Agent.
A. W. SCHEER, Asst. General Passenger Agt.
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINAL—Foot of Cortlandt and Desbrosses sts.

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

AN ACTIVE LIFE ENDED.

John A. Thickstun Dies From Ravages of Disease.

WELL KNOWN IN BUSINESS CIRCLES.

Born and Brought Up in This City —Where Most of His Life Was Spent —Carried on a Contracting Business for Many Years—He Was Also an Influential Democrat at One Time.

After several months illness, the last two weeks of which were of the most intense suffering, death brought happy release to John A. Thickstun, of 66 Duer street, Saturday afternoon at 4:20 o'clock. He was taken ill several months ago with Bright's disease and from that other complications set in and he was unable to withstand the attack. Up to the time he was taken ill he was an active citizen and was very seldom detained at home by illness. He was a valued citizen, a good neighbor and a kind and loving husband. His place it will be hard to fill, for he occupied one that was peculiarly his own.

John A. Thickstun was born April 19th, 1837, in what is known as the French house, which is located on Somerset street next to Julius Stahl's place of business, and which was occupied at one time by Edward Winter.

He was the son of David and Mary Thickstun. At an early age he learned the carpenter trade and later he was in business with his father as a carpenter and dealer in blue stone. At the age of 21 years he went to Brooklyn and carried on the carpenter business, but he only remained there a short time, being obliged to leave on account of his health. He was married October 3d, 1860, to Mary V. Blackford, daughter of Lewis and Mary S. Blackford, of Samptown, Middlesex county, and in 1881 purchased the coal and stone business conducted by his father on Madison avenue and continued in business up to the month of March, this year. He was a successful business man and held the confidence of his associate business men. As a recognition of his worth he was elected president of the New Jersey State Coal Exchange, which position he held until obliged to give it up on account of ill-health.

His residence was at 66 Duer street, where he resided for twenty-five years. He attended school in the old school house, which building is now used as MacDonald's grocery store on East Front street. He was a member of the North Plainfield Township Committee, and while in office he succeeded in having a hill cut down and the roadway filled up at the point which is known as "The Notch," and which is located just this side of Washingtonville. Later he became one of the first councilman in the borough of North Plainfield, where he served his constituents in a fair and able manner. At one time he was quite a strong politician and was well known throughout Somerset county and with the politicians of the State. In politics he was a Democrat.

He was active in church affairs and in early life became a member of the Second Baptist church, being baptized in Green brook back of the present First Baptist church. After the dissolution of the second he joined the First Baptist church, where he held a membership up to the time of his death. He served the church in many ways and his judgment and advice was always considered to be the best.

His age was 70 years, three months and thirteen days. He leaves a wife but no children. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from the house and the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, his pastor, will officiate. Interment will be in the family plot at Samptown.

"Let me give you a pointer," said M. F. Gregg, a popular conductor on the Missouri Pacific railroad. "Do you know that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cures you when you have the stomach ache? Well, it does." And after giving this friendly bit of advice, the jolly conductor passed on down the aisle. It is a fact that thousands of railroad and traveling men never take a trip without a bottle of this Remedy, which is the best cure for bowel disorders in the world. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Cor. Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

SMEDBERG BACK IN JAIL

Justice Nash Held Him for the Grand Jury.

IDENTIFIED BY THE PAWNBROKER.

The Prisoner Looked Haggard and Worried—The Pawnbroker is Positive That He is the Man Who Pledged the Jewels That Were Stolen, and Afterwards Redeemed Part of Them.

The net is woven closer about Joseph Duncan Smedberg. The State has spoken through its prosecutor and the evidence produced was sufficient to send Smedberg to the county jail on the charge of burglary to await the action of the Grand Jury. Smedberg has no friends who can furnish bail and so he will have to await the fall term of court in a cell at Elizabeth. Still Smedberg persists that he is innocent and his counsel claims that he can prove an alibi for the eventful night of June 30th, when the Marshall diamonds were stolen.

Monday afternoon was the time set down for Smedberg's examination before Justice Nash. The examination was held soon after 2:30 o'clock, the appointed time. The prisoner arrived on the 2:34 train from Elizabeth. He was escorted by Detective John L. Blackford, who made the arrest. He looked thin and pale, as if imprisonment did not agree with him. He had a week's old beard. He wore a dark blue serge suit and outing shirt. He spoke to no one but his lawyer, and there was an anxious expression on his face that had been absent at his previous appearance in court.

The examination was held in Justice Nash's regular court room. The portion of the room devoted to spectors was crowded with men, many of whom had known Smedberg personally or by sight. County Prosecutor Fred C. Marsh and his stenographer were present and sat to the right of the Judge. With Mr. Marsh was City Judge George W. DeMeza, who represented the Marshalls in the case. He left the conducting of the case entirely to the Prosecutor. Smedberg was represented by Clarence Kelsey, of Jersey City.

In front of the Judge was a long bench on which were seated Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Marshall, a friend of theirs and the prisoner with Detective Blackford close at his elbow. Mrs. Marshall was seated next to the prisoner but neither recognized the other. Mrs. Marshal never looked at him until she took the stand as a witness when she cast one defiant glance in his direction. Mrs. Smedberg did not make her appearance and the curious ones were disappointed there. Chief Detective Keron, of Union county, and Michael J. O'Brien, the pawnbroker's clerk, a prominent witness, were also seated in front.

After the crowd had settled themselves, Prosecutor Marsh called the first witness for the state, Michael J. O'Brien. He then said that he was a clerk in the pawn broker's establishment of M. & D. Brookheimer, of 2108 Third avenue, New York. He recognized the prisoner at once and said that he had seen him on the evening of July 6th, when he had called and pawned a Smith and Wesson revolver, 32 calibre, a lady's gold hunting case watch and a gold ring.

He had kept a record of the number of the movement of the watch, which was 405,002. The articles had been pawned by the prisoner, he explained, under the name of Marshall, no first names being asked for when goods were pawned.

Then the witness stated that the prisoner had come to the shop again on July 12th and said that he had lost the pawn ticket and wanted to get the articles. He gave a receipt for the revolver, went before Notary Public Murray and made an affidavit that he had received the watch and pawned the ring again for $50. It was the custom, the clerk explained, to make affidavit for the receipt of valuable articles when the ticket was lost.

Mr. Marsh produced the affidavit and offered it in evidence. The lawyer for the defence spoke up and objected to it, but the Justice allowed it to go and marked it as Exhibit A.

The witness then continued his testimony and produced the record book of the shop, giving the numbers of the two tickets issued to Smedberg according to his testimony. He also offered a ring in evidence, claiming that it was the one that Smedberg pawned with him and had never called for it. He distinctly remembered a visit by Mrs. Marshall to the establishment when she found the ring. This was news to many of the spectators who then heard for the first time that Mrs. Marshall was the detective who had aided greatly in securing the evidence.

Marsh again asked him regarding the identity of the prisoner and he was very sure. Kelsey did not cross-examine him.

Harry W. Marshall next took the stand and told where he lived and how he had met the Smedbergs at Mrs. Durant's boarding house. He had taken Smedberg about and introduced him to several of his friends and taken him through the Masonic and Camera Club rooms. His wife had given Mrs. Smedberg the key to the house one afternoon when Mrs. Marshall was going out to spend the afternoon. Mrs. Smedberg wanted to practice on the piano. He had not learned that fact until after the robbery occurred.

He then told the circumstances of the loss, how the stolen articles had been left on the dresser in Mrs. Marshall's room while they were out on a bicycle ride, how they returned late at night and had not discovered their loss until next morning. In the morning, they had found the screen in the back window wedged up with a match.

He could not positively identify the ring, but thought it was the same. He gave the number of the watch he had obtained from the maker and gave a description of the four rings and the revolver.

He said that he saw the defendant the night of the burglary at the boarding house after they returned from the ride.

Smedberg came in the room looking very white and trembling like a leaf. "My God, man," asked Marshall, "What's the matter with you?

"My stomach's out of order," replied Smedberg, "I've been down town and got a couple of cocktails."

"Going to drink cocktails with your stomach out of order?" queried Marshall in surprise.

"I'm going to drink what I've got and go to bed and sleep if I can."

Mr. Marshall was cross-examined, but the best efforts of Lawyer Kelsey could not shake his testimony in the slightest.

Mrs. Marshall confirmed her husband's statements of the discovery of the loss and the open screen. She did not remember shutting the window but was sure the screen was closed the night before. She had allowed Mrs. Smedberg to come into the house about a week before to practice. Miss Grace Smith, of Park avenue, had called and had had to wait sometime before she was admitted. She had shown the Smedbergs the house and all the rooms therein.

She positively identified the ring and tried it on. It fitted exactly. Her cross-examination did not change her testimony. The defendant's lawyer declined to have him sworn, but stated that he had a complete alibi that would prove him.

Prosecutor asked that the prisoner be held for the Grand Jury, and said that the evidence was too strong to allow him to go. Kelsey said that the prisoner had the benefit of the doubt, and that the State had proved nothing. There were several verbal tilts between the lawyers, for the defendant's counsel had misunderstood some of the testimony. He claimed that there had been no evidence to prove that Smedberg broke into the house.

Prosecutor Marsh averred that Smedberg must account for having the rings in his possession.

"The diamonds were taken," he exclaimed. "The screen was down in the evening, it was up in the morning. Who raised it? God?"

Justice Nash decided that the evidence was sufficient to hold the prisoner and committed him to the county jail in Elizabeth to await the action of the Grand Jury. The charge was that of burglary, and the county court will have to fix the bail.

BULLET WHISTLED BY.

Careless Discharge of Gun Endangered Many Lives.

The residents of Myrtle avenue, between Sycamore and Giraud avenues, now understand the unpleasant sensation of being under fire. It was about 9 p. m., Monday and the families of that portion of Washington Park were enjoying the evening on their piazzas. All was quiet, when suddenly a sharp report that sounded like that of a rifle broke the stillness and a bullet whistled along the line of piazzas, missing them by only a few feet. The bullet came from the direction of Sycamore avenue.

Councilman George T. Rogers and family were on their piazza. They heard the shot and were narrowly missed by the bullet. Former Councilman J. C. Peck and two of his sons were out on the next piazza. They also had a very narrow escape. Samuel Townsend and family heard the bullet, which buried itself in their side lawn.

There was nobody to be found at the corner of Sycamore and Myrtle avenues when the residents walked down there and nobody had seen the shot fired. A few minutes later, however, a man slunk by on the opposite side of the street, carefully dodging the electric lights.

Secretary of a Political Organization.

Paul Ackerly, formerly a member of The Press reportorial staff, but now secretary to Congressman Henry, of Connecticut, at Washington, has recently been elected secretary of the Congressional Clerks' Republican Club, organized for political work along the lines indicated by the Congressional leaders.

—"Aye, there's the rub," as Hamlet would have said if he had been lucky enough to get hold of one of Peck's bath towels.

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and nervous

Dyspepsia

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Fine Machinists' Tools In Stock.

Gasoline and oil stoves of best makes.

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our high grade long-cured Nursery Stock. Pay weekly. Outfit free. Write for terms for this year for the first time as well as the standard varieties of fruits and ornamentals. No previous experience necessary. Write for terms, stating age. Reference, Hoopes, Bro. & Thomas Co., Avenue Nurseries, West Chester, Pa.

DIED.

OSTROM—At Sailor Snug Harbor, Staten Island, on Wednesday, July 31, 1897, Capt. Wm. B. Ostrom, aged 71 years.

FREEMAN—MOTT—At Chicago, July 24, Florence Amelia, wife of George C. Mott.

BURT—In this city, on Friday, July 30, 1897, William C. Burt, in the 61st year of his age.

THICKSTUN—In North Plainfield, on Saturday, July 31, 1897, John A. Thickstun, aged 60 years, 3 months and 13 days.

CARILL—In New York City, Monday, August 1st, 1897, Bartley, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Carill.

SCHROEPFER—In this city, August 2d, 1897, Caspar Schroepfer, aged 40 years.

MANN—In this city, on Monday, August 2d, 1897, Parmelia Mann, aged 66 years.

WILSON—In this city, August 3, 1897, Harry S., infant son of William and Annie Wilson, aged 4 months and 9 days.

BENNER—In Fanwood Township, August 2d, 1897, Elizabeth F., wife of John Benner, aged 40 years.

RESPIRIES—In this city, August 2d, 1897, Catherine Respries, aged 31 years and 11 months.

ROWE—In North Plainfield, Monday, August 2d, 1897, Frederick, son of Jeremiah and Kate Rowe, aged 12 years and 9 months.

UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES of AMERICA

Rev. L. D. HASS, D. D., Manager,

Pittsburg, Pa.; Toronto, Canada; New Orleans, La.; Los Angeles, Cal.; Washington, D. C.; San Francisco, Cal.; Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo.; Denver, Col.; Boston, Mass.

There are thousands of positions to be filled within the next few months.

Address all to the nearest UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES, Salisbury, Pa. 6 m

Trusses! Rupture! Trusses!

Dr. Marcley has opened a branch office at No. 228 West Second street, corner Central avenue, Plainfield, for the treatment of rupture. Thirty years experience and the most modern appliances warrants satisfactory results. Don't go to go to New York for what you can get better at home. Irreducible, difficult and complicated cases solicited. The treatment of rupture, which is the greatest boon to sufferers, properly belongs to a surgeon of long experience in that particular line. No charge for examination or advice. Hours 9-12 a. m. 1-4 p. m. and evenings

Arrival and Departure of Mails:

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 9:40, 11:20 a. m., 2:20, 5, 8:30 p. m. Close—7:20, 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 5:30 and 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE.

Arrive—8:20 a. m., 3 and 6:15 p. m. Close—7:20 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA.—Direct.

Arrive—8:40, 11:20 a. m., 1:00, and 2:30 p. m. Close—7:20, 9:20 a. m., and 5:30 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South, close 9:20 p. m.

WARRENVILLE

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—10:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. Mail closes at 6:30 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

Nasalene

Is a positive remedy for local diseases which is the result of cold and climatic changes. Cold in the Head. Hay Fever.

CATARRH

Deafness, (caused by catarrh), are instantly relieved.

It is pleasant to use, convenient to carry. Price 50c. and $1.00 at all druggists.

D. V. SAGE, Warden of King Sing, says: "Nasalene is very beneficial."

HUNTER MEDICAL CO.,

54 E. 21st Street, N. Y.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Bilious and Nervous Diseases. They purify the Blood and give Healthy action to the entire system.

Cure DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

VEGETABLES,

FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, COPYRIGHTS, &c.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt, answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $1 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and not second-class, believing that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son being the largest portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business as my own. Having bought the good material, at fair prices, is a standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law.

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

SAVED

After years of suffering. It has at last been proven beyond a doubt that

NASALENE

Is a positive remedy for local diseases which is the result of cold and climatic changes. Cold in the Head. Hay Fever.

CATARRH

Deafness, (caused by catarrh), are instantly relieved.

It is pleasant to use, convenient to carry. Price 50c. and $1.00 at all druggists.

D. V. SAGE, Warden of King Sing, says: "Nasalene is very beneficial."

HUNTER MEDICAL CO.,

54 E. 21st Street, N. Y.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,

Plumbers

and

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gasfitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

Between Watchung and Park avenues. A First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS,

and dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 234 W. Front street, to 201 West Front street, corner of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence, 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 2y17

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

E. B. MAYNARD,

PRACTICAL

BARBER AND HAIR DRESSER.

204 PARK AVE.

Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed. 51y1

YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain, free, whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies and HAND BOOK on Patents sent free. Address

MUNN & CO.,

361 Broadway, New York.

What a Lot of Eggs

the hens lay when fed on Green Cut Bone. With a dozen hens

Mann's

Green Bone

Cutter

will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 BUYS ONE. Sent on trial. 180 highest awards received. Catalogue, free if you name this paper. F. W. MANN CO.,

Milford, Mass.

1849-10-11-12-7 mos.

WOURALL.

"You fellows can believe it or not as you like," said Mackay, "but I tell you that for a day and a night I have known what it is to be dead."

"Oh, come, Mac, that's too much. The major has given us some pretty tall ones, but we can't quite swallow that."

"Perhaps," suggested the major "Mackay refers to a state of alcoholic saturation. I have heard—"

"Shut up, major!" interrupted High field. "Don't feed us on

WASHINGTON NOTES.

For a quarter of a century the relationship between William McKinley and William R. Day has been growing. Its Cicero de Amicitia the ideal friendship is described. Between the President and the Assistant Secretary it is exemplified. The affable, well-spoken, zealous champion of his party's principles finds in the retiring, reticent, judicially-minded lawyer that companionship which is satisfying and profitable. The one has tested the other's counsel again and again, and has learned to know its value. The other, without political ambitions, fond of the woods and of books, a student of the activities from without rather than by participation, has followed the fortunes of his friend in public life with the loyalty of Jonathan for David.

It is a strange thing in politics, a President with such a friend. Washington is learning how the President relies upon this friends, and how the friend with unstinted loyalty justifies continuously that confidence. With the selfishness and heartlessness of public life so liberally illustrated, it is a good thing to have this object lesson of the other sort.

McKinley's Tact.

Whenever there is criticism of the administration it is directed, not against the President personally, but against influences supposed to be surrounding and controlling. Democrats and Populists and silverites darken the doors of the White House. Such extremists as Teller and Tillman do not hesitate to call and introduce constituents who want to talk about the patronage. Quite frequently, when he was being pressed about a matter which would require the consent of the committee on military affairs, the President told those most interested to go and see Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, the dominating spirit on the minority side of the committee. Not until the answer was brought back that the Democratic economist would waive opposition did the President consent to do as desired. When he appointed the ex-Vice President on the bimetallic commission he pleased the entire following of Mr. Bryan. And when, a few days ago, he named ex-Congressman David B. Culberson to a place on the commission to revise and codify the laws, the selection gave widespread gratification to the Democrats. The President started in March with the will of all of his party up to this time he has steadily strengthened it by his words and acts.

Mr. Sherman and the Papers.

Sitting erect in the middle of the seat, the top of the landau thrown back, a slouch hat tilted slightly on the right side, a cigar between his lips, the premier of the administration rode down Fourteenth street. As he passed the row, he gazed serenely on the formidable array of newspaper egns. The look of good nature underwent no change. The Secretary of State is looking well. He seems more robust as a member of the Cabinet than he did as Senator. Recently he said to a friend that he was having a much easier time than he expected. Just at present Mr. Sherman is doing more newspaper reading than usual. He wants to see all that is said about his "failing mind." He reads editorials from beginning to end, and when he puts down the sheet nobody can tell whether John Sherman has been amused or shocked. The bright light of political life fell on Mr. Sherman full fifty years ago. It has been shining constantly ever since. In that period Mr. Sherman has lived a great many hard things about himself. Time and opportunity have been afforded for the cultivation of a fine philosophy in his estimation of newspaper publicity. Mr. Sherman long ago acquired that mental habit. What ever the growing years may have brought to the grand old man of finance, they have not yet disturbed his philosophy.

The Consulship Craze.

One member of the administration is in need of a respite. The secretary to the President begins to show what it is to be a buffer. Day after day the office-seeking surf rolls up to the door of Mr. Porter's room and spends itself. The secretary stands all day in the foam of it up to his chin, and long after the doors of the mansion close the roar is still in his ears. Office-seeking is a disease. It is a fever in the blood. Every four years it becomes epidemic. Under the influence men of intelligence, of means, and of self-respect, do things which would be impossible for them when the delirium has abated. A man may be safe on all else but in getting office. While each succeeding attack of this disease seems to develop more aggravated symptoms. As the population increases and competition in business and in the professions grows sharper the number of victims becomes larger. Washington has never known the office-seekers to be so numerous and to stay so long as this year. The blanket extensions of the civil service turn them away from the departments, and if they focus their attention on the White House and want to be Consuls. When Secretary Porter, late in the afternoon, brings out from the adjutant the information that the President can see no more callers until next day, the waiting candidates lingeringly arise and go down the stairs. To the credit of the administration, let it be said that no brutal proclamation has yet been issued rebuking this weakness and branding it as "indecent."

SENATOR.

The Lover—You are my all, dearest. His Dearest—Then our engagement must end at once.—New York Journal.

CHICAGO'S Y. M. CHRISTIANS.

Their Creed Works Well Even From a Material Point of View.

One of the finest of Chicago's down town constructions is the Y. M. C. A. building, on the east side of LaSalle street, midway between Madison and Monroe streets, and the humanitarian work carried on here our responds, at the following official announcement of the association shows:

"The Young Men's Christian association has been in Chicago for forty years. During this time it has grown from an organization of limited scope and small equipment to its present strength and standing in the community.

CHICAGO'S Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

"Its object has always been the highest and truest development of young men. Its doors are open to every young man who has an ambition in life, and whose purpose is to attain it.

"The theory of the association is to help young men help themselves.

"The test of membership is not nationality, occupation, nor religious belief. Character is the only test.

"During the past season 826 different young men availed themselves of educational class privileges; 1,200 more attended the gymnasium, while 2,000 more who applied to the association for employment were advised with and assisted in helping themselves."

PAPER MADE BY HAND.

Coreans Produce a Very Fine Quality From Bark and Without Machinery.

A remarkable paper is made in Korea entirely by manual labor which excels in quality the very best made in China or Japan. The raw material is obtained from the bark of Broussonetia papyrifera, which is collected in the Spring and beaten in water containing a large admixture of wood ashes, until reduced to thick pulp; this is taken in large ladles and spread upon frames of bamboo, and in this way formed into thin sheets. Another kind of paper is produced from old scraps trodden into pulp, much in the same way that grape juice is expressed in some countries, a process of pulping which, though slow, has the advantage of not breaking the fibre so much as when machinery is used; then, after the pulp has been made into paper, the sheets are piled up to a height of six feet and cut into pieces, to be again subjected to the feet stamping—at the same time the roots and seeds of a plant called "tackpool" are added, the soluble parts of which are supposed to give tenacity and toughness to the paper.—Philadelphia Record.

Sworn Off on Mixed Drinks.

"They tell me, uncle, that you have sworn off to some extent of late."

"Yo'm torkin' Gospel trufe, sah; 'deed yo' is."

"As I understand it, you have made a vow not to indulge any more in mixed drinks."

"Dat's a fack, sah."

"I am very glad to hear it. That is surely a move in the right direction, and may lead to further and complete reform."

"Yassir; yo' see, de water in dis part er de kentry am got so mix wid w'at de doctors calls backterriers an' de like er dat, dat mer heir couldn't put up wid it, an' I jus' batter diff in wid plain sperit. Oh, yassir, I done kyored marse'f er drinkin' mix' bev'rages."—Richmond Dispatch.

Agreed With Him.

"A man who tries the argle with a woman is a fool," shouted Mr. Meribole, as the discussion waxed warm.

"Yes, I've found it so," responded Mrs. Meribole, in her most conciliatory tones.—Detroit News.

NOT QUITE TIME.

Helen. Charley Dasherway has been going with me three months now. Don't you think it's about time he proposed?

Clara. Oh, no; it was nearly six months before he proposed to me.

WON'T VOTE ANYHOW

WESTERN WOMEN WHO ARE CAMPAIGNING AGAINST IT

Plans of a League Formed in Chicago Under Mrs. Corbin's Leadership to Hinder the Work of Woman Suffrage Advocates —Commotion Reigns in Their Camp.

Commotion reigns in the camp of the Chicago suffragist.

The army of the anti-suffragist is coming.

"Let the enemy come," fearlessly cry the suffrage hosts in answer to the sudden warning. "These women will ignobly defeat themselves on their own arguments when they begin the wordy war. The more they talk the better we like it. Let them come, we say."

The anti-suffrage women in Chicago have appealed to women in the four corners of the state. Whoever will may enlist, providing she be willing to to be brought within ten days of Lonmarch under the spirited title, "Illinois Association Opposed to the Extension of Suffrage to Women." As the caption vigorously implies, the champions of this organization are actively opposed to any measures which will enfranchise the fair sex. It is the first invasion in the west of organized suffrage opponents, who in the east are commonly called remonstrants.

The fair general of the anti-suffrage army is Mrs. Caroline Corbin. It is rather significant that her co-operators in the prospective campaign are for the most part women of wealth who live in some of the handsomest houses of the most fashionable boulevards in Chicago. They are women who possess all the privileges that go with the coveted pot of gold, and such suffrage arguments as "taxation without representation" do not cut much of a figure in their exchequer accounts. Some of them are known in a philanthropic way, and most of them are social leaders. They are not strictly domestic women, nor are they particularly aggressive outside the four walls of home.

CAROLINE CORBIN.

Not for a minute is it to be believed Mrs. Corbin is a demure home-body who crochets on rainy days. To tell the truth, she appears to be as much a busybody as the most aggressive suffragist. Mrs. Corbin says herself she has not been home much in the last three years, and, of course, she ought to know. In appearance she is an earnest, agreeable-looking woman of middle age, with snow-white hair.

The story goes that Mrs. Corbin was once the recipient of the suffragist leader, Miss Susan B. Anthony.

Years after these two women met in Washington, and Miss Anthony asked: "What have you been doing all these years?"

"Bringing up four boys," answered Mrs. Corbin.

"Boys!" scornfully exclaimed the outspoken Susan. "What under the sun is a woman with your brains doing with four boys?"

"Would you have me strangle them?" the retort.

"Bosh," was the emphatic answer, "you should never have had them. They will grow up to be men—nothing but men."

From that minute Mrs. Caroline Corbin resolved to be an active anti-suffragist. And she is fulfilling that vow right here in Chicago.

In a remonstrance to the Illinois legislature, by the anti-suffragists in council, it reads: "It is sometimes said that women object to being classed by the constitution with minors, idiots, criminals, paupers and the insane.

"There may be some force in this plea. Personally, we have never been especially inconvenienced by the fact. But if there are any women who feel themselves in danger of being confounded with any of the above-mentioned classes, of course, they have a right to complain, we do not think the feeling is general."

After answering the well-known arguments of the suffragist, this document to the Springfield solons concluded with this climax:

Will you as legislators, pledged to act for the best interests of the commonwealth, at the behest of a very small minority of women of the state, take the responsibility of doubling our already too large, ignorant and irresponsible vote? Of putting questions of taxation and expenditure in the hands of those who have the least experience as producers and conservors of property? Will you reduce the power of women in their own estate by exacting of them duties which be long to men? Will you, in short, overturn the settled order of civilized society, and make a muddle of what the ages have been engaged in reducing to system and regularity? We entreat you, in spite of that well-known amiability which predisposes every son of Adam, to yield to the persistent importunities of women, to take counsel of your own right reason, and act in accordance with what we are sure its dictates will be found to be.

CURRENT COMMENT.

A duty of 5 cents a dozen has been placed on Canadian eggs. Even our spellbinders will receive some protection.

Senator Vest in a tariff speech the other day referred to cider as a "beverage which cheers but not inebriates." All of which proves that the senator is not thoroughly familiar with the mysteries of applejack.

Macon, Mo., claims the center of the stage with a story about a hailstorm which distributed chunks of ice, gratis, which were larger than those furnished by the ice companies at 10 cents each.

Tennessee has some very good papers or some mighty mean men, or both. The Tazewell Times says: "Owing to our regular edition being stolen Tuesday night we are a little late in making our appearance this week."

Before that intercollegiate boat race on the Hudson Mr. Cook, trainer for Yale, and Mr. Lehmann, trainer for Harvard, kindly gave out an interview for publication in which they said: "We are quite agreed that both Yale and Harvard will defeat Cornell." But, unfortunately, Cornell didn't agree.

New amusements and forms of recreation, especially those of the outdoor variety, are revolutionizing dress at a rapid pace. The presence as a visitor on the Senate floor one day recently of a member of the House clad in a cycling suit broke the traditions of that chamber, and caused something of a stir.

Eighteen iced drinking fountains are maintained through the summer in Providence, R. I. The first was established in 1849 by the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and later the city authorities took hold of the work. About forty tons of ice are required for each fountain during the season. It is placed in an ice-chamber containing coils of pipe.

The name of the late Capt. Boycott is used both as a noun and a verb without any alteration, which is an unusual occurrence. Gov. Gerry, of Massachusetts, also furnished a noun and verb, but his name was expanded into garrymander. He opposed the legislative trick, and yet, through the irony of fate, his name is used to describe it.

Kansas has a peculiar way to gauge the heat. Instead of reading the thermometer she counts the empty beer kegs. "Yesterday," remarks the Emporia Gazette, "was a very warm day. Thirty-five kegs and seventeen cases were sent back to Missouri last night, empty." This is something new in the line of spirit thermometers.

England's greatest man was not in the jubilee procession, but modestly celebrated it in his own town. Gladstone is too big a personage to be wanted in royal pageants.

The British member of Parliament who questioned his government about the deposing of the Hawaiian Queen "by a small body of Americans" is reminded that George III. met with a similar experience in some of his large colonies.

There is a difference of opinion concerning the effects of the long arctic night on explorers or visitors. Nansen says it caused no discomfort to him. But a surgeon under Peary declares that during the prolonged darkness the mind was depressed and all animal functions became less active. Vague muscular pains, vertigo, cerebral congestion and anaemia indicated the sluggish circulation." By Christmas the party was lethargic and melancholy, and the returning light found their skin jaundiced and pale.

A 10-year-old son of Princess Beatrice is lavish with his pocket money, and wrote to the Queen for the loan of a sovereign. The Queen sent him a kindly letter of counsel about spendthrift habits, but made no inclosure. Two days later the following reply was received: "Dear Grandma, I received your letter. Do not think I was sorry to get only your reproving words. Your good advice has been much appreciated. I have sold your letter to an autograph collector for £4 10s."

For thirty-five years, at intervals, Mr. Keely has been calling in a select company to witness the first practical operation of his etheric engine. To a certain extent it moves, but something in the machinery is found to be not quite right, and a few more weeks for rectification are necessary. Perhaps a year or two elapses, and the performance is then repeated. A generation has passed since the inventor announced that he had discovered and applied a new force in nature. He has never had much trouble in making converts, and they stand by him with a faith that can not be shaken. Yet it is always next month or next year that the final practical results are to be attained and the mechanical world revolutionized. An invention that fails to reach daylight after experiments for a third of a century and the expenditure of several fortunes, represents an ethical curiosity rather than an etheric force.

CRANKS' COLUMN.

Suggestions that Emanate from Fans of Bicycle Riders.

The bicycle is likely to prove a much more important factor at the summer resort this year than ever before. The average guest of the younger element will go provided with a wheel, and the young man or young woman without one will be left out of many an enjoyable time. The hotel people appreciate this fact, as is shown by the advertisements and circular matter issued by them for special inducements are offered to cyclers, and the number of good roads and cycling opportunities dilated upon as carefully as any of the other advantages enumerated for the purpose of attracting guests. At resorts where driving has always been one of the leading features, the liverymen look on this with continued feelings of disgust, while rumor has it that the modiste and dressmakers are not altogether pleased at the outlook. For fashion has decreed that cycling is the proper thing, and to be in the swim one must pose as a rider no matter how much or how little the wheel may actually be used, and will wear the cycling costume for many occasions where in former years she required a much more extensive wardrobe.

On the bicycle the knee breeches of the men may be regarded as a necessity, and is a special dress of some kind for women, to avoid entanglement in the crank and chain. No one can claim that the golf stocking is particularly handsome, but it has the merit of being comfortable and requires no support. Knickerbockers also have their merits. One thing is certain. The old conservatism or timidity in regard to dress for pastime has been broken down among both men and women, and the wearing of cycling or cycling costume has ceased to attract notice. The garments best adapted to recreation, within the bounds of respectability are recognized as the proper ones to wear.

Many persons abstain from bicycle riding because they are troubled with shortness of breath, and imagine that the exercise will injure them. Physicians say, however, that the reverse is the case. They say that moderate riding will certainly increase the capacity of the lungs, and very often entirely eradicate the trouble. They estimate that a bicycle can be propelled five miles on a level road with less expenditure of power than is used in walking one mile. The greatest danger arising from cycling is that of over exertion. The work is so easy and the exercise so exhilarating that riders do not realize how far they have gone until the excitement wears off and they find themselves greatly fatigued.

It is predicted by a good many people that women riders will soon desert the bicycle for the tricycle. This appears to be hardly likely. Back of the prediction is the assertion that Dame Fashion orders the change. All of this is due to the fact that the Princess of Wales has started the innovation, preferring the tricycle to the bicycle. With such fashionable precedent the society dames throughout England are following the example of her highness, and the craze is extending to this country. In Marlborough house, the London residence of the Prince of Wales, there are stored the cycle room sixteen bicycles and tricycles. Conspicuous among them is the tricycle of the Princess of Wales, on which she takes her exercise within the spacious grounds surrounding the mansion. The Prince of Wales also has a tricycle in the collection, which he uses considerably.

All reputable makers guarantee their wheels, but many riders understand very little about what the guarantee covers. The promise is to "make good by repair or replacement any defect or imperfection in material or manufacture of the machine, not due to the rider's misuse or neglect." This is a very safe promise to make, but its value to the rider is problematical. Suppose the handle-bar breaks—the dealer will say that you leaned on it too heavily; if the spokes are bent, you must have had a fall or a collision; if the steering post snaps off at the fork crown, the damage resulted from the neglect of the rider to keep the head of the machine properly adjusted. Soon, with a score of accidents, every one of which can be charged to the rider's carelessness or recklessness. In fact, the dealer and maker always assumes, in case of accident, that the rider has been negligent. It is only business shrewdness that makes the dealer repair trifling damages. Under his contract he need not do so; but if he does not, the news will spread, and he may lose many a prospective buyer.

NEW YORK LETTER.

The scheme of furnishing additional breathing space for the people of this city by means of utilizing some of the piers has been in process of agitation for some years, but it remained for the present Dock Commissioners to take hold and develop the project.

When the present Dock Board came into power it found, although the law had been on the books for three years, there were no recreation piers along the water front. President E. C. O'Brien and Commissioners Einstein and Monks were all impressed with the advantages to be derived from the piers, and the machinery of the department was set in motion with the result that four recreation piers have been projected. The first one to be completed was formally thrown open to the public yesterday afternoon. It is situated at the foot of East Third street, and is right in a section of the city where the population is dense and the park area by no means too great.

THE DOCK PLAYGROUND.

The recreation section of the pier is simply a second story built on the old pier after the latter had been strengthened. The superstructure is of steel and the dimensions of the floor are 350 feet long by 82 wide. Secretary Terry of the Dock Department, who has taken special interest in these piers, estimates that the pier will accommodate 5,000 people when it is crowded, and that 3,000 can get accommodated in great comfort. The thousands of men, women and children who will enjoy these breezy promenades in the future and the benefits in the way of health and recreation that they will afford doubtless lead to the construction of a number of other recreation piers. Each one will add materially to the comfort of the people and to the well-being of the community.

The Greater City.

The chief difficulty in organizing the Greater City of New York will be in arranging its fiances. An entirely new Government will go into operation January 1, and its expenses must be provided for this year by the financial boards of the present separate municipalities. No one can foresee exactly what the needs of the new city will be, and yet there is no other way of making up the budgets and fixing the tax levies than in the way provided by the machinery of the present Government. It may be necessary for the next Legislature to pass a law to enable the new city to make up any deficiencies that may result from this state of things. On Manhattan Island undoubtedly rest the heaviest burden of taxation, because it is the richest of the five boroughs. On Comptroller Fitch rests the chief responsibility of creating order out of possible confusion in the finances. He is now preparing notices to be sent to the heads of all city departments, notifying them to forward, at as early a date as possible, estimates of money they will require to run their departments for the year 1898. The Brooklyn estimate for 1898 has been made up, with an average cost of 30 per cent. in the amounts demanded by heads of departments. The tax levies last year, in the five boroughs to compose Greater New York aggregated about $60,000,000, but it will probably cost not less than $70,000,000 and possibly more than that to run the new city. New York will then have the distinction of having greater revenues than any other city in the world, even overtopping London in this item. The fact is, moreover, that while a new city is being created on a political basis a new city is also being established in a material sense. Consolidation means something more than one central government instead of five. It means public improvements of an important character in every part of the city. While the bulk of these improvements will be paid for by the issue of bonds, in order that future generations may share in the expense, yet they necessarily mean increased municipal expenses every year for a long time to come.

Judge Tenney's Appointment.

The selection of Asa W. Tenney, of Brooklyn, as the successor of United States Judge Benedict, meets with favor. Mr. Tenney has long been a leading lawyer and citizen of Brooklyn, and as an effective Republican campaigner has been well known in nearly every State of the country. He is a man of culture and personal character, and is understood to be the President's own choice, although Senator Platt has approved of the appointment. Mr. Tenney was for two years United States District Attorney in the court over which he will now preside. He succeeded General Tracy in that position, and was successively appointed by Presidents Grant, Hayes and Garfield. He is 64 years old.

Gov. Black's Knock Out to Civil Service.

The Civil Service Reformers say that the new rules for the examination of applicants for public positions, as adopted by the State Commission by direction of Governor Black, under the new law forced by him upon the State, practically nullify Civil Service Reform. The rules provide that examinations for fitness may be conducted by the appointing officers with or without record, at their discretion. Of course, however high may be the merit of an applicant, his appointment now depends solely upon the favor of the appointing officer.

CHAS. THOMP.

CITY HALL TALK AGAIN.

Councilmen Will Look About for a Proper Site.

THE COST NOT TO EXCEED $50,000.

Councilman Frost Reported That the City Can Not Find a Market for Farm Products—Suggests a Novel Round-up Business Man's Petition for Arc Lights Referred.

A feeling of the utmost harmony prevaded the regular meeting of the city council held last Monday. Councilman Baker was the only member absent, but there was a great deal of business transacted by the other members. There was a whole batch of petitions received and referred to the proper committees. A lengthy communication was received from J. F. Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, regarding the matter of sewage, and certain information was asked for. This matter was referred to the Streets and Sewer Committee. The Fire and Building Committee was given charge of the petition asking for an extension of water mains on Kensington and LaGrande avenues, and a petition from the residents of West End asking for hydrants on West Front street and Prescott place was referred to the same committee. The Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company in a communication stated that they had erected lights as ordered at a previous meeting by the council. W. Craig and others asked that a fire alarm box be placed at the corner of Rock and Jefferson avenues. Several protests were received from residents of certain streets against the location of sewers in the streets. Councilman Barrows stated that the council did not intend to locate sewers in any street where the majority of the property owners objected, and that the sewer ordinance was only introduced for the purpose of increasing the sewer area and making it possible to locate sewers where people asked for them. G. J. Tobin and others asked that crosswalks be laid on Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets where they cross Grant avenue. Two electric lights were asked for in the vicinity of Berckman and Third streets and North avenue by the trustees of St. Mary's cemetery. A. L. C. Marsh asked the council to locate a sewer on Hillside avenue between Putnam and Watchung avenue so that the houses in that vicinity could be connected. Residents of East Ninth street and Third place asked for a crosswalk.

A petition was presented from the business merchants of the city asking the Council to reconsider their previous action regarding the lighting of the business section by arc lights. The petition was referred to Mr. Tolles, chairman of the lights and trees committee, and later he reported that owing to the fact that the committee had received a communication from the Mayor on the subject action in the matter would be deferred until the next meeting.

Building Inspector Doane reported that during the past month fifteen permits were granted, and Street Commissioner Gavett reported the granting of thirteen sewer permits, making in all up to date 931.

Assessor J. A. Hubbard asked the Council in a communication whether the $7,000 appropriated for the Public Library would come in this year's tax levy. It was the sense of the Council that the communication not go on record, and no reply was made to the question. The treasurer's and collector's reports for the month were received, and Mr. Serrell offered a resolution that in anticipation of taxes $3,000 for the general fund and $1,000 for the fire fund be borrowed. A resolution by Mr. Barrows provided for the notification by the clerk to all persons protesting against sewers that the city would not locate sewers where there was not a majority in favor of them.

On a motion all crosswalks asked for were granted. Mr. Barrows stated that he had received a bill for $28.27 from the hospital for the treatment of two Italians and a man picked up on the railroad. He said that there was not enough money in the proper fund to meet the bill and he asked that the same be paid out of the general fund.

A report was made by the police committee concerning a proper place for a station house. The committee stated that a stable and a bowling alley were offered them on Sycamore street, but they did not consider that they were suitable for the desired purpose. The Crescent League house had been offered for the sum of $16,000, but it would require so much money to put the place in suitable condition that this was not considered a good place. The property at the corner of Watchung avenue and Second street could be purchased for $14,000, that at the corner of Watchung avenue and Front street for $17,000, and that at the corner of Watchung avenue and Fifth street for $10,000. It would in the judgment of the committee cost between $12,000 and $15,000 to erect a suitable station house, and they recommended that the committee be instructed to secure in detail the cost of ground, building, etc., for an accommodation building suitable for jail and city hall, with provisions for city offices, and report at the September meeting of the Council. The cost is not to exceed $50,000.

Hydrants were ordered placed at the corner of Kensington and LaGrande avenues, West Fourth street and Prescott place, West Fourth street and Monroe avenue. On motion several hackmen's licenses were granted.

Mr. Serrell moved that when council adjourn it be to meet Tuesday evening, August 17th, to pass upon the assessor's tax duplicate.

At this point Mr. Barrow offered a resolution which provided for the appropriation of $1,200 for the location of storm sewers, culverts, etc., for the purpose of carrying off surface water. Mr. Barrows presented several drawings which showed the plan of the street committee in having the work accomplished. The new arrangement will provide for drainage on Front street, Central avenue, Washington avenue, Sixth street, Eighth street, Grant avenue, Compton avenue, Clinton avenue, Albert street, Second street, Park avenue, and a number of other streets. It is the intention to do the work in a thoroughly satisfactory manner so that in the future there will be no further trouble.

Mr. Barrows also offered a resolution for the widening of Westervelt avenue, and the names of Alonzo Ayers, Alec. Pinto and Aaron Thompson were mentioned as commissioners to assess benefits and damages. August 18th, in the evening at eight o'clock, was the time set for hearing anyone who objects to the widening of the avenue.

Another resolution by Mr. Barrows provided for the establishment of a grade on Grant avenue from West Front street to South Second street so that sidewalks can be laid, and still another resolution by the same councilman called for the laying of curbing on Park avenue between Seventh street and Cedar brook. Mr. Barrows introduced an ordinance which provides for the establishment of the grade on Central avenue from Randolph road to Elizabeth street. This was adopted on a second reading and ordered engrossed and advertised. Another ordinance offered by Mr. Barrows provides for the laying of the wires of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company under ground through streets now occupied by poles. The ordinance has to be accepted within twenty days of its adoption and the company has to deposit a bond of $3,000 for the faithful performance of the work. The ordinance also provides that streets shall only be opened as the Council directs by resolution. After its first reading Mr. Westphal moved that each Councilman be provided with a copy of the ordinance.

Mr. Frost stated that it was found to be a very difficult matter for the city to find a good market for the produce raised on the city farm, and he suggested that the city exchange produce for labor and the labor to be used where the city thinks best. A resolution to that effect was offered by Mr. Frost and adopted.

Mr. Frost called up the sewer extension ordinance and it was adopted on its third reading. All of the members voted in the affirmative except Messrs. Runyon and Westphal. The ordinance was ordered engrossed and advertised, after which the Council adjourned.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

—J. J. Reason, of Barker's pharmacy, who some time ago received the degree of Ph.G. from the New York College of Pharmacy, has also successfully passed the examinations of the New Jersey State Board of Pharmacy.

If I Were a Girl.

A Young Graduate of Cambridge University Tells What He Would Do.

William Dickson, of Cambridge University, England, recently told a bevy of girls, that if he were one of them, he would always have rosy cheeks, red lips, bright eyes, and robust health. Six months ago he was a physical wreck from overstudy. A friend offered him Capsuloids. He thought he could try them because they contained iron, but he discovered that this form of natural iron or Haemeglobin, contained no acid and caused no indigestion or constipation. Capsuloids, by their natural non-irritating iron, in eight weeks, gave him such health and color that he was enabled to make the statement to the girls as above.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct for the same price by The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 105 Fulton Street, New York.

CHITCHAT OF POLITICS.

SOMERSET COUNTY AFFAIRS TERSELY COMMENTED ON.

Former Sheriff George A. Dilts is Working For H. N. Spencer for Surrogate and Incidentally Pushing Himself Along.

The following go-sipy political chit chat about Somerset county appeared in last week's Bound Brook Democrat, as written by "A Tilden Democrat:"

Randolph Smalley, now in his ninetieth year, born in the Passaic Valley, at Smalleytown, in this county, is passing the sundown of his life in North Plainfield. Mr. Smalley for several years made a business of trapping wild pigeons and he told the writer a few days ago that while engaged in that pursuit in Pennsylvania he had trapped as many as 75 dozen in one pull. The birds were shipped to New York city, where there was always a ready market. Not very many weeks ago flocks that took hours to pass over and oft' times obscured the sun's rays were frequently seen in this county. Now there are none. The wild pigeon is gone forever from these parts.

The clambake and lovefeast will take place at Sebring's Mills near Bound Brook in the latter part of August or on Labor Day. The function will be first-class in every particular and no expense will be spared to make it pleasant for all who attend. A brass band will be there and eloquent speakers will entertain the assemblage. It is bound to be the largest political gathering ever held in Somerset county. The selection of the grounds is most desirable, as they can be reached from any part of the county in a very short time. It is sure to be a grand success. Every live Democrat will be present and the absent be silently mourned.

Pipe-layin' and fence fixin' is now in order and in out-of-the-way places you can see, if your political eye is at all optomistic, the jolly Republican X Sheriff George A. Dilts taking a four-rail fence in different parts of the county, grasping the horny hand of an industrious farmer in Bedminster and the smooth "shaker" of the town citizen a few hours afterwards. The genteel, suave ex-sheriff is a hustler, and his "pipes" generally lay right straight, and his fences are built so high that nobody can be found to vault them until after convention time, and then some sprightly Democrat must be found to do the jump act over the stately elms into the Surrogate's office. Ex-Sheriff Dilts is for H. N. Spencer, of North Plainfield, for Surrogate. Spencer is a Republican, too. Dilts is for Dilts for second choice.

Hiram Oliver Hance, chairman of the Somerset County Democratic Executive Committee, and John Lyon Anderson, its secretary, both hail from Bernards township. Mr. Hance resides in North Plainfield, while Mr. Anderson makes Somerville his home. Both are in the best part of the thirties.

LITTLE SCHOOL BUSINESS.

Brief Meeting of the Board of Education Last Night.

Extremely brief was the regular monthly session of the Plainfield Board of Education, held last Monday. The members were rather late in gathering and when the meeting was called to order by President Probasco, those present were the president, Dr. Jenkins, Mr. Lounsbury and Mr. Lovell.

The usual routine business opened the meeting and then the report of Collector Bird was read, showing that taxes to the amount of $779.15 had been collected, together with $78.97 interest, making a total of $858.12 which had been deposited in the First National Bank to the credit of the Board.

A letter was read from Miss Margaret R. Case, stating that she would be unable to return to her duties in the public schools in the fall on account of poor health. After a short discussion the letter was referred to the committee on teachers.

There was no business to bring before the regular meeting, so the Board went into executive session.

The financial statement for the month was as follows:

Balance July 1st	$2,869.67
RECEIPTS.
From city collector	858.12
PAYMENTS.
Supt. of schools	250.00
Janitor and clerk	401.33
School books and supplies	43.34
Repairs, etc.	38.44
Sundries	529.31
On account contract J. A. Hubbard	1,000.00
Balance August 1st	$2,257.64
City National Bank	$1,809.15
First National Bank	$1,123.97

Health Means a perfect condition of the whole system. Pure blood is essential to perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood and thus gives health and happiness.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic and liver medicine. Price 25c.

—Papa and "Little Willie," of the borough, were seen one evening recently at Stephenson's restaurant on North avenue enjoying some specially prepared dishes. The hour was uncertain, but both were doing nicely.

PASSING COMMENT.

The time is now drawing near when the man with political aspirations labors with might and main to get the people to force a nomination upon him.

* * * * *

The men who are planning to go to the Klondike gold fields should think twice before they start. It is no laughing matter to venture into a region which is 15,000 miles from civilization and where beer costs fifty cents a glass.

* * * * *

It is not an unusual sight now to see women bicyclists riding diamond-frame wheels. This pattern is lighter and stronger than the drop-frame machine, and the use of the divided skirt enables it to be ridden with no sacrifice of modesty.

* * * * *

The mere fact that the law prohibiting prison labor in New York state has driven a number of convicts insane is not good reason for abolishing it. Think of the vastly larger number who would go crazy at the thought of being compelled to work for a living.

* * * * *

Two colored pugilists, one of whom is known as John Perkins, gave an amusing sparring exhibition on Madison avenue, in front of the old engine house, one day this week. The sparring was for points and was very scientific as well as good natured. A large crowd collected to witness the exhibition, and did not disperse until one of the pugilists commenced to pass the hat for a collection.

* * * * *

If you should chance to run across children in the streets with their hands and faces puffed out and spotted, do not flee from them under the impression that they are suffering from some contagious disease, for the chances are that they have merely come into contact with poison ivy while playing in the fields. This troublesome vine is constantly spring ing up in unexpected places at this time of the year, and is disagreeable, though not dangerous in its effects.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. NEW YORK.

At 6 months old 35 DOSES—35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

THE PEOPLE'S FAVORITE

The Haller & Davis Piano

BUILT AND SOLD ON HONOR

$300 and up and 3 years time. 7 octave organs $75 and up. Other makes taken in exchange for improvements. $225, $75 and $50. Pianos to rent. Pianos tuned, moved and repaired. Send for catalogue. Free music and catalogue.

THE TWAY PIANO COMPANY 48 FIFTH AVE.

BRINGS BACK ERRING WIFE.

Edward Fanning Goes to Boston Whence the Penitent Wife Wrote Him.

Edward Fanning, of Roselle, has heard from his wife, who two weeks ago eloped with Eugene Wood, their boarder, taking with her a sum of money which her husband had saved up. Wood deserted her at Boston, to which place they went from Roselle, and yesterday Fanning, who has been endeavoring to locate the pair, received a letter from his now repentant wife, begging his forgiveness and asking him to come and take her back. She told her husband of Wood's desertion of her, and her helplessness in a strange place.

Fanning, who blames Wood entirely, has left for Boston and will forgive and bring back his wife.

TITLE WILL BE PERFECTED

Then the Cranford Country Club Will Start Building Its New House.

The trustees of the Country Club, of Cranford, have found a flaw in the title of the lot, Riverside and Union avenue, upon which it was intended to construct a $30,000 clubhouse. The property belonged to Edward Bookhout, from whom it was purchased by Joseph Purcell, a prominent member of the club, who sold it to the club at a greatly reduced figure. It is said that the street, as accepted and laid out by the Township Committee, would embrace a portion of the ground claimed by the former owners of the land.

To settle all dispute and perfect the title the Road Board met to consider an application of property holders to vacate and abandon the old road, and the question will be decided Friday in favor of the claim of the owners.

TROUBLED BY HIGH WATER.

Watchung Avenue Bridge Contractor Experiencing Trouble.

The contractor for the masonry work of the new Watchung avenue bridge is having considerable difficulty with his work. The heavy rains of last week washed away a part of the stonework and all efforts to lay a new foundation have since failed because of the presence of water in the excavation, which has been flowing in faster than it could be pumped out. Efforts to remove the water will be abandoned and by the use of concrete it is hoped to advance the work without further serious delay.

BELATED LEGAL ACTION.

Deed of 1864 Recorded and a Mortgage 20 Years Old Cancelled.

Two interesting papers were filed in the office of the County Clerk of Middlesex county by John R. Conger, of New Brunswick, Tuesday. One was a deed of March 1st, 1864, which had not been recorded, although drawn up thirty-three years ago. The deed conveyed a tract of land from Lewis Thomas to Robert C. Vail, of Woodbridge. The other was the cancellation of a mortgage which had been paid off twenty years ago, but had not been cancelled.

Wm. Ferrier, of New Market, gave Samuel Smalley a mortgage in 1878 as security for borrowed money. He paid back the loan a few years later and was surprised recently to find that the mortgage had not been cancelled. Smalley had died several years ago, and when the matter was brought to the attention of Judge Woodbridge Strong yesterday he issued an order for the cancellation of the mortgage.

BICYCLES UNDER SUNDAY BAN.

Christian Endeavorers Pledged Against Sunday Cycling.

The Christian Endeavorers of Camden have taken a pledge against Sunday cycling. The credit for it belongs to the Endeavor Society of the Calvary Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. Dr. Spooner, state junior superintendent, is pastor. This society adopted the pledge for itself and then asked its members and bicycle members of the church to sign it. The pledge in part reads:—

I promise that I will not ride my wheel on the Sabbath only as it will honor my Master, and I believe He would like to have me do. I also promise to exert all possible influence to discourage others in the use of the Sunday wheels.

More than fifty members of this church at once signed the pledge, and a committee has taken it in charge, and have begun a tour of the country to get all the Endeavor societies to adopt it. The pastors support the plan heartily, and by next Sunday a big roll of signatures is expected from Camden's forty churches.

—If you have frequent headaches and pains in your eyes, or blurred vision, call on Leech, Stiles & Co., the eye specialists of Philadelphia, at 107 East Front street, every Thursday and have your eyes examined free of charge.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL XXX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 12, 1897. NO. 32.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

SAVED A LIFE AT BELMAR

Heroic Conduct of Plucky William McCutchen.

MAN VENTURED TOO FAR IN THE SURF

Overcome by the High Billows and Shrieked for Help—Young McCutchen Swam Out to the Drowning Man and Assisted Him to a Place of Safety on the Beach—Life Guard in Danger.

A Plainfielder who is summering at Belmar writes to a friend in this city as follows regarding a nervy action of William McCutchen, son of Samuel McCutchen, of Washington St. 1, McCutchen, of Stelle Park, North Plainfield:

"Will McCutchen distinguished himself a day or two ago by saving the life of Charles Black, of New York, who was drowning in the surf. The stranger ventured beyond the safety lines because the tide was low, but did not take into consideration the fact that the waves were very high. Soon he was completely exhausted and at the mercy of the tumbling billows. He shrieked for assistance, and McCutchen responded without hesitation to his call. With a splendid burst of speed he distanced two regular life-savers who started about the same time to the rescue, and after reaching the sinking man kept him afloat until the surfmen arrived.

"The excited spectators nearly drowned one of the life guards. When McCutchen reached the drowning man those on shore mistook him for the guard and began in haste to pull where the life-line which is attached to the guard's belt. They not only retarded his progress by their ill advised action, but almost drowned him by yanking him back. If McCutchen had not had a cool head and tough muscles to back up his natural courage the stranger would most likely be consorting with angels by this time, provided, of course, his ticket read that way."

PAWNED A COAT FOR DRINK.

It Did Not Belong to the Imbiber—Arrested and Paid a Fine.

Strong drink is the besetting sin of Joseph Henderson, a machinist in the employ of the Scott Printing Machine Company. For a week past Henderson has been upon a carouse, and Tuesday he was reduced to such straits that in order to obtain money to drink he took a coat from the room of Samuel Harlem, who rooms in the same house with him at 254 East Front street, and sold it for thirty cents.

When Harlem, who is a hard working German stone cutter, returned from his day's work and discovered that the coat had been taken, he immediately reported the matter to the police, and Henderson was arrested and placed in the lockup pending an investigation.

When arraigned before Judge Deane, in the City Court, yesterday, Henderson pleaded guilty to the charge of being drunk and disorderly, but claimed that the coat which he had sold was his own. Harlem proved to the satisfaction of the court that he had purchased the garment over a year ago of Henderson, paying $1.50 for it, and had worn it all last winter.

His Honor awarded the coat to Harlem and sentenced Henderson to a fine of $10 or 30 days in the county jail. The prisoner paid the fine.

FOUND 114 PENNIES.

An Old Church Cushion Disclosed Small Pieces of Money.

Isaac Stites, the borough blacksmith, discovered a quantity of copper Tuesday afternoon, near his shop, which led him at first to think that he had struck a copper mine. He had been burning some old rubbish in making a fire to heat a wagon tire, and after the fire was burned out he accidentally spread the ashes about. In doing so he ran across $1.14 in copper pennies, and three three-cent pieces. He reported his find to W. H. Cole, his neighbor, and the latter helped him to solve the mystery. It seems that Mr. Cole had in his shop an old cushion that had served its time at the Presbyterian church previous to the purchase of the new ones about two years ago. In some way or other this old cushion found its way out of Mr. Cole's place into the fire started by Mr. Staats. The solution is that the coppers were hidden in the cushion and when the cloth was destroyed it left them in a good state of preservation. Owing to the fact that Mr. Staats found the money Mr. Cole consented to his keeping it.

Appointed Administrator.

Frederick A. Pope, of the firm of Pope & Runyon, was Tuesday appointed administrator of the estate of the late Mary Hatchett, of North Plainfield. Mrs. Hatchett's life was insured for $300, and there is other property in the estate.

FEW GOVERNORS GO HIGH

An Fifty Years Only a Few Have Been in National Politics.

GOV. GRIGGS HOPES TO BE ANOTHER.

His Friends Taking Time by the Forelock in His United States Senatorship Candidacy to Avoid the Rocks and Shoals That Caused Disaster to the Aspirations of Most All of the Governors.

Within a period of fifty years the only Governors who ever figured in national politics were Wm. A. Newell, Marcus L. Ward, Theodore F. Randolph, Gen. George B. McClellan, Joel Parker and Leon Abbett. Most of these aspired to positions in the national government, but failed. Governor Newell served in Congress before he was elected Chief Executive of the State, and afterwards he was appointed Governor of Washington Territory, which has since become a State, and where he at the present resides.

Joel Parker, once or twice after he served his second term as Governor, was boomed for a Presidential nomination, and his State delegation complimented him by their votes in national conventions. He never got any further on the road to his ambition, and when he died he was serving as a Judge on the Supreme Court.

When Cleveland was first elected President Gen. McClellan, who had a few years previously filled the Governor's chair, was urged for the office of Secretary of War. He was supported by Henry C. Kelsey, Henry Stafford Little and others, who were convinced that no better selection for the office could be made, and that New Jersey, owing to its rock ribbed Democratic faith, was entitled to a seat in the President's Cabinet. The other wing of the New Jersey Democracy, what was known as the anti-State House ring faction, however, rebelled against the proposed appointment and insisted that one of themselves should receive recognition. This split in the party lost it a Cabinet berth and Gen. McClellan was forced to fall by the wayside.

Every person conversant with the history of New Jersey politics is aware of the struggles which Leon Abbott made for the United States Senate; how he was slaughtered in the house of his friends, and how keenly he felt the treachery which caused his downfall. During his first term as Governor, when he was at the zenith of his power and influence as a politician, his name was frequently mentioned in connection with the nomination for Vice President. He said at the time that he did not care for that office at all, and if he could not be President he would like to be United States States Senator. His strength among the politicians of his own party soon began to wane until he wielded scarcely any influence at all among them. His popularity with the rank and file of his party, however, never waned.

Theodore F. Randolph's election to the United States Senate occurred when the so-called "State House ring" ruled the State from Sussex to Cape May. That was in 1875 when the Democrats had a large majority on joint ballot in the Legislature, and when George O. Vanderbilt was Speaker of the House of Assembly. Mr. Randolph was chosen to succeed John P. Stockton. The latter was a candidate for re-election, but Mr. Randolph had an easy victory over him in the Democratic caucus.

Besides Governor Newell, on the Republican side, Governor Marcus L. Ward also served a term in the National House of Representatives.

When Rufus Blodgett defeated Leon Abbett for the Senate the name of Joseph D. Beadle has been mentioned in connection with the office, but he gave way for the sake of harmony and in order to make certain the discomfiture of his fellow-statesman from Hudson county.

Governor Green, when his term ended, became a Vice Chancellor and a Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals; former Governor Ludlow is now a Supreme Court Justice, and since his term as Governor expired George T. Werts has apparently gone into obscurity.

The friends of Governor Griggs, no doubt, are familiar with all these facts concerning his predecessors in office, and it is presumed that they are taking time by the forelock so as to avoid the rocks and shoals which caused such disaster to the hopes and ambitions of those who have gone before him.

Who Has Lost a Horse?

In the North Plainfield pound there is a horse and the owner cannot be found. He has been confined for several days and the pound-keeper has allowed the horse to go out to pasture until someone calls and claims him.

ROPE 24 HOURS STEADY

Evans Broke The Record by a Trifle Over Seven Miles.

COVERED 356 MILES IN ONE DAY.

His Course Was From New Brunswick to Plainfield and Elizabeth and Return—Chain on His Wheel Broke as He Left Plainfield Wednesday For the Last Time—Finished in Good Condition.

A. W. W. Evans, a member of the New York Athletic Club, and a well-known long-distance rider, started at 6:20 a. m. Tuesday in an effort to break the twenty-four-hour road record. Evans made a record of 310 miles in 1895, but this was broken a month ago by a Vermont rider, who covered 337 miles.

Evans started from Highland Park, near New Brunswick, and rode to Plainfield and Elizabeth and return, each lap being fifty-two miles. He was paced over the course by tandem teams from New Brunswick and Elizabeth. During the first hour the rider was delayed by a heavy shower. He completed his first hundred miles in five hours, thirty-seven minutes and twenty-five seconds, and the 150 in eight hours, fifty-five minutes and twenty-five seconds. At 6:20 he had finished 207 miles, beating the previous twelve-hour road record by six miles. At 10:10 p. m. he reached Highland Park, completing his fifth lap and making a new record of 260 miles for fifteen hours.

He was well inside his schedule, and although the rain and bad roads bothered him greatly, he decided to continue, as he had over nine hours in which to ride ninety miles and was confident of at least beating the record. He hoped to fix the new record at 400 miles. To do that he had to ride 140 miles in the nine hours remaining.

Evans passed through this city on his return from New Brunswick at 11:37 p. m., and returned again from Elizabeth at 1:20 a. m. He was still riding fast when he arrived here again at 3:05 a. m. While returning from Elizabeth for the last time the tandem that was pacing him broke down at Westfield and he rode unpaced to this city, arriving at 5:19 He dismounted and took a drink of egg and milk. Just as he started out again the chain on his wheel broke and it was necessary for him to take his brother's wheel and continue the ride. The wheel that had carried him thus far on his record-breaking trip was taken to F. L. C. Martin's store for repair and can be seen there today. It is thickly coated with mud.

Evans finished his ride in twenty-three hours, forty-nine minutes and thirty seconds, during which time he had ridden 356 miles, breaking the record of 349 2 5 miles made by Edwards, of New York. He finished in good condition.

Evans was disappointed in not making 400 miles as he set out to do. He will endeavor to do this at an early date.

William Kiely had charge of checking and arrangements for the Plainfield end of the race.

By many it will be remembered that F. L. C. Martin made a twenty-four record of 202 miles on a high wheel and held it till Evans made 207 miles on a safety six years ago.

ALL-RAIL ROUTE TO SOUTH BEACH.

A New and Pleasant Ride for the Grocers' Excursion.

The Grocers' Association excursion on Labor Day to South Beach will reach that point by a route that will be new to everybody. At Cranford the excursion train will branch off onto a spur of the B. & O. that runs to Staten Island, crossing over the Raritan Bay on the largest bridge that touches New Jersey. The Island will be reached at the upper end, but in order to have an all-rail route it will be necessary to transfer to the road that runs along the eastern side of the Island towards New York and then circle around the lower end and go up to the Beach on the other side of the Island. It will be a new and attractive ride, and will be the first time a passenger train has ever gone over the B. & O. spur. It was proposed by J. F. MacDonald, who found H. P. Baldwin, General Passenger Agent of the Central, ready to listen to the idea and regard it in a favorable light.

To Sell an Estate.

Former Judge W. A. Coddington went to Woodridge Tuesday afternoon to sell the estate of Samuel Dalley, of that place, lately deceased, in order to secure a division of the estate and to give her dower to the widow, Mrs. Dalley, whose interests are being looked after by Reed & Coddington.

—The tracks of the Plainfield Street Railway Company on Somerset street are being repaired.

POLITICS AND CROPS.

Hunterdon County Farmers' Annual Big Time.

NOTED SPEAKERS ARE TO TALK.

Farmer James E. Martine is on the Programme—To be Held on the County Fair Ground, Near Flemington, August 18th and 19th—Families for Miles Around Will Attend the Annual Picnic.

The big and little politicians from all parts of New Jersey are being groomed for their annual talk on peaches and politics. Great times are expected at the seventh annual Hunterdon County Farmers' picnic, which will be held this year on August 18th and 19th on the Hunterdon County Fair Grounds, on the outskirts of Flemington, instead of on Smith's Island, as in former years. The big guns and little fishes must attend this picnic, and be thoroughly posted on the peach crop, as well as the political crop, or their future political prospects are blasted.

No politician who essays to be a State leader dare ignore the farmers' picnic.

This year's programme is no exception to the rule. The farmers' picnic is not an ordinary affair in any particular. It partakes of the character of a county fair. Of course, the early part of the first day will be taken up by the tillers of the soil in an examination of the exhibits, and then will follow a discussion of the latest improved methods of planting potatoes, husking corn and the culture of peaches and pumpkins. This will be supplemented by an earnest, and, it often happens, animated discussion of the brand of fertilizer most profitable for certain kinds of soil in the stony regions and on Hunterdon's hills. On the last day of the picnic the farmers get down to business and proceed to select their respective party candidates to be voted for at the fall elections.

The programme for the first day opens with a discussion, by W. K. Cagna, of New York, on "The Hard Times, Cause, and Remedy."

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the Hon. Wm. Daly of Hoboken, State Senator, representing Hudson county, leader of the Democratic silver party of New Jersey, and candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, is to fire broadside into the Republicans. At 4:30 o'clock J. P. Nichols of New York is billed to discuss the reform of politics, in which discussion he promises to tell just how Mayor Strong has blotted out vice and immorality in the metropolis.

On Aug. 19 the fun opens promptly at 10:30 o'clock with a joint discussion as to the wisdom of abolishing the county Board of Freeholders throughout New Jersey, and placing in their stead, to govern the affairs of the county, a non partisan Commission consisting of five persons.

Farmer Martine of Union county will tell the farmers of the "great evils of trusts and combines." He will speak just before dinner, starting off at 11:30 o'clock, and after the races for dinner, Prof. Dickey, beginning at 1:30 o'clock, will tell of the "horrors of the liquar traffic." Prof. Dickey is chairman of the National Prohibition Committee.

Hunterdon county is a rockribbed Democratic county, but, when out on picnic, the farmers are entirely unbiased, politically. So, as usual, while all the speakers up to the eleventh hour will be firing broadsides into the Republican ranks, the picnic will be closed by representative orators who will defend their party. Gov. Griggs will be one of these orators.

Congressman Malon Pitney is billed to speak at 2:30 o'clock, and will talk of the national issues. United States Senator William Joyce Sewell, the programme says, has promised to follow Mr. Pitney.

Then Mrs. Mary Ellen Lease, who would be Governor of Kansas, has written to the committee, saying that she will, if possible, be present and tell the farmers many strange truths.

Third Start Was all Right.

The members of St. Mary's church and Sunday-school were successful Tuesday and had a pleasant time at their annual excursion to Asbury Park. They occupied about nine cars and their was about 450 people in the party. No mishaps occurred at the start and as far as can be learned no one was left behind. The day gives promise of being a delightful one at the shore and no doubt all will have a good time.

Fined For Contempt of Court.

Patrick Kearns, whose son, John, was Tuesday sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and serve fifty-nine days in the County Jail, was arrested later in the day for contempt of court. He was given a hearing at 8 o'clock in the evening before Mayor Fisk, and was fined $5. He paid the fine and was released.

PLUNDER IN A CORNFIELD

Wagon Load of Clothes Abandoned by Thieves.

BOOTY SATURATED BY THE RAIN.

Discovered by Walter Stryker on L. D. Cook Estate Farm—Supposed to be the Goods Stolen From T. C. Rogers' Store in New Market—Other Depredations in That Vicinity—No Clue to the Thieves.

Walter Stryker, of Bound Brook, was going through a cornfield on the farm of the L. D. Cook estate at Beechwood Heights, six miles from this city, this morning, when he came upon a pair of pants lying on the ground. A little further he found a vest, and then much to his astonishment he came to a wagon, heretofore obscured by the high corn stalks, that was loaded with trousers, coats and vests in varied assortment. The heavy rain of yesterday had damaged the clothing considerable, as it was completely saturated with water. It is supposed that the load of clothes is the plunder that was taken by the burglars who broke into T. C. Rogers' store at New Market early Tuesday morning and that it was either hid in the cornfield to be carried away away and disposed of when opportunity afforded or else the thieves became frightened and abandoned the booty. Mr. Rogers will be notified to go to the place and get the goods if they belong to him.

The burglars who looted the clothing store of T. C. Rogers at New Market early Tuesday morning and carried away a large number of suits of clothes, also invaded two other places of business, and from the bulky condition of the goods they stole it is evident that they were accompanied by a horse and wagon.

Nell Scott runs a liquor store and bottling works at Dunellen and Tuesday morning when his employes opened up the place they found that burglars had paid a visit during the early morning, as the store is seldom closed before midnight. There was no money handy, so the burglars loaded five kegs of beer into their wagon and drove off towards New Market.

Either before or shortly after the burglary of Rogers' store the house of Silas Carpenter at New Market was also entered and a considerable quantity of clothing and boots and shoes taken. Nothing but the clothes and shoes were touched.

The home of Thomas Titsworth was also entered and some clothing taken, but it was found some time later near the house.

There is no clue to the burglars, except that it is thought they came from New Brunswick or at least returned there, as one or two of the missing articles were found on the Stelton road leading to that city.

The thieves who operated at Metuchen were no doubt desperately hungry, as the only articles they took were provisions, including tea, coffee, meat, butter and groceries, which they found in the cellar of the house of Edward Burroughs, on Middlesex avenue. Entrance was gained through a window in the cellar and the thieves confined their operations to that part of the house, being unable to reach the rest of it. It is not known that any other attempt was made there last night.

AT A CRITICAL POINT.

A Delicate Operation Saves the Life of Miss Lizzie Flanagan.

Through the skill and care of Dr Donoughgh, of New Brunswick, and Dr. Boone, of this city, Miss Lizzie Flanagan, daughter of Patrolman and Mrs. P. J. Flanagan, of West Fifth street, has successfully passed through a very delicate operation for appendicitis. Miss Flanagan has only been confined to the house a short time, but the disease had reached that point where it was a case of life with an operation or death without. The former was chosen and Tuesday afternoon the operation was performed. As stated above it was successful and there is every indication that the patient will recover speedily.

Hospital News.

John Stein, of the borough, was taken to the hospital Tuesday suffering severely with rheumatism. It was decided best to remove him to the above institution, so that he could have proper treatment. George Gray, who has been detained at the hospital for a couple of days, left that place today and started for Philadelphia where he has relatives. His final destination is Kentucky, were his sister is living.

Justice Moffett's Court.

In Justice Moffett's court Tuesday summons were issued in the contract cases of Bolce, Runyon & Co. against Francisco, returnable on the 17th, Rushmore & Co. against Hartfelder, and returnable on the 18th, and Hart against Young, returnable on the same date.

NO WORK, SOUGHT DEATH

Edward Cullinane's Dead Body Found in The North River.

HAD RECENTLY LEFT THIS CITY

He Was An Englishman and Had Worked for Various People in This Section—Dissipated in His Habits at Times—Had Been to England and Returned Since June 1st—No Friends in This Country.

The New York Sun this morning published the following:

The body of a man was found yesterday in the North River at the foot of Jay street. From papers found on the clothes it is supposed that the body is that of Edward Cullinand, an English coachman, whose address is not known.

A letter recommending Cullinane as a first-class coachman from Capt. E. C. Beckett, Third Hussars, London, was found in the dead man's pockets. There was another letter from Major N. T. Nobbs, of the Dragoon Guards, and a third from J. A. Smith, of 136 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

A reporter showed the above extract to Mr. Smith, the West Front street grocer, Wednesday, and was told that Cullinane had worked for him as a driver on one of his delivery wagons till the first of last June, when he demanded an increase in wages which was refused and he quit work. At the time he had about $60 coming to him from Mr. Smith, and drawing this money he purchased a ticket on an ocean steamer and went to England, from whence he came several years ago. He returned to this country in less than a month, however, and has been staying in this city part of the time.

Mr. Smith said that he was flighty at times and was also addicted to the excessive use of intoxicants. Before he came unreliable on account of his drinking, he was a first-class coachman, and in England he had been in the employ of the best families. He worked for John I. Holly, of Park avenue, for a long time, but finally became so disilpated that his services were dispensed with. Then he secured a position with Morris Higgins, at South Plainfield, and eventually went to work for Mr. Smith, where he remained for over a year. The latter said that he was a faithful worker. So far as known he had no friends in this country, and that he had been out of work and had but little money doubtless made him despondent. He left Plainfield for Newark ten days ago.

THE WIFE'S FURNITURE.

Attempt to Serve a Distress Warrant Proved Ineffective When Taken to Court.

The end of an interesting dispute between landlord and tenant over the right to certain property in the form of household furniture, was reached Tuesday when the case of Mrs. Eveline Hovel against Mrs. Melissa Gibbs was tried by a jury of six men in Justice Mosher's court.

The Hovels have been occupying a house on Sandford avenue, Netherwood, belonging to Mrs. Gibbs, for a number of years, and the relations between landlord and tenants have always been friendly until within a few weeks. Mr. Hovel, who is a furniture salesman, was thrown out of employment some time ago, and in consequence of the family's scant income, the rent has fallen several months in arrears. On July 1st Mrs. Gibbs came to share the house with the Hovels, and soon afterwards informed them that they must vacate on September 1st. A few days ago, when the tenants began to make preparations to move, the landlord levied a distress upon the household furniture, to secure the amount due, about $120. Mrs. Hovel, however, claimed that the furniture was purchased with her money, and that it could not be distressed for rent due from her husband, and Tuesday's action was brought by her attorney, Assemblyman W. R. Codington, to determine whether Mrs. Hovel had a right to the goods. The defense was represented by S. H. Swackhamer.

The case was called at 2 o'clock, and a number of witnesses were heard on both sides. At 5 o'clock the jury, consisting of C. V. D. Corle, Adrian Martin, Benj. Moore, M. VanHorn, Samuel Terry and Voorhees Lane, retired, and in fifteen minutes brought in a verdict in favor of the ownership of Mrs. Hovel.

Judgments Rendered.

In Justice Nash's court judgment has been given and an execution made and levied in the case of Brown against Venezio. Judgment has also been rendered for the plaintiffs in the cases of Brady against Yeager, for $13.93 and costs; Brady against Banks for $36.31 and costs; and in the contract of McNabb against Leland.

Glad Tidings Tent.

Rev. Thomas Needham has been called away through the illness of his child. The tent service will be postponed till further notice.

ROCK A BYE, BABY.

Rock a bye, baby; in the tree top.
When the wind blows the cradle will rock;
When the bough breaks, the cradle will fall,
Down tumble baby, and cradle, and all.

Rock a bye, baby; the meadows in bloom;
Laugh at the sunbeams that dance in the room
Echo the birds with your cooing and tunes,
Coo in the sunshine and flowers of June.

Rock a bye, baby; as softly it swings,
Over thy cradle the mother love sings;
Heeding or smiling at every one's cares,
What will it do when the mother is gone?

Rock a bye, baby; so cloudless the skies,
Blue as the depths of your own laughing eyes;
Sweet is the rainbow that follows the rain,
That tenderly sings little baby to rest.

Rock a bye, baby; the blue eyes will dream
Sweetest when mamma's eyes over them beam
Never again will the world seem so fair—
Sleep, little bird, there are clouds in the air.

Rock a bye, baby; the blue eyes will burn,
And ache with that your manhood will learn,
Swiftly the years come with sorrow and care,
With burdens the wee dimpled shoulders must bear.

Rock a bye, baby; there's coming a day
When mamma's a mother's lips can't kiss away;
Days when its song will change to a moan;
Crosses that baby must bear all alone.

Rock a bye, baby; the meadow's in bloom,
May never the frosts pall the beauty in gloom;
Be thy world ever bright as to-day it is seen,
Rock a bye, baby; "thy cradle is green."

—R. J. Burdette, in Hawkeye.

NELL'S GUARANTEE.

BY LEIGH FORD.

"A disappointment connected with something near your heart, and—let me see."

She turned the cards up meditatively on the shining oak table and put her hands to her head in a pretty affectation of wisdom.

"That means love," laying her finger on the five of hearts, "eternal love—the love of some woman. It looks like an old friend, and she runs in hearts, I think. Yes, she is quite light; can you place her?"

"As fair as coloring goes," he laughed. "I know any number of light women; yourself, for instance."

"Oh! I'm not in it; my hair is too yellow. This one is more of a dem-blonde, something like Miss Maitland, brown hair and blue eyes."

"My dear girl, Miss Maitland isn't blonde at all; if you can't do better than that for me, I'll throw up the whole concern."

She smiled and ran off a few more cards, counting every third one in quite a professional manner.

"Well, if it's not Miss Maitland," shaking her head, "you will have to fill in the name yourself. There is the ace of spades; that's bad luck, and a death, and—oh! there's your wish. Have you one in mind?"

He shook his head.

"You didn't tell me."

"Well, I tell you now; make it right away, and a good one too, for I believe it's going to come true."

"But," he protested, leaning forward and resting his arms on the table, "if I make such an important one, I want a guarantee; are you prepared to give it to me?"

"Don't be absurd, Jack; this is serious; now wish something good."

"Must I tell you what it is?"

"No," doubtfully. "You won't have to, but you can if you want to."

"Well—I will tell you if I get it; now, mind, this is very important."

"Some three cards then. Does it concern a woman?"

"Yes."

"I might have known it. Is she light or dark?"

"That would be telling."

"Oh! You are too provoking," petulantly picking up the cards. "It would serve you right if I said you didn't get your old wish at all."

"But you won't do that?"

"Be still. I will if you don't let go of my hands. See! You are making me drop all the cards."

"Nonsense! I'll help you pick them up. Just tell me if I get my wish."

"Well, I'll see. There's that ten of diamonds and the deuce, and—ah! the ace of hearts. You will have it sure; but there is a little disappointment just at first. I see—dear me, Jack! What are you doing? Let go my hands."

"Not until you have given me a guarantee for my wish."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean—oh! well, you have known it all along. You are my wish. No, no, don't move. Come, dear, be serious with me for once."

"But I don't want to be serious," she cried, trying to draw away from him; "you have spoiled all my fortune. Look! Here I see a gift coming."

"What do I care for the cards, or anything else in the world but you? Come, Nell. Give me an answer. You must have some kindness in your heart for me, your old friend."

"That's it," she whispered faltering-ly, for the first time letting her eyes meet his. "We are such friends. I have known you all my life—I" rubbing her hand on the table nervously. "I am fonder of you than almost any one; but how can I tell if that is love? Jack, dear, can't we go on in the old way? I don't want to marry." Her fingers closed pleadingly on his. "Why should we spoil it by getting married?"

He made a quick, impatient gesture.

"Oh, yes! I know it is different with men, but I would be contented to live on just as we are for years. Why, see! We would never know what it was to tire of each other. We would not have all the romance brushed off our love by the monotonous intimacy of married life. We would have all of the delight with none of the despair. I don't know why marriage should be regarded as the height and pinnacle of earthly bliss. It seems to me it is the one great institution that destroys love."

She gave a restless sigh, and let her chin sink into the soft palms of her hands.

He stood looking at her a moment, his heart smothered with pain and longings and love. Then he leaned slowly forward, and took both her hands from her face, and held them in the firm clasp of his.

"Nell, dear," he said, softly. "You take this way because you don't know what love is. Why, do you suppose for a moment that mere pleasant companionship would satisfy a man who loved you? He would only be half a man to accept what you suggest. As for me, I cannot go on with our friendship. I could not stand it as when I have asked for bread. You cannot help it, dear, and I must drop out of your life and live my own as best I may."

He dropped her hands, and turning away began to finger mechanically the little sweetbriar roses and Bouncing Betties and bachelor buttons and white and pink sweet peas. Your grandmother made them into a nosegay, and ran to school without stopping to look for a single flower. The boys and girls were there early. Each one brought a basketful of flowers. The teacher had her clean pink muslin pinned up over her stiff white skirts. She was standing on the platform, bossing the big girls. The big girls were making wreaths of oak and maple leaves. They pinned the leaves together with their green stems.

"When Freedom from her mountain heights
Unfurls her standard to the air."

The teacher sent the big boys out for big maple branches, and the big boys went whooping off to the grove.

When you went in the door with your nosegay all the big girls exclaimed "Oh, ain't it lovely!" and the little girls said "Teacher, teacher, here's more flowers!" Then you went into the entry and put the flowers in a great tub full of ferns. Then the teacher called you in and said "Now, you little fellows, come hand me the flags." The teacher climbed up on her desk and you little fellows handed her the flags. Then the teacher nailed the flags up above the blackboard, crossed just like the flags in a picture. All the big girls stood off and said "A little more to the left," and "Now that's right," until the flags were just right.

Some one who was very clever and who was going to the city to be an artist some day had drawn two beautiful blue-chalk eagles on the board. And some one who could write better than the teacher had written enough for the Glorious Fourth!" in red chalk. Altogether the blackboard looked beautiful to you.

Then the big boys came tramping in with the maple boughs. When the boughs were all used up, and when the wreaths drooped in festoons around the room, the teacher took the bouquets and set one on each desk. Then she unpinned her pink skirts and rustled them all out, nice and stiff, marched up on the platform and sang the Ash You all scuffled to your seats and folded your arms from ear to ear with pure delight and excitement.

The teacher touched the bell again and you all sprang up like a jack. She touched it again and you all burst out singing "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue." The little girl in the seat across the aisle looked just like a little wild rose, in her fresh dress, with a bunch of them tucked in her belt. The boy in front of you had a deep bass voice, he couldn't get a tune and he just mumbled along.

He couldn't keep his eyes off the girl across the aisle, and you made up your mind you'd have something to say to him when school was out. When the song was done the teacher called "John," and a big boy lumbered up to the platform and recited "At Midnight in His Guarded Tent." He was frightful at the time. The teacher scolded and he said he could not help it.

Four little girls got up and sang the song of the four seasons. Then you recited "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere." You got your lines and stammered, and went on again. A funny little girl recited "Barbara Frietchie." Before you knew it the morning was gone and the rehearsal was over.

Some time was passed and there stood the trustees; some one else knocked, and there stood the minister; and then a whole stream of people came, a perfect crowd, fifteen or twenty. They filled the little schoolroom up, and you kept thinking of that awful night of Paul Revere. All you could remember was "Now listen, my children, an' you shall hear."

At that moment the teacher rang the bell and you found yourself standing. You didn't remember getting up, but you knew it "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue" rang through the little school house with a vigor and a fire in it that would have moved a multitude to enthusiasm.

When the 'last day" was over and the Fourth came, do you remember the getting up at sunrise? Do you remember the torpedoes you put in the cracks of the door hinges? Do you remember the picnic, and the oration, and the fireworks in the evening? Do you remember—but these are never forgotten.

The glue on envelopes is often made from decaying scraps collected in slaughter-houses. And yet people will go on licking their envelopes!

WHEN WE WERE BOYS.

An Incident of the Last Day of School Recalled.

When we lived in the country, when vacation began the Friday before the Fourth; when every boy and girl in the school dressed up in good clothes and "spoke a piece"—wasn't it a great day, that Friday before the Fourth! All the school trustees were there; your mother came, and you wished she wouldn't look you and smile so much. You were afraid the boys would tease you when school was out, and call you "Mamma's pet."

You got up early in the morning and went into the garden and picked sweet elysium and old-fashioned clove pinks, sweetbriar roses and Bouncing Betties and bachelor buttons and white and pink sweet peas. Your grandmother made them into a nosegay, and ran to school without stopping to look for a single flower. The boys and girls were there early. Each one brought a basketful of flowers. The teacher had her clean pink muslin pinned up over her stiff white skirts. She was standing on the platform, bossing the big girls. The big girls were making wreaths of oak and maple leaves. They pinned the leaves together with their green stems.

"When Freedom from her mountain heights
Unfurls her standard to the air."

The teacher sent the big boys out for big maple branches, and the big boys went whooping off to the grove.

When you went in the door with your nosegay all the big girls exclaimed "Oh, ain't it lovely!" and the little girls said "Teacher, teacher, here's more flowers!" Then you went into the entry and put the flowers in a great tub full of ferns. Then the teacher called you in and said "Now, you little fellows, come hand me the flags." The teacher climbed up on her desk and you little fellows handed her the flags. Then the teacher nailed the flags up above the blackboard, crossed just like the flags in a picture. All the big girls stood off and said "A little more to the left," and "Now that's right," until the flags were just right.

Some one who was very clever and who was going to the city to be an artist some day had drawn two beautiful blue-chalk eagles on the board. And some one who could write better than the teacher had written enough for the Glorious Fourth!" in red chalk. Altogether the blackboard looked beautiful to you.

Then the big boys came tramping in with the maple boughs. When the boughs were all used up, and when the wreaths drooped in festoons around the room, the teacher took the bouquets and set one on each desk. Then she unpinned her pink skirts and rustled them all out, nice and stiff, marched up on the platform and sang the Ash You all scuffled to your seats and folded your arms from ear to ear with pure delight and excitement.

The teacher touched the bell again and you all sprang up like a jack. She touched it again and you all burst out singing "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue." The little girl in the seat across the aisle looked just like a little wild rose, in her fresh dress, with a bunch of them tucked in her belt. The boy in front of you had a deep bass voice, he couldn't get a tune and he just mumbled along.

He couldn't keep his eyes off the girl across the aisle, and you made up your mind you'd have something to say to him when school was out. When the song was done the teacher called "John," and a big boy lumbered up to the platform and recited "At Midnight in His Guarded Tent." He was frightful at the time. The teacher scolded and he said he could not help it.

Four little girls got up and sang the song of the four seasons. Then you recited "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere." You got your lines and stammered, and went on again. A funny little girl recited "Barbara Frietchie." Before you knew it the morning was gone and the rehearsal was over.

Some time was passed and there stood the trustees; some one else knocked, and there stood the minister; and then a whole stream of people came, a perfect crowd, fifteen or twenty. They filled the little schoolroom up, and you kept thinking of that awful night of Paul Revere. All you could remember was "Now listen, my children, an' you shall hear."

At that moment the teacher rang the bell and you found yourself standing. You didn't remember getting up, but you knew it "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue" rang through the little school house with a vigor and a fire in it that would have moved a multitude to enthusiasm.

When the 'last day" was over and the Fourth came, do you remember the getting up at sunrise? Do you remember the torpedoes you put in the cracks of the door hinges? Do you remember the picnic, and the oration, and the fireworks in the evening? Do you remember—but these are never forgotten.

"Louise, two-thirds of every healthy infant's life should be spent in sleep." "Well, don't tell me about it; go talk to baby."—Chicago Record.

A MODERN CASABIANCA.

Saved Two Men in the Mines at a Great Risk to His Own Life.

It is a good thing to remember when one reads the account of some young man who has gone wrong that honesty still exists in the world, and that courage and integrity are by no means without notable examples in the rising generation.

In which one of all the thrilling tales which boys delight to read is there pictured a truer hero than John Thomas, the 16-year-old lad who saved two of his fellow-workmen from death by fire, the other day, at the risk of his own life?

An alarm of fire was given on one of the levels of a Tamarack shaft. Danger was imminent, and all near hurried off save young Thomas. He stood by his hoisting engine, because there were two miners working at the twenty-third level, and without the hoisting engine they could not escape. The flames were barely a dozen feet from his post of duty, and the fire itself not a hundred feet off. Six boxes of dynamite were standing in the crosscut, near the hoist, and a spark from some careless miner's candle had dropped into an open box. With the heat blistering his hands and face, young Thomas stood by his engine in the mine to climb into the bucket as there was a fire in the drift. Facing death, he brought the men safely to the floor of the level, not a moment too soon as his clothing had begun to smoke from the heat.

The Casabianca spirit lives as truly to-day as in times past. Well may praise and honor be accorded John Thomas, of Calumet.—Boston Globe.

WHEN THE QUEEN LAUGHED.

A Funny Incident Which Greatly Amused Royalty.

The tradition that "the Queen never smiles" is as old in England as her reign. The hundreds of photographs of her majesty sold in all parts of the world invariably show the one expression, the heaviness of the face accentuated by the pronounced droop of the long upper lip.

But, nevertheless, the Queen does smile. A number of years ago Charles Knight, a photographer at Newport, Isle of Wight, secured a likeness of her which shows her Majesty not merely smiling, but laughing.

How did it happen that such a likeness was obtained? In this way: The Queen was visiting Newport. The Mayor of the city was presenting in a verbose and fulsome speech a magnificent bouquet. He had carefully committed the speech to memory, but in his anxiety to make a favorable impression with his courtly manners, his pomp and splendor of royal velvet and fur-trimmed robe, medals, cocked hat, and sable chains of gold, he "lost his head."

After some stammering and stuttering he suddenly shouted, "I've forgotten the rest," and stood gazing at the Queen like a stupid schoolboy on visitors' day. Then her Majesty laughed outright, and the flustered and heartbroken Mayor dropped the bouquet and fled. While the Queen was laughing, Knight, the photographer, took the picture.—New York Herald.

The Secret of Bringing Up a Large Family.

Never has the advantage of providing a duty; an object in life, if you will, for each and every child of a family been better described than by a certain grandmother the other day. She grandmother, who, like so many, had had a large family of children of her own. Her circumstances had been but moderate, but she had, nevertheless, succeeded in "raising" them with all due honor. A more creditable set of youngsters was not to be found anywhere, so said all the relatives, friends and neighbors. At last the whole family were safely "raised," and one by one securely established in professions or homes of their own. But just as the mother would begin to feel the sweets of leisure and independence lay before her, and that she could, at last, indulge in some little pleasure on her own account, the eldest daughter died, leaving a large family of children. Well, there was no one but the grandmother to look after them, and as everyone said, never was there any one better fitted to do it, although it did seem hard after all those years of selfdenial spent in bringing up her own offspring. One day some one said something of this sort to the grandmother. "How do I manage it all?" was the answer. "Well, my dear, to tell the truth, it isn't so difficult a thing as you might suppose. And I do just as I did with my own children—Let every kitten catch its rat."

The Paris Disaster Predicted.

People have discussed the curious coincidence that the occurrence of a catastrophe in Paris should have been predicted in various almanacs, and now it transpires that some time ago Mlle. Couedon delivered herself of a similar prophecy at a soiree given by the Comtesse Urbain de Maille. About a hundred guests were present, and after replying to various questions Mlle. Couedon spoke of a conflagration which would affect the highest circles, the fourth dignitary in order being particularly smitten. No one, however, thought was at the party would be hurt. "Even you will scarcely feel it, and only in an indirect manner," she added, turning to M. Urbain de Maille, who has lost the fire a distant connection with whom he was barely acquainted. But the strangest part of it all is that not one of the persons who were at that soiree was injured.—London Telegraph.

"Why, all the world's awheel!" exclaimed Sprocket enthusiastically. "That's just like your bicycle fellows," grumbled Grumpy. "You want the earth."—Philadelphia North American.

THE PROBLEM OF CHEAP LIVING.

Meals Provided at the Rate of Six Cents a Person with an Aladdin Oven.

The problem of cheap living, with varied and attractive bills of fare, including some luxuries, has been solved in a very satisfactory way by four students of the School for Christian Workers in Springfield, Mass., who formed themselves into a club, called the Square, because there were four of them, and all square fellows.

These young men—W. W. Hastings, W. B. Goodale, J. M. Ramsby and W. E. Sanderson—for the past weeks have done their own cooking, with the aid of an Aladdin oven, an invention of the economist, Edward Atkinson, and the figures show that their expenses during that time, including provisions bought, food, &c., were at the rate of $1.21 a week for each person. Each meal cost on an average six cents for each person.

Not one of the young men knew more than the first principles of cooking, but they all agree that the experiment has proved an undoubted success, and pronounce the Aladdin oven just the thing for young men working their way through college.

The principles of the Aladdin oven are economy of operation, with slowness of cooking, which, it is maintained, is the proper way to cook all kinds of food. The heat is furnished by a common oil lamp placed under an oven made of tin and lined with asbestos, by which the heat is retained entirely within the oven. Breakfast, for instance, was allowed to cook all night, and when the morning meal was over food for dinner was placed in the oven, after which the amateur cooks went about their studies and recitations.

The young men aver that they never tasted eatables so palatable, and lay particular stress on the excellence of the beans and onions. They cooked all kinds of food, meat, fish, beans and other vegetables, and even baked a pudding, which, they say, was very appetizing. The experiment was concluded because the school year has ended, but is to be resumed next fall by other students.

TO BECOME MUMMIES.

A Corporation Formed in New York to Do the Business.

One thousand years hence we may be a race of mummies. Rameses, the ancient house of the Ptolemys, including Cleopatra herself, may not be more hermetically sealed, nor air tight kept, than the rising generation.

A New York business corporation proposes to erect a huge mausoleum somewhere in the upper part of the city—the site has not yet been selected—where bodies of the dead, treated by a new dry air process, may be preserved for centuries. The suggestion has been endorsed unofficially, and it is thought that the Health Board will sanction the proposition. The company expects to be able to entomb 12,000 bodies, and if it is successful there may "be others."

The proposition is to place the dead in cement receptacles and expose the bodies for several months to a current of air made chemically dry by passing over sulphuric acid. Afterward the air will be purified by fire, and then the receptacle will be made air tight.

It would be a strange sight indeed should electricity continue its present remarkable strides, to see in the year 1997 the mummies all brought back to life; or listen to the conversation between that great warrior and ardent lover Marc Antony and Emperor Grover L.; or for instance, Corbett and Fitzsimmons might find themselves revivified in adjoining apartments without either Martin Julian, William A. Brady or a newspaper reporter in sight.

Think of them hunting through the catacombs for some writer to interview them.

Imagine—but why go further?

Why do you insist upon taking your wife out for such long walks in this rough weather?"

"The doctor has told her that she must be very careful not to talk when she is out in the cold air."

"Say, who's your doctor?"—Cleveland Leader.

A SOUTHERN POET.

Frank L. Stanton, the Atlanta Writer of Verses.

Frank L. Stanton, the Georgia poet whose verses are so familiar to all newspaper readers, is a rare genius and something more. His only school was the school of adversity. The misfortunes of his early childhood swept the fatherless boy past the doors of academies and colleges, and he was glad enough when just entering his teens to act as an office boy for Joel Chandler Harris of the Savannah News.

In a short time the boy drifted to a small town in South Carolina, where he went to work in a printing office.

He was fond of books, and began to lisp in numbers at the age of six. His rhyming efforts were wonderful, and when he was only 12 he made a debut into print.

It seems that a literary weekly in New York caught his fancy, and he was anxious to write for it.

One night he wrote a short poem and sent it to his favorite paper, with the following businesslike note to the editor:

"Dear Sir: I want one dollar for this."

The dollar was promptly forthcoming, and the poem was printed in the course of two or three weeks.

Then young Stanton tried his luck again. He wrote a longer poem, and his note to the editor ran as follows:

"Dear Sir: I want two dollars for this."

The money was sent to him and his verses appeared in a short time.

Then he ventured to send the editor a long poem, and he was astonished when the money did not come by return mail. He forwarded a poem to the editor, with a note in which he said:

"Dear Sir: I want three dollars for this."

Again fortune favored him. The editor published the poem and paid the sum demanded.

Naturally, this turned the head of this long-haired, long-legged lad, and his next step was a blunder.

He sat up all night, and by daybreak had finished ten poems. These were inclosed in a large envelope, with the following audacious missive:

"Dear Sir: I want thirty dollars for these."

The verses were sent back to the author without a day's delay, with a slip on which was written:

"Declined with thanks—not up to the standard."

The disappointed boy shed many tears over this failure.

One day he told an old printer all about it, and showed him the rejected poems.

"You are too many at one time," said the veteran, and the editor thought they must be plagiarisms, or below the average. But they are pretty fair poems. Send one of them every week to your man. He will think they are here before."

With many misgivings the poet followed his friend's advice.

The New York editor accepted the ten poems at the rate of one each week and paid $3 apiece for them. He was in blissful ignorance of the fact that he had rejected the entire batch about a month before.—Chicago Times Herald.

A FORTUNE TO HER BENEFACTOR.

For a Loan of $600 a Chicagoan Gets a Magnificent Return.

Wm. Hastings in 1883, was working at a country seat in Millbrae, near San Francisco. A housemaid named Carrie Bureh went there from a San Francisco intelligence office. She had no friends, was quite ill. Hastings took pity on her and loaned her $600. She was ill for over three months, and then she obtained a place as nurse in an Australian family.

In Australia she married a retired merchant named Hall. She repaid Hastings and thanked him warmly in a letter for his help. Her husband soon died, leaving her his estate. She survived him only a few years and in her will she left her fortune of $72,000 to Hastings, who had always considered it a poor circumstances.—New York Tribune.

An Unnecessary Admonition.

"Did you tell that young man not to call here any more?" asked Mabel's father severely.

"N—no."

"Why not?"

"I didn't think that it was necessary. I don't see how he could call any more now. He calls seven times a week."—Washington Star.

At Work.

A picture called "President McKinley at Work" shows the President sitting near a table in an office, with his hands resting idly on the arms of a chair, while he is gazing intently at something which is not in sight. If this is work there are a number of men who would be willing to take the President's job.—New Orleans Picayune.

Plain Selling.

"It seems to me," said one young woman, "that Harold talks more clearly on the tariff than any one else I have ever heard.

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "He has the advantage of not knowing enough about it to get confused."—Washington Star.

Not Sure of the Benefit.

Family Friend—I congratulate you my dear Sir, on the marriage of your daughter. I see you are gradually getting all your girls off your hands.

Old Olivebranch—Off my hands—yes; but the worst of it is, I have to keep their husbands on their feet.—Boston Traveler.

A sergeant in a volunteer corps, inquiring whether he had distributed rifles to all the men, called out: "Any that here are without arms hold up your hands!"

A JUST INSTINCT.

EVERETT BOLBROOK.

Fate was a cat, and Leonard Herrick was a mouse. There had been some rare sport, but Herrick was of the opinion that it could not last much longer. He had run this way and that way, and a thousand times he had thought the cruel that the velvet paws, with the long, sharp claws springing out of them, had caught him just in time. So at last he lay still panting, not knowing which way to turn.

He was in a big city, all alone. The people who rushed by him were like the thoughts that whirled through his brain—they were shadows, and the everlasting train of them had no beginning or end. He could not distinguish the real men and women whom he saw from those whom he merely remembered. Now and again there appeared in the throng the faces of the dead. He did not mind those. But there were others that he shrank from.

He stood with his back against the iron fence in front of Trinity church.

Herrick's hands were in his pockets. He crumpled a crackling piece of paper, which meant that he could live several days longer if he cared to do so. As to a more extended future, he could not picture it. All the lines of his life seemed to end in a knot which could by no means be untied, but must merely be dropped. He remembered that there were branches, but he could not think of one to wish for.

He crossed Broadway and walked down Wall street, slowly and with hesitation, for he had no errand. A voice cried, "Cab, sir?" and he let his ear. He turned and looked up at the man on the box.

"Is it possible," he said to himself, "that I still look like a gentleman?"

He felt toward the cabman as toward one who had offered him a helping hand. Why not pay the debt? The man so would cost him only a day of his life. He had a five dollar bill in his pocket.

"Yes," he said. "Take me up to the Fifth Avenue hotel."

It was the first place that had come into his mind. He got into the cab and snapped the door. The cushioned seat and the comfortable support for his head were very refreshing. A fancy came to him that he would dine decently and then go to a theatre. The extravagance would be trifling, for it was really of small importance whether he starved to death on Sunday or the following Wednesday. He was in a mood to make a jest of it all.

A strong glare from an electric light struck down into the carriage and made visible to him a package in brown paper that looked as if it might be a sandwich. The object prompted from under the seat. He thought it must be the cabman's supper which had been hidden in some small locker and had fallen upon the floor. The fact that the food should be spoiled was disagreeable to Herrick, and so he picked up the little brown bundle.

It was smaller than he had supposed, and it did not feel like bread. But had it been food, and he at the last pangs of starvation, the touch of it would rob it of any such a thrill through all his frame.

He knew that the contents of that package was money. It felt like a mass of bills folded, awkwardly wrapped up and fastened with elastic bands. Through the brown outside Herrick could feel the crispness of the government paper. The amount might be a poor man's monthly wages or a rich man's profit on a great transaction.

As to his own conduct in this matter, Herrick had no doubt whatever. He had thrown this money into his hands, and fate might take it away, but not if he could hold on tightly enough. His fingers trembled as he picked at the elastic bands. Suddenly and without his knowing exactly how the rubber strings vanished with a loud snap that startled him, and the package sprang open on his knees. He caught a flash of green color, and then the cab rolled out of light into shadow.

It was a long time before another light struck in upon him. At the moment when it did so he saw a face close to the cab door, and he dodged back, covering the bills with his hands. But the chance passenger in the street saw nothing. He was thinking of his own affairs no doubt and had no inkling of the strange thing that passed so close to his eyes.

Herrick was himself again in a moment, and he bent forward, eagerly examining the bills in his hands and counting them carefully. There were forty of them and each was of the denomination of $1,000.

Throughout the latter period of the young man's misfortunes he had had substantially but one wish—to rest. Sleep has many forms, and so has a vast variety of individual tastes. To Herrick in his day dreams it had always taken the form of travel without care. All paths lie open for a man who has forty thousand dollars, and there is no reason why care should sit behind him as he rides.

He disposed the notes in his pockets in the best interests of comfort and safety. Then he folded up the brown paper and pocketed that also, with a dim consciousness that if it were left in the cab it might get the driver into trouble. The fellow was honest, no doubt, and Herrick did not wish that he should suffer wrong.

How to leave the cab was a question which concerned him nearly. He did not wish to confront the driver again, for there might be an investigation, and a question of identification might arise, in which case it would be well to have the man know as little as possible of Herrick's personal appearance. He reflected with satisfaction that the spot on Wall street had been rather dark.

The cab stopped suddenly, its path being blocked by a tangle of vehicles. Herrick softly put his hand upon the catch of the door. It yielded noiselessly; the door swung open.

Herrick stepped out. Turning back for an instant, he perceived the cabman sitting upon his box in entire unconsciousness of the fraud that was being practised upon him. He was a poor man and doubtless worked hard for all the money that he received. Still, it was reckless to attract his attention again, especially so after having left the cab in that strange manner.

There was a way to the sidewalk through the press of vehicles. Herrick saw it from the corner of his eye and was about to take advantage of it. Instead, to his surprise, he found himself turned toward the cabman, and immediately he heard his own voice saying,—

"I have decided to get out here. How much do I owe you?"

The cabman named his price, and Herrick paid him with a $5 bill which had been the sum of his wealth and the end of it, so far as he could see, but a short time before. He counted his change carefully, remembering that he would probably have to wait until the next day before he could break one of the thousands. Enough remained to him from the bill for a supper, a bed and a breakfast.

When he had found a restaurant he ordered a meal and ate it with relish. It was enchanted food. It was the fare on the Atlantic liner, the delicacies of European hotels and the fruits of the tropics.

He cared little for his bed. It would be no more than a place to lie and think of the future. It was many a night since he had really slept. Certainly with so much upon his mind he would not close his eyes. He knew he should try. So when he had been shown to his room in a hotel he piled his pillows against the headboard of the bed and reclined against them, fully dressed. He was very happy. No question of right or wrong in what he had done or what he expected to do came to torment him. For a long time he had borne his life like a tremendous burden. This had suddenly slipped from his shoulders, leaving his natural powers benumbed.

In the midst of his first vision of a new life he was aroused by a kneeling at the door. He started up; his legs would hardly support him; he had no voice with which to ask who was there. But one explanation was possible. He must have been visited by the police.

He tottered to the door, and gave utterance to a hoarse, inarticulate sound.

"Right, sir!" cried a voice without. "You asked to be called, sir."

He rushed to the window and flung open the shutters. Day streamed in, strong and beautiful. The gas flame paled. He knew that he had slept as he had not slept before in years. In the mysterious depths of his life he felt a new strength stirring, but it was only nascent as yet.

A bath and a breakfast revived him still more. He felt the exhilaration of a bevy day upon which he was entering. He scanned the papers, but so far as he could see they had no news of the money that had been lost. He was not conscious of any excitement in searching for that news. The fear of detection had quite left him. As to stolen gods, money is the hardest to recover.

His pockets were bulging with money, but there was something in one of them that he couldn't remember to have put there. He pulled it out and found it to be the brown paper that had contained the money. As he held it in his hand it was concealed by his newspaper. No fellow passenger could see it, and only fortunate chance, because in plain sight upon the paper were the name and address, "Herbert L. Graham, 40 Wall street."

The train was just stopping at Rector street. That was the station nearest the steamship office in which he had taken passage. He put the brown paper back in his pocket, he left the car and went with the throng down to the street. He was thinking about the accommodations he would choose on the steamer. He continued to think of these and kindred subjects, yet he turned north on Broadway instead of south. Presently he found himself asking an elevator boy in a big building if he knew where Mr. Graham's office was.

Mr. Graham happened to be in his outer office when Herrick entered. He was pouring a story into the ear of another grey haired Wall street man, and Herrick heard a few words of it—something about cabs and cash and carelessness.

"I have found the money that you lost," said Herrick. "Here it is."

"Zion!" cried the banker, clutching the bills in his fingers. "My dear fellow, tell me all about it."

"There's nothing to tell," replied the young man. "I merely found it in the cab."

Mr. Graham eyed him a moment in surprise.

"You take it coolly," he said.

"I couldn't take it at all," responded Herrick, with a feeble smile. "I don't know why. It was instinct, I suppose. My ancestors must have been honest men."

"Upon my word, you must take one of these notes," said the banker. "I've offered it in an ad., and——"

"I can't do it," said Herrick. "I don't feel it would be right."

"But, my dear boy," exclaimed the old man, kindly, "I must do something for you. I want to, believe me. At least come back and take lunch with me. Shall we say at 10 o'clock?"

"It will give me great pleasure," said Herrick, and, bowing, he turned away and walked out of the office.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

MRS. OLIPHANT NOVELIST.

She Was One of the Purest and Simplest Spirits in Recent English Literature.

Mrs. Oliphant was one of the most prolific and versatile authors of modern times, and her name is known wherever the English language is read. Her novels have been a recognized feature of the best English literature for many years, and, despite all the changes in standards of taste, they have succeeded in keeping an undiminished popularity. While it is upon them that her fame chiefly rests, she has also written books both along historical and biographical lines which have given her the highest standing in each of these spheres of literary activity.

Mrs. Oliphant's reputation as a writer is not merely a matter of the latter part of her life. Ever since her first novel was published, when she was aged 21, she has had a place in the hearts of a very large class of readers. She had special skill in delineating characters and scenes of the Scotch life with which she was best acquainted, and she was able to make the persons she portrayed stand before the reader in all the reality of life. She was less successful in the construction of plots, but even on this side often accomplished most satisfactory results.

She was an exceedingly rapid writer, turning out with great regularity after she began to write a three-volume novel every year. She published over forty works of fiction, in addition to the numerous biographical and historical works. It would be very hard to find her equal in this respect, considering the high and even standard of style which she maintained.

Mrs. Oliphant was born at Wallyford, near Musselburgh, in Midlothian, in 1826, her maiden name being Margaret Oliphant Wilson. Her early attempt at writing for the immediate pleasure of her own circle of friends met with so much approbation that her first novel, called "Passages in the Life of Mrs. Margaret Maitland of Sunnyside," was given to the publisher. With this work her long career of activity was entered upon. Most of her novels were stories of daily life or were chosen from historical scenes. They were all noted for the exceeding purity of their tone, as she steadily and consistently refused to have anything in her work on spiritual sides of life, whether among the higher or the lower classes of society.

MRS. OLIPHANT.

Her death in June came to her as a welcome relief from pain. She was seventy years old and had always remained in England.

AN ODD DIET.

Men Among the Honduras Mines Who Eat Baked Clay.

One of the most repulsive instances of depravity of appetite is found among the Honduras miners, certain of whom are called "Comedores de tierra," because of their earth-licking proclivities.

This earth is a species of clay found in the mines, and is not only licked but frequently eaten raw or baked in flat cakes in the ashes of a fire. When raw it will dissolve in the mouth, and is pale yellowish pink in color, with a greasy taste. When cooked, it becomes crisp or crumbly, according to the amount of care bestowed upon the culinary operations.

The habit of earth eating, when acquired is rarely, if ever, shaken off, and some of its victims live entirely upon it, consuming as much as six or eight pounds a day, and varying their loathsome diet only by an admixture of sugar with the clay.

Earth eaters are known by their ghastly, livid features, and are usually killed by the practice.—Golden Days.

In Evidence.

O'Hara—You Americans go to the Irish for almost everything, don't you?

Gothamite—Oh, yes; you will find on almost everything the words, "Pat applied for."—New York Journal.

A PARIS SUGGESTION.

CATCHING THE TARPON.

Its a Battle Royal with this Gamely and Bad Tempered Fish.

The tarpon is a "top-feeder"—that is, he seeks his food near the surface. Those who know him best fish for him with live bullet, which is not allowed to sink more than two feet below the waves, being sustained by a large "float" or cork. The inner portion of his mouth is bone and no hook can be secure hold upon it. This being so, it is necessary to allow him partially to swallow the bait, which he will do by the time that he has carried the float along the water for a space of thirty feet. The tarpon reel holds 600 feet of line. Not infrequently when he feels the hook the fish will strike the trail for blue water with a seemingly irresistible rush, and keep going. What happens when his 150 pounds of express speed are pitted against the strength of the line that's run out needs not to be told. He simply sails on out to sea, whipping behind him 200 yards of silk, and whether he lives or whether he dies its former owner knows not. He can only go back to pore over the many juleps and tell vain tales of the size of the wonder that got away.

But if that splendid rush is deflected, if the fish dives, if the thumb of an old hand be upon the reel, if the man to whom the fish is attached has a cool head and knows enough to give his adversary the butt, a battle royal is on. For verily the combat between a 150-pound man, sound of wind and science, and a 150-pound fish, possessed with the temper of the devil, is a grapple of the gods. The crazed fish time and again leaps three, four, five feet from the water and shakes his head like a dog in his effort to dislodge the hook. It and its beautiful length lie along the deck, the conqueror feels half jubilant, half remorseful, wholly respectful of the giant whom his prowess has laid low, and confoundly weary and dry. His work is done, which seems surprisingly low in the heavens; he looks at his watch and refuses to believe that two hours have passed in that desperate wrestle. But, unless he be in thorough training and just master of his art, aching backs and arms will tell him for days afterwards that in the silver king of the Southern seas he was near to meeting his match.—Chicago Times-Herald.

WHEN TAPE WAS HAND MADE.

Women of Colonial Times Had to Spin Thread and Weave Fabrics.

Among the many household industries of colonial housewives, which included spinning, dyeing, weaving and candle, soap, pen, ink, wine, glove, shoe and lace manufacture, was the making of tape, which was not considered of minor importance. The preparation for weaving tape on the small hand loom was the same as for making yards of linen cloth on the great looms that stood in the weaving-room in state in the kitchens of colonial farmhouses.

The flax when harvested was rippled on the field, the rippler being a large comb fastened on a plank. The flax was beaten on the comb to remove the capsules containing the seed. Then it was rotted to make the fibre soft and flexible. This was generally accomplished by laying it beneath the waters of the meadow brook or pond.

The next and last process before it was ready for spinning was that of hackling, to straighten the flax, free it from tangles and bring it to the requisite fineness. This was done by a very primitive machine called a hatchel, an immense comb, whose long iron teeth were set perpendicularly in a block. Then it was ready to be converted into tape.—New York Tribune.

One on Governor Atkinson.

One of the best stories yet heard on Governor Atkinson was told by himself to a party of admirers who were chatting with him in the parlor of the hotel at Cochran on his return from his recent visit to the Chautauqua at Hawkinsville. The story is of such a good one that it is worth repeating.

"It was during my recent inspection of the convict camps," said the Governor. "Among other places I visited were the sand hills, and in order to make a thorough inspection it was necessary to go down into the mines and see the convicts at work. Two guards accompanied me down into the mines. They showed me everything of interest, and finally took me to where the convicts were at work. As we approached them one of the convicts rushed over to me crying: 'Good Lord, Bill Atkinson as sure as I live! I never expected to see you here. What on earth, Bill, did they convict you of doing?' I readily recognized the man as one whom I had known since my boyhood."—Jackson, Ga., Argus.

IN MR. GLADSTONE'S TIME.

Some of the Things Uncle Sam Has Accomplished in Sixty Years.

Mr. Gladstone made a speech at the opening of a new bridge over the river Dee, and reviewed in an interesting way one of the changes of a century which his own life has been almost coincident. It has been an age, he said, which has greatly busied itself in studying and improving the communications of different portions of a country and of all countries. In his own boyhood the news was sent slowly by mail from Liverpool to London in one day went in one coach. Now a great mass of mail matter is exchanged between the two cities at largely reduced rates, at twenty times the pace, and the telegraph and telephone lines are kept busy in addition. The telephone, Mr. Gladstone said, even conveyed the voice as well as the message, and it might be that many persons now young would see in their time developments and achievements not less astonishing and beneficial than those he had witnessed.

Mr. Gladstone confined his remarks to the subject of improved communication; and it is to be regretted that he could not have dwelt upon the whole field from his point of observation. The record in the United States will indicate the great changes originated by our own people. It is just 100 years since Fulton, a new man produced the first cast-iron plow, and nin-ty years since Fulton's first steamboat accomplished its first trip. In 1820 anthracite coal was first used for generating steam, and it was not applied to railroads until 1840. Our first locomotive was imported from England in 1829, and now we have over 182,500 miles of steam railroad, exceeding that of all Europe by 20,000 miles. The first telegraph line in this country for general business was put in operation in 1845, the first cablegram was sent to Europe in 1858, the first telephone line was operated in 1877, and the first trolley street car line was opened in Richmond, Va., at a later date, but a capital of $75,000,000 is now invested in trolley roads and other electric enterprises. A new steam craft built in this country made thirty-eight miles an hour on her trial trip the other day. Electricity has been successfully applied to steam railroads, and if the track could be sufficiently well guarded a speed of 100 miles an hour would be easy.

In saying that the coming century may witness changes as remarkable as those of his own era Mr. Gladstone speaks conservatively. The new things will probably surpass the old, but no mind can foresee what they will be. It is gratifying to have from the old statesman the assurance that the modern facilities of locomotion give a moral as well as material benefit. The better mankind know each other, he argued, the better they should be prepared to their station in life, "the more they should know how to make allowance for each other, and the more they should know how to comprehend the great business and the great science of life." These are the words of a wise old optimist, whose glance covers the world in the onward movement of its inter-relations.

THE CO-OPERATIVE IDEA.

It Always Affords a Seductive Theory to Rainbow Chasers.

The Debs scheme to establish a co-operative community has considerable encouragement of a sentimental kind. A great many people would like to see another trial of the idea, more comprehensive than heretofore has been made, which might disclose some relief from the wastes and savagery which they see in competition. Others, without faith in the outcome, will be pleased to have Mr. Debs, Mr. Bellamy, Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Herron settle for selling what others ought to do for the amelioration of society and go to work themselves on a definite plan for its reconstruction. Certainly nobody can object to the experiment, but it is not likely everybody will wish its success, and take a lively interest in its development. If the capitalists are indeed absorbing such an exorbitant share of the products of industry as these leaders think, a great saving will be made by the co-operation, an argument has the force of a demonstration, and if they will organize a community in which an honest man, willing to work, can get more comforts of life than he can get outside of it, they will easily convert the whole country to their views.

Co-operation, however, is not a new thing in the world. A great many people not so belligerent as these gentlemen have experimented in a remedy for the troubles between capital and labor. It has been tried in single industries and in the buying and selling of goods, innumerable times. There is not a community in the United States which has not had its form of co-operation, or partnership, among workers is not in a greater or less degree being acted upon. Among men of equal earning power, equal resources, and, therefore, equal ability to stand losses, the most natural form of association in a common enterprise is that of equal shares in profits and losses. But men are not equal in earning power, in foresight, in combination, in organization, in power of application or self-denial, or in any other element which enters into capacity to do things. And for this reason cooperation, although suggested by natural impulse, open to all and familiar to all, has never spread by the force of its results from small under takings to general acceptance, after the manner in which sound principles usually establish themselves.

A simple and effective preventive for flies is the presence of sweet clover in a room. Flies have an especial objection to the plant, and quickly make their escape from any place in which it is kept.

MISS EVELYN LEASE.

HIS ACCOMPLISHED GIRL MAY ALSO BECOME A LECTURER.

Then Nine Years Old She Spoke in Public on Women's Suffrage—A Brahmin Priest Considers Her a Reincarnation on Account of Her Ideas on Animal Life.

Since her recent graduation from the Wichita high school, Miss Evelyn Louise Lease has been much talked of, for she bears a strong resemblance of her famous mother, Mrs. Mary E. Lease, and it is believed will some time be equally noted. She is pretty, bright and attractive in manner, and though but 17 years old, is surprisingly well informed.

When Miss Lease had finished her valedictory address, brief though it was, the vast audience that filled the auditorium was in her grasp. She held them just like Mrs. Lease lays hold of the passions and sympathies of human hearts when she addresses a great audience, and wins their homage, whether she convinces their understandings or not.

Miss Lease has not depended upon her mother to map out a career for her, but has already determined, somewhat against her mother's wishes, to enter a law school and become a full-fledged attorney. The literary and oratorical ability which the girl certainly possesses has led Mrs. Lease to dream of a different future for her. She sees alluring possibilities for her talented daughter in the field of literature.

She never cared for dolls, but has always been a great lover of books, and has made free use of the library of Mrs. Lease. She made her debut as a public speaker rather early in life, and in a very unexpected manner. It was at the first People's party national conference in St. Louis, over eight years ago, in which her mother took an active part. There was an immense audience, and while the conference was waiting for a committee to report, the chairman asked little Louise to "speak a piece." The child gave a recitation from Gerald Massey, beginning:

Coming up the steps of time,
This old world is growing brighter.

She did it full justice, and the long continued applause forced her to return. It happened that almost the entire day had been taken up with the discussions over the adoption of the suffrage plank, and Louise had become greatly wrought up over the question. Instead of reciting again, the nine-year-old child launched forth into a woman's suffrage speech. She spoke in ringing tones, and with dramatic gestures, and said:

"You men must keep your promises, and give us a suffrage plank. You've been telling us that 'the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world,' but I want to tell you, gentlemen, that unless you give these people good at this convention there will be no cradle to rock and no babies to put into them."

Mrs. Lease, who was on the platform, caught the last sentence, and in a horrified whisper said to the child:

"For heaven's sake, call that child down!"

The chairman only laughed, and replied: "Let her alone; she's all right."

The applause when she had finished was deafening. At recess they took the little draggled curls on their shoulders and carried her around the hall. She was the idol of the convention.

Miss Lease is a strict vegetarian, eschewing meat, eggs and milk. She thinks life sacred, and to destroy it for food is wrong. During the World's Fair her mother introduced her to Perusha Tan Loo Telang, a high caste Brahmin priest, who was there as a delegate to the world's congress of religions. The priest became greatly interested in Louise when informed of the tenderness of animal life, and told Mrs. Lease that without a doubt the child was a reincarnation. That he was deeply impressed is proved by the fact that he came clear from Chicago to Wichita after the World's Fair for no other reason than to see the child. He made a long visit at the Lease home, and when he left he predicted a great future for his young friend. In parting he gave her his blessing by repeating a Hindoo prayer.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

KETTLE-DRUMMER'S HARD TASK.

He Has the Greatest Responsibility in the Matter of Keeping Time.

"I suppose few of the people who listen to the music of an orchestra," said a musician recently, "have any appreciation of the difficulty encountered in getting so many instruments to start precisely at the same instant. And do you know which player has the most difficult of all positions in that respect? Why, the man at the kettle drum.

"You see, all the other players can be in a condition of absolute readiness while waiting for the signal from the conductor, only the man at the drum is at a disadvantage. It will not do for him to keep his hand raised with the stick poised in the air, at the height from which he is to strike. If he did this the sound of the beat would be heard at such an appreciable interval after the notes of the other instruments that it would entirely fail to accord with them, and the effect would be absurd. So the only thing the drummer can do is to anticipate the motion of the baton, beginning to strike just a shade before the signal. He actually plays out of time, you see, in order to be in time. That is why I always sympathize with his position. God upon him as a genius in the matter of fine calculation."—New York Tribune.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

KLONDIKE FACTS.

The mining claims in the Klondike region are 500 by 666 feet in area. They are all located on gulches, and the 500 feet really represents the length of each claim, the 666 feet being each crosswise. The idea is to give a man from hill to hill, and if what you might call the walls are closer together than 666 feet, why, you're just that much short that's all. You can't get more than 500 feet along the gulch, no matter how narrow it is. None of them is supposed to be under 666 feet, but where that is the case you have no claim to anything more than the land between two side lines so far apart. The mines are under the control, so far as any control is needed, of a Mining Commissioner, who seldom interferes with any one, however, for there is rarely any trouble. At the same time he can interfere, and to some purpose, if it becomes necessary, for he has any amount of power, and what he says goes. A squad of Canadian mounted police is under his orders. A couple of men were shot in an affray in Circle City, on Alaska soil, some month since; but in British territory "everything is like a church."

SAVE THE ROADS.

The cry goes up everywhere. "Save the roads." Why are not the roads properly cared for? They have cost enough; they have proved excellent and well paying investments. Why are they taken care of? The reason in most cases seems to be because Freeholders are not road repairers, but road tinkers. The advice and supervision of good road engineers are just as essential to the proper repairing of a road as to the proper building. Mr. Owen, of Essex, one of the leading authorities on road repairing, says "don't patch," but mud patching and gravel patching or mixture of both seems to be the rule. The reason the roads are not cared for in Hudson seems to be downright dishonesty; but in some other places it is a lack of experience or of knowledge of the best methods of repairing.—Elizabeth Journal.

SAUCY COMMENTS.

The Cranford Chronicle says that James W. Ferguson and George W. Littell have entered the political race that harbors the aspirations of the former for a Republican Assemblyman nomination and the latter for another term in the Board of Freeholders. The Chronicle editor makes these saucy comments:

Both, we fear, are doomed to failure. Cranford is of small importance in Union county politics. Its vote for National and State tickets is heavily and unwaveringly Republican; and the number of ballots cast for the party's nominee would not be increased to any extent by naming a Cranford statesman as an Assembly candidate. In the cities of Elizabeth, Plainfield and Rahway, on the contrary the support that nominees may get from personal friends in the Democratic party is an important matter. This condition of affairs makes James W. Ferguson's candidacy an iridescent dream. We dismiss it with a tear.

Possession is said to be nine points of the law. Not so in George W. Littell's grip on Free holdership, for last year victory was bought with a price. That price was the sacrifice of his fellow candidate, Edmund B. Horton, and when the opportunity comes a goodly number of Mr. Horton's friends will square the account.

AN ASSEMBLY CANDIDATE.

James W. Ferguson, who aspires to be a Republican candidate for Member of Assembly, has lived in Cranford for the past twenty-five years. He is a member of the firm of Ferguson & VanName, insurance brokers, of New York city. For the last seven years he has held the office of district clerk of the public school. He is a director in the Cranford Building and Loan Association, deputy grand regent of the Royal Arcanum and a communicant of Trinity Episcopal church. His friends, it is said, so soon as his nomination shall be made, will take off their coats, roll up their sleeves, and work to elect him.

MIDSUMMER POLITICS.

The Elizabeth News published the following political paragraphs:

Frank Bergen may be an Assembly candidate.

Judge DeMeza, of Plainfield, is another Republican mentioned for Assembly.

Here in Elizabeth the Democrats will renominate William H. Winfield for Assembly.

Frank Dunn is also looked on as a Democratic candidate.

Surrogate Parrot will undoubtedly be nominated by the Republicans to succeed himself. Former County Clerk Crowell and James P. Powers are among the Democrats to be selected from.

STILL LEADS.

It would appear from the number of real estate transfers published in this paper from Plainfield that that city was leading in the general revival in real estate in Union county. This fact was noted in the spring, and also last fall.—New Jersey Contractor.

KIRKMAN'S BORAX SOAP.

WAGONS FREE

A pretty and useful wagon will be sent free to any Boy or Girl who will mail 50 wrappers of Kirkman's Borax Soap to our factory, cor. Bridge and Water Streets, Brooklyn. The wagon is a good strong one, 12 inches wide by 24 inches long, with spoke wheels as shown in the picture. Our advertisement is printed on the sides and ends of the wagon.

This offer is made only to residents of Plainfield, Dunellen and Westfield, and is not good after September 1st, 1897.

Any boy or girl can easily gather 50 of the Kirkman's Borax Soap wrappers. Get your folks, get your friends, get your neighbors to buy Kirkman's Borax Soap and give you the wrappers.

It is the very best laundry soap made. Every one who uses it likes it. Read the wrappers and see the list of premiums we give.

☞ Notice.—Don't send the entire wrappers. Send the Coupons only, and be sure to send your name and address. We may not be able to deliver the wagon to your house promptly but we will send it as soon as possible. Delivering will be made in Westfield, Plainfield and Dunellen only. This offer good to September 1, 1897.

WRITE TO US FOR COMPLETE LIST.
NOVELTIES WILL BE CONTINUALLY ADDED.

Established 1837. KIRKMAN & SON, Brooklyn, N. Y.

42, 44, 46, 48, & 53 Bridge St., 224, 226, 227, 229, 231, 233 & 235 Water St.,

☞ To get any of the following premiums, you must send the coupons to our main office, Kirkman's Borax Soap, 82 Bridge street, Brooklyn, N.Y., with your name and address, and we will mail you the premium.

For 25 Wrappers

Any one of the following—War Ships, Photo's of U. S. Naval Ships. Silver Ring for Children. Pictures in a variety of subjects: Love Knot Ring—very attractive.

For 50 Wrappers

Any one of the following—Pocket Book with Sterling Silver Corners. Pocket Knife. Silver Cuff Buttons. Stick Pin, your initial engraved on pendant. Silver Thimble, solid silver. Ladies' Link Bracelet, with plated buckle. Solid Silver Ring. Three Tea Spoons, of superior quality. Silver Plated Butter Knife and Sugar Shell. Child's silver plated knife fork and spoon. Solid Silver Horse Shoe Pin. Hat Pin, for ladies. Hat Pin, butterfly enameled design.

For 100 Wrappers

Any one of the following—Scissors, cast steel. Silver Cup. Child's silver ornaments. Two Table Forks. One Silver Plated Knife and Fork. One Table Spoon. Six Silver Plated Knives. Six Silver Plated Tea Spoons. Six Silver Plated Oyster Forks. Solid Gold Ring for lady. Christy Bread Knife. Yankee Notion, gilt case. Good Time Keeper. Button Hook, solid silver. Nail File, sterling silver handle.

THE SUMMER MAN.

The summer girl, so called, is a myth. Search the coast of Long Island and New Jersey and you can't find her. Girls are as plentiful as ever, thank goodness! It is a wise dispensation of Providence that the male is slightly or even largely in the numerical inferiority. Otherwise the most frightful results might have followed. The summer girl is not in a class by herself. She is remarkably sensible in her ways. In spite of the makers of jokes, she bathes if she wears a bathing suit. And most of the other sneering things that have been said about her are untrue. But on the other hand, there is a summer man. There is a big crop of these individuals this year. His bathing suit is constructed with a view to the laying on of the maximum amount of tan, in area and strength, in the shortest space of time. Your summer man lies around on the beach for hours at a time. The act of entering the water is sometimes omitted. This specimen is largely a humbug. Women take to the water irrespective of the fact that they will not look so pretty when they come out as when they went in. It is time that the libels which have been uttered about them should cease.—Evening Sun.

MILK INSPECTION.

In view of the effort being made by the local health officials to control and inspect the milk supply, the following will be of interest:

A novel form of milk inspection is about to be instituted by the New Orleans Board of Health, aided by the New Orleans Dairymen's Association. The plan is to have the regular Health Board milk inspectors accompanied on their tours of inquiry by additional inspectors selected by the Board of Health from a list of persons recommended by the Dairymen's Association, and paid from its funds. The action of the Dairymen's Association about at the instance of the dairymen, who put in a petition and were granted an extended hearing before the Board. They contended that their interest in purifying the milk supply of New Orleans was identical with that of the city, with the addition that it was necessary for the prosperity of their business that milk contained of the association should be compelled to sell pure milk, the competition with the sellers of the adulterated article being ruinous to their business. They offered, therefore, to pay for as many inspectors as the city employed to assist in enforcing the law, obedience to which the association voluntarily imposed upon its members. The Board of Health accepted the offer, although not without opposition from some of the members and at the same time drew up a new ordinance for more stringent regulation of milk dealers, which is to be recommended for adoption to the City Council.

SUNDAY REST FOR BARBERS.

While the Plainfield tonsorial artists observe the Sunday closing law, the Jersey City brethren, in the majority instances, are anxious to do the same, but are prevented by the lack of unanimous action on the part of all the barbers. Commenting on the fact the Tribune says:

All that is necessary to the closing of barber shops on Sunday is a notice from the police that they intend to enforce the law against those doing business on that day. There is no penalty for Sunday barber shaving in the general public, with the exception of a small number of careless or lazy persons, would suffer no inconvenience, there would be no loss of revenue to the state in the income of employing barbers, and they and their employes would be better off.

—The firm of Chapot & Sons, glovemakers, say that in a short time they will employ about 200 hands. The prospects for their trade they report to be excellent.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper

ODD CHANGE TO SMOKE.

New Internal Revenue Makes Cigarettes Cost More.

FIVE CENT BOX WILL SOON BE SIX.

Explanation as to the Cause of the New Prices—Local Dealers Will Probably Soon Adopt the New Retail Scale—The Trust Makes the Retailer Stand 30 of the 50 Cents Increase in Tax.

Those addicted to the habit of smoking cigarettes may soon expect to have to plank down 6 cents for ten and 12 cents for twenty of the seductive little rolls of rice paper and chopped tobacco. Whether or not it will result in a decrease in the consumption of the present grade of popular brands and an increase in the use of the cheaper and more injurious brands remains to be seen. In New York, Elizabeth and Trenton the new scale of prices have already gone into effect, but in Plainfield as yet the dealers have not raised the prices, though it is expected that such action will be taken in a few days. There was never much profit in handling cigarettes for dealers, and the increase in cost will make it still less unless the consumer is made to stand it. The increase in revenue is the cause of the prospective retail increase.

The whys and the wherefore are rather complicated. There are only two large corporations controlling the situation, and they are the American Tobacco Trust and the National. Up went the internal revenue fifty cents a thousand on cigarettes, and the producers concluded they would make the retailers help stand the loss; so first the American Tobacco Trust and latter the National sent out notices that the price per thousand to retailers had been raised to $4.10 from $3 80—to cover thirty cents of the fifty cent raise. The jobbers were kind enough to stand twenty cents of the increase per thousand themselves. It has in the past cost the trusts $1 90 to provide a thousand cigarette just as they are sold to the retailers, and they have made $1.90 a thousand, or $1.90 in handling one hundred packages, while the retailer has only made $1 20 in handling the same number. The trust has handled its boxes a hundred or a thousand or ten thousand at a time; the retailer has handled the boxes one at once.

Now that the raise on trust prices has come, if the retailer still sold at five cents a box he would only make ninety cents while selling a hundred boxes. The raise on both five and ten cent packages to six and twelve will give the retailer a little more margin. The odd cents price will cause much trouble in making change.

WEBER OUT OF SIGHT.

Former Postmaster of Jersey Village Does Not Appear in Court.

Colonel C. C. Weber, former postmaster at Weber, Middlesex county, has not been seen in that hamlet for several days. Detective Peltier, of Perth Amboy, has an attachment to serve on property of Weber to satisfy a board bill.

Colonel Weber is the son of Adam Weber, the millionaire brick manufacturer, who is now in Europe. Some time ago it was charged that Rosie Dabrokid, the assistant in the post office of which he then was postmaster, had signed for a registered letter unlawfully and had been guilty of other irregularities in connection with her work in the office. When the case was called before the United States Commissioners in Newark a few days ago, Weber failed to appear.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, always affords prompt relief. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

OLD NEW JERSEY MINES.

Copper Ore Abounds But Not in Paying Quantities.

THE RUINS OF THE SMELTING WORKS.

In Some of the Mines Curious Formations Are Found—This Section is Prolific With Abandoned Shafts Sunk in the Hope of Finding Ore That Would Make the Prospectors Rich—Only Dreams of Wealth.

Occasionally a report gets into a foreign paper to the effect that some old and long forgotten mine has been discovered in some part of New Jersey, says the Elizabeth Journal.

The facts are that the hills of New Jersey are honeycombed with old mines. They were worked a hundred years ago and were abandoned. From Plainfield to the mountains to the northwest of Somerville dozens of shafts were sunk or tunnels run in the sides of the hills, but all were abandoned.

At a little distance north of Bound Brook, in what is known as Chimney Rock hollow, are several of these old mines, while just north of Somerville are great heaps of shale rock that were dug from the mountain side. There and there are found bits of dark green rock, which show what the miners were digging for. It was thought that there were great beds of copper ore in these hills, and although almost every mine yielded some copper, none yielded enough to pay for smelting and refining.

As late as 1860 or 1870, a tall chimney stood near the road leading from Somerville to Liberty Corner, just at the base of the First Mountain. It was all that remained of the old copper smelting works, which were built contiguous to the mines.

Over in Washington Valley, on the north side of the same mountain, a man named Joseph Hoffman owned a copper mine which was one of the best in that section of the State. But it, too, was abandoned and became a den for foxes and other wild animals that fed on the farmers' poultry.

There is nothing whatever new in these old mine holes and shafts. They were all known, all worked and all abandoned a century ago. They will do to write up as items of interest for New York papers, but Jerseymen know all about them. They are not limited to Somerset county, but are found in nearly every county in northern New Jersey. There are similar deserted copper mines near Greenwood Lake, and another in the side of Garret Mountain, the unprofitable character of all of which was proven over a century ago. The same with the mica mines, the plumbago mines and the mineral paint deposits of the upper part of Morris county which have been recently rediscovered. The practical worth of these deposits was investigated and disproven years ago.

In one of these mines, however, some very curious but not uncommon formations have been found. At less than twelve feet below the surface petrified leaves, fishes and snakes were found in a mine sunk right in the hollow of Washington Valley, between the First and Second mountains in a black shale strata. It was supposed that a coal deposit would be found at a little depth, but the hope was without foundation, and the mine had to be abandoned because of the water.

New Jersey is full of old mines, but as yet her mineral resources are largely iron and zinc. All the rest have proved more or less delusive, and will probably never be worked profitable unless some new, cheap and effective method of reducing ores is discovered.

Somerset County Board of Agriculture.

The quarterly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture will be held in the Court House in Somerville on Saturday, August 14th, at 2 p. m. An address will be made by John R. Foster, of Three Bridges, on "The Oppressed Condition of the Farmer, the Remedy, or How Can the Farmer be Benefited by Organization." There will be a discussion on the proper preparation of soil and fertilizing for fall seeding. Every farmer in the county is invited to be present.

"Let me give you a pointer," said M. F. Gregg, a popular conductor on the Missouri Pacific railroad. "Do you know that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy cures you when you have the stomach ache? Well, it does." And after giving the friendly bit of advice, the jolly conductor passed on down the aisle. It is a fact that thousands of railroad and traveling men never take a trip without a bottle of this Remedy, which is the best cure for bowel disorders in the world. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Cor. Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

Death of Abel B. Ketcham.

Abel B. Ketcham, aged 78 years, of 468 Kensington avenue, died Sunday after an illness lasting about five years and which was the result of an accident. The deceased was the father of Mrs. Evan Jones and he lived with his daughter after her marriage about twenty years ago. Mrs. Jones was away when the death occurred and she arrived at home this morning.

One Package of H-O Oatmeal Equals in Digestible Nourishment Three Packages of Ordinary Oatmeal

Subscriptions Free to

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly
Illustrated American (Weekly)
Truth (Weekly)
New England Magazine
Christian (Weekly)
The American Kitchen Magazine
Home Magazine (Monthly)
of Binghamton, N. Y.

WITH COUPONS FROM THE

H.O. Co.'s Goods

A DROP TOO MUCH.

Johanna Healy Returns to the County Jail for a Term.

Johanna Healy, an old offender, was arraigned in the City Court Tuesday, charged with being drunk and disorderly on Watchung avenue, near Fourth street, Monday night. Policeman Cash appeared along and discovered the woman begging money from passers-by. When called upon to tell her story, by the Judge, she refused to take an oath. Her tale was to the effect that she had come from Elizabeth to visit her daughter in this city, but had been carried to Somerville by mistake, which accounted for her late arrival in this city. She admitted having taken "a drop," but denied being drunk. The policeman found a half pint bottle of whiskey upon her when the arrest was made.

"How many times have you been before me in the last month, Johanna?" asked His Honor.

"Only twice, I think, Judge."

"If I recollect rightly, it is more than twice. You have been systematically working upon the sympathies of the people of this city for the past five or six years and extorting money from them. Now, Johanna, I am going to send you to the county jail for sixty days." They need a good scrub-woman in that place. The next time you are brought here I am going to make your sentence five months."

Johanna was led away bemoaning her hard luck.

FELL OUT OF A TREE.

Rendered Unconscious, But Fortunately No Bones Were Broken.

Walter McNaughton, a twelve-year-old boy, living on West Front street, fell from a distance of about fifteen feet out of a tree on last Friday afternoon and was picked up in an unconscious condition. Dr. Jenkins was summoned, and after proper treatment the boy regained consciousness. No bones were broken, but the back and one hand were badly bruised by the fall. No serious results are looked for.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:45, 11:20 a. m., 2:20, 5, 8:30 p.m.
Close—7:20, 9:20 a. m., 1:30, 5:00 and 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40, 11:20 a. m., 1:00, and 3:30 p. m.
Close—7:20, 9:20 a. m., 12:15 and 5:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—2:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:30 p. m.

T. M. HETFIELD, P. M

Central R. R. of New Jersey

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JULY 25th, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3.14, 5.27, 8.35, 9.38, 9.58, 10.35, 11.20 a. m., 12.38, 2.07, 3.25, 4.45, 5.40, 6.45, 8.05, 10.00, 11.45 p. m. Sunday, 3.14, 5.27, 8.35, 9.38, 10.35, 11.20 a. m., 12.38, 2.07, 3.25, 4.45, 5.40, 6.45, 8.05, 10.00, 11.45 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m. (12.45 and 1.45 Saturdays only) 12.15, 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m. Sundays, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m. (6.00 except Saturdays) 8.15, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m. Leave Newark, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m., 12.15 night; 1.00 a. m. Leave Elizabeth, 8.08, 9.08, 10.08, 11.08 a. m., 12.08, 1.08, 2.08, 3.08, 4.08, 5.08, 6.08, 7.08, 8.08, 9.08, 10.08, 11.08 p. m., 12.23 night. Leave New Market, from Whitehall street, 8.20, 9.20, 10.20, 11.20 a. m., 12.20, 1.20, 2.20, 3.20, 4.20, 5.20, 6.20, 7.20, 8.20, 9.20, 10.20, 11.20 p. m., 12.35 night. Sundays—8.20, 9.20, 10.20, 11.20 a. m., 12.20, 1.20, 2.20, 3.20, 4.20, 5.20, 6.20, 7.20, 8.20, 9.20, 10.20, 11.20 p. m., 12.35 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield 6.48, 7.30, 8.34, 9.34, 10.34, 11.09 a. m., 12.04, 1.04, 2.04, 3.04, 4.04, 5.04, 6.04, 7.04, 8.04, 9.04, 10.04, 11.04 p. m. Sunday 8.04, 9.04, 10.04, 11.04 a. m., 12.04, 1.04, 2.04, 3.04, 4.04, 5.04, 6.04, 7.04, 8.04, 9.04, 10.04, 11.04 p. m. Leave Newark 7.48, 8.48, 9.48, 10.48, 11.48 a. m., 12.48, 1.48, 2.48, 3.48, 4.48, 5.48, 6.48, 7.48, 8.48, 9.48, 10.48, 11.48 p. m. Sunday 8.48, 9.48, 10.48, 11.48 a. m., 12.48, 1.48, 2.48, 3.48, 4.48, 5.48, 6.48, 7.48, 8.48, 9.48, 10.48, 11.48 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 6.48, 7.30, 8.34, 9.34, 11.09 a. m., 12.04, 1.04, 2.04, 3.04, 4.04, 5.04, 6.04, 7.04, 8.04, 9.04, 10.04, 11.04 p. m. Sunday 8.04, 9.04, 10.04, 11.04 p. m. Leave Somerville 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m. Sunday 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield 8.45, 9.45, 11.09 a. m., 1.04, 2.11, 4.55, 5.15, 7.00, 9.34 p. m. Sunday 9.04, 11.04 a. m., 7.00 p. m. Leave Easton 7.00, 9.54, a. m., 12.05, 4.04, 7.00, p. m. Sunday 8.47, 10.52 a. m., 12.42 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7.34, 9.34 a. m., 2.11, 5.05, 8.15 p. m. Sunday 9.04 a. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5.45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Harrisburg, Coalville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, 7.10 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge, Asbury Junction, Phillipsburg, Bangor, connection for stations on Lehigh Valley R. R. 9.18 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. 9.54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. 12.10 p. m.—For Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

4.55 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. 5.15 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. 7.00 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Shamokin, (buffet parlor car to Shamokin.)

8.10 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Shamokin, (buffet parlor car to Shamokin.)

9.06 a. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton.

9.10 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

5.00 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and Junction for Ft. Jervis R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield 8.45 a. m., 12.04 noon, 1.15, 2.07, 3.51, 5.04, 5.40 p. m. Sundays, (express) 9.04 a. m., 4.04 p. m. (local) 9.04 a. m.

For Perth Amboy, 8.45, 9.45, 10.37 a. m., 12.04 noon, 1.15, 2.07, 3.51, 5.04, 5.40, 7.00 p. m. Sundays, 9.04 a. m., 12.04, 4.04 p. m.

For Boynton Beach, 8.15, 10.37 a. m., 1.15, 3.51, 5.40 p. m. Sundays, 9.04 a. m., 4.04 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 2.07 a. m., 1.15 p. m.

For Freehold, 8.45, 10.37 a. m., 1.15, 3.51, 5.40 p. m.

BOYLE BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia 5.11, 6.45, 9.05, 10.44 a. m., 12.37, 3.05, 4.05, 5.37, 9.17 p. m. Sundays, 5.11 a. m., 12.37, 4.05, 9.17 p. m. Leave Philadelphia, 4.35, 6.00, 6.45 p. m., 1.10 night. Sundays, 4.35, 6.00 p. m., 1.10 night.

For Trenton, 5.11, 6.45, 9.05, 10.44 a. m., 12.37, 3.05, 4.05, 5.37, 9.17 p. m. Sundays, 5.11 a. m., 12.37, 4.05, 9.17 p. m. Leave Trenton, 4.35, 6.00, 6.45 p. m., 1.10 night. Sundays, 4.35, 6.00 p. m., 1.10 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 3.44, 10.45 a. m., 12.01, 3.40, 7.20, 10.45 p. m. Sundays, 3.44, 10.45 a. m., 3.40, 7.20, 10.45 p. m. Leave Washington, 4.30, 6.00, 7.00 a. m., 12.05 noon, 3.30 p. m. Sundays, 12.05 noon, 3.30 p. m. Leave Baltimore, 4.30, 6.00, 7.00 a. m., 12.05 noon, 3.30 p. m. Sundays, 12.05 noon, 3.30 p. m.

Through passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Tickets and full particulars at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agents at the stations.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Superintendent.

EDW. HALLSTED, General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect June 13, 1897.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7.44 a. m. and 6.45 p. m. Daily (Sundays 8.47 a. m.) Local for Manch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

2.30 a. m. Daily, express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10.07 a. m. 3.34, 7.32 p. m. daily except Sunday. (Sundays 11.20 a. m.) Local for Bound Brook 11.54 a. m. daily, except Sunday, local for Manch Chunk.

12.15 p. m. Daily except Sunday, "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2.34 and 4.58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkesbarre, Hazelton, Pottsville, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6.26 p. m. daily, local for Easton.

11.59 p. m. daily except Sunday, for Slatington and principal intermediate stations.

7.32 and 9.26 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9.32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

11.59 p. m. Sundays, local for L. & B. Junction.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn—Local 4.17, 7.43, 9.46, a. m., 2.20, 4.48, and 7.10 p. m. Sundays 7.55 a. m., 4.17 and 7.10 p. m. Express—7.25 a. m., 12.03 noon, 2.17, 5.11, 7.07 and 9.05 p. m. Sundays—7.25 a. m. and 7.07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 4.45, 7.43, 9.46 a. m., 12.03, 2.20, 5.26, 7.10 p. m. Sunday 8.00, 9.20, local a. m. 2.20 and 7.10 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6.26 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult Ticket Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR, General Superintendent.

E. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. O. GUMMERE, General Passenger Agent.

South Bethlehem, Pa.

A. W. SONNENSCHER, Asst. General Passenger Agent.

South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINAL—Foot of Cortlandt and Desbrosses and 23d streets.

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

TRYING TO SCARE GRIGGS

Few Jersey Governors Have Ever Gone Any Higher.

JOHN KEAN'S FRIENDS ARE AT WORK.

The Union County Statesmen Marshaling His Forces for the Fight for the United States Senatorship Next Year—Much Interest Is Aroused Over Who Senator Sewell Will Support in the Contest.

Republican politicians, the friends of John Kean, the Union County statesmen, who would like to succeed James Smith in the United States Senate, seem to lay stress on the fact that since the adoption of the State Constitution the only Governors of New Jersey who subsequently became Senators were Mahlon Dickerson and Theodore F. Randolph. Therefore, they argue that Governor Griggs' candidacy for that high office is beset with a serious difficulty, founded upon precedent. They would like to discourage the Governor through that line of reasoning, while at the same time they would help along the ambition of Mr. Kean.

The Kean people would like to create the impression that Governor Griggs is following exactly in the wake of Leon Abbett; that with regard to the distribution of patronage he is pursuing the same methods; that his manner is sometimes like Abbett's was, overbearing; and that he is digging his own political grave. It can scarcely be denied, at all events, that the Governor has lost much of his popularity with the politicians of his own party. And without their help he can never become a United States Senator. However, he has Vice President Hobart at his back, as he has when he was a candidate for Governor, and that fact means a great deal in a political contest. If the Governor was as certain of the support of General Sewell as he is of Mr. Hobart's, then all the combinations that could be formed against him would not be strong enough to defeat his Senatorial ambition. Of course, all depends on the Legislature being Republican.

When will General Sewell support, John Kean or Governor Griggs? The partisans of each candidate claim that he has already signified his intention of supporting their particular favorite. For favors obtained during his administration the friends of Governor Griggs claim that General Sewell is in honor bound to stand by his Senatorial candidacy. For old friendship's sake, and in consideration of the sacrifices Mr. Kean has repeatedly made for his party his admirers contend that General Sewell will never go back upon him, especially at a time when his influence would be of such importance. But there is plenty of time yet for General Sewell to make up his mind. In the meanwhile it will be interesting to observe the movements of the opposing forces and the candidates who will be pushed for the State Senate in the counties where such elections will take place this fall.

It would be a battle-royal, indeed, if Hobart and Sewell were to lead opposing forces. Should Hobart's championship of Griggs be resented by Sewell declaring himself for Kean, then a clash would come which would be felt all over the State and have a serious bearing on the future prosperity of the Republican organization.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy, than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. Robey, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Nw.; and as he has used the Remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years, he should certainly know. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

Real Estate Transfers

The following real estate transfers have been recorded in the county clerk's office during the past week:

Newell Brisbane, N. J., to Arthur Brisbane, fifty-five acres west side of road leading from South Plains to Rahway, known as Terrill road; also five acres, Westfield township, $1.

Fidelity Title and Deposite Co. to John Beatty, Elizabeth, lots 17 and 18, block 8, revised map of D. P. Thompson, Lorraine, $1. John Delaney et ux, to Arta B. Eastman, Plainfield, lot Crescent avenue, $1.

FLEEING DEBTOR CHASED

Samuel Levi Paid His Rent Under a Distress Warrant.

A CLOTHING DEALER MOVES AWAY

He Started to Depart Without Settling for Back Rent and was Prevented by Counselor McClure, Who Chased Him on a Bicycle—He Represented the Only Creditor, It is Said, who Got Their Money.

Counselor W. K. McClure and Roundsman Frederickson made a clever capture last night of a debtor who was fleeing with his goods and chattels from this city. The store at No. 116 Park avenue, owned by Mrs. Sarah J. Brower, was rented six months ago by Samuel Levi, a Hebrew clothing dealer from Newark, who took a lease of the premises for one year. Business has not been very brisk with Levi of late, and he has been rather dilatory in the payment of rent, until Monday he was a full month in arrears.

No intimation was given by Levi of his intention to vacate the premises until about 8 o'clock that night, when a policeman noticed three large trucks standing from Somerset street into Park avenue and back up to the store. Knowing something of the circumstances surrounding the case, the policeman sent word at once to Mr. McClure, who is Mrs. Brower's attorney to come to the scene. By the time the lawyer arrived, however, the trucks, containing all the stock of the store, had departed on their way to Newark.

Mr. McClure at once mounted his bicycle and sped to the office of Justice of the Peace Nash, and secured a distress warrant upon the goods. Armed with this and accompanied by Roundsman Frederickson, he started upon the trail of the departing Hebrew. For some reason the trucks containing the goods had stopped at the corner of Watchung avenue and Fifth street, and here the Counselor and the Roundsman overtook them, and levied upon the goods.

After some remonstrances and parleying, Levi finally decided to pay the month's rent due, and when the money was handed over the goods were released and the caravan proceeded on its way to Newark.

It is stated that a certain responsible merchant of Newark has given security for Levi's rent, and proceedings will be commenced against him for the balance of the year's rent, since the lease was for one year.

There are a number of other creditors of Levi in this city, it is said, who did not fare so well as Mrs. Brower. Counselor McClure is said to be the only one who succeeded in getting payment before the goods left this city, and it is probable that he would have failed but for his quickness, and the efficient assistance of Roundsman Frederickson.

HIS HUMOR TURNED TO RAGE.

A New Brunswick Cyclist Wanted Another Rider Arrested.

Sunday afternoon an amusing collision of bicycles occurred at the corner of Park avenue and Front street. One rider was a member of the New Brunswick Club wheelmen, and the other was from Jersey City. The latter was riding ahead and when nearly past the corner he made an attempt to turn into Park avenue, when his rear wheel struck the front wheel of the New Brunswick wheelman. Both took headers and their wheels were damaged. The man from Middlesex county began to laugh after he recovered from his shock, but he soon laughed the other way when he examined his wheel and discovered that it was severely wrecked. He called for a policeman and wanted to have the other man arrested. A crowd of twenty-five people stood by and saw the accident, and knowing that the New Brunswick man was in the wrong they advised the other wheelman to jump on his wheel and get away before an officer appeared. This he did and the injured wheel was taken to a local shop for repairs.

You and Your Grandfather

Are removed from each other by a span of many years. He traveled in a slow-going stage-coach while you take the lightning express or the electric car. When he was sick he was treated by old-fashioned methods and given old-fashioned medicines, but you demand modern ideas in medicine as well as in everything else. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine of today. It is prepared by modern methods and to its preparation are brought the skill and knowledge of modern science. Hood's Sarsaparilla acts promptly upon the blood and by making pure, rich blood it cures disease and establishes good health.

Sunday-school Convention.

The Jamesburg Sunday-school convention will be held on Wednesday, August 25th, in Wigwam Grove. The programme promises to fully equal that of any previous year. Good music, fine speakers and a free, full discussion of Sabbath School methods are features of the day. The Convention has become one of the veteran celebrations of Middle Jersey, this being its 31st year.

DUSKY FLATS TO JAIL.

Colored Belles Will Sojourn With Warden Blore.

CULPRIT JUMPED OUT OF A WINDOW.

She Was Caught Later in the Day on the Railroad Track Preparing to Go to Newark—Appeared in Court in a Sang Froid Manner and Went to the Elizabeth Jail Singing Gospel Hymns as They Departed.

Miss Eva Jackson and Miss Etta Field, two dusky belles of the neighborhood known as "Dusky Flats," or "Rogers' Alley," made things lively in the city court room on Saturday evening. Their appearance was the result of a row which started in Mrs. Rosie Jackson's home at noon on Saturday over the discovery that Miss Field, who lives in Somerville, had on Friday night worn a dress to the theatre which belonged to one of Mrs. Jackson's daughters.

Eva Jackson and Miss Field are chums, and they attempted to terrorize the rest of the family. Mrs. Jackson sent out for a policeman and Roundsman Flynn responded and arrested Etta. Miss Jackson escaped arrest by jumping from a second story window after the Roundsman had entered the house. It was thought by the police that her mother relented at the last minute and aided Eva in escaping.

Later in the afternoon the Roundsman caught Eva on the railroad near the Grant avenue station, and arrested her. In the girl's possession were some clothes which her friends had smuggled to her. She was preparing to go to Newark. At 6 o'clock the two girls were arraigned before Judge DeMesa. They were only about 17 years of age, but acted with the sang froid of old offenders. The Somerville belle alternately chewed gum and sang gospel hymns, while Eva Jackson held her hands above her head and loudly proclaimed her innocence. The Judge said that in view of the many disturbances that had arisen of late in the alley, and the bad name which the place was acquiring, he would make an example of Eva and Etta. The sentence was that each of them pay $100 fine or go to jail for 90 days. They were led off singing. Later in the evening they were taken to the county jail.

CHOKED A WEAZEL TO DEATH.

Brave Act of Mrs. John VanArsdale a Few Days Ago.

Mrs. John VanAridale, who lives on the South Plainfield road, is a woman who fancies chickens and keeps several hundred of a choice breed. Of late her fowls have been disappearing in mysterious fashion, and on last Thursday morning she opened the chicken house and discovered a weazel in the act of carrying off a fowl.

Mrs. VanArsdale pluckily siezed the animal and choked it to death. Her hands were terribly lacerated by the weazels teeth, but she held on pluckily until the destroyer of her fowls was dead. A physician was called in and dressed the wounds.

Jersey Haymakers Elect Officers.

The fifth annual meeting of the New Jersey State Haymakers' Association of the Improved Order of Red Men was held at Phillipsburg Saturday. The following officers were elected: President, P. A. Dumore, of Newark; vice president, Clark Cole, of Phillipsburg; past president, G. W. Thompson, of Newark; secretary and treasurer, Alfred Haley, of Phillipsburg; farmers, Sidney Cole, of Dover, and H. F. Hummer, of Washington; guards, Daniel Cole, of Newark, and George W. Zeck, of Port Norris. The next annual meeting will be held in New Brunswick. There are forty associations in the State and all were represented. There is a membership of 4,000.

New Oil Pipe Line.

The Standard Pipe Line Company completed the laying of its eight-inch oil pipe across the Raritan, from South Bound Brook to Fieldville, on Wednesday afternoon. It was put together on the southwest bank of the river and drawn across by means of ropes and pulleys. It lies in about eight feet of water. Some twenty carloads of the pipe have been received over the Central road, and it is being distributed along the line to Millstone and through Piscataway township.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhœa.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhœa. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlian's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERG, Allentown, Pa. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Cor. Park & North Aves., Plainfield.

Pure

Blood means sound health. With pure, rich, healthy blood, the stomach and digestive organs will be vigorous, and there will be no dyspepsia. Rheumatism and Neuralgia will be unknown. Scrofula and Salt Rheum will disappear. With pure

Blood

Your nerves will be strong, and you r sleep sound, sweet and refreshing. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood. That is why it cures so many diseases. That is why so many thousands take it to cure disease, retain good health, prevent sickness and suffering. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Fine Machinists' Tools In Stock.

Gasoline and oil stoves of best makes.

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our high grade inspected Nursery Stock. Many new specialties offered this year for the first time, as well as the standard varieties of fruit and ornamentals. No previous experience necessary. Write for terms. Address, Stone & Wellington Nurseries, Box 2, Thomas, Ross Avenue Nurseries, West Chester, Pa.

Trusses! Rupture! Trusses!

Dr. Marcier has opened a branch office at No. 228 West Second street, corner Central avenue, Plainfield, for the treatment of rupture. 30 years experience and the most modern appliances warrants satisfactory results. No occasion to go to New York for relief, you can get better at home. Irreducible, difficult and complicated cases solicited. The treatment of rupture, whether single, double or otherwise, most properly belongs to a surgeon of long experience in that line. No charge for examination or advice. Hours 8-12 a. m., 1-4 p. m. and evenings.

UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES of AMERICA

Rev. L. D. BASS, D. D., Manager.

Pittsburg, Pa.; Toronto, Canada; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y.; Washington, D. C.; San Francisco, Cal.; Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo. and Denver, Colorado.

There are thousands of positions to be filled within the next few months.

Address all applications to UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES, Saltsburg, Pa. 6 m

---

DIED.

SCHLERETH—In North Plainfield, on Wednesday, August 4, 1897, Caroline L., wife of the late Rudolf Schlereth, aged 61 years, 4 months and 23 days.

POND—In this city, on Wednesday, August 4, 1897, David W. Pond.

Interment at Worcester, Mass.

BARNDES—In this city, on Thursday, August 5, 1897, Solomon Saunders, aged 72 years.

MITZE—At New Market, August 4, Joseph Mitze, age 70 years, 7 months and 17 days.

KETCHAM—In this city, on Sunday, August 8, 1897, at the home of his son-in-law Evan Jones, 405 Kensington Ave., Abel B. Ketcham, aged 76 years.

MUNDY—In North Plainfield, Tuesday, August 10, Edna May, infant daughter of Walter and Edla Mundy, aged 3 months and 8 days.

ECHO OF A FISTIC BATTLE.

Colored Couple Said to Have Pummeled Another of Their Race.

Last Saturday evening acting-Chief Marshal Campbell arrested Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jenkins, of Manning avenue, on a complaint made by Sheridan Jones. All three persons are dusky braves and about eight weeks ago the happy couple of Manning avenue became engaged in a fierce battle over some differences of opinion. Jones came out of the contest scorned and this so enraged him that he immediately called on Borough Recorder Thomas and had a warrant issued for the arrest of his assailants. In the meantime Jenkins and his wife kept shady and the officers of the borough were unable to locate them until Saturday night, when Marshal Campbell ran across Jenkins on Somerset street. He immediately arrested him and soon afterward secured his wife. They were detained in the lockup until Monday morning when they appeared before Recorder Thomas. The evidence against the woman was insufficient and she was allowed to go, but her husband was fined $5 for his part in the affair. The fine was paid and the duo departed, well satisfied that they got off so easy.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery. Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3.00 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

MUNN & CO., 361 Broadway, New York.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should like to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to carry on work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am willing to the small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work. Look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material is my motto, and by attending strictly to the business, which will tend to build up friends, and feel sure of interest that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock of goods cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

SAVED

After years of suffering. It has at last been proven beyond a doubt that

NASALENE

Is a positive remedy for local diseases which are the result of cold and climatic changes. Cold in the Head, Hay Fever,

CATARRH

Deafness, (caused by catarrh), are instantly relieved.

It is pleasant to use, convenient to carry. Price 50c. and $1.00, at all druggists.

A. V. BAUDE, Warden of Ellis Sing. Sing, says: "Nasalene is very beneficial."

HUNTER MEDICAL CO., 84 E. 31st Street, N. Y.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Bilious and Nervous Diseases. They purify the Blood and give Healthy Action to the entire system.

Sure cure for DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' Prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

Corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and wormanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles. Removed from 234 W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 4jly7

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

E. B. MAYNARD,

PRACTICAL

BARBER AND HAIR DRESSER.

204 PARK AVE.

Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed.

YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3.00 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

MUNN & CO., 361 Broadway, New York.

What a Lot of Eggs

the hens lay when fed a Green Cut Bone. With a dozen hens

Mann's

Green Bone

Cutter

will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 BUYS ONE. Sent on trial. 180 highest awards received. Catalogue free if you name this paper. F. W. MANN CO., Milford, Mass.

15 4 29 11 25 1-2 mos.

KILLED BY DYNAMITE.

Horrible Fate Of Frank Samu at New Orange.

COMRADES ENRAGED OVER HIS DEATH

No One Saw the Fatal Accident, Which Was Not Discovered Until the Victim Was Missed at Lunch Hour—An Investigation Resulted in Finding His Body—His Remains Were Interred in This City.

Frank Samu, a laborer in the new town of New Orange, near Roselle, and the victim of a dynamite explosion, was interred in St. Mary's cemetery in this city Friday.

New Orange is the name given to a large tract of ground in Union township, owned by the new Orange Industrial Company. The company for several years has been preparing the property for a manufacturing site, and workmen have been busy there felling trees, blowing up stumps, laying out and grading streets and also making a grade for a railroad.

August 4th about 100 workmen, mostly Hungarians, were busy hewing ties and blowing up stumps with dynamite. No one witnessed the accident, and the fact that Samu had met his death was only learned when he failed to show up at the lunch hour. His son noticed his father's dinner pail unopened, after the others had finished eating. This excited the suspicions of the unfortunate man's fellow workmen, and all united in a search for the missing man.

While it was thought that Samu had met with some accident, it did not occur to anyone that a fatality had taken place, and when Samu's mangled corpse was uncovered the searchers were horror-stricken.

Upon investigation it was found that the accident which had befallen him must have resulted in instant death. His right arm shoulder and back were broken, and there was a great gash in his neck, which extended up to the skull, and through which his brains protruded.

It was evident that he had been killed by an exploding dynamite cartridge. He was probably going to his lunch when the accident occurred, as a cartridge must had been shot off in a stump at about 12.05 o'clock.

Samu's body was found 162 feet distant from the spot where the explosion occurred.

The death of Samu greatly enraged the other Hungarians, who claim that the accident was due to the careless ness of the foreman, Frank Williams, in not giving notice that he intended to light the fuse of the cartridge.

They gathered together and talked and gesticulated in an excited manner, and Williams, fearing bodily harm, started for Roselle. A large crowd of the Hungarians shortly afterward followed him to Roselle, and threatened to kill him if they found him. The excited Huns were still looking for the foreman yesterday, but Williams has probably left the neighborhood, as they failed to find him.

It was learned that Williams denies that he was in any way to blame for the accident, as, he said, that Samu was not working near where the explosion occurred, and had no business there. The workmen, however, say that the dead man must have been passing the spot on his way to lunch, and blame Williams for not keeping a more careful watch for approaching workmen and give them warning.

Samu's home is in Wilkesbarre, Pa. He leaves a wife and five children, the youngest only six months old.

County Physician Westcott was summoned and gave a permit for burial.

AN AUGUST WEDDING.

Popular Young Couple Joined in Wedlock Thursday Night.

A very quiet but pretty home wedding was celebrated last Thursday at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kingston, of East Second street, when their daughter, Miss Anna Amelia Kingston, was united in marriage to Harvey H. Thorn, a valued employee of the City National Bank. The officiating clergyman was Rev. H. J. Johnston, pastor of Grace M. E. church. Only the families of the contracting parties were present to witness the ceremony.

The bride was prettily gowned in a dove color cloth dress trimmed with white satin, chiffon and lace, and she carried a boquet of white China asters. The bride and groom were unattended and following the ceremony there were congratulations and a wedding supper.

Early in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Thorn were taken to Netherwood, where they took a train for New York. They will go to Newburg-on-the-Hudson, where they will remain until Saturday. On their return they will reside for the present with the parents of the bride. They were the recipients of many useful and costly presents from their many friends and acquaintances. The bride is a most estimable young woman, while the groom is very popular in a large circle of friends. Both have the best wishes of their friends for a happy and prosperous journey through life.

—Councilman Burtis, of the borough, is making some improvements about his house.

ASSEMBLY NOMINATIONS.

Some of the Republicans Who Are Anxious for Honors.

The Elizabeth Journal has this to say of the Republican Assembly nominations:

James W. Ferguson, of Cranford, Roger Murray, of Plainfield, Major Edgar, of Rahway, and Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, are among those talked of as possible Republican candidates for the Legislature. These are allin addition to Messrs. Roll, Codington, Clauss, Codding, Squire and Patterson, who have been previously named in the list of candidates.

The naming of so many possible or probable candidates shows that the Republican voters of this county appreciate the fact that whoever are nominated and elected this year will, according to party usage, be nominated and elected next year, and will then have the right to cast their votes for United States Senator, to succeed Senator James Smith, of Newark, the Democratic incumbent.

Union county has had notable men to represent its voters in the Legislature. The records show that in former years such men as Chief Justice Magie, Amos Clark, J. Henry Stone, Benj. A. Vail, James L. Miller, Elias R. Pope, Moses F. Cory, George T. Parrot and Wm. H. Corbin represented the county in one or the other branch of the Legislature, and certainly Union county's influence in that body ought to be fully maintained.

The Democrats will undoubtedly make an effort to rehabilitate and reorganize their shattered ranks, but whether they make it or not the Republicans should act as if everything depended upon their best choice of candidates and their best efforts to elect their nominees.

ALL PARTIES TO BE HEARD.

No Gag Law at the Picnic to be Held at the Hunterdon Fair Grounds.

The big annual farmers' picnic of Hunterdon and adjoining counties will be held this year on the Hunterdon county fair grounds, near Flemington, August 18 and 19. For seven years this picnic has been one of the most noted political gatherings in the State. It is a general political meeting, every party being privileged to state its beliefs.

W. K. Sessna, the farmer orator of New York State, will discuss the question of hard times, their cause and remedy, August 18. Then Mortimore Whitehead, ex-national lecturer of the National Grange, will uphold free silver. Hon. William D. Daly, of Hoboken, will tell of the evil results of Republican legislation, and J. P. Nichols, of New York city, will speak on reform in politics.

August 19, Farmer Martine, of this city, will speak against trusts and combines. Then Professor Dickey, chairman of the National Prohibition Committee, will tell of the horrors of the liquor traffic. Governor Griggs will probably deliver a speech. Hon. Mahlon Pitney, representative from the Fourth Congressional District, will defend his party on national issues. Senator Sewell will reinforce his remarks. Hon. W. A. Cutter, of Newark, will conclude.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Lease may be present. If so she will speak. William J. Bryan was invited, but had other engagements. The Beveridge family, of Nebraska, will be on hand and will enliven the proceedings with their songs.

MRS. MANN'S FUNERAL.

Complimentary Words Spoken by a Former Pastor of the Deceased.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mann was held last week Wednesday at 2.30 from Bethel chapel. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Tilden, officiated, and he was assisted by the Rev. W. A. Alexander, D. D., a former pastor of the chapel who now lives in Brooklyn. Mr. Tilden delivered a very impressive sermon, while Dr. Alexander spoke at length concerning the personality of the departed, whom he had known for several years past. She was a devoted Christian woman, and in the home and church circles she will be greatly missed.

There was a large attendance of friends and acquaintances, and the floral tributes were beautiful and expressive. Interment was in the Plainfield Avenue Cemetery.

OLD NEW MARKET MAN DEAD.

Joseph Mitze Succumbs to a Long Illness.

The death of Joseph Mitze, aged 74 years, and for many years a resident of New Market, occurred Friday afternoon at his home after a long and severe illness with rheumatism. Only a short time ago Mr. Mitze began to grow worse and it was known by his family that he could not recover owing to his advanced age. He was a well-known citizen and was highly respected by all who knew him. He leaves a wife and three children. One daughter is Mrs. Peter Pfinger, of Washingtonville, and another is Mrs. James Day, of Elizabeth. His son, Phillip Mitze, is a valued employe of I. H. Boehm, of Plainfield. The family have the deepest sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

STRIKER WON'T STRIKE

The Story of Trouble Caused by the Town Clock.

DROVE MORPHUES AWAY FOR A TIME.

The Clanging Sound of the Bell as it Recorded the Hours Nearly Drove Nearby Residents to Distraction—They Protested and the Tick Tock of the Old Clock is the Only Sound Heard Nowadays.

No longer does the loud clang of the town clock strike out the hours twenty-four times a day, and many people have wondered thereat. Though a cherished, but sometimes neglected, institution from time immemorial, at periods the town clock has not been cared for in a manner befitting its lofty position and long standing in the community. True, its black dial with gold figures and hands, the big and little, have always stood ready to perform the functions for which they were designed, but for a long time it stood silent for lack of the nurturing care of a man who understood its numerous cogged wheels and long swinging pendelum.

Missing its familiar recording of the time, a citizens' petition found its way to the Common Council two years ago asking that the town time-piece once more be put in active service. For a whole year the document laid buried in a Councilmanic committee and then some considerate solon resurrected it and the Council decided that the town clock should be restored to its dignity.

In the course of time, Messrs. Van-Epps & Son ascended the belfry of the Methodist church and after much tinkering the tick tock of the clock was once more heard in the land. As regular as the hour hand moved from one figure to another in its twelve-hour journey around the dial the big metal striker, with which the clock is equipped, fell with a resounding rap upon the bell in the tower and forthwith a great clanging sound was sent anear and afar, even unto the agriculturists of Piscataway who listened and reminiscently remarked:

"Well, that's the old dinged thing, if that ain't like old times."

But there was yet another element to be heard from in connection with the resumption of duty by the town clock. But they were a patient lot and for months and months they bore their trials in stillness of their own councils, mentally deploring that the public clock was in their neighborhood. And the reason for this condition of affairs was this:

From its lofty perch up in the church tower the venerable town clock looks down on either side to flat buildings in which people live, eat, work and sleep. One of the demands, of course, of nature is that sleep shall come to the people. Now it can be readily understood that after its long vacation, the town clock was very frisky from its readjustment and oiling up, and whenever the minute hand reached the cabalistic character of XII, the striker fell with a clang an even dozen times. The noise was enough, so the occupants of the flat said, to raise the dead from the graves. Sleep was utterly impossible, as Morpheus evidently took fright and flew away on wings everytime the bell rang out the hours. And yet the clock, as if conscious of its great importance and service to those without time pieces, continued its stentorian tones as regularly as the hours passed

Patiently it was endured by the nearby residents in the hope that the habit of the clock striking would become second nature to them after awhile. But the clanging, ear piercing sound of the bell was not lessened as it recorded the flight of time.

Sleep becoming either infrequent or impossible, the afflicted became irritable. They regretted the time that the time measuring machine had ever been called upon to do duty again, and their lamentations finally took the form of a declaration that the town clock was a nuisance, and its striking apparatus should have the prohibitive ban put upon it.

Sexton Kennedy, seeing the storm that was brewing, did not wind the apparatus that does the strike duty and then peace once more reigned and Morpheus came back. Then it was that VanEps & Son, not being aware of the exact condition of affairs, hied themselves to the belfry and wound the striker. Again the community was almost distracted. The agony of the people finally came to the ears of the official board of the First M. E. church, and the board, as custodians of the town clock, ordered that the striker go on a strike forever; that is, a strike that allows no striking of the striker.

And once more the dove of peace, harmony and serenity hovers over the community, 'een though the people in far off sections may miss and deplore the failure of the town clock to speak. But it ticks as yet and anyone desiring the time can walk to the Methodist church and secure it free of cost.

Seven Sons Baptized.

In Warren chapel Sunday morning the Rev. J. O. McKelvey baptized fifteen children, among whom were the seven sons of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Staggaard, of East Front street. The ages of the seven boys range from 12 years to 4 months.

PLAYED WINNING BALL

Crescents Won Their Contest Saturday Afternoon.

LEAGUE MEN IN OPPOSING TEAM.

For the First Five Innings the Visitors Failed to Score and Then They Made Two Runs to the Home Team's Five—Several Brilliant Plays Were Made by the Local Players—The Score.

The best baseball game witnessed in this city this year was played last Saturday afternoon on the LaGrande avenue grounds when the Crescents had for their opponents the Volunteer team from Elizabeth. There was a good sized crowd present, but the game deserved much larger patronage. The Crescents put up a fine game. To be sure, there were one or two misplays, but the many strong points exhibited overshadowed the weak ones. The home pitcher never put up a better game, as he struck out thirteen men. The two runs made by the Volunteers against the five made by the home team were more the result of good luck than good management. Very few hits were made on either side. The pitcher for the visitors, Sheridan, is a league man, and he put up a strong game. There were several league players with the Volunteers, and that the Plainfield boys won the contest was all due to fine playing and not through any fault of the visitors. The Crescents made four errors while their opponents made five. The Crescents had six men left on base to their credit and the Volunteers two. One neat double play was made by Hollister, Lederer and Corbin, and one of the best catches made during the game was a hot liner from the bat caught by Corbin in the eighth inning, for which he received the plaudits of the cranks. Owing to an injured hand, McBeth was unable to bat as well as usual, but he played a faultless game in the field, as did also all of the others. Vroom's catching behind the bat was a feature and many a man on the other side found it useless to try and steal a base on him.

For the first five innings the visitors failed to score, while they shut the home team out for the first three innings. The Volunteers made their runs in the sixth and ninth innings, and not once during the game did they get near enough to the top to win the contest. In the main it was a pitchers contest and very little did the fielders have to do. However, the crowd was well pleased and they never failed to applaud the Crescents or the visitors when they made a good play.

Mr. Erickson, a former ball player, acted as umpire and gave the best of satisfaction to both sides. Below will be found the line up of the teams and the score by innings:

CRESCENTS.	VOLUNTEERS.
Symons, rf.	Newbeck, 2b.
Hollister, ss.	Tanbeck, ss.
Vroom, c.	Sheckler, rf.
McLarty, p.	Fitch, 1b.
Lederer, 2b.	Bennett, cf.
McBeth, lf.	Dotz, 3b.
Cooney, 3b.	Sheridan, p.
Mumford, cf.	McCormick, c.
	Ginney, lf.

SCORE BY INNINGS:

Crescents	0	0	0	1	2	0	0	0	2—5
Volunteers	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	1—2

THE SPECIAL ELECTION.

Question as to Pay of Members of Election Boards.

Prospective members of district boards of registry and elections this fall are just now figuring upon what will be their remuneration for serving on the special and regular election boards. This is especially true in the case of cities of over 40,000 inhabitants, in which the special election on Sept. 28th falls on one of the registry days of the regular election.

For their work in connection with the regular election, members of district boards in these cities receive $25; that is, $10 on election day and $5 for each of the three registry days. Eight hours constitute a day's work, and every fraction thereof counts as a day, but the present law specifies that in no case shall election boards get more than $25 for their services on such boards.

For the special election they get $3 for the day they revise the registry list, and $5 is prescribed as the compensation for the special election day. The question that has been raised is whether they will get paid for their dual duties on this day.

Gov. Griggs, when questioned on the subject, declined to give an opinion for obvious reasons. The general impression, however, is that the compensation will be $10 for the day.

There would be some real cause for doubt in the matter if the registration duties could all be accomplished within the time that the boards are required to be in session for the election. But as the polls close at 7 o'clock in the evening, and as the boards have to sit to register voters until 9 p. m., two hours will be added to the day's work, and double pay will undoubtedly be allowed.

—Wm. Large, Jr., of Flemington, was thrown from a baggage car at Somerville on Friday night and badly cut and bruised. The accident was caused by the excursion train stopping suddenly.

MR. MARTINE HOPEFUL.

Believes the Democrats Will Win County and State.

HARMONY IN THE PARTY RANKS.

The Farmer Orator Says That Governor Griggs Will Probably be the Republican Candidate for United States Senator, Though He Says a Democrat Will Succeed Senator Smith.

James E. Martine, who was the leader of the Union county Bryan forces last fall, and had the honor to formulate the platform of the Democratic State convention, was seen by a reporter a few days ago and asked concerning Democratic prospects in county and State this fall.

"I feel there is a good prospect for us in the State," said Mr. Martine. "Prosperity that was pictured in such glowing terms to come in the event of McKinley's election is too slow to suit the voters. The voters now see through it. It was but the cry of political demagogues."

"Do you believe voters who left the party will come back?"

"Yes! Surely, and others with them —our party will be a unit in this fall's fight and will go in to win the Legislature. We mean to elect a U. S. Senator."

"Who will be your party's candidate?"

"Ah! We have lots of good timber to bring forth when the time comes?"

"Have you any idea as to whom the Republicans will nominate?"

"I think it will be John W. Griggs."

"How about John Kean?"

"Well, now the Republican managers love John Kean every day in the year except on election day. He is rich, and a good spender, but I fear he will fish behind the net when nomination comes around. Personally I like him very much, but we can never fit in our politics."

"But don't you think the Dingly bill, will bring prosperity?"

"Nonsense, a high protective tariff can no more make the people prosperous than a man can lift himself by his boot straps. It may benefit a few manufacturers but the masses get no benefit. Protection is but a catch word."

"What about Union County?"

"Well, we have a Surrogate and three members of the House to elect. We should have one at least, and, I feel, two of them. As to candidates, it is most too early to speak, though I see mentioned lots of ambitious Republicans who want to serve their country. As to Surrogate, I hear that George Kyte, of Fanwood, is looking with anxious eye. Republicans intention that there should be a change. But notwithstanding all this talk, I think the present incumbent, Hon. George T. Parrott, will carry off that nomination."

"Is he a strong candidate?"

"Yes! He has been a good official and is always a courteous gentleman. I esteem his friendship. You ask as to the Democratic candidate? Hon. John L. Crowell, of Rahway, would make a strong and very acceptable candidate. He made an efficient County Clerk—is popular and stood right up to the fight last fall when shrikers were entirely too numerous. Make no mistake about it—our party will present a solid front this fall."

COLORED FOLKS AT THE BEACH.

About 3,000 Enjoy Salt-Water Day at Boynton Beach.

The colored people went to Boynton Beach Friday to enjoy their annual bath.

Three trainloads, one from Keyport and Mattawan, another from Elizabeth, and the third from Plainfield and Westfield, besides several barges from Newark and New Brunswick, landed about three thousand on the picnic grounds. Several hundred had gone afoot and in vehicles of every description from Rahway and Woodbridge.

It was truly a salt-water day with the colored folks. Thousands indulged in the annual bath.

The watermelon was to be seen everywhere among the lunch tables, while the dancers packed the large pavilion.

Policeman Cullinane, of Woodbridge, checked several squabbles.

READY TO BUILD ITS PLANT.

Stephenson Car Company Plans in South Elizabeth.

The John Stephenson Car Company is almost ready to begin the construction of its plant on fifteen acres at South Elizabeth, which will furnish employment for several hundred.

The company has finished the grading of the site and is now ready for the spur from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

A sewer under the railroad track nine feet deep will drain the railroad as well as the works.

The main building of the car works will be a large structure, with a clock tower 180 feet high. The buildings will be of brick and iron.

The Traction Company will also extend the road to Bayway from South Front street, thus making it easy to get to the car works.

—Placards announcing the big G. O. P. time at Avon-by-the-Sea are seen about the city.

PURPOSE OF LORD'S LIFE

Rev. Carlos Martyn's Talented Discourse at Trinity Church.

WORDS "OUR FATHER" DW LT UPON.

He Said That Two Important Facts Were Expressed—The "Doctor of Divinity" Revealed to Him the Perfect Picture of an Ideal Man and a Type of Fatherhood—His Belief for Mystics.

Rev. Dr. Carlos Martyn, the talented preacher, again occupied the pulpit of Trinity Reformed church Sunday. Large and appreciative audiences gathered at both services to hear him. At the morning service he selected the text, "The Divine Fatherhood and Motherhood," and dwelt upon the words, "Our Father." The speaker said that the words "Our Father" was a summing up of the purpose of the Lord's life while upon earth. It expresses two important facts. First, "God is a Father," and secondly, "Our Father." It causes thought for thought, heart throb for heart throb, and service for service. It is only the fool who hath said there is no God. A man once said that he did not believe anything he could not see, whereupon the old Quaker said, "Do you see your brains?" "No," was the reply. "Well, do you believe that you have any?" The point was well made and had its effect. Woman was created equal with man into God's likeness and nature, and God made her the same as man, but it takes both the man and the woman to disclose the image of God. Before sin entered the world by Adam he was neither man nor woman alone, but both, which shows the two-fold disclosure. Man alone is but half a being. He was not made to sweep a room, bake bread, and we see how him taking care of children it reminds me of an elephant looking after a brood of chickens. Woman must search until she finds her other half, and so must man, and then the union is perfect.

"I was greatly troubled at one time concerning the 'Doctor of Trinity.' I accepted it the same as a person would take medicine without knowing its contents, but the time came when I was led to see many beautiful things in it. It revealed the perfect picture of an ideal man and a type of fatherhood, while the father, mother and child was unfolded in the words. When your head begins to swim in mysticism plant yours if on the solid foundation of Christian."

"The intuition of a woman is a remarkable thing and amazes one. She employs a mental photography which tells her what another woman has on, how much it cost, and the clerk in the store where she made her purchases. Jesus not only reveals God but He is God, and if we know Him we also know the Father, and God reveals Him as 'Our Father.' He follows to rescue us and His pity is far-reaching. He is the Father of all, man, woman and child, and we cannot wrench ourselves outside of the circle of His loving care and thought. Oh, the breadth, depth, heights and length of the love of God, our Father, Mother and Saviour of us all."

At the evening service Dr. Martyn delivered a discourse from the text "The Old Story with a New Application," and the sermon was listened to with deep interest by all present.

SIX MEN HAVE TOO MUCH FUN.

One of a Plainfield Party Winds up in Jail.

Six of the employees of the Pond Machine Tool Works, at Plainfield, went on an excursion yesterday and wound up in this city last evening.

They drove a stylish three-seat carriage and cut quite a figure about town. All the men were nice looking fellows and seemed to be well-to-do. About 9 o'clock last evening Officers Dunn and Faulkner came across a man lying on a front stoop of George street.

When they attempted to awaken him and send him on his way he became very abusive and wanted to fight. The officers packed the man off to the police station and the Recorder sent him to jail for five days.

Later in the night the officers found a couple of other men on George street looking for a lost man. The description tallied with that of the man in jail. The two proved to be the same. The men told their story. While the six Plainfielders had been in town one wandered away and became intoxicated. The others had been looking for him the rest of the night. They paid his fine and took him back to Plainfield after midnight.—New Brunswick Home News.

The Mayor is Popular.

The Mail and Express of Saturday in the news of the New Hampshire Hills, comments as follows on "our mayor": "Hon. Charles J. Fisk, Mayor of Plainfield, N. J., the well-known New York banker, arrived at his cottage, Onaway, this week. He was accompanied by Mrs. Fisk, Augustus Fisk, Harvey Fisk, Miss Annie Fisk and Miss Edith Fisk. Mr. Fisk is always popular at the Waumbek and was very warmly welcomed."

—The improvements at the City Hotel are going forward rapidly.

NEWBOROUGH ENGINEER

Frank J. Hubbard Appointed to the Position.

GEO. WISE MADE A REGULAR MARSHAL.

An Objection to the Confirmation of the Latter Because the Matter Was Not Submitted to the Marshal Committee, But Was Not Sustained—Protests Against the Rebuilding of the Washingtonville Dam.

There was not much important business transacted at the regular meeting of the Borough Council held last Friday, and the members were allowed to go home early. The first business was the presentation of the clerk's financial report which was as follows:

Borough balance, $2,707.57; light, $1,383.01; road, $1,154.63; fire department, $1116.13; poor account deficit, $426.63; paid county and state, $3,092.40; total balance, $1,791.91. He also reported the collection of $137.70 as fines, licenses, etc. The monthly report of the Collector showed the following collections since the last statement: 1891, $622; 1892, $883; 1893, $695; 1894, $11.40. The amount collected on account of the Township duplicate was as follows: 1891, $504; 1892, $55 48; 1894, $54.72; 1894, $60.87.

A communication was received from the West End Hose Company which stated that W. Barry and H. Grasely had been elected to membership in the company and J. J. Kliner and E. J. Vroom had resigned from membership. The matter was referred to the proper committee. A stong protest was received from a large number of borough taxpayers, living in the upper section of the borough, in which they asked the Council to take steps towards preventing the rebuilding of the Washingtonville dam. This matter was referred.

Mr. Woolston, as chairman of the streets and public health committee, stated that during the past month the general work of the borough on streets, had cost $108.10, while the work of repairing the upper part of Somerset street and furnishing crushed stone for the same had cost $678. This was thought to be a large amount to expend, as a result of the recent heavy rains. However, one-third of the latter amount would be received back from the street railway company, as their proportionate share in repairing the road.

Mr. MacLaughlin stated that his committee had purchased a book of records for the fire department and the same had been turned over to the proper persons.

Mayor Wilson appointed F. J. Hubbard, of this city, to be borough engineer at a salary of $250 from July 1st, 1897, to March 1st, 1898. The appointment was confirmed as was also the appointment of Special Marshal George Wise to be a regular marshal. On the last appointment Mr. Burtis objected for the reason that the chairman of the Marshal Committee had failed to confer with the other members of the committee regarding any matters pertaining to the police department. Mr. Rogers concurred with Mr. Burtis in the matter, but owing to the circumstances in the case of Marshal Wise the members voted to confirm the appointment.

The names of the following persons persons were reported as not having complied with the law regarding the laying of sidewalks in front of their property: Sarah A. Coward, Andrew Huff, Floret Wormser, J. A. Blatz, Francis Haberle, W. Shaffer and P. E. See. A resolution was offered that the walks be laid in front of the above named properties under the direction of the street commissioner and that steps be taken to effect a lien on the properties for the same.

Resolutions were offered by Mr. Rogers as follows: That electric lights be placed on Mountain and Belmont avenues and between Belmont and Farragut avenues on Mountain avenue; that $1,000 be borrowed in anticipation of taxes and charged to the fire department account; that Louis Bimble, H. Keller and H. Klinsman be confirmed as members of the West End Hose Company, and that after September 1st, all paid officers of the fire department be paid quarterly. All of the above resolutions were adopted.

Mr. McLoughlin, chairman of the Stationery and Printing Committee, stated that in accordance with instructions given at the last meeting the committee had secured estimates for the printing of one hundred copies of the borough police rules and regulations from the Daily Press and Courier News. The former asked $35 and the latter $60. Mr. McLoughlin said that inasmuch as there was such a difference in the figures the committee thought it hardly worth while to secure a detailed estimate from the highest bidder.

Mr. Rogers offered a resolution that the committee be instructed to secure the work from the lowest bidder.

Mayor Wilson asked Mr. Woolston who was supposed to be the proper one to see regarding matters of health when all of the members of the Board of Health are away. He said that recently his attention was called to a woman from Rahway who had come to the borough, and was found in a sick and destitute condition. The overseer of the poor knew of the case, but he did nothing regarding it. Mr. Woolston said that he was unable to answer the Mayor's question, but he should think that the overseer of the poor might act. He thought the borough had a good clerk, and a good overseer of the poor but neither one would spend a dollar of the borough's money if it could possibly be helped. This caused quite a smile on the part of the Councilmen and Mayor.

Mr. Reed hinted that the above case was one that the Daughters of the Cross should look after, but no further information was given, and the matter rested there.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Schutt that the action of Collector Spencer in paying the monthly roll amounting to $240.97, be confirmed, also another that tax warrants be furnished Collector Spencer for the sale of lands on which taxes are delinquent for 1895.

A final resolution was offered by Mr. Schutt that when council adjourn it be to meet on Thursday evening, August 12th, to examine the books of the assessor. The council then adjourned.

148 MILES IN ONE DAY.

Unusual Bicycle Riding Accomplished by T. Cuming.

MOUNTED POLICE LEFT BEHIND.

The Trip From This City to Philadelphia Made in Four Hours and Forty-three Minutes—His Brother Left Behind at Bristol—Returned Home at Midnight Last Night in Very Good Condition.

It has always been the desire on the part of Thomas Cuming, Plainfield's well-known bicycle rider, to ride from Plainfield to Philadelphia and back in one day, and Friday the attempt was made successfully, but not without some amusing experiences.

It was exactly 4:20 Friday morning that Thomas and his brother, Harry, started from Plainfield to make the journey. A feature of the trip was to see how quick it could be made. Thomas set the pace pretty lively, and by the time Trenton was reached his brother was beginning to feel tired. However, he managed to stay until Bristol was reached. At the latter place he was forced to slacken his speed, while Thomas pushed ahead and made the trip in four hours and forty-three minutes. His brother arrived one hour later in fair condition.

Thomas had a lively time after leaving Bristol. A couple of riders on a tandem appeared and paced him for several miles. The distance from the latter place to the Quaker City is about twenty-two miles and rules govern the speed of wheels. While the trio was making such good time a mounted policeman appeared and gave chase. The fellows on the tandem slowed up while Thomas kept on and increased his speed. The knight of the steed continued the chase about three blocks and then gave up in despair. It was exactly 9:03 when he arrived in Philadelphia.

On the return the two left the City of Brotherly Love at 6:30 in the evening and reached home at midnight. Owing to the fact that in some places the roads were so bad they were often obliged to get off and walk. In all, they rode 148 miles and all things considered they were in the best of condition when they got home.

A. O. H. A REUNITED BODY.

Rival Factions, Through Their National Officers, Agree to Again Unite.

At a secret meeting of the national officers of the rival factions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, held at Atlantic City, the breach between the factions was closed and the two societies will again unite.

The split in the organization occurred in 1884 and was caused by the late John Nolan, who at that time was chief national officer of the order, trying to establish a national headquarters of the organization in New York city. When the proposition was defeated he withdrew, taking about 50,000 of the 140,000 members with him. The seceders formed "The Board of Erin branch." Nolan succeeded in having the parent organization in Europe recognize his organization and cut away from those remaining in the old order, which was led by President Wilbere.

The terms by which the two factions were brought together are as follows: That the National Board of Officers of the Board of Erin branch will resign and formally transfer to the national officers and the national directory of the American branch absolute jurisdiction over the 35,000 members of the Board of Erin branch. By the terms of the transfer the members of the latter branch become entitled to all the rights and privileges of the 160,000 members of the American branch. The united organization will then be known as the Ancient Order of Hibernians and will resume affiliations with the parent branch in Europe.

Married at Glen Gardner.

The marriage of Miss Lizzie C. Bowlby and John B. Patterson, both of this city, was celebrated July 30th at the home of the bride's parents, Glen Gardner. Rev. W. J. Henderson, of the latter place, was the officiating clergyman.

REV. J. S. BRAKER, present Pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist Church

BAPTISTS CELEBRATE.

SESQUI-CENTENNIAL OBSERVANCE OF SCOTCH PLAINS SOCIETY.

The Morning Ushered in With Rain, but About 600 Attended the Services, Which Were of an Interesting Nature.

Very appropriately, perhaps, but not in accordance with the wishes of those most interested, the 150th anniversary of the Scotch Plains Baptist church was ushered in Thursday by a deluge of rain equal to anything of the kind that has occurred for several months. Later in the morning, however, the rain ceased falling, and it is doubtful if many were kept from attending the service for fear of the water.

Long before 10 o'clock, the hour set for the morning services, the visitors from out of town began to arrive. Those from nearby places came in carriages, while those from a distance were met at the Fanwood station by those composing the entertainment committee, of which Dr. F. W. Westcott was chairman, and transported to the church in stages. About three hundred visitors came from Piscataway, Stelton, Pemberton, Plainfield, Westfield, Newark and other distant points.

The church was well filled by an audience numbering about 600, when the organ voluntary began. The pulpit platform was artistically decorated with palms, wild flowers and potted plants.

At 10 o'clock the strains of the doxology floated from the big organ and the audience arose and sang the familiar words. The invocation was by Rev. G. H. Winans, pastor of the Scotch Plains Methodist Episcopal church.

The choir then sang a hymn and the Rev. J. C. Buchanan, D. D., of Pemberton, N. J., offered an eloquent prayer.

The address of welcome by the Rev. James S. Braker, the present pastor of the church, was in exactly the right vein of feeling, and opened the way for those following him to speak with happier effect.

Rev. J. W. Willmarth, D. D., of Philadelphia, next spoke upon "The Congregation With Which We Are Identified." His remarks were listened to intently, and awakened much interest. After the singing of another hymn by the choir Rev. W. T. Dorward, pastor of the Piscataway Baptist church, from which the Scotch Plains church was organized in 1747, spoke upon "Our Mother Church," describing in brief the career of the Piscataway church and speaking words of kindly feeling for the Scotch Plains church.

The Rev. J. F. Brown, D. D., of Mullica Hill, N. J., the oldest living ex-pastor of the church, whose pastorate dated from 1854 to 1860, gave an account in writing of his labors in Scotch Plains. Dr. Brown is no longer in active service as a preacher on account of ill health, but is held in high esteem in the denomination. He was unable to be present in person and his address was read by Dr. Dorward.

The Rev. Joseph C. Buchanan, who was pastor of the church from 1867 until 1878, next gave an account of his pastorate. An important material work accomplished during Dr. Buchanan's pastorate was the erection of the present church edifice, at a cost including the furniture and organ of $30,000.

At the close of Dr. Buchanan's address Prof. A. Baylis, of Brooklyn, sang a solo which charmed the audience.

Rev. J. H. Parks, D. D., who was pastor for the eleven years from January, 1883, to April, 1894, gave an address in which he stated that the years he spent as pastor of the Scotch Plains church were the pleasantest pastorate of his forty years' experience as a minister.

Dr. Parks was obliged to resign his charge on account of ill health. He still resides in the town and takes an active interest in the affairs of the old church. The last speaker of the morning was the Rev. J. S. Braker, the present pastor, who accepted a call to the church in 1894, succeeding Dr. Parks. The address was followed by a hymn and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. N. W. Cadwell, of the Westfield Presbyterian church.

The morning service ended at 12:20 o'clock and after an exchange of greatings between old friends who had not met for many years, the visitors were invited to an ample tent erected on the lawn at the side of the church, where twelve large tables were spread with delicacies. About twenty five ladies of the church served the guests.

The services in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the Scotch Plains Baptist church were continued Tuesday after all the guests had been served with dinner on the lawn by a service at 2 o'clock devoted to the Sunday-school and commemorating its 68th anniversary.

The session opened with a service of song led by A. Baylis, of Cranford, "Lead Me, Saviour," "Awake, Awake, the Master Now is Calling," and "More About Jesus Would I Know," were sung, and Rev. W. W. Case, of Rutherford, offered an opening prayer. The present pastor of the church, Rev. J. S. Braker, presided, and introduced the speakers.

Anson F. Grant, of Westfield, superintendent of the Sunday-school from 1863 to 1867, was the first speaker. His talk was partly reminiscent and partly an exhortation to greater effort in Sunday-school work.

H. E. Needham, of Plainfield, who was superintendent of the Sunday-school from 1868 to 1876, gave the next address, telling the history of the school under his leadership.

The hymn "The Summer-Land" was sung by the congregation and George H. Krauss, of Roselle, recording secretary of the Union County Sunday-school Association, was introduced and made the address of the afternoon on the importance of Sunday-school work. The address was an inspiring one, setting forth the various phases of the work and the rewards that accompany it.

Another hymn was sung by the congregation, and then C. A. Smith, superintendent of the Sunday-school from 1876 to 1879, was introduced and make a few appropriate remarks, disclaiming any desire to make a speech and saying that he only came to answer to his name in the roll call. Mr. Smith gave some interesting facts in connection with his services as superintendent of the school and as a trustee and treasurer of the church.

Deacon David Hand, of Plainfield, who was superintendent of the school for twelve years, was the next speaker. His talk was an extremely witty one, abounding in anecdotes and amusing sallies. B. G. Silvers, R. C. Treadwell and George L. Colgate, three former superintendents of the school who were expected to make addresses were not able to be present. The hymn "God Bless Our Sabbath-school," was sung in closing, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. George A. Francis, of the Westfield Baptist church.

Early in the afternoon the clouds broke away and the sun shone forth gloriously. The grateful warmth had its effect upon the spirits of everybody, and helped to make the afternoon and evening sessions brighter and more cheerful if possible than the morning service had been.

After the close of the afternoon session supper was served the guests on the church lawn. About 500 partook of the tempting good things which the ladies had prepared. The committee in charge of the refreshments was made up as follows: Mrs. Charles Haberle, Mrs. Norman Dunn, Mrs. Savage, Mrs. David Hand, Mrs. Dennis Crane, Mrs. Stites Parse, Mrs. William Johnston, Mrs. Miller, Miss Louise Barr, Miss Laura Bornman, Miss Sarah Drake, Miss Jennie Marsh and Miss Lydia Townsend.

The waitresses in charge of the tables were Mrs. W. E. Collins, Mrs. William Noble, Mrs. Charles Frentz, Mrs. William Buckley, Mrs. E. L. Hand, Mrs. Mills, Miss Emma Clark, Miss Kittie Buckley, Miss Ivy Marsh, Miss Nina Hostinger, Miss Sarah Hand, Miss Lulu Robinson, Miss Etta Cook, Miss Florence Allen, Miss Trantman, Miss Josie Banks, Miss Millie Hovell, Miss Edna Nicholl, Miss Florence Randolph, Miss Lizzie Nicholl, Miss Addie Johnson, Miss Belgnette Marsh, Miss and Lill Fancher.

The evening session, which began at 6:30 o'clock, was devoted to the churches which have been constituted or organized from the Scotch Plains church. The session began with a ten minutes' song service led by A. Baylis, of Cranford. A number of hymns including "Take the Name of Jesus With You," "How Firm a Foundation, Ye Saints of the Lord," were sung.

At 7 o'clock, Benjamin F. Allen, of Cranford, gave a cornet solo, which was merged at its close into "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," in which the audience joined. The general prayer of the evening was made by the Rev. G. W. Clark, D. D., of Hightstown, who was once a Scotch Plains lad.

In introducing Judge James D. Cleaver, of Newark, the first speaker of the evening, Rev. J. S. Braker made a happy allusion to the fact that in 1847, just fifty years ago, Judge Cleaver was president of the Board of Trustees of the church, and that he had just recently been again elected to fill the same office. The speaker, after a few introductory remarks, recited from memory a finely written poem of his own composition, relating the history of the church, what her place in history was and the wonderful changes that had taken place since the church's organization.

Rev. I. M. Haldeman, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church of New York city, although down on the programme for an address, was not able to be present as he is now traveling in Europe. Rev. Dr. J. H. Parks read a letter from Dr. Haldeman, expressing the interest of the pastor and people of the "Old First" church of New York in all the ceremonies of the day. The letter was of especial interest, as his church is an offspring of the Scotch Plains church, having been organized June 19th, 1762, by twenty-seven members dismissed from it.

A letter was next read by Dr. Parks from the pastor of the church at May's Lick, Ky., which was organized April 12th, 1788, by members who were dismissed from the Scotch Plains church.

After Dr. Parks' remarks, a solo was sung with excellent effect by Mrs. J. S. Braker, the wife of the present pastor.

Rev. T. E. Vassar, D. D., pastor of the Lyon's Farms Baptist church, next delivered an address. His church is the second one which was constituted from the Scotch Plains church, having been organized March 29th, 1769, with a membership of twelve. The Scotch Plains church, the speaker said, was like a person standing upon the solid mainland, where all the rolling of two great oceans sounds in his ears. The church hears the rolling waves of the past, and is connected by its glorious history with the past. Those who labored in the early days of the church's history builded better than they knew. Then there is the sound of the other ocean, the ocean of the future. Many of the present members are growing weary of the battle, and will look with pleasure to the young fresh soldiers who will press forward to relieve them. Above all the efforts of the church and its members should be to uplift the name of Christ, and to be true to the old-time faith in God.

Rev. Peter Gibb pastor of the Mt. Bethel Baptist church, which also was organized from the Scotch Plains church was next introduced and made some congratulating remarks upon the anniversary occasion.

Mr. Gibb said that he came representing not only the daughter, but the grand-daughter as well, since he was also identified with the Millington Baptist Church, which was organized from the Mt. Bethel Church. He hoped that the effect of the present occasion would not be to lead anyone into resting contented with the achievements of the past. Those now in the church have to do with the destinies of the future, as their forefathers had to do with the victories of the past.

At the close of Mr. Gibb's address a verse of the hymn "Triumphant Zion" was sung, and the Rev. J. A. Cubberly, of the South Plainfield Baptist Church, which was organized December 1st, 1792, made a few brief remarks. He bore greetings from his own church, and predicted that the mother church would yet reign a thousand years upon the earth. The Scotch Plains Church has the dew of youth upon her because she has kept the faith. All that is needed is for us to consider what the Lord Jesus taught. A church's duty is to believe, to do and to teach.

J. O. Wilson, of New York city, who was born and reared in Scotch Plains, next gave a short reminiscent talk. In boyhood he was a member of the church. His family moved away from the village in 1844, but he had never lost interest or love in his first religious home. He expressed thanks to the committee in charge for the kindly hospitality of the day. He remembered the day when the congregation held prayer meetings at 4 o'clock in the morning. There were some names which he recalled with much veneration, among them Deacon Hetfield and Doctor Osborn.

Mr. Wilson was one of the first librarians in the Sunday-school. The old parsonage, he was glad to observe, remained just as it was in his boyhood days. He hoped that those of the present day will be as faithful in their day and generation as were their ancestors.

After Mr. Wilson's address, the remaining verses of the hymn, "Triumphant Zion," were sung. The day's services were closed at 8:59 o'clock by a benediction pronounced by Rev. J. S. Braker.

As the audience filed out of the church and gazed

SINGERS FOR GUESTS.

A Big Time Enjoyed By The Saengerbund Members..

VISITORS FROM ELIZABETH THERE.

In the Morning a Ramble was Enjoyed on the Mountain and Various Points of Interest Visited—Sociability, Singing and Speeches Enjoyed in Keller's Grove in the Afternoon—A Pleasant Gathering.

Sunday was a perfect Gesang and event planned by the Liberty Singing Verein when they had for their guests the members of the Liberty Singing Society, of Elizabeth. The visitors arrived about 10 o'clock in the morning and were met at the North avenue station by the members at the Plainfield society and escorted to the hall on Somerset street where refreshments were served. This part of the programme was marked by social features, after which the Plainfield members together with their guests walked to Johnston's Drive for an outing. They stopped at the Mountain Park Inn and several other places on the mountains and at intervals the visitors rendered songs. They have the reputation of being one of the best vocal societies in the vicinity and their music attracted the attention of a large number of people who happened to be on the mountains.

The guests at the Inn were highly pleased with the singing and frequently applauded the singers. Following this brief outing all returned to the hall again where a fine dinner was served by Charles Dressler, John Roetzel, J. Gaerf, Fred Conde and Charles Steuerwald. After dinner was over the party, together with their wives and families, went to Keller's Grove where the afternoon was passed in a social way, while the visitors continued their programme of music. Prof. Eichhorn, of Elizabeth, who is the leader of the Elizabeth and Plainfield societies, was present and had charge of the music.

Another feature of the afternoon was the speeches made by President Haurand, of the Plainfield society, and the response by the president of the Elizabeth society. Martin Haubuer, of the home society, also made a few interesting remarks.

Toward night the party returned to their hall where they dispersed and the visitors were escorted back to the station and took the 7.03 train for home.

RAHWAY RIVER ABLAZE.

Great Crowds to Witness the Brilliant Venetian Carnival.

The Rahway river at Cranford was ablaze Saturday night with the glories of the Venetian carnival. More than 100 boats, canoes and barges, bedecked with colored lamps and lanterns, floated on the stream, while the illuminated banks were lined with spectators. Fully 5,000 visitors were in town from New York, Jersey City, Newark, Elizabeth, Plainfield and other places.

As the procession started at 8:15 o'clock lines of Greek fire lighted up the river, two bands played and all the onlookers cheered.

Among the most attractive of the barges was that of J. P. M. Josephs. Seated in the stern was Miss Liedman, of New York, who impersonated Cleopatra, dressed in leopard skin with a snake around her neck. A calcium light was thrown upon the boat as it moved along.

The prize committee, E. L. Heleker, R. J. Mis and Fred W. Crane, decided to present a handsome pair of silver mounted oars for the best trimmed canoe; and spoon oars for the best float, the best boat, and the best trimmed lawn.

The flotilla was under the command of the following well known business men, most of whom are New York commuters:

Commodore—Geo. Harvey Miller; vice-commodore—L. A. Madden; lieutenants—W. W. Buckley, T. J. Buckley, C. J. McIntyre, J. Irving Crane.

BETTER SIDEWALKS ASSURED.

Continuous Walk From Franklin Place Belvidere Avenue.

The last contract for flagging on the south side of Putnam avenue has been given out, and soon a continuous walk will be laid from Franklin place to Belvidere avenue. The Watchung avenue property owners have not done as well, and the names of those who have neglected to comply with the notice to flag will be reported to the council at its September meeting.

The Street Commissioner will give most of his time for the next few weeks to flag and curb matters and grades.

The roller will be laid off for the month in a few days and two small gangs will be kept at general repairs, cleaning gutters etc.

Crop Report.

The following is John Nessle's crop report for this week:

Crops have not recovered from the recent heavy rains; potatoes continue rotting, except on high ground, where they are promising; oats gathered, and are light, about one-third of a crop; corn growing well. Highest temperature, eighty-seven degrees; lowest, fifty-six; rainfall, .35 inch.

Miss Mary Brown, of East Fourth street, is visiting relatives at Manasquan.

TWO TRAINS WRECKED.

Dastardly Work of a Fiend at White House.

WEDGED TIES BETWEEN THE RAILS.

An East Bound Through Freight Struck the Obstruction and the Locomotive and Several Cars Derailed—A West Bound Train Passing at the Time and Also Derailed—None of the Crew Injured.

A dastardly and successful attempt was made Monday to wreck a train on the Easton division of the Central Railroad of New Jersey just west of White House station, though no persons were injured and the damage to rolling stock was not great.

A through freight bound from Easton to New York was running at a fair rate of speed as it approached White House when the locomotive struck an obstruction a short distance from the switch leading to the siding of the station.

The locomotive was derailed, but did not topple over and the engineer and fireman jumped without receiving serious injuries. A number of loaded freight cars followed the locomotive off the track by the sudden stop.

Just as the east bound locomotive crashed into the obstruction another train of empty cars was going west on the opposite track. One of the east bound cars ran into the other train and knocked several cars off the track. The Central road at that point is only double tracked and traffic was totally blocked by the wreckage.

The train crews made an immediate investigation as to the cause of the derailment, and found that two ties had been wedged in between the rails of the eastbound track in a deliberate attempt to wreck the train.

No one was seen acting suspiciously in the neighborhood at the time, and the only reason that can be assigned for putting the ties there was a fiendish desire to see a wreck or else an attempt of some enemy of the road to do serious damage.

The wrecking crew was summoned and worked all night getting the derailed locomotive and cars on the tracks, and next morning trains were running on schedule time.

While there is no conclusive evidence as to the guilty party who put the obstruction on the track, a dissolute character who lives in White House is suspicioned, and it is likely that his arrest will follow on the charge of wrecking the train.

ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

Great Times Expected at the Meeting of Young Christians.

Endeavorers went home from the Adantic City convention to work for Plainfield '96. Last year the C. E. hosts at Plainfield went home with the watch-word "Paterson '97." Now that the San Francisco convention is a thing of the past the energies and thoughts of the Endeavorers of the State will be turned to the 11th annual convention.

The provisional programme has been issued by the committee of arrangements, and it bids fair to be one of the very best conventions held in the history of the Union. The meetings will be held in three buildings, each holding 1,000 persons. Wednesday afternoon is to be devoted to Christian Citizenship. The principal addresses are to be by Merrill E. Gates, LL.D, and Rev. D. J. Burrell, D. D. On Wednesday evenings will be the welcomes and responses, together with the convention sermons by Revs. Maltbie D. Babcock, D. D., of Baltimore and Wayland Hoyt, D. D., of Philadelphia. Thursday morning will be devoted to denominational rallies, and Thursday afternoon to the Juniors and the annual address of President French. Friday morning and afternoon will be devoted to Home and Foreign Missions and the reports of the various departments. Addresses will be given by Revs F. J. Stanley, D. D., and W. G. Puddefoot, D. D. Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., will be the Conventional Evangelist. His name appears upon the programme each day. On Friday evening there will be three addresses, one by Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., one by Mrs. Ballington Booth and one by Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D.

BAD CENTS AROUND.

The Coins are Dated 1896 and Are Good Imitations.

Many bad cents are in circulation at different places throughout the country, and while no complaints have been made to the local authorities they say that it won't be long before some of the counterfeiters reach this city, if they are not in use here now. The bad cents are excellent imitations. Most of them are dated 1896. They are said to represent a good profit to the counterfeiters, for, it is estimated, 119 of them can be made out of about ten or twelve cents' worth of copper.

Funeral of Joseph Mitze.

The funeral of Joseph Mitze, an old resident of New Market, took place from his late home in that place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The interment was made in Sampton cemetery. A number of Plainfield friends of the deceased attended the funeral.

A Doctor's Discovery.

Realizing the Necessity of Iron in the Blood, He Prescribes Capsuloids in a Stubborn Case With Marked Success.

A newspaper man while talking to a local physician casually asked his opinion of Capsuloids, the new medicine, the use of which introduces an entirely new and original method of restoring natural iron or Hæmoglobin to the blood. The doctor replied: "I believe it is the true method of curing disease. Iron has ever been a strong factor in my practice. Previous to the discovery of Capsuloids the best forms of iron physicians had at their command failed of its purpose because of its insoluble nature. On the other hand it discolored and ruined the teeth, rasped the stomach, and not infrequently did more harm than good. I recently had a case that illustrates this point.

"Nearly eight months ago I was called to see two girls, twins, aged fourteen, suffering with anemia or pale blood. Their mother told me that they had been very pale for nearly a year and no medicine seemed to do any good. I tried iron medicines but all to no purpose. I tend of Capsuloids and learned that they contained dissolved Hæmoglobin or natural iron extracted from the blood of healthy bullocks. This seemed to me an ideal form of iron medicine and I prescribed Capsuloids for these two girls. In one week I could see the change, in two weeks the mother was delighted, and to-day these girls are as rosy cheeked, bright-eyed and merry as any two girls in the country."

Since discovery Capsuloids have gained world wide fame for the marvelous manner in which they have cured diseases of almost every description.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, or six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

PUMMELED THE OFFICER

And He Will Spend a Long Term in the County Jail.

JOHN KEARNS IS THE CULPRIT.

He Was One of a Growler Party Whom Patrolman Mattox Tried to Arrest—Resisted the Officer and Struck Him in the Face—Finally Landed in the Rookery—He Got Fifty-nine Days and $100 Fine.

John Kearns looked the typical city tough as he stood with a look of surly bravado at the bar of the city court Tuesday morning. The charge against him was that of being drunk and disorderly and resisting Patrolman Mattox when that officer attempted to arrest him.

Kearns and a number of companions spent Monday afternoon "rushing the growler" in the neighborhood of the Boulevard and Liberty street. They occupied a certain front stoop until the inmates of the house gave them a bath of boiling water, which dislodged them. As darkness began to gather, the fun, so called, grew fast and furious, and Patrolman Mattox, who is stationed on the beat, warned the young men to make less disturbance.

Then Kearns, the officer alleged, grew very abusive, and used language which would not look well in print. He expressed the opinion that the policeman was not big or strong enough to arrest him.

At last Mattox took hold of Kearns to place him under arrest, when the fellow suddenly struck the Patrolman a stinging blow in the face, drawing blood. The two men clinched and were soon rolling on the ground. Kearns' companion sneaked away when the affair began to look serious, and so the Patrolman had only one man to cope with.

While the battle was going on, Roundsman Fraleigh came to his brother officer's assistance and the two soon subdued Kearns and conveyed him to the lockup.

William K. McClure appeared in Kearns' behalf Tuesday morning and made a plea for the clemency of the court. His Honor was unrelenting, however, and sentenced the prisoner to a fine of $100 and 59 days in the county jail.

DENNY KANE'S HEROIC ACT.

Rescued Little Louse Johnson From a Watery Grave.

Dennis Kane, having already distinguished himself as ball player in an amateur way and as careful motorman on the trolley road, Sunday made a record for himself as a life saver.

Louise Johnson, the ten years old daughter of Mr. Johnson, of Prescott place, an employe of the Pond Machine Tool Company, accompanied by an older sister, was strolling along the bank of Green brook on the Cadmus property near Grant avenue. There is a little dam near that point and Louise in attempting to cross lost her footing and slipped into six feet of water. She screamed in a frantic manner for help. Kane was in the vicinity and heard the despairing cries. He hurried to the dam and as the little girl went down for the third time he plunged into the water and grabbed her body. He carried her to dry land where she resusticated and was taken home. Denny was very modest in telling of his heroic deed.

Protect yourself against sickness and suffering by keeping your blood rich and pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Weak, thin, impure blood is sure to result in disease.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy in effect. 25c.

Julius Williams, of Elmwood place, has returned from a short business trip.

TRIO JAGGED ROAD HOGS

Two Plainfield Cyclists and a Woman Run Over.

EXCITING RETURN FROM CARNIVAL.

Three Young Men in a Beastly State of Intoxication Drove at a Breakneck Speed Over the Prostrate Form of the Three Persons and Never Stopped to Ascertain Their Injuries.

Three young men, whose condition has become deplorable after having imbibed freely of Cranford whiskey, indulged in reckless driving on the county road out of Cranford Saturday night and ran down two Plainfield bicyclists with injurous results.

A party of young men, composed of Morris Dumont, Harry Cuming, Albert Finch, Roy Phillips, Harold Phillips, William Hobby, Vincent Rittenhouse, Clifford Martin and James Brainard, had been to Cranford to witness the venetian carnival on the Rahway river. They were returning on their bicycles and had just left the business centre of Cranford. They were pedaling along at a lively rate when they heard a horse and buggy coming behind them at a breakneck pace, accompanied by the shouts of the drunken men who were urging the animal to a still faster speed. Totally oblivious of the fact that they were endangering the lives of the bicyclists ahead, they did not slacken their gait as they drove on.

The bicyclists rode faster and faster, but they saw that they were in danger of being run down. Some of them were able to get far enough ahead to slow up so that they could dismount at the side of the rode. The horse, however, was close behind Vincent Rittenhouse and Roy Phillips and they were unable to get far enough in advance to dismount without being run over by the drunken trio.

Suddenly, in the darkness, there loomed up another buggy ahead of flying wheelmen. It was standing in the centre of the road and it seemed as though Rittenbonse and Phillips would crash into the vehicle full force. By great effort, Rittenhouse, who was ahead, turned his wheel to the side of the road, and plunged into a woman whom he did not see till he was upon her. The woman and Rittenhouse went sprawling into the road and a second later Phillips mixed up with them, as he was unable to stop or steer clear.

The reckless drivers, making the air blue with catcalls and oaths, never slackened their pace but drove pell mell over the prostrate forms of the three people in the roadway. The woman, whose name could not be learned, was injured about the legs so that she was not able to walk. A wheel of the buggy passed over Rittenhouse's hip and Phillips sustained painful injuries to his wrist and neck. Phillips' bicycle was also wrecked. The drunken men never stopped and disappeared down the road a few moments after.

The rest of the Plainfield party hurried forward and assisted the injured ones to their feet. A wagon was secured and the woman sent home. Rittenhouse found that his injuries were not so serious, but Phillips was bruised so painfully that he was not able to stand. He was lifted on his wheel and the rest of the party, two at a time, alternately, pushed him all the way to Plainfield.

A few moments after the accident, a party of forty cyclists from Orange arrived on the scene and there was great confusion between the efforts to help the victims and the incensed feeling and threats made about the reckless drivers. Two Orange young men who were on a racing tandem chased the buggy down the road, but they were unable to find it, as it evidently had turned into a side road.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Bishop McFaul and the A. O. H.

Bishop McFaul of the Catholic diocese of Trenton has accepted the office of arbitrator between the two factions in the Ancient Order of Hibernians. He will listen to the testimony of those interested on next Monday afternoon in Trenton. Bishop McFaul was chosen arbitrator of the points in dispute at a joint conference of the national officers of the rival factions held at Atlantic City on Tuesday.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now on every bear the fac-simile signature of wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought and has the signature of on the wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

WANTS $500 FORFEIT.

Important Action to be Taken Against Portrait Gift Enterprise.

The smooth-tongued canvasser for books or periodicals, who offers a crayon portrait, life-size, as a premium, and various other glowing inducements to persuade unsuspecting persons to sign a contract, has numbered among his Plainfield victims Mrs. Mary Hubberly, who lives on South avenue, near Terrill road. In July, 1894, a glib-tongued agent called on Mrs. Hubberly and induced her to subscribe for a publication called the American Weekly Journal.

Two copies were to be delivered each week, for which Mrs. Hubberly was to pay 36 cents a week. There were 92 numbers in the series, and after a certain number were taken and paid for the subscriber was to receive a life-size crayon portrait, substantially framed, for which no extra charge would be made. The firm name soon changed and the office address also changed, but Mrs. Hubberly was informed that the contract was assumed by the new management and the delivery of the periodical was continued as before. About six months ago, however, the present company, which styles itself the Empire Art Company, stopped delivering the periodical, and when they were asked to furnish the portrait promised in the contract, paid no heed to the request.

Mrs. Hubberly at once secured the services of Lawyer William Newcorn, who made a demand for the fulfillment of the contract. The managers replied that they were not responsible for the contracts of the American Weekly Journal, but in order to avoid litigation, they would make the portrait according to the contract, provided Mrs. Hubberly would agree to purchase the remaining numbers of the periodical.

This agreement the company did not keep, but attempted to induce her to accept a portrait only twelve inches square. Mrs. Hubberly, through her attorney, will now sue the company for its $500 forfeit which it promises to give in case the contract is not fulfilled. An investigation of the company's methods by the Grand Jury of New York county will also be demanded. It is possible, however, that the company will settle the matter satisfactorily.

DEMENTED WOMAN LOOSE.

Unable to Make Herself Known Without an Interpreter—Acted Hysterical.

A queer looking woman, about 35 years of age, was found wandering about in an aimless manner in the vicinity of East Third and Richmond streets about 7 o'clock p. m., Monday. She talked incoherently and chased a number of women and children whom she met in her wanderings. The attention of the police was called to the woman's actions, and she was arrested and placed in the lockup over night.

When arraigned in the City Court Tuesday morning, she gave her name as "Maggie," and when questioned further by the Judge, talked rapidly in a foreign tongue, and laughed hysterically. It was learned that she was a Polish woman and an interpreter was secured so that she might tell her story.

Her name, she said, was Margaret Klofinsky, and she had come to this city from Trenton in search of employment as a domestic. At this point her mind seemed to wander and she told a strange story of being brought through the woods to this city by a man, from which she at last succeeded in making her escape. When asked how she came from Trenton, she replied that she had walked here. When asked how much money she had on reaching this city, she retorted that it was no one's business. She frequently went off into hysterical laughter during her examination, and when it was learned that she had no friends in the city, she was committed to the county jail for 30 days, pending an examination to her sanity.

When you are suffering from Catarrh or Cold in the head you want relief right away. Only 10 cents is required to test it. Ask your druggist for the trial size of Ely's Cream Balm, or buy the 50 cent size. We mail it. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St. N. Y. City.

I was afflicted with catarrh last autumn. During the month of October I could neither taste or smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured it.—Marcus Geo. Shauta, Rahway, N. J.

Mrs. Chapin, of West Front street, is at Ocean Grove for two weeks.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL LIST.

VOL XXX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1897. NO. 33.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

CONDUCTOR AT FAULT.

Started the Car While Two Women Were Boarding it.

THEN LAUGHED AT A POLICEMAN.

One of the Injured Women Was Mrs. Caroline Hudson, of This City, Who Was Visiting Her Daughter, Mrs. Emma Miles, of Lexington Avenue—Thrown Face Downward on the Hard Pavement and Hurt.

It was not the fault of the conductor of cable car No. 668, of the Lexington avenue line, New York, that Mrs. Caroline Hudson, of Plainfield, and her daughter, did not receive more serious injuries than those which followed their fall from his car Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Hudson, who is seventy-two years old, had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Emma Miles, the wife of Dr. Clarence Percy Miles, of No. 9,008 Lexington avenue. Mrs. Miles and her mother intended to spend the afternoon at Glen Island, and about 11 o'clock left home and rode on a Lexington avenue electric car to 105th street, where they got transfers to change to the cable cars.

They failed to board car 668, both having hold of the seat handle, and when being on the steps, Mrs. Miles supporting her mother, the conductor pulled the bell cord, shouting "Step lively!"

"Wait a moment, won't you!" cried Mrs. Miles, "my mother is not yet on the car."

"Oh, that's all right," responded he conductor. "She can take care of her self."

The car started and Mrs. Hudson and Mrs. Miles were hurled to the ground, falling face downward. No effort was made by the conductor to stop the car; on the contrary, he signalled the gripman to go on.

Policeman Robert Beck from the street signalled to the conductor to stop, but the latter laughed at him. The policeman boarded the next car, and upon arriving at the car station called to the starter to stop the car ahead, but the latter, the policeman says, paid no attention to him, and the car with the offending conductor on board was soon out of sight.

Mrs. Miles and her daughter were meanwhile taken to the police station in East 105th street and an ambulance of the Harlem Hospital sent for. The surgeon dressed the bruises of the injured women, who, instead of going to the hospital, insisted on being taken home.

"My wife," said the doctor, "was bruised on the arm, face and body, while my mother-in-law's injuries are more serious. She has several bruises on her limbs, and is suffering from a severe nervous shock. When Mrs. Hudson was thrown off the car she drew back her left foot just in time to save it from being cut off by the wheels of the car. The sole of her shoe was cut completely off.

"My wife and her mother wanted to have the conductor arrested when they were at the station house, but the sergeant in charge told them there was no use making a complaint against an employe of the cable company, because he would be paroled immediately after his arrest, and that would probably be the last of the matter."

Dr. Miles said he proposed to make the company pay for the negligence of the conductor. He said none of the cable road employes at the junction had offered to assist the women after they were hurt.

A MEMORIAL HALL.

An Evidence of the Success of Dr. Vincent at Chautauqua.

Bishop Vincent, who was a resident of Plainfield at the time he inaugurated the Chautauqua movement, is so much loved and honored by those who knew him that his success and the success of Chautauqua must be of interest to many Plainfielders. The fund for the Hall of the Christ, the proposed memorial temple of Chautauqua over which Bishop Vincent has been daily securing subscriptions during the past three years, has been increased by the gift of $5,000 from Miles Frank M. Gould, who has recently visited Chautauqua. The Memorial Hall is to be dedicated to the life and works of Christ and will be unique in design and purpose. The plans for the building, to be erected on the finest site in the ground, are from the hands of one of the designers of the Congressional Library at Washington. The amount of the fund has now reached $50,000.

Entertained Twenty Guests.

A very enjoyable time was spent at the residence of W. R. Mattox, of Chester place, last evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Mattox entertained twenty guests from Plainfield and Newark. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing, while a collation was served at midnight. The guests departed homeward at an early hour this morning.

MR. RUNYON OBJECTED.

Said He Believed That Assessments Were Not Equitable.

THE BOOKS APPROVED, THOUGH.

Councilman Runyon Took His Stand on the Ground That Costly Properties Were Not Assessed in Same Proportion to Modest Houses—Councilman Westphal Partially Agreed But Did Not Support Him.

A decided objection to the work of Assessor Hubbard from Councilmen Runyon and Westphal was somewhat in the nature of a surprise at the adjourned meeting of the Plainfield Common Council, last Tuesday. The other councilmen sprang to arms in defence of Mr. Hubbard and his assessment was approved, Councilman Runyon being the only one to vote no. The matter of assessments was the all important business of the meeting.

It was not until after 8:30 o'clock that the councilmen finally assembled. Messrs. Baker, Barrows and Serrell being absent when the roll was called. A motion was at once made that the Council take a recess to examine the books of Assessor Hubbard, and on the motion was carried the council men gathered about the table where the books had been placed. Councilman Frost was the only one who did not examine them. Councilman Serrell put in an appearance and took part in the examination of the books.

After thirty minutes spent in looking them over, the Council came to order and Councilman Serrell introduced a resolution the sense of which was that the books be declared approved. Councilman Runyon rose in his seat at once. He said that in looking over the Assessor's books he had noticed that the small properties had been marked higher in proportion than the larg r properties. He expressed himself as believing that such a state of things was not fair. He said that he referred especially to the Babcock building, which seemed to be rated lower than the smaller buildings.

There was a stir and Assessor Hubbard arose and asked permission to make a few remarks. He explained that there was an increase in the value of the large properties, many of which would not sell today for what they cost to build. It was otherwise with the small properties.

Councilman Westphal said that he echoed the sentiments of Mr. Runyon, and then went on to remark that while the city of Plainfield had as good an Assessor as it was possible to get, he believed that the time had come to have a board of assessors. He had noticed in the Assessor's books that property which was ordered to the city for $25,000, and said by its owners to be worth $30,000, was rated at $1,000. He did not think that the work of the Assessor could be stopped this year, but thought that another year should see a board doing the work.

Councilman Serrell, chairman of the committee on assessments, remarked that the increase this year in the total amount of assessments was $175,000, and that it was a very difficult job to equitably adjust the taxes. It was a labor of time and took several years. Every year's wrongs were righted and the end neared.

Councilman Frost also spoke in defence of the Assessor saying that he felt perfectly satisfied with his work.

The resolution was then voted upon, Mr. Runyon being the only one to vote no.

A petition from Anna A. Mason and others asking for a sewer on Stelle avenue, and a petition from E. H. Pound and others asking for fire hydrants on West Front street were read and referred to the proper committees.

Councilman Sebbins, as chairman of the fire and buildings committee, reported back a resolution authorizing four new fire hydrants on West Front street and the resolution was carried.

The license committee, through its chairman, Mr. Leviers, reported favorably on the application of Samuel Drier for a license for pawn broker and the license was granted without objection.

At this point in the proceedings, President Dumont suggested that the City Clerk should be instructed to send each member a copy of the present contract with the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, so that they might compare it with the new one. Councilman Frost made a motion to that effect.

Councilman Runyon at first objected to the motion, saying that he had seen a letter from the superintendent of the telephone company saying that if the Council did not authorize the company to lay their wires underground at once, the work would have to go over for another year. He thought action should be taken at once in the matter. The President said that the motion would not interfere with any such action, and so Mr. Runyon withdrew his objection. That ended all consideration of the subject and the Council adjourned.

DREAM OF SECURITY WAS RUDELY DISTURBED.

Burglars Again Renew Their Activities In This City and the Town of Westfield.

Charles Hepner's Home on Richmond Street Entered and Money Stolen From the Very Room He Was Sleeping in—Silverware Also Taken—One Burglary and Several Attempts Made in Westfield—Citizens Agitated.

The home of Charles Hepner, of No. 215 Richmond street, was entered sometime during Tuesday evening or early Wednesday by thieves. A number of things were stolen, including $14 in money, a half dozen silver spoons and the same number of silver forks. The money was removed from Mr. Hepner's trousers which hung on the bed post of the bed occupied by him. Neither he nor his family heard a sound during the night.

Next morning Mr. Hepner said that he did not know how the thieves entered the house, but when he and his family came down stairs in the morning the front door was found open, but they were sure that it was locked when they retired. Mr. Hepner has an idea that the persons effected an entrance through a cellar window.

Only the things above mentioned are missing. Mr. Hepner reported the robbery to Chief Grant early in the morning and the latter ascertained all the facts that will be of assistance to him in working on the case. He also made a visit to the house to secure additional information.

JUSTICE SUED FOR A PENALTY.

Barnett Claims That William N. Rapp Acted Contrary to Laws.

Another complication has been added to the trouble between A. H. Barnett, the professional bicycle rider, and the Waltham Manufacturing Company. Tuesday Mr. Barnett brought suit against Justice of the Peace William N. Rapp, in the First District Court, for $50, because the defendant, being a justice of the peace, acted as an attorney for the Waltham Manufacturing Company in the court of Justice of the Peace E. R. Collins, in Westfield. There is a statute which provides that any justice who acts as an attorney in another's court may be sued for $50 and that the plaintiff may or may not be concerned in the case in which the justice acted as attorney. Barnett was the plaintiff in the suit in which Rapp appeared as attorney.

Judge Guild reserved his decision and ordered both attorneys in the case to submit briefs.

THE EIGHT WONDER.

The Daring Leap of a Trick Diver at Boynton Beach.

An eighth wonder has already been added to the world known seven. This latest and most marvelous, is the daring leap which Paul Ebner, a professional trick diver and jumper, takes every day at Boynton Beach. There are few attractions in any place which will draw greater crowds, than an act of daring; wherein a man relies mainly upon his nerve force to carry him through a hazardous feat. The act does not seem so dangerous when a description is written of it, and yet when one sees a man on the top of a high tower, preparing to make his leap, it also forces one to turn away for fear that some accident may happen. Every afternoon at 4 o'clock, the thousands of people who have come from all around to see this wonderful feat, gather along the water's edge, and wait breathlessly until the performance begins.

A Chance for Philanthropy.

The ambulance has had new springs fitted to it by the makers, and now it rides much easier than before. The Hospital authorities say that to make the ambulance what it should be, rubber tires should be put on the wheels. A set of rubber tires will cost $85, and the hospital, already in debt, and with a houseful of patients, cannot afford the outlay. The opportunity is a good one for some liberal friend to make the ride easy and quiet for very sick and injured sufferer who hereafter has to occupy the ambulance.

Charles Smith's Trolley Party.

Charles Smith is going to give a trolley party to a number of his friends on Thursday evening. The party will start from the North Avenue station at 7 o'clock in a car specially decorated for the occasion. The different lines will be covered and the party will reach Netherwood at 9 o'clock when they will be met by a stage which will convey all to Emery's hotel in Scotch Plains where dinner will be served. The party will return at 12 o'clock to the Netherwood terminus and ride to Plainfield.

—A meeting of the Retail Dealers Association of this city will be held on Monday evening.

THE DREAM OF FANCIED SECURITY

in which the inhabitants of Westfield have been indulging for the past three weeks has been rudely disturbed by a renewal of robberies in the town; and the citizens find themselves again called upon to consider the burglar question in all its phases.

The house of Henry R. Forster on Academy place was entered by burglars early tuesday morning and a pocketbook containing $25, and a small amount of silverware, were taken. The intruders gained entrance by boring through the sash of a dining room window and sliding back the catch.

The pocketbook and the silverware were taken from the dining room. The thieves did not visit the upper part of the house, and it is supposed they were frightened away by Mrs. Forster, who was all during the night and morning and walked about several times.

The burglars also visited the house of Wm. Hackett, which is next to the Forster house, but they were frightened away before gaining entrance. In their haste to leave the latter place they dropped a chisel, which was found in the morning lying near the back porch.

At night an attempt was made to enter a residence on Dudley avenue. Members of the family were awakened by the noise of someone attempting to force open a shutter, and a moment later two men were seen to walk away from the house and disappear. A dining room window bore the marks of a chisel.

It is tacitly understood that the Westfield Township committee has employed County Detective John Keron to investigate the burglaries. The excitement, which had subsided somewhat, is at its height again in the town.

SPLASH! THEN A RESCUE.

Little John Connolly Came Near Ending His Life in Tier's Lake.

Little John Connolly, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Connolly, of 338 East Third street, left home about 2 o'clock tuesday afternoon in company with his sister Lizzie, aged five, and his cousin, John Ryle, aged nine years, to visit the merry-go round, which is in operation near the Watchung avenue bridge. It came near being the last pleasure trip of the young lad's life, for when the children reached the bridge they went to the race which runs from Tier's lake and amused themselves playing about near the gates where the water is many feet deep. Suddenly the Connolly lad slipped. There was a splash and the waters of the race closed over his head.

Young Kyle, with great presence of mind, grasped the clothing of the struggling child when he came to the surface, and holding on yelled lustily for help. A young man employed at the merry-go-round heard the cries and arrived in time to pull the boy, almost insensible, from the water. With the aid of Special Policeman John Gettleson, the little fellow was taken to his home on East Third street and was soon none the worse for his narrow escape.

When a Daily Press reporter called at the house yesterday the child was playing unconcernedly about the house.

Advantages of New Garbage Disposal.

The Plainfield Sanitary Company, who will commence the operation of their garbage disposal plant in a few days, believe that the advantages of their system should be recognized by all householders in view of the following facts: Garbage cans are returned steam-cleaned and having no smell; does away with unhealthy public dumps; garbage is effectually disposed of by cremation; cleanliness of collection system; collection cans air tight and allowing no smell to escape; clean and neat appearance of drivers in uniform; ash cans afford a receptacle for bottles, tin cans, house sweepings, grass and rubbish of all sorts.

His Money Stolen at the Park.

Edgar I. Serrell, son of Councilman Serrell, of Plainfield avenue, was touched for $6.50 at Asbury Park Tuesday while he was in the water bathing. He left his clothing in the bathhouse in which was the money. When he returned he found that someone had entered the room and relieved him of his cash. There was no hope of his recovering the money and he was obliged to suffer the loss.

AGED, HALE AND HEARTY.

William B. Stewart Passed His Eighty-Second Birthday.

GREETED BY ALL HIS OLD FRIENDS.

Retains His Health and Mind as Though He Was in the Prime of Life—P. P. VanArsdale, Who Went to School With Him in His Youth, Composed a Few Choice Lines of Poetry in Honor of the Event.

To have lived four score and two years and yet retain your good health and mental faculties is not accorded to all, but such is the good fortune of William B. Stewart who Tuesday celebrated that event and was pleasantly surprised by a gathering of friends who came to congratulate him.

Mr. Stewart has lived nearly all his years in this particular section of New Jersey, and now resides with Thomas Van Nest at South Plainfield. To use a favored expression, he is hale and hearty. His appearance is not that of an aged man, but one who has well passed the meridian of life and yet retains the strength and vigor of his younger days.

Tuesday afternoon Mr. Stewart was agreeably greeted from 1 to 6 o'clock by the gathering of some of his old friends who had not forgotten his natal day. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baldwin, Mrs. Harry Thompson and Miss Edna Thompson, Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Bird, Mr. and Mrs. P. P. VanArsdale, Mr. and Mrs. George Rockfellow, Mrs. S. C. Beck, A.-Willett, F. P. Dumont, Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. T. VanNest and the Misses VanNest, of South Plainfield.

After the visitors had all arrived a social time was enjoyed, the talk being one of a reminiscent nature. Refreshments were also served in plenty.

P. P. VanArsdale, who has known Mr. Stewart since he was a small lad, and having in fact attended school with him, wrote the following verses in honor of the event, which were read by him at the party:

We come on this your eighty-second birthday,
Inspired with loving hearts, to you we say
We love long, though long you've lived your friends to cheer.
Life seems too short to reckon by the year.
Identified with all that's just and right,
Always the same, though in or out of sight.
Magnetic sympathising, sincere friend,
Behold! Your life with our dear Lord, doth blend.
Spared by the grace of that dear Lord, we're here
To celebrate your eighty-second birth year.
Erect and stately, mentally quite sound,
We find you busy in our daily round.
Except best wishes for your future days,
I can't these poor rhymes and lines and lays.
These greetings from our heart of hearts, always.

A COSTLY CYCLE RIDE.

While Out for a Spin Frank Eick Loses a Roll of $27.

Last Monday afternoon Frank Eick and John Daly, of this city, took a spin on their bikes to Elizabeth. It was an expensive trip for the former as he lost $27 out of his pocket. It was on the return and the two stopped at Westfield at the water fountain near the centre of the town. They quenched their thirsts and sat down for a few minutes to rest. While seated on the ground Mr. Eick took a handkerchief from the pocket in which was the bank containing the $27. He never gave the money a thought until he reached his home and he then looked for it. It was sometime after his return that he discovered his loss, and it was then too late to return to the place where he thinks that the money was dropped. Tuesday, Mr. Eick rode to the place but did not find the money.

THE CHARGE DISMISSED.

A Scotch Plains Blacksmith Wrongly Accused of Theft.

John Wilson was given a hearing before Justice Clark, of Scotch Plains, Tuesday, on a charge of grand larceny preferred by John Moran.

Moran and Wilson with a number of companions were at the house of Larry Wallace on Sunday, and when the gathering broke up Moran missed his gold watch and charged Wilson with having taken it. Both men are blacksmiths in the village.

At the hearing Tuesday a number of witnesses were subpoenaed. The evidence against Wilson was not deemed strong enough, however, and he was discharged.

Not Quite so Large This Year.

Last year the Baptists took two hundred more people on their excursion than they did Tuesday. This year there was 595 adults and 245 children. The excursion was not a paying one and there is a shortage on the profit side. The day was a perfect one and everyone had a thoroughly enjoyable time. No accidents happened to mar the pleasure of anyone and the excursion-ists arrived home safe, sound and in good season.

CHIEF WITNESS ABSENT.

Illegal Liquor Case Again Postponed.

WILLIAM PARSONS WAS NON EST.

It is on His Testimony That the Police Officials Base Their Charges, But All Efforts to Find Him This Morning Proved Fruitless—Defendant's Counsel Not Ready to Defend the Other Charges Today.

There was a large crowd in the Council Chamber, yesterday, ready to hear the trial of Lawrence Kerwin, on the charge of selling liquor from a wagon without a license. At the request of the prisoner's counsel, Former Councilman Walter L. Hetfield, twenty of Plainfield's prominent business men assembled for jury duty.

The complaint was made by William Parsons, one of the dusky denizens of Paridise Alley, who was the principal witness in the case. He alleged that Kerwin sold him several bottles of beer on April 17th without their being ordered. When the court was ready, word was passed to City Judge DeMeza that Parsons was not there. Then began a long weary wait for the arrival of the witness. The case was set down for 10 o'clock, but Parsons never came. Several policemen were sent out to look for him but there was nothing to be seen of Parsons.

The jurors waited impatiently and suggested that they ought to be discharged. Roundsman Flynn returned from Parsons' house with the information that he was not there and the Judge decided to adjourn the case for the day.

There was another charge against Kerwin for selling six bottles of beer to George W. Gulaskie on May 8th. The Judge called that case and there was a decided opposition on the part of the defendant's lawyer. He had understood that the Parsons case was to come up first and was not prepared on the other. The Judge reminded him that both cases had been set down for yesterday, but Hetfield replied that the Parsons case had not been tried yet and that he would be ready for the other case when that one was disposed of.

Former Judge Nelson Runyon, who acted as prosecutor in the absence of Corporation Counsel Marsh, agreed with Mr. Hetfield and on his recommendation, the Judge adjourned the two cases until Wednesday of next week at 10 o'clock in the Council Chambers.

DINED ON THE MOUNTAIN.

Enjoyable Parties Given by Plainfielders Tuesday Night.

There were two dinner parties at the Mountain Park Inn last Tuesday. One was given by James A. McGee, of Willow avenue. The party consisted of James A. McGee, Walter M. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob R. Joy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Horne, George A. Horne, and Miss French, of Plainfield, and Mrs. E. G. Ashbrook, of Philadelphia.

The other party was given by Dr. William H. Murray, of Watchung avenue. The guests were Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Machado, Miss Hartley, J. P. Murray, and L. C. Ryce, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Warren, of Passaic, and F. W. Boller, of Cranford.

TROLLEY LINES BEGIN WORK.

Men are Setting Poles and Locating Routes Through Bound Brook.

Work was begun on both trolley lines at Bound Brook Tuesday. The Brunswick Traction Company put 20 men at work in front of R. H. Swayze's residence, just beyond the borough limits. The New York and Philadelphia Company put about twenty-five men at work setting the ties in the trenches and then covering them, waiting for the Town Committeemen's report concerning a franchise.

Mr. MacAfee, superintendent of the New York and Philadelphia Company, said that the ties were being stolen, and he thought this the best and cheapest way to keep them.

H. M. Herbert, surveyor for the New York and Philadelphia Company, is at on surveying into the borough limits, and is now in front of the M. E. church. The Council has not yet given the franchise to any company.

Mr. MacAfee thinks he will have the trolley running in sixty days.

Charged with Assault and Battery.

Mrs. Bertha Richter, of East Third street, appeared before Justice of the Peace Moffett yesterday and swore out a complaint charging Bertha Wolffe, a neighbor, with assaulting her eleven year old daughter, Mary Richter. The hearing is being held this afternoon.

J. Fred MacDonald, of East Front street, was in Long Branch Tuesday on business. While there he was the guest of John Spitler, formerly of this city, but now of the Ocean House.

UNDER A SILVER MOON.

Y. M. C. A. Bicycle Division Had a Pleasant Run.

EAST ORANGE THE DESTINATION.

Captain Cummings Was the Pacemaker and the Cool Atmosphere Made the Trip One of Great Pleasure—Entertained in a Royal Manner—Assistant Secretary Bristol's Song a Great Hit.

The bicycle division of the Y. M. C. A. enjoyed a run by moonlight to Orange last Thursday. Eleven members gathered at the hall at 7:30 o'clock, and a few minutes later the start was made, with Capt. Cummings as pacemaker. The evening was a perfect one, delightfully cool, with no dust on the roads, and with the full silver moon just poking its nose over the horizon. The distance of fifteen miles between this city and Orange was covered in a little less than an hour and a half, the party arriving at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters there a little after 8:30.

They were royally welcomed by Charles T. Kilborn, president of the association, and a number of the members. Visiting delegations were also present from the associations in Morristown, Summit, Passaic, Elizabeth and Rahway.

The visitors were treated to refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and lemonade. A varied programme was then given which included a number of piano solos by Mr. Page, of Orange, several humorous selections by Mr. Kilborn, president of the association, and recitations and exhibitions of ventriloquism by F. O. Bristol, of this city. Mr. Bristol was recalled a number of times, and at length the cyclers called for his dog song, which was given to the great amusement of the audience.

At the close of the entertainment a social time was enjoyed. The return was made without a mishap, the division leaving Orange at about 10:45 o'clock. The moon was high overhead, and threw a flood of light upon the landscape which rendered it almost as bright as day. The homeward pace was a brisk one, the whole distance being made at the rate of thirteen miles an hour. Plainfield was reached before midnight, and the wheelmen voted the run one of the most successful in their experience.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS BIG DAY.

Will Hold a Field Day at South Amboy on September 6.

Members of the Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, from all parts of New Jersey will assemble at South Amboy on Labor Day, September 6, when the annual field day of the order will be held.

It is expected that from five to six thousand Knights of Pythias will be in attendance. The arrangements for the observance of the day are in charge of Good Samaritan Lodge, No. 52, of South Amboy, assisted by Red Cross Division, Uniformed Rank, of the same town. F. E. DeGraw, Past District Deputy Grand Chancellor, will be the grand marshall of the parade which will be held.

Arrangements are being made for a competitive drill, and a reception will be held, at which Dr. Ambrose Tregaonwan, the Mayor, will deliver an address of welcome. The Hon. John W. Griggs, Governor of New Jersey, has been invited to be present. In the evening a ball will be held in the Pytian Hall.

Several committees have been entrusted with the work of preparing the programme and the reception of the visitors, and among the most active workers are Bernard Roddy, Joseph Wilson, Jr., and Stephen Martin. It will be a great day for South Amboy, and her citizens are making elaborate preparations to make the most of it.

TOLD TWO TALES AND GAVE TICKETS.

How the Wallace Circus Escaped Paying a License at Somerville.

There is now much amusement at the expense of the Raritan Board of Commissioners, who, it is alleged, were "done out" of a $50 license fee paid by the big Wallace circus to the Somerville commissioners for pitching their tents within the corporate limits of Raritan.

It is stated that all the Raritan Commissioners got out of it were tickets to the circus.

Investigation proves that the Somerville Commissioners did not fare any better than their Raritan brethren, and that both governing bodies are the victims of the wily circus men.

When Clerk Suthpen, of the Somerville Board, presented the license contract, previously signed by the advance agent of the circus, for payment, he was informed that the the circus was in the corporate limits of Raritan, and out of his jurisdiction. When a representative of the Raritan Board demanded a fee, he was told that it had already been paid to the Somerville Commissioners.

The close proximity of the circus to the corporate line, fooled the Commissioners and allowed the circus man to decamp with the pleasure of having "beat the town."

BIG SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

Drainage Lines Would Reach From Jersey City to Trenton.

COST $400,000 TO BE ESTABLISHED.

Engineer Gavett Says That Tidewater Disposal Was Rejected Because the Sewage Would Have to be Pumped Over an Elevation of Not Less Than 120 Feet to Martin's Dock in the Rahway River.

The New York Evening Post recently published the following about the sewerage system of Plainfield:

Four towns in Union county have completed municipal sewerage systems within the last twelve months. The drainage lines, if connected, would stretch out fifty six miles, or would reach from Jersey City to Trenton. The cost of the improvements is about four hundred thousand dollars. Of the four, Plainfield and Westfield have adopted the disposal-bed system; Cranford and Roselle sewage is discharged in salt water.

Engineer Gavett, who supervised the construction of the Plainfield system, says that the plan of the tide-water disposal was rejected because the nearest available outlet in salt water was at Martin's Dock, in the Raritan River, nine miles from the city. To reach this point, the sewage would have had to be pumped over an elevation of 120 feet, and it was feared that the shores of the river might be polluted by the discharged material. A system of disposal-beds was therefore decided upon, and a tract of land fifty acres in extent was purchased for the purpose by the Plainfield Common Council. Of this tract, only a portion is used now for sewage disposal. Part of the remainder is devoted to farming, and part was excavated to procure material for filling the beds, which are approximately 200x225 feet in size.

The sewage reaches the farm from the city through a twenty-four inch main, terminating in a screen tank. Under a frame building are the two screen chambers, each 525 feet, with perpendicular screens of round rods one inch apart. The sewage passes upward through the screens, which keep back all coarse material. Only one screen chamber is used at a time; the other, meanwhile, being emptied and cleaned. From the screen tank the thin sewage flows through wooden distributing channels with openings in the sides, and is spread over the beds.

Experiments made late last year showed that the beds are very rich. For carrying off the overflow from the beds a series of tile drains is laid in the subsoil. These drains discharge a bright, clear, and odorless liquid into the brook running through the tract. The force employed at the farm consists of the manager and two laborers. A horse is needed about one-half of the time. No rain-water is admitted to Plainfield's sewers, so that the flow is quite uniform, averaging 222,500 gallons a day. The system consists of over twenty-three and one-half miles of piping. The cost of the work—including the $23,600 paid for disposal-bed land—was $160,000. During the short period in which Plainfield's system has been in operation, no trouble from stoppages has arisen, and everything is now working satisfactorily.

In many respects Westfield's sewer system is a reproduction of Plainfield's on a smaller scale. The township owns and operates a disposal field a mile and a half southwest of the village, the cost of which was $8,434.99. One man takes entire charge of the beds, with occasional aid in removing the heavy sludge from the screen tank. In the business portion of Westfield, great trouble was formerly experienced with ground water; and, prior to the construction of the sewer system with its accompanying underdrains, no cellars could be dug in a large area. The sewer underdrains have given entire relief from the ground water, making possible the construction of cellars under buildings heretofore impossible, and the draining of cellars formerly wet during rainy weather. There are about nine and one half miles of laterals and three miles of mains in the system. The laterals, with underdrains, cost $3,200 per mile; the mains, $5,900 per mile. The total cost of constructing the sewers and disposal beds was $60,180.

CYCLIST BROKE BABY'S LEG.

The Youngster Was Playing in the Road and Was Run Into.

James Hanson, aged 3 1-2 years, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson, of Samptown, was crossing the roadway in front of his home Thursday afternoon when he was run into by a cyclist and knocked down. The rider was going rather fast and was unable to stop quick enough to prevent the accident. The little lad was severely injured and soon afterward he was found by his mother. He was brought to the Muhlenberg Hospital as quickly as possible and an examination proved that there was a fracture of the leg. Proper treatment was given and it will probably be six weeks before the youngster will be able to leave the hospital. The name of cyclist is not known.

MRS. MARY M. MORSE, Past Department President of the New Jersey W. R. C.

ABOUT A NOBLE ORDER.

A Few Facts About the Women's Relief Corps.

TRIBUTE OF WORDS TO MRS MORSE.

She is a North Plainfield Woman and is Past Department President—Served the Order as Its Chief Officer in New Jersey for More Than Two Years—The Order is One of Relief.

Mary M. Morse, of North Plainfield, Past Department President of the New Jersey Woman's Relief Corps, has issued the following report and cordial greeting, which shows the aims and strength of this noble order:

"We have in this State 833 loyal women who have banded themselves together to work with a will for all that promotes the welfare of the soldier.

"We take great pleasure in offering for public inspection all that figures can show of the work of our department during my administration of twenty-nine months. We expended for relief $1,357.92; turned over to Posts, $1,325.82; extended for Memorial Day, $378.66; National Woman's Relief Corps, at Madison, Ohio, $70.24; making a total expenditure for relief in twenty-nine months of $3,032.64; gained in membership 202. Total amount of cash on hand in both general and relief funds, $1,249.81.

"Not only do we bring for your inspection from the women of our own loyal State, but from the 140,000 women of our national organization, who in every part of this broad land are doing a work of relief that is unparalleled in the history of the world.

"It is not charity that we dispense, but the loving, tender recognition, humble though it may be, to the heroes who offered life and more to protect the flag of our country.

"This national organization, of which we are a part, during the year of 1896 expended for relief $139,352.57, and the total expended for relief since its organization in 1883 is $1,373,111.42, not including the year of 1897.

"Eligibility to membership in this grand order is: Women of good moral character and correct deportment, who have not given aid and comfort to the enemies of the Union, who would perpetuate the principles to which this association stands pledged, and who have attained the age of sixteen years.

"Our motto is 'Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty,' remembering always the sacred object for which we are banded together, and by word and action, prove we honor and are worthy to be called the true auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic."

At the fifteenth annual department convention, held at Atlantic City, June 3th, the following was adopted as a tribute and recognition of Mrs. Morse's services:

"The universal opinion is expressed throughout the Department of New Jersey that Mrs. Morse has proven herself a careful and efficient executive officer and we wish to express our appreciation of her unselfish devotion to all that represents Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty, and of her true Patriotism and love for the Union Veterans.

"And while she retires so gracefully from the high office in which we have placed her, we know that while her life and health is spared, she will not rest upon her honors, but will ever be active and vigilant to help uphold all the honored principles to which our order stands pledged."

Responsible Contractors.

Somerville appreciates the worth of competent contractors, as is proven by the fact that William Hand & Son, the contractors of Plainfield, are excavating the cellars for five stores in Somerville, and have had as many as twenty men and nine teams of horses at work on the contract at one time. We can assure the people of Somerville that they made no mistake in selecting Messrs. Hand & Son, as they are among Plainfield's most reliable contractors.

LOCKJAW CAUSED DEATH

The Malady Caused by Injuries Received in a Runaway.

W. P. PERRY WAS THE AFFLICTED ONE

Formerly Resided on Rockview Avenue in the Borough—Mr. Perry Hurled Down an Embankment at Tivoli-on-the-Hudson and Sustained Injuries on the Right Leg That Caused Him Lockjaw—A Clothier.

W. P. Perry, who until July 15th lived at 10 Rockview terrace, died at Tivoli on-the Hudson, near Poughkeepsie, last week from lockjaw, the result of injuries received by being thrown from his carriage in a runaway on Monday.

Mr. Perry was out driving with his coachman when the reins became entangled in some manner with the harness, and, in the effort to extricate them, the horse was frightened and ran wildly along a road along a high embankment.

The carriage was overturned and Mr. Perry and the driver were both hurled down the embankment and badly cut. Mr. Perry's wounds were mostly about the right leg, and in spite of the efforts of physicians who were summoned at once, the injuries soon resulted in dangerous symptoms, and on Wednesday lockjaw ensued. The injured man suffered great agony. His wife was at his side during the terrible ordeal, and did much to alleviate his sufferings. The end came last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry came to North Plainfield last November and rented the house of Morgan S. Taylor, where they remained until about one month ago. They were wealthy, and were known to the people of this city for their fine horses and carriages. Mr. Perry was connected with the wholesale dry goods firm of Flint, Kent & Co., of Buffalo, N. Y.

They had engaged the house in Tivoli for only two months, at the close of which time they intended going to Europe for a long sojourn.

GETTING MARRIED IN JERSEY.

The Attorney-General Says a Non-Resident Must Procure a License.

Attorney-General Gray has given in a personal letter his construction of a portion of the Lloyd Marriage Licehse law, which may make considerable difference to matrimonially inclined couples. The first section of the law provides that when two persons, both residing out of the State, desire to be married in New Jersey they must procure a license. This is the way the law has been construed thus far.

Another section of the law, the eleventh, prohibits ministers or Justices of the Peace from a marrying couple either of whom lives outside the State without a license.

To Supply a Long-felt Want.

A company has just been organized in New Brunswick for the manufacture of a new enamel, which, it is claimed, will supply a long-felt want in the electrical world, because it is an absolute non conductor. The new enamel is a coating which can be applied to metals of all sorts, and possesses great durability, as well as non-conducting properties. The company will begin business with a capital of $100,000, and is now negotiating for the rental of a large factory site in New Brunswick.

To Take the Office His Father Held.

Dr. D. C. English, President of the Medical Society of New Jersey, has appointed Dr. William Pierson, of Orange, third vice-president of the society, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. John J. H. Love, of Montclair. He has also appointed Dr. William J. Chandler, of South Orange, recording secretary of the society in place of Dr. William Pierson, resigned.

—The harness thief is still operating in Springfield. Thursday night a rear window in the barn of John C. Harvard, of Salter place, was broken open and harness taken.

DID NOT FOLLOW PLANS.

Ice Company Officials Blamed for Collapse of the Dam.

WHAT ENGINEER WOLTMANN SAYS.

Claims That Upon Their Own Responsibility the Ice Company Failed to Comply With One of the Most Important Specifications—They Were Notified of the Danger But Did Not Heed.

E Woltmann, the well-known civil engineer who resides in this city, wrote the following letter to the Mayor of North Plainfield from Denver, Col., under date of August 9th, in reference to the collapse of the Washingtonville dam on account of the heavy rains of last month:

Denver, Col., August 9, 1897.

To His Honor, the Mayor of North Plainfield, N. J.:

Information has reached me here that the dam in Washington Valley, which was constructed by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, has given way and, inasmuch as I have had some connection with the matter, it appears that I have been blamed in some quarters for faulty construction, which might have caused the accident.

I am being detained here by important business matters, and shall not be able to reach Plainfield for a couple of weeks, and I, therefore, write you to explain my connection with the matter, so that you should fully understand what has been done.

In the winter Mr. Morton called upon me and stated that the company, of which he was secretary, had undertaken to construct a dam across Washington Valley, where they proposed to impound the water coming from the mountains, so as to use it for the purposes of obtaining ice with which to supply their customers. They had had plans drawn, and the actual work of construction had been carried forward to a considerable extent, when the authorities of the borough of North Plainfield employed a consulting engineer in order to satisfy themselves that the construction of the dam was absolutely safe. It having been stated that the work done was not of a sufficiently solid nature.

This engineer reported that the structure was unsafe and, that if completed on the lines on which it was begun, it would certainly be carried away by the first flood. The company, finding itself in this dilemma, asked me whether I would undertake to advise them, and recognizing the fact that they had undertaken a piece of work with which they were hardly familiar, I took great pleasure in giving them the best advice I could.

A careful, personal exhibition by two disinterested engineers soon convinced me that the dam, as then being constructed, would never last more than one season, and I had, therefore, plans and specifications prepared, which, if carried out, would insure the safety of the structure beyond any doubt.

In order to show my good will and my desire to be of service to some of our towns people, I made no charge whatever for the work done, but I stipulated that if they adopted my suggestions and agreed to carry out the work according to the plans and specifications, which I had submitted to them, the work must be done under the supervision of my own engineer, and all I asked them to do was to pay said engineer his regular monthly salary. The various interviews and a full discussion of all the points at issue, the plan and specifications were somewhat altered so as to meet the requirements without going to any unnecessary expense, and thereupon the work of reconstructing the dam and embankments was commenced.

Business required my departure for California just about that time, and I left orders with the engineer in charge to insist upon the carrying out of the work of construction strictly in accordance with the terms of the specifications, and that, should this not be done, he was to give the company notice in writing, and draw attention to the fact that the work must, under our agreement, be done absolutely in accordance with the plans laid down, as otherwise the safety of the structure would be in danger.

Soon after that I learned that the work had been adjusted, and that our instructions had not been followed, and, therefore, the letter, of which the following is a copy, was sent to the Plainfield Ice & Cold Storage Company. It reads as follows:

New York, June 18th, 1897.

As you know, the specifications of Woltmann, Keith & Co., call for a core wall in both the earth embankments so as to have them equally solid in all their points. Nowhere these specifications will not have been fully carried out if your company does not have the core wall built in the northern embankment as it has been built in the southern embankment. This wall is absolutely necessary, as otherwise, as I have stated, the specifications are not completely fulfilled. It will also be necessary that the bottom of the core wall be gather behind the dam of riprap should be finished, and this ought to be is inches above and is inches below the water line. Please let me know if the decision your company has taken as regards Mr. Texier's proposition.

(Signed) A. H. Frankfort.

The engineer then upon had a further interview with the officers of the company, and it was agreed that our ideas should be carried out and the work was then resumed, but when he found that further alterations were being made by the company, and that the company refused to carry out the most important feature of our plan, another letter was sent to them, of which the following is a copy:

New York, June 21st, 1897.

Please take notice that according to your letter of 18th inst., the whole responsibility in case of accident now rests exclusively with your company. This for the reason that the specifications have been slighted by not building the core wall in the northern embankment, and second, by allowing the water to gather behind the dam before the embankment was impapped, or even completed, thus leaving deep holes at the foot of the same, and so causing large cracks to form in the slopes which I noticed on my last visit on the 16th of this month.

I shall, of course, acquaint Mr. Woltmann with the decision taken by your company, and it will then rest with him to take such steps as may be deemed advisable to clear his name of all disaster which may take place in future.

For the present, in Mr. Woltmann's absence, I beg to notify you formally that the specifications have not been complied with.

Truly yours,

(Signed) A. H. Frankfort.

This ended my connection with the building of the dam in Washington Valley, and I consider it due to my firm and myself that these facts should be put plainly before you, because I cannot assume the responsibility for the disaster which has occurred, all of which could have been prevented had the plans been carried out which were submitted, and which were drawn by experienced engineers, who had absolutely no interest in the matter, except that they proposed to have the work done in such a way as to make it safe and lasting.

I have personally pointed out to the officers of the company on more than one occasion, the absolute folly of attempting to build a dam without strengthening it, so that it could not be affected by a sudden rush of water, but it appears that the company has chosen to adopt its own methods, and to carry out its own ideas, which have resulted, as I predicted long ago, in disaster.

On my return to Plainfield, I am perfectly willing to place before you the copy of the plans and specifications, which, when submitted to your consulting engineer, will be found to meet the requirements in the premises.

Yours very truly,

E. Woltmann.

STATE FAIR PLANS.

Agricultural Society Members Express Views Bearing Upon Them.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the New Jersey State Agricultural Society a pledge was given to the National Association of Implement and Carriage Manufacturers, embracing about 100 firms, that while farming implements and vehicles that no permits would be granted for midway attractions or immoral shows of any kind within the fair grounds. Gambling of every sort will be suppressed, the committee decided.

The trotting races, for which $6,400 in purses hung up, will be the attraction for the first four days, but the committee was undecided as to what card to present for the last day of the fair. The members were divided in opinion as to the expediency of having horse racing on a bicycle meet, and the selection was laid over, but the "silent steeds" promise to win out in the end. It was reported that the track had been badly damaged by the recent heavy rains. Two deep gullies at the turns on either side of the quarter-pat were worn away by the water, but men have already been put to work getting the circuit back in shape.

BICYCLE CLUB'S FETE.

Pretentious Carnival in Preparation at New Brunswick.

Dr. Harvey Iredall, president of the Brunswick Bicycle Club, of New Brunswick, has appointed a carnival committee to arrange for a carnival to be held in the latter part of August or September. The committee is composed of William Miller, Jr.; John Wall, Ralph Boyd, Charles McCormack and Theodore Whitlock. Power to make all the necessary arrangements has been delegated to the committee. It is possible that the carnival will be held on Labor Day, September 6, when the Brunswick Boat Club will hold a regatta on the Raritan river.

The Brunswick Bicycle Club held a carnival two years ago and thousands of persons went there to witness the spectacle. Six hundred wheelmen with their bicycles gorgeously decorated and illuminated, participated in the affair. The residents of Livingston avenue, where it was held, entered into the spirit of the occasion and illuminated and decorated their residences profusely for the event. The committee will make an effort to eclipse anything of the kind that has ever been given in this part of the state.

Activity in Real Estate.

Among the recent deals in real estate made by Charles H. Hand are the following: Sale of house and lot on Manson place to William Winkler; sale of house and lot on East Sixth street to James C. Homan; sale of house and lot on East Sixth street to L. B. Hand; sale of lot on East Sixth street to David N. Force, sale of lot on LaGrande avenue to F. M. Mason

COVETED A JERSEY CALF.

And Now Lewis Perrine Must Answer a Grand Larceny Charge.

TOOK IT WITHOUT LEAVE OF OWNER.

While the Matter of Its Sale Was Being Arranged it is Charged by the Owner, Homer Smalley, That Perrine Went to the Barnyard, Lifted the Calf Into His Wagon and Drove Off—Arrested and Held

Lewis Perrine, of Bound Brook, is in serious trouble because he coveted his neighbor's thoroughbred Jersey calf, and, it is charged, made off with the animal without its owner's consent.

One day last week Perrine, who is a farmer, drove to the house of a neighbor named Smalley, and began to negotiate for the purchase of a certain Jersey calf. Ever since it came upon the Smalley farm, Perrine has had an extravagant admiration for the calf, which is the property of Mrs. Smalley. She would not sell the animal, however, without consulting her husband, and he was away at the time, so she invited Perrine to wait until he returned.

On his return and hour later, Smalley met Perrine, and on being told what his business was, invited him to wait a short time while he finished a business transaction with a neighbor down the road. Smalley departed, and he had no sooner gone than Perrine went to the barn, and siezing the coveted calf, tied its feet together, and, placing it in his wagon, drove away.

The women about the place remonstrated with him, but, it is said, Perrine continued on his way with the calf, heeding not their protests. When Smalley returned and learned of the deed of his predatory neighbor, he went before Justice of the Peace Brampton, of Bound Brook, and swore out a warrant for Perrine's arrest on the charge of larceny. Perrine was arrested, and after examination was held under bonds to await the action of the Somerset county grand jury.

Swackhamer & Williams, of this city, who represent Smalley in the proceedings, have also brought a civil action against Perrine to recover damages for the unlawful taking of the calf.

WRIT OF GARNISHMENT.

Young Cannot Get His Money Until a Board Bill is Settled.

Charles Reading, formerly of this city, is the plaintiff in an interesting case which is now pending in the Hunterdon county courts. John Young, the defendant in the suit, has owed the plaintiff a bill for some time. After contracting the debt Young managed to get his business affairs in such form that Reading found it impossible to collect the amount due him, as there were no goods belonging to the defendant which were available under an execution.

Swackhamer & Williams, of this city, who were the plaintiff's attorneys, were fortunate enough to discover that James F. Pidcock, a wealthy man, and president of the Rockaway Valley Railroad, held in his possession certain amounts of money which were due Young, and a writ of garnishment was at once served upon Pidcock, which instructed him to retain in his possession all the money claimed by Young until the court should decide whether Young or Reading was entitled to receive it. The decision upon this point has not yet been rendered.

MANY AT THE ROCK.

Union Sunday-school Picnic Was a Big Success.

The union Sunday-school picnic, which was held at Washington Rock Thursday, was more largely attended than say held in former years.

Sunday-schools from all over the township were in attendance, while six large stages from this city were full on each trip they made. Good speeches were made by Rev. Geo. Bowers, Rev. H. D. Opdyke and many other divines present, while good singing by the schools and music by Prof. Gottman's band was enjoyed by a great many.

The only excitement of the day was caused by the sudden dash of rain about 2:30, when everybody was obliged to seek shelter for a short time. A young lady who is visiting friends in this city accidentally tripped and fell against an obstruction fastened to a farm wagon, and injured her way. Friends carried her out of the crowd and she soon recovered.

The committee had not anticipated such a crowd, and all the refreshments were disposed of at about 5 o'clock.

Elizabeth Democrats' Outing.

There will be a large muster of Democrats at Elizabeth, Monday, August 31, at the annual outing of the Democratic City Committee. It will take the form of a sail by steamer to Whitestone, L.I., where a banquet will be served. Many country, State and national Democratic celebrities will be present, and the local Democrats will be there in full force. Their meeting will be the final act of the amalgamation of the gold and silver Democrats.

SOME TROLLEY FACTS.

Plainfield Road the Cheapest in the State.

COST $20,000 A MILE TO CONSTRUCT.

The Local System Has Nine Miles of Track and Seems to Be Managed the Most Economically—One-tenth the Cost of the Consolidated Traction Company's Tracks — Capital Invested.

A supplemental report of the State Board of Assessors, giving advanced statistics regarding the electric and street railroads in the State for the year 1895, shows the total receipts of all the street railroads in the State for the year to be $5,770,171, against $5,056,598 in 1895, an increase of $713,573. The expenditures were $3,546,168, against $3,431,291 in 1895, an increase of $144,295, and dividends paid $194,220, against $117,320 in 1895, an increase of $6,900.

The number of miles of track in the State is 613; capital stock paid in, $38,935,150; funded debt, $36,420,493, and other debts, $4,279,396; total of capital and funded and unfunded debt, $78,935,039.

The total cost of the railroads, including the equipment and appurtenances, is put at $80,011,559, an average of $130,600 per mile of track. The total assessed valuation of the steam railroads in the State, including roadbed, equipment, depots and depot grounds, terminals, bridges, franchises and all other tangible and personal property, is less than $95,000 per mile.

The reports of the different companies are uniform in style. The Consolidated Traction Company, which eventually expects to control the Plainfield Street Railway, has a mileage of 175 miles; capital stock, $15,000,000; funded debt, $14,545,000, and other debts, $825,688; total, $30,398,688. The cost of the road and equipment is put at $35,582,645, an average per mile of $202,700, more than half as much again as the average for all the roads in the State. The gross receipts of the Consolidated Traction Company for the year were $2,800,582 and expenditures $1,468,440. With the Consolidated Traction Company is included the mileage of the Jersey City and Bergen, Jersey City, Harrison and Kearney; Newark Passenger; Newark Plank Road and New Jersey Traction Companies. These companies have a capital stock and funded debt of $19,788,000.

The enormous average cost per mile as reported to the State Board of Assessors by the Consolidated Traction Company, will attract general attention. The average cost is $202,700. The Trenton electric roads have a mileage of 34 miles at a cost of $75,000 per mile. The Plainfield Electric Road has a mileage of nine miles at a cost of about $20,000 per mile. This is the least cost of any of the roads in the State, and the road seems to be the most economically managed. The cost of the Plainfield road is less than one-tenth of the cost of the Consolidated Traction Company's, and the cost of the Trenton road about one-third the cost of the Newark road.

BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

A New Feature to Be Added on the Central Scranton Trains

The officials of the Central Railroad are about to introduce a new feature in the way of train service which will meet with the approval of the rapidly increasing traffic of this popular road. It is the intention of the officials to make trains Nos. 12 and 13 vestibuled, like the Royal Blue Line. These trains run between New York and Scranton. The ride is quite a long one and the officials have been anxious to make the trip as comfortable as possible. These trains will be equipped in every way the same as the B. & O. Blue Liners, but the lettering on the cars will be different. It will require three trains to carry on this improved service and the work of building the cars will be commenced soon.

OUT OF THE VOLUNTEERS

"Major" Miles Returns to the Salvation Army.

"Major" Miles, of the Volunteers, has left their ranks, and has joined the Salvation Army, to which he formerly belonged. "Major" Miles on July 1st succeeded Mrs. Pattie Watkins Lindsay as "Colonel" of the Volunteers. Three months ago he returned from Africa, where he had been for three years in the interest of the Salvation Army. Soon after landing here, he joined the Volunteer movement. He was made Lieutenant-Colonel and Commander of the Volunteers for Greater New York. "Major" Miles is well known in Plainfield.

Fakirs to be Kept Out.

The management of the State Fair, which is to be held at the Waverly grounds during the first week in September, has taken a decided stand in the matter of fakirs, and this year none will be allowed inside the gates. The men who draw pennies by offering prizes for throwing tin plates into circles and the men who offer canes to all who "ring" them will be barred. The police have been directed to see that not a single shell game is worked inside the grounds, and everything that savors of gambling will be barred.

TUNNEL UNDER A RIVER

A Great Enterprise to Be Pushed to Completion.

ENGLISH CAPITAL IS INTERESTED.

The Hudson River Tunnel Was Originally Begun in 1874, and About 1,400 Feet Remain to be Finished—The Notion That Compressed Air Would Act as Supports Resulted in the Loss of a Number of Lives

That difficult and dangerous piece of engineering, the long-forgotten tunnel under the Hudson River between Jersey City and New York, is to be completed. That is the tunnel in which a mistake was made sixteen years ago that cost the lives of twenty-one men. The mistake lay in the notion that compressed air would act as a support instead of timbering. On July 21, 1881, the Hudson waters flooded the tunnel, and the workmen were drowned like rats in a trap.

There is much English money in this tunnel, through which railroads that now end at Jersey City may yet be able to run to New York city. Daniel Lord, Jr., Lord, Day & Lord, who represent the English bondholders of the Hudson Tunnel Railway Company, has announced that the tunnel will be completed.

F. I. Law, of the British Foreign Office, and Charles M. Jacobs, an engineer, who were delegated to investigate the work, have reported to the cautious Britishers that it is perfectly feasible. So the mortgage on the company's property will be foreclosed, the company reorganized and $1,500,000 of new bonds will be issued. Sir Weltman Pearson, the engineer who directed the construction of the famous Blackwell tunnel in London, will be the engineer here.

The Hudson River tunnel was begun in 1874. Its projectors were De Witt Clinton Haskin, a Californian, who had been active in building the Union Pacific Railroad. Work was continued on the tunnel until 1893, when it was stopped for lack of funds.

Up to that time 4,090 feet had been dug, beginning on the New Jersey side of the river at Fifteenth street, Jersey City, and extending 1,600 feet east of the middle of the river. About 170 feet had been dug from the New York shaft, at the foot of Morton street, about 1,420 feet of tunnel remain to be finished. The undertaking has already cost $4,000,000. It is estimated that $1,000,000 will complete it.

CELEBRATED TWO BIRTHDAYS.

Misses Fountain Gave a Pleasant Social Affair for Friends.

A pleasant borough event occurred Thursday when Miss Sadie and Miss Mildred Fountain, daughters of School Commissioner and Mrs. R. M. Fountain, of Jackson avenue, celebrated the anniversaries of their birthday. The fact that the dates came so close together was the occasion for a double celebration. The two young hostesses invited a few of their friends to their home and the afternoon was well spent in playing games, after which a jolly carriage ride was enjoyed. On the return the guests were served with refreshments, which was one of the features of the event. The Misses Fountain received many congratulations, also a number of useful presents as reminders of the happy affair.

NOT A LEGAL HOLIDAY.

September 28th Will Not be a General Election Day.

Many questions come up in reference to September 28th, the day when the special election for constitutional amendments is to be held. In Newark the bankers and other business men requested the City Clerk to ascertain whether the day would be a legal holiday. Attorney General Gray in reply wrote:

"The Governor submitted the question contained in your letter of August 4th to me for an opinion, which I have written. I have advised him that September 28th is not a legal holiday, because it is not a general election day."

State C. E. Convention

Now that the San Francisco convention is a thing of the past, the Endeavorers of New Jersey are beginning to turn their thoughts toward their annual State gathering, to be held at Paterson, October 6-8. The provisional programme has been issued, and it gives assurance of a rich feast. Among the prominent names in it, outside of New Jersey, are Merrill E. Gates, LL.D., and Revs. D. J. Burrell, D. D., Maltbie D. Babcock, D. D., Wayland Hoyt, D. D., J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., W. G. Puddefoot, D. D., and Francis E. Clark, D. D., and Mrs. Ballington Booth. The convention will meet in three buildings, each holding one thousand persons. Entertainment will be at the rate of one dollar a day. Information upon upon this point will be furnished upon application to Mrs. Louis Fox, 665 East Twenty-third street, Paterson. The railways have made their usual concessions. Rev. E. W. Thompson is the chairman of the committee of arrangements.

—The Plainfield Seminary will reopen September 16th for its thirtieth year.

COST OF MURDER TRIALS

Capital Crimes Made $7,923,82 for Taxpayers to Pay.

COLORED MURDER MOST EXPENSIVE.

Prospect for More Stone Roads is Encouraging. Board of Freeholders Having Made an Appropriation of $16,000 for That Cost $8,450 for Mountain Avenue.

At the meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders on Tuesday the exact cost of hanging two men was determined by the report of the committee appointed to ascertain the expense the county was put to in the trials and execution of Jacob Johnson and Elmer Clawson, both of whom paid the penalty of death in May.

They reported that in the case of Jacob S. Johnson the following costs were entailed: Under the head of court charges, $3,981.53; expense of coroners, $109.28; board, etc., at jail, $384.55; total, $3,294.86.

In the case of Elmer Clawson, the court charges are $2,843.70; coroners, $66.61; board, etc. at jail, $384.55; total, $3,294.86.

The report was accepted and ordered filed without comment by any member of the Board.

The prospect for stone roads in the county is encouraging. The Board made a special appropriation of $16,000 for the stone roads. Engineer Dougherty reported the Mountain avenue road at North Plainfield about completed. The road is about two miles in length, and has been built at a cost of $8,450.

About three miles of the Union avenue road, between Bound Brook and Somerville, are completed. It is anticipated that the road will be finished by the first of October. When completed it will be four miles in length, and will cost over $16,000. The recent heavy rains damaged a section of the road below Chimney Rock gorge. The Board will now build a retaining wall for 500 feet to protect the road from the overflow of the Chimney Rock brook.

A new specification sent out by the State Commissioner of Public Roads, requires the grade line as well as the usual surveys of proposed roads, be filed with the commissioner. The proposed stone roads in Bernards, Hillsborough and Montgomery, all of which have been surveyed by Engineer Doughty, will need to be gone over for the grade line.

The board has instructed its engineer to make the grade surveys, and file the applications for the new roads with the State commissioner at once.

The annual appropriation for county expenses was fixed by the board at $75,000, exclusive of the $16,000 appropriated for stone roads.

The following estimate was reported by each member as the probable cost of bridges in their respective townships.

Bedminster, $2,600; Bernards, $2,500; Branchburg, $2,300; Franklin, $2,000; Hillsborough, $2,200; Montgomery, $2,000; North Plainfield, $1,500; Borough of North Plainfield, $900; Warren, $2,500; Bridgewater, $5,000.

County Collector Allen was authorized to borrow $30,000 in anticipation of county taxes.

AN AGED WOMAN DEAD.

Miss Ellen Hughes Passes Away After Ninety Years of Life.

The death of Mrs. Ellen Hughes, aged 90 years and six months, occurred Saturday evening about 8 o'clock at the home of her only son, Thomas Hughes, No. 108 Jackson avenue. The deceased was born in Ireland and came to this country when a young woman. For years she and her late husband occupied a farm at Washingtonville, where they were well-known and respected by all. As age advanced the duties of farm life were to heavy and Mrs. Hughes came to North Plainfield where she took up her residence with her son. During the past year she had been confined to the house and was almost helpless. The funeral will be held from the house tomorrow at 8:30 and from St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Laying of Water Pipes Stopped.

The work of laying water pipes from South Plainfield to Metuchen has been temporarily stopped by the officials of the company. The contractor was W. T. Hiscock, of New York, and the officials discovered that he was not living up to his contract, and in addition, it is said, he is not paying the men who are working on the job. Frank Bergen, president of the company, is at present away, and when he returns further arrangements will be made to push the work forward to completion.

Entertained School Friends.

Miss Helen Lynch, of Madison avenue, entertained six of her school friends at her home Thursday afternoon. The time was passed in playing games chiefly, after which refreshments were served in abundance to all. The young hostess entertained her guests well and received them in a manner that would do credit to one much older.

WHAT WILL GRIGGS DO?

Executive Said to Be Out of Senatorial Race.

HE NEITHER DENIES NOR AFFIRMS

In a Way, the Governor Says He is in the Hands of His Friends—Senator Sewell Said to Favor John Kean for U. S. Senator—Senator Smith Silent. The Latter's Friends are Jubilant.

It is announced in political circles by prominent leaders that Governor Griggs has decided to keep out of he Senatorial fight. This has an important bearing on the coming election, and will change the character of the fight in several counties where the friends of Governor Griggs are striving to elect Assemblymen, and in some counties a State Senator.

Governor Griggs, however, when he was asked directly whether he was or was not a candidate for the office of United States Senator, said:

"I am not in a position to answer that question. My name has been associated with that office before through my friends, but I have never said that I was a candidate."

"But it is known, Governor," said his questioner, "that in some counties there is already considerable zest given to the legislative contest because the lines have been drawn between your friends and those of John Kean, who is according to reports, a candidate for the same honor."

"Whatever my friends are doing they are doing of their own accord," he answered. "It is a spontaneous effort on their part, and it is not for me to go about telling my friends what they shall not do certain things. I have made no requests for them to do what you say they are doing in my name, neither am I obliged to affirm or deny current newspaper statements that are made about me. I certainly cannot say that I am not a candidate for United States Senator, because I never said I was a candidate."

Recent rumors have it that Senator Sewell, feeling grateful to the Governor for favors he has received from the administration, leans cordially to the candidacy of the Governor. But while the Senator is very grateful to the Governor for favors extended, and has said so, he has also said that he cannot help him acquire a senatorial toga.

There is good authority for the statement that General Sewell has told Governor Griggs that he and his friends were pledged to John Kean, and while he, as United States Senator, would not take an active part in the contest and would not assist personally any candidate, was in favor of John Kean, and so were all his friends.

Senator Sewell, it is said, told this to the Governor at a recent interview when the latter found convenient time and place to unbosom himself to the Senator and ask him for his interest and support. The Governor, it is reported, was somewhat disturbed at this plain answer; he had expected more.

A warm personal friend of the Governor, who has always had easy access to Senator Sewell's ear, also, it is said, called to plead the Governor's cause, but the Senator's devotion to John Kean was steadfast. Since then, it is said, that to at least a half-dozen friends, the Governor has declared his intention of going back to Paterson in January, 1899, to practice law. To some he has made the statement that he could not afford to be a United States Senator and to others he has expressed a very general weariness of politics.

The friends of John Kean are jubilant over what they regard as the Governor's withdrawal. They claim a walkover for John Kean.

OUT OF A JAIL TO BE ARRESTED.

William J. Brown is Charged With Assault and Battery.

William J. Brown was released from the county jail Saturday morning and on reaching his home in this city a few hours later was arrested by Constable Rockafellow on a warrant sworn out by William Goff, charging him with assault and battery. The charge is the result of a fight which occurred on West Third street on July 5th. William Brown and his brother Edward and William Goff were all concerned in the affair. William Goff was arraigned in the City Court on July 7th charged with disorderly conduct and sentenced to 30 days in jail and a fine of $10.

The prisoner was brought before Justice Moffett, Saturday afternoon, and demanded a hearing, which was set down for next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Spencer Conway furnished a $200 bond for Brown's appearance at that time, and he was released from custody.

Church Undergoing Repairs.

The interior of the First M. E. church is being repainted and redecorated so for services yesterday, were held in Vincent chapel. Rev. Dr. Whitney preached an interesting sermon in the morning while the evening sermon was preached by Orrin P. Snodgrass, of the Drew Theological Seminal. Will Mitchell, of Philadelphia, led the Epworth League meeting in the evening.

WOMEN RULE THE TOWN

Men Don't Attend the Lincoln Council as They Ought.

THEY MAY BE ASKED TO RESIGN.

Rev. J. B. Cleaver and Charles Close Are the Delinquent Ones, and They Will Be Notified to Attend or Else Resign—Council Elected a Town Constable—Will Get $1 for Each Arrest.

Women are growing stronger every day in the government of Lincoln, and it looks now as if they would soon have a majority of the Council.

Of the forty-nine votes cast at the municipal election on July 5th last, twenty-seven were those of women. Miss Emma Egel, twenty-one years old, was elected president of the Council, and Mrs. Olivia Hazard was given a place in it. The other four members are men, but two of them are in grave danger of being invited to resign, as women say they don't attend to business.

The ones against whom complaint is made are Rev. J. B. Cleaver, a retired minister and campaign orator, and Charles Close, a modest young New York clerk. Both remained away from the last meeting of the Council, and their action brought down upon their heads the displeasure of the Mayor.

The fifth member of the Council, Edgar Grauert, acts as substitute, and the sixth, R. F. Bache, had a good excuse for not coming, but Messrs. Cleaver and Close were inexcusable, as they had not even attended the first meeting.

Miss Egel presided at the first regular meeting of the Council, Saturday. Opposite her sat Mayor Drake, and at her side were Councilman Grauert's substitute and Mrs. Hazard, who held her little daughter on her lap.

Mrs. Drake offered this resolution:

Resolved, That those members of the Common Council who have not attended the meetings up to date, or are unable to do so hereafter, be requested to tender their resignations as members of Council, and that a meeting of all interested be called to vote for other candidates who can give their time to serve their constituents.

"I move Mr. Cleaver and Mr. Close," said the little Mayor. "If they don't come to the meetings we will put women in their places."

"That we will," said the two women members of the Council in unison.

"I know several women who want to sit in the Council," spoke up Mrs. Hazard.

"Very well," said the Mayor, "the clerk will notify the delinquents and demand a decision from them before our next meeting."

The committee on streets reported in favor of opening Mountain avenue through to the "old stage road," with the request that the Mayor appoint a committee of two on the subject.

Mr. Drake named Miss Egel and Mr. Close.

"What, just us two!" exclaimed Miss Egel. I beg to be excused. I don't think I'd make much progress with Mr. Close."

"I'm a property owner, and I'll serve with Mr. Close," said Mrs. Hazard.

The Council then listened to the reading of this paper:

The committee of public safety requests a reputable resident of our town be appointed as marshal, to receive as compensation $1 for every arrest of a suspicious person found within the limits of Lincoln between 7 p. m. and 6 a. m., but no day arrest made must be approved by the Mayor before the fee can be cancelled.

Mrs. Hazard nominated William Hunt, and he was unanimously elected.

Mr. Hunt was found later selling soda water and "pop" over a near bar, which he had been in Lincoln just forty-eight hours.

The first subject discussed by the council was the dangerous railroad crossing at Cedar lane. Mrs. Hazard said her uncle's $100 cow had been killed there, and that a watchman and gates were necessary to the safety of life and limb.

Miss Egel suggested that a petition be circulated and enough names secured to carry weight with the officials of the New Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads. Her statesmanlike sagacity was approved.

AN OLD BALL PLAYER DEAD.

The Cranks Will be Sorry to Hear of Joe Lafferty's Passing Away.

It will shock a great many people in this city to learn of the death of Joseph O. Luffery, which occurred at the home of his father, John Luffery, of Rahway, last Saturday night. "Joe," as he was familiarly known in this city, was at one time a member of the celebrated Crescent base ball team under the management of Thomas M. Kellar, and played the position of short stop for a long time. He was a great favorite with all and he was always cordially received. His affable and pleasant manner won for him many friends who will always remember him as such. He was formerly a league base ball player, but gradually drifted out of the ranks into the semi-professional class.

Don't Want a License.

Frank Vosseller desires The Daily Press to state that he has not applied for a liquor license for his place of business at Fanwood, neither does he intend to. He says that he is going to conduct a strictly temperance place and has not thought of selling any intoxicating drinks.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

A LACK OF HELP.

It is rather an unusual condition that confronts the Huntington Shirt Company, who recently established a factory in the Schepflin building and intend to give employment to a large number of hands. That condition is the fact that they cannot get enough employes to operate the factory on a paying basis. It is not because they do not pay their employes or that there is any grievances between them, but simply because the girls whom they have thus far employed are not persevering enough to continue at the work until they become skilled in it. The company pay beginners $2.50 per week for one month after which it is considered that they become expert enough to make not less than $5 per week. Experienced operators are guaranteed at least $5 per week. The trouble, so the proprietors state, has been in the fact that the girls thus far engaged in a rule become discouraged after a few days' trial unless they are proficient enough to earn at least $5 per week. A girl with ordinary industry and intelligence can learn the business in a month's time if perseverance is one of her characteristics, even though during the first few days they may not make much progress. The company say that unless they can secure more operators it will be necessary for them to move to some other town where they can be hired. No doubt there is a good many more than twenty-five girls and women in this city who are anxious to earn $5 per week, and there should be at least that that many who would apply and fill the positions now open for them in the shirt factory. Plainfield can not afford to lose an enterprise of this kind for the reasons stated.

GRIGGS NOT A CANDIDATE.

Whether or not Governor Griggs will withdraw from the Senatorial race is set at rest by the statement of a politician who was in conference with the Governor at Sea Girt. He said the Governor will in several days publicly announce over his signature that he is not a candidate for United States Senator. The same man is authority for the statement that Governor Griggs' friends feel bitter toward John Kean because they allege that he did not support McKinley and Hobart at last fall's election. He says the men who were loyal to Governors Griggs' Senatorial aspirations are fully as enthusiastic regarding Franklin Murphy, who will be their candidate in the caucus.

A NEW COUNTY HOUSE.

The county should lose no time in erecting a new court house and county building on the site where the Sheridan House is now being razed. There is no benefit in delays in making public improvements by governing powers. There is no question about the absolute necessity for additional facilities to transact the county business. That fact being settled, there is no argument for delay. There will be no benefit for the public in a vacant lot when the present old building has been removed. The county can bond the debt at any time. If that be so why should there be delay. To make a fine lawn fenced in would be expensive. If the property is to be built on, it should be done at once. The workmen of the county need the better accommodations, etc. —Contractor and Gazette.

POLITICAL CHITCHAT.

The Elizabeth News publishes the following of interest to the politicians:

With former Sheriff Kyte's friends pushing him for the Surrogacy and Surrogate Parrot being the favorite of another faction won't there be a lively time for someone.

William Wolfskill, Frank Dunn, of Elizabeth, and William A. Coddington, of Plainfield, for Assembly. What Democrat wouldn't be glad to vote for such a ticket?

It is not probable that Hobart, Griggs, Murphy, Voorhees or Kean will attend the Republican picnic after all.

How the Republicans are scrambling for places on the Assembly ticket! There is J. W. Ferguson, of Cranford, Martin Roll, W. E. Codington, C. N. Codding, R. L. Patterson, H. Clauss, B. A. Vail, James L. Miller, Frank Bergen and scores of others.

—The members of the Midmer Glee Club have returned from Asbury Park where they appeared in a number of the large summer hotels and gave concerts. They were very favorably received.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper

ANOTHER PRESS WORKS?

Report That Plainfield Is to Get One More Industry.

CHASE MACHINE SHOPS TALKED OF.

A Man Now Connected With the Hoe Press Works, With Plenty of Capital, Is Said to Be Back of the Enterprise—John Brooks' Name Associated, But He Says He is Not Interested.

A report has been in circulation in this city for several days to the effect that the Chase Machine Works was to be purchased and used for the manufacture of improved printing machinery by a party now connected with the Hoe Printing Press Company, who has capital and an extended experience in the manufacture of printing machinery. It was stated that Superintendent John Brooks, of the Potter Press Works, was also interested in the project and a reporter Monday morning secured an interview with him concerning the rumor.

"I have no knowledge, whatever, of a plan to purchase the Chase Machine Works," he said, "and if there is such a project I am not concerned in it."

"Have you ever tried to purchase the Chase Machine Works, Mr. Brooks?"

"Yes, I did attempt to effect a transfer of the property about a year ago, in the interest of a third party, but the sale fell through."

"Is the Chase Machine Works a well-equipped plant for the manufacture of printing machinery?"

"No; it is not. No skilled work of any account was ever done there, and anyone having such an end in view would find it necessary to fit the works out with new machinery.

"Do you know, as a matter of fact, Mr. Brooks, that no one connected with the Hoe Company is negotiating for the purchase of the works?"

"I do not. Negotiations may be on foot now. I simply am not concerned in the deal."

LOST HIS WAY.

A Newark Boy Wandered Away From His Father and Got Lost.

Phillip Broth and his son, Henry, of Newark, came to Plainfield Junday and spent the day on the mountains back of North Plainfield. While wandering about picking flowers the boy strayed away from his father. The latter was unable to find his son. Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock a young boy approached Chief Grant at the corner of Park avenue and Front street and asked for information that would lead him to find his way home. He gave the name of Henry Broth, and said that he had wandered away from his father while the two were on the mountains. Chief Grant interested himself in the case and succeeded in sending the boy to his home in Newark.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlian's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERG, Allentown, Pa. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Cor. Park & North Aves., Plainfield.

Little Girl Bitten by a Dog.

The three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha McCready, of East Front street, was severely bitten in the face and left arm Sunday by a dog owned by William Beiter, of the same street. The lacerations are not very large, but if proper treatment had not been given immediately serious results might have followed. The girl was taken to Dr. Probasco's office where her injuries were attended to promptly.

Will Lose a Toe.

Benjamin Pott, colored, aged 16 years, was cutting a tree down on Arlington avenue, Saturday afternoon, when the axe slipped and struck his left foot. With the assistance of a friend the boy was taken to the hospital where it was learned that he would be obliged to lose one toe. The other lacerated part was stitched together and is doing nicely. Pott will be detained at the hospital for sometime.

"Let me give you a pointer," said M. F. Gregg, a popular conductor on the Missouri Pacific railroad. "Do you know that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cures you when you have the stomach ache? Well, it does." And after giving this friendly bit of advice, the jolly conductor passed on down the aisle. It is a fact that thousands of railroad and traveling men never take a trip without a bottle of this Remedy, which is the best cure for bowel disorders in the world. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Cor. Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

MATRIMONY AND LOVE.

A Discourse Full of Thoughts For Weal or Woe.

WITHOUT LOVE NO ONE SHOULD WED

Love Is a Fundamental Principle—Cannot be Bought, but Comes Unasked and Unsought—A Person Might Better Go to the Poorhouse Than Marry Without Love—God Must be in the Contract.

Notwithstanding the threatening weather last Sunday, a good-sized crowd gathered at Trinity Reformed church to hear Rev. Dr. Carlos Martyn preach on the subject of "Matrimony." The subject attracted, as might be supposed, a number of young people who possibly may be contemplating the important step.

Dr. Martyn held that marriage is the emerging of two hearts, two lives and two persons. The early days when woman was made to suffer much because she was considered to be physically weak. In our day we are hoping that the ballot may supercede the bullet. God did not take woman from the head of man that she might over top him, nor from his feet that she might be trampled upon, but from his side that she might be his equal.

"In the first place love is a fundamental principle, and the only thing to melt two hearts as one. It means self-surrender. Love is like a magnet; it cannot be bought, but it comes unasked and unsought. Marriage without love, and for convenience, is largely responsible for many social evils and troubles. A person might better go to the almshouse than to marry without love. There is a class of people who do not marry simply for that reason, and they are known as old maids and old bachelors. Passion is not love by any means, and personal piety is demanded as another fundamental principle. The married couple must bring God into the contract if they want happiness, such as was to be found in the home at Bethany. If you meet a woman who is not so well off in this world's goods as you are, and you love her, don't let her want prevent a union.

"Go to housekeeping at once. Boarding is not desirable for a woman who generally spends her time between the toilet and the novel. There is nothing that sharpens the wits so much as to be compelled to make nothing go a great ways. A husband ought to be willing to stand a touch of dyspepsia while his wife is learning to cook and bake. A boiled principle is, live within your income by all means. Don't be a chronic borrower or spendthrift and forget to pay your bills.

"Some people have to dodge corners all the time to escape their creditors, but don't you be that kind.

"Marry with your eyes wide open, and don't think that you are going to have a picnic like a moonlight ride to Coney Island, and that you can forget it all afterwards. It is a serious thing to get married and you must not think that either the man or the woman is going to be perfection."

In conclusion Dr. Martin spoke very strongly against divorces and their evil effects and he urged all to live and strive together happily for one common purpose and aim in life.

Repairing Damage Done by Rains.

It has been several years since Watchung avenue, between Hillside avenue and Woodland avenue, has been repaired so that it rained it was cut it up badly and of late made it almost impassable. A gang of Street Commissioner Gavett's men are now working on it and will place it in good condition. The top dressing has been washed into the gutters, filling them up. They are now being cleaned out. A new layer of fine stone will be put on the road and the steam roller will be used in rolling it.

Roller Crushed Through Culvert.

A ten ton roller used for packing the new macadam roads about the county crushed in a brick culvert by its weight on the road between Metuchen and Perth Amboy on Friday night about a mile out of Metuchen. Great difficulty was experienced in getting the roller out of the hole it had made. The roller is owned by Contractor Montgomery, who is doing the work on the road for J. F. Shandley. It is said that a seven ton roller would be quite heavy enough for packing the new macadam roads, although most of the contractors prefer using heavier rollers.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy, than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Dr. B. E. Robey, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Mo.; and as he has used the Remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years, he should certainly know. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

—About fifty feet of Park avenue, beyond the Lehigh Valley Railroad crossing, was washed out by the recent rains and has now been repaired by a layer of crushed stone.

REPUBLICANS GALA DAY

Distinguished Guests Will Attend the Outing.

WILL BE NEAR AVON-BY-THE-SEA.

Several Prominent Members of the Party Have Already Signified Their Intention of Being Present at the Love Feast—The Total Expense Incident to the Trip is $2.50—Tuesday, 24th, the Date.

Among the distinguished New Jerseymen who have been invited to be guests of the Republicans of Union county on the occasion of the outing at Avon-by-the-Sea, on August 24, are Vice-President Hobart, Governor Griggs, Senator Sewell, Franklin Murphy, chairman of the State committee; Treasurer Swain, Comptroller Hancock, Insurance Commissioner Bettle, former Mayor Wanser, of Jersey City, Samuel D. Dickinson, of Jersey City, Mayor Carl Lentz, Dr. Harold and E. A. Gaddis, of Newark, Sheriff Baird, of Camden, County Clerk Gummere of Mercer county, Senator Skirm, Speaker MacPherson of the house, President Williams of the senate, Senator Francis, Senator Reed, William A. Riker of Essex county, Chairman Woolsy, of Hudson county, John Bonnell, State House custodian; Mayor Anderson, supervisor of State prison, all of the New Jersey congressmen, and many others.

Already Chairman Dodding has received from many of these gentlemen letters of acceptance and promises to be on hand. The response to the announcement of the proposed outing has been such as indicates that the Republicans of the county are enthusiastic over the matter, and that they will turn out in such numbers as will insure success of the purpose in view, the bringing together for acquaintance and sociability the members of the party in the county.

The arrangements give assurance of a day of great pleasure and interest. The day will be spent at Neptune Heights, near Avon-by-the-Sea, a very delightful place, where there is a fine hotel, immense pavilion, fine bathing facilities and other attractions, which make the hours there spent enjoyable to every one.

It will not, in any sense, be a junket ing trip, but in all the preparations care has been taken to make it a day of comfort and enjoyment. The dinner will be unusually fine and splendidly served at the hotel.

The tickets, which are sold for $2.50, include everything—the railroad fare, dinner, badges, carriage, etc. These tickets are now on sale at different parts of the county by the members of the county committee in all the wards and townships. They can also be procured at the Journal office.

The programme is for the Republicans of the county to assemble at the headquarters in the Dix building in this city at 9 o'clock, and to proceed to the Central Railroad depot, from where the special train starts. Drake's band will accompany the excursionists.—Elizabeth Journal.

Danced on the Mount and Heights.

An enjoyable time was had at the Mountain Park Inn last Saturday night, when the usual hop was given. In addition to the dancing there were vocal solos by Miss Kathryn Krymer, of Brooklyn, W. N. Runyon, of this city, and Mr. Jones, one of the guests. The programme rendered was a pleasing one and received hearty applause from the large number of people present.

The hop at the Hotel Hunterston last Saturday night was one of the most enjoyable of the season, and there was a large attendance. Many of the guests were from nearby towns and they were pleased with the hospitality evidenced by Manager Hall and his assistant, Mr. Doughty.

Overcome by the Heat.

L. E. Cole, one of Woolston & Buckle's painters, was overcome with the heat on Saturday afternoon and sank down on the sidewalk in an unconscious condition near Rowley's drug store, corner of Somerset street and Craig place. He was carried into the drug store and restorsatives applied. He soon regained consciousness and was able to go to his home on Duer street. Yesterday he was able to be about, but complained of weakness and a severe headache.

Says There Is No Smell.

Councilman Frost says that all the stories about the offensive odor in the neighborhood of the city farm and sewer beds are false from foundation upwards. He says that he has been there and knows and that a trip to that vicinity will convince others that he is correct.

Kicked by a Horse.

Robert Squier, the three-year-old son of W. F. Squier, of Plainfield, who is visiting his uncle, W. B. Allen, of Morris aveuue, Union, was playing in the yard Friday when a horse accidentally kicked him in the face, inflicting a cut in which Dr. Campbell took three stitches.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, always affords prompt relief. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

Common Oatmeal

Sold from barrels or oftentimes in fancy packages (but still common oatmeal) is hard to cook, bitter in taste and overheating to the system. It overtaxes the digestive organs and the body derives no benefit from it—it injures rather than helps.

H-O

gets rid of all that is objectionable in oatmeal and preserves all that is valuable. It makes oatmeal a human food, palatable and easy of digestion, without taking away any of the elements needed for the building up of body, bone and brain. All other oatmeals—"steam-dried," "kiln-dried" and "partly cooked"—leave off just where H-O begins.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured.

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption (Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as wonderful to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by heartfelt letters of gratitude, filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

Thousands of Crabs Caught.

Crabbing parties are all the rage at Elizabeth. The Kills and New York bay were covered with boats yesterday. Thousands of crabs were caught. They are more plentiful than in years, and bite freely.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 9:40, 11:30 a. m., 2:20, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—9:40, 11:30 a. m., 2:20, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:40 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.
Through fastmail for West and South, close 2:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m., Close—7:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 5:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively. Insures Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JULY 2nd, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 32, 8 38, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 8 23, 9 30, 11 45, 2 30, 5 45, 6 30, 8 30, 11 45 p. m., 12 01 night. Sundays, 5 45, 7 32, 8 38, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 8 23, 9 30, 11 45 p. m., 12 01 night.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, at 4 30, 7 15, 8 00, 9 45, 10 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00 Express only, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 45, 9 00, 10 00, 11 30 p. m., 12 00 night. Sundays, 4 30, 7 15, 8 00, 9 45, 10 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 30, 9 30, 11 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 32, 8 38, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 8 23, 9 30, 11 45 p. m., 12 01 night. Sundays, 9 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 8 23, 9 30, 11 45 p. m., 12 01 night.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night. Sundays, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 37, 9 30, 11 30 a. m., 2 30, 4 30, 6 30, 9 30 p. m. Sunday at 5 37, 9 30, 11 30 a. m., 4 30, 6 30, 9 30 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 00, 7 00, 8 05, a. m., 12 30, 4 00, 7 00, 9 30 p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 25 a. m., 4 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 15, 9 54 a. m., 2 12, 5 05, 9 25 p. m. Sunday, 8 00 a. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Shamokin, Sunbury, Lewisburg, Milton, Northumberland, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Hazleton, Shamokin and Upper Lehigh, connecting for Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton and Mauch Chunk.

8 15 a. m.—Sunday for Easton, Junction for Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Shamokin, Sunbury, Lewisburg, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Scranton, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

9 00 a. m.—For Flemington and Easton, connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge branch.

9 45 a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Shamokin, (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

12 30 p. m.—For Flemington.

4 00 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg.

5 05 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

9 25 p. m.—Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Tamaqua, Shamokin, (buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

6 00 p. m.—Sundays—For Flemington and Easton, connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge branch.

8 00 p. m.—Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton.

8 30 p. m.—Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Philadelphia.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 9 37, 9 12, 10 37 a. m., 1 12, 2 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m., 12 37 night. Ocean Grove 9 58 a. m., 1 33, 3 58 p. m. Sundays, 9 37, 10 37 a. m., 12 37, 2 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m., 12 37 night. Ocean Grove 9 58 a. m., 1 33, 3 58, 7 58 p. m. Sundays, 9 37 a. m., 12 37, 2 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m., 12 37 night. Ocean Grove 9 58 a. m., 1 33, 3 58, 7 58, 9 58 p. m.

For Asbury Park, 9 37, 10 37 a. m., 12 37, 2 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m., 12 37 night. Sundays, 9 37, 10 37 a. m., 12 37, 2 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m., 12 37 night.

For Atlantic City, 9 37 a. m., 12 37 p. m.

For Freehold, 9 37, 9 12, 10 37 a. m., 12 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m., 12 37 night.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 9 37, 9 12, 10 37 a. m., 12 37, 2 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m., 12 37 night. Sundays, 9 37, 10 37 a. m., 12 37, 2 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m., 12 37 night.

For Trenton, 9 37, 9 12, 10 37 a. m., 12 37, 2 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m., 12 37 night. Sundays, 9 37, 10 37 a. m., 12 37, 2 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m., 12 37 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 9 37 a. m., 12 37, 2 37, 5 37 p. m., 1 12 night. Sundays, 9 37 a. m., 12 37, 2 37, 5 37, 9 37 p. m., 1 12 night.

For Philadelphia, Chicago and all points West, Southwest and Northwest, 9 37 a. m., 5 37 p. m.

Only Cafe Equipped Passenger Trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance of the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect June 13, 1897.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

WESTWARD.

7 46 a. m. and 1 44 p. m. Daily (Sundays 8 40) Local for Manch Chunk.

9 16 a. m. Daily except Sunday, for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m., 2 34, 8 22, 7 22 p. m. daily except Sunday, (Sundays 11 36 a. m.) Local for Bound Brook 11 56 a. m. daily, except Sunday, local for Manch Chunk.

12 52, p. m. Daily except Sunday, "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 34 and 4 56 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Watkins, Syracuse, Scranton, Pittston, Elmira, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 36 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

7 10 p. m., daily except Sunday, for Slating ton and principal intermediate stations.

7 32 and 9 26 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 26 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

2 10 p. m. Sundays, local for L. & B. Junction.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Intermediate Local 4 47, 7 15, 7 49, 9 00, a. m., 2 20, 4 46, and 7 p. m. Sunday 7 55 9 23 a. m., 2 21, 7 10 p. m. Express—7 25, 8 27, 10 02 a. m., 12 13, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 9 06 p. m. Sundays 7 25, 10 16 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 40, 7 26, 10 05 a. m., 12 13, 2 33, 5 20, 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 00 local a. m. 2 20 and 7 10 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 36 p. m. except Sunday. For further information consult local Agents.

BOLLIN J. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

Philadelphia.

A. A. SCHLACHER,
Asst General Passenger Agt.
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINAL—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and 261 streets.

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

MR. RALLI IN THE PULPIT

Officiated With Dignity and Devotion in St. Stephen's.

HE IS A MAN OF VERSATILE TALENTS.

Performed all the Rites of the Episcopal Service Save That of the Prayer of Absolution, Which Only an Ordained Rector Can Consecrate—Showed an Admirable Intimacy With the Grand Episcopal Service.

From the pulpit of St Stephen's Episcopal church, nestling under a green leaved arbor formed by a number of aged and sturdy oaks on a sightly knoll in Netherwood, Sunday, the gospel was preached by a man of versatile talents—one whose efforts run the gamut of life from grave to gay. That man was Constantine P. Ralli, who is associated prominently with the business interests of the metropolis and has incidentally been actively identified in local society and dramatic circles. He performed the religious rites, with one exception, that are connected with the Episcopal church. That exception was offering the prayer of absolution, which only an ordained rector can perform. Also under the church canons a member of laymen cannot pass behind the chancel rail during a service, and these two instances were the only parts of the service differing from that of the regular rector.

The Press has already exclusively told how Mr. Ralli came to perform pastoral duties, which was at the request of the rector, Rev. S. P. Simpson, who is on his vacation, and who did not want the church services abandoned during that period. The sermon that Mr. Ralli delivered was one of the four prepared by Rev. Mr. Simpson before his departure to serve as a Spiritual admonition for his flock during his absence.

Mr. Ralli showed a thorough intimacy with the church service as he proceeded to perform the various parts with ease and elegance in his manner, though for a moment at the beginning he was noticeably nervous as he thumbed the leaves of the Bible that lay on the stand behind which he delivered the discourse. But that feeling disappeared as he proceeded and his composure in view of the somewhat novel position that he was filling was remarkable.

Mr. Ralli has a rich English accent and his words were spoken in a tone that was distinct and pleasing to hear. The singing normally usually assumed by regularly ordained rectors was supplanted by Mr. Ralli with one of subdued and yet earnest effect. The only emphasis given to special points in the discourse was a slight inflection of the voice and a lifting of his eyes in a significant manner. The sermon had to do with a perfect man, and the conclusions drawn from the subject were full of uplifting thoughts.

Mr. Ralli entered the church clad in the black cassock and white cape, behind the surpliced boy choir. His bearing was in every sense in keeping with the devotional duties that he performed.

Mr. Ralli expects to officiate again next Sunday.

A Swim by Moonlight.

These delightful moonlight evenings have given the boys of Plainfield a new method of spending their time. Several parties have been organized during the last week and have gone to Fairville pond for a swim by moonlight. Corn and potatoes were carried and the boys enjoyed a little roast after the swim was over. The plan proved a success and moonlight swimming with its pleasant accompaniments has found general favor.

Last Link in the Macadam.

R. A. Montgomery, who has the contract to build the first section of the Metuchen-Rahway road, began work near Metuchen, Saturday. His section runs thence to Iselin. The road known as Middlesex avenue extension, which runs near Iselin, has been approved by Road Commissioner Budd, and if ratified by the Board of Freeholders will be improved, thus completing the last link in the New Brunswick-Rahway macadam.

A Volunteer Choir.

A volunteer chorus choir at the Grace P. E. church has been organized by Mrs. W. T. Pelletier to lead the singing during the remainder of the month of August. The regular choister choir has a vacation during August.

NOT SO ANXIOUS NOW.

TELEPHONE WIRES UNDER GROUND MAY NOT COME SOON.

The Delay of the Common Council in Taking Action Has Led the Telephone Company to Work in Morristown.

Six months ago the officials of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company were very anxious to place their wires in underground conduits in the streets of Plainfield. Now they are not so anxious. In fact, it is stated on good authority, that unless the Common Council takes action on the question at once, the company will put off the work until next year.

The cause of this change in the complexion of affairs is due to the work of the company elsewhere. When the company first brought the matter to the attention of the Common Council there was a large force of its employes idle, who could have been sent to this city immediately and laid the subways in short order. That was what the company wanted to do, but the petition asking for permission was laid over.

Then the company started work in other cities, having obtained the required permission. Hoboken, Newark, Jersey City, Morristown and other cities are having the telephone wire conduits laid in their streets. The entire force of the company's men are now busy and the company is rushing the work through to complete it before the cold weather.

To delay the work any longer in this city would necessitate a very large force of men to complete it in time and so the company is not anxious to do it until the work in the other cities is completed. It is understood, however, that the company would start at once if the required ordinance was passed.

TRACK RECORD BROKEN.

Fast Time Made by a Trotter at the Gentlemen's Driving Park on Saturday Afternoon.

A large slice was chopped off the track record at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Saturday afternoon. The horse that trotted in such fast time was a bay mare, Gertrude G., belonging to Thomas McGinnis, of Jersey City. The horse has been under the care of Peter C. Osbourne, of New Market, and first made its appearance among the local horses a week ago, when she trotted the mile in 2:22, tieing the track record made by Thomas Brantingham's Myrtle Twig.

There were two matches trotted on Saturday, and both of them furnished plenty of excitement for the large audience that gathered at the track during the afternoon. Former Judge W. A. Coddington's mare, Belle, was the first to pass under the wire in two heats and trotted a dead heat with Darby's fast trotter.

It was in the second match that Gertrude G. made her appearance with Osbourne in the sulkey. She trotted but one heat and in that one took five seconds off the track record. Myrtle Twig, the former holder of the record, and one of the fastest horses in this vicinity, was easily defeated by the stranger who finished in fine form. She was drawn in the second heat, however.

Gertrude G. will soon leave her present quarters to enter in some of the trots in the vicinity of New York and Jersey City. The summaries of the matches were as follows:

FIRST MATCH.

Former Judge Coddington's Belle, Brower	1	1	1
Dominick Darby's Darby	2	2	2
Joseph Krewson's Billie	3	3	3

Time, 2:28; 2:26; 2:21.

SECOND MATCH.

Thomas Brantingham's Myrtle Twig, Owner	2	1
J. W. Johnson's Barney Williams, P. Osbourne	1	2
T. McGinnis' Gertrude G., C. Osbourne	1	dr

Time, 2:17; 2:26.

FIGURES CORRECTED.

The Time in Which A. W. W. Evans Made 100 Miles.

The men who timed A. W. Evans on his record breaking ride of 100 miles made on the Highland Park Elizabeth course on Saturday morning, made a mistake in the first announcement of time consumed in making the two laps of fifty miles each. The timers announced that the first lap finished at 2:23.09 o'clock, was made in two hours, twenty-two minutes and fifty-nine seconds. This was correct. Then they announced that the second lap, which was finished at 12:01.46, was made in two hours, forty-seven minutes and thirty-seven and a-half seconds. The announcement of the time of making the lap was incorrect, as the actual time was two hours, thirty-eight minutes and thirty-seven seconds, making the actual time of making the 100 miles just five hours, one minute and thirty-six seconds, which is the new record. Mr. Evans also established a twenty mile straightaway record for New Jersey. The pacing of Joseph Gabriel and John Feeney, Jr., also brought them honors as they made a tandem straightaway record for twenty-five miles of one hour, seven minutes and thirty seconds.

—The residence of Dr. H. H. Lowrie, of Park avenue, is being improved with a new coat of paint.

VISITORS WERE NOT IN IT

CRESCENT PLAYERS WON SATURDAY BY A SCORE OF 12 TO 3.

The Cliffords Lacked Snap and Vigor in Their Playing and Seemed to Be Outclassed by the Crack Plainfielders.

The Clifford baseball team, of Newark, came to Plainfield last Saturday and crossed bats with the Crescents. Taking everything into consideration it was an interesting contest to the large number of people present, some of whom watched it from the streets and sidewalks rather than assist the management. From the start the visitors did not seem to be in it. The first inning for the home team netted two runs as did also the second inning. For several innings the visitors were shut out, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that they were able to secure three runs, one in the fourth, one in the seventh and one in the ninth, and when they did make their runs it was usually the result of some careless play on the part of the home team. In the first inning Vroom, catcher for the Crescents, made a home run and this feat brought down the cheers. The Crescents were able at will to make hits, and these usually resulted in runs for them. The whole team only made four errors and they were not costly ones. The visitors were credited with eight errors. They were unable to hit the ball very much, and when they did gain a base their stupid base running lost them, a tally.

McLarty, the home pitcher, played a very strong game, as did also Vroom, the catcher. During the latter part of the contest Vroom was obliged to go in the field owing to an injury to his right arm which he received in the game. Hollister then went behind the bat and held McLarty in a creditable manner. McBeth took Hollister's place at shortstop and also played that position well. Corbin, the regular first baseman, was unable to be present and his place was filled with great credit by George Bolsterli. The Crescent team throughout put up a faultless game. Concerning the visitors there is very little that can be said for they were not well matched with the home team. Their fielding was shaky as was also their batting, and there was not a man on the team that played with any snap or vigor. In the fourth inning the Crescents made four runs, in the seventh two more were added, and in the ninth another two runs were placed to their credit, making in all twelve runs to three for the visitors.

A portion of the crowd acted in a most ungentlemanly manner toward the latter part of the game. When they were trying to play ball and win the game these people would howl, and when they made a misplay they would do the same thing, and never were they satisfied. Below will be found the line-up of the two teams and the score by innings:

CRESCENTS.		CLIFFORDS.
Symons, lf.		Coventry, 2b.
Hollister, p. c.		Elliott, c.
Vroom, c, rf.		Spreck, ss.
McLarty, p.		Bahn, 1b.
Cooner, 2b.		Young, lf.
Bolsterli, 1b.		Morris, cf. rf.
McBeth rf. ss.		Habe, c.
Corbin, 1b.		Buck, p. 2b.
Mumford, cf.		Richardson, rf. p.

SCORE BY INNINGS!

Crescents	2	2	0	1	0	2	0	2	—12
Cliffords	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	—3

LOST COAT AND MONEY.

Were Strapped on the Rear of a Bicycle—Found and Returned by an Honest Man.

A coat containing $80 in bills and $2.50 in change was fastened to the rear of a bicycle that left Plainfield Sunday, en route for Newark. When the rider dismounted from his wheel at Roselle, the coat and his money were gone and there was no trace of the missing articles.

Benjamin J. Mumford, of Arlington avenue, was out riding on the county road in the direction of Westfield, Sunday afternoon. While driving toward this city, he saw a coat in the road and stopped to investigate. In one of the pockets was a large roll of bills. A party of cyclists passed by and Mr. Mumford told them who he was and asked them to direct any wheelmen who was looking for a missing coat to him in Plainfield.

The wheelmen continued and met two anxious men looking for the coat. They were told who had it, and that evening about ten o'clock the owner of the coat, accompanied by Roundsman Fredericksen, called on Mr. Mumford.

The gentleman identified his property and his coat and money was promptly returned to him to his great delight. The owner of the coat was from Newark and had been out on an all day's jaunt. He did not care to give his name. He was loud in his praise of Mr. Mumford, to whom he owed the recovery of his property.

Contract for New Factory Buildings.

The contract for the construction of nine buildings for the Stephenson Car Company has been awarded to Alexander Kerr, of Elizabeth, who will commence work at once. The buildings will all face New Brunswick avenue, and will cost nearly $300,000. The plant will employ 1,000 hands.

Merit

Is what gives Hood's Sarsaparilla its great popularity, its constantly increasing sales, and enables it to accomplish its wonderful and unequalled cures. The combination, proportion and process used in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla are unknown to other medicines, and make Hood's Sarsaparilla

Peculiar to Itself

It cures a wide range of diseases because of its power as a blood purifier. It acts directly and positively upon the blood and the blood reaches every nook and corner of the human system. Thus all the nerves, muscles, bones and tissues come under the beneficent influence of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Fine Machinists' Tools In Stock

Gasoline and oil stoves of best makes.

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our hardy Nursery Stock. Many new specialties this year for the trade. Liberal salary and extra inducements. No previous experience necessary. Write for terms. Address, Rochester Nursery, Rochester, N. Y. Thomas, Maple Avenue Nurseries, West Chester, Pa.

DIED.

ALLEN—August 13, Phoebe Mae, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Allen.

GRANT—In this city, August 14, Hiram P. Grant, aged 70 years, 4 months and 10 days.

HUGHES—In this city, August 14, Rev. Mary Ellen Hughes, age 50 years and six months.

HOOK—In this city, on Tuesday, August 13, 1895, Grace, daughter of Charles and Kate Hook, aged 3 years, 3 months and 24 days.

Trusses! Rupture! Trusses!

Dr. Marcley has opened a branch office at No. 228 West Second street, corner Plainfield avenue, where the treatment of rupture by years experience and the most modern appliances warrants satisfactory results. No occasion to go to New York for the man can be found at home. Irreducible, difficult and complicated cases solicited. The treatment of rupture, whether mechanical or otherwise, is properly belongs to a surgeon of long experience and not a practical one. No charge for examination or advice. Hours 9-12 a. m., 1-4 p. m. and evenings

UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES of AMERICA

Rev. L. D. HASS, D. D., Manager,

Pittsburg, Pa.; Toronto, Canada; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y.; Minneapolis, Minn.; San Francisco, Cal.; Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo., and Denver, Col.

There are thousands of positions to be filled within the next few months.

Address all applications to the TEACHERS' AGENCIES, Salisbury, Pa. 6 m

ATTEMPTS TO ROB CHURCHES.

Organized Band Seem to Aim to Steal Sacred Vessels.

The belief is current among the authorities of Middlesex county that there is an organized gang of thieves working in the county with the purpose of stealing sacred vessels from churches. Within the last two weeks the rectory of the Catholic church at Metuchen, of which Rev. John Lawrence is pastor, was robbed and an attempt made to enter the church Attempts were made to enter two churches at New Market, and also the home of the Sisters of Charity connected with St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, at New Brunswick.

A week ago the thieves entered the rectory of St. John's Catholic church, in New Brunswick, and stole the gold watch of Father Keuper. Yesterday morning attempts were made to enter the rectory and the church. There were three men in the party, and they were discovered while trying to get into the rear of the church by Henry Moore, a neighbor.

Burglars at Cranford.

Cranford is now having the attention of burglars. Three attempts were made Sunday night to enter houses on North avenue, but in each instance the thieves were frightened away. At Mr. Ross' house they evidently bungled in removing the putty from around a square of glass, for they broke the glass and that aroused the people in the house.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES,
FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

and thus are brought widely before the public with out cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address, MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be glad to see you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite, and do not handle cheap grades that will not put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the largest portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light that good work and good material at Fair Prices is a standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe in asserting that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master in Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

SAVED

After years of suffering. It has at last been proven beyond a doubt that

NASALENE

Is a positive remedy for local diseases which are the result of cold and climatic changes. Cold in the Head,

CATARRH

Deafness, (caused by catarrh), are instantly relieved.

It is pleasant to use, convenient to carry. Price 50c. and $1.00, at all druggists.

O. Y. HAGE, Warden of Sing Sing, says: "Nasalene is very beneficial."

HUNTER MEDICAL CO.,
44 E. 21st Street, N. Y.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Bilious and Nervous Diseases. They purify the Blood and give Healthy action to the entire system.

Cure DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
and
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues.

First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles. Removed from 238 W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to rent. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 903 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 8jly1

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of something to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

E. B. MAYNARD,

PRACTICAL

BARBER AND
HAIR DRESSER.

204 PARK AVE.

Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed. 11jy1

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

Beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3.00 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

BOOK ON PATENTS sent free. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS,
361 Broadway, New York.

What a Lot of Eggs the hens lay when fed a dozen hens With a Mann's Green Bone Cutter

Will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 BUYS ONE. Sent on trial. 180 highest awards received. Catalogue free if you name this paper. F. W. MANN CO., Milford, Mass.

3 5 4 9 10 11 12—7 mos.

WHY SPAIN FAILED.

HER CUBAN ARMY HONEY-COMBED WITH CORRUPTION.

20,000 Insurrectionists Successfully Cope With 225,000 Soldiers—Spain a Position Both Ludicrous and Pathetic—Incompetency Paramount—Thievery Rampant

Mr. Thomas G. Alvord, Jr., who since January of this year has spent four months in Cuba, and who has traveled all over the island, has returned to explain in the Forum, why, with the immense military force at her disposal, Spain has proved unable in two years and five months to exterminate the revolutionists, who cannot muster, all told, more than 20,000 indifferently armed guerilla soldiers. Mr. Alvord denies that the solution of the puzzle is to be looked for in the defensible character of the country and in the advantage possessed by the insurgents in their familiarity with its swamps, mountain passes and natural concealments. These advantages are more than neutralized in his opinion by their ignorance of the art of war. The Cubans are brave, but refuse to learn the most ordinary tactics. They have no infantry worthy of the name; they prefer to do all their fighting on horseback; and their favorite weapon is not the carbine or revolver, but the machete, a long, narrow, razor-like blade, blunt at the point, but sharpened at both edges and hilted like a sword. How has it happened, then, that thirty thousand men, undrilled and indifferently armed, have been able to gain almost undisputed possess on of the two easte n provinces, Santiago de Cuba and Puerto Principe, while even in the other four provinces they are practically the rulers outside of the large cities?

Either Weyler is destitute of the slightest military ability, or else from sordid motives he has deliberately made it easy for the insurgents to keep up the strife. Attention is directed to the extraordinary manner in which the Spanish force of 235,000 men is distributed. From the outset the novel plan was adopted of building small forts all over the island, a plan which put the Spanish forces in the position of awaiting attack instead of pursuing the enemy. It seems that the number of these forts is astonishing, and, as the Senator never leave them, it is computed that at least 150,000 of Weyler's force of 235,000 are thus prevented from taking an active part in the campaigns. Then, again, an estimate made last April, from the most trustworthy figures then obtainable in Havana, showed that there were nearly 20,000 officers, private soldiers, military attaches doing special duty; these also, then, were shut off from taking any active part in military operations. The remnant of the army, not detached for garrison or special duty, say 55,000 men, is divided into columns, which march with little purpose from one fortified town to another. Should then a band of rebels will be met; if the Spanish soldiers repulse them, they allow them to ride off unpursued. They fear to pursue, lest they be led into a narrow pass and shot to pieces, a fate which many a Spanish column has encountered.

As a rule, in the field, the Spanish invader acts more frequently on the defensive than on the aggressive. This is not the way in which insurrections are subdued. There are, it seems, Spanish generals in Cuba who hold that Weyler should have put down the rebellion in three or four days. Mr. Alvord thinks that the same view would be taken by any unprejudiced military authority, who had studied the forces on both sides, and made due allowances for the advantages possessed by those who fight upon their native soil. The motives actuating Weyler in allowing the war to drag along, and prompting a large portion of the staff and line to support the policy of their superior were indicated by an incident.

On an American sugar estate Mr. Alvord had absolute proof that thousands of dollars were paid to a Spanish General in order that troops might be stationed there to protect the ripened cane from the insurgents. At breakfast one morning the manager of the estate jokingly asked the Colonel of a column if the war were not turning out too profitable to be speedily closed. The Colonel replied in an assumed tone of injury: "You make a crop every year; we do not get a chance to make one in ten years. This is our harvest. You ought in charity not to cut us alone." What the Spanish officers term their harvest is derived not only from property owners on the island, but from the money drained from Spain ostensibly for the purpose of maintaining the vast number of superfluous forts built and kept up at enormous sum, for, although the soldiers did the manual work, there was much expensive material to be bought, and contractors had to oversee the building. Then, again, the money of Spain is wasted on needless transportation. Troops are incessantly moved by sea, when they could be more quickly and easily moved by land. The inevitable inference is that an understanding as to commissions exists between the steamboat companies and the military authorities.

With regard to the charge that the Cuban insurrection is mainly a negro uprising, Mr. Alvord admits that at the outset few of the white Cubans were in favor of it. On the other hand he testifies that to-day the whole of the white native population is actively or secretly trying to throw off the Spanish yoke. It is true that only a small percentage of the white Cubans have joined the insurgents' ranks, though even in the army the proportion of whites to negroes is about ten to four; the force in the field is made up of educated, patriotic, white Cubans, who are struggling for the independence of their country. It is only the impossibility of securing arms that keeps the ostensibly peaceful Cuban out of the active conflict. Those who do not go out to fight for lack of weapons are daily risking deportation or life-long imprisonment in chains to help their brothers in the "long grass."

WILL CORNELL BE SHUT OUT.

College Men Favor Another Race with Yale and Harvard.

College men are still discussing the intercollegiate boat races and the prospects for next year. The signal victories of Cornell have been accepted as proof of the Itacans' supremacy in methods, stroke, and aquatic skill, and the general opinion seems to be against the shutting out of Cornell from the big regattas in the future. When the Yale men returned to New Haven from Poughkeepsie it was reported that they were ready to throw the Ithacans aside and settle down into dual contests with Harvard. Since then there has been some reaction, and there appears to be a division of opinion among prominent alumni, who in the past have shown particular interest in the rowing affairs of the blue.

Certain Yale men have declared that the New Haven university cares nothing for the aquatic championship, but is solely desirous of meeting her natural rival, Harvard. They cite the remarks of Bob Cook last winter, when, upon the admission of Cornell to the race, he said that Yale would pay no attention to Courtney's crew, but would make every effort to defeat Harvard. They also argue that Yale, having been beaten by Cornell, can gracefully withdraw from another contest, whereas if the Cook crew had won, it would have been impossible to avoid another race with Cornell. As a Yale man said the other day:

COACH COURTNEY.

"Cornell has won and is practically dictator. Yale and Harvard, in their hour of defeat, have nothing to say except to express a desire to row by themselves. Cornell is acknowledged to be champion, an honor Yale and Harvard are not seeking."

Henry S. Van Duzer, the well-known Harvard graduate, who was Chairman of the Yale-Harvard-Cornell Regatta Committee at Poughkeepsie, is outspoken in his desire to see the three university crews meet again. Mr. Van Duzer said:

"Harvard and Yale are in such a position just now that they ought to give another chance to Cornell. If the Blue and the Crimson want to row by themselves, this is not the time to arrange an arrangement. Both have been unmistakably defeated by a wonderful crew, and it seems to me to be their duty to meet Cornell again. I know that Yale has the right to choose the course next year, and if New London is the place selected, it would be feasible to invite Cornell to row. It is the only sportsmanlike thing to do, and the move would be vastly popular."

It is said that Cornell is in favor of an open regatta, to include Cornell, Yale, Harvard, Columbia, and Pennsylvania, the race to be rowed either at Saratoga Lake or Poughkeepsie. This is in line with a plan that has been discussed freely of late, that of inaugurating a sort of American Henley, with these colleges entered. Trial heats by freshmen and 'varsity crews, limited to a mile each, could be run off in the early part of the week, the finals to follow in the latter part of the week over a course not more than three miles. Coach Courtney is reported to be in favor of abolishing the four-mile races and substituting the two-mile course for 'varsity crews, his argument being that three miles is enough of a test for the very young men who sit in the shells.

He—It takes an old maid to be always imagining there is a man in the house.

She—Yes; a married woman has learned to know better.—Truth.

A PARIS SUGGESTION.

THE WHALE AND THE CREED.

Religious fights I always did bewail,
'Tis something has I never take a start in,
I, for to see good people rant and rail
Of things on which no one should feel too certain.

So this dispute 'twix Jonah and the whale
It's hard to see how one can take much part in,
And get his feelings all torn up and settled
About a thing that never can be settled.

I have a friend as well as man can be,
His key-note wabbly and his beat is heary,
Who is a thousand ways has shown to me
A faithfulness that's really cemetery.
His old wife with him scarcely can agree,
She says it is an anc ent allegory,
And he, to please her, thinks it safe to doubt it.
Though years ago they quarreled some about it.

The Bible is a book that I adore
For precepts found within its sacred pages;
Oft when I'm sad I turn its pages o'er
And read the record of departed sages;
But when it comes to figures, alas, no more
My way-worn and distracted mind engages,
Like Jonah and the whale and Noah's landing
And things that take my feeble understanding.

I read instead what I can understand,
The story of a Father's love, undying,
The promises of Heaven, better than hand
Beyond this vale of pain and want and sighing,
A mansion in a city great and grand,
The glory of man's highest art outvying,
Where wickedness can come to torture never
And weary ones find rest for aye forever.

And while I don't bank much on any creed
And doctrines taught by schools ecclesiastic
I gather comfort from the things I read,
It makes my human nature mellow and plastic.
I cannot follow where some teachers lead,
And this is all my creed, ayake or sleeping,
The Lord is good, and I am in His keeping.

—Nebraska State Journ.

A LOVE CHASE.

"To-morrow on the Paris?" cried Carter, dropping his cane on the pavement with a resounding thud.

"Yes, to-morrow," said I, gazing with astonishment on my friend, for my commonplace gossip had apparently perturbed him greatly. "The whole family are going to sail, and they will be away for a year. It's very sudden."

"Sudden! I should say so!" he exclaimed. He looked thoughtfully up the avenue for a moment, then stammered, "Miss Margaret, too?"

"Yes."

Thereupon he hailed a passing cab, and before I could get another word with him dived into the vehicle and quickly disappeared with it.

Carter is not a bad fellow. He is exceedingly modest. This is a most unusual characteristic for a young man who is spending a fortune gathered by another's talents, but to so great a degree does he possess it that it seemed to him impossible that Margaret Walcott should look upon him with other than indifference or even repugnance.

"Why, Vandergust," he said to me, one Sunday afternoon, when he had dropped in on his way to her house, "it's ridiculous to suppose that a bright young girl like that could care for me. She's rich, and I'm poor, who doesn't know anything, who has not a striking point except money—when there are so many men with brains about."

But, acting on my advice, he actually started to propose that very afternoon. I waited for him to begin, as they sat by a fireplace in the drawing-room, talking commonplaces, "I'm in love."

"Really! How interesting!" cried the girl, calmly leaning toward him and gazing at him, awaiting the rest of his revelations.

There was a long silence, during which Carter carefully drew his left glove on his right hand. Having received his courage, he continued naively—"I know who it's with. Do you know who it's with?"

"Yourself," she cried, clasping her hands as though she had made a wonderful discovery.

"Oh, dear, no! Never!" he stammered. "Positively not. You really don't think so, do you?"

"I was just guessing," she replied, soothingly.

"Guess again," said he quickly.

"With Livia Vandergust," ventured Miss Walcott after she had given the matter due consideration, gazing meditatively into the fire, thus unconsciously showing to Carter the fine profile of her face, which glowed in the red light of the coals.

"Don't accuse me of it," cried my friend, in a deprecating tone that was most uncomplimentary to my charming cousin. "Guess somebody nearer home."

And the foolish fellow kept her guessing the name of every girl in town but the right one until the maid brought in Derby's card.

Was it a wonder that, knowing these facts, I smiled when I saw Carter dash away in a cab after I had imparted to him the news? It was sufficient to send him up the steps of the Walcott house in three bounds when his cab drew up there. Miss Walcott was out. "At teas?" he ventured to inquire of the maid. "Yes." Here arose a prediscussion. He knew that Miss Walcott was free that afternoon. But he had heard that she was to be at the Trumptons' dinner that night, and his sole chance of seeing her lay in finding her that very afternoon or following her over Europe.

So he started in at Mrs. J. Anderson Oglesby's and most perfunctorily paid his respects to that energetic woman and her extremely plain daughter. Then he searched every corner of the several drawing-rooms, and even took a surreptitious glance into the butler's pantry.

"Isn't that Miss Walcott yonder?" he said to the young girl who was pouring tea, indicating a mass of black hair that was conspicuous in the crush.

"Why, no," she cried, gazing at him in astonishment. "She has light hair. And, besides, she left hours ago. I should think—"

The rest of the remark was lost on my friend, who dashed from the room and the house and was off in his cab once more.

He searched in vain for her at the Partridges', the Joneses' and the Van Blunders' and at length reached the house of my aunt, who was on the afternoon performing the arduous physical labor of introducing her daughter to society. Great, then, was my cousin's astonishment when Bennington Carter was announced, for she knew that he abhorred tea. But greater still was her astonishment when he let fall the hand she held to him, turned suddenly, craned his neck so as to see over the knot of men about the door and dashed out of the room.

Carter had seen her at last, but was only a glimpse as the door swung upon her. He rushed up the stairs to the dressing room and bounded down again to his cab.

"Which way did Miss Walcott's carriage go?" he cried to the man who called his conveyance for him.

"Up Fifth avenue, sir," replied that astonished man.

"After it!" exclaimed Carter, jumping in and slamming the door.

The bewildered Jehu swung his vehicle around the corner and dashed up the avenue, crowded with carriages. Eight blocks, however, told on the beast, and the driver found it expedient to draw up at the curb and hold a colloquy with his fare.

"So you have lost it, eh?" cried Carter, angrily.

"Yes, sir," replied the cabby. He tipped his hat most respectfully in the hope of mollifying the angry man.

Carter threw himself moodily back in the seat and for a time was silent. It was already dark. The pavement was filled with people hurrying home after the day's work. He had visited every place where he could have hoped to find her, yet lost her. Of a sudden he leaned through the window and to the cabby said, "Do you see any awnings about here?"

The man pierced the gloom with his eyes and at length pointed meaningly with his whip down a side street to a residence in front of which a score of carriages were gathered and an awning stretched from curb to curb.

"All it?" cried the fare.

Carter quickly ascended the steps of the strange house, boldly passed the servants in the hall, left his coat and hat up stairs and returned to the drawing-room.

"Carter, Carter, Carter?" muttered the overdressed but ill-bodily looking woman who greeted him there, tapping him on the arm with her fan and giving him a hearty shake of the hand. "I'm delighted to see you, Mr. Carter."

"It was awfully kind of you to come," said the short young girl at her side, in the formality repeated her. And when he passed on she whispered to her mother: "I'm sure I didn't send him cards. Why, it's Bennington Carter!"

My friend forced his way through a crowd of people he did not know and mustered his impreciation on himself for wasting precious time at such a place. She would never be here. He would slip out at once. What! Could be believe his eyes? Yonder she sat in a cozy corner of the dining-room, a tall young man bending over her.

"Why, Mr. Carter!" she cried, as he rushed breathlessly up to her.

"How in the world did you happen to come here?" he exclaimed.

"S-sh!" The young man moved away, and, she whispered apologetically, "Close business friends of my father's. But pray what brought you here?"

"I followed you."

"Shadowed me! That was very polite of you."

"But I wanted you to guess some more," he stammered.

"Oh!" The girl blushed deeply and fixed her eyes on the carpet.

"He quick," he said.

"Mr. Vanderbilt," said she, in a scarcely audible voice. She half arose from her chair.

Carter glanced behind him and saw Denby pushing his way through the crush about the tea table. "Oh, hurry!" he cried. "Say you must guess before you sail, or I'll never be hap—"

"I've guessed," she said demurely. "I'm very glad to see you, Mr. Denby."

"I've followed you all over town," exclaimed Denby, totally oblivious of the presence of his despised rival. "But at last—"

"I'm so sorry," she said, moving toward the drawing-room. "I'm so late now that really I must be going. But Mr. Carter, I really forgot. Let me remind you that we expect you to dine with us at seven. You can tell me all about it then."

Importation of German Birds.

In the years 1890 and 1891 a society in Portland, Ore., introduced 400 pairs of song birds from Germany into that State at an expense of little more than $2,000.

They multiplied with great rapidity, from two to four broods every year, so that the whole Willamette Valley, from Portland to Roseburg, is full of them.

When it is remembered that the insects and fungus diseases most dangerous for our vegetation are those which have been imported into this country from abroad, and that animals and birds which are held in check by some balance of forces in their native land often become a nuisance in a foreign country, just as rabbits have been in Australia and English sparrows in this country, it is possible that some of these songsters may prove injurious to crops. The chances are, however, that they will do more to help the farmer by keeping insects in check than they will to injure him.—Detroit Free Press.

"Seems to me," said Uncle Eben, "dat some er dese folks talks de most 'bout how po' bustness is, is dem as ain't got much bizness nohow."

THE PROFESSIONAL REFORMER.

An' so every day he saves the Almighty
Advice which it seemed to need great work;
And while we took in sewing
To keep things a-going
While he superintended the earth.

WINIFRED WARRE.

BY MRS. M. CORBET SEYMOUR.

The Grange was a large rambling old house. And it had need to be so, for the Marriots were a numerous family and at Christmas or in the summer holiday season, when the married sons brought their wives, and the married daughters were accompanied by their husbands and children, every room was filled.

At such times, Mr. Marriot appeared to glance round him with mild astonishment that so many children and grandchildren really belonged to him.

For six generations there had been Marriots at the Grange, eldest son generally succeeding eldest son. It was a tradition for each in his turn that the land had never decreased by one acre; that no mortgage had been raised upon it; and that none of the Marriots—man and woman—had ever even remotely brought dishonor on the name.

One August the annual gathering was not to be so numerous as usual. The children of one of the married daughters were ill with scarlet fever; one of the unmarried sons had gone to sea.

So when Ursula Marriot, who had been at school in France by way of finishing her education, wrote for permission to bring a friend home with her. It was decided that there would be a room to put at the disposal of this young lady.

A kindly letter of invitation was accordingly written by Mrs. Marriot to Miss Winifred Warre, and enclosed in that which told Ursula that her school comrade would be made very welcome at the Grange.

"I am sure you will all be charmed with Winnie," the girl had written. She was right; the Marriots were all delighted with their guest as soon as she stepped inside the grand old entrance hall.

She was a tall, lovely creature, older certainly by a year or two than Ursula, who was just seventeen. She was dressed in sober brown, with a pink knot of ribbon at the throat; and the rose that was in her cheek, and the lilies that were scattered by the coils of her abundant hair.

From the first evening Winnie Warre became as a queen among the younger party. And sometimes, when by knowing her better they grew more familiar with her, Mrs. Marriot would ask her to sit with them for a half hour in "the sanctum," as their children called it.

The girl's parents were dead, and she was quite without near relatives, or indeed friends, except for a grandmother, whom she had only seen twice in her life, and who did not interest herself in her nor care to introduce her to his family. He advised, even after the came of age, that she should make her home with "Mrs. Jellicoe" in the foreign school where she had been educated from quite a little child.

Louis Marriot, the only grown-up unmarried son, fell deeply in love with this lively, charming friend of his sister Ursula.

But neither his father nor his mother liked the idea of such a marriage. They wanted for Louis the daughter of a thoroughly English home; some one whose family was well known to them.

"You have not engaged yourself?" said Mrs. Marriot anxiously, when her son made his little confession of love for pretty Winnie Warre.

"I have not said a word; nor hinted to her what I feel for her," explained Louis. "I would not, until I had spoken to you and to my father. But if I may not marry Winnie—and I shall never marry without your consent—I shall go through life as a single man."

And then he asked them not to oppose him for a year or a while; at least until the girl had finished her stay at the Grange.

"Do not notice his departure, or question him," said Mrs. Marriot to the rest of her family. "Louis is behaving manfully and honorably, just as I should expect him to do."

It was Christmas before he came back again. A long absence this for a home-loving Marriot. And he had changed, too; changed into a grave and thoughtful man.

He even deferred to Winnie by begging his mother to let that be a sealed subject.

"But don't allow it to interfere with Ursula's friendship," he said. "Winifred is a very solitary girl. It will be kind of you to ask her now and then to the Grange, and at such times I will always go away—unless you and my father change your minds and tell me you can welcome her as my wife."

Several months passed by, during which Ursula exchanged several letters with her friend. She generally read Winnie's news aloud, for the benefit of the family, at the breakfast table; the impression of every one was that the girl seemed less happy at the French school after that one summer's stay in England.

"I know now what a home is like," she wrote once, "and I envy you, Ursula."

A great grief grew near it was evident that Louis grew restless. He wanted Winnie to be invited to the Grange even though the invitation would involve his own absence; but his parents said they could not spare him. They begged him, for their sakes to remain for the family gatherings until during the holiday months. By this time Mrs. Marriot would gladly have yielded to Louis' wish; she could not bear to see him so unhappy; but Mr. Marriot was immovable. He would not countenance an unequal marriage.

One day early in September a telegraph boy arrived at the Grange. He brought a message from the lady directress of the French school to the effect that Miss Warre was dangerously ill and not expected to live. But she had so earnestly begged that some one from the Grange would go over to her that it was thought better to comply. One child, if compiled with, not "Poor dear," said Mrs. Marriot reading the telegram; and then she handed it to Louis, who turned white to the lips as he glanced toward his father.

"I must go," he said.

"Certainly. We will go together," said Mr. Marriot; he turned to a timetable which always had its place among his papers, and began studying it. "If one of the girls can pack a portmanteau in ten minutes," he added, "we shall be able to catch the next boat from Dover."

In a quarter of an hour father and son jumped into the dog-cart which waited to take them to the station.

These facts were in a letter bearing the French postmark was received at the Grange. It was from Mr. Marriot, and only consisted of a few lines. They had found Winifred extremely ill, he said, but so pleased to see them that he felt quite touched. She had asked for some flowers from the Grange because she had no other friends. Louis could be having admirably in his calm self-control.

A second letter told rather more. It seemed that influenza had made its appearance in the school, and Winnie was not only one of the first, but one its worst victims. She had, however, got over the attack; but instead of becoming convalescent she grew alarmingly weak, and the doctor spoke frankly of her danger. Some mental trouble was preying on the girl's vitality, he decided, and her state was serious.

When she heard that hope for her was very small she seemed rather glad than otherwise, and begged that some one from the Grange might be summoned by telegram. In this letter Mr. Marriot said that her life was still trembling in the balance. The mere fact of her surviving so long was a slightly hopeful sign, but he could not speak with more confidence in a few days.

The next letter told that the corner was turned; Winnie would live unless any relapse occurred.

"We cannot of course leave her until her recovery is quite certain," said Louis's father at this time. "It seems such a comfort to her to know that we are near. And in a private enclosure to his wife he added, "The poor child loves Louis as devotedly as he loves her. She does not dream that I surprised her secret. She, like our brave boy, has tried to be brave fight. But there is a language of the eyes which is not to be mistaken."

The fourth letter made a profound sensation at the Grange. It begged Mrs. Marriot to have everything ready to receive Winnie as soon as she would be able to travel—it might be in a fortnight's time, or at longest, three weeks.

"We cannot leave her in a place of which she seems weary when the doctor declares that the danger is past and the cheerful society will do more now than medicines," wrote Mr. Marriot. "Communications have passed between the girl's guardian and myself, and as I have assured him that we shall treat her as one of our own daughters he willingly consents to her leaving France."

"We will soon make her strong at the Grange," cried Ursula, and she at once scribbled off a note to her friend, begging her to get well enough to travel by the first boat possible.

But it was the last day of February who that party of three reached England.

Louis sprang joyfully out of the three closed carriage which conveyed them from the station to the Grange. How very glad and bright he looked. How changed from the grave, depressed man he had been at the same hour a year. In the light of which Mrs. Marriot asked herself again if her husband had yielded; but her knowledge of his character compelled her to decide no.

It was but a very white and feeble girl, looking like a bundle of shawls, who was carried in a little later and then from the hall to the drawing-room—the "little sanctum" she remembered so well.

Nothing but the brown eyes remained of the once brilliant and lovely Winifred Warre; and yet her face was sweet.

Mrs. Marriot was an accomplished nurse, and the invalid was forced to rest on a couch and take some refreshment before she attempted to go upstairs to the room made ready for her.

These Louis carried behind her with a certain air of proprietorship which told everything laid his hand on her shoulder.

"Father has given in," cried Ursula.

"Yes," said Mr. Marriot, with a smile. "Winnie is ever on your will; Louis has convinced of my error. Ursula, Louis has deserved this happy ending to his lovestory, and now all we have to do is to get ready for the wedding."

By dint of care and nursing Winnie got well, but she was a long time about it—so long, that there was no marriage festivity until after midsummer.

And then the young couple settled down in the west wing of the house, and the happy pair, who became one of the best loved of the numerous daughters-in-law, even though the neighbors always alluded to her as of "no particular family."

WALES VS. WILLIAM.

TRUE CAUSES OF THE FEUD BETWEEN PRINCE AND EMPEROR.

Gain Borrowed $2,000,000 of Emperor Frederick in Order to Settle With the Heirs of the John Mackenzie for the Amount His Old Friend Had Lent Him.

Emperor William is cordially detested in England. The English now regard him as the chief foe of Great Britain, not only in Europe, but in every part of the world. So it is probable that the Prince of Wales was prompted by a feeling of deference to the openly expressed sentiment of his countrymen when he declined to enter his yacht Britannia for the Jubilee Cup of the Emperor. Indeed he refused to take part this year in any match in which the Emperor's vessel was entered. Between the Prince and his nephew there exists a most bitter animosity. The antagonism dates back to the boyhood of the Emperor, who was never a pleasant or amiable lad.

As long as Unser Fritz was alive, Emperor William took a back seat. Until a couple of years before his death, the late Kaiser was generally believed to be perfectly healthy, and so the prospects of young William according to the throne seemed exceedingly remote. The Prince of Wales therefore paid very little attention to his nephew, except to snub him at every possible opportunity. He made no secret of the fact that he regarded him as a little cad.

When Emperor Frederick became afflicted with the terrible malady that stilled him his son William allied himself to his foes, and shocked all Europe by his extraordinarily unfilial behavior to his parents. He even went so far as to head a clique in Berlin, which aimed to deprive Unser Fritz of the succession to the crown, on the ground that he was afflicted with an incurable malady, William apparently forgetting that he himself could have been disbarred from the throne on analogous grounds.

Fortunately old Emperor William put his foot down, and would not allow either his grandson or his Chancellor to subject Frederick the Noble, as he still is to her Germany, to any act of injustice. But the fact remains that young William sided throughout the closing years of his father's life with the latter's bitterest enemies and after his death excited the indignation of all Europe by his disgraceful treatment of his widowed mother, upon whom he heaped every kind of slight, until his own wild extravagances and her inheritance of the enormous fortune of the Duchess of Saldhern made him, to a certain extent, financially dependent upon her.

The Prince of Wales is very fond of his elder sister, Empress Frederick, and when, shortly after his accession to the throne, the young Emperor seized his mother's papers, to see to it that there were not secret documents of state amongst them, and also imprisoned a number of her friends, including Prof. Geffken, the Prince proceeded to Berlin and remained there for several weeks, with the avowed purpose of shielding his sister against her undutiful son, who affected to ignore his presence and neglected all the customary official courtesies due to the rank of the Prince.

Matters were further complicated by a financial transaction which led to no end of ill-feeling between the Emperor and the Prince.

When Emperor Frederick died it was ascertained that ten million marks or about $3,000,000 had been loaned by Frederick to his brother-in-law, the Prince of Wales, who was in painful financial straits, because the heirs of his ex-butler, a friend, Sir John Mackenzie, had called upon the Royal Highness to repay the large sums loaned to him by that worthy, and had coerced him to settle, under threat of legal proceedings.

The latter would have done the Prince incalculable injury, since they would have served to call public attention, not only to his financial troubles, but likewise to the fact that the late Sir James owed his title solely to having obliged England's future King by loaning him money. The Prince thereupon endeavored unsuccessfully to recoup himself by heavy play at Monte Carlo and at the clubs at Nice and Cannes.

Finally he got into such straits that he turned for assistance to his favorite sister and to her husband. They came to his rescue. "Unser Fritz" loaned the Prince a sum of money sufficient to tide him over his difficulties, on the understanding that the Prince would repay it to the Prussian Crown when he should become King of Great Britain.

Emperor William no sooner ascended the throne than he began to dun his Uncle Bertie for this money. Because Cecil Rhodes put the Prince in the way of making money in South African stocks, His Royal Highness was able to get out of debt to his abhorred nephew.

The antipathy of the Prince for Emperor William, which was shared by Albert Edward's brother-in-law, the late Czar; by the King of Greece, and by all royalties who are contemporaries of Wales, is likely to influence the political situation of the future. As long as Queen Victoria lives she will be a restraining influence, not only upon the English, but also upon the Germans, who cannot forget that she is their Emperor's grandmother, that she spanked him freely when he was a boy, and that to this day, possibly in consequence thereof, she is the only person in the world to whom he is respectful.—New York World.

The Bank of England contains silver ingots which have lain in its vaults since 1696.

HOW GRANT DID IT.

Spanish Mode of Warfare Once Effectively Opposed.

Two letters marked "confidential" and possessing a significant relevancy to the present Cuban situation are on file at the State Department. When President Grant entered upon his first term he found the Spanish Government trying to suppress an insurrection in Cuba by methods which the present Captain General Weyler has copied. "In the interest of Christian civilization and common humanity," the commander protested first through the Spanish Minister at Washington and a few weeks later through the American Minister at Madrid against "such a mode of warfare." He declared that "the time has come when this struggle should be carried on in a more humane way."

Back from Madrid came by cable: "Severe and positive orders given to stop the scandalous executions of captives and like cruelties."

President Grant did not stop at Spanish promises. His Secretary of State, Hamilton Fish, immediately to Consul General Plumb at Havana as follows.

"We get information from Madrid wrote under cover of 'confidential' that severe and positive orders have been given to stop the scandalous execution of captives and like cruelties. It is of great importance that the department should know at an early date how far the news at Madrid can be depended on."

The Consul General made a careful investigation and reported in detail, marking his letters "confidential." In summing up his conclusions he wrote:

"I have had no occasion whatever to doubt the good intentions of General de Rodas, but the circumstances with which he has to deal may in some power to overcome them."

Then the Consul General quoted from the most recent orders issued by the Captain General to his subordinates to show the inauguration of a more human policy as the result of the action at Washington. These orders were as follows:

"All functionaries who depend upon my authority will cause to be respected the lives, houses and properties of all the inhabitants without distinction, punishing with vigor those acting in a contrary manner.

"The greatest care shall be taken that in proceeding in any manner against foreigners no legal requisite shall be omitted for the just consideration that is due to their nations.

"Civilization and the prestige of Spain before the judgment of other nations impose the obligation of being as sparing as possible in the shedding of blood, and this painful extreme should only be resored to with leaders, or men against whom there have been proved crimes of incendiarism or assassination."

REED'S SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

The House of Representatives Very Like a District School.

The Speaker sat on a forward seat of the open car going up the avenue to the Capitol. His head was bent toward the wide open sheet of the morning paper. A green necktie of aggravating hue climbed to the top of the collar and seemed to call for adjustment. Members of the House sat beside the Speaker and watched the progress of that necktie. One of them, a little bolder and fresher than the rest, leaned over and suggested:

"Excuse, me, Mr. Speaker, but your necktie is getting above your collar; shall I fix it for you?"

"It's all right," drawled Mr. Reed, not raising his eyes from the paper; "I always wear it that way."

Like a schoolboy, the member shifted uneasily in his seat, while, like other schoolboys, the listening Congressmen tittered at the time-honored joke.

There is much in the proceedings of the House to remind of schoolmaster and school. Several distinguished Missourians sat in the gallery and witnessed the semi-weekly skit of assemblying and adjourning. When the House had been "let out" they agreed that they had seen a very striking parallel of boyhood experiences. When a little later they sat in the cloak room and heard bold talk of defying "Old Reed" and getting something through the House, they recalled the plottings in the woodshed to upset the school room discipline. The boy is the father of the man. "Cloak room backbone" and woodshed nerve are much alike. —Cor. St. Louis Globe.

"What do you mean by the drone in the hive?"

"The woman on the tandem."—New York Journal.

A LEADERLESS GOVERNMENT.

Only Occasionally has a President Risen to the Position of Jupiter.

This singular leaderless structure of our government, says Professor Wilson in the July Atlantic, never openly revealed until the present generation, and even now awaits general recognition. The framers of the Constitution no doubt expected the President and his advisers to exercise a real leadership in affairs, and for more than a generation their expectation was fulfilled. Washington was accepted as leader no less by Congress than by the people. Hamilton, from the Treasury, really gave the government both its policy and its administrative structure. If John Adams had less authority than Washington, it was because the party he represented was losing its hold upon the country. Jefferson was the head of a triumphant party chief, the most unchecked master of legislative policy we have had in America, and his dynasty was continued in Madison and Monroe. But Madison's terms saw Clay and Calhoun come to the front in the House, ready to guide and coach the president rather than be too absolutely controlled by him; Monroe was not of the calibre of his predecessors; and no party could rally about so stiff a man, so cool a partisan as John Quincy Adams; and so the old political function of the presidency came to an end, and it was left for Jackson to give it a new one,—instead of a leadership of council a leadership and discipline by rewards and punishments. Then the slavery issue began to dominate politics, and a long season of concentrated passion brought individual men of force into power in Congress,—natural leaders of men like Clay, eloquent advocates like Webster, keen debaters like Calhoun. The war made the Executive of necessity the nation's leader once more, with the great Lincoln at its head, who seemed to embody, with a touch of genius, the way character of the race itself. Then reconstruction came, and we were left to wonder what, henceforth, in the days of ordinary peace and industry, we were to make of a government which could in humdrum times yield us no leadership at all. The tasks which confront us now are like those which centred in the war, in which passion made men run together to a common work. We shall not get these mere compromises of Clay, but a constructive leadership of which Clay hardly showed himself capable.

Birds With an Eye for Color.

Two orioles were building a nest near the house, and as soon as this was discovered worsteds of various kinds were put out, one lot near the place where one bird was building and a second lot close to where the other bird was at work. Each lot of worsted consisted of pieces about two feet long of the following colors:—Gray, black, brown, light blue and light pink. In a little while it was noticed that one bird had exhausted all the blue worsted in the supply near her and that she seemed dissatisfied with the other colors. After some flying around she found the second lot of worsted, from which the second bird was taking all the pink. From this place the first bird immediately took all the blue she could get, while the second bird flew over and selected all the pink which the first had refused.

When these colors were all gone the others were used, but not eagerly, and whenever any more pink or blue was hung out it was immediately seized on by one bird or the other. Time and again the experiment was repeated of putting pink or blue among the other colors and every time they were hunted out, each bird choosing the color she originally preferred. It was proof that each bird wanted one color and one bird the other.—Chicago Record.

An Improvement.

"I am trying a new brand of shaving soap, sir," remarked the barber. "How does it seem to go?"

"It's rather better than he kind you've been using lately," said the customer.

"Seems to soften up the beard better, doesn't it?"

"Yes; and then it's a change. I was getting tired of the taste of sassafras." —Chicago Tribune.

An Over Indulgence in Slang.

"It is becoming a fad among the girls to knit golf hose for their sweethearts. We expect a pair of golf hose nit."—Mt. Morris Union.

An Editor in Ecstacy.

From all appearances those of us who are able to eat June will have cheap living next winter.—Dansville Breeze.

THE NEW LIBRARIAN.

JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG TORCHED THE WORLD WITH GRANT.

He Was One of Horace Greely's Boys on the Tribune, and Did Good Work as a War Correspondent—He Also Made a Failure of a Newspaper Enterprise.

The new librarian to Congress, John Russell Young was born on a farm near Downingtown, Pa., on November 20, 1841. He began his newspaper career at the age of 16 years, when he became a copyholder to the proof-readers on the Philadelphia Press. He was soon made a reporter and his advance in his chosen profession was so rapid that before he was of age he was one of the editorial writers. When the editor of that journal, the late Colonel John W. Forney, was elected Secretary of the United States Senate he took Mr. Young to Washington with him as his private secretary. While engaged in that capacity Mr. Young continued to write for the Press and when the battle of Bull Run was fought he was present in the capacity of war correspondent and won no little credit by his description of that engagement. He left the Press in 1865, to go to New York to accept a position with the house of Jay Cooke & Co., which needed the services of a trained newspaper man to arouse popular interest in its efforts to place a loan for the aid of the Government. While thus engaged he became a contributor to the editorial page of the New York Tribune, and the excellence of his work soon attracted the attention of Horace Greeley, who early in the year 1866 appointed him the managing editor of the Tribune to succeed Whitney Howard Gay. Mr. Young was then only in his 25th year, and would have much preferred to serve the paper as its Washington correspondent, but Mr. Greeley insisted upon his taking the higher position, which he did, displaying in the discharge of its duties executive talents of a high order, and accomplishing a reorganization of the staff of the Tribune, which won him high reputation in newspaper circles. He remained in the service of this journal until 1869, having in the meantime studied law and been admitted to the New York Bar. After a year passed in Western travel Mr. Young established a morning paper in New York, which did not prove a financial success.

JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG.

In 1872 he accepted an editorial position on the New York Herald, and took up his residence in Europe, having charge of its foreign news service, and serving the Herald in Paris and London, as well as on the continent.

It was during his residence in London, in 1877, that Mr. Young was invited by General Grant to accompany him on his famous tour around the world. In the two years he passed in the constant companionship of the great soldier were laid the foundation of a friendship only interrupted by the death of General Grant. Mr. Young wrote many brilliant articles describing the scenes and incidents of the tour, and afterwards collected and published them in two large volumes, under the title of "Around the World with General Grant." Returning to New York in 1879, he resumed his position on the editorial staff of the Herald, which he retained until he accepted the appointment, offered to him by President Arthur, of Minister to China. His acceptance of this position, it was stated, was given in deference to the wishes of General Grant, who felt that the knowledge of the Chinese gained by Mr. Young during their joint stay in the Celestial Kingdom would make him an exceptionally valuable representative of his Government. He was appointed in 1882 and resigned in 1885, after the election of Mr. Cleveland.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN MEMORIAL.

The Largest of the Southern Battlefield Monuments.

A million dollars has been spent in battlefield monuments during the past few years, and New York has spent nearly a quarter of the total amount.

The largest monument yet proposed for the famous Southern battlefield, is to be placed on Lookout Mountain which overlooks Chattanooga.

The monument is 61 feet high, and is surmounted by a 12-foot bronze figure of a color bearer, executed by Caspar Bubere. The main column is of New England granite.

LOOKOUT MEMORIAL MONUMENT.

This monument is intended as a memorial to the brave soldiers in General Greene's brigade of five regiments. General Greene, who is the oldest living graduate of West Point, is now spending his declining years at the home of his son, Colonel Francis Vinton Greene, in New York.

Bronze tablets on the base of the monument will recite the deeds of valor of the five New York regiments. They were the Sixth, under command of Colonel Abel Godard; Seventy-eight, Lieutenant Colonel Herbert von Hammerstein; 102d, Colonel James C. Lane; 137th, Captain Milo B. Eldredge, and 149th, Colonel Henry A. Barnum.

A NEW NEW ENGLAND.

The Trolley Car and the Bicycle are Merging Farm and Town.

The trolley roads, says Alvin F. Sanborn in the July Atlantic, are rapidly covering Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut with a network that is slowly and surely redistributing the population; it seems almost inevitable that a great part of the present rural area of these three States will ultimately be included in the suburbs of their numerous and widely scattered industrial centres and of their dozen or more larger cities. When this condition arrives, if it does arrive, rural life will have become suburban, and farming, aside from market-gardening, will have practically disappeared. The bicycle and good roads are exerting a minor but considerable influence in the same direction.

Equally important is the fact that large areas in all sections of New England are in process of transformation from farms to cities of country-seats. Residents of the cities are coming more and more to make their real homes in the country. They are building their country houses with more comfort and more solidly, and are living in them a much larger part of the year than formerly. The country season extends already from the first of May to the first of November, and is still lengthening. Improved railway and steamboat transportation, the multiplication of large fortunes, greater leisure, above all a growing appreciation of the spots and resources of country life, have contributed to this result. It looks very much as if our urban society were attaching itself primarily to the land,—living on the land, and leaving it for the city only in the festive season. Whether this tendency will produce again a landed aristocracy instead of an aristocracy of other forms of wealth, who can say? One thing only is sure,—it would produce thereby a new New England.

Mrs. Kniver—"For mercy's sake, Mary, what are the children quarreling about?"

Mary—"It's only in fun, mem; they be playing they're married."—Boston Transcript.

KIDNAPPING A BOY.

THE LOSS OF CHARLIE ROSS RECALLED BY HIS FATHER'S DEATH.

Twenty Year Ago the Story of Abduction Was Known in Every Household in This Country—It is Now Retold—Theory Only as to the Villains Fate.

Christian K. Ross, the father of Charlie Ross, whose abduction made him and his parents objects of world-wide interest and sympathy, died recently in Philadelphia.

In 1876, after the abduction of his boy and after he had spent much of his fortune in searching for the fair-haired lad, Governor Hartranft appointed him Master Warden of the Port of Philadelphia. He had been appointed for his eighth consecutive term, having been continued by every successive Governor regardless of party. He wrote a book about the abduction, called "Charlie Ross," which was also taken, but abandoned by the men after driving eight miles. Three days afterward a badly-spelled letter, in a disguised handwriting, was received by the father, stating that the child would not be returned without a large ransom, and would be killed if any proceedings tending to the arrest of the abductors took place. A reward of $20,000 was offered by the Mayor for the restoration of the child and the arrest of the abductors, but no clue of them was obtained until 1882, when a New York policeman, Captain Henry Hedden, of the Thirteenth Precinct, obtained a clue implicating William Mosher and Joseph Douglas. "Gill" Mosher, William's brother, furnished the clue by stating that his brother had once approached him with a scheme for abducting one of W. H. Vanderbilt's children.

Thereupon a long and arduous search began for Mosher and Douglas. It lasted four months and a half without the men being found. On the night of December 14, however, the house of Judge Van Brunt, at Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, was entered by burglars. It was unoccupied, but was connected by a burglar alarm with the residence of Judge Van Brunt across the street. Mr. Van Brunt, aroused his son and two man servants, and arming them, surrounded the vacant house. Two burglars finally came out, and were called upon to halt. They replied with pistol shots, and the quarrelsome opened fire on them, killing one and mortally wounding the other.

The two men were Mosher and Douglas. Mosher was dead and Douglas was dying. Knowing that his end was near he said:

"I have $40 in my pocket. I wish to be buried with it. It's no use lying now, Mosher and I stole Charley Ross from Germantown."

"Why did you steal him?"

"To make money."

"Who has the child now?"

"Mosher knows all about the child. Ask him."

"Mosher is dead. Can you tell us where the child is?"

"God knows I tell the truth," he replied, "I don't know where he is. Mosher knew."

Walter Ross, the other child, was taken to Brooklyn and identified the bodies in the Morgue as those of the men who had kidnapped him and his brother."

"William Westervelt, a brother-in-law of Mosher, acted as go-between in the attempted negotiations with Mr. Ross and the burglars. Westervelt evidently willing to ameliorate Douglass, but wanted to save his brother-in-law.

Westervelt was brought to this city, tried and convicted of complicity in the conspiracy to abduct the boy, and was sentenced to seven years in the Eastern Penitentiary. He served his sentence and is supposed to have returned to New York.

One curious incident of Westervelt's connection with the case was the fact that he was promoted a position on the New York police force if he would tell what he knew of the abduction. He gave sufficient information to justify the belief that he did know of the whereabouts of the boy, but constantly declared that he would say nothing about it as appointment was sure to come out. This never came, and he was sent to prison.

Once, while his devoted wife was urging him to tell what he knew after the incident of the North river, he replied: "They will never get the boy."

"Why?" his wife asked.

"Because he is beyond reach," he replied sullenly.

"What do you mean?" demanded Detective Charles F. Miller, of this city, who was present at the interview.

"Because he is beyond life," said Westervelt.

This is taken in confirmation of the generally accepted police theory that Mosher and Douglass had thrown the boy into the North river when hard pressed by pursuers. Soon after the burglary on Long Island the body of a boy was found in the North river, and, while it was never positively identified by Mr. Ross as that of his lost boy, the detectives claimed to have received positive assurances that it was Charlie Ross.

Robert—"Is Harry fond of female society?" Richard—"Immoderately. I've known him to play whist with three women."—Boston Transcript.

WILD AND SERIOUS RUN.

FRIGHTENED HORSES LEFT A WAKE OF PAINFUL ACCIDENTS.

A Maddened Team Crashed Into a Buggy on the Dugway Road and Injured the Occupants by Causing Another Runaway.

Wildly galloping down a steep hill that leads from the Passaic valley into Washingtonville, dragging a heavy platform wagon in a zigzag course, and without a restraining line or guiding rein, two frightened and foam-flecked steeds run a course of terror, Monday, that was beset with a serious accident.

A team made up of a horse owned by Mrs. H. J. Smith and one owned by Alexander Campbell, of Metuchen, was driven to the former's farm house on the Dugway road Monday for the purpose of transporting a load of Mrs. Smith's furniture to Metuchen. They were in charge of Charles Giles who, with the assistance of another man, had about filled the wagon with the furniture. Both men were in the house after some other articles when they heard a clatter of hoofs and the noise of the wagon being jerked along at a rapid rate. They ran to the door to see the team tearing madly out into the road, scattering the load of furniture in their wake.

The horses were going at a terrific pace and the severe jolting the wagon received as it was hauled over the rough road soon resulted in all the furniture being thrown into the roadway.

Every moment the horses increased their pace, and as they went over the brow of the hill and darted down the incline they were going like a Sheepshead Bay winner. A quarter of a mile down the hill Adolph Killam, who works Mrs. Smith's farm, was driving along at a moderate speed. He was accompanied by his mother. Unconscious of the oncoming reckless runaways, Killam kept the centre of the road, which is not very wide. Suddenly he heard the clatter of the runaways' hoofs. Turning his head, he saw the team almost upon him. They were coming at a terrific pace.

Killam realized the danger that confronted him and he quickly turned his horse to the side of the road in the endeavor to give the runaways enough space to pass without striking his buggy.

The effort was useless, however, as the ungoverned team had the center of the road and held to it as they came to Killam's buggy. The heavy wagon, swinging first on one side and then on the other, struck the buggy of Killam's with terrific force. The buggy careened to one side and then two of the wheels collapsed. Killam's horses, frightened by the passing runaways and the jar when the collision occurred, made a wild plunge for ward.

The result was that Killam and his mother were precipitated out of their seats with great force. In some manner Killam caught his head between the spokes of one of the collapsed wheels. He was dragged for quite a distance, but held pluckily to the lines and had presence of mind enough to guide the horse to the lot surrounding the Wilson Memorial chapel.

The horse was brought to a standstill and Killam extricated himself and painfully gained his feet. His buggy was completely wrecked and he was a sight to behold, since the horse had dragged him through a stagnant pool of water. He was badly bruised all over and suffered intense pain.

Mrs. Killam was fortunate enough not to get caught in the wrecked buggy, but she struck the ground with enough force to stun her for a moment. She regained her feet again, however, and started towards Daniel Acker's house. There her bruises were doctored and the accumulated dirt and dust brushed off her clothes. Though enduring excruciating pain, she persisted in going to the top of the hill where her sister, Mrs. Wersing, lives. She arrived there feeling exhausted, and had no sooner got in the house than she fainted.

Doctor Zeglio was sent for and on his arrival gave the injured woman proper treatment. No bones were broken but it is feared that she may have sustained internal injuries. She will be confined to the house, at all events, for sometime.

Killam returned to his home from where the runaway started. He will be unable to do any work. It is considered miraculous that he escaped with as few injuries as he did.

The runaway team continued their wild flight down to Washingtonville, turning the corner there and on through the notch, finally being stopped in front of Brookside Sanitarium by colliding with a pole. One horse was thrown off his feet and the wagon badly wrecked.

—A recent census of the peach trees of Sussex county, shows a total of 215,960, of which 112,760 are bearing.

—The contract case of Bremmer against Blake in Justice Thomas' court, has been settled out of court.

—Meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Thursday evening at 7.45 at the rooms of the W. C. T. U., Watchung avenue.

MONEY DOES TALKING.

SOMERVILLE OFFICIALS WILL ALLOW NO TROLLEY BLUFF.

Petitions for Right of Way Must be Accompanied by Consents and a Deposit of $7,000 to Ensure Responsibility.

The Board of Commissioners of Somerville evidently believe that some one is playing the bluff game with them. The New York and Philadelphia Traction Company and the New Brunswick Traction Company have applied for franchises in Bridgewater township and the Somerville Commissioners don't intend to be made the part of any fight for franchises which is of the dog in the manger stripe. At the last meeting they passed this resolution:

"Resolved, That any person, persons or corporations proposing to make an application to the Board of Commissioners of Somerville, for a franchise for a street railroad through a street or streets in this corporation, shall at the time of making such application, or previous thereto, file with the clerk of this Board a sufficient number of consents and deposit with the Treasurer of the Board the sum of $7,000."

The Commissioners believe that this will put a stop to all bluffing. They have had some experiences with the trolley roads before. They know that it takes money to build and maintain a road.

The Central Traction Company found this out after going to great expense in securing franchises and in laying a portion of their tracks at Somerville; they became insolvent before they could get in working order. Some are cruel enough to hint that they never had much real capital. Then the New York and Philadelphia Company took hold of the road and everyone thought they had clear sailing. But the Brunswick Traction Company has proved a great thorn in their side, and has thus far succeeded in keeping them out of Bound Brook. The Brunswick people have even invaded on the territory which the New York and Philadelphia people felt sure of, and propose to construct a track to Somerville on the same side of the road where the other company have already a portion of their tracks laid. This is cruel warfare, but the New York and Philadelphia people must face it.

An example of the cost of a franchise may be had in the offers already made. To the borough of Bound Brook both companies offer $5,000 for the use of the borough streets. They made a similar offer to the Bridgewater Township Committee, besides the expense of macadamizing a portion of the roadbed. They still have to get consents from the Board of Freeholders, the Board of Commissioners of both Somerville and Raritan, each of whom may ask as much or more for the right of way. After paying these amounts and building the road the receipts must be liberal to make the project a paying investment.

A SUICIDE'S IDENTITY.

Former Plainfield Domestic Supposed to Have Made Way With Herself.

A press despatch states that Mrs. Fannie Bullis, aged 21, employed at 453 Eighth street, this city, committed suicide by taking poison at the home of her mother in Elizabethtown, N. Y.

There is no such number as 453 on West Eighth street, but a woman who was known as Mrs. Fannie Bellis was employed in the household of W. B. Wadsworth, of 452 West Eighth street. She was a sister-in-law to John E. Hodges, who was employed by Mr. Wadsworth as coachman.

Both went up in New York state when Mr. Wadsworth and family went away on their summer vacation. Where Mrs. Bellis went could not be ascertained, but it is supposed that she was visiting relatives. Mrs. Bullis and and Mrs. Bellis are probably the same person.

The Rahway Postmastership.

There are quite a number of aspirants for the postmastership of Rahway, principal among whom are several veterans, including ex Councilman Joseph M. Potter, Councilman Frank Bliss, and Superintendent of the water Board D. S. Urmston. In addition, petitions have been circulated by the friends of Thomas A. Kidd and ex-Postmaster H. B. Bollinson. Postmaster Tufts, who is also a veteran, may be allowed to hold on.

—Justice Nash has issued judgment in the case of Eugene M. Laing against Harry Baglin, on contract, for $14.80 and costs.

Ask your Druggist for a generous 10 CENT TRIAL SIZE.

Ely's Cream Balm

contains no cocaine, mercury nor any other injurious drug. It is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at once. It opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation. Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full Size 50c.; Trial Size 10c. at Druggists or by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York

Her Face Was Her Fortune.

A Brooklyn Girl Marries Through Taking Capsuloids.

A marriage occurred in Brooklyn last week which possessed many interesting features. The bride says that she does not believe she would have been married had it not been for Capsuloids. She had been ailing and sickly and had used every effort to secure color and health. She heard that Capsuloids filled the veins with rich, red blood, toned the nerves, imparted strength to the frame and so she determined to try them. The result was all that she had expected, and she is now a rosy, happy, healthy bride, all because Capsuloids filled her blood with natural iron or Hæmoglobin.

The Iron and Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

COASTED AT A FAST PACE

BICYCLE GOT BEYOND RIDERS CONTROL AND STRUCK BABY CARRIAGE

A. V Noland was the Unfortunate Cyclist who Experienced an Exciting Coast near South Orange on Saturday.

Coasting down the steep South Orange hill, Saturday afternoon, A. V. Noland, of Watchung avenue, had an exciting encounter with a baby carriage that nearly cost the occupant of the carriage its life and threatened to bring Mr. Noland's wheeling career to a sad and sudden ending.

Saturday, Mr. Noland went bicycle riding with Mrs. W. T. Pelletier, of La Grande avenue, and the Misses Bass, of Second place. They reached South Orange in safety and came to the steep hill that is in close proximity to that suburban place. Mr. Noland decided to coast and placing his feet on the coasters, started down the hill.

Now, right at the most exciting part of the coast is a turn in the road which can be rounded in safety if nothing happens to be in the road. Just as Mr. Noland reached the turn, a baby carriage, pushed by a white-capped nurse-girl made its appearance right at the turn and directly in the path of the flying wheelman. The time was limited but the cyclist saw that he must bring up against the tree at the corner or else collide with the preambulator. Going at the rate he was, a collision with a tree meant almost certain death and so he turned his course for the innocent baby carriage. He tried to avoid that but the distance was too short and soon there was a crash, as the wheel struck the light vehicle.

Wheelman and wheel performed all sorts of gyrations down the hill, while the child was thrown out of the carriage and the carriage itself hurled down the hill. The maid screamed and all was confusion.

After the different participants in the wreck had gathered themselves together it was learned that no one was killed. The child was badly frightened but was not outherwise injured. Mr. Noland had his hand and shoulder badly cut by the sudden arrival on the hard road bed. His valuable gold time piece had been thrown from his pocket by the force of the fall and was found not far from the scene of the disaster in a wrecked condition. The wheel was injured beyond repair.

The other members of the party gathered around and viewed the results of the accident with dismay, and then Mr. Noland carried the remains of his faithful steed to the nearest station and took the train for home.

BIG MORTGAGE FILED.

Middlesex Water Company Provides For the Issue of Bonds.

A mortgage has been filed for $200,000 in the County Clerk's office by the Middlesex Water Company to the New Jersey Title Gusrantee and Trust Company, to cover an issue of bonds which is soon to be made by the water company. The company was recently incorporated to supply water to villages in Middlesex county, and mains are being laid in Metuchen.

The president is Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, ex-Speaker of the House of Assembly, and the secretary is Meline W. Halsey. The company proposes to construct water works in Piscataway, Raritan and Woodbridge townships, and possibly other parts of Middlesex county.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

—For the finest products of the sea go to Roger's.

PASSING COMMENT.

The corner at Front and Somerset streets is beginning to be known as milkman's corner. Each morning about 9 o'clock, anywhere from 5 to 8 milk wagons are left standing there while the owners do their daily errands in town before starting for their homes over the mountain.

* * * *

An old opossum with nine youngsters can be seen in one of the windows of Rogers' bicycle establishment, on North avenue. A large crowd is constantly attracted to the window to get a sight of the strange animals, whose appearance is as unfamiliar to most people as their name is familiar. There are said to be large numbers of the animals in the mountains in Somerset county.

* * * *

Four-leaf clovers are considered rare, five-leaf clovers are seldom found while an eight-leaf clover is looked upon as a great curiosity. While out for a stroll, a few afternoons ago, a popular young woman of Washington Park found a bunch of eight leaf clovers growing by the roadside. She removed roots and all to her home and has been exhibiting the strange looking leaf to all her friends.

* * * *

In the window of a Watchung avenue drug store is a faithful representation of a bathing beach, constructed with seashore sand, a tank of real water and dolls ad infinitum, attired in miniature bathing suits. Of course, the water does not heat upon the coast with the fury of real surf, but the representation is, on the whole, lifelike enough to call forth a sigh from the lips of those who are prevented by the stern necessities of life from loafing away their summer at the seashore.

* * * *

A local merchant received quite a surprise a few days ago while waiting on a lady customer.

She had left her eight-months old baby in its carriage standing on the walk just outside the door. The weather was threatening, and just as a low rumble was heard, the baby commenced to cry. Quite innocently the merchant remarked:

"That sounds like thunder."

It took him about ten minutes to cipher out why the lady gave him a sharp look and left the store without making any purchases.

* * * *

A party of young people from this city went rowing on one of the lakes near Asbury Park, several days ago. One of the young men, who had done considerable rowing while at college, watched the attempts of the others to row with a very superior smile. After zig-zaging across the lake, the oars were given to him and he started to navigate the boat back to the dock. Now it happened that the keel to the boat had not been put on straight and the consequence was that the boat made sudden dives to the right at every possible occasion. The college boy found that rowing under such circumstances was not as easy as he had expected, and he finally reached the dock, bathed in perspiration, having had to back water with one oar almost all the way while pulling with the other.

* * * *

What becomes of all the old bicycles that were so generally used four or five years ago? It is hard to tell. Some of them may be found stored away in a corner of some garret, where they were laid when the new and more modern wheel came to take their place. Many more of them, however, were traded in with the bicycle dealers and sold by them to some concern dealing in second-hand materials. They in turn disposed of the wheels in little sequestered nooks about the country. To one who has toured through the country districts of New York and New Jersey, it is not an infrequent sight to see some farmer wrestling with that "pesky steed" which persists in going exactly where the rider does not want it to go. Once in a while, one of these old faithful machines is to be seen on the high road.

* * * *

Many of the young women of Plainfield and other cities as well are exhibiting fancy in novel kind. They are commonly known as monogram fans. They are black and have pasted on them the monograms and engraved letter heads of people, hotels, clubs and colleges. While these fair collectors want the letter heads that consist merely of the name of the club or college in raised or colored letters, it is the fancy monograms and flags that are most in demand. They are cut out and pasted on the black fan, making a novel but artistic design. Some of the collectors have been hunting for the monograms since last fall and now have large collections. College friends have been importuned. Some enterprising dealers have made up sheets of these monograms and saved the young men lots of trouble in having them all ready for him. Some of the collectors, however, are very particular to have those that come from persons or places that they know.

* * * *

"Between The Acts" smacks of things theatrical, and that is just what it is—a neat, readable little journal issued every Saturday in New York and prolific with sketches, verses and squibs, as well as liberally illustrated, of subjects that are of current interest and importance in the theatrical world. It is gossipy to a degree, but always toned reliably and respectfully—keeping well within and up to the tide of life that surges along the Rialto and adds gaiety to the Nations. There is no reason why "Between The Acts" should not have the curtain of popularity and success rung up on it every Saturday—the publication day. The clever little journal is under the management of Robert J. Campbell, Jr., who has been associated with metropolitan journalism for several years. Mr. Campbell is known to Plainfielders as The World reporter who traced out the wandering and erratic steps of Miss Lucretia Clark, the school preceptress, who mysteriously disappeared two years ago.

VOLUNTEERS WIN THREE.

They Make Run at First, But Are Soon on Their Knees.

The American Volunteers Sunday changed their meeting place to Chimney Rock, one mile north of Bound Brook, and used a shady spot in front of the Pleasant Rock Hotel for their services. When the drum began to beat the crowd in the hotel joined in the meeting. They showed the effects of the "home destroying drinks," as Capt. Young termed it.

The crowd became so ungentlemanly that Capt. Young threatened to have one person arrested.

Before they left the place three of the persons in the crowd were on their knees praying and vowing they would never drink again. One of them was a young lawyer from Somerville. He says he will defend the Volunteers free of charge if they cause the indictment of any one.

* * * *

J. Newton Goddard, of East Ninth street, has gone on a short vacation.

Miss Estelle White, of Jersey City, is visiting Miss Mary Beekman, of Clinton avenue.

Miss Maud Swift, of Brooklyn, is the guest of Miss Bessie Brower, of East Sixth street.

F. S. Martin and family, of Hillside avenue, are spending their summer on the Jersey coast.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

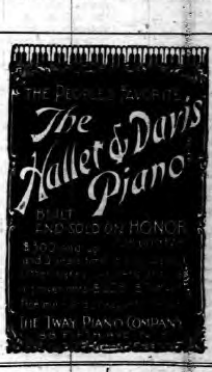
Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.



HOMES FOR CHILDREN.

The New Jersey Society Is Seeking Them, and Also Needs Money.

The New Jersey Children's Home Society is seeking homes for several beautiful babies, from two weeks to one year of age, both boys and girls; also one remarkably bright, healthy and good looking mulatto girl, six months old, and a lively mulatto boy of two years, smart and good disposition. The society has also seven nice boys between two and five years, and six healthy boys between six and eleven years of age; girls also from two to nine years. Any one desiring a child to adopt can apply to Rev. W. L. Mayo, assistant superintendent, 219 Tyler street, Trenton.

Funds are needed to provide for the care of these children while waiting for homes to open for them, and to clothe them and take them to such homes. Checks may be drawn in favor of John Sykes, treasurer, and mailed to Mr. Sykes or to Rev. G. H. Ingram, Trenton.

ASKED TO PAY FOR RECKLESS RIDING.

H. Way Pittis, It Is Said, Did Not Ring His Bell in Time.

Christopher Hansen, of South Plainfield, whose 3 year-old son was struck by a bicycle ridden by H. Way Pittis, of Central avenue, says that the injured lad was walking along in the road in company with his father and mother when Pittis approached at a rapid pace. Hansen says Pittis did not ring his bell until almost upon the party and too late for the little fellow to get out of the road. Hansen has asked Pittis to pay a portion of the expense that was incurred by the boy having his leg broken, but the latter is not inclined to do so. If he does not, however, it is likely that a suit for damages will be started against him.

Will you give up all that health means to you? If not, look out for impure blood. Cure boils, pimples, humors and all scrofulous tendencies by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable and do not purge, pain or gripe. All druggists.

—At Schloss' Palace shoe store, 218 West Front street, you not only get your money's worth for all goods purchased, but he presents you with a bottle of polish if you purchase tan shoes.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL XXX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 26, 189[illegible] NO. 34

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

SIX FEET OF CLAMS EATEN

UNION COUNTY REPUBLICANS HAVE A HUGE BAKE YESTERDAY.

Kean Hears An Ode—Devereaux Talks of Stevens's Gift of Prosperity, and Daly, of Hudson County, Sits at Horse-Shoe Table.

Union county Republicans, with John Kean and Foster M. Voorhees as banner attractions, held a clambake at Scott's, Neptune Heights, Tuesday. It was not altogether a Union county affair There were politicians present from Mercer, Middlesex, Somerset and Hudson counties.

Vice-President Hobart was expected, but a telegram received from him just after the delegation reached the grove was a notice of regret as well as congratulation.

Former Assemblyman Charles Codding, chairman of the County Committee, acted as "head push." Mr. Codding's fitness for the position was demonstrated by a collection of notables such as is seldom, if ever, secured, even for a clambake.

Among the more noted stars were Edmund Wooley, Republican Committee; Edmund Hicks, Richard Reading, Senator Reed, Robert Carson, Senator Skirm, Adjutant-General Robert L. Patterson, of Elizabeth; County Collector Wood, County Clerk Howard, both of Union; Chief of Police Tenny; Judge Atwater, Hamilton Kean, Thomas Palmer, Alderman George A. Squire, George E. Voorhees, Col. James Ferguson, J. J. Kraus, George Lissell, Edward Mulford, Henry Thompson, Col. James W. Hope, Gen. Farmer P. Nanser, Assemblyman Reading, Assemblyman Brown, of Monmouth; Judge DeMeza, of Plainfield; Assemblyman J. Martin Roll.

Assemblyman W. R. Coddington, former Sheriff Kyte, W. A. Clark, treasurer of the New Jersey State Agricultural Society; Deputy Revenue Collector Pruden, Major Holme, Major Benjamin King, Deputy Sheriff Clark, of Union; Mayor Fisk, of Plainfield; Mayor Ten Broeck, of Asbury Park; Mayor White and about three hundred Republican rank and file.

W. K. Devereaux, former secretary of the Democratic National Committee, was a thorn in the sides of these stalwarts. Mr. Devereaux was a guest, and he gave Mr. Kean, Mr. Voorhees and a coterie of Republican leaders his latest views on "prosperity."

"Wheat, Klondike gold, natural oil in Ohio, all gifts from heaven to 'Bill' McKinley, are too much for the Democratic party," said Mr. Devereaux; "we can't stand the combination."

Senator Daly, Democratic candidate for Governor, thought he would be obliged to consult a fortune teller before he opened a campaign in the face of these conditions. Mr. Daly arrived late, but was received with a hearty good will and given a seat at the horse shoe table.

John Kean was the hero of the day. Richard Reading improvised a pretty song with Mr. Kean as the central figure. The chorus ran like this:

Old John Kean, how do you do?

For nearly half an hour the woods rang with "Old John Kean, how do you do?"

The refrain was taken up on the outskirts and carried to the uttermost limits of the grove, where it was taken up by the natives, who were evidently deeply interested in the proceedings.

It is impossible to enumerate the number of clams consumed by the Union County Republicans. The bake in the centre of the grove was six feet high, with a formidable diameter. The shells will be used on the macadam road.

The return trip was made at 5 o'clock. Mayor Ten Broeck, of Asbury Park, captured a part of the delegation and entertained them over night in Asbury Park.

No speeches were made.

CARSON EXONERATED.

The Borough Florist Did Not Make the Assault, as Charged.

Brooks Carson, the Manning avenue florist, who was arrested by Chief Marshal Wilson Tuesday morning on the charge of having assaulted Joseph Schearan, a twelve-year-old boy, living on Brook avenue, was given a hearing before Recorder Thomas Thursday evening.

Carson and a number of boys, including the Schearan lad, were enjoying a game of baseball when the trouble which led to the arrest of the former occurred. Two of the boys got into a dispute and Carson attempted to separate them when he was struck upon the back with a stick in the hands of one of the combatants. It was alleged that he then struck Schearan with a baseball bat.

The charge could not be substantiated in court, however, and the Recorder dismissed the complaint and Carson was released.

John Leal will lead the mission-ary meeting in Warren chapel, Friday evening.

A HORSE THIEF CAUGHT.

STOLE A RIG FROM HIS EMPLOYER AT BOUND BROOK.

Conductor Brokaw Consulted Detective Work With Railroading and Captured the Thief at or Near Flemington.

When Geo. Brokaw, conductor on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, arrived at Bound Brook Tuesday night saw William Taylor, a local liveryman, looking anxiously about the depot. Brokaw asked what the trouble was and was told that Harry Hampton, an Englishman employed by Taylor, had stole a horse and wagon and disappeared. For unknown parts while the owner was out driving with his family in the afternoon.

The conductor suggested that Taylor go to Morristown to look for the missing rig and he would look for it at Flemington, the terminal of his run, and in both of which places the hostler had formerly worked.

Wednesday morning Brokaw visited the hotel in Flemington and quickly recognized Taylor's rig standing in front. He went into the barroom and there found Hampton just about to drink a glass of whiskey.

Brokaw accused the Englishman of stealing the horse and wagon and the latter wilted and confessed. Brokaw had him arrested immediately and telegraped to Taylor, who came and secured his rig. Hampton was committed to the Hunterdon county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

FLOOD BROKE THE DAM.

Pressure Was Too Great and the Water Broke Loose, Doing Much Damage.

The dam at Echo Lake, about one mile from Westfield, broke at 5:30 o'clock Tesday morning. The left corner was torn away and the water ran down in a great volume, taking trees and stones and seventy-five feet of the embankment along the mill race. Several bridges along the route of the flood were also swept away. At Wingarten's Mills, below Echo Lake, the dam was swept away and the water swept into the mill, upsetting the engine and working general destruction. The loss is estimated at $1,900. Where Echo Lake was there is now only a small brook. The lake was stocked with salmon and bass, and these are all gone. All that remains of living things in the bed of the lake is an immense number of snapping turtles. Persons visiting the spot after the breaking of the dam discovered an innumerable number of the animals, which have infested the lake of late and threatened to exterminate the game fish. The village of Branch Mills stands on high ground and to this fact it owes its escape from a serious flood when the dam broke. Mr. Parkhurst, the owner of the lake, will reconstruct the dam at once.

ENDEAVORERS LED.

Plainfielders Conducted a Meeting as the Westfield Fresh Air Camp.

It has been the custom of the many Christian Endeavor societies in the neighborhood of Westfield to take turns in leading the evening meetings at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, last evening, the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of this city, took charge and conducted a very helpful meeting.

Two stages conveyed thirty-eight of the members to Westfield. The journey was enlivened with songs and hymns. The meeting was led by Rev. Daniel Clare, who is preaching at the Park Avenue Baptist church this summer. Many of the members and other visitors at the camp took part, while the women and children in the camp listened very attentively to all that was said. Several spoke and added their testimony to that of the visitors. The return by stage was similar to the trip to Westfield, and the musical ones were kept busy.

An Acrobatic Performance.

An engagement has been made at Boynton Beach with the famous Irwin family, for two acrobatic performances, one on Saturday, August 28th, and the other on Labor Day. The performers are really wonderful artists; having been for three years the leading feature in Barnum & Bailey's circus. The entertainment consists of three separate acts. The first by James Irwin, who balances himself on his head, on an inch trapeze bar, and while swinging, juggles bottles and balls in the air with his feet. He also changes from a dress suit to his tights, while standing on his head. The other two acts are no less wonderful; showing marvelous dental strength, and club swinging.

Talent for the Star Course.

The talent has been engaged for the six entertainments of the Y. M. C. A. Star Course which is to be given in his city this fall and winter.

DRINK TO DROWN WRATH

REMARKABLE CONFESSION MADE BY A MAN IN THE CITY COURT.

Robert Hart Says That His Family Misbehave Themselves and That if He Didn't Drink He Might Kill Someone.

A strange state of things exists at the home of Robert Hart, at the corner of South Second street and Muhlenberg place, according to the revelations made by Hart himself in the police court Wednesday morning. His wife and children are led astray by others and he is helpless in any attempt to prevent it. His anger rises and he deliberately drinks beer to deaden his senses and prevent his anger getting the best of him and making further serious trouble.

For some time complaints have been made to the police that Robert Hart was disturbing what remained of the peace and quiet of that neighborhood by yelling and generally misbehaving himself. Tuesday night, Ben Eddy, the butcher, made a complaint to Chief Grant that resulted in the arrest of Hart. He was duly locked up.

The Hart family are well known to the police. Sometime ago, the wife was arrested for being drunk and dis orderly and was punished for the offense. It is well-known in the neighborhood that she lives that she and her daughters frequently "rush the growler." One of the daughters is fourteen and the other eleven but neither are able to read or write. Hart himself is known as one of the best workers in the foundry of the Pond Machine Tool Company's Works. He draws a good salary but neither he nor any of his family have any respectable clothes, and the house is more of a barn than a home.

Wednesday Hart was arraigned before Judge DeMeza and charged with being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded not guilty, but on being questioned, admitted that he had been drinking and was drunk last night and might have yelled and disturbed the peace. Then he told his story, and a pitiful one it was.

Hart said that there was only one thing to live for and that was his children. His wife and children were easily influenced, he said. They were led astray and he could do nothing. The influence of the strangers was greater than his and he had to see his family on the broad road to ruin. It made him crazy to think of it, to think how the cranks around him were ruining them and he wanted to kill somebody. He was afraid that sometime he might hurt some of the cranks, as he called them, and so he took beer to "deaden his nerves and mind.

He said he worked hard and did all he could for the company, but there were cranks around him in the foundry who were working against the company's interests.

The Judge did not think that Hart was developing his life on his children in the right way and said that unless something was done for them in the future, he would take steps to see that they were committed to some institution where they would be looked after.

Hart did not ask for mercy, but acquiesced to all that the Judge had to say. He admitted that a journey to the county jail would stop him from drinking for the time being, but that he would begin again when he returned. The Judge sentenced him to pay a fine of $3 or go to jail for ten days. The fine was paid.

HUSBAND OWNS THE GOODS.

A Jury So Decides in the Case of Dickinson Against Ballentine.

The case of Caleb Dickinson against Morris Ballentine, to determine the right of property, was tried by a jury of six men in Justice Mosher's court Tuesday afternoon, and a verdict was given for the claimant.

Ballentine obtained a judgment against Mrs. Dickinson on July 9th, and an execution was issued against the household furniture which it was claimed she owned.

Caleb Dickinson claimed the ownership and the suit was brought to decide the question. Lawyer J. P. D. Kirch appeared for the claimant and Pope & Runyon for the defendant.

The defense endeavored to show that Mrs. Dickinson had given a chattel mortgage upon the furniture to Justice of the Peace Nash over a year ago. Mrs. Dickinson denied any knowledge of the mortgage in question. A little spat occurred between counsel when Mr. Dickinson refused to answer a question of Lawyer Pope's as to where certain of the furniture was purchased. The Justice ruled that the witness must answer the question.

The jury consisting of Frederick Welch, William Moffett, Samuel Randolph, J. Powelson, William A. Stimpson and H. Milliken was charged at 4:30 o'clock. The verdict was reached at 5 o'clock.

FOR SAFETY OF LIVES.

ALL LARGE BUILDINGS MUST BE EQUIPPED WITH FIRE ESCAPES.

Chief Doane Enforcing an Important Section of the New Building Ordinance, but the Work Must Proceed Slowly.

Chief T. O. Doane, in his official capacity of building inspector, has begun a fire escape crusade against the large buildings in this city which will continue until all of them have been equipped with fire escapes.

The cause of the movement to equip every large edifice with means of exit in case of fire is a result of the building ordinance, which was passed by the Common Council sometime ago. In the ordinance are several sections providing for the equipping of all large buildings with fire escapes. The ordinance states that all school buildings of more than one story must be equipped with the apparatus and the opening chapter in the crusade was directed in that line. All the public schools are now fully equipped. There was no objection on the part of the Board of Education as they deemed it a necessary measure for the safety of the pupils in the schools.

It is not Chief Doane's intention to rush through the work of putting up the fire escapes but he is conducting his movement slowly and carefully. Each building is first examined regarding its exits and means of reaching the street from the upper stories, especially when factories, flats, tenaments or public halls are included in the building. Then the Chief carefully looks over the exterior of the building with a view to selecting the best place on which to put them and finally the best method of putting them up receives due consideration.

The buildings that are now receiving attention are the Elkwood building on West Second street, near Park avenue, the Cutter building on West Front street, and the building at the corner of South Second street and Grant avenue. Fire escapes are now being put on the first two of those named.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR.

A Time of Social Pleasure Enjoyed at Hope Chapel Tuesday Evening.

A mid-summer reception was tendered to Rev. J. G. Kennedy Newell by the members of his congregation at Hope chapel, Tuesday evening, in the chapel. Although many were away on their summer vacations, the reception was well attended and proved a very enjoyable occasion.

An informal programme had been arranged for the first part of the evening by the advisory committee of the chapel, which acted as committee of arrangements for the reception. Henry C. Squires acted as master of ceremonies and announced the different numbers.

The evening opened with devotional exercises which included a prayer by the pastor and the singing of several hymns. Miss McLean sang very acceptably while several vocal selections by Councilman William N. Runyon were heartily received. Mr. Runyon also played a selection. W. G. Gray gave a vocal solo that was well received.

Remarks by the chairman of the meeting and different members of the congregation preceded the time for refreshments and conversation which formed a pleasant interruption in the programme. After the rest of the programme was given, a short social time was enjoyed and all gathered around the pastor to welcome him home from his vacation and promise their share of the work in the chapel during the coming season of activity.

STATION IMPROVEMENTS.

Central Railroad Hastening the Changes to be Made at Fanwood.

The contemplated improvements at the Fanwood railway station, are already begun. They include a new waiting room on the south side of the track, a fence between the tracks and an overhead passage way. The new station will occupy the former site of the freight house, which has been moved several hundred feet to the east to make room for the new structure.

The foundations are being built for the overhead passageway and the improvements will be completed as soon as possible.

The arrangements then will be similar to those at Westfield and Elizabeth, with an overhead bridge instead of a tunnel, to connect the two stations.

Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, and Sydney R. Titsworth, of West Fifth street, are expected home Saturday after their cruise along the Jersey coast.

WAS THE BEER ORDERED?

IF SO, KERWIN HAD A PERFECT RIGHT TO DELIVER IT.

But If Not, Then He Is Guilty of Illegal Selling—That is the Point the Jury is Now Endeavoring to Decide On If Possible.

If those who went to hear the first of the illegal liquor selling cases brought against Lawrence Kerwin, expected to hear anything sensational they were greatly disappointed. The case was a quiet one, except for the constant arguments between the lawyers. Kerwin was charged with selling six bottles of beer to William Parsons, an ex-resident of Paradise Alley, on the street.

Now Kerwin is allowed to secure orders and send them to the Rising Sun Brewing Company in Elizabeth, who fill the orders and send them to Kerwin to deliver. He has no license, however, to sell beer from his wagon without a previous order. That was where the hitch came in, and on the veracity of William Parsons and Patrolman Totten, who watched the purchase from afar, the city case depended.

The police have long claimed that some of the so-called deliverers sell to anybody, order or no order, when they get a right good chance. The officers have been instructed to watch closely for the necessary evidence to lead to the conviction of some of them on this very charge.

April 17 is the day fixed when the alleged sale is said to have been made. Now Kerwin, through his lawyer, former Councilman W. D. Hetfield, admitted that the beer was sold to Parsons but the claim was made that Parsons came to the young son of Kerwin and made representations to him that Parson's father had a standing order and so the lad gave Parsons six bottles, said to be for his father.

Last week the case came up for trial and the defence was all ready but Parsons did not show up. The court waited over an hour and then adjourned the case until Wednesday last. In the meantime Parsons was captured and locked up and only released after a solemn promise to show up at the appointed day. Wednesday morning Parsons was on hand, all right, and so the trial proceeded.

Twenty of Plainfield's well-known business men had been summoned for the jury, while a crowd of spectators, drawn thither by curiosity, lined the benches for the audience in the Council chamber where the trial was held.

The jury was first selected and sworn. It was composed of William Thompson, foreman; Henry Liefke, Eli Odam, James Smith, Uzal B. Crane, Joel Randolph, John Cory, William Rogers, Dr. Lewis Pocock, William Drayton, J. Hervey Doane and David Smalley. The city was represented by Former Judge Nelson Runyon, who is acting in the absence of Corporation Counsel Craig Marsh. The trial was before City Judge DeMeza.

After the usual preliminary remarks, the city's case was opened. City Clerk J. T. MacMurray was sworn, stating that Kerwin had no license from the city to sell beer without an order. His testimony was brief.

William Parsons next told his tale. He had been ordered by Patrolman Totten to find out how if he could and had gone to Kerwin's wagon and asked for it. He said that he purchased the six bottles from a man and he was very positive of that fact. The attorney for the defence tried to throw discredit on the defence by trying to prove that Parson's character was not of the best and that his word was not to be relied upon.

Patrolman Totten testified as to his ordering Parsons to get the beer and other details of the sale, which took place on East Fourth street.

Mr. Beeker, an agent of the Rising Sun Brewing Company, told of the methods employed by that company in securing orders. Then Kerwin had his say.

Kerwin claimed that his young son was all alone in the wagon when Parsons came and that the colored man had secured six bottles which he claimed was a standing order for his father. The boy told the same story. Kerwin said that he took orders and then copied them on a large sheet of paper which went to the Brewing Company, while the slips were thrown away. Parsons was called to rebute some of the testimony, and again he declared very positively that he bought his beer of a man. He denied having said that he had a standing order or any other kind of an order for that matter.

Poor Tommy.

Tommy says his ma gets angry because his stockings hurt his feet, and then she takes his shoes off and hurts his feelings. Poor Tommy! He should get his mother to buy his stockings at Peck's, then he will be all right.

KEAN'S PATH IS CLEAR.

LIKELY TO WALK OFF WITH THE JERSEY SENATORIAL TOGA.

Griggs' Loss of Old Friends—As Executive He Lacked the Faculty of Pleasing the Politicians and Fell by the Wayside.

"Nothing but death or a Democratic Legislature can prevent John Kean from going to the United States Senate in 1899," remarked a Republican leader the other day. And that is the prevailing belief in political circles. The announcement recently made by Governor Griggs that he will not be a candidate for Senator makes it easy for Mr. Kean to gratify his ambition to occupy the seat now held by James Smith.

The rather sudden collapse of Governor Griggs' boom was not to say a general surprise. Well-informed politicians had predicted all along that the boom would not amount to much when the time arrived for practical work. Of course, some of the Governor's nearest friends feel keenly the disappointment which has been brought about through his pronunciamento. They had hoped that their brainy chieftain would be fittingly recognized by his promotion to the Senate, where he would have an opportunity to display his ability as an orator and a statesman.

When the Governor's friends started him in the race for the Senatorship they miscalculated his strength. They laid stress particularly upon his ability as a lawyer and an orator, but they forgot to take into account the extent of his popularity. When Mr. Griggs was elected Governor he was considered a very popular man, indeed. He defeated one of the best citizens of the State—a man of the highest integrity—Chancellor McGill, and by a plurality, too, of not less than 25,000, the largest ever given a Gubernatorial candidate in New Jersey. Mr. Griggs demonstrated his magnetism on the stump, and during the campaign he was the idol of the Republican masses. He had the politicians solidly at his back, and at that time the prediction was generally made that he would go up even higher before the closing of his political career. And, lo! when a change has taken place even before the Governor has served half the length of his term! Politicians who championed his cause when he was a candidate for Governor—men who cheered him to the echo, and pointed him out as the great leader of his party—now can scarcely say a kind word for him.

"Well, the Governor is out of the race for Senator," was the remark made to a Mercer county leader the other day, a man who was foremost in the Griggs vanguard two years ago. "Yes, he was licked out of it and I am blanked glad of it." was the reply.

It will be remembered that the Mercer County Republican leaders were largely responsible for the nomination of Mr. Griggs for Governor. They took the initiative in his behalf, and when they did they ruthlessly trampled upon the boom of John Kean. In the Republican State Convention Barker Gummere was chairman of the Mercer delegation. By his shrewd tactics, and with the aid of former Senator Stainsby, of Essex, and John Franklin Fort in the chair, a stampede was virtually caused in favor of Mr. Griggs when his victory was achieved. Now, there is not even one among the coterie of Mercer county politicians who feels pleasantly toward Mr. Griggs. In fact, they are all for John Kean for United States Senator. Why such a revulsion in feeling in such a comparatively short space of time? That is a question to which the politicians give rather a sententious answer. The Governor has made himself unpopular because of his cold manners and arbitrary actions; he has not kept his promises and he has gone back on the men who made him. That is the sum and substance of the arraignment of Governor Griggs by the men who swore by him only two years ago.

CAKE WALK THE FEATURE.

A Hot Time Arranged by Colored Folks for Tomorrow Night.

It is very reasonable to suppose that the combined concert, ball and cake walk that the employes of the Hotel Hunterston are to hold in the Pierce Cycle Academy this evening, will be a "hot time" with a vengeance. The promoters of the affair are planning to have a good time, and at the same time entertain their white friends. The concert is to come first. Then the ball will begin and the fifth number in the dance order will be preceded by the cake walk. It is intended to give an old-fashioned cake walk, the kind you read about. An immense cake is the first prize, $2.50 in gold is the second, and a ring is the third.

ROBBED BY DARING MEN

TRAMPS ATTACKED A FARM HAND AND LEFT HIM UNCONSCIOUS.

Not Only Took Stanford's Money But Left Him With Scarcely Any Clothing—Had to Hide Until He Was Given Clothes.

With several cuts in his head and unconscious from a beating he had received at the hands of three tramps, William Stanford, a farm hand for John Nelson, near New Market, was left in the road, stripped of everything he had, even to his clothing, within the shadow of the Stelton Baptist church, late Thursday night. The robbery was one of the most daring ever perpetrated in Middlesex county, and gives evidence of the fact that the steps taken recently by the Board of Freeholders to rid the county of tramps have not been taken any too soon.

Stanford was paid off on Thursday, and went to New Brunswick to pay some bills. About 9 o'clock he started to return home. He had $38 and was dressed in his best suit of clothes.

It was about 10 o'clock when he was walking down the Stelton road on his way home and three men sprang out from behind a clump of bushes near the Baptist church. Stanford started to go by, when one of the men held a revolver in his face and said: "If you make any noise you are a dead man." Stanford is a powerfully built man, and resolved to take his chances. He struck out and grappled with the man, but the others jumped on him from behind.

He was thrown in the road and quickly overpowered. The men beat him into insensibility. Then they undressed him, leaving nothing to cover his nakedness but an undershirt. Even this was torn into shreds. The thieves made off with the $33 and the new suit of clothes, shoes, socks, linen and everything that the man had about him, excepting the torn shirt.

He lay unconscious by the roadside for several hours. When he recovered he hid in a field near a house. When the family awoke in the morning he shouted until he attracted the attention of one of the men, who went over to see what was the trouble. The man supplied him with a pair of trousers and he started home. Overseer Hummer, of the Piscataway Poor Farm, whose place he had to pass, gave him a shirt and he was able to get home without attracting much attention.

The man is laid up with his injuries. One eye is shut up completely and a shoulder is dislocated. His whole body is covered with bruises. Overseer Hummer drove to New Brunswick yesterday to report the outrage to the committee of the Board of Freeholders which was appointed to rid the county of the tramp nuisance, but he omitted to report the matter to the police of New Brunswick.

The finding of dynamite in various parts of the county and the frequency with which men have been held up and robberies committed of late has aroused the farmers, and unless some efforts are made to check the daring operations of the tramps in all probability some vigilance committee work will result. The farmers are exasperated beyond all endurance, and believe that decisive measures should be taken at once by the local authorities.

BRUNSWICK COMPANY TO FIGHT.

Will Move to Set Aside Metlar's Writ of Certiorari.

The Brunswick Traction Company will probably move to set aside the writ of certiorari granted by Justice Ludlow, Friday, restraining the company from proceeding with the construction of the trolley system from und Brook to New Brunswick. The writ directs the clerk of Piscataway township, through which the proposed route lies, to return to the Supreme Court, September 3d, the ordinance passed, July 6, granting the franchise through the township, and also to produce the minutes of all meetings wherein the ordinance in any of its stages was considered.

George W. Metlar, at whose instance the writ was granted, claims there were irregularities and illegalities connected with the passage of the ordinance; that there is no security to the township that the conditions of the ordinance will be fulfilled, and that there should be a money consideration to the township for the franchise.

Transfers and Contracts.

The following property transfers, as recorded in the New Jersey Contractor and Gazette, have been filed in the county clerk's office from August 13th to 20th inclusive:

George H. Leland et ux. to Caroline W. Bodworth, North Plainfield, lot 8, block 3, Pound map, Plainfield. $1,897. William J. Pearson et ux. and Henry H. Guy et ux. to James Doyle, Raritan, lot Stebbins place, Plainfield, $850. Charles H. Hand et ux. Plainfield, to Lydia B. Hand, Elizabeth, lot East Sixth street, near Berckman street, Plainfield, $1,000.

The following contracts have also been filed:

Patrick Connolly, Plainfield, with William H. Brokaw, contract in full, house Spruce street, Plainfield, $1,070. David Clarke with William Day, Plainfield, mason work, double house, South avenue, Plainfield, $970. Francis Connalley with William H. Brokaw, carpenter work, house, Essex street, Plainfield, $1,170.

A RIGHT TO SERENADE

JURY'S DECISION IN THE SOMEWHAT FAMOUS MT. BETHEL CASE.

Richard McKenzie Declared Not Guilty of the Charge of Disorderly Conduct Made by Frank Ralph, the Bridegroom

It was to have been a good time at the expense of a bridegroom, but it resulted in trouble and legal complications that aroused the neighbors in and around Mt. Bethel to a high state of excitement. Friday night the leader of the serenaders of the newly-married couple was called upon to answer for his actions to twelve good citizens of that region. The jury decided that the bridegroom had nothing to say as to whether he was to be serenaded or not and brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Frank Ralph, a young butcher, lives about a quarter of a mile from the little group of buildings commonly known as Mt. Bethel. On Thursday, July 29th, Ralph took to himself as his bride Miss Blader, daughter of Silas Blaxler, a Mt. Horeb farmer. Ralph lives with his father, Wm. Ralph, while his brother James lives opposite.

Ralph is a young man, twenty-one years of age, and his acquaintances in Mt. Bethel told him that he must treat the crowd. Ralph says that he agreed to meet them at the hotel on Wednesday evening, August 4th, and treat them all. George Ammon and his brother, who went to see Ralph on Sunday evening, say differently. They declare that he invited the crowd to come to his house on Monday night and promised to give them plenty to eat and drink and smoke, besides a dance.

Richard McKenzie, or rather Dick McKenzie, as he is called, came back from Plainfield Monday night with a load of lumber. Dick is one of the chosen spirits of that community and is a leader among the boys. He gains his livelihood by turning his hand at anything about the farm. When Dick heard of the invitation, he gathered his forces together, twenty in all, and prepared to descend on the Ralph homestead.

Frank Ralph was not at home, neither was his bride, but the father was and he declared that the boys would get "neither bite, light nor drop" at that place. There was a growl amongst the would-be guests at the chilly reception they had received and Dick declared that they would serenade the couple anyhow. He had a plan which he communicated to his friends and back they tramped to Mt. Bethel, eager for anything to "get even."

There is a cannon at Mt. Bethel which belongs to the members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. It is a fair-sized piece of ordnance and is used on July 4th and other occasions when the Juniors care to burn powder for a salute. Some dragged the cannon out of its resting place while others secured a supply of powder. The canfion was dragged to the scene of action in front of Ralph's house and the process of loading began at once.

William Ralph came out and ordered the serenaders to stop, but they did not. Then he took an axe and opened fire on the wheels of the cannon, wrecking one and demolishing the apparatus for firing the gun. Dick McKenzie was about to resent the attack when Frank Ralph and his wife drove up. He denied having invited the boys up that night. An argument ensued between the bridegroom and the leader of the serenaders. Names were called and blows seemed inevitable when the frightened young wife persuaded her husband to retreat to his own yard.

Mrs. William Ralph and a friend from Bridge town came out and requested that the cannon be not fired, as there was a sick child in the house. The serenaders paid no attention but fired three salutes, setting off the gun with a lighted match. Then they departed.

At the trial, it was claimed that the child went into convulsions as a result of the firing of the cannon.

As a result of the visit, McKenzie was arrested on complaint of Ralph on the charges of being disorderly and disturbing the peace. Several times the case has come up for trial, but it was not until Friday that the trial took place. It was held before Justice Austin and a jury of twelve men of which Augustus Mobus was foreman. Joseph Freck, of Somerville, was attorney for the defendant, while S. S. Swackhamer, of Swackhamer & Williams, of this city, represented Ralph.

Every body for miles around drove over to the hall where the trial was held. 300 spectators were there. The trial was exciting, both lawyers fighting hard. The story was told as has already been given. James Ralph, a brother of Frank, was one of the principal witnesses against him, saying that there was no sick child and that McKenzie had not used profane language. The jury retired at 11:30 o'clock, while the crowd sang and danced outside. At 1 o'clock, they brought in a verdict for the defendant of not guilty and he was discharged while the crowd, who favored McKenzie, cheered.

—Housewives will find a splendid display of peaches at Neuman Brothers' grocery store on Watchung avenue tomorrow morning. They will have 150 baskets of fancy peaches that will be sold at 35, 50 and 75 cents a basket.

LIED IN HIS CONFESSION; TO LIBERTY VIA WINDOW

The Missing Masonic Charm Had Not Been Thrown Into the River, as Smedberg Said.

It was Thrown in a Water Closet in the Newark House of His Wife's Aunt—Mrs. Smedberg, Urged by a Guilty Conscience, Told the Truth—The Story of How Smedberg Had Planned to Gain His Liberty.

The Elizabeth Journal Friday published the following details concerning Smedberg's planned escape from the Union county jail:

Smedberg has been in jail nearly a month and has made many close associations with other prisoners. One of his friends was in for a short term, and was discharged last week. His name is withheld for obvious reasons. This man Smedberg made his confident in the jail-breaking scheme, and depended upon him for his means of getting out of prison.

The accomplice was to get some small saws and files as soon as he was free, and to bring them to the jail last Thursday. He was to go to a certain window that overlooks the Presbyterian cemetery, and leave the instruments on the sill of the window. By a prearranged code of signals he was also to inform Smedburg that the files were on the window, then Smedberg was to raise the window sash and get them. His plan was then to saw and file his way to liberty.

When the accomplice was leaving the jail his heart failed him and he divulged the plan to Warden Blore. On Thursday at the appointed hour Assistant Warden Smith secreted himself outside the jail near the window and Warden Blore was in a position where he could watch Smedberg. The prisoner finally gave a signal for his accomplice to put the files on the window sill and climbed up on the inside to procure them.

Just at that moment Warden Blore appeared and caught Smedberg in the act and immediately hustled him to a cell. Since then the prisoner has not been allowed to leave his cell unless attended by an officer.

Another chapter has been added to the Smedburg case, and so far as Mr. and Mrs. Marshall are concerned, it will probably be the closing one. The last of the stolen articles, the Masonic charm, was found yesterday afternoon after a most clever piece of detective work on the part of Mrs. Marshall and Detective Keron, aided by Mrs. Smedberg.

It will be remembered that Mr. Smedberg stated that the charm had been thrown in the North river, but such was not the case, as was afterward proved. Mrs. Smedberg told Mrs. Marshall that her husband's charm had been thrown in an inside water closet in the house occupied by Smedberg's aunt who lives in Newark, and that she had thrown it there herself on the 7th of July.

This furnished the clew to the missing charm, and Mrs. Marshall, together with Detective Keron, went to work on the case at once. They had the address of the Newark residence and yesterday they drove to that city.

They went directly to the house and learned that no one was at home. This did not daunt them, however, but they gained an entrance into the cellar. Mrs. Marshall went to the bathroom where the closet was located for the purpose of ascertaining if it was possible for the charm to pass through the basin. After a thorough examination she decided that it could not and she told Mr. Keron the result of her examination. He told her that if she was well satisfied with the result they would give up the search. They did so and started for home.

While on the way back it occurred to Mrs. Marshall that possibly the charm might be located in a trap in the pipe in the lower part of the house, and at her suggestion this two went back to Newark, secured a plumber and went to the house again. They went in the cellar as before, and located the direction of the pipe to the sewer.

According to the sanitary laws in Newark the trap should have been about two feet from the front cellar wall, but it was found to be four feet, and that was the distance the plumber had to dig. After much work the trap was reached and removed, and in the first amount of matter removed was the charm. On its way from the third story of the house to the place where it was found there was nothing to intercept its course, but when it reached the trap, instead of passing out to the sewer, had dropped in the trap.

It required about one hour's hard work to secure the missing jewel. In locating the pipe and reaching it, it was necessary that a ton of coal be removed from one part of the cellar to another. This was done by the plumber.

A long plank had to be laid across an open space to get at the work and Mrs. Marshall stood on the plank and handed the plumber the necessary tools.

A plan of the plumbing work in the house had been drawn by Smedberg, but it did not exactly tally with the original. This plan gave much hope that the charm was there, but when the plumbing was examined it hardly seemed possible that it could be there.

Of all the articles stolen by Smedberg, the charm was the one that gave him the most trouble. He worried himself, for he knew that if this was discovered on his person it would give him away and lead to further trouble. He also knew that as soon as he attempted to pawn the jewel it would arouse suspicion and might result in his arrest. Not being a Mason he could not wear it himself or attempt to sell it to a Mason. This closes the history of the theft and now the case is in the hands of the State, who will prosecute Smedberg for the crime he has committed. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall are being congratulated for being able to recover their stolen goods.

RED CART CZAR IN COURT

MAIL MESSENGER FRISBIE TOLD HIS STORY AND WAS DISCHARGED.

His Housekeeper Said He Promised to Marry Her, But Jim Declared His Satisfaction Without a Wife—Other Offenders

An ex-policeman, a servant of Uncle Sam and sundry other characters appeared before City Judge DeMeza Saturday on various charges and kept the court busy all the morning.

Fleming Wade was the first to come up. He was charged with non-support of his wife. He produced his books, but managed to show that he had been earning $1.50 a day and had given her about $2 for groceries in two weeks. The Judge held him in $200 bonds to pay her $4 a week.

Mail Messenger James Frisbie was charged with beating Martha Turpin, his housekeeper. She complained that he had promised to marry her, but had not and now abused her. Jim had his witnesses and told a straightforward story, so the Judge decided that he was not guilty and discharged the complaint.

Edward Bergen had been before the Judge four times and Daniel Kiely once or twice. This time it was for fighting on West Second street and pulling the pickets off the fence. Sergeant Kiely caught Bergen but Kiely fled to a nearby stable where he pretended to unhitch a horse while Roundsman Frederickson and Policeman Fleming Forman and Hetfield pleaded their case very strongly but the Judge found both guilty and fined Bergen $8 and Kiely $25.

Ex-Policeman Nick Kelly had more troubles for the court to settle. He was accused by three young men and a young woman of following them home from a party in the borough and making all sorts of insulting remarks. They had Kelly arrested by Patrolman Higgins, Friday, as he was walking behind them.

The stories were all substantially the same. Kelly denied it all whereat William Higgins remarked:

"You lie."

"That costs you just $3," said the Judge. "You will learn that you must be more careful of the way you talk in court."

Former Councilman Hetfield made a strong plea for Kelly, but the Judge found him guilty and sentenced him to go to jail for 30 days or pay a fine of $10.

Naturalization Papers.

On account of the special election to be held on September 29th next, there will be no more naturalization papers granted until after that date. On September 29th and 30th, and October 1st and 2d, the court will be in session every morning to give all who desire to become citizens an opportunity to do so. All applications should be made at the county clerk's office on or before September 14th.

Bert Brooks, Charles Smith, George Thatcher, William Emery and Edward White have gone to Barnegat for a three days' fishing trip.

BEST GAME THIS YEAR.

CRESCENT TEAM DEFEATED A CRACK NEW YORK NINE.

Seventh Regiment Players Bested for the First Time This Season—Game Witnessed by a Big Crowd of Baseball Fanciers.

Not since the days of the famous old Crescents have the lovers of the national game in Plainfield been treated to such a game as was witnessed Saturday afternoon on the Crescents' grounds. Even the proverbial kickers forgot to find fault in the excitement but joined with the rest of the spectators in rooting as in the days gone by. The visiting team was the West End Field Club and after a twelve inning game, they received their first defeat of the season at the hands of the Plainfield Crescents by a score of 5 to 2.

A word of explanation is due the visitors and the management of the home team. Early in the season, the Seventh Regiment, of New York, placed a team on the field and a game was scheduled with Plainfield. Soon the team passed into the hands of the West End Field Club and a few changes were made in the personale of the nine, strengthening it. It is the West End team that has made such a record for itself during the last few months and came to Plainfield, Saturday, to meet defeat for the first time.

The game was a hot one from start to finish for both clubs realized that they had a formidable rival to meet. There were several changes on the Crescent nine that materially strengened it, Corbin, the regular first baseman, was away and Cavanagh, of the Newark Athletic Club, took his place. He played a great game, batting well while his fielding was without a flaw. Collins, formerly coacher of the Fordham College nine, played in centre field. He did not get a chance to do anything in the field but did his share of the run getting, showing very good judgment.

McLarty pitched the game of his life, keeping his head and using his curves with great effect on the batters of the opposing nine. The West End pitcher was the phenomenal young twirler of the Seventh Regiment and most of the local batters found him a mystery. Had he been given the support that McLarty received, the game might have lasted even longer. At no time was he hit freely.

The game began in the first inning and continued to the twelfth. The Crescents went out in one, two, three order but the visitors managed to fill two of the bases. They did not score however. In the second inning, Vroom pounded the ball far over the left fielder's head into a neighboring chicken yard and while the West End fielder chased after it and bravely scaled the high wire fence, Vroom made a circuit of the bases and scored the first run. The West Ends failed to score in their half of the inning.

A wild throw by the third baseman landed McBeth on first in the third inning. Symons flied out to right and then Hollister advanced Mac a base with a sacrifice hit. He scored on a single by Cavanagh. The visitors went in for blood in their turn. Tabor batted a line to Lederer who caught it. Horn followed with a hot grounder to Lederer who failed to stop it and Horn reached first. He was forced to second by a base on balls given to Betts. A drop ball struck the ground before the batter and bounded out of reach. Before it could be recovered both base-runners had scored and the game stood 3 to 2. O'Gorman batted safely but was caught trying to steal second and Held made the third out, MacLarty to Cavanagh.

Several times, both sides made desperate efforts to score but without avail. In the fifth, sixth and eighth innings, the visitors had two men on bases, with only one man out, but the Crescents played steadily and not a West End runner reached the plate although One was touched out while attempting to slide home.

Nine innings, ten innings, eleven innings were played but neither side could score. Nearly a thousand people witnessed the play and yelled madly with excitement.

Cottins was first to bat in the twelfth inning. He was given his base on balls, Lederer struck out. MacLarty batted a grounder to the third baseman who threw the ball six feet over the first baseman's head. Collins ran around the bases and scored while Mac reached third. A grounder by Cooney was juggled by Horn and Cooney reached first in safety and stole second immediately, the only base stolen in the game. McBeth was too anxious and fell a victim to Tabor, striking out. "Billie" Symons electrified the crowd by making a long but safe hit to right field and bringing in MacLarty and Cooney. Score, 5 to 2. Hollister ended the inning with an easy grounder to Tabor. The crowd had yelled itself hoarse during the interim.

The West Ends came up with a determination to do something, but without success. Betts batted to Cooney, who threw him out at first. McBeth captured O'Gorman's fly after a long run and Held ended the game with a lively grounder to Hollister, who fielded it successfully.

A word should be said for Hall, the plucky catcher of the visitors. He split his left hand in the preliminary practice but, after having it dressed by a physician, caught the entire game, allowing only one ball to pass him.

The detailed score was as follows:

CRESCENTS.

	A.B.	R.	B.H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Symons, rf	6	0	1	0	0	0
Hollister, ss	6	0	1	2	3	0
Cavanagh, 1b	5	0	2	14	0	0
Vroom, c.	5	1	1	8	1	0
Collins, cf	4	1	1	1	0	0
Lederer, 3b	5	0	0	0	3	0
McLarty, p	4	1	0	1	1	0
Cooney, 2b	5	1	1	3	3	0
McBeth, lf	4	0	0	1	0	0
	45	5	7	30	9	0

WEST END FIELD CLUB.

	A.B.	R.	B.H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Horn, ss	6	1	1	3	4	0
Betts, 2b	4	0	0	2	3	0
O'Gorman, rf	5	0	1	4	1	0
Held, 1b	5	0	0	12	0	0
Gibson, lb	5	0	1	12	0	0
Orr, lf	5	0	1	1	0	0
Meagher, cf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Hall, c	4	0	1	7	1	0
Tabor, p	4	0	1	0	4	0
	44	1	6	42	13	0

SCORE BY INNINGS:

Crescents	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	5
West Ends	0	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	3

Earned runs, Crescents, 1; West Ends, 0. Two-base hits, Horn (2), Vroom. Sacrifice hit, Hollister. Stolen bases, Cooney, Horn (2), Betts, Tabor. Double play, Lederer to Cavanagh. First base on balls, by Tabor, 2; by McLarty, 2. Wild pitch, McLarty. Passed ball, Hall. Left on bases, Crescents, 6; West Ends, 11. Time of game, 2 hrs. Scorer, Sidney Schlichter. Umpire, Edward Erickson, of Plainfield.

HIGH WORDS HEARD.

Lawyer and Constable Were Much Agitated Over a Wagon.

High words were heard coming from the law office of Swackhamer & Williams, in the Babcock building, this morning, and a few minutes after Lawyer Williams was seen to hurriedly leave the office and look for a policeman. He found Roundsman Flynn at last, and the two went back to the office, but in the meantime the man who had refused to leave the office had vacated the place, which, a few minutes before, he had remarked no power on earth except his own illumination could make him do. That man was Constable George Rockafellow.

It seems that Mr. Williams had gained possession of a wagon belonging to Dr. John D. Wood, in an effort to protect some of Wood's creditors which he represented. This morning Constable Rockafellow had an attachment which he wanted to serve on the wagon, but when he went to find it at the shop of J. P. Homan, it was gone. The constable immediately called on Lawyer Williams and demanded to know where the vehicle was. The lawyer refused to tell him and one word led on to another until both men were pretty well angered.

Finally, the lawyer ordered the constable out of the office, and the latter, so Williams says, refused to stir till he got good and ready. Then it was that Williams was looking for a policeman to have the constable ejected. When he returned with Roundsman Flynn the constable had walked across the hallway to Lawyer Runyon's office and that was the end of it.

FELL FROM A WAGON.

Young Newton Spencer Received Painful Wounds Saturday Evening.

Newton Spencer, the four-year old son of A. G. Spencer, of the borough, received painful wounds by falling from a wagon at 5 o'clock on Saturday evening.

The child while playing about climbed into a box wagon which stood in front of Mr. Spencer's house at No. 154 Somerset street. The driver had just started the horses when a front wheel collided with a post. The child was thrown out, striking upon its head. Bystanders carried the little prostrate form into the house and Dr. Lowe was summoned and made an examination of the child's injuries.

The head was found to be badly cut, and a number of stitches were taken in the wounds. The child luckily escaped concussion of the brain, and is now improving in condition. The child is a grandson of Tax Collector H. N. Spencer.

CHAIN GANG FOR TRAMPS

Middlesex Authorities About to Begin a Crusade Against the Pests.

An energetic crusade is about to be inaugurated by the Board of Freeholders of Middlesex county against tramps, whose depredations have become alarming. A score of burglaries, numerous incendiary fires, desperate hold ups and the discovery of secreted dynamite in New Brunswick and near South Amboy have created a feeling almost of terror in the community.

Freeholders William Canse, Peter S. Van Anglen and Michael McFadden have been appointed a committee to co-operate with the authorities and devise some practical scheme to suppress the nuisance. Their plan is to put in jail every tramp that can be found in the county, put a ball and chain on him and set him to work repairing streets. If the plan becomes operative, it is believed the tramps will give the county a wide berth.

Trolley-Road Taxation.

Under the new rating the Consolidated Traction Company will pay $5,000 this year to Elizabeth for taxes, and that is all it pays for the valuable franchise which was given to it a few years ago. Newark gets $75,000 a year from the trolley companies in addition to the taxes.

SHE WAS A LIVING TORCH

MRS. V. W. NASH BADLY BURNED BY GAS EXPLOSION.

Draught of Wind Had Blown Out the Jet and Allowed the Oven to Fill With Gas and Explode When the Door Was Opened

An explosion of gas in the oven of a gas stove at the residence of Justice Vincent W. Nash, of Prospect avenue, Friday morning at 11 o'clock, resulted in the serious injury of Mrs. Nash, who was badly burned about the head and arms by the flames of the burning gas.

During the summer, a gas stove is used by Mrs. Nash, and Friday morning she was preparing the mid-day meal as usual over the stove. There is an oven to the stove. It is supposed that a draught from the door blew out the light in the oven and allowed the oven to fill with gas. Mrs. Nash went to open the door of the oven and look within. She opened the door when suddenly there came a blinding flash and flames burst forth from the oven.

Mrs. Nash was thrown backward by the force of the explosion and fell to the floor. Her hair caught fire while the flames went directly in her face. Her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Leland, was standing by her side when the explosion occurred but escaped all injury. Mrs. Leland threw her apron over her mother's head and extinguished the fire on her hair which had started to burn.

Mrs. Nash was badly burned about the face, neck and right arm. Her injuries were very painful. She closed her eyes at the explosion and so saved her sight.

Dr. Turner was called and arrived in a short time, meanwhile the members of the family had applied such remedies as were at hand. While the injuries were of a serious nature, it is not thought that they will be fatal.

DEMOCRATS ACTIVE.

Elizabeth End of the County to Have a Harmony Outing.

The Democrats of Union county are much interested in the first outing of the Democratic City Executive Committee of Elizabeth, which is to take place on Tuesday, Aug. 31st.

The attendance of all the most prominent local leaders is assured, and invitations have been sent to prominent Democrats from all over the State.

Acceptances have been received from many of them, and the list includes Senator James Smith, Senator Wm. D. Daly, Representative Johnson Zitler, Chief Justice, Elvin W. Crane, Mayor Seymour, of Newark; Mayor Hoos, of Jersey City, and Mayor Hinchcliff, of Paterson; Wm. McAdoo, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy; Robert Davis, of Jersey City; State Senators Kuhl, of Flemington, and Barber, of Cape May; Gen. Richard A. Donnelly, of Trenton; former Speaker J. J. Bergen, of Somerville, and E. F. C. Young, of Jersey City.

The invited guests will be met by the entertainment committee at the station at 8 o'clock, and a procession will be formed in Julian place, which, headed by Drake's full band, will march through the city to the Chancellor Dock and embark on the steamer Isabel for Whitestone, L. I.

On arriving there a banquet will be served, after which addresses will be made by prominent speakers.

The committee in charge are Capt. D. P. Collins, chairman; Fred Zlor, secretary; J. J. Manning, Jas. Potts, John J. Corrigan, Thomas Simmons, Fred C. Meyer, W. H. Reynolds, Edward Nugent, C. Munz, Berryman Lawrence and J. H. R. Corbet.

VOLUNTEERS' REUNION

Fifteenth N. J. Regiment Survivors to Gather at Somerville.

The annual reunion of the Fifteenth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, will take place at Somerville, on Thursday, September 2. The citizens of Somerville are making every arrangement to give the "boys in blue" a grand time.

A business meeting will be held in the court house at 10 a. m., to be followed by a parade at 2 o'clock. A mass meeting will be held in Germania Hall at 2:30, when an address of welcome will be made by Hon. James J. Bergen, president of the board of commissioners. Response for the regiment will be by Colonel E. G. Budd, president of the Fifteenth Regiment Association. Other addresses will be made by Hon. Mahlon Pitney, of Morristown, Vice-Chancellor John R. Emery, of Newark, Senator R. S. Kuhl, of Flemington and Colonel E. W. Davis, Governor Griggs is expected to be present. The exercises will be interspersed with music by a male quartet and an excellent band.

In the evening there will be a grand display of fire works and a band concert, which will be free to all. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public.

Peter Neuman and family, of La-Grande avenue, have returned from their annual vacation spent at Atlantic City.

CONFESSED THE THEFT.

YOUNG SMEDBERG FINALLY ADMITS THAT HE IS GUILTY.

The Stolen Articles Recovered Through the Tact and Ability of Fred W. Stack—His Wife Weakened and Confessed First.

After several weeks of persistent protests of his innocence, but at the same time surrounded with the most circumstantial and incriminating evidence, James D. Smedberg has at last confessed to the robbery of the diamonds and jewelery of H. C. Marshall on the night of June 30th. Mr. Marshall now has in his possession all of the stolen articles with the exception of the Masonic charm.

That the articles were regained and the confession extracted from the young draughtsman is due to the discretion and detective ability evidenced by Fred. W. Stack, a bookkeeper at the Scott Press Works, where Smedberg was also employed at the time he committed the theft.

After every effort had been made to get Smedberg to admit the fact that he had stolen the articles, and all had failed, Mr. Stack visited Mrs. Smedberg in New York and had an earnest talk with her in relation to the robbery and the probable heavy sentence that her husband would receive if he did not make some amends for his offense.

To make a long story short, it can be said that before Mr. Stack left Mrs. Smedburg he had learned the whole story of the theft and had secured from her a letter to Smedberg, in which she told her husband that whatever he told Mr. Stack would result in the best for him.

Monday, Mr. Stack visited the Union county jail and after considerable trouble gained an audience with Smedberg. He delivered his wife's note to Smedberg and then word by word worked the story of the theft from him. Before leaving, Smedberg gave Stack an order on Adolph Smedberg, his uncle, of 89 Wall street, New York, for three diamond rings and a pin that the latter had advanced $30 on, July 7th.

He also confessed to having pawned the diamond pin, valued at $160, on July 12th, and hid the pawn ticket behind some plumbing work in his boarding house. The ticket was found by Mr. Stack and Mr. Marshall the following day and pin secured from the pawnbroker.

In addition to the order on his uncle, Smedberg also gave one on Benjamin Patterson, a lawyer of 234 Broadway, who held in his custody a package that Smedberg had given him. In this package, Smedberg said, was the revolver and the gold watch.

On August 1st Mr. Stack and Mr. Marshall took the orders to New York and first called on Lawyer Patterson and secured the watch and revolver. The latter said that he never knew what was in the package, it simply having been turned over to him by Smedberg.

Then they went to Adolph Smedberg and presented the orders. Mr. Stack says that Smedberg treated him with little courtesy and at first was not inclined to give up the articles or at least to delay in their delivery. A few strong arguments on the part of Stack convinced Smedberg that the best policy would be to turn the property over to Mr. Marshall. The articles were at Fordham and it was necessary to make the trip to that place in order to get them. There, after more parleying, the stolen articles were delivered to their rightful owner.

From either Smedberg or his wife it was learned that the confessed thief had thrown the Masonic charm into the New York bay, fearing that if he attempted to pawn it he would be discovered. That article, therefore, is gone forever.

Mr. Stack says that the clue he worked so successfully was based on the report that Mrs. Richards, who conducts a boarding house on East Fifth street, where Smedberg and his wife had boarded, had had a manicure set and silver spoon stolen.

Stack confirmed the report and then went to New York, where Mrs. Smedberg is stopping with a friend on Broadway, and accused her of the the theft. She emphatically denied it at first, but finally weakened and confessed to the theft of the spoon. Then word by word the story of the Marshall robbery was worked out of her.

Mrs. Smedberg, who has quite a sweet voice and is something of a musician, has secured an engagement in the chorus of the "Jack and the Beanstalk" opera company and will go on the road in that capacity when the company leaves New York.

E. P. Thorn's New Position.

The many friends of E. P. Thorn will be pleased to learn that he has secured a good position as general utility man in the Grand Opera House, Twenty-third street and Eighth avenue, New York. At present he is commuting daily to Plainfield, but it is probable that he will take up his residence in New York this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Davis, of East Fifth street, have returned from a sojourn at Southold, Long Island.

CONFESSED FOR LOVE; BETRAYED BY A "TRUSTY."

Some Sidelights Thrown on the Character of a Remarkable Young Man.

Smedberg Would Probably Have Retained His Dogged Silence and Defiance Had It Not Been for the Wavering and Weakened Attitude of His Wife—Planned to Break Jail and Leave the Country, but Confided in a "Trusty" Prisoner and His Plans Were Frustrated.

A passing incident noted here, a remark without apparent significance dropped there, a mannerism of no importance in itself, an observation of trivial nature if regarded alone, taken all together and reasoned out into a conclusion so as to form a natural train of events that lead to a certain object or purpose is what served to form in one's mind a moral conviction that such and such things are so, though proof positive may be bound up in the secrecy of another's mind from which there is no telegraphy other than that found in the willingness to divulge the secrets.

It was the pursuance of just that method that resulted in the fastening, absolutely, of the theft of the Marshall jewels upon James D. Smedberg, whose career has thus far been an extraordinary one—romantic, conniving and criminal. Of course, the finale was consummated by Smedberg's own weakness in at last admitting to be so what he had persistently and emphatically denied before, even though once having had the opportunity to do what he has done now and at the same time escape the humiliation and punishment of being publicly proclaimed a thief as well as the probable confinement in prison. Perhaps, though, to give hollow credit to Smedberg's discretion and determination at first to make his accusers prove their charges and then, as the saying goes, take his medicine like a man, his confession was induced by some other factor than a pang of conscience or a conquered defiant spirit.

As a matter of fact, Smedberg's action was without a doubt prompted by the love for his wife and desire to shield her from public castigation. Pressing charges were brought against Mrs. Smedburg when interviewed by Mr. Stack. At first, that lady, she proclaimed her innocence. But as the web of evidence was woven about her, woman-like she wavered and finally confessed. Then, degree by degree, Mr. Stack worked out the story of her husband's offense, finally leaving with a letter from her to Smedberg that was to pave the way for the latter's confession. Just what tactics were used with Smedberg when he was interviewed are not known, but had it not been for that feeling of affection existing between Smedberg and his wife the Marshall jewels would probably be where they were before the self-confessed thief gave the orders that produced them.

TROLLEY MEN SURPRISED

NEW PHASE IN THE CONTEST AT SOMERVILLE.

An Attempt to Be Made to Have the Old Horse Car Road Charter Changed So As to Use Electricity for Motive Power.

The Brunswick Traction Company sent men Tuesday August 17 to lay track for a trolley a quarter of a mile from the borough limits of Bound Brook, and another gang of fifty was sent about four miles below Bound Brook to work toward the town.

The company was confident of having the trolley on the river road, where the work is being done, but it was surprised to find that former Senator W. J. Keyes, of Somerville, had secured a charter seven years ago to build a horse car line between Somerville and New Brunswick over the strip of road the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company and the Brunswick Traction Company are fighting about.

Keyes is a warm advocate of the New York and Philadelphia company and has sold the charter to it. The charter is good for ninety-nine years and called about two miles of track between Bound Brook and Somerville, and last Saturday it received notice from the Town Committeemen to put the road in as good condition as it was when it began to put down the tracks.

The Brunswick company thought it had scored a point, but when told of the deal between the New York company and Mr. Keyes its officers said that the New York and Philadelphia company would never build a road and that the public should turn against it for buying the horse car charter, because horse cars take five times as long as the trolley.

Mr. Keyes has made application to have the charter changed to trolley instead of horse power. The New York company has put seven ty-five men to work.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass and Miss Lillian Snodgrass, of Central avenue, have returned after a trip to Niagara Falls. Dr. Snodgrass has started on another trip.

Mrs. J. W. Luckey and children, of West Second street, are spending a few weeks with relatives at Kenoza Lake, N. Y.

Officials who have to do with the custody of people charged with serious offenses, and find the prisoners reticent to a degree that the prosecutors find difficulty in preparing a case against them, have resorted from time immemorial to the plan of putting a "trusty" prisoner in the same cell in the hope that the latter will by made a confidant, and then tell what ever has been told to him. This plan was put in operation by the county officials in the case of James D. Smedberg, the man who has confessed to stealing the Marshall jewels, and the result was that Smedberg was found to have prepared a plan for escape from the Union county jail and committing a number of burglaries, the booty from which, he calculated would be big enough to take him out of the country. Though the jail officials have known about it for some time, it only became known to outsiders last week.

It seems that in the endeavor to get Smedberg to tell something that could be used as evidence against him, the county officials put a short-term prisoner in the same cell with him. While the latter became his confident he never learned anything about the missing jewels, but he did learn that Smedberg intended to make a desperate effort to escape jail and the country.

Just what details Smedberg had decided upon it is impossible to learn, but it is known that the "trusty" prisoner told Warden Blore and County Detective Keron that Smedberg had planned to break jail in some manner and had the plan of his escape drawn out on paper. The "trusty" was to help him at the opportune time after the former served his term. As soon as Smedberg had gained his liberty he was to meet his confederate in a cemetery on the outskirts of Elizabeth, and the two were to skip this section of the country.

However, as soon as the "trusty" prisoner had found out all he could he told his tale to the jail officials and the plans of Smedberg to escape were frustrated.

Last Friday a trunk, basket, blanket and umbrella belonging to Smedberg were shipped to the Union county jail by the United States Express Company.

PICNICKED IN A GROVE.

German Reformed Sunday-school Enjoyed Their Annual Event.

The members of the German Reformed Sunday-school and their friends to the number of about seventy enjoyed their annual picnic in Keller's Grove Thursday. It was early in the morning when the happy party reached the scene of their pleasure and it was after sundown when they returned home. The day was passed in playing games of all sorts and having a good time in general. The serving of refreshments formed a pleasant feature. The menu comprised all the good things of the season and there was plenty of everything to eat. The committee in charge consisted of Rev. George Hauser, A. Wolf and Charles Keller, and they are deserving of great credit for the able and efficient manner in which they managed the affair.

GOES ALONG WITHOUT PUSHING.

The New Town of Lincoln is Attracting Conservative Investors.

The new town of Lincoln continues to attract the attention of our most conservative investors. Parties desiring to see Lincoln and judge of its many advantages should go at once. Personal escort leaves E. E. Marshall & Co.'s store daily at 2 p. m.

—At the meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men on Friday evening, two new members were elected. They will be adopted at the meeting of the tribe this week.

—Business and professional men have organized the New Brunswick Driving Association. It will encourage the breeding and training of trotting horses. The building of a track will be begun.

—Edward Maurer, New York commission merchant, is building a fine residence on Grandview avenue. Titus & Pope are doing the carpenter work and James Stewart the mason work.

YOUTH BEHIND RUNAWAY

HAND BOY UNTIED HORSE AND APPLIED THE WHIP.

Frightened Steed Galloped Wildly Through a Business Thoroughfare and Finally Threw the Boy Out, But Was Not Hurt.

People who happened to be on Front street in the vicinity of Park and Wachung avenues at about 7:30 o'clock Friday morning, were witnesses of a sight that caused their pulses to quicken and their breath to stop for a moment in terrible suspense.

The object which drew their attention was a large gray horse, attached to a light road wagon, which galloped at terrific speed from Watchung avenue into Front street. In the wagon sat a boy eight years old, holding the lines tightly and doing his best to curb the horses speed. The lad acted much more cooly than many men would have done under the circumstances.

At breakneck speed the animal ran along Front street scattering to right and left whatever happened to cross its pathway. The young driver clung pluckily to the reins and kept his seat in spite of the swinging of the wagon until the runaway reached the vicinity of Park avenue.

In front of the Dime Savings Bank the wagon struck the curb, swerved off, and then collided with a post in front of the City National Bank, at the corner of Park avenue. The lad was thrown out by the shock and rolled under the wagon and between the horse's hoofs, but as if by a miracle he escaped injury, and when carried into a nearby drug store it was found that his injuries consisted only in a few scratches.

After the child had fallen out the horse ran around the corner into Park avenue and the wagon was thrown against a fire-plug and demolished. The animal was then captured.

The youthful driver who displayed such remarkable coolness and pluck was Herbert C. Hand, the eight years old son of Charles H. Hand, of 481 East Fifth street.

When Mr. Hand drove to his office on Watchung avenue Friday morning he took Herbert along in the wagon, and at the office the horse, which is a very spirited animal, was hitched to a post and the boy was allowed to sit in the wagon while his father went to attend to matters of business.

The monotony of waiting soon became too much for the lad, and scrambling out of the wagon he unhitched the horse and drove off, urging it to a faster pace until the nervous animal became frightened and started upon a fast run.

Those who saw the boy thrown from the wagon marveled at his escape from death. He seems to have been born under a lucky star, however. About three weeks ago the little fellow was suspended in mid-air upon an electric light wire in East Fifth street, and received a severe shock, but the injury proved to be slight. The escape of Friday was as fortunate as this previous one.

WANTS TO BREATHE FRESH AIR.

A Prisoner Replaces Bricks in Jail With Soap and Lime.

Deputy Sheriff Amerman, of Somerville, on Monday August 16 discovered that Joseph Chalbi, convicted of murder in the first degree for having stabbed his wife to death in Bound Brook, was planning to break out of jail. Chalbi recently has been so well behaved that he was permitted to have the freedom of the corridor.

Amerman entered Chalbi's cell and saw him pushing something down the sink with a broom. When he found it was lime, he made an examination of the cell and found that the murderer had sharpened one of the posts of the iron railroad by heating it over a lamp. Further search showed that he had removed the bricks from a space about two feet square in the north wall of the jail, carefully replacing them with soap and covering them with lime.

Chalbi, when the discovery was made, rushed furiously at Amerman, who had to draw his revolver to defend himself. The murderer, when removed to another cell, threatened to kill the deputy sheriff, and choked himself until he fell to the floor. Ever since he has been raving like a maniac.

J. R. Knowiton and family, of West Fifth street, who have been stopping at Belmar, have retured home.

Miss Susie Hill, of Cambrige, Mass., is a guest at the home of John V. Beekman, of West Eighth street.

John Drayton and family, of Franklin place, have returned from their summer outing spent at Belmar.

Thomas M. Reid, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Worcester, Mass., arrived home Saturday on the steamer St. Paul, after an extended trip abroad. He spent Sunday with friends in Plainfield.

The approaching marriage is announced of Miss Lavinia Shivers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Shivers, of Woodbridge, to William Locke Rockwell, of East Front street, on Wednesday, September 1st, at noon in Christ church, Woodbridge.

ONE WOMAN OBJECTOR.

MRS. MARY OLSSEN MADE THINGS LIVELY AT A SCHOOL MEETING.

She Objected to the District Buying a New Lot to Build a Schoolhouse on and Her Remarks Created Much Fun.

The voters of school district No. 36 did not bring their wives and sisters to the school meeting in the district last evening, as was expected. The notoriety they received at the last meeting had the effect of keeping all but one at home. It was an exciting meeting despite that, and the solitary representative of the fair sex present did her share toward making it so. Both factions were present in full force and the fight waged bitterly. The final outcome was a victory for the well wishers of the new schoolhouse, for a new schoolhouse was authorized and the money ordered to be raised by bonding the district.

It was a special meeting called to determine whether a school house should be built and, if so, whether a lot near the Wilson Memorial chapel should be purchased or the old school property graded and the building erected there.

The meeting was called to order by Theo. Luerson, one of the school trustees. F. H. Morris, district clerk, was chosen chairman and Assessor Robert M. Clark, secretary. The voters were out in force and so was a crowd of interested spectators who had come from the country roundabout to see the fun. Mrs. Mary A. Olsen, of East Second street, Plainfield, who is the owner of a hundred acre farm in the valley, figured unwittingly as the leader of the opostition.

After the preliminary business was concluded, Mrs. Olsen opened fire. She wanted to know the cost of the 2-acre lot near the chapel. The sum of $600 was the answer. She thought that was too much. George Demler explained that Mayor John F. Wilson had paid $500 for an acre of land just below there, whereat Mrs. Olsen made a remark that did not give the mayor credit for a great amount of sense. She said that she would rather give an acre of her land than see the district so swindled. Somebody in the back of the room replied that they did not want the schoolhouse on swamp land. She then argued that the necessity of a larger schoolhouse was caused by the education of children from other townships. C. W. H. Rogers, a township committeeman from Warren, who had come to see the fun, arose in his wrath and said that Warren paid amply for every child that was educated in that district. Facts and figures were not to be balked.

Henry Spier and Theo. Luerson were appointed tellers and the vote on the question of the chapel lot was taken. It was lost by a vote of 28 to 8. Mrs. Olson remarked that the result showed that some people had sense, which remark was greeted with catcalls and yells. Then the crowd became so obstrusive that the Constable had to take a hand and threaten the noisy ones with instant arrest.

The proposition to grade the present lot and build there at the cost of $3,000 was carried by a vote of 18 to 15. Names were called and both factions took a hand. Then the opposition, seeing that their efforts were without avail, began to depart one by one. An increased majority voted to spend $3,000 and to raise it by bonding the township. It was voted to make the bonds of $100 each, to mature in series of five every year for six years, and that a tax be levied to pay them when maturing.

Mrs. Olsen departed amid jeers and cat-calls and the meeting broke up.

AN EXPENSIVE DRINK.

William Brown's Conduct on July 5th Has Cost Him Lots of Trouble.

The row in which William Brown engaged on West Third street on July 5th has proved a rather expensive one. He was arrested the next day for disturbing the peace, committed to the county jail for 40 days and sentenced to pay a fine of $10. A few days ago when Brown was released from jail he was at once rearrested on a charge of assault and battery preferred by William Goff.

He appeared for a preliminary examination before Justice Moffett at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. One of the three witnesses called by the prosecution, who bore the illustrious name of Christopher Columbus, was very indignant because he had been compelled to leave his work to testify. It took about ten minutes for Columbus to say that he didn't know anything about the case. He was then dismissed.

Frank Jackson and Arthur Venable were also called for the State. No witnesses were called for the defense, although a number were present.

After hearing the plea of Brown's counsel, the Justice held the prisoner under a $200 bond to await the action of the grand jury.

—Rogers, the sea food dealer, will open the oyster season Sept 2d, with the finest of shell fish.

—New Brunswick is making changes in its sewerage system and the whole plan is being modernized.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

NO WATERED STOCK HERE.

The Newark Sunday Call says: "The Consolidated Traction Company, according to the State reports, has a stock and bonded indebtedness of $202,700 for each mile of track. The Plainfield Street Railway Company's indebtedness is $20,000 a mile. One should cost no more than the other to lay tracks and equip, for the mileage, and if there was any difference it should favor the larger concern in cheapness. Neither paid for its franchise. Two differences exist and account for the wide divergences in cost per mile. The Consolidated Traction Company purchased numerous minor companies, for which large prices had to be paid, as they had become profitable after many years of unsuccessful operation. The Plainfield company had no such large cost. The other difference was in watering stock. The Consolidated Company's stock, representing half its total indebtedness, is water, and should never have been permitted to exist by State authority. It practically represents the profit of the speculators who put through the deal. It was quoted in the markets yesterday at 20½, and at this figure the company's stock is worth $4,312,500. A franchise tax of about that amount would have been justified financially at the time of the change to electricity."

UP GOES THE TAXES.

Up, up it goes, that tax rate of ours. As now figured out by the city officials, it is less than half a dollar on the $100 within the limit allowed under the laws of New Jersey; and it has already passed the limit which property owners consider to be within their means to stand.

Of course, there is satisfaction to the taxpayer in knowing that as a rule what money is spent by the city goes for improvements that are of material benefit, but yet many of these improvements are considered by the majority as luxuries rather than necessities.

The only manner in which the $2.52 rate could have been avoided after the expenses were incurred, was an increased valuation of properties. But this is but six of one and a half dozen of another, as the money would have to be paid just the same—only in a more indirect way. It is generally admitted that modest properties are now assessed heavily enough, while on the other hand there are many who believe that costly buildings escape with a light assessment. From the standpoint of the latter element, the difference in the tax-rate of last and this year should be made up by an increased valuation on the properties that they consider are rated out of proportion to the modest ones.

A POINT TO MACADAMIZE.

Now that the Somerset county Board of Freeholders has passed favorable judgment on the macadamizing of Mountain avenue from Somerset street to the Union county line near Scotch Plains, the Union county Freeholders should authorize the macadamizing of the short stretch of road between Mountain avenue and the Springfield road. This would make a continous macadamized road from Plainfield to Newark. At present this unmacadamized section of the road is in deplorable condition, and is a constant menace to the safety and pleasure of the thousands of bicyclists who follow the route.

MR. MARTINE FOR ASSEMBLY.

In the "Gossip of a Great State" the World, yesterday, says that James E. Martine is being urged to accept one of the Democratic Assembly nominations in Union county, and then speaks a good word for the "Farmer Orator" as a candidate who would be likely to win at the polls.

AN ASSEMBLY TICKET.

The Elizabeth News suggests as the Democratic Assembly ticket for the county—William D. Wolfskiel and Frank Dunn, of Elizabeth, and William A. Coddington, of Plainfield.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, always affords prompt relief. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

TAXES KEEP CLIMBING.

AS NOW FIGURED, THE RATE WILL BE $2.52 ON THE $100.

Surprises Even the City Officials Themselves, But It Cannot Be Helped on Account of the Increased Appropriations.

While everybody expected the tax rate to be higher this year than last, the figures that have resulted from the calculations of Assessor Hubbard, Collector Bird and their assistants have astonished them all.

Since the approval of Assessor Hubbard's books at the special Common Council meeting Tuesday of last week the work of figuring out the tax rate for the next year has been going on. A result was reached on Saturday that was decidedly unpleasant to the city officials to consider. As then figured out, the rate was made $2.52 on a $100. Last year, the rate was $2 30 on a $100, leaving a difference of thirty-two cents on a $100, an almost unprecedented increase.

Everybody, that has considered the question at all, knew that there was to be an increase. The appropriations in all of the city departments were larger than the year before, while the extra $7,000 for the new Babcock Scientific Library was a factor in the result. Then the State and county taxes were larger. The building of the new school increased the school tax. Everything combined to raise the rate to a point never before reached in the history of the city.

Last year, there was considerable comment on the tax-rate which was then $2 30, and it was supposed that the limit had been reached. While no lower taxes were expected by the citizens they did not believe that any increase should be made. It has been evident, however, since the new Council came in power that there was to be an increase and even the city officials admitted that it would be higher. The strongest opponents of the present administration predicted a rise, but not to the point which the figures reached on Saturday.

The city officials do not care to talk much about the subject at present, but it was learned that there would be another calculation to see, if possible, the tax rate might not be reduced. The result of this second attempt will probably be final, as a decision in the matter is necessary at once so as to allow the books of the City Collector to be made out. While no official action has been taken as yet, the rate will be decided upon in a few days, and by the close of the week, Plainfielders will know just what they are to expect.

A BAD MIXUP.

Horse, Boy and Bicycle Involved in an Accident Monday.

A frightened horse, a boy and a bicycle became badly mixed in an accident which occurred on West Front street near Grant avenue, at about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The grocery wagon of Herman A. Weber, of 140 Liberty street, was standing at the curb while the driver was taking an order.

In the wagon was a small boy who had been given a ride by the clerk. Two other lads, friends of the boy in the wagon, happened along on bicycles and stopped to have a chat. One of them, John McClelland, the 13 year-old son of Andrew G. B. McClelland, of 321 Watchung avenue, allowed the back wheel of his bicycle to rest between the spokes of the wagon wheel as he stood talking.

The boy began to annoy the horse after a time and the animal suddenly started on a run. McClelland's bicycle was whipped around by the wagon-wheel and its wheel was demolished.

The boys themselves escaped injury. After running about a block the horse stopped of its own accord.

A SUNDAY WEDDING.

A North Avenue Nuptial Event Consummated Last Night.

A pretty home wedding took place Sunday at 140 North avenue. The happy couple were Mrs. Ella Goeller and Henry Bergen, who were united in marriage by Rev. Mr. Eyme at the bride's home. They were surrounded by a few intimate friends, among whom were James Fraser as best man and Miss Anna Lehner as bridemaid; also Mr. and Miss Ramsey, Miss Glaus, Miss Brennan, Miss Stafford and a few others. After extending congratulations the company sat down to supper toasting to the health of Mr. and Mrs. Bergen.

At 10:30 o'clock the party dispersed. A number of handsome presents were received. Mr. and Mrs. Bergen will be at home after August 28th.

"Let me give you a pointer," said M. F. Gregg, a popular conductor on the Missouri Pacific railroad. "Do you know that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy cures you when you have the stomach ache? Well, it does." And after giving this friendly bit of advice, the jolly conductor passed on down the aisle. It is a fact that thousands of railroad and traveling men never take a trip without a bottle of this Remedy, which is the best cure for bowel disorders in the world. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Cor Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

LAW GRABS WIFE NOW.

MRS. HUGHIE O'DONNELL ACCUSED THE SAME AS HER HUSBAND.

Arrested on the Charge of Selling Beer Illegally.—Her Cool Manner When Taken to Jail and When Arraigned.

The greatest enemy today of the Plainfield police is the illegal liquor seller, who conducts his trade with a startling disregard for the ordinances of the city or the men whose duty it is to enforce them. The police have been waging constant warfare against this class of offenders and are always on the lookout for new evidence against them. Monday, the wife of one of the most notorious of these alleged offenders was brought before the City Judge on the charge of continuing the sale of liquor while her husband is paying for his disobedience by a lengthy stay at the county jail.

Readers of the Press will remember the arrest and subsequent conviction of Hughie O'Donnell on the charge of selling liquor without a license. He pleaded non vult and was given a heavy sentence by City Judge DeMeza. He is now serving his imprisonment.

O'Donnell lived in a little house on South Second street, in Gossip Row, as the police affectionately term a row of houses of which his is one. He conducted his beer selling on the quiet, it is alleged, allowing only the chosen ones to enter and purchase beer. A little carelessness allowed the police to secure the much wanted evidence which resulted in his downfall. Since Hughie went away behind the bars, Mrs. O'Donnell has been living in the same house and the police have suspected that she was looking after her husband's trade.

A close watch has been kept on the O'Donnell house and the police have been on the alert for the evidence to secure a conviction of the wife. On Sunday, August 8th, the police claim that several bottles of beer were sold to a certain individual, whose name they do not care to divulge at present for obvious reasons. Complaint was made against Mrs. O'Donnell by Chief Grant and a warrant was issued for her arrest.

Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, Chief Grant and Sergeant Kiely went forth to make the arrest. They found the house of the wily couple tightly closed and bolted. The windows were all closed and nailed and the blinds closely shut so that it was impossible to see from without what might be going on within. After knocking repeatedly and stating who they were the two officers were admitted. There were several men sitting about the room into which they were ushered and Chief Grant says that the room teemed with the odor of beer. The atmosphere of the room, which was so tightly closed, was almost unbearable, he said.

The Chief explained to the lady of the house that they wanted her.

"Get ready to go with us at once," said one officer.

"I think nit," was the ready reply.

Despite her thoughts, Mrs. O'Donnell was finally persuaded to wrap up and follow the officers to the city jail, where she spent the night in a cold damp cell.

Monday, Mrs. O'Donnell was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza for a hearing. She had nothing to say except that she was not guilty. She did not seem worried by her arrest and imprisonment but took the whole affair stoicly. She had no counsel and so the Judge set the trial over for Friday morning at 10 o'clock in the Council Chambers. It is probable that the case will not come to trial as her lawyers will want an adjournment to look into the matter. She was held in $200 bonds.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhœa.

In 1863, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhœa. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend gave me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERG, Allentown, Pa. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Cor. Park & North Aves., Plainfield.

Macadamized Road Accepted.

At the meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders Monday the work of A. J. and N. B. Smalley in macadamizing Mountain avenue was accepted, and the contract approved as one of the best that has ever been given the county. State Road Commissioner Budd was present at the meeting and stated that he had inspected the improvement and found that the work of the contractors was executed satisfactorily in every detail. All the members of the Board of Freeholders drove over the proposed route Monday afternoon and admired the fine roadbed.

VETS GO TO BUFFALO.

TO ENJOY THE PLEASURES OF THE NATIONAL G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

Sixty-three Plainfielders Left Monday on the Lehigh Valley With a Special Car—Names of Those Who Have Went.

Many of the little band of veterans of the Civil War who have made Plainfield their home since the end of the bloody strife gathered at the North avenue station, Monday, and prepared to go forth on another campaign. It was a campaign of friendship and pleasure, however, that caused the veterans to don their blue uniforms and rally again about the colors. Buffalo was the destination of the party, where they will attend the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Ever since the organization of the G. A. R. the survivors on the winning side in that great conflict gather at some city for a reunion—encampment is the name used. This year, the Bison City on the shores of Lake Erie was chosen for the gathering place for the host of Federal soldiers and their wives and children. With the Grand Army come the members of the Women's Relief Corps, an auxiliary to the Army, and the Sons of Veterans, whose name tells plainly what they are. The annual gathering of the Sons of Veterans is not held at the same time with the national encampment but the members of the latter organization, who are looked upon as the successors to the Grand Army men, are always welcome at the gatherings of the Veterans.

From all over the United States trains are now conveying the veterans to Buffalo. When the announcement of the place of meeting was decided upon, there were Plainfield members who decided to go. The railroads have reduced the rates so that the veterans can go at a very reasonable expense. The Plainfield veterans who are members of Winfield Scott Post arranged with the Lehigh Valley railroad for a special car from Bound Brook to Buffalo.

The party started Monday morning, taking the 8:17 train to Bound Brook, where the car was waiting to await them. Many of the veterans planned to take their wives and families. Even before 8 o'clock, there were a number of the blue-coated veterans on hand. The colors were brought while everybody who was going wore the blue badge of the Post. There was a crowd of friends at the station to see them off. Some of the veterans could not go but were on hand to bid good-bye to their more fortunate comrades.

The train came in and there was a rush for seats. The two passenger coaches were crowded and the party bid farewell to their friends and the train pulled out amid the waving of handkerchiefs and hands. The train was left at Bound Brook and the car was in waiting. A large sign with the name of the Post painted on it was hung on the side of the car.

The influx of visitors at the National encampment of the G. A. R., at Buffalo, has begun in earnest. All trains and boats arriving there are crowded to their utmost capacity. Superintendent of Police Bull, after a conference with the passenger agents of the various railroads and steamboat lines, estimates that that the number of visitors during the encampment will be 350,000. The 600 guides who will show visitors to their lodgings and to points of interest went on duty last evening and until Wednesday at noon there will be 200 of them on duty all the time. Headquarters for the guides have been secured at 52 Exchange street. The guides will all wear uniform caps.

The following composed the party: W. Moore, H. N. Spencer and wife, Miss Bolsterli, J. H. Olmstead, J. A. Goodwin and son Fred, Mrs. Radin, Mrs. Somers, Mrs. DeNise, Rev. Livermore, I. L. McVoy and wife, Mr. VanCourt, Chas. Westphal and wife, W. C. Smith and wife, Mrs. A. I. Smalley, Mrs. Harned, Mrs. Cox, Chas. Stephens and wife, Mrs. Doud, Amos Andrews and wife, Robert Milligan, Jerome Kline, James Clarkson, George Moore, Mr. Corle and wife, Charles Butts, S. C. Peck, J. Frank Hubbard and wife, T. J. Carey, J. Emmons, E. Fraser, H. Drake, E. C. Morse and wife, M. C. Dobbins and wife, Samuel Day, David Weaver, Judge Nash and wife, W. E. Alpaugh, John Tier, Sr., Mr. Carroll, William Hand and wife, J. King, Abe King, Israel Compton, Miss Smith, J. W. VanHorn, Andrew Cox, J. Worth Coddington, C. M. Thorpe, and W. C. Dobbins.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and *when the endorsement is from a phy*sician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy, than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. Robey, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Mo.; and as he has used the Remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years, he should certainly know. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, Park and North Aves., Plainfield.

—Advertise in The Daily Press.

You Can't Do It

It isn't possible to boil any oatmeal long enough to break the starch-cells, and so render it digestible. Starch is not converted into digestible material until 250 degrees is reached, and 212 degrees is the maximum boiling temperature. Oatmeal can only be made digestible by dry heat, and is the only oatmeal in which the starch is rendered soluble by bursting the starch granules. This makes it the only safe oatmeal for infants, children, and those of weak digestion.

H-O

Be sure and get the package with the big H-O on the end.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption (Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and his *great chemist, patiently ex*perimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death. Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. S 19 1y

His Farewell Sermon.

Rev. W. C. Thomas, pastor of the First Church of Christ, will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday, much to the regret of the congregation with whom he has been associated for sometime. Rev. Mr. Thomas expects to leave for a western State where his parents reside.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 9:45, 11:30 a. m. 2:30, 5, 8:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:15, 11:15 a. m. 2:30, 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

BOUND BROOK AND TRENTON.

Arrive—8:30 a. m., 3 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:30 p. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:30, 10:30 a. m. 1:30, and 3:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:15 a. m., 12:15 and 3:00 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South, close 3:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—2:00 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 9:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JULY 24d, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 1a, 4 37, 5 53, 6 38, 8 23, 7 38, 9 20, 7 54, 8 00, 3 3a, 8 23, 9 35, 9 36, 10 05, 10 25, 11 05 a. m.; 1 1 00, 1 35, 3 07, 3 35, 4 12, 5 05, 5 46, 6 00, 6 45, 7 00, 7 30, 8 10, 9 30, 11 30 p. m. Express only, 2 44, 3 22 a. m.; 3 53, 8 01, 9 55, 10 05, 11 35, 12 15 p. m.; 12 45, 2 07, 2 35, 4 01, 4 45, 5 10, 5 45, 6 10, 6 45, 7 10, 7 45, 8 10, 8 45, 9 10, 9 45, 10 10, 10 45, 11 45 p. m.

Leave New York, foot of Whitehall street, at 6 00, 7 15, 9 00, 10 45, 9 15, 10 00 a. m.; 12 00 noon, 1 15, 2 45, 3 45, 4 45, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Express only, 12 01, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Accept Saturdays, 12 01, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sunday, 4 30, 7 00, 9 00, 9 15, 10 00 a. m.; 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.; 12 15 night; 1 00 a. m.

From New York (foot of Whitehall street) at 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 a. m. 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 p. m. Express only, 12 00 noon, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Accept Saturdays, 12 00 noon, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sunday—At 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m. 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.; 12 10 night.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 25, 9 14, 11 05 a. m. 1 01, 2 40, 3 50, 5 10, 6 10, 7 10, 8 10, 9 10, 10 10, 11 10 p. m. Sundays, 9 14 a. m. 5 03, 8 15, 9 55 p. m. Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 35, 7 35, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35, 11 35 a. m. 12 35, 1 35, 2 35, 3 35, 4 35, 5 35, 6 35, 7 35, 8 35, 9 55, 11 12 p. m. Sundays, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35, 11 35 a. m. 12 35, 2 45, 4 05, 5 35, 7 20, 9 20, 10 20 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 14, 9 54 a. m. 1 05, 3 11, 4 05, 5 15, 7 35, 8 37 p. m. Sundays, 8 00 a. m. 12 06, 5 39 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 00, 7 00, 8 54, a. m. 12 35, 4 04, 7 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 10 02 a. m. 7 10 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 30, 9 54 a. m. 3 11, 5 03, 7 p. m. Sundays, 8 a. m. 4 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Harrisburg, Phillipsburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connect for Flemington at High Bridge.

8 14 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Pottsville, Shamokin, Sunbury, Lewisburg, Tamaqua, Scranton, &c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

1 01 p. m.—Way for Easton, connecting at Junction for Phillipsburg, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin, (local parlor car to Scranton.

3 11 p. m.—For Flemington.

5 03 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg.

7 35 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, and Harrisburg.

8 37 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 00 a. m.—Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton.

8 14 p. m.—Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

9 55 p. m.—Sundays—For Flemington.

6 20 p. m.—Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, and at Junction for L. V. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 27, 8 12, 10 27 a. m.; 1 12, 3 56, 6 41, 8 05 p. m. Sundays, 12 noon, 11 p. m. Ocean Grove at 5 25 a. m. 12 20 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 27, 8 27, 8 12, 10 27 a. m. 1 12, 3 56, 6 41, 8 05 p. m. Sundays, 12 noon, 11 p. m. Arrive at 5 25 a. m. 12 20 p. m.

For Matawan, Sundays, 8 12, 10 27 a. m. 3 56, 8 05, 7 06 p. m. Sundays, 8 05 p. m. 12 20 p. m.

For Keyport, 8 12, 10 27 a. m. 3 56, 7 06 p. m. Sundays, 8 05 p. m. 12 20 p. m.

For Freehold, 8 27, 9 12, 10 27 a. m. 1 12, 3 56, 6 41, 8 05 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 3 27, 8 04, 9 45, 10 44 a. m. 12 17, 1 12, 3 56, 6 41, 8 05 p. m. Sundays, 12 noon, 11 p. m. Arrive at Philadelphia, 7 45, 11 20 a. m. 2 50, 5 30, 8 25, 9 50, 11 37 p. m. Sundays, 5 30, 8 25 p. m. 1 37 night.

For Trenton and Washington at 3 44, 8 04 a. m. 12 17, 3 56, 8 05 p. m. 1 37 night. Sundays, 8 05 p. m. 1 37 night. Arrive at Washington, 7 45, 11 20 a. m. 2 50, 5 30, 8 25, 9 50, 11 37 p. m. Sundays, 5 30, 8 25 p. m. 1 37 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West-week-days at 9 54 a. m. 1 12 p. m. Sundays, 9 55 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
CHAS. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In Effect June 13, 1897.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

EASTWARD.

7 44 a. m. and 1 44 p. m. Daily (Sundays 4 46) Local for Mauch Chunk.

9 20 a. m. Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

10 07 a. m. 2 34, 5 22, 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. (Sundays 12 20 a. m.) Local for Somerville and Bound Brook daily, except Sunday, local for Mauch Chunk.

12 52, p. m. Daily except Sunday. "BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS" for Rochester and Buffalo.

3 34 and 4 56 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Watsontown, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazelton, Mt. Carmel, Shamokin, and principal intermediate stations.

6 26 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

7 10 p. m., daily except Sunday, for Stanton and principal intermediate stations.

7 32 and 8 45 p. m. daily, solid vestibuled express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and principal intermediate stations.

9 22 p. m. daily except Sunday. Fast line for Buffalo.

2 15 p. m. Sundays, local for L. & B. Junction.

WESTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn—Local 6 47, 7 15, 8 45, 9 45, 10 45 a. m. 12 45, 2 20, 4 45, 7 20, 9 20, 11 20 p. m. Express—7 56, 8 55, 10 03 a. m. 12 13, 2 17, 5 11, 7 07 and 9 06 p. m. Sundays—2 25 a. m. and 5 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 47, 7 56, 10 03 a. m. 12 13, 2 25, 5 26, 7 20, 9 06 p. m. Sunday 8 55, 9 00, local a. m. 2 20 and 7 15 p. m.

For Metuchen only 6 25 p. m. except Sunday.

For further information consult local Agent.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.
EUGENE A. W. SONNENSCHEIN,
General Passenger Agent.
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINAL—Foot of Cortlandt and Desbrosses and 2nd streets.

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

OFFERED JOB FOR MONEY

FRAUDULENT ISCHEMER RUN TO EARTH BY A PLAINFIELDER.

Thaddeus Doane, Jr., Paid $50 For a Position Which Was Not What it Was Represented to Be—Man Arrested, Etc.

Walter Scott Smith, who says he is a commission merchant, with an office at 123 Liberty street, New York and who lives in Roselle, was arrested in Newark early Sunday morning and locked up at police headquarters there as a fugitive from justice. He was committed to jail for thirty days in default of $5,000 bail to await requisition papers from New York.

According to the story of Smith's doings, as told to Chief of Police Hopper, of Newark, by Thaddeus Doane, Jr., of Plainfield, it is believed that his victims number dozens and that he has obtained at least $8,000 by fraudulent operations. Doane is one of several persons who answered an advertisement in a New York paper about two months ago for a salesman, who was to be paid salary and commission. I was signed "Johnson, 123 Liberty street."

Doane went there and made an appointment to see Smith later at the latter's house in Roselle. When he went there, Smith wanted him to put up $900 in cash to guarantee that he would faithfully perform the work required of him. Doane had not that much money, but Smith finally agreed to accept $50 in cash. Then an ironclad contract was drawn up by Smith, under which Doane was to work as a salesman at a stipulated salary and a commission of five per cent on all business over $600 per month which he brought in.

Smith was handling drug specialties, soap, patent lamp chimneys, and other articles of general merchandise. The first week Doane got his salary all right, but when he went for it the second week he noticed that there had been changes in the office. The stenographer, Miss Burr, had been superseded by a Miss Catherine Goodenough.

He fell to discussing matters with her one day, and she asked him how much money he had put up. When he told her she said she had put up $200 and another agent named J. A. Buell said he had put up $50 and promised $500 more.

Doane and Buell waited a while, and, as their salaries were not forthcoming, they invaded Smith's private office and demanded their money. He declined to give it to them, and a stormy interview was ended by Smith asking them not to raise a "run pus," as a "Mr. Green, a Long Island manufacturer," was waiting to see him on business. He told them to return later and he would pay them.

When they returned, however, Smith told them he would not pay them until the following Tuesday. Later they learned that "Mr. Green, manufacturer," was really Frederick Green, of Bensonhurst, L. I., who intended to give Smith $500 for a position as salesman.

After a complaint had been made and a warrant for Smith's arrest issued, Doane, Buell and Burr with several New York detectives, traced him to Elizabeth, Long Branch, Asbury Park and Red Bank. He left the latter place just before they got there, but they learned that his mail was to be delivered in Newark, and soon after 9 o'clock Sunday morning Detective Donovan arrested him in the Newark Post Office when he called for his letters.

Mr. Doane has a list of persons who, he says, were victimized in the same manner by Smith. Among them is one C. F. Mackin, of New York, who is said to have paid $500 for a place. Other names, as given by Mr. Doane, are J. A. Buell, $50; Frank Meade, $500; F. Otto, $500; F. F. Flood, $100; Catherine Goodenough, $200; H. C. Gale, of Philadelphia, $100; F. R. Burr, $50; Frederick Green, Bensonhurst, $500. He says a Boston man has been caught for $1,000.

But for Doane, Smith might have escaped after all. He was allowed to speak to his wife alone at police headquarters in Newark. He started to slip away and had reached the head of the flight of stairs when Doane saw him and caught him by the arm. Smith struggled a little, but an officer answered to Doane's call at once and after that a close watch was kept on the prisoner.

THE LANDLORD BEATEN.

A CONTRACT VIOLATED BY COMMON CONSENT OF BOTH PARTIES.

An Interesting and Important Case to Property Owners and Renters Disposed of in Justice Mattison's Court—Tenant Wins.

Justice Mattison was called upon on Saturday to render a decision which will interest many owners and renters of real estate. The case was the outcome of a dispute between Mrs. Harriet Reick and Andrew F. Marsh. The house at 25 Vine street is the property of Mrs. Reick and has been occupied during the past sixteen months by Mr. Marsh, whose lease expired on April first. The lease stipulated that the rent must be paid on or before the 10th of each month, and while it remained in effect the money was promptly paid. After April 1st of this year, however, both parties deviated from the rule of payment on 10th. Mr. Marsh delayed until later in the month and Mrs. Reick accepted the money when tendered. This month, however, the landlady needed the money before the 10th, and informed Mr. Marsh that he must pay before that time. This the tenant refused to do, and the landlady sued for rent, to ascertain whether the tenant was bound by the old lease.

After hearing the evidence Justice Mattison held that as the contract embodied in the lease had been deliberately violated by the common consent of both parties, it was binding upon neither. Mr. Marsh will therefore not have to pay his rent until the last of each month. It is probable that he will now be served by his irate landlady with a three months' notice to vacate the premises.

RACED BY NEW RULES.

TROTTING EVENTS DECIDED BY CONDUCT OF THE HORSES.

Contestants Are Not Given a Place in the Order They Finish, But According to Their Good Action in the Race.

A new method of deciding heats in a trotting match attracted no little attention at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Saturday afternoon, when the regular Saturday afternoon matches were run off by the local horsemen.

Heretofore all events have been decided by the order in which the contestants finished irrespective of the number of times that the different horses broke. Saturday, one match was tried under the rules of the National Trotting Association, which allow the judges to put back horses that break. There were four horses in the match, W. Johnson's "Linola," Douglass Darby's "Sunday," W. A. Coddington's "Belle," and Thomas Brantingham's "Myrtle Twig." Brantingham's mare was second, but had four breaks to her credit. "Sunday" only broke once while Mr. Johnson's trotter, did not break at all, and was awarded the heat. The second heat resulted almost the same, "Linola" receiving first although finishing last.

There were several other events during the afternoon that furnished good sport to the crowd that comfortably filled the grand stand.

Mr. Pickhardt, of Central avenue, gave an exhibition with his horse of running and jumping. The horse cleared six feet in the running and standing jump and ran a quarter in twenty-eight seconds. A scrub race between Charles Johnson and Charles Smalley, both of Dunellen, ended the racing. Johnson's roan mare won two straight heats in 3:00 and 3:02.

The summaries of the other events were as follows:

FIRST MATCH.

Mr. Hayes' Andy	1	1
J. H. Shepard's Billie	2	2
	2:46½	2:46½

SECOND MATCH.

John Osbourne's Roxy F	1	1
C. D. Brower's Endicott	2	2
	2:39,	2:36.

THIRD MATCH.

J. W. Johnson's Linola	1	1
Douglass Darby's Sunday	3	2
W. A. Coddington's Belle	2	3
Thomas Brantingham's Myrtle Twig	4	4
	2:36½,	2:39½.

TO ASSIST THOSE OUT OF WORK

An Institution to be Opened Under the Charge of Sisters of Mercy.

On the first of September a home for women out of employment is to be opened in North Plainfield under the supervision of the Sisters of Mercy. The home will be located next to St. Joseph's Catholic church. Rev. William Miller, rector, will act as guide and counselor to the institution. The Mother Superior of the institution will be Mother Raymond, a woman of superior intelligence.

It is desired and hoped that all citizens of whatsoever religious denomination or nationality will cheerfully encourage and assist the good sisters in this undertaking for the welfare of woman.

The aim of the home will be the maintenance of an intelligence bureau, where help of all kinds will be found.

School Being Overhauled.

The North Plainfield Public School is being thoroughly overhauled in preparation for the fall reopening, which will take place September 14th. The building has been painted an artistic red with dark-green trimmings on the outside and within the rooms have been repainted and the furniture varnished.

CAMERA CAUSED A FALL.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT THAT BEFELL DRUGGIST G. W. V. MOY.

Riding His Bicycle Down a Hill, Near Scotch Plains, When the Camer Got Under His Knee and Made Him Fall.

G. W. V. Moy, the Park avenue druggist, was the victim, Saturday evening, of a serious wheeling accident. Mr. Moy was riding down a hill at Scotch Plains holding a camera in one hand, when the instrument worked down underneath the handlebar and was struck by the knee of the rider, twisting the front wheel at right angles with the course of the machine and throwing Mr. Moy with terrific force into the road. He struck upon his right side, and the pain of his injuries was so great that he at once lost consciousness. Some people living nearby, who saw the accident, lifted the injured man and placing him in a carriage sent him to his home in this city.

Dr. Berg was summoned and made an examination of the injuries. The right leg and arm were covered with severe contusions, while in several places the skin was torn off. The right shoulder received a strain which amounted almost to a dislocation. Several times the pain caused Mr. Moy to pass into an unconscious state.

This morning his condition was so much improved that he was able to be at his store. His injured arm was still in a sling.

The damaged bicycle has not yet been sent to this city and it is probably in the keeping of some of the people who assisted Mr. Moy to reach home after his accident. The amount of damage to the wheels is therefore not yet known.

REASONS FOR HIS OBJECTIONS.

Metlar Explains Why he Stopped the Building of the Trolley Line.

George W. Metlar, of Highland Park, near New Brunswick, who is responsible for the stopping of the work of building the trolley line between New Brunswick and Bound Brook, says that the trolley ordinance granted the Brunswick Traction Company is irregular and illegal, and infringes upon his rights as a property owner. The writ of certiorari is returnable before the Supreme Court on September 2. The specific objections mentioned in the writ are as follows:—

The failure of the ordinance to designate with specific accuracy the location of the poles on the road; the failure to provide for the stringing of feed wires; the failure to designate the height from the ground that the feed wires are to be strung; the failure to locate sidings in any way except by a reference to a map; the failure to provide for safe crossing along the property of Mr. Metlar; the failure to provide for the payment of any sum of money to the township for the franchise; irregularities in the manner in which the ordinance was passed and the consents were obtained from the property owners; that the ordinance was passed by a different body than the one to which it was originally presented, and that the road is so narrow in front of Mr. Metlar's property that the construction of the trolley tracks makes travel dangerous.

Mr. Metlar declares that he has no objection to the trolley company extending its tracks along the line of his property provided they give his rights the proper consideration, but he does not purpose to submit to what he considers and imposition upon his rights. The trolley company may move to set aside the writs, and Frederick Weigel, the attorney for the Brunswick Traction Company, believes that the traction company will beat the writ.

TRAMPS BLAMED FOR THEFTS.

Enter Three Houses, Take Clothing and Help Themselves to Food.

Tramps, it is supposed, were responsible for three burglaries in Middlesex county early Monday morning. Thieves entered William Henderson's house on the River Road, Highland Park, by forcing open a basement window. Clothing and food were taken.

Nothing more than a desire to satisfy their appetite seems to have actuated the thieves who broke into Prof. John Meyer's house in Hardenburgh street. The thieves took everything they could find to eat and feasted in a lima bean patch near the house.

Four tramps entered Alexander C. Campbell's house in New Brunswick avenue, Metuchen, Monday morning. Only three children were in the house. The tramps ransacked the house. One of the children slipped out and summoned aid, whereupon the tramps ran to the road, jumped upon a passing freight train and escaped.

Sautelle's Circus.

Sautelle's one ring circus will appear in this city on Monday, August 30th. The performance is credited with being a clean one and filled with many acts that astonish the beholders for their daring and gracefulness. A performer dives from a platform 100 feet high each day at 1 and 7 o'clock, which exhibition is free.

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and nervous

Dyspepsia

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Fine Machinists' Tools In Stock.

Gasoline and oil stoves of best makes.

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

Trusses! Rupture! Trusses!

Dr. Marcley has opened a branch office at No. 22 West Second street, corner Central avenue, Plainfield, for the treatment of rupture. 30 years experience and the most modern appliances warrants satisfactory results. No occasion to go to New York for what you can get better at home. Irreducible, difficult and complicated cases solicited. The treatment of ruptures, whether umbilical, or otherwise, have properly belonged to surgeons of long experience in that particular line. No charge for consultation or advice. Hours 9-12 a. m., 1-4 p. m. and evenings

UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES of AMERICA

Rev. L. D. BASS, D. D., Manager,

Pittsburg, Pa., Toronto, Canada; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y.; Washington, D. C.; San Francisco, Cal.; Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo.; Los Angeles, Colorado Denver, Col. There are thousands of positions to be filled by teachers. Let us register you.

Address all applicants to UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES, Saltsburg, Pa. 4 m

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our high grade Improved Nursery Stock. Many new specialties offered this year for the first time, as well as the standard varieties of fruits and ornamentals. No previous experience necessary. Write for terms, stating age, etc.

Hoopes, Bro. & Thomas, Hoopes Avenue Nurseries, West Chester, Pa.

DIED.

WARTA—At Scotch Plains, August 18, 1897, Mary Rules, beloved wife of John Warta, aged 31 years.

WAIT—In North Plainfield, on Thursday, August 19, 1897, Harriet, widow of the late Reuben Wait and relict of Embley Stewart, aged 71 years.

MAXSON—At Saranac Lake, New York, on Thursday, August 19, 1897, Mrs. Joanna R. Maxson, of Plainfield, N. J.

MOUNTFORD—In North Plainfield, Saturday evening, August 14, 1897, William H. Mountford, aged 43 years.

MARRIED AT PASTOR'S HOME.

Happy Young People Sought Hymen to Complete Cupid's Work.

A wedding was celebrated August 10 at the home of Rev. George Hauser, of Duer street, when Miss Minnie Vance, of No. 816 Third place, and William Bernhard Goetz, of No. 313 Franklin place, were united in marriage by the above named clergyman. Mrs. J. D. Case was the bridesmaid, and Charles Pierson was the best man. They are both of this city. The marriage was performed with a ring and was according to the ceremony of the German Reformed church. The bride was neatly gowned in white, while the bridesmaid wore a cloth gown of dark color. After the ceremony the bridal couple left the city for New York, and from there they will go to the seashore to spend their honeymoon. On their return they will reside in this city, where the groom has a good position as coachman.

Death of Mrs. Maxson.

The death of Mrs. Joanna Maxson, formerly a resident of this city, occurred at Saranac Lake on Friday. For twenty-five years Mrs. Maxson was associated with her sister, Miss Alvira Kenyon, in the management of the Plainfield Seminary. Mrs. Maxson's husband was killed in the Civil War. She was born in Allegany county, N. Y. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Stimpson, of Saranac Lake.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Bilious and Nervous Disorders. They purify the Blood and give Healthful action to the entire system.

Cure DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies and HAND BOOK ON PATENTS sent free. Address

MUNN & CO.,

361 Broadway, New York.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship order.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running s own business, at all times and in l cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues, a First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF.

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

and dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 234 W. Front street, to 231 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 9jly

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

E. B. MAYNARD.

PRACTICAL

HAIR DRESSER.

204 PARK AVE.

Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed. 11y1

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

SAVED

After years of suffering. It has at last been proven beyond a doubt that is a positive remedy for local diseases which are the result of cold and climatic changes. Cold in the Head. Hay Fever.

NASALENE

CATARRH!

Deafness, (caused by catarrh) are instantly relieved.

It is pleasant to use, convenient to carry, price 50c., and $1. at all druggists.

O. V. SAGE, Warden of Sing Sing, says: "Nasalene is very beneficial."

HUNTER MEDICAL CO.,

54 E. 21st Street, N. Y.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies and HAND BOOK ON PATENTS sent free. Address

MUNN & CO.,

361 Broadway, New York.

What a Lot of Eggs the hens lay when fed a Green Cut Bone. With a dozen hens

Mann's

Green Bone Cutter

will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 BUYS ONE. Sent on trial. 180 Highest awards received. Catalogue free if you name this paper. F. W. MANN CO., Milford, Mass.

1 2 3 4 9 10 11 12—1 mos.

THE LEAD PENCIL

If my wife has a failure it is lack of reverence. She doesn't respect those property rights which should inhere to the personal belongings of a husband.

I think that I was mildly reprimanding her at the time for mislaying the gimlet. I'm the most particular fellow you ever saw about keeping everything in its place.

It isn't alone gimlets, it is hammers and screw-drivers, and knives, and Lord knows what all, that she has even tampered with my razors!

Well, now that you understand my wife's failing—I'll admit it's her greatest one—I'll go on with the story with which it is connected.

One day last July, Jim Outhwick came into the office just as I was closing up to go to supper. Jim is the paymaster at the Vulcan mills, and a right good fellow.

"Hello, Joe," he says; "all alone?"

"Yes," I said; "what's up?"

He flung a canvas grip on the table and said:

"I must go down the road to-night to Ashville. There's talk of a strike among the miners, and I've got to be on hand first thing in the morning. I'm to offer to pay off the disaffected ones and make a big show of money. That's a bluff that generally goes. The boys'll make up their minds the company can't be scared, and they'll get into line again. There's twenty-six thousand dollars in that bag, Joe."

I looked at the bag on the table and looked at Jim.

"What do you bring it here for?" I said.

"That's easily explained," he answered.

"I got word to start for Ashville just half an hour ago. The money was made up in a hurry and I didn't have time to go home. I couldn't very well stay at the mill, and I wouldn't go to the tavern. So I just thought I'd come down here and get you to stay with me until the night freight comes along. She's due at nine-fifty, isn't she?"

"Nine-thirty-five," I answered. "But I'm just off for supper."

"Oh, that's all right," he said. "I feel safe enough here, I'm armed to the teeth, you know, and there wouldn't be any danger until after dark. I'll just come back and keep me company, won't you?"

"I will if Minnie lets me off," I said. "I'm booked for cribbage with her after supper."

"You tell Minnie I'll bring her the prettiest cribbage board in Asheville if she'll lend you for a couple of hours," laughed Jim.

There was a stout old safe in the corner of the office that had nothing in it but blank way bills and reports. I unlocked it and tossed the canvas bag inside.

"There," I said, as I thrust my bunch of keys in my sack coat pocket, "that makes it a little safer."

I thought Jim looked a bit dubious over this precaution, but he laughed and said: "All right, my boy. I'll make myself comfortable until you come back."

Minnie didn't want me to go out one bit, but I told her Jim counted on me. I didn't tell her that it was the money, however; I knew it would worry her and, to tell the truth, it worried me a little. I was sorry Jim brought it there, and I didn't like his talk about precautions.

Well, after supper I went out to see if the dog was all right—I've got the finest mastiff in the state—and when I came back Minnie called to me from the sitting-room,—

"Just a minute, Joe; I'm writing a note for Hattie."

Hattie is the wife of the telegraph operator at the station, and Minnie wanted me to leave it at the station where he could get it in the morning. It was quite a number of minutes, however, before she came out with the note, and my vest and coat. It was so warm I had left them off before supper.

"Hadn't you better let the dog go with you, Joe?" she asked, as she helped me with my coat.

"No, no," I said, laughing, "he'll stay home and take care of you. I'll put the lamp in the window, though, so you'll know I'm all right." That was a great joke of ours, but Minnie didn't laugh as she usually did.

"Mind," she said, "I'll watch for it, and if it isn't there, I'll come down after you."

I'm station master at Y——. Our road is what's called the old line and travel on it is light, mostly freight. At night the station is deserted, there being no business for either telegraph operator or ticket agent. This leaves the station practically deserted after sundown. It is only a few rods from our home, however, and I felt that it's under my eye all the time. I thought of this as I walked back to the station and I didn't half like the idea of all that money being about.

I found Jim with his heels on the desk, puffing away at a good cigar.

"Not an alarm," he said, by his joking way. "Not even a mouse."

We chatted away for an hour or more, when Jim suddenly put down his feet and yawned heavily.

"Joe," he said, "if you don't mind I'll go out and take a little stroll."

"Go ahead," I said, "but mind you're not gone long."

After he had stepped out I was sorry I let him go. The thought of being alone with all that money was disquieting. I followed him to the door and looked out. It was a bright night and I saw Jim stip around the corner. I knew he was after a drink. That was Jim's failing. That and gambling.

I went back and sat down. The more I thought about that money the more I didn't like the idea. What business had Jim to go away and leave all the responsibility with me. Of course, he didn't leave it all with me, but he left altogether too big a share. As I sat there grumbling a low tap on the window overlooking the platform attracted my attention. I looked up. The side of the building was in the shadow, but I could see a man's face against the pane.

"Joe," said somebody outside. I supposed it might be one of the section hands and stepped across the room.

"What is it?" I called.

"Open the window, Joe," said the voice.

I pushed it up a little.

"It that you, Jerry?" I called.

There was no response. I put my head through the opening and looked up and down the line. Nobody was in sight. Just then I heard a slight noise behind me. I drew in my head. Something seemed to crash into my brain. Then all was dark.

When I came to I was tied in my chair, my head was sore and wet, and two men with strips of black cloth across their faces were looking down at me.

"Wife's all right," said the shorter man. The tall man nodded.

"Get the keys," he said in a queer, hoarse voice.

The shorter man felt in my pockets.

"Not here!" he cried.

"They must be," said the tall man, in his hoarse voice.

"I tell you they are not. Bring the lamp."

The tall man took the lamp from the window ledge and came closer to me. But their search was in vain. The tall man placed the lamp on the table, while the other man put a revolver to my ear.

"Come!" he said, "where are those keys?"

My head was beginning to clear a little. I saw it all. My wife had taken the keys from my pocket because it was her way, and because she thought I had no further use for them until morning.

"He must have left the keys at home," said the tall man hurriedly. "Here, give him a sheet of paper and let him write a note to his wife, asking for them. The short man looked up sharply.

"I'll get them," said the tall man. They pulled the table up to me and spread out a scrap of paper. The short man loosened the rope and let my right hand free. I reached to my vest pocket half blindly and drew out my pencil. Still in a daze, I tried to put my wife's name on the sheet. The pencil refused to make a mark. I looked at it. It was dull and horribly haggled about the point. I pride myself on the fine point I put to my pencils. Again I remembered that my wife had borrowed that very pencil to write the note to the operator's wife. I tried to scribble with the blunted thing.

"Curse you, hurry!" growled the short ruffian.

I showed the pencil point. With an exclamation of anger the short man drew out a heavy-handled knife and swiftly sharpened the pencil. As he passed it back my wandering vision was caught by the lamp on the table. Heavens! It was no longer in the window! As this thought struck me I looked towards the ledge and saw there a white, scared face pressed against the pane. It was my wife.

"Write!" growled the short ruffian.

My only thought was to gain time. I knew help was on the way.

"Write!" growled the short ruffian. My only thought was to gain time. I knew help was on the way. I knew she would bring help.

I took the pencil in my nerveless fingers. As I did so a low growl caught my ear. It caught the ears of the villains, too. The short man dropped his knife on the table and turned toward the door with his revolver extended. The tall man drew himself up against the wall.

"It's the dog," he hoarsely whispered. "Shoot to kill, Jack."

I saw the door tremble a little, I saw the short villain's arm raised and my fingers closed on the handle of the knife he had just dropped. Then all the door slowly opened I drew back my arm and thrust wildly at the man in front of me. Something yellow flew through the doorway, there was a wild scream, a heavy fall and I knew no more unconsciousness again.

When I came around I was in bed at home, with Minnie bending over me.

"It's all right, Joe," she murmured, "they've got them both locked up safe and sound and the money is all right in the mill directors have given you one thousand dollars of it."

"And Jim?" I asked.

"Jim?" she cried. "Why, Jim was the tall man. It was all his plot to get the money and throw the blame on you. And if I hadn't taken the keys—don't scold—they'd have had the money, and if it hadn't been for the lead pencil I dulled—the man you stabbed told the whole story—I wouldn't have got there in time with Hector. The dog almost killed Jim before I could call him away, but I ain't so sorry, because the little man says they would have killed you if you had by any chance suspected Jim's identity."

I reached out and took Minnie's hand.

"That thousand dollars belongs to you, dear," I said brokenly.

"Well," she answered, "if you take it, Joe, you must have assured I'll borrow it sooner or later."

Then she put her cheek against my hand and laughed.

Then she cried.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Several times during the delivery of his commencement day oration he paused and took a drink of water. He was very dry." "You mean he was very thirsty." "Yes, he was thirsty, too."—Chicago Tribune.

A MODERN DEBORAH.

Translated from the German by H. C. Collin.

At the eastern extremity of the long, straggling street of Nagy-Némethy, amid the crumbling ruins of a deserted house.

More than forty years ago, when the Hungarian people awoke and began to throw their chains from them, in this house a young Jewish couple, Aaron Sonnenfeld and his wife Eglantine. Although scarcely fifteen years of age when her husband first took her from her parents' watchful care, she was no half-opened bud, but a glorious woman, a blooming rose of Sharon. Sonnenfeld, like many a young German townsman, was a slender, fair-haired young fellow. His young wife, Egla, was a lovely Jewess of the purest type. Self-possessed, never betraying behind the cold gaze of her dark, scornful eyes, and the mobile mouth could soften sweetly to the warming kiss or harden with deliberation for command. Her husband was merely a practical man of business, of a sly and cunning disposition, called Sonnenfeld by his friends because he was too cautious to risk doing an injury.

In spite of the differences in their characters, Egla seemed to love her husband even more than her fatherland, and that speaks volumes, for she was a true Hungarian. She had borne her husband two children, and through her teaching they were growing up with a fervent love of home and fatherland.

One morning at breakfast, having scanned the newspaper, she commenced:

"Adolf, every one is taking up arms for the fatherland, old men, boys and even women. Why do you hold back?"

"Are you mad?" cried Sonnenfeld, half-irritated, half-frightened; "what is Hungary to us? I am not a Magyar, I am a Jew. Even if I wanted to go to the war they would only laugh at me. I don't know how to hold a gun."

"You can learn——"

"I shan't think of it!" cried Sonnenfeld, cutting her short; "we have soldiers enough—I am not one of them."

The war came home to Egla that her husband was no hero, very shortly. Hussars came into the village, and then all who had hitherto held back came forward and joined the colors. Sonnenfeld alone was not to be seen; he had vanished, he disappeared, and only came in sight again after the last horseman had quitted Nagy-Némethy. Egla found out afterwards that he had been hidden in a recess in the cellar, and supplied with food and drink by the cook.

From that day she treated him with silent disdain. That proved more galling than open hostilities or reproaches. Hitherto he had taken no interest whatever in the struggles of the fatherland, but now began to interest himself more and more. But his sympathies were all with the anti-Magyar party. He hated the agitators who had robbed him of his wife's love, and the patriots whose heroic courage had branded him as a coward. He could barely hide his joy when Windischgratz with the imperial troops, crossed the frontier and pushed on to Buda-Pesth, but Egla grew ever paler, ever quieter. When the Hungarian capital fell and the national troops fell back on the Theiss, Sonnenfeld felt sure that all was over. He went about radiant and joyful, as if he had won the victory or inherited a million.

It was not long before the First Imperial Light Cavalry showed themselves in Nagy-Némethy. A whole brigade followed, pitched camp in the neighborhood. Some of the soldiers were billeted in the village, and the general himself took up his quarters in Sonnenfeld's house. The husband surpassed himself in hospitality, loyalty and attention to the wishes of his guest. Egla, who held herself aloof, timid but inimical, one day saw the general kick her husband out of the door. She felt as if her heart was crushed, then the blood rushed to her face, but she exercised silence.

A few days later, hussars appeared in the neighborhood, and the Imperialist outposts exchanged shots with them. During the night the brigade became alarmed, for the Hungarians approached on all sides and threatened to overpower the enemy. Every one was afoot, the inhabitants stood in the street doors whispering, while cannon and heavily armed cavalry rattled by. Egla, who had dressed herself rapidly, found that her husband had left the house. She glided out after him, only to find him by the garden hedge deep in conversation with the general. Sonnenfeld bowed obsequiously as he spoke, and the general laughed sardonically. Egla listened to him, even more insulting that the kick he had given her husband a few days back. She only caught detached words and isolated phrases of the conversation; but she gathered that while her husband was betraying his trust to the position, the general was complaining that he could gain no information even from the poorest peasant. At sunrise an adjutant arrived bearing a sealed letter for the general, on reading which he ordered the corps to the left, Imperialist troops to withdraw to the south.

Business was at a standstill. Sonnenfeld alone showed a restless activity. He contracted for provisions of all kinds for the supply of the Imperialist troops, and under cover of suspicious-looking characters would absent himself from home for days together. Egla watched him with anxious heart and increasing uneasiness.

One beautiful, sunshiny winter's day, hussars, with loaded carbines, rode into the village. The villagers received them with loud hurrahs and cries of welcome, and the joy was increased when a Honved battalion followed them on foot. The Hungarians halted, picketed their outposts, sent out patrols to all points of the compass, and their duty over, began to think of the commissariat. The inhabitants of Nagy-Némethy brought out the best they had to compensate the brave fellows, if ever so little, for the hardships of their campaign. Egla did not like to follow the example of the others without first obtaining her husband's consent. She went in search of him, but was unable to find him, either at home or anywhere in the village. Evil forebodings took possession of her mind.

Night closed in. Every one slept in Nagy-Nemethy—every one but Egla. She sat on her bed waiting and listening. She felt that she must listen and wait for something! Something so terrible it hardly took form in her mind, yet it was something that had been hanging over her for a long time. She sat and waited—one hour—two hours—till she grew drowsy from sheer exhaustion. Suddenly she was startled. Was it the sound of shots?—what was that other noise? The trumpets brayed, words of command were heard, and the firing increased. She ran to the window, and as she threw it open a bullet whistled past and impinged upon the wall behind her. She closed it quickly and extinguished the light. There was fighting in the streets of Nagy-Némethy.

The Imperialists had advanced upon the Honved battalion under cover of the night, and the Hungarians had been overpowered. A few of them managed to escape with the colors, but the rest were taken prisoners or died the patriot's death.

Egla sat in her room like one in a trance; her thoughts stood still. The time passed away, but she was heedless of it, till suddenly she started at the sound of voices in the next room. Her husband had returned, and with him—— How well she knew those clear, commanding tones as she listened to the words of praise and the promise of a great reward—to her husband.

The Imperialists did not remain long, and her husband went away in their train. Egla obtained a conveyance, and, wrapping her children up warmly, followed. A few days after the father's house. Having placed them in safety, she returned home on the third day, and awaiting her husband's return.

On the fourth evening after her return she heard her husband enter the house softly, like a thief, and like a thief he started when his wife, candle in hand, stepped out of her room before him. Placing the light upon the table, she seated herself, and coldly awaited his speech. A judge, she commenced her examination.

"Where were you?"

"I have done a good bit of business."

"I know it."

"I have delivered a contract for bread and bacon to——"

"You have delivered up your brethren? You spy!" shrieked the Jewess, flaming with in dignation.

"What do you mean?" Sonnenfeld was pale as a ghost.

"I overheard your conversation with the general."

"Anything further?" and the husband tried to laugh.

The beautiful Jewess stood up and gazed steadily in his face. "This further—that you are a traitor and deserve to die, but I have loved you and would not have the name that I have borne, and the name of my children, dishonored before the world. You shall not, therefore, swing from the gallows as you deserve, but I will let you kill yourself here upon the spot."

"I believe you have lost your reason," cried her husband.

For answer she glided quietly into her room and fetched a loaded pistol. "You must die, Aaron Sonnenfeld, and if you have sunk so low that you do not understand how great is the enormity of the crime you have committed, or if your cowardice be so great you dare not kill yourself, then I will be your executioner in the name of the fatherland."

She placed the muzzle of the pistol against his breast, when the wretch fell upon his knees, begging and entreating her to spare his life.

The woman's form stood superbly above him, gazed at him for a moment with unutterable contempt, and then uncocked the pistol.

"No, truly, you are not worth powder and shot."

She turned from him and went into her own room, when he feverishly sprang to the door and fastened it behind her.

Egla listened, and when she felt certain her husband had gone to bed, she wrapped herself in a fur cloak and stepped out through the long window into the night.

As day broke the tread of horses sounded in front of Sonnenfeld's house, and a few blows from the butt end of a carbine made the door fly open. Hussars, with his wife at their head, burst into the room where he was sleeping.

"There is the spy," cried she, coldly; "he is my husband, but I would see him hanged."

Sonnenfeld, whining vainly, pleaded for pardon, as the hussars bound his hands behind him and dragged him forth. His wife looked on silence. When the rope was placed round his neck, and the end slung over the Hmetree, she swung herself into the saddle of a horse that the hussars had prepared for her, and galloped away, followed, in a few minutes, by the soldiers.

At the taking of Waitsen a beautiful woman rode in front of the Honved battalion—it was the Jewess of Nagy-Némethy. Once again she was seen in the uniform of an officer, when the Poles of Mazuchelli's regiment stormed the green hill of Komorn at the point of the bayonet, and there she fell riddled with bullets, but wrapped in the standard of her country and staining the colors with her blood.—Argonaut.

THE WAY IT GOES.

When Tom and Bill were baby boys
Infant Bill
Was fretful, squally, full of noise—
Homely Bill—
Redheaded, and it was a fact
From morn till night his parents racked
To keep his nask from being cracked—
Troublesome Bill.

As he grew older folks would say
Bill, Bill, Bill,
But naught he'd care. It was his way,
Shiftless Bill.
He'd spend his time in idle joys,
And put his jobs on other boys,
Poor fool, that followed his decoys—
Schoolmate Bill.

And when the boys to college went,
Foolish Bill,
To grinding work no interest lent,
Hopeless Bill;
While Tom was quick and apt to learn,
And said bright things at every turn,
That made the slow with envy burn—
Sluggish Bill.

School life was done, with all its joys,
And business life claimed both the boys—
A chance for Bill—
Tom made a fortune, lost none, know,
But somehow never seemed to go,
While close-mouthed Bill raked in the dough
Knowing Bill.

The years have come and gone away
For Tom and Bill,
Tom keeps a thousand clerks each day,
And Bill
Has office hours from 10 till 2,
He's looking for a bank or two—
He owns a block, a bank or two—
Incomprehensible Bill.

—Al Dunlap.

HER CREDENTIALS.

Herbert Savin was reading a letter. He scowled as he read, and interrupted himself by various petulant exclamations, such as "Oh, pshaw!" "Fine arrangement, on my word." "The idea!" "Great heavens, a baby?" and even stronger expressions of displeasure given in such a tranquil rage that possibly the recording angel blotted them out with a tear. For herbert had an ample home heart, and as soon as he had finished reading the letter it had warmed toward the poor motherless baby whom his sister had adopted and was now sending to him by a new nursemaid.

The letter gave one reading it a confirmation of the idea that language was invented to conceal thought.

"She is such a dear little thing," it ran on, "and has never lived out before—not the baby, but the maid—and I am sure you will like her—not the maid, but the baby—and her father was a country minister or something and the family lost all their property, and I know you will have patience, dear, and not choke her if she cries—you know how I will try to be home in a week—if not sooner."

"How like my erratic sister," said Herbert. "Here she sends me a peripatetic orphan asylum, and expects me to be delighted. I must inform Mrs. Daniels, and she will probably give notice."

He rang the bell for the housekeeper. He gave her his sister's letter to read. After all, the house and all therein, belonged to her; they had simply to obey orders.

"A baby!" said Mrs. Daniels, in much the same tone as she might have used in speaking of a crocodile.

"Of course it will be a nuisance at first to both of us," said Herbert, "but I dare say it's a nice little thing. And I say, Margaret, put them both in the furthest guest chamber—the terra cotta room—until my sister is here. It's far enough away, as well as I can remember, not to disturb the baby should cry. But I don't think it will," he added, hastily.

"I wonder if she will come like the wolf on the fold, bringing the cub with her," asked Herbert to himself; "I suppose the correct thing will be to send the carriage to the depot to meet the train. Two o'clock! By George! that train is now due. I must rush Owen off at once."

So the coachman was dispatched to the depot. He had scarcely the sound of the horses' feet died away on the avenue when a hack drove up to the house, and Herbert, who was just going out, saw that the baby and its nurse had arrived. He ran down the steps and opened the door of the carriage.

"I am very sorry," he began, "but there was a misstatement about the time. My sister wrote that——" Then he stopped. The cub could not go with the fashion plate. A pair of clear, radiant eyes were looking into his.

"You are Mr. Savin?" asked the maid, as she handed out a fluffy bundle, whence a faint murmur proceeded.

"Yes. But I shall expect you to call me Mr. Herbert," he said.

"I shall do nothing of the kind," was the surprising response, and then Herbert, who had just had his ears metaphorically boxed, noticed a daintily-shod foot on the carriage step, and a rather tall woman jumped lightly to the pavement in a manner that indicated a perfect familiarity with carriage deportment.

"If you will bring the baby into the house I will relieve you of it, as you don't seem to know what to do with it," she said, and Herbert meekly led the way and ushered her into the library.

"I will send for the housekeeper, and she will take you to your room. I presume you know what your duties are, and it will not be necessary for me to explain them. If there is anything you need you can mention it to Mrs. Daniels. You will find her very kind."

"Then you have not engaged a nurse for the baby?" said the girl, pushing back the masses of ruddy hair from a very attractive face.

"No, my dear—I beg pardon—Miss—you have not mentioned your name."

The look she gave him was wither ing. Then she walked out of the room and went in search of the housekeeper herself.

"Whew!" said Herbert. "A minister's daughter! By George! she must be a king's daughter by the way she carries herself. What possessed Alice to engage such a girl as that and to her house! She's too fine for the place. He did not see her again that day, but the baby was dressed and put down, and he experienced a degree of astonishment when he knew it. He was not prepared for it in the least the first place, it was a perfect cherub in its appearance, with the sweetest and most appealing smile, dimples in the cherubic order, and golden curls that fluffed about its face like an aureole.

In the morning he sent for the young woman. She came, and proved to be more attractive by the cruel light of day. Her dress was of a quiet color and finish, and set off her stately form to advantage.

"You wished to speak to me?" she said, and Herbert thought he saw a gleam of amusement in her face, and it made him angry.

"I merely wish to ask you—to——"

It was not easy to say what was in his mind, with those eyes looking at him from under their level brows.

"I would like to know how Mrs. Roberts' illness has happened to send you and secure your valuable services in the—your present capacity."

He had stammered and halted as the expression in her face changed from amusement to anger, and then to contempt.

"You wish to see my credentials?" she asked, presently.

"It is customary," he answered.

"I think I'll—I beg pardon, Mrs. Roberts, is the one to demand credentials," she replied.

"You do not what you seem to be; you are masquerading," Herbert retorted hotly.

"I think you will be satisfied when your sister returns; that will be to-morrow. Until then I have nothing to say, and I shall not change my charge."

Herbert tried another tack.

"As the baby is to be a fixture in the family, I suppose I must order a perambulator to take the little thing out for an airing. Or you can go with Mrs. Daniels and make the selection yourself."

The girl laughed—yes, actually laughed in his face. He was furious at his own discomfiture, and ended on to desti-nation.

"And since you do not seem at all prepared for filling your position in a proper manner, I must request that you wear the customary black dress and white apron and cap of the regular nurse-maid; it will define your position in this family."

If he expected an outbreak of wrath he was disappointed. A pained look came into the reigned face, and tears started in the overcharged eyes. But she answered in a calm voice.

"I object on the principle to the uniform of domestic service, and do not intend to wear it. But I will wait, if you please, until your sister is here before we make any plans," and she swept from the room like a young princess, with her head thrown back in regal disdain.

But an hour later she condescended to accept his offer of the carriage and horses to take baby for a ride, and, accompanied by Mrs. Daniels, drove to the Park.

Then an incident occurred that had all the elements of a tragedy in it. A horseback rider, one of the gilded youth of the city, but a good fellow withal, and a great friend and chum of Herbert Savin, rode up to the Roberts carriage at a gallop and nearly bore himself from his horse in his efforts to grasp the extended hand of the fair sitting there.

Herbert caught the words "Nellie, darling!" in an incredulous, but most loving tone, and a pang of jealousy added its share to the mad rush of frightened horses, and the carriage in which the girl was composedly sitting was whirled away at a breakneck run.

Herbert spurred his horse at a pace that equalled that of the runaways, and at the same moment a mounted policeman dashed off in pursuit, and the team was stopped before any damage was done, but Herbert had the inexplicable chagrin of seeing Gould raise the form of the fair young girl to his breast and hearing him say—

"Thank God, Nellie, you were not hurt."

"Gould, dear, I was looking for you; that is why I came to the park," she answered, nuzzling his caress.

Gloomy as a pillar, Herbert stood, trying later to soothe Mrs. Daniels and help her adjust the baby, when he found his faculties.

But it was Gould Lorraine that was the astonished person now.

"Then did you come? What are you doing in the carriage? Why did you not come home?"

Those were the questions the young man asked, and at each one the insinuation in his voice grew stronger and more indignant.

"You know, I met Alice Savin—Mrs. Roberts—abroad after our school days," said Nellie, in response to her brother's questions. "I chanced to visit the same friends on the way home, and she asked me, or, rather, I begged to bring the baby she had adopted home with me, and left the maid to come with her. I had no idea her brother was at home; she did not speak of him to me."

So this was the charming, accomplished friend of his sister, Eleanor Lorraine, whom he had never chanced to meet. A more complete discomfiture could not have been planned.

But all's well that ends well. The timely arrival of Mrs. Roberts with the genuine nursemaid relieved Miss Lorraine of any further responsibility, and in due time Herbert was forgiven.

And neither of them ever knew that unpleasant experience was one of the deep-laid schemes of that "erratic" Mrs. Roberts to bring her dear friend and her bachelor brother together.

THE LORD'S FARM.

IT IS IN JERSEY AND AN ASYLUM FOR THE OPPRESSED.

The Messiah Presides Over the Queer Colony, the members of which Practice the Most Rigid Religious Discipline—Not a Dollar in the World, but Happy.

A long-haired, out-of-door Evangelist suddenly appeared eight years ago near the classic regions of Hackensack, N. J. The new preacher could not fail to attract considerable attention. He was peculiar in appearance. His long, curling hair parted in the middle, and his unshaven beard and large, eager, wistful eyes caused the most casual passerby to acknowledge a certain likeness to the best-known pictures of the great Nazarene.

His oratory was rude but wonderfully magnetic. He spoke in words that appealed to men and women equally. He told in homely but glowing language the story of his own past life of sin, of his conviction and of his conversion.

THE MESSIAH.

He claimed to have seen visions, and declared that the Lord directed him in all he said and did. He entreated the people to be saved, and with tears prayed for their conversion.

Village folk flocked to see and hear. The new prophet, possibly by his strange and tremendous will-power—for, as he claimed, by the grace of God—performed some truly remarkable cures by the laying on of hands. Presently he was chosen leader of a number of the Jerseyite audiences, and finally an entire household—that of Herman Storms, a farmer who succumbed to his doctrines.

The homestead of the Storms family is at present known as the Lord's Farm, and here the man, who is called the New Messiah, lives with his disciples, both men and women, and, at the end of seven years and of incredible persecutions, peaceably follows out his peculiar doctrines.

Driving up to the farm, the reporter was met by the Messiah himself and the two principal women of the society.

"Thee are welcome, friend," said Mnason, "though thee be a stranger. All those are welcome."

The younger woman also spoke, saying for the other; "This be Phoebe, friend, and I be Blandina. Thee are welcome."

The Messiah, when asked the object of the community, after a little urging and a promise not to misinterpret his statements, said:

"I was convicted of sin in New York City about ten years ago. I had led a very fast life—in fact, I was busy most of the time keeping within the law and out of the hands of the police. I never was arrested, though.

"I wandered into a Methodist revival meeting one night. I thought it was a police court. It was in a place in Sixth avenue, near Thirtieth street. The minister was talking plain truths, I didn't like them. They fitted me too well. I got out, but the next night I went there again, and the third night I went up to be prayed for. That was the most awful night I ever passed. I knew I had got to go on the Lord's side, and I knew I'd have to starve most likely when I did. I kept saying to myself, 'I've got to do this thing, and it means that I've got to get out of business,' for I had never earned an honest dollar in my life.

"I had my first vision that night. I saw the Lord, and he spoke to me. I saw the Lord and he spoke to me. I saw heaven and I saw hell, and I chose heaven and the Lord."

"Praise the Lord!" quoth Phoebe from the old sofa. "The Lord's name be praised for ever more!" ejaculated Blandina. Both women were struck with rapturous eyes meanwhile at the Messiah.

"I nearly starved," continued Mnason, "and I suffered terribly. I had no place to go. I slept in the streets. The Lord chastened me, but I needed it, and I was in His holy hands. Praise the Lord forever!" he said with the utmost fervor, and once more the women in unison repeated, "Praise the Lord!"

"I took to expounding the Word," continued the Messiah, "because the Lord told me to. I wandered about from one place to the other. I didn't know anything about farming, but the Lord told me to till the soil and I did it. I came over to Jersey. I'd get a day's work in one place or the other, and at night I'd preach in the village streets or in the fields, wherever I could find any one to listen. Finally I reached Park Ridge, N. J. The Methodist minister heard me. He asked me to come and assist him. I did. We conducted a big revival. Phoebe here was saved at that time."

"Praise the Lord!" said Phoebe.

"We have nothing ourselves. This farm has been given by us to the Lord. We work it to the best of our ability. We have been greatly persecuted by people who did not understand us, but we have never retaliated."

"They took Mnason," cried Phoebe, looking at him with all pity, "and beat him. They knocked him down, cut off his hair and beard and nearly drowned him in the creek, trying to make him say he'd leave the place or live like other people, and he wouldn't even appear against his persecutors when they were arrested by the police. We had meetings, and because we sang and talked and shut the doors and windows they arrested us all and sent us to jail for keeping a disorderly house. They called us angel dancers because they saw shadows through the window curtains. By the old blue laws of New Jersey, it's keeping a disorderly house to make an unusual noise, so they arrested us all.

"We would not defend ourselves, so we went to court and were convicted and were a year apiece in the Hackensack jail."

"Yes, praise the Lord! Now let His name be praised," almost shouted Mnason, "for he allowed us to be persecuted as His apostles were for His sake. We are the followers of the meek and lowly One whose pillow was a stone and whose only luggage was a cross. We are happy in jail the Sheriff is our friend.

"Why, I kept the keys. I used to get up every morning and open the jail for the Sheriff," continued Mnason. "Phoebe did all the cooking for his family. We prayed and preached the Lord day and night in jail, and the Sheriff's people learned to understand us and are our firm friends. We all go when we can spare the Lord's time and visit the Sheriff. When our imprisonment was over we came back. We didn't a rent, nor a mouthful of food, nor a bit of fuel.

"The neighbors gave us work, and now we have got six horses in our barns and some fine new farm machinery. We are all well and the Lord's people have been taken care of. Any man, woman or child can come to the Lord's Farm at any hour of the day or night—to stay an hour or a year, or forever; they will share in the good way with us—food, clothes, our life, just as it is. If they are able to work, we invite them to do so. If they do not wish to work, why, they may remain idle and we will work for them and serve them. They never let us do so long. They work this farm, and are running eight other neighboring ones on shares. We do not work for money. We haven't a dollar, separately or collectively, in the world. We trade produce for everything. We sell cattle to meat nor fish, nor anything that entails the destruction of life. The Lord gave life. He only has the right to destroy it. Sometimes out family is so large that we have to make up beds on the floors. Last winter we were twenty-eight souls here! We have been as warm as toast—seventeen to-night—and to-morrow morning find that several friends have arrived during the night. We have two settees here that make comfortable beds for those that come while we are asleep, and the chambers upstairs are, as thee should see, very neat and with good, comfortable beds."

"If, now," said Phoebe, with tremendous meaning in the word, "thee are a newspaper reporter, I do beg of thee, write of us as we are."

The blue eyes were full of tears, the thin, worn hands were clasped in entreaty, and the reporter promised. Phoebe begged the reporter to stop to supper, which was ready, and consisted of bread baked by "John the Baptist," who was formerly a baker in some strawberry shortcake, besides a large bowl of oatmeal and some boiled potatoes.

Unlike any other of the modern Messiahs, Mnason declines every and all luxuries, is most bloodthirsty in his diet than his disciples, and, it is said does by far the most fatiguing work on the farm. He is regarded almost with awe by the villagers because his horses will obey his slightest word, and he never permits a curse word spoken to man or beast in his hearing.

When asked if there were not a number of tramps constantly imposing upon them, Mnason replied: "We take in tramps as well as anything else. God made all men in His image. We get nothing to do with them before they enter this gate. If they want shelter and food, or clothes, why, we give it to them in the name of the Lord. If they are willing to work, all is well. If they are lazy, why, we each observe in the extra work they make and wait upon them. Often they are terribly nervous from drink and tobacco; of course they cannot get that here. We have four dear friends here now who have been with us nearly a year, and they are broken down from drink, and for a mood while they were fearfully shaky and upset; but, the Lord's name be praised! they are both well and strong now and hard workers and happy."

Inquiries at Hillsdale resulted in tales of the heroism and kindness of the Lord's Farm people. One of the owners of a large farm worked on shares by the Lord's Farm people said: "I never think of having a written contract with them. To the last potato or ear of corn, they are scrupulously honest. They do a better day's work and a longer one than ever has been done in this vicinity. They never ill treat anything, not even a mule. They never even leave a stone in the road, for fear it may hurt a man or a beast. They have their own peculiar views, but no one ever suggests that they do not lead perfectly moral lives. They go miles in winter or summer to carry food to families in want, even though they are the very persons who persecuted them a few years back. A good many of us remember Mary Storms, now called Blandina when she was a pretty young girl and a village belle, as fond of dancing and picnics as any girl in town. It seems and to think of her out there working so hard and leading such a fearfully unnatural life; but she declares she is perfectly happy. They are fanatics, of course."

But are they?

AN ELECTRIC FISHING REEL.

Something That Would Make Izaak Walton Turn in His Grave.

A local genius at Columbus, Ind., has said to have invented an electric fishing reel which is highly successful from one point of view and very destructive from another. As described in a despatch to The Journal, there is housed in the fishing line a small wire which is attached to a battery near the fisherman or executioner, and connecting at the other end with the hook. When the machine is in action the moment the fish touches the hook it receives a shock that kills it. It is said that eighty pounds of fish were killed with the machine in an experimental trial of a few hours.

The inventor seems to be ingeniously diabolical. As a means merely of killing fish, it may have all the merit claimed for it, but it is enough to make old Izaak Walton turn in his grave, if there is enough of him left to turn, or rise to indignant protest. A machine that destroys every element of sport and gives the person who manipulates it every possible advantage over the fish has nothing to recommend it except its capacity for killing fish. In this respect it is quite as unsportsmanlike as dynamite, and only less barbarous in that it only kills one fish at a time instead of scores. It is somewhat remarkable that this infernal machine should have made its appearance at the home of the State Fish-Commissioner. Mr. Sweeney has been doing good work in the way of putting a stop to the unlawful catching and killing of fish, and if the law can be made to cover this new machine he will doubtless apply it.—Indianapolis Journal.

WEIGHTY BRIDES.

The Girls of Morocco Are Fattened for the Matrimonial Market.

Throughout the empire of Morocco and in Tunis there are villages where the elder members of the adult population follow professionally the pursuit of fattening young ladies for the matrimonial market at Fez. Among the Moors, like the Turks and most other orientals, give a decided preference to "moon-faced" wives over lean ones, and are more solicitous as to the number of pounds which their brides weigh than about the stock of accomplishments they possess.

A girl is put under the process of fattening when she is about twelve years of age. Her hands are tied behind her and she is seated on a carpet during the first week every day, while her "papa" stands over her with a matraque, or big stick, and her mother at times pops into her mouth a ball of couscoussou, or stiff maize porridge, kneaded up with grease and just large enough to be swallowed without much chewing.

If the unfortunate girl declines to be stuffed she is compelled, so that are long the poor girl resigns herself to the torture and gulps down the boluses least she should be beaten.

In Tunis corpulency is also considered the essential point of female beauty, and the greatest compliment that can be paid to a Brazilian lady is to tell her that she grows fatter and fairer every day.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Tamerlane on Playing Cards.

The picture of a king in a pack of playing cards was originally intended to be a portrait of Timour, the great Mogul, or Tartar, who is now known in history by the name of Tamerlane. Timour was a mighty conqueror. He surpassed Alexander the Great in the extent and success of his warfare and in the number of nations he subdued. His power he was the sovereign of almost the entire known world. His dominions extended from Hindoostan to the Bosporus and from the Indian Ocean to the Arctic Sea. He ruled all Asia except the Chinese Empire, and died while on an expedition to subdue China in 1403.—Chicago Record.

WIT AND WISDOM.

An Irish officer who had the misfortune to be dreadfully wounded in one of the battles in Holland, was lying on the ground, and an unfortunate soldier who was near him, and was also severely wounded, made a terrible howling, when the officer exclaimed:

"Hold yer row, will ye? Do you think you're the only nobody killed but yourself?"—Tid-Bits.

"What's the matter, Jack?" asked his uncle. "You look bothered."

"I am," said Jack. "This English language is too much for me. Ma told me to stop in at Mrs. Perkins's as I went by and leave this letter. Now, if I go by I can't stop in, and if I stop in, why, don't you see, I can't really go by."—Harper's Bazar.

First Suburban Lady-Housekeeper: "Your cook is a very handsome woman!"

Second Suburban Lady-Housekeeper: "She is. She manses the potatoes by smiling at them!"

"Mrs. Duckley is very much afraid of germs."

"Yes?"

"Always boils the water, even that which she uses for washing her face and hands."

"Indeed?"

"But I noticed today when she paid her carfare that she had been carrying her nickel in her mouth."—Cleveland Leader.

Neighbor—I saw the doctor call at your house this morning. Is your father very sick? Boy—Not yet; the doctor just started to come this morning. —Puck.

Armson—Is it sick headache, old fellow?

De Manlsing (with a groan)—No! It is the most robust headache I ever had in my life.—Chicago Tribune.

But are they?

PLUCKY EDITORS.

THREE SISTERS HAVE LIVELY TIMES IN A MISSOURI TOWN.

Their Office has been Wrecked—They Have been Shot at, and Their Horse was Poisoned, but They Kept on Editing and have Never Missed an Issue.

In the little town of Maryville, Mo., three young women publish a daily newspaper. They are the daughters of a newspaper man, and have been trained to the business from the time they were little girls.

They do all the work connected with the publication of the paper. The eldest, Miss Pearl Griffin, is not yet 25 years old. Miss Lulu Griffin is the editor of the Weekly Advocate, which is also published by these young women.

These are the only two papers in the United States which are managed exclusively by girls. The three sisters do all the work, both inside and outside of the office, getting the papers on a paying basis in competition with four others published weekly in the same town. They support their mother in good style, have a comfortable home, and enjoy the confidence and respect of the people of Maryville. The Daily Review is the only daily newspaper in the Fourth Congress district outside of St. Joseph.

The girls have had some lively experiences during their journalistic career, but have managed to hold their own against the most violent and bitter opposition and prejudice.

In 1890 the Daily Review and the Weekly Advocate waded into the local campaign and made quite a fury. The papers supported the straight Democratic ticket, and during the heat of the campaign the editors became involved in a personal fight with a certain Roman Catholic priest, who stirred up the most intense bitterness against them, and, according to the young women themselves, was at the bottom of most of their troubles.

The Review and Advocate also made a vigorous war upon the saloons at this time, and the election resulted in a clean and decided victory for the young women.

On the Saturday night following the election the office of both papers was broken into, the presses were broken, ruined type and other forms on which the daily had been run off were completely destroyed, nothing being left but the chases.

The girls went to work with a grim determination not to be downed, and managed to get out their issue that had been strewn over the floors to set up three or four columns of matter, and the Daily Review was issued on time Monday evening.

The girls kept up their warfare on their enemies, and a month later the office was fired, but the Miss Lulu Griffin worked until midnight getting out the Weekly Advocate. She left the office with her mother, after locking *the door behind her, leaving every*thing in good order. There were six forms of type and matter, some of two being made up of fine display type, which was intended for a special advertising edition.

When the young women went to *work next morning they found every*thing gone. The wrecked type

TORRENTS OF WATER FELL TO FLOOD THE EARTH

This Section of New Jersey Inundated Again in a Damaging MannerEarly Tuesday Morning.

Ordinarily Harmless Streams Were Turned Into Raging Currents That Overflowed Banks and Tore Away Bridges and Other Light Structures—The Worst of the Storm Seemed to Be Centered Around Westfield and Surrounding Country.

Another cloudburst visited this section of New Jersey, Tuesday, between the hours of 12 and 6, and left destruction in its path. Quiet streams were turned into raging torrents while the unusually heavy rainfall resulted in floods on all sides. Elizabeth suffered from the water that flooded several of her thoroughfares. Westfield experienced a flood in her streets that was greater than that of the storm a month ago. Plainfield escaped comparatively lightly, but many of the macadamized roads in this city were cut and gullied by the rush of the waters.

Monday morning dawned as clear and beautiful as anyone might wish. But when the business men started for their day's duties, the sky became overcast and a cold damp wind came out of the east. In the afternoon, a light mist began to fall that gradually changed into a steady downpour. The clouds hung and everything was dark and gloomy.

With the advent of darkness, the rain stopped but the clouds still threatened to release a torrent at any moment. The rain fell at intervals all through the evening, but at midnight it began to fall very heavily. The solitary pedestrians who were out at that hour found the water gathering rapidly. Gutters became roaring currents and gradually submerged the roadway in many streets, flooding it from curb to curb. Under the railroad bridges, the water gathered and the storm-sewere could not carry it all away. Lakes were formed while the rain lasted.

The early rising milkmen found plenty of water when they came to Plainfield, for the rain continued heavily until almost 6 o'clock. Then the water drained off the streets and sidewalks, taking with it much of the fine soil that had become packed on the road, giving it a smooth surface.

The tributaries of Green brook supplied it with an unusual volume of water that overflowed the banks of the brook on the flatlands and washed away whatever it could find. There was a large volume of water going over Tier's dam, Monday morning, and many gathered there to watch it. In the lowlands, west of the city, the brook over flowed in many places. Stony brook was swelled far above its usual size and sullenly roared along, flooding the lowlands in the rear of Rockview avenue and threatened sundry chicken coops and their feathered inhabitants with destruction. Little Cedar brook waked and was far above its usual size.

While the cellars to some of the houses along the several brooks were flooded, the only other damage so far reported is that done to the streets and culverts. In many places the top dressing to the macadam roads has been washed away and will have to be replaced.

Killed in the West.

Will Arey, son of Captain John H. Arey, of Oak Tree, was shot and instantly killed by Dr. W. H. Winters, of Durango, Colorado. The shooting was the result of trouble over Mrs. Winters, whom the doctor claimed had become infatuated with Arey. The doctor secured a divorce. Word was received by Captain Arey last Saturday and he will leave this week to bring the remains of his son east. The deceased was formerly a resident of Oak Tree.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 19, 1896.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—I have used Ely's Cream Balm a number of years and find it works like a charm. It has cured me of the most obstinate case of cold in the head in less than 48 hours from the time I felt the cold coming on. I would not be without it. Respectfully yours, Fred'k Fries, 393 Hart street. Cream Balm is kept by all druggists. Full size 50c. Trial size 10 cents. We mail it. ELY BROS., 56 Warren street, N. Y. City.

A Small Share.

W. Gordon Williams, of West Seventh street, was formerly in the employ of the New York Anderson Pressed Brick Company, of Staten Island. The company broke up, owing Williams $30 in salary Last week, he heard that there was to be a settlement and went over to see if he was to receive anything of it. His share was $4.79.

—While on his way home from Millstone, a prosperous merchant of Port Elizabeth was held up by highwaymen. Mr. Dickson had placed the bulk of his money in his shoes, and thus saved it from the thieves, who got his other valuables.

Practice Economy in buying medicines as in other matters. It is economy to get Hood's Sarsaparilla because it contains more medicinal value than any other—100 doses one dollar.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Cure all liver ills.

The town of Westfield was visited Monday by one of the most serious and damaging floods in its history. The rain commenced falling at about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon and continued almost without interruption throughout the night. From 11 o'clock until 6 Tuesday the fall amounted to a deluge, flooding streets, stores, lawns and cellars, washing away bridges, sidewalks and front piazzas and working general destruction everywhere.

The first effects of the freshet were seen in the brook which runs through the heart of the town. This overflowed its banks at the corner of Elm and Orchard streets, flooding that section to the depth of eighteen inches. The bridges across the brook in Henry's Park were washed from their foundations and floated about. The water rushing down the Elm street hill in torrents, tearing up the stone pavements in the gutters and destroying the macadam.

Sections of the sidewalks on Orchard street were floating about Tuesday and boys were using them as rafts to navigate the flooded street. On Broad street the water rose until it ran into the front doors of the stores. Business places on the south side of the street, between Elm and Prospect streets, were flooded and considerable damage was done to the stock. The front stoop of one building in this section was washed away. The National Bank building was surrounded by water, and parts of the flag sidewalk were washed away between the bank and Prospect street. At Ward's Hotel the water flooded the street from curb to curb. The flood rose so high at this point a heavy oak watering trough which stood upon a stand 12 inches high at the curb in front of the hotel was washed away. The water ran into Elmer Love's grocery damaging the stock considerably. On Prospect street the water rose over the sidewalks and flooded yards and cellars.

On North avenue near the Central Railroad station the water was 15 inches deep. Improvised rafts were used here and at other points in the town Tuesday morning to enable the commuters to reach the station without wading.

Culverts in many places were badly damaged, adding to the flood by preventing the free escape of the water. Cellars in many sections of the town contains three or four feet of water, so that they cannot be entered.

The torrents of water cut up the macadam pavements in nearly all the streets of the town, besides destroying flag sidewalks. Superintendent of Roads Connoly said this morning that the damage while it could not be estimated, it was very heavy and in excess of that suffered from a similar cause in many years. A number of culverts between Westfield and Cranford were badly damaged by the water which flowed over and around them.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

One of the few things which give strangers a bad impression of Plainfield is the present city directory. Heretofore a new directory has only been issued every two or three years, and during that time some people have moved out of town, a great many new comers are here, and some residents have changed their location two or three times, so that when a stranger attempts to look up a friend he may have a half day's job before him in making a circuit of the whole town. However, a new one is to be issued this year, and it should be made an annual feature.

The beginning of the end of summer is foreshadowed by the appearance upon soda water counters of the little urns from which hot chocolate and coffee emanate. There is an occasional cool night now when these warm drinks are appreciated by patrons of the fountains.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar

for

Medicine

until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This sort is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail; or 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are ten to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

TO OVERCOME APATHY.

REPUBLICANS URGE ACTION ON CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Three Important Amendments are Classed by Them as Republican Measures Demanding Support of the Whole Party.

The following official paper was issued by the Republican county committee Monday:

To the Republicans and Republican Organizations of Union County:

An election will be held on the 28th of September to vote on three proposed amendments to the Constitution:

First—A provision to prevent legislation to legalize gambling on racetracks.

Second—To permit woman suffrage at school meetings; and Third—To prevent the appointment to an office by the Governor, during the recess of the Legislature, of any person who may have been nominated to the same office, and not confirmed by the preceding Senate.

There is danger that the proposed amendment, first mentioned above, may fail to be ratified through overconfidence and apathy.

Four years ago the people of this State called on the Republican party to lead a movement to repeal the infamous racetrack laws passed in 1893, and to prohibit such legislation in the future.

The Republican party responded to the call, and the first bills passed by the Legislature, after the Republican party came in power, were repealers of the racetrack laws.

The Republican party was then called upon to conduct proceedings to amend the Constitution so as to make such legislation impossible in the future. An appropriate amendment to the Constitution was accordingly framed. It was adopted by the Legislature of 1895, and again by the Legislature of the present year. It needs only to be ratified at the ballot box on September 28th to become a part of the Constitution forever.

Until that is done the pledge and duty of the Republican party of this State are not fulfilled.

The opposition to the anti racetrack amendments is necessarily silent, but none the less powerful, and all the more dangerous for that reason.

Do not assume that the contest is ended until the anti-racetrack amendment is ratified by the people.

Millions of dollars invested in racetracks are arrayed against the moral welfare and good name of our State.

The movement against the racetracks began in Union county. It is here that the largest possible vote should be given in favor of the anti-racetrack amendment.

The second amendment gives to women the right to vote in school elections for trustees, etc., and places them in the position they were supposed to occupy before the recent judicial decision, which took away entirely their right to participate in these meetings.

The third amendment takes away from the governor the power, which has often been abused in the past, of appointing to office, during a recess of the legislature, men whose names have therefore been rejected by the senate.

All these amendments are Republican measures, and as such the Republican voters and organizations in this county are desired to vote and work for their passage.

By order of the Union County Republican Committee.

Charles N. Codding,
Chairman.

—The Christian and Missionary Alliance will meet on Thursday evening at 7:45, at the rooms of the W. C. T. U., Watchung avenue.

BOYS FULL OF PRANKS.

A YOUTHFUL MISCHIEF MAKER ARRAIGNED BEFORE JUDGE DEMEZA.

Thomas Casey Charged With Bombarding William Monnell's House With Stones—Culprit was Penitent Enough in Court.

A gang of boys, up to every kind of mischief, have been aggravating the tempers of the residents of Pondville all summer. There is no trick that they have not played and they have kept the householders in a constant state of irritation at the latest doings of the gang. Monday night a lad of fifteen summers, charged by an indignant citizen of that district with being the leader of the gang, was arrested and locked up in the city jail to await a hearing.

The police have often heard of the actions and pranks of the host of boys that run the streets in that neighborhood. They range in ages from ten to twenty. Many complaints have been made against them, but there has been no means of identifying the young offenders. The entire gang could not be arrested, and nobody knew, or rather would not tell, who was to blame.

During the past week, the boys have amused themselves by bombarding the house of William Monnell, of Monroe avenue, with stones and small-sized boulders. Hidden in the shade between two electric lights, they hurled their missiles with impunity and mocked at Mr. Monnell when he tried to make them stop. The other evening, his wife was sitting on the piazza when the stones began to fly. She narrowly escaped being struck by a large stone and her husband determined to take steps to prevent a like occurrence.

The matter was reported to the police and Thomas Casey, fifteen years old, was named as the leader of the gang. He was arrested last evening and placed in the condemned city jail where he spent the night.

Monday Casey, looking somewhat the worse for his night in jail, was brought before City Judge DeMeza. Yes, he did remember throwing one or two stones, but he did not intend to hit anyone with them; just threw them for fun. The Judge was not feeling in a good humor and his stern talk to the lad with numerous references to his county jail and the reform-school had the effect of bringing tears to the eyes of the lad. Mr. Monnell appeared against the lad and declared that he was a very naughty leader of a very naughty gang. The boy set the dogs on the cats he said, and made life miserable for all the feline pets in Pondville. Then he accused the boy of stealing a dog that he had given Mr. Monnell.

"You lie! I didn't," cried the lad and he looked unutterable things at his complainant.

"That's a pretty way to talk to me," commented Mr. Monnell, while the Judge administered another scolding whereat the lad wept again.

"What will you do if I let you go?" demanded the Judge.

"Be good," sobbed the youthful offender as he buried his face in his coat sleeve.

A man boarding in the same house with Tommy testified that Tommy was not a bad boy. The Judge reserved his decision until Saturday morning when he will interview others of the gang.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on every wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

Samuel Pitcher M.D.

March 8, 1897.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"

BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having

The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of this depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. Men succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of good places begging for good men, and millions of $$'s work men begging for [illegible] you are worth $10 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment [illegible] have won experts to make his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman

NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the higher places and thus earn better pay. During the past year [illegible] persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the most [illegible] positions in the world.

A model school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C. GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE, NEW YORK.

While the pneumatic tire has not proven a success so far on carriages, the solid rubber tire is rapidly coming into general use on vehicles for the conveyance of people. The rubber-tired road wagon is no longer an oddity on the streets of Plainfield, while in New York many of the cabs have made their appearance with the rubber tire. While on a stone or macadam road, the sound of the horses' hoofs on the roadbed give some warning of the approach of the carriage, on dirt roads the rig is noiseless. So it is that with the prevalence of the rubber tires comes the consideration of the question as to the need of such vehicles carrying lamps and bells the same as bicycles. At night, it is almost impossible to hear the horse or carriage and the chance for accidents is greatly increased. Few drivers light the sidelights to their carriage and so there is nothing to warn another driver or wheelman that another team is at hand. Even in the daytime, there is the same danger with the rubber-tired vehicles, as there is with bicycles, for the noise is so little that the pedestrian's attention is not attracted without some method of warning.

—Sherwin's is the only shoe store in the city where you can get trading stamps. Special bargain prices on summer goods.

The Blood of Life.

Modern Science Discovers a New Way of Restoring its Vitality and Curing Disease.

Physicians are giving more and more attention to the quality of the blood. Almost the scourge of mankind, an enemy the most skilled physicians dread to attack. It is the starting point of nearly all the ills which human flesh is heir. Anæmia is caused by a bankruptcy of iron in the blood. The blood fills to take up the oxygen breathed into the lungs, the germs of disease multiply, the weakest part of the system is attacked and disease is the result.

The food we eat does not supply the blood with sufficient iron to meet the demands of nature, so a person of health is pale, thin and watery. The cheeks, lips and eyes become pale, the appetite is bad; there is palpitation, shortness of breath, weariness, constipation and loss of energy. To restore the system to a normal condition you must restore to the blood its natural iron. Prescribed forms of iron are inadequate because indigestible. Some physicians and chemists of high repute, seeking to produce iron as nature produces it, as it is contained in the blood. He succeeded. One of this number examined in the blood of the bullock was similar to that in human blood. The process by extraction was discovered and this natural iron was combined with organic matter in pure gelatine globes called Capsuloids.

These Capsuloids when taken into the stomach dissolve immediately and the iron is absorbed by the blood, strength and vitality restored.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloids Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL XXX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 189? NO. 35

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

TO BE MATRON OR MISS?

THE SUPREME ISSUE AT THE WOMEN'S TOWN OF LINCOLN.

The Contest to Be Made Between a Young Lady and a Married Woman—One Man Seems to Be Sure of His Election, Anyway.

Will it be matron or miss?

That is now the important issue before the people of Lincoln to be decided at the special election next Saturday to elect successors to Rev. C. R. Cleaver and Charles Close, who boycotted the Common Council of that municipality because two women were chosen as their associates.

When Messrs. Cleaver and Close, full of sarcasm over the elevation of Miss Emma Egel and Mrs. Alvira Heard to the official sphere where man only had held full sway in the Eastern States, handed in their resignations as members of the Council, the first thought was: Will their successors be women? It was broadly hinted that they would and Mayor Drake, the power in Lincoln, when asked to prognosticate the results of the special election to-elect members to the vacant positions, significantly remarked:

"Well, say, Lincoln has just got the finest lot of women in the United States. You just wait and see."

Subsequently a conference was held between Mayor Drake and Councilwomen Egel and Hazard, as the political bosses of Lincoln, to determine the plan of the campaign. After much consideration it was decided that Mrs. Hazard and Miss Egel should constitute themselves a committee to select and secure the consents of two other women who would be willing to win or lose, it being understood that but one woman was to be elected. For the second place on the ticket it was decided that a man should run.

The two Councilwomen immediately commenced a canvass of the good housewives of the community to learn the sentiment, and on Saturday presented themselves to Miss Mattie Moore and Mrs. Catherine Myers and petitioned them to allow their names to be used. The present Councilwomen have persuasive tongues and they premised the life of a Lincoln Council member in a rosy hue. They left the two women with the promise of an answer either one way or the other yesterday morning.

Their household duties cared for Tuesday. Mrs. Hazard and Miss Egel started out to receive the answers of the solicited candidates. The first one visited was Miss Moore. She was found dusting the furniture in the sitting room of her uncle, Nelson Blackford, with whom she has lived since early childhood.

"Well, here we are, Mattie," said Miss Egel who is very friendly with Miss Moore. "What do you say? Are you going to be one of the progressive women of our fine little town here and show those two men we can get along without them.

Miss Moore looked puzzled for a minute and gave vent to her mind by saying:

"Well, now Emma, I really don't know what to say."

"And you live in Lincoln and don't know what to say," tantalizingly answered Miss Egel. 'Say yes, Mattie."

"All right, yes, and here's my hand to seal the bargain," said Miss Moore.

The present and prospective Councilwomen shook hands all around and then Miss Egel and Mrs. Hazard went over in the Third ward—Lincoln actually has four wards—and knocked at the door of Mrs. Myers. The committee found her busy with her household and caring for two boys and a little girl. Mrs. Myers is a decisive woman in her manner. She didn't wait to be interrogated or cozed.

"Am I going to run for the Council? Certainly I am, and I am going to get right out and hustle for votes, just the same as my husband John did when he ran for Freeholder, when we lived in Piscataway. And if I win you'll hear from me in the Council, too."

"Good for you, Mrs. Myers," exclaimed Miss Egel, "and I hope you'll win."

And so it was settled that the issue of the special election is to be between matron and miss.

James Sheldon has consented to accept the Councilmanic honor that is to fall to his sex, and he is as good as in office now.

Miss Moore is twenty-six years of age, a brunette, and lives directly opposite the Lehigh Valley station. Mrs. Myers is thirty-six years old and the wife of a wheelwright.

No Cause for Action.

The case of Wallace V. Miller against George Willey, on contract, was tried before Justice Nash and a jury Tuesday afternoon. A verdict was brought in of no cause for action. The case will probably be appealed.

A RAZOR UP HIS SLEEVE

THOMAS LEE, A GIANT TRAMP, NOT A BAD MAN, THOUGH.

He Came From "Old Virginny" and Told Such an Innocent Tale of Woe That the Judge Let Him Go His Way.

With a razor up his sleeve, the Standard Oil magnate wandered forth the world to see. All went well until he sighted the blue uniform of the Plainfield policemen, who chased him away from the train and finally landed him in jail, where he spent the night dreaming of the good old days in "ole Virginny."

Thomas Lee was the name of the dusky wanderer. He has been working for the Standard Oil Company; he did not say, however, whether it was as vice-president or merely general manager of one of the refineries. He hid his six feet, two inches of bone and brawn in a passing train at Bound Brook and started for Jersey City. As the train stopped at Plainfield Patrolman Watson spotted the tall magnate and chased him down the track. Lee fooled it down the tracks, but Patrolman McCarthy, at the request of the conductor, went forth on his trail and landed him near the Berckman street bridge. The razor was carefully abstracted from his sleeve and Lee was locked up.

Yesterday he told his little tale of woe to the City Judge. Yes, he admitted, he liked watermelons, but his father back in "Virginny" had a big melon patch on which he used to feed when a boy. He never stole a watermelon since. He had never been arrested. After a little conversation the Judge decided that the man was entirely harmless, even if he had a razor up his sleeve, and so suspended sentence on him with a warning to leave town immediately. That was exactly his intention, said the prisoner, and he departed.

RED MEN DEFEATED

FAILED TO ESTABLISH THEIR CLAIM AGAINST OLD GLORY COUNCIL.

The Case Heard in Justice Moffett's Court and Attended by Excited and Interested Women—Decision Will Be Appealed.

The much-talked of case of Miantonomoh Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order of Red Men, against Old Glory Council, No. 62, Daughters of Liberty, for the large part of a year's rent which is claimed to be due the Red Men, was tried in Justice Moffett's court Tuesday afternoon, and judgment was given for the defendants.

The Red Men are the lessees of a hall in the Stillman building, on West Front street, which is known as Red Men's Hall. The tribe uses it for all its own meetings, and then rents it to other organizations.

In March, 1896, Old Glory Council, Daughters of Liberty, engaged the hall for the first and third Monday nights in every month, to hold their council meetings in. The regular meetings of the council were held on those nights. The meetings continued regularly until the first Monday in June, 1897, when some repairs which were being made prevented the meeting from taking place as usual. One meeting was held afterwards, and the Old Glory Council then announced their intention to give up the rooms. A tender of $2 for rent is claimed to have been made by the council prior to the bringing of the action on August 19th. This, however, is denied by the Red Men. They also claim that the premises were rented by the year, and that rent is due until March, 1898, the expiration of the second year's lease.

At the trial a large number of the members of Old Glory Council were present, and indulged in interrupting the evidence, much to the amusement of counsel and witnesses.

The counsel for the defense, W. S. Angleman, advanced the argument that the case was not one of landlord and tenant, as there was merely a license to use the premises for meetings, and not a lease. He quoted a number of authorities to substantiate his position. Isaac P. Runyon, of Pope & Runyon, appeared for the plaintiff, and made a strong plea. The decision was given immediately by the Justice, and the $2 due for rent was ordered paid to the Red Men.

A notice of appeal was at once filed by the plaintiff.

The Grocer's Excursion.

Labor Day will see the ninth annual excursion of the Grocer's Protective Association. This year the destination of the excursion will be South Beach, that popular resort on Staten Island, on the shores of New York Bay. The cars which leave Plainfield at 8 o'clock that morning will make the trip without a change.

Corporation Counsel and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh returned from their European trip Tuesday.

THEY ALL GOT TOGETHER

UNION DEMOCRATS DECIDE TO BURY THE HATCH T.

Harmony Outing a Success—Feasted at Whitestone and Senator Daly Cheered—Farmer Martine Lashed Republicans.

The Union county Democrats had a great time Tuesday on their first annual outing. The trip was made to Whitestone, L. I., on the steamer Isabel. The clans assembled at Julian place, near the Central Railroad station, and marched to Elizabeth. Former Alderman Peter Egenolf, of Elizabeth, who expects some time to be Mayor, led the procession in a handsome barouche. With him rode C. A. Klumpf, of Cleveland, O., chairman of the Twenty-second Ward Democrats of that city. Then came State Senators Daly, of Hudson; Barber, of Warren; Kuhl, of Hunterdon; Sheriff Litterst, of Middlesex; former Assemblyman Tom Lane, of Summit; James E. Martine, of Plainfield, and ex-Speaker James J. Bergen. All of them were in carriages as invited guests.

Drake's Band came next in line, and behind it marched 100 stalwart Democrats. Over 150 others preferred to make the trip of three miles in trolley cars.

On reaching Whitestone Landing the procession was reformed and marched to a shady spot, where Photographer McCarthy, of Elizabeth, took a picture of the gathering. Then all hands marched to dinner, which was served in Stimmer's big pavilion.

Former Alderman Egenolf, or "Peter the Great," as they call him in Elizabeth, was master of ceremonies, and after the cigars were passed he made a few remarks and introduced James J. Bergen as the first speaker.

The former speaker talked briefly on the past glory of the Democratic party in the State, praised the spirit of harmony shown at the reunion, and said that such affairs as these augured well for the future prospects of the party.

Chairman Egenolf introduced as the next speaker Senator Kuhl, whose theme was co-operation. Only by this method, he declared, can Democrats win the State. He claimed that New Jersey had flourished under a Democratic administration, and it was only when selfish men undertook to run it for their own end that the party lost prestige with the people. He was glad to see the Democrats in New York are to stand together and win or lose on this principle. He hoped New Jersey Democrats would do the same.

Senator Daly, amid great cheers, was then introduced as the man Union county would like to see Governor. The Senator was very brief and modest in his talk. He spoke of how he voted for Bryan last year and had nothing to be ashamed of or apologize for. He expressed himself as delighted with the good feeling shown on this occasion, and counselled harmony among all Democrats as being essential to success. He said his motto was "With malice towards none and charity for all Democrats."

Former Congressman Dunn paid his respects to the hypocritical gang, as he called them, that now control the State, and said the Democratic party should unite in order to drive the rascals out of power. A little blood letting occasionally among Democrats, he argued, would do no harm as it helped to get rid of a lot of dead matter in the party that could never come to life again.

Former Assemblyman Lane said he could not promise a Democratic majority in Summit, but they would do the best they could. If Democrats would only try half as hard to beat Republicans as they do to defeat one another the party would always be victorious. He also paid his respects to the reign of dishonesty and hypocrisy existing at Trenton, and said the State must be rescued from a repetition of what it has passed through since 1893.

Farmer Orator Martine wound up the speech-making with a fervid burst of oratory, in which he lashed the Republican party on high tariff, trusts and monopolies, until he became hoarse.

Fine Place for Horses.

C. V. D. Corle, of the Metropolitan stables, 138 East Second street, claims to have the largest livery stables in Plainfield as he has an accommodation for over fifty horses. He has recently in connection with his stable adopted a plan of taking to board the horses of merchants used on their delivery wagons, and to take the entire charge of the same. His stable is connected with long distance Telephone, No. 214, F.

—Look at the linen handkerchiefs Peck is selling for 15 cents. Peck does not have to give away a house and lot to sell his goods.

A GALLOWS HILL HOLDUP

AN ITALIAN LABORER ROBBED OF HIS SAVINGS OF $260.

Waylaid by Two of His Countrymen Who Brutally Assaulted Him—The Desperadoes Very Easily Made Their Escape.

Gallows Hill is a long declivity about one mile from Westfield, and near Fairview cemetery, whose white monuments loom up to the vision of the traveler as he climbs upward. As the name suggests, the place has a history. Since Revolutionary days, when a British spy was hanged there, the hill has been the scene of many deeds that shrank from the light of day. Blood has flowed more than once along the sod of Gallows Hill.

At 6 o'clock yesterday the place was the scene of another crime. Antonio Paguise, an Italian laborer, of Central avenue, Westfield, was waylaid, brutally assaulted, and robbed of $260 by two of his fellow country men. One of these men, Paguise states, is Nicola Cuppola, the driver of a wagon for a Cranford beer bottling establishment; the other is an Italian known as "Big Joe," who has been seen about Westfield for some months. Of late he has boarded at an Italian boarding house known as "Frank's," on North Avenue.

Paguise, who is a quiet, hard-working fellow has been saving his money in order to return to his family in Italy. He has been working in Cranford, of late, and in order to save money has been walking to and from the town. Yesterday morning he arose bright and early and started with the sun. He was afraid to leave his savings at his lodging house and so carried the money with him, fixed securely in a belt underneath his clothing.

The sun was well up when he reached Gallow's Hill The man's heart was light as he trudged along, thinking of the time, only a few days distant, when he should be on his way back to Italy. When he was half-way up the hill, a man came out of the bushes at the wayside and stood waiting as if to speak with him.

It was Big Joe. A moment later a step was heard behind, and before he could turn Antonio received a blow upon the head which felled him to the ground.

For a time darkness deprived his senses. When he regained consciousness, he was lying face downward in the road. "Big Joe" and Cuppola stood near by. They threatened to kill him if he arose or made an outcry. He felt feebly for his money and found it was gone. The highwaymen climbed the hill and disappeared over its crest, going in the direction of Cranford.

When his strength returned sufficiently, Antonio arose and made his way back to Westfield, where he reported the robbery to the authorities.

The two highwaymen were acquainted with their victim's plans and habits sufficiently to know that he was in possession of considerable money. They had often of late talked with him concerning his return to Italy, and by arranging with him to carry back messages to their families they had won his confidence. Their purpose is now apparent.

The two men are thought to have gone to New York city, from which place they will probably sail for Italy as soon as possible.

LOCATION MADE A DIFFERENCE.

A Jury Agrees That Charles Burnett's Claims Was Well Based.

The foundation walls for Peter McGrath's barn on his farm near Stirling have been causing all sorts of trouble between that individual and Charles P. Burnett, the contractor of this city. Burnett was to build them at a stated price and then McGrath changed the location of his barn from the side of a hill to almost level ground which necessitated another wall. Burnett claims that the original contract did not hold good under the change of location while McGrath says that it did. Twelve citizens of Morristown agreed with Burnett.

Burnett tried to collect the amount he claimed due, but McGrath objected. Proceeding were started in Judge Clift's court at Morristown, and Tuesday afternoon the case came to trial. Robert M. Clark, of the firm of McNabb & Clark, represented Burnett in the case. After the case was tried, the twelve men jury retired for two hours and then brought in a verdict for the complete amount claimed, $54.92, and interests and costs.

Orson Clark, of Westerly, R. I., is visiting his uncle, W. H. Williams, of Madison avenue.

Frank Hedden, of West Fourth street, has returned after two weeks at Barnegat Bay.

Miss Lucila Mills, of East Fifth street, is home after an outing near Middletown, N. Y.

YUM! YUM! GOOD THINGS

FIRST PEACH AND CREAM FESTIVAL OF THE SEASON.

The Affair Carried Out By the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church People, and Was Successful—Those in Charge of the Tables.

Peaches and ice cream were the leading attractions at the festival held in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church last Tuesday by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of that church. While some of the congregation had got yet returned from their summer outings, the attendance was large and the sale of good things was a lively one. The evening was cool, so the room was kept at a pleasant temperature, and the frozen dainties found plenty of buyers despite the chill in the air outside.

Around the room were scattered the various tables at which different articles were sold. A table with a goodly store of home-made candies was under the patronage of Miss Stafford and Miss Foster. Fancy articles and pictures were for sale at a table looked after by Mrs. Stephen Haff. All sorts and varieties of cakes loaded another table where Mrs. F. Wenzel and Mrs. W. B. Grannett reigned supreme.

The peaches were dealt out by Mrs. A. D. Pearson and Miss Foster. Tickets for the ice cream were sold by Mrs. J. Krifney. The waitresses at the different tables were Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Eakin, Miss Lydia Ackerman, Mrs. VanPelt, Mrs. Pugh, Miss Hart, Mrs. Ellis and Miss Alice Foster.

Mrs. Nathaniel Bronard as treasurer of the society looked after the finances, while the president, Mrs. I. P. Larue, had the general supervision over the entire affair and looked after the details.

The festival proved a success financially and otherwise. There was no lack of buyers, for the church was crowded before the evening was over, and the coffers of the enterprising Aid Society were increased considerably.

NO CONTAGIOUS MALADY.

HEALTHY CONDITION OF THE CITY IS NOW ASSURED.

The Fact Brought Out at the Meeting of the Board of Health Tuesday.—The Report Made by Inspector Addis.

It has been a long time since the Board of Health assumed such an important position in the eye of the people as it has during the last few months. Its meetings have been watched with great interest and its doings have been the subject for much conversation.

The monthly meeting of the Board was held Tuesday. All the members were present except the president, Henry B. Newhall. There was little to be done except the routine business which was transacted in short order. The report of the inspector, William Addis, was listened to with the usual interest, for it gave a record of the disappearance of contagious disease from within the limits of the city.

The principal feature of the report was that there were no cases of contagious disease in the city. After the report was made out, however, a case of diphtheria was reported on Liberty street. The little girl who was suffering with the dread disease died at midnight, and no other cases have been reported. The report was as follows:

Number of houses under quarantine, last report	14
Number of houses fumigated and relieved of quarantine during the month	14
No new cases during the month.
Number of visits to houses with contagious disease	68
Number of inspections on complaint	15
Number of inspections of water test of soil wells	14
Number of inspections of sewer connections	68
Number of inspections of the completed plumbing systems	24
Number of house inspections	134
	332

The epidemic that appeared on May 20th and extended through a period of 82 days, had no first or fatal case.

The last quarantine having been removed on August 17th, the city is now entirely free from contagious disease.

During the epidemic there were seventy-two cases of scarlet fever and two cases of diphtheria, with a total of fifty-seven quarantines, and death having occurred during that time, resulting from diphtheria.

Total number of inspections and visits to houses with contagious diseases during the month, 332.

Respectfully,
WILLIAM ADDIS, SR.,
Sanitary Inspector.

Justice Nash's Court.

Several cases came up in Justice Nash's court, Tuesday afternoon. The case of Poter against Coes was adjourned until September 11th. The case of Phillips against Cartwright and others was settled in court as was also the case of French against Turton. The case of Laing against Wolf went over until next Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Powelson, of Springfield, Mass., are visiting their parents in this city.

GAVE THE LIE IN COURT.

AN EXCITING EPISODE BETWEEN LAWYER AND WITNESS.

Counselor McClure Accused Allen of Prompting a Witness, and the Lawyer Used a Harsh Term to Rebuke Statement.

The interesting question as to what it is worth to survey a Washington Valley farm was decided by a jury last evening in the case of H. Craig Smith, a civil engineer, of this city, against Elias Allen, owner of the farm in question. The verdict gave the plaintiff $40.

Some months ago Allen engaged Smith to do the work in question, agreeing to pay him at the rate of $6 a day. Smith worked out of doors about three days and then consumed about eleven days in the mathematical computations.

His bill was for $84. Allen claimed that the charge was exorbitant, and refused to pay it. The case was tried Tuesday at Boyce's Hotel, on Somerset street, by Justice Smalley and a jury of twelve men. Counselor McClure appeared for the plaintiff, and S. S. Swackhamer, of Swackhamer & Williams, for the defendant.

Mr. Smith was the only witness for the prosecution. The defense placed upon the stand Elias Allen, F. A. Dunham, Mrs. Mary Spencer, Harrison Coddington, a son-in-law of the defendant, Grant Davis and Aaron Allen.

Davis, who is a civil engineer living at Whitehouse, caused a stir by announcing that he considered $25 a good sum for the work done by the plaintiff.

Counselor McClure accused Aaron Allen of attempting to prompt his brother, the defendant, while the latter was under cross examination.

"Any man who says I attempted to do so, is a liar, I don't care who he is," yelled Allen, white with rage.

The counselor smiled sweetly and remarked that he was sorry they were not in a higher court, so that he might have the gentleman fined for contempt.

Allen then murmured something about knocking somebody of their pegs, but he was extinguished by his friends before any damage resulted.

A large crowd gathered and filled all the available space in doors and windows. At noon the case was adjourned until 1:30 o'clock. The examination of witnesses and the summing up of counsel were not completed until 6 o'clock.

The jury, which was composed of E. E. Barkalow, T. D. Pope, Dater W. Beard, G. W. Bullman, A. J. Winckler, E. S. Sharp, Melvin H. Cleaves, Charles Huff, Frank French, W. H. Rogers, Julius Worth and George Stiles, went out at 6 o'clock and in half an hour returned with a verdict of $10 and costs for the plaintiff.

The defendant is said to have offered this much in settlement of the account before the trial, but his offer was refused. No notice of appeal has yet been filed.

CYCLE BEYOND HIS CONTROL.

Manager Moulton Found His Waterloo on a Sleeping Piece of Ground.

G. S. Moulton, the popular manager of the Mountain Park Inn, has been experimenting with the bicycle for some time. He has not been able to descend the hill from the Inn but has confined his efforts to the paths around the hotel. Tuesday, he harrowed the wheel of one of the guests and started forth to practice. The handlebars to the borrowed wheel were of the ramshorn variety and had considerable drop to them. At the start, Mr. Moulton was all right but as the speed of the wheel increased, he began to wobble. His knees began to come dangerously near the handle bars. He came to a gentle slope and the wheel sped along. The end came soon, his knee struck the handle bar and the front wheel suddenly turned at right angles. Mr. Moulton did not stop, he went on and struck his hands and knees on the ground, badly cutting them. He was also bruised by the fall.

Death of Infants.

Rosie Miller, aged two years and six months, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Miller, of Cottage place, Tuesday afternoon. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon. It will be private. The interment was at St. Mary's cemetery.

The three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown died at her home, on Liberty street, yesterday, from diphtheria. The funeral, which was private, was held in the afternoon. The interment was at St. Mary's cemetery.

Justice Moffett's Court.

Justice Moffett has issued a summons in the landlord and tenant case of Flynn against Green. The case will be tried on next Tuesday.

WON ON FOREIGN GROUND

PLAINFIELDERS DEFEATED THE CRACK WESTFIELD BALL TEAM.

It Was Not a Good Game, However, by Either Club, the Pitchers and Their Support Driving to Despair the Ball Cranks.

Old Sol had sunk behind the hills in the west and darkness was fast gaining strength when the last Westfield batter was put out and the baseball game between the rival nines of the Crescent Baseball Club, of this city, and the Westfield Athletic Club came to an end Saturday afternoon. The game was played in Westfield and was won by the Crescents by a score of 18 to 11.

What a game it was. Nearly every body made errors and then hit the ball. Neither of the pitchers were at their best, while the crowd materially interfered with the players of both sides in fielding the ball. The manager of the Westfield team was away and there seemed to be no one to take the thing in hand. The crowd became excited and invaded the very diamond, they hooted and yelled like maniacs, and soon were far beyond the control of the few men that tried to keep them in bounds.

The game was something of a surprise to the home team. They had confidently expected victory, but they found that the Crescents of today are far more formidable than the Crescents of two months ago, when the Westfields defeated them in this city. Had the Crescents put up the game they did against the Seventh Regiment boys, Westfield would have been out at the chase at the start.

The difference Saturday between the two teams was that the Crescents could hit the ball when they needed to, while the Westfields failed. Then the home team went to pieces at stated intervals when the bases were well-filled, and made horrible mistakes that added to the Crescents score.

McLarty pitched a good game and pulled himself together when, had he lost his head, he would have lost the game as well. Higgins, the Westfield pitcher, was the object of the visiting rooters, but the howling of the latter affected Higgins' support more than his pitching. Several of his bases on balls proved very expensive, however.

There wasn't any delay in the beginning of the fun, it started with the first inning. The Crescents were first at bat and Symons flied out to Bolterll at first. Higgins fumbled a bunt of Hollister's and the Plainfield man reached first, and then stole second. Hits by Vroom and Cavanagh allowed him to score, while they in turn made the circle on Both's fumble of Collins' grounder and a sacrifice hit by Lederer. That made three runs. The Westfields filled two of the bases, but could not get a runner across the plate.

An error by Both and a hit by Hollister allowed McBeth to make another run. The Westfields were the next to score in the third inning when they made two runs on hits by Mason, Higgins and Williams, a wild pitch which struck Both and a wild throw by Vroom.

The Crescents added two more to their score in the fourth when Kelly threw to second base to catch Cooney and there happened to be no body there to stop the ball. Both, men came in before the centre fielder could get the ball home. In the Westfield's turn at bat, Chauncey Smith reached second in safety on a hit, but went to sleep there and was caught off his base. No runs resulted. In the fifth inning, the home team waked up and made one.

Meanwhile the crowd had closed in so that the infielders could not tell where the first baseman was and the catcher had not room to move about, the crowd standing within ten feet of the plate. The Crescents got four runs in their half of the sixth by well directed hits and an error by Catcher Kelly. The Westfielders rose up in their turn for six runs on hits and bad errors, making the score 10 to 9.

Collins was given his base on balls in the next inning, while Randolph slid and sat down under Both as the latter tried to catch Lederer's fly. Both fielders rolled around the field, but neither held the ball. Collins scored, Williams threw several feet over Bolsterli's head and Lederer and McLarty scored before the ball could be found. One run was all the Westfields got although they filled the bases.

Kaufman dropped an easy fly while a double and a single and a wild throw for Both added three more tallies for Plainfield. The home team again filled the bases but only one of the runners reached home in safety.

In the last inning, McBeth made a beautiful two base hit and scored with Hollister on Vroom's single. Westfield went out in one, two, three order.

Neither side was satisfied with the umpiring and it did look as if some very poor decisions were made. The conduct of the crowd was shameful but both sides had to suffer from their interference. There was lots of base running and Cavanagh sent the crowd into screams of laughter by deliberately picking up the bag and carrying it away with him as he slid over second for a stolen base. He played his usual excellent game and only missed one ball which struck a stone and bounced against his chest.

The diamond was rough and stony while the outfield was hilly. The difference between the grounds there with those in Plainfield was very apparent. Nevertheless it was a great game.

The detailed score was as follows:

CRESCENTS.

	A.	B.	R.	H.	P.	O.	A.	E.
Symons, rf	6	1	1	0	0	0	0
Hollister, 1b	5	2	2	1	0	9	0
Vroom, c	6	3	2	3	1	9	1
Cavanagh, lb	6	3	2	3	1	1	0
Collins, cf	5	2	1	1	2	0	0
Lederer, 2b	5	2	1	0	3	2	3
McLarty, p	5	1	1	0	2	0	2
Cooney, 3b	4	2	1	2	2	2	1
McBeth, lf	4	1	1	2	0	0	0
	46	18	11	12	11	23	7

WESTFIELD A. C.

	A.	B.	R.	B.	H.	P.	O.	A.	E.
Both, ss	5	2	1	2	2	2	3
Kelly, c	5	1	1	1	1	0	2
Randolph, cf	5	1	1	1	0	1	0
Kelly, rf	5	2	2	3	0	2	0
Higgins, p	5	1	2	0	0	4	2
Williams, 2b	5	2	2	2	0	2	3
Kaufman, 3b	5	1	1	0	0	1	2
Smith, 1b	4	1	0	0	0	9	0
Bolsterli, lb	4	0	0	1	0	14	0
	44	11	11	27	13	36

BY INNINGS.

Crescents	3	1	0	2	0	4	3	5	—18
Westfield	0	1	2	0	1	0	6	1	—11

Earned runs—Crescents, 2; Westfield, 1. Two-base hits—Vroom, Cavanagh, McBeth, Mason, Randolph. Sacrifice hits—Hollister, Lederer, Higgins. Stolen bases—Hollister, 2; Collins, Cooney, McBeth, Mason, Randolph, Bolsterli, 2. Bases on balls—By McLarty, 6; by Higgins, 3; Hollister out—By McLarty, 2; Higgins, 2. Wild pitches—McLarty, 2; Higgins, 2. Passed balls—Vroom, 1; Kelly, 1. Hit by pitched ball—Both. Left on bases—Crescents, 3; Westfield, 13. Time of game—2 hours, 40 minutes. Umpires—Wood Brown, of Plainfield, and J. Dougherty, of Westfield.

MAY BE KEAN AND PITNEY

JERSEY REPUBLICANS' PROBABLE PROGRAMME FOR NEXT YEAR.

Franklin Murphy a Factor—State Chairman's Return From Europe Just as Gov. Griggs Announced His Withdrawal.

For United States Senator, John Kean, of Union.

For Governor, Mahlon Pitney, of Morris.

This will in all probability be the Republican ticket at the State election next year. Of course, it is not implied that Mr. Kean will be chosen by a direct vote of the people. In stead, he will be chosen by the Legislature, if it is Republican; but even if his name does not come directly before the people on printed tickets his friends will make it a rallying cry of the campaign and a slogan by which Republican candidates for the Legislature expect to be elected.

It is true that there are other Republican leaders in New Jersey who would like to be sent to the United States Senate. There is Franklin Murphy, for instance, who tried a few years ago to defeat Gen. Sewell for that position, but when the votes were counted in the Republican caucus he could not muster more strength than a baker's dozen or so. Ever since the Republicans gained the ascendancy in the affairs of State Mr. Murphy has been at the head of their State committee. He is a man of much activity and wealth, and he is in love with politics. Early this year he was in poor health and he made a trip to Europe for recuperation. He returns, it is reported, as well as ever, and his friends say it is his intention to again become a candidate for United States Senator.

Mr. Murphy would like to be Governor, but it is feared that his popularity throughout the State would not stand a test, and, anyhow, the heat and work of a campaign might prove too much for his physical powers. In deed, a Senatorial campaign would be far easier work than to direct a Gubernatorial battle, when a candidate would be required to be on the hustings almost night and day for six weeks at the least. It is to be presumed, then, that Mr. Murphy may enter the Senatorial arena against John Kean.

Both gentlemen are abundantly able to pay the expenses of a campaign. One is as well fixed in this world's goods as the other, and there would be no lack of funds to carry on a warfare, no matter how hot it might be. But the friends of Mr. Kean say that it is too late for Mr. Murphy to start in the race.

Everything points to the election of John Kean in 1899, especially since the withdrawal of Governor Griggs from the contest. Had not Mr. Hobart been elected Vice-President of the United States perhaps he would prove a foeman worthy of the steel of the Kean forces, but he is not well known that Mr. Hobart before he was nominated for Vice-President had his eye on the seat now held by Senator Smith.

Realty Transfers

The following real estate transfers have been recorded in the Union County Clerk's office from Plainfield:

John D. Runyon et ux., to Thressa Frazee, Plainfield, lot Rushmore avenue, near West Third street, Plainfield, $50; Robert W. Burns et ux., to Sarah B. Butler, North Plainfield, lot West Fifth street, near Grant avenue, $1,000; James H. Runyon, Montclair, to Samuel P. Case and J. Herbert Case, Plainfield, lot Westervelt avenue, near Orange street, Plainfield, $4,000; Lebbeus L. Manning to Jens Hansen, Plainfield, lot William street, near Fourth street, $1; J. B. Mills et ux., with Frances S. Runyon, Plainfield, two tracts Westervelt avenue, near Orange street, $1,750; Phebe B. Ames to Charles L. Case, Plainfield, lot West Eighth street, near Plainfield avenue, $1.

—Mr. Leal's school for boys will reopen Tuesday, September 14th.

SMITHS AMD TINGLEYS HAD A GREAT DAY OF IT.

Numerous Branches of the Two Families Gathered at Peapack and New Market for a Good Time.

The Smiths Met on Sacred Smith Territory and Sported Themselves as Befitted a Family Name So Numerically Great—The Tingleys Indulged in an Old-Fashioned Picnic, Including Speeches, Feasting, Games, Dances, Etc.

Underneath the spreading branches of the trees that grace the farm of David Blackford, near Samptown, the Tingley family held its seventh annual reunion and picnic Aug. 25th. Mrs David Blackford was a Tingley, and the beautiful old farm with its venerable buildings, some of which are over a hundred years old, has been offered every year for the gathering of the many branches of the family.

The guests began to arrive at 9 o'clock a. m. Aug 25th and continued coming all day. Tingleys were present from all the places in this vicinity and from Jersey City, New York State, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New England and Nova Scotia.

The morning hours were devoted to introductions and the renewals of old friendships among members of the family, some of whom had not met each other for many years. Before 12 o'clock the number of guests had reached over two hundred, and the handshaking and sociability continued on a grand scale. Every few minutes during the morning some scion of the tribe would drive to the house and unload his family of Tingleys.

John Tingley, of Dunellen, who was general manager of the reunion engaged Guttmann's band, of Plainfield, which arrived early and furnished stirring music.

Out of doors under the trees long tables were covered with snowy linen and as the noon hour approached mysterious dishes and pans were carried and placed upon the tables, which soon groaned beneath a load of things good to eat. At 12:30 o'clock the dinner horn sounded and Tingleys big and little sat down to eat.

After dinner was disposed of the young people amused themselves with various games upon the lawn, while the older folks sat about in the old house and under the trees and discussed family matters.

At half past three a number of speeches were delivered. Jeremiah Tingley, of Allegheny, Pa., who is collecting the records of the family preparatory to writing its history, gave an account of the progress which he had made in his work during the past year.

The present Tingleys are all descendants of Ebenezer Tingley, who is believed to have been a grandson of Samuel Tingley, who died in Malden, Mass., in 1666. Their nearest ancestor is Joseph Tingley, a son of Ebenezer, whose wife was Christina Manding, a sister of James Manning the first president of Brown University. The following great grandchildren of Joseph Tingley were present at the reunion Aug. 25th: Ebenezer, George, John, and Jeremiah Tingley and Esther A. Blackford.

F. A. Tingley, of Jersey City, who was present, is a representative of the Nova Scotia branch of the descendants of the original Samuel Tingley, Jeremiah Tingley, of Allegheny, Pa., is making an effort to collect complete genealogical records of the family for his work upon the subject, which will be published about 1900.

Addresses were also made in happy vein by Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, and Rev. J. B. Cubberly, of South Plainfield.

Late in the afternoon goodbyes were said and the members of the family gradually dispersed, and when the sun sank behind the western hills the Tingley picnic was a thing of memory only.

REAL ESTATE ACTIVITY.

Residences Rented and Sold in Borough and City.

Real estate agent J. T. Vail reports a renewal of activity in real estate in this vicinity. Mrs. B. A. Hegemen has sold a lot on Willow avenue to John H. French, and the following parties have rented premises at the street and number designated:—Harry B. Rawson, of Asbury Park, No. 219 East Fifth street; Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Soul's church, No. 737 Richmond street; J. F. Runyon, of Stelton, No. 330 East Sixth street, J. C. Pierson, of St. Louis, formerly of this place, No. 63 Westervelt avenue, Edward Beatty, Westervelt avenue near Front street.

Councilmen at Odds.

The members of Roselle Borough Council are at odds over the appointment of an Inspector of Roads. President Baldwin, at the last meeting of the Council, declined to serve further on the road committee because he had been ignored in the appointment of Inspector. A majority of the committee who have grievances have been keeping away from meetings, so that no business could be transacted for want of a quorum.

Miss Sadie Blimm, of Somerset street, is visiting Miss Sadie Brown, of New York.

WAR OF PROPHETS.

DeVoe Is Furious, While Dunn Grows Sarcastic.

There is a pretty quarrel in progress between the rainmakers—Dunn of the Weather Bureau and DeVoe of the meadows that lie along the placid Hackensack in New Jersey. For a long time DeVoe, who is a meteorologist, has been trying to break through the official rim which surrounds the Weather Department of the Government, but without success. He ascribes his failure not to any inherent defect of forecasting in his system, but to the haughty indifference of Chief Moore, of Washington, and the jealousy of Farmer Dunn, of New York.

It is the old quarrel between science and the man who has a contemptuous regard for it. At least this is DeVoe's version of the situation. In last July, realizing that he could not sell his forecasts to the Weather Department, he thought he would write to President McKinley. He did so and inclosed particulars about a storm which would be due about three weeks later. But he was no more successful with the President than he was with Chief Moore.

De Voe was mad clean through. Of course he knew his letter to the President had been intercepted and had fallen, probably, into the hands of some civil service stenographer, who had not authority even to sign the name of the President's secretary.

To add to the hardship of his situation the storm came just as he had predicted it would. Then DeVoe stepped out boldly into the open, and not only explained the mental and other processes whereby he arrived at his conclusions anent the weather, but made a forecast for one month, from August 15 to September 15.

Until last Wednesday DeVoe trod his native health with the proud air of a victor. His forecasts, made so long ahead, were more accurate than were the forecasts sent out by the Weather Bureau for the twenty-four hours immediately succeeding their publication.

On last Wednesday, however, he stumbled. He forecasted another cyclone. There was some rain. On Thursday he "fell down" completely. He predicted another cyclone and the sun laughed warmly at him. So did Dunn and the Weather Bureau.

The trouble with De Voe's system, apparently, either is that he is entirely right four days or entirely wrong. For example, he argues that showers which are only little cloudbursts will be followed by a rain storm and the rain storm by a heavy blow, and the heavy blow by a cyclone and the cyclone by a cold wave.

He was accurate to a marvelous degree until Tuesday, when he announced violent showers. They came, but they came earlier in the morning. Had it been the kind of rain caused by the kind of thing anticipated by De Voe, we might have had his cyclones and his cold waves. He is at a disadvantage with the Weather Bureau, in that his forecasts cover too long a range of time. Had he been making them for only the succeeding twenty four hours he never would have predicted a cyclone on Wednesday after the sunset of Tuesday.

PASTORATE ENDED.

Rev. Mr. Thomas Leaves Christ's Church With a Fine Record in All Ways.

Rev. W. O. Thomas preached his farewell sermon to a good sized audience in the Christian church, at Grove street, Sunday evening. The sermon was based upon the text, "He shall come in all His glory, and shall reward every man according as his work shall be."

The pastor made many pleasant references to his labors in the church and expressed a belief that his successor, Rev. Mr. McKane, would carry on without interruption the work which others had started.

Mr. Thomas came to the Grove street church eight months ago, agreeing to remain a year or to secure someone to take his place, who should be acceptable to the church. After remaining eight months he decided to return to the west and complete his studies for an A. M. degree at Hiram College, Ohio. His pastorate in the Grove street church has been a most successful one. During the eight months twenty-five new members have been added to the church and the debt has been reduced $230.

After the sermon Mr. Thomas held an informal reception in the church, at the close of which he was escorted to the train by a large number of friends singing "God be with you till we meet again."

The new pastor, Rev. Mr. McKane, will enter upon his duties at once.

A New Culvert.

A gang of Street Commissioner Gavett's men have been putting in a new culvert under East Fifth street at the intersection of that street with Watchung avenue. The old one was too small to take the volume of water that pours through there during a heavy storm.

ALL DAY FIGHT FOR BEER

THE SCHUTZEN BUND FINALLY TRIUMPHED OVER POTTERSVILLE.

But It Was Only After the Returning Committee Had Kept the Thirsty Picknickers Sweating at the Depot.

Eight deputy sheriffs, two justices and several members of a citizens' reform committee battled with the members of the Germania Schutzen Bund, of Newark, and twelve car loads of excursionists at Pottersville, Sunday, to prevent the sale of beer and a general desecration of the Sabbath. Pottersville is a hamlet of 300 inhabitants among the hills twelve miles north of Somerville. The Black river runs through the centre of the town, which lies in two counties, Hunterdon and Somerset. The law-abiding inhabitants of Pottersville have been greatly annoyed because some of the German societies of Newark have on Sunday excursions to the place.

Last week the townspeople held an indignation meeting. The Germania Schutzen Bund, of Newark, had arranged for an excursion to Black River Falls Sunday, and the citizens organized a reform committee to prevent the sale of beer on Sunday and other unlawful acts heretofore practiced in the grove. The reform committee sent a petition to John Miller, manager of the Schutzen Bund, requesting him, in the cause of morality, not to hold the reunion as advertised in the grove on Sunday. Then the Reform committee appealed to the public Prosecutor of Hunterdon and Somerset counties to have the laws strictly enforced. Early yesterday morning Prosecutor Dungan, of Somerset county, sent Acting Sheriff Theodore Barcalow and seven deputies to Pottersville, with orders to prohibit the landing or sale of beer by the Schutzen Bund within the county limits. There was an understanding by which the Public Prosecutor of Hunterdon county was to send a posse of deputies to the Hunterdon county side of the grove to apprehend the lawbreakers.

The excursion train bearing the Schutzen Bund and several hundred of their friends rolled into the Pottersville station at 11:30 Sunday morning, and was met by the deputies of Somerset county. The train contained no baggage car, and there was no beer aboard. The managers informed the deputies that they had decided to comply with the request of the reform committee to bring no beer.

The reform committee were greatly pleased, but their suspicion was aroused lately by a report that a car containing beer had been side-tracked a mile down the road. Deputies who were sent out to verify the report caught a large truck load of beer, guarded by eight men, as it was about to be driven into the grove by a back wagon road. Justice A. P. Sutphen instructed the deputies to seize the beer and return it to the car. The guards on the truck showed fight, but were outnumbered by the deputies and townspeople. The men on the truck argued and threatened, but the beer was carted a mile down the road and placed in the car under a strong guard.

At this juncture President James Pidcock of the Rockaway Valley Railroad and Manager Mullen of the Schutzen Bund came up and resorted to a trick that got the beer over the line into Hunterdon county. William Binehardt made a protest that the side track on which the car had been placed was his private property and that the beer must be moved. President Pidcock called for an engine and hastened to move it. The car was run a few miles down the track into Hunterdon county, where it was beyond the jurisdiction of the Somerset officials.

The posse of deputies that was expected to capture the beer on the Hunterdon side did not appear. The Schutzen Bund loaded their wagons after a delay of several hours and started for the Hunterton county of the grove without opposition. Several hundred thirsty, sweating Schutzen Bund members were waiting in the road near the grove when, at 5 o'clock, two trucks loaded high with beer kegs, on which were perched several Germans, came up. The air was rent with mighty cheers and in less than five minutes a dozen kegs of beer were rolled down a hill and placed on tap. The agents of the society then passed through the crowd with beer tickets, which they sold in coupons of five for twenty-five cents. For the rest of the day the Germans got their beer uninterrupted and in peace.

Contracts Filed.

The following contracts from Plainfield have been recorded in the Union County Clerk's office during the past week:

Henry & Johns with Trinity Dutch Reformed church, Plainfield, painting church, $600; Beaman-Williams & Co., with same, mason work, $1,395; Chas. Wilson, with same, carpenter work, $4,795; John Stephenson Co. with Henry Wilson, Plainfield, crushed stone at $1.20, $1.30 and $1.15 per ton.

In the registration of guests at the Tremont House, Sea Girt, are included the names of Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Murray Rushmore and Mary Rushmore.

CIPHER SYSTEM HE HAD.

SMEDBERG'S CLEVER PLANS FOR GAINING HIS LIBERTY.

He Utilized His Talent as a Draughtsman to Draw Plans Showing Just How His Confederate Should Act to Help Him.

In reviewing the brief, but sensational, career of J. D. Smedberg, the confessed diamond thief, the Elizabeth Journal says:

Probably the most interesting thing about Smedberg since he has been in jail was his planned attempt to escape. It has been reported that a man was put in jail for the purpose of learning whatever Smedberg would tell; but it is not the case. The first that the officials knew of anything wrong with the prisoner was by his actions in constantly going to a certain window, and apparently watching it carefully with his eye. They set a closer watch on him after that, and learned many things.

Prison officials have divers ways of discovering the secrets of prisoners, and it would not be fair to them to tell just how they learned that Smedberg was communicating with his wife through the means of a cipher code; but they did make that discovery, and for some time they read the cipher after having learned the key. The cipher trick showed that Smedberg would have prepared for the emergency of his arrest by teaching his wife the code. The ciphers were written between the printed lines of books that Mrs. Smedberg sent to jail for her husband to read.

Through this cipher Smedberg planned for his escape from the jail. He wrote his wife to purchase saws and files, and at a certain time to place them in a certain corner of one of the jail windows that overlooks the churchyard. In order that no mistake might be made, the prisoner drew on paper very carefully plans of the jail, churchyard and surroundings, and by dotted lines laid out a path for the person to follow when the files were placed. For the further information of this pal, plans on a miniature scale were drawn, showing just how high the window was from the ground, the location of the bars, and many other things, so that there could be no mistake in finding the exact spot to lay the jail-breaking tools. But, of course, these plans never reached his wife, and the tools have not yet been placed.

Smedberg did not propose to stay around here if he escaped, but planned to leave the country. In order to provide the money for the expense of getting away he planned with another prisoner to rob a number of houses in the vicinity, and even the dates for the robberies were selected. Like the plans of nearly all other prisoners, however, those of Smedberg became known to the jail officials, and now he will plead guilty to the robbery, and the indications are that he will be sent to State Prison in punishment for his crime.

As for his wife, it is said that one of the lawyers that were engaged in Smedberg's behalf will care for her until such time as she can obtain a position on the stage.

PROMISED TO BE GOOD

Doubtful Offenders Become Very Penitent Before the Cadi.

It is likely had William Casey and his two companions known the results of their stone throwing, it would not have happened. Several days ago told the story of the gang of small sized terrors who infested Woodville and made life miserable for most of its inhabitants by their numerous pranks. They attacked the home of Mr. Connell, of Monroe avenue, with stones and narrowly escaped striking his wife in the head with a large boulder. Mr. Monnell picked William Casey out as the leader of the gang and had him arrested. After hearing part of his story, City Judge DeMeza set down the continuation of the trial for this morning and ordered the other two boys who had figured in the stone throwing to appear also.

Saturday, young Casey, Beely Grove and John Sheenan appeared before the City Judge at his office. The Judge was stern and the youthful offenders were very penitent. They then told their story and promised to be very good if the "Dear Mister Judge" would only let them go. The Judge delivered a long and heart-rending lecture on the evils of throwing stones and how their future misbehavior, if they did misbehave, would probably land them in the Reform School. He then suspended sentence on the three.

The Pythian Field Day.

The coming State field day was the principal thing to interest the members of Crescent Division of the Uniformed Rank of Knights of Pythias, at their meeting last Friday. A number of general orders regarding it were read at the meeting and the members decided to hold a practice drill on Wednesday evening in anticipation of that event. It was decided to leave for South Amboy, where the field day is to be held, on Labor Day morning on the 8 o'clock train and change cars at Elizabethport for South Amboy. One candidate was initiated.

IS THIS THE BURGLAR?

WESTFIELD AUTHORITIES ARE LOOKING FOR G. E. BAKER.

He Boarded in Westfield at the Time of the Depredations and Acted in a Suspicious Manner at Certain Times.

The police authorities of Westfield are looking for George E. Baker, whom they suspect of being implicated in the recent series of burglaries in the town. Baker himself once admitted to his landlady, Mrs. G. W. Dawes, that he was at one time accused of burglary in Atlanta, Ga.

The man came to Mrs. Dawes' house on Central avenue, Westfield on May 7th, last, and engaged a room with board. He was about 40 years of age, short, with greyish hair, a smooth face, and was dressed in a black cheviot suit. He brought a small hand bag but had no other baggage.

It was at this time that the burglaries in Westfield began. Baker appeared to have no work, but his landlady's suspicions were not aroused until he began to sleep during the day and stay out at night. He seldom came in until 2 o'clock a. m., and often it was much later. Several times when he returned the man brought bundles with him which he would lock in the closet in his room. None but Baker saw into this closet during his stay in the house.

The man showed an interest in the burglaries which were occurring nightly at that time. He remarked that the town was a fine place for burglars to work in, and also was heard to say that he was up in the ways of burglaries and had once been accused of robbing a house.

One day Mrs. Dawes noticed that her suspicious boarder was wearing two complete suits of clothes. One night he reached the house at one o'clock and taking a large bundle to his room placed it in the closet. One night a truck drove up to the house after the family had all retired and a number of packages were taken from Baker's room and placed in it.

On the night of May 22d, when the burglars made a rich haul at the residence of James A. Simpson, Mrs. Dawes was awakened at about 2 a. m., by the return of her mysterious boarder. He went to his room and opening a window let several packages down to the ground by a string. He then tiptoed away himself and was never seen again at the house.

The facts have been reported to the authorities and they are confident that if Baker can be caught, one of Westfield's gang of burglars will be in custody.

TROLLEY MEN HUSTLING

Trying to Get the Metuchen Road Completed in Time

There is more trolley hustling in Raritan township than the average person imagines, and it will be but a few weeks before trolley cars are running over the roads there. The tracks for the trolley to Metuchen have been laid from the forks of the road at Phil Smith's roadhouse to nearly the end of the Duclos farm at Piscat awaytown.

The rails and the ties have been distributed along the roads through Bonhamtown and Metuchen. Every where are wagons hauling ties, rails and poles, while gangs of men are excavating, laying ties, nailing rails and filling in again.

A force of men has commenced macadamizing the road at the forks and will follow right down as fast as the rails are laid, making a complete job.

The Piscataway town road is made impassable on account of this work, and drivers wishing to go to Piscataway town are advised to take the Metuchen road as far as Ducless lane, where there is a good road connecting with the Piscataway town road.

From the activity of the contractors, it looks as if they mean to finish the road from New Brunswick to Metuchen within the thirty days allowed them by the company.

People in Highland Park have been at sea as to whether the Traction Company intends to construct its line through all of the streets of Highland Park for which it received its franchises. Fred Weigel, counsel for the company, said that was doubtless the intention of the Company and that the contracts made by the Company called for this work.

MAYOR RANKIN DID NOT GO.

Some Think He Did Not Care to See Kean, of Ursino, Honored.

Mayor Rankin, of Elizabeth, was absent from the picnic of the Republican warriors of Union at Neptune Heights last week, and it is hinted the presence and prominence of John Kean, his ancient foe, on this occasion had much to do with the Mayor's failure to go on the outing.

Mayor Rankin was at the station when the stalwarts boarded the train, and surprise was expressed when he said he did not intend to go. The Mayor did not volunteer to give any reason why he preferred to remain at home.

The general opinion was that the homage paid by the leaders to the statesman from Ursino was more than the Mayor could stand.

BACK, BRONZED AND HAPPY

PLAINFIELDERS RETURN FROM A PISCATORIAL EXPEDITION.

Bill Emery Distinguished Himself by Actually Catching a Fish — The Accident That Happened to Charley Smith's Grip.

Bronzed by rays of Old Sol and invigorated by the cooling blasts sweeping over the domain of Neptune, five Plainfielders, with tastes the same as those of Isaac Walton, wended their way homeward from Barnegat bay Thursday, bringing startling tales of adventure and success in piscatorial expeditions since they shook the dust of Plainfield from their shoes a few days ago. The five fisherman were George Thatcher, Edward White, Bert Brooks, Charles Smith and William Emery, all known to local fame as enthusiastic anglers and hustlers.

The exciting episode of their stay was provided when Bill Emery caught his first fish. One day the party was out in their yacht and had just cast their lines and were waiting for a bite. Emery's eyes watched the bobber on his line as a cat watches a mouse; suddenly, there was a little tug on the line and the cork went under water and played about as though a fish had actually caught its gills in the hook. With considerable temerity, Emery took hold of the pole and pulled up. There, dangling on the hook, was a weak fish wiggling to get loose lest he should perish in the hands of his captor. But it was no use, he was hooked to stay.

"Hi, there, look at that! Look! look, I've got one. Woopee!"

Those were a few of the wild and weird ejaculations showing the enthusiasm of Emery. The rest of the party looked aghast and a dozen boats in the vicinity hurriedly started for the Plainfielders' yacht, believing them to be distressed. The strangers were finally apprised of the cause o the noise made by Emery and once more only the faint ripple of the ocean was heard. After that Emery had good luck.

Previous to the party's departure, a slight accident happened to Charley Smith's grip the following rhyme and prose explaining in detail:

When was a bottle
In the sun and mosquitoes sing 'Sneak, stranger sneak,"
At Em Bishop's hotel, and clam pies for the asking
Five Plainfielders started quite early this week.
Bert Brooks and Ed White singing this soul stirring ditty
But alas for slip betwixt the cup and the lip
Bill Emery discovered ere they had left the city
That liquor was oozing from Smithy's grip
A tremendous burst of stage thunder, accompanied by an excessive use of flash pans filled with fire, the entire cabin is filled with a sulphuric smell, and out from the confusion comes a voice loud, but husky, struggling with American emphasizing words and a German accent; while off in the distant the four unfortunates are singing in chorus, pianolesso:

'Twas an old broken bottle,
A life saving bottle,
The Hunter pipe bottle,
That soaked Smithy's grip.

WILD FLIGHT OF A HORSE.

Scattered People in Fright and Finally Collided With a Tree

Mrs. John Balomy, the wife of a Stony Hill farmer, drove to the borough Thursday afternoon to make some purchases. At VanWinkle's store she tied the horse to a hitching post and stepped inside to leave an order.

As soon as Mrs. Bolomay reached the store the horse began to prance and jerk at its halter, which soon broke. The animal then dashed away at breakneck speed in the direction of the mountain. Truck wagons, wheelmen and pedestrians were obliged in a scramble hastily out of the way to avoid collision with the flying animal.

Several attempts were made to stop the runaway, but they availed nothing, and the wild dash continued, the buggy swaying from side to side of the street.

When the end of Somerset street was reached the runaway turned into Johnston's Drive. As it rounded the corner the buggy swung close to a tree. There was a crash, and the top was torn away, and fell in the road.

Mrs. Bolomay came along later and took the rig home.

Garwood's Chapel.

Work has been commenced on the foundation for the union chapel at Garwood. This chapel is non-sectarian and is supported by more influential people than any other such in the State. The mission was started three years ago by W. H. Morse. Contributions toward its maintenance have been large and generous, and among those who first gave to the object was Senator James Smith, Jr. Others who have lent their aid are August Belmont, Simeon Wolf and Frederick R. Coudert. The structure is expected to be ready by the fall.

Passed a Worthless Check.

The police of the borough are looking for Frank Overbaugh, of Washingtonville, for having passed a worthless check for $4 on Kirch & Long, the Somerset street grocers. When the check was presented to the bank it was repudiated. Overbaugh has disappeared, whence it has been impossible to learn.

HYMEN IN THE SANCTUM

PLAINFIELD COUPLE MARRIED IN A PRINTING OFFICE.

A Romantic Young Couple Seek Chivalrous Judge Collins, of Westfield, Who Ties the Nuptial Knot in Impressive Style

A Plainfield couple who had come to the conclusion that they can travel the pathway of life henceforth together to mutual advantage, took a trip to Westfield Wednesday 25th inst, and called on Judge Collins, who is extremely popular with wedding parties.

The bride was Miss Lucy C. Boss, of Central avenue, and the groom, J. Philip Kirch, of Somerset street.

The young people found the Judge at his desk in The Leader office, and as they wished to catch an early train for Plainfield, they did not go to the Judge's residence, but had the ceremony performed right then and there in the printing office.

It was a curious scene enacted there amid the wheels, belts and pulleys of printing machinery. There was some trouble, however, with the wires and the electric lights were not burning. The Judge had in the meantime unearthed an old kerosene lamp from a heap of rubbish, and this threw a flickering, uncertain light upon the bridal party as they stood in the shadow of the great press that loomed up behind them. Beside the pretty little bride, who was dressed all in white, stood Mrs. Rosenberg, sister of the groom, while beside the groom stood John H. Cash, publisher of The Leader.

The Judge spoke a few words to the young people upon the importance and solemnity of the step they were about to take, and admonished them to remember the sacredness of the marriage vow. Then in an impressive tone and manner, which coupled with the strange surroundings, made the beautiful words of the marriage service seem doubly impressive, he uttered the words that made them one for good or ill while life shall last.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the newly made husband and wife were congratulated, and the Judge handed the blushing bride a handsome marriage certificate, whereon he had set forth the facts and added an extra flourish as he signed the name, Edwin Ralph Collins, no well-known in the literature of both continents. Then they hastened to catch a train back to Plainfield.

NO PROPER DRAINAGE.

HOLLOW UNDER RAILROAD BRIDGE IS A LAKE EVERY TIME IT RAINS.

A Special Sewer To Carry Away the Surplus Water is Required Under the Clinton Avenue Bridge After a Heavy Rain.

The recent severe storms that have flooded the surounding country have brought one fact home directly to the city and that is that the roadway under the Clinton avenue bridge, where the tracks of the Jersey Central Railroad pass over that thoroughfare, are sadly in need of proper drainage. To any one who has seen the road under the bridge since the recent storm, the need is a self evident fact.

When the storm of a month ago that flooded the streets in the city and caused the dam at Washingtonville to give way was over, Clinton avenue was blockaded under the bridge. The water was far above the sidewalks which were several feet higher than the roadway and carriages and wagons that tried to pass through found the water invading the bottom of the vehicle before half of the journey was over. It was sometime before the water disappeared from under the bridge. There is some method by which it is supposed to be drained but it is of no practical use.

The last storm again filled up the hollow in the road with water and the conveyances that usually pass that way had to go round. The last of the water has hardly disappeared yet.

After the big storm of a month ago, the street committee and Street Commissioner Gavett immediately began a consideration of the question of draining it. It will be necessary to build a special storm sewer of fair size to direct brook to carry away the water. A cistern would soon be filled up and there seems no other feasible way. There would be considerable expense connected with the building of a special sewer and the street committee has called the attention of the officials of the Jersey Central road to it.

It is claimed that the railroad is in a measure responsible as the road has to drop considerably before it can pass under the tracks, thus a hollow is formed. Street Commissioner Gavett has been conferring with the railroad officials and it is thought that the railroad company will bear a portion if not all of the expense for the making of a new drainage system for the road.

Perseverance Lodge Met.

At the meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., held on Friday evening, the attendance was large and one new member was initiated. Preparations were also made for the field day of the order, which will be observed at South Amboy on Labor Day.

AN INVASION OF SWINE.

TRIBULATIONS OF NETHERWOOD PEOPLE HEARD IN COURT.

Miss Alice Peel Didn't Keep Her Hogs Penned Up and They Roamed Around and Destroyed Gardens and Chickens

Back of Netherwood, in that little settlement along Leland avenue, there has been an invading army at work—lawns and gardens have been rooted up and chickens have been killed. All the trouble is laid to an army of swine which has been in possession of that part of the city during the summer. All sorts of plans have been formulated to rid the place of the invaders, whose destructive work has continued without interruption, but the efforts were of no avail. The little piggies and the old grunters had a merry time of it while the neighbors worked themselves up to a pitch of excitement that has boded ill for the owner of the animals. Such at least is the story of the residents of Leland avenue, back of the Hotel Hunterston.

Roundsman Christian Frederickson is not a man to find fault without cause. He has the reputation of meaning what he says, as some of the offenders in this city know to their cost. Frederickson is now a complainant against the hogs and their owner.

Miss Alice Peel lives on Leland avenue, in the house formerly occupied by William Hand. She has a large herd of swine, which are supposed to be kept within the bounds of her property. The neighbors declare that Miss Peel has not been able to keep them within bounds and that the hogs have run riot through the lawns and gardens of her neighbors. Gardens of vegetables and flowers have suffered alike from the inquisitive porkers, who have poked their sharp snouts into the ground and rooted up vegetables and flowers.

Roundsman Frederickson had a brood of small chickens which he claims were exterminated by the pigs, besides lots of damage that was done to his garden. He at last decided that the neighbors had suffered enough and the time for action had come.

Friday complaint was made against Miss Peel by the Roundsman and City Judge DeMeza issued a warrant for her apprehension. She was notified, last evening to appear before the Judge this morning.

This morning, she came down and listened to the charge. After hearing it she astonished the Roundsman by promptly pleading not guilty. Her trial was set down for next Saturday morning. All the neighbors will come down to have their say regarding the trouble and a spicy trial may be looked for unless she determines to change her plea.

GOT THE ROBBERS' RIG.

MacKesy Saw Men Robbing a Corn Patch and Captured Their Horse and Wagon.

The farmers of Union township raise garden truck for market, and their principal crops are cabbage and sweet corn. For a month their fields have been systematically robbed, and great quantities of vegetables have been stolen.

Last one day Angus MacKesy lost 1,200 heads of cabbage and on another 1,000 ears of corn. Thursday afternoon MacKesy says he was on the lookout for thieves and saw two men drive into the woods and tie their horse. MacKesy says that they went into Clerk Lum's cornfield and began to pick corn. MacKesy started for them and they ran away. MacKesy got the horse and wagon and gave the rig to County Detective Keron.

Yesterday after MacKesy left town Larry Zogbaum of Salem called on Detective Keron and said the rig was his. He said that he went into the woods in Union to pick wild cherries and that while he was gone his rig was taken away. Zogbaum's father is a vegetable vender in this city. He was told that he must get an order from MacKesy for the rig. He didn't get it.

LIKE A MESSAGE FROM THE DEAD.

Mr. Day Receives a Trunk Packed for Him Forty-four Years Ago.

Robert L. Day, a druggist of Somerville, has just recovered possession of a trunk which was packed for him by his mother forty-four years ago when he left home to attend school. The Day family lived near the site of Seton Hall, in Orange. The property was recently sold, and an aunt of Mr. Day in searching the attic found the trunk, which she remembered her sister had packed for her son.

It was sent to Mr. Day, and when he opened it everything was apparently as it was left by his mother. There was clothing and bed linen, clean and neat. A box of very old coins was in the trunk, with other articles which the thoughtful mother had wanted her boy to have.

Mr. Day is delighted to get the trunk, as it seems like a message from his mother, who has long since passed away.

Editor Runyon Is Very Sick.

Editor Frank W. Runyon, of The News, is confined at his home with a serious attack of liver and kidney trouble.

WALKED FOR THE CAKE.

GRACE PERSONIFIED BY COLORED COUPLES IN THE CONTEST.

Scene With Stately Grandeur Trod the Floor, While Others Perambulated Along as Seldom if Ever Observed Before.

A genuine old-fashioned cake walk, given by those who were thoroughly initiated into the mysteries, proved the leading attraction at the grand ball given to the colored gentry by the waiters and other employes at the Hotel Hunterston in the Pierce Cycle Academy, Thursday. With the ball, or rather preceding it, was a concert by the Martin quartette and the orchestra.

Fully a hundred of the guests at the Hunterston and people from this city assembled in the galleries to watch the cake walk and listen to the concert. The police force was represented by a member of the Board, the Chief, the Sergeant and a Roundsman, who came to see the fun and applaud.

The guests who were to participate in the dance and cake walk did not appear until almost 10 o'clock, but in the meantime the Martin quartette had been singing popular airs and Willie Wilson had been rendering character songs with original motions and showing his skill as a buck and wing dancer. Some of the numbers were very good and received loud applause. Then the orchestra took its turn and rendered several selections.

The event of the evening was next in order and ten couples promenaded forth to join the cake walk. The orchestra struck up and the fun began. A committee of representative citizens and guests from the hotel had been chosen as judges. While all the couples had their peculiar ways of walking, it was soon evident that the fight lay between four couples. One of these walked with stately grandeur, another couple moved in delicious gyrations, while the other two wiggled along until a dislocation of all the bones in their bodies seemed probable.

A second trial was held in which only the four chosen ones participated. The contest grew exciting. Where they had hardly tried before, they now did their best. The audience got enthusiastic and encouraged the walkers with applause. The escorts bowed gravely to the ground and then fanned his lady in slow and rythmic measures.

Then the judges consulted and agreed that Miss Ethel Johnson and Arthur Brown had done the best and there re awarded them the cake. Miss Agnes Ford and Matthew Blair were awarded second prize, $2 50 in gold. Miss Lizzie Lee and William Wilson took the third prize, a ring. The fourth man was rather disgusted at the result of the affair and thought that it was a put-up-job. He was afterwards convinced of his error.

TO GET RID OF THE TRAMPS.

Heroes Found at Large in Middlesex County Will Have to Work on Streets.

The special Tramp Committee, appointed by the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders at its last meeting for the express purpose of suppressing the tramps in that county, and the Street Commissioner of New Brunswick have had a conference regarding the repairing of the streets of that city by tramp labor.

As a result, it has been decided that on and after September 1st all tramps caught within the limits of the county shall be arrested and sentenced to long terms under the tramp act of the State, and be compelled to labor on the streets. The committee has ordered a supply of ball and chains, so as to have everything in readiness for the enforcement of the act. The tramps will be watched by several deputies, armed with rifles, and no vengeresome hobo will be permitted to shirk his task or escape.

CUMULATIVE TROUBLE.

A Bound Brook Man Finds Himself in the County Jail.

John Green, of Bound Brook, has troubles of his own. On Saturday morning he had the ends of his fingers on one hand clipped off, by being caught in machinery at the Bound Brook woolen mills. On Saturday afternoon he became engaged in a quarrel which brought him before a justice. In the justice's court he was recognized by Constable Sebring as the man wanted by the Somerset county on an old indictment for assault, and on Saturday night he was landed in the county jail.

Green was indicted by the Grand Jury almost a year ago, for an assault on his sister, which, it is alleged, he committed while intoxicated. He fled from Bound Brook, and the court issued a capias for his arrest. It is said that he returned to Bound Brook several months ago, and has since been working in the woolen mills, but that his identity was not made known until he appeared in the justice's court on Saturday last.

A Serious Charge

Justice Newcorn has issued a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Annie Schmidt, of Berkley Heights, on a serious charge. The complaint was made by her husband, John Schmidt, who is employed near the Berkley Heights brick yard.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

DRAKE TO KEAN.

Silas D. Drake is varying the humdrum of his life—if such an expression truthfully applies to his existence, and there is no doubt of it—by writing instead of talking. Mr. Drake has written a long letter to John Kean, who expects to don the Senatorial toga of New Jersey in the country's highest legislative body, in which he pointedly comments on the circumstance of Mr. Kean's wealth and his position in politics. Mr. Drake believes that the brains of Voorhees Murphy or Griggs should be superior to the capital of Kean, and he thinks he can prove it. At least, he is willing to try, and so he has written a letter to the sage of Urinso challenging him to a public debate on the question of "Should not Brains Win over Capital?" He wants the debate to take place in three sections—at Lincoln, Newark and Camden. To make sure that Kean will receive the letter of challenge, he sent it Saturday by registered letter. If Mr. Drake gets an answer he can swell up with the pride of having accomplished something that no one thinks is among the possibilities. By the way, there is an interesting story behind the fact that Drake is eternally opposed to Kean, and some day its humorous phases may find its way into print.

UNION'S ORATORS.

"A Tilden Democrat" in the Bound Brook Democrat has the following:

There is talk of nominating James E. Martine, the Farmer Orator, of Plainfield, for Member of Assembly in Union county. If some arrangement could be made to send Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, and Jim Martine to the Legislature, the citizens of New Jersey will be amazed at the amount of brains this team carry in their top storage batteries. Either one of these gentlemen could almost persede the life-like portraits of ex Governors Parker, Randolph, Bedle, Abbett and McClellan to leave their frames and participate in the debate. Bergen, in his sweet, soft, seductive, nicely modulated voice, as a coaxer, and the Farmer Orator, the sage of Cedarbrook farm, in a bellowing cows-are-in-the-corn-voice—well, Jim would make the Delaware River stop and listen if he thought Gov. Griggs and the East Jersey Water Company would not take advantage and dam it. Seriously, these gentlemen would attract more attention in the Legislature than any two other in the State, while the taxpayer and the commonwealth would profit thereby.

MISLEADING TAX RATES.

Plainfield is an expensive place to live. The tax rate will be $2.32 this year, which is the highest ever known. Yet what advantages has Plainfield that Somerville cannot duplicate, and with a tax rate not much higher than is paid in country districts without any improvements, which we possess. An economically conducted government has done much for this town of ours.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

Nothing is more misleading than the tax rate. There are towns in New Jersey with a 23 rate, where the taxpayers pay more in proportion than do those in Plainfield. A low rate on a valuation of nearly true value means a larger tax bill than a rate twice as high on, say, a valuation of 25 or 30 per cent. In appealing to home-seekers New Jersey has been handicapped by the abused and illegal valuations which make necessary a high rate. It is an exceedingly difficult matter to make comparisons on the basis of tax rates, because there is no uniformity or harmony in the valuations, which vary from 20 to 75 per cent. of the actual value.—New York Tribune.

MAY BE PITNEY.

Mercer county Republican leaders would like to have Comptroller Hancock elevated to the Governor's chair. Mr. Hancock feels reluctant to have his name mentioned in connection with the office at the present time, and, consequently, the candidacy of Mr. Pitney is freely and favorably discussed throughout the State. Mr. Pitney is a born campaigner. He carried the Fourth Congressional District, despite its almost overwhelming Democratic majority. Essex county may kick, and so may Hudson, but if South Jersey is solid for Mr. Pitney he will be a hard man to beat.

PROMISES WELL.

The Middlesex county authorities, do it seems, have determined to put an end to the tramp nuisance in their bailiwick by putting in effect a plan that promises well for results—compelling the hoboes to work. In other counties where this plan has been in force, the wandering and shiftless characters have made it a point to give a wide berth to.

PRESERVE THE PALISADES.

It is understood that the military committee of the House intends to report favorably the bill for the preservation of the Palisades of the Hudson as a military reservation, says The Springfield Republican. The joint commission appointed by the States of New York and New Jersey to preserve this imposing feature of scenery has been fought hard by the owners of property, whose pockets don't care a cent for all the beauty of earth. Stone-crushers and quarrymen are busy all the while at the foot of the cliffs using up the detritus for macadam, and destroying all the forest fringe which has rendered the base of the great cliffs attractive instead of dreary. The Government must come in if the cliffs themselves are saved long, for New Jersey has done as much as it seems the State can afford in surrendering all claims to the water-front —from which, no doubt, much revenue might be derived in the future—and in exempting from tax all properties to be included in the Palisades reservation. The military uses of the Palisades in case of war are important enough to justify the United States in acquiring them, as it will not be a matter of large expense.—Hackensack Index.

FEAR OF DEFEAT.

The Newark Advertiser has a fear that the constitutional amendments will be defeated. It says; "That the anti-gambling amendment will be adopted is not by any means sure. All the influences of the race tracks, all the interests depending thereon, and the powerful saloon influence, will be actively arrayed against it. The sweeping character of the amendment will also dispose many voters who are not in sympathy with these influences to antagonize it, either by voting against it, or by not going to the polls. On the other hand, the friends of the amendment have postponed organization too long, and all their work is before them. They are about to begin to arouse popular sentiment for the amendment just at the time when questions of party politics are beginning to engage and distract the attention of voters."

URGING ACTION.

The Republican campaign in favor of the proposed constitutional amendments will begin in earnest on Sunday, September 8th, when a circular letter from the Anti-gambling League of New Jersey will be read in every church in the State holding service on that day. Dr. Kempshall, of Elizabeth, the President of the League, is still absent on his vacation, but has still been in constant conference with its members. The circular will urge all law-abiding citizens, irrespective of party affiliation, to rally to the support of the amendment, and forever prohibit the attempted legalizing of any sort of gambling in the State. There is, however, a good deal of apathy on the subject.

TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER.

If men who are elected to the United States Senate from New Jersey by the members of the Legislature were to owe their election instead to the people, they would be more directly under obligation to the masses than to those who have been bought—at least indirectly. Both parties know this to be true. It would be the same with the most honorable and brilliant American who could be named for the honor. The poor man never can be a winner in such a contest in this State until present methods are abolished.—New York Press.

Mr. Daly to Go With Rhea.

John Daly will go with the Rhea company, as the personal representative of Rich & Maeder, who will manage her tour this season. The company open in Elizabeth next Monday night, and their route includes the principal eastern and central western stands in the country. Rich & Maeder are interested in the stock company who will occupy Murray Hill theatre in New York this season, and last Saturday night Mr. Daly was called to New York to act in the absence of Mr. Rich, who journeyed to Troy to witness the first production of "An American Beauty," by Corrine, whom they will also manage.

Election of Officers.

The election of officers of Plainfield Senate, No. 621, K. A. E. O., was held on Friday evening, and resulted as follows: Excellent senator, Frank H. Smith; senior senechal, William N. Runyon; junior senechal, Frank L. Jones; sarcedos, Nathan Titsworth; surgeon, D. C. Adams, M. D; secretary, C. L. Murphy; treasurer, George O. Stevens. The rest of the officers are appointed.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

A sparkling, effervescent cure for Indigestion, Headache and Constipation.

Aids nature in restoring right action of stomach, liver and bowels. Does it gently yet quickly, mildly though surely.

Sold by druggists for 50 years. 50c. and $1.00.

MIDDLESEX ROAD SYSTEM.

What the Board of Freeholders is Doing to Better It.

The roads of Middlesex county, once noted for their sandiness and for the lack of travel upon them, are now being macadamized and otherwise improved so that a noticeable increase of traffic over them is taking place almost every day.

The macadam road system of Union county is to be connected with the Middlesex system by a road from Metuchen to Iselin, near the county line. The systems are now connected by the roundabout Plainfield roads, but the new road to Iselin will mean a direct communication between Elizabeth, Rahway and New Brunswick by macadam roads. It will be a much traveled route for bicyclists.

The increase in road building in Middlesex county may be estimated by the fact that at their July meeting the Board of Freeholders awarded one road contract. At the August meeting four were awarded. The number is not expected to decrease during the fall months.

These road contracts bring a large amont of work upon Robert Dougherty, the county engineer. The road committee of the Freeholders has charge of the work, but the engineer is supposed to keep a general supervision over it. In fact, the law requires an expert engineer to keep watch upon proceedings, and if the work is not being done properly he may interfere. He is called upon to watch the material used, the manner of construction, and otherwise keep in close touch with the work.

During the next two months the engineer will have to travel from thirty to forty miles per day about the county inspecting the different roads. Besides this work, he is required to devote much time to getting up plans and specifications for roads and bridges. As the road building increases, the work of the engineer increases.

POLITICS HEARD IN UNION.

Republicans May Trot Out a New Set of Assembly Nominees.

At the Union County Republican outing recently at Avon the subject of Assembly nominations was discussed says the World. It looks as if there would be an entire new ticket this fall. J. Martin Roll would like to go back for a third term, but he will be opposed in Plainfield and Cranford, the latter place having a candidate in Col. James Ferguson.

Henry Clouse Roll, it is said, be retired perhaps for Robert G. Houston, and Assemblyman Codington does not seem to care about a renomination. Roger Murray, of Plainfield, may be named. Frank Bergen could have an Assembly nomination, but the lawyer informed a reporter that he would not take it under any circumstances.

The Republicans are wondering who the Democrats will put up against Surrogate George T. Parrot, who will be renominated for a third term of five years.

So far the only person spoken of for the Democratic nomination for Surrogate is former County Clerk John Crowell, of Rahway.

At next Tuesday's outing of the Democratic class it is likely the Assembly and Surrogate nominations may be discussed.

FOUND AN ANCIENT MONUMENT.

Peculiar Discovery Made While Tearing Down an Old Hotel at Elizabeth.

In tearing down the old Sheridan Hotel, at Elizabeth, a remarkable piece of masonry in the shape of a monument was discovered in the back part of the building. It is made of hewn stone, and experts say there is nothing like it in Union County. It is believed it was constructed at least 150 years ago.

It is proposed that the Board of Freholders allow the monument to remain in its present position and place on top of it a brass plate with a suitable inscription

"My boy came home late from school one day with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schall, with Meyer Bros.' Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo. "I dressed the wound, and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely. All pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

WANTS TO BE GOVERNOR.

SENATOR DALY IS THE LOGICAL SILVER WING CANDIDATE.

Things Seems to Be Shaping Themselves s in His Favor and He is Ever on the Alert — Senator Smith's Retirement.

It the silver wing of the Democratic party continues to direct its destinies Senator William D. Daly is the logical candidate for Governor, and former Congressman Johnston for the United States Senate, says a Trenton correspondent. That is the way things are shaping now. Senator Daly is ever on the alert. The other day he electrified the farmers over in the old Fourth district by a speech which proclaimed himself a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, who defiantly stood upon the Chicago platform. The Senator is very much in quest of the Gubernatorial nomination, and he feels confident of winning it. His followers throughout the State are legion, and no matter where one goes the name of Senator "Bill" Daly is ever uppermost on the tongues of politicians. One thing is very certain—Mr. Daly would make a very lively campaign, but as to his election, that is another question. The general belief is that the silver agitation has had its day, and that the next Democratic Governor of New Jersey will not be a devotee of that cause.

Should there be a Democratic majority on joint-ballot in the Legislature no doubt Mr. Cornish would make an effort to be chosen United States Senator. He is young, popular and wealthy, is a practical and an experienced politician, and is full of ambition, but the chances for a Democratic Legislature to Mr. Cornish's liking are rather slim indeed. Still he is not without hope of a favorable outcome. He and Mr. Daly make quite a team together, and the campaign which they direct will be picturesque at any rate.

The reported retirement of Senator Smith from politics is unkindly viewed by some politicians as a case of sour grapes. Not seeing any chance for the election of a Democratic Legislature next year, it is asserted that he has concluded to retire early, so that his popularity may not be at stake during the campaign. Then Mr. Smith's enemies in his own party say that even if there were a Democratic Legislature he could not be re elected. They charge that during last year's campaign he was neither fish, flesh nor good red herring, and that a man of more positive convictions is required for a Democratic leader.

There is no disguising the fact that the Democrats are in a woful state of disorganization at the present time. They are without leaders of tact and experience, and the old monetary issue which they are trying to keep to the front acts as a millstone around their necks. A prominent Trenton Democrat said the other day that the only hope for the Democracy was for it to cast aside the present leaders, reorganize under new blood and wage war on old-time principles. "And then," added he, "perhaps it would not require a political revolution for the party to win a victory in the great campaign of next year.

DATE OF SPIELKARTENFEST.

Arranged for November 8th to 14th, So as Not to Conflict With Horse Show.

The date for the Spielkartenfest, which is to be given for the benefit of the Muhlenberg Hospital, this winter, has been changed so as not to conflict with the opening of the Horse Show at New York. At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Hospital, Monday evening, the principal business transacted was the changing of the date to November 8th to the 14th, which is a week earlier than it was expected to hold it.

The Board also appointed a committee to look after the interests of the Hospital regarding some property in Scotch Plains. The report of the medical director, Dr. Tomlinson, for the month, was received. It showed that during the month twenty-one patients had been received. Fifteen had been discharged cured and one improved. Thirty were treated and fourteen now remain. In the dispensary, forty cases had been treated and 102 visits made.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Men Who Will Make Trinity Church Altarpiece.

The consistory of Trinity Reformed church met at the residence of George L. Van Emburgh, on East Second street, Monday evening, to complete the awarding of contracts for the remodeling of the church. The contracts were awarded as follows: For plumbing and gas piping, to M. Armstrong; furnace heating, D. S. Dunavan; tinning and galvanized iron work, Robert Jahn; electric wiring, Aaron Higgins. The painting bids were laid over until the next meeting, and the matter of rebuilding the organ was referred to the music committee with power.

After the business of disposing of the bids was completed, the members were invited to assist in disposing of a water melon which Mr. and Mrs. Van-Emburgh had provided for the occasion. A social time followed.

You Can't Do It

It isn't possible to boil any oatmeal long enough to break the starch cells, and so render it digestible. Starch is not converted into digestible material until 250 degrees is reached, and 212 degrees is the maximum boiling temperature. Oatmeal can only be made digestible by dry heat, and is the only oatmeal in which the starch is rendered soluble by bursting the starch granules. This makes it the only safe oatmeal for infants, children, and those of weak digestion.

H-O

Be sure and get the package with the big H-O on the end.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption (Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections, general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

Crop Reports.

The following is John Neagle's crop report for the past week:

Fine weather during past week has greatly improved all crops, particularly corn, garden truck and all fruits; should present weather continue for ten days longer great improvement would be made in all crops; highest temperature, 82°; lowest, 55°; rainfall, 2.71 inches.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:35, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 2:20, 6, 5:30, p.m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:00 and 7:30 p. m.

SOUTH AMBOY MAILS.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40, 11:30 a. m., 3:00, and 9:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:30 and 5:00 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—12:45 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:00 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 9:30 a. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively. Insures Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JULY 2nd, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3 34, 3 57, 6 09, 6 40, 6 58, 7 37, 8 00, 7 58, 9 03, 9 28, 10 03, 10 27, 11 10 a. m.; 12 05, 1 35, 2 37, 3 34, 4 06, 4 37, 5 04, 5 40, 6 10, 6 37, 7 10, 7 37, 8 10, 8 37, 9 10, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m.; 12 37 night. Sundays—3 34, 4 37, 5 40, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 a. m.; 12 37, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37, 11 37 p. m.; 12 37 night.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, at 6 40, 7 35, 8 05, 8 35, 9 35, 10 05 a. m.; 12 05, 1 05, 2 05, 3 05, 4 05, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m.; 12 05 night. Sundays—9 05, 10 05, 11 05 a. m.; 12 05, 1 05, 2 05, 3 05, 4 05, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m.; 12 05 night.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield at 7 10, 8 14, 9 05, 11 04 a. m.; 12 01, 1 41, 3 41, 5 10, 6 41, 8 10, 9 41, 11 04 p. m. Sundays only 9 05, 11 04 a. m.; 12 01, 5 08, 8 10, 9 41, 11 04 p. m. Leave Somerville 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 a. m.; 12 05, 1 05, 2 05, 3 05, 4 05, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m. Sundays—8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 a. m.; 12 05, 1 05, 2 05, 3 05, 4 05, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 a. m.; 12 05, 1 05, 2 05, 3 05, 4 05, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m. Sundays—8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 a. m.; 12 05, 1 05, 2 05, 3 05, 4 05, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m.

Leave Plainfield at 6 00, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m.; 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m.; 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m.; 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m.; 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND ELIZABETH.

Leave Plainfield at 6 45, 7 30, 8 45, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 a. m.; 12 45, 1 45, 2 45, 3 45, 4 45, 5 45, 6 45, 7 45, 8 45, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 p. m. Sundays—9 45, 10 45, 11 45 a. m.; 12 45, 1 45, 2 45, 3 45, 4 45, 5 45, 6 45, 7 45, 8 45, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 p. m.

Leave Elizabeth at 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m.; 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays—9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m.; 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

For Bound Brook, Bridgewater, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch at Junction for Lebanon, Pottsville, Shamokin and Mauch Chunk.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Pottsville, Lebanon and Lancaster, connecting at Upper Lehigh Junction for Hazleton, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Delaware Water Gap and Stroudsburg.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Pottsville, Lebanon and Lancaster, connecting at Upper Lehigh Junction for Hazleton, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Delaware Water Gap and Stroudsburg.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Pottsville, Lebanon and Lancaster, connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Tamaqua, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Pottsville, Lebanon and Lancaster, connecting at Junction for Lebanon, Pottsville, Shamokin and Mauch Chunk.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Tamaqua, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Pottsville, Lebanon and Lancaster, connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Tamaqua, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Pottsville, Lebanon and Lancaster, connecting at Junction for Lebanon, Pottsville, Shamokin and Mauch Chunk.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg, connecting at Junction for Lebanon, Pottsville, Shamokin and Mauch Chunk.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg, connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg, connecting at Junction for Lebanon, Pottsville, Shamokin and Mauch Chunk.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville, Dover, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

BIG DAM TO BE BUILT.

PLAINFIELD ICE PURVEYORS SOON TO START THE WORK

What Remains of the Old Structure Will Be Strengthened and Lowered So as to Make the Spillway Double Old Capacity.

Before the winter sets in the Washingtonville dam is to be rebuilt, or rather repaired, and the big pond thus formed will again be filled with water. Such, at least, is the plan of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, which owns the land erected for the former dam. Although the company has not definitely announced its plans in regard to the construction of the dam that is to protect Washingtonville from the torrent of the waters penned in above that place, the officials have been favorably impressed with a plan for the building of remodeled dam in a manner which promises to provide for all contingencies.

Even as the great stones tottered and fell from their position in the portion of the dam at Washingtonville on that eventful night in July, the officials and owners of the Ice Company planned to start the work of repairing the damage done to the dam so that the winter crop of ice might be gathered despite the flood and the consequent breaking of the dam. Since that time they have been looking over different plans for the repairing of the damage. Owing to the absence of Mr. Coddington, one of the principal stockholders, there has been a delay but now they are preparing for active work and hope to begin before the middle of September.

Experience has been a rough teacher to the company and they have been judging from their past experience to remedy the defects of the first dam in the construction of dam, No. 2. The new dam will not be a new dam at all. Only a little over 100 feet of the old masonry was washed out, leaving the earth embankments, 300 feet in length, firm and solid. The trouble is chiefly laid to size of the spillway which was 100 small to carry away the great torrent of water that suddenly gathered in the valley. The old spillway was 120 feet long. Now it is planned to allow the water to run over the entire length of the dam, making a spillway 400 feet long. The dam is to be lowered four feet for its entire length and the embankment made even stronger to support the decreased weight of water that is to be impounded. The water in the pond will thus be lowered four feet, but its area will be but slightly smaller.

The embankment will be made of earth and covered with stone laid closely together from the bottom of the embankment to the outer edge of the spillway, the water thus falling over the stone. As already stated, the embankment will be strengthened and will be made twenty feet wide at the top, with a two to one slope, which means that for every foot in height the slope will extend out two feet. Railroad embankments are usually made with a one and a half to one slope. This dam the company is confident will withstand all floods that may come in years, and will allow the water to flow over and continue its path without meeting any obstruction.

There are numerous other plans that have been suggested, as everybody has a different theory regarding the solving of the problem. The officials of the company are now consulting with several eminent New York engineers regarding the plans, and hope to begin work in two weeks and have the dam all ready in a month from the start if the weather is favorable.

Owing to over-crowding and bad ventilation, the air of the schoolroom is often close and impure, and teachers and pupils frequently suffer from lung and throat troubles. To all such we would say, try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For coughs, colds, weak lungs and bronchial troubles no other remedy can compare with it. Says A. O. Freed, Superintendent of Schools, Prairie Depot, Ohio: "Having some knowledge of the efficacy of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I have no hesitation in recommending it to all who suffer from coughs, lung troubles, etc." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner of Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

ROBINS MADE PRISONERS

WELL-KNOWN NEW YORK BUSINESS MAN ACCUSED OF OFFENCE.

Mt. Bethel Once More Stirred up Over the Arrest, Because VonBuhren Lives in Style in That Judicial Bailiwick.

Even if Mt. Bethel is quaintly situated over the Watchung moutains, in Somerset county, and is full of prosaic people whose doings are as a rule such as characterize any rural communities, it is now and then the centre of a legal squabble that attracts more than passing attention—for instance the recently celebrated case involving the point whether or not a man may serenade his friend when he joins the benedicts, even when the latter objects. And now comes action involving the good citizenship and humane qualities of a man whose name is well-known in New York business circles.

Last summer, it will be remembered, the game wardens in this section were particularly active in seeking violators of the fish and game laws, and many a man was brought to court and punished. Until a few days ago this summer, however, but a very few instances of this kind were a part of Jersey life; and then came Mt. Bethel to fame again as the point of prosecution.

George VonBuhren is a German who lives within the judicial bailiwick of Mt. Bethel. During the day he is engaged in the glass business at 911 and 913 Baxter street, New York. He does a good business and lives in fine style not far from Mt. Bethel, going back and forth every day.

One day last week Israel D. Ten-Eyck, formerly a resident of this city, but now of Somerville, who combines hotel keeping with the duties of a Deputy State Game Warden, heard that VonBuhren had in possession five robins confined in a cage. This, of course, is a rank violation of the law—framed from a stern realization that the robin is an insectivious bird whose liberty aids growth and the beauty of Nature.

Warden TenEyck started from his hotel one morning bound for VonBuhren's home. He found the robins chirping and hopping about in their cage, craning their necks and blinking their eyes as though they would even part with their red breasts to one more fly o'er the hills and dales of old Somerset.

Straightway Mr. Ten Eyck made his appearance before Justice Austin at Mt. Bethel and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Von Buhren and also one Joseph Del Motti, an employe of the former, as being an accomplice in the offense. The two men had their hearing set down for last Saturday afternoon. Robert Clark, of the law firm of McNabb & Clark, was the State counsel; John Frech, of Somerville, was the counsel for the defendant.

When Mr. Clark arrived at Mt. Bethel Saturday afternoon, prepared to prosecute the robins' captors with vigor, he found that the warrant had been sworn out under the general State laws instead of under the special game and fish laws. He knew that he could not hold the men on such a warrant so he immediately moved for the dismissal of the case. It was granted, and the alleged culprits started for home.

Before they had gone a hundred yards from the Justice's office, however, a constable overhauled them and rearrested them on a warrant drawn in accordance with the game and fish law.

They were arraigned again and Justice Austin held them under bonds of $200 each for a hearing to be held September 11th.

And meanwhile Mt. Bethelites and all lovers of birds await results.

Former Boroughite Dead.

Frank Stone, a former resident of North Plainfield, died at Orange Valley on Friday night or Saturday morning of last week. The body was found lying in an outhouse, and an examination showed that death had probably resulted from heart trouble. The deceased man was well known in this city about ten years ago. He was a hatter, and worked in Perrine's hat shop, on East Front street. He boarded at Boyce's Hotel, and seemed to have no relatives in this vicinity.

County Roads Need Repairing.

Superintendent Fink, of the county roads, has made a tour of inspection of the roads since the last rain, and reports that there is not a mile in the whole Union county system that does not need repairs. Even the roads that have been repaired during the present season are all torn up. The repairs will cost the county many thousands of dollars, and it is doubtful if they can be completed this year.

A Cure for Bilious Colic.

Resource, Screven Co, Ga.—I have been subject to attacks of bilious colic for several years. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy is the only sure relief. It acts like a charm. One dose of it gives relief when all other remedies fail.—G. D. Sharp. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

A RECORD OF GROWTH.

PRAISE AND THANKSGIVING SUNDAY-SCHOOL SERVICE.

Trinity Reformed Church sunday-school Met for the Last Time in the Present Edifice Whose Facilities it Has Outgrown.

The Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed church assembled at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning in the church to enjoy the last session which it will hold in the building before it is remodeled. Superintendent Edward E. Anthony presided. After a few appropriate introductory remarks and the singing of a number of hymns, the superintendent called upon Geo. L. Van Emburgh to say a few words to the school.

Mr. Van Emburgh's remarks, which were followed with much interest, began with a short review of the school's past history. It was organized, the speaker said, on August 11th, 1880, by a successful and devoted Sunday-school worker, Mr. Lindsley, whose recent death was mourned by a host of friends. The other officers associated with Mr. Lindsley in the organization of *the school were D. O. Kilburn, as*sistant superintendent; A. Swalm, secretary; and Frederick M. Van Emburgh, librarian. The last-named officer found plenty to do from the start, as the school was soon after its organization presented with a library of 100 choice books through the liberality of Rev. Dr. West, president of the Board of Domestic Missions. When the work of organization was completed, the membership of the primary department was 50, and of the main school 151, making a total membership of 211. At the present time the membership of the primary class has grown to 173, and that of the main school to 425, making a total membership of 598.

After completing his review of the past, the speaker made reference to the future of the school, and to the duties that were suggested by the contemplated changes. The story of an orphan girl who was taken from the narrow, meagre life of an institution and carried to a home where wealth could gratify her every wish, and there adopted into the family, was full of meaning at this time. When the child asked what she must do to pay for all the kindness shown to her she was told that she must love those who had given her the new home. So it was with the Sunday-school of Trinity church, the speaker said. It is to have a new home given it soon, and it should love the Lord Jesus in whose name the home is given. The Saviour has also prepared for us a heavenly home, the beauty and the glory of which it is beyond the power of any mortal to describe, and all that we are asked to do in return for this beautiful home is to love Him who gives it. Mr. Van Emburgh also admonished the boys against little sins, which, like the weazel, if taken to the breast, will steal away one's life blood.

At the close of Mr. Van Emburgh's remarks, the hymn, "My Soul's Salvation" was sung, and Superintendent E. E. Anthony made a few appropriate references to the history of the school during the last thirteen years, in all of which time he has been its superintendent. The Sunday-school had been a great force to aid in bringing souls into the church, the speaker said. As a member of the Consistory, he had noticed that possibly as many as two-thirds of all who had joined the church in the past ten years had come through the Sunday-school. None will ever forget that Sunday when Evangelist B. Fay Mills was in the city, laboring for souls. A great blessing came on that day. The very windows of heaven seemed to open, and of the large number that gave themselves to Christ, sixty-four where scholars of the school. Mr. Mills did not claim a very large share of the credit for these conversions. It was largely the result of the patient work done Sunday after Sunday by the teachers in this school. They had sown; another came and gathered in the harvest.

The superintendent then spoke regarding the arrangements for the coming Sundays. The school will as*semble every Sunday morning at* 9 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. hall, corner of East Front street and Watchung avenue. The time during which the school is to be shut out of its old assembly room must be looked upon by teachers and scholars as a time for relaxed effort, he said, but it should be a time of unusually hard work, so that the school would be doubly glad to get back into the church again. "And when we do come back to rededicate the new Sunday-school room," the superintendent remarked, before the closing hymn was given out, "let us also rededicate our hearts for service."

It Saved the Croupy Children.

Beaview Va.—We have a splendid sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and our customers coming from far and near, speak of it in the highest terms. Many have said that their children would have died of croup if Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had not been given—Keilam & Ourrem. The 25 and 50 cents sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Merit

is what gives Hood's Sarsaparilla its great popularity, its constantly increasing sales, and enables it to accomplish its wonderful and unequalled cures. The combination, proportion and process used in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla are unknown to other medicines, and make Hood's Sarsaparilla

Peculiar to Itself

It cures a wide range of diseases because of its power as a blood purifier. It acts directly and positively upon the blood, and the blood reaches every nook and corner of the human system. Thus all the nerves, muscles, bones and tissues come under the beneficent influence of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate, 25c.

Fine Machinists' Tools In Stock.

Gasoline and oil stoves of best makes.

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our high grade hardy Nursery Stock. Many new specialties offered this year for the first time, as well as the standard varieties of fruit and ornamentals. No previous experience necessary. Write for terms, stating age, etc.

Hooper, Bro. & Thomson, Maple Avenue Nurseries, West Chester, Pa.

Trusses!

Rupture!

Trusses!

Dr. Marsler has opened a branch office at No. 128 West Second street, corner Central avenue, Plainfield, for the treatment of rupture. 20 years experience and the most modern appliances warrants satisfactory results. No occasion to go to New York for cases, no one better at home. Irreducible, difficult and complicated cases solicited. The treatment of rupture, whether recent or chronic, must properly belongs to a surgeon of long experience in that particular line. No charge for examination or advice. Hours 9-12 a. m. 1-4 p. m. and evenings

UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES of AMERICA

Rev. L. D. HASS, D. D., Manager.

Pittsburg, Pa.; Toronto, Canada; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y.; Washington, D. C.; San Francisco, Cal.; Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo. and Denver, Colorado.

There are thousands of positions to be filled within the next few months.

Address all applicants to nearest TEACHERS' AGENCIES, Hailsboro, Pa. 6m

NOT KNOWN TO UNCLE SAM.

Lincoln a Famed Town Before It Even Has a Postoffice.

As strange as it may seem, Lincoln is possessed of a Common Council with women members that has attracted widespread attention before it has attained the dignity of becoming known on the books of Uncle Sam's postal department. Most of the Lincolnites received their mail at Bonebrook, but every day it is expected that the postoffice of Lincoln will be established by the Postmaster General. A petition, signed by all the residents in that section, has been sent to that official, asking that the office be established and that Mrs. Alvira Hazard, one of the Councilwomen, be appointed postmistress.

One Exciting Race.

There was the usual attendance at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Saturday afternoon, but several of the fast horses failed to put in an appearance and the proposed matches had to go over until another day. One exciting race between J. W. Johnson's "Lola," and Douglass Darby's "Sunday," resulted in two straight heats for Johnson horse in 2:33 and 2:29. One of the pneumatic tires on Mr. Johnson's sulkey was punctured before the match and went off with a loud noise. Another wheel was soon substituted.

Seton Hall Scholarships Awarded.

The three free scholarships in Seton Hall College recently offered by Dr. Joseph J. Synnott, President of Seton *Hall College, South Orange, to paro*chial school pupils in the diocese of Newark, have been awarded to Frank Maguire and Edward R. Hoppen, of St. Patrick's School, Elizabethport. Fifty-five boys competed. The winners will be boarded at Seton Hall free of charge for seven years.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS,

VEGETABLES,

FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free. Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable,

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

To buy only cheap grades of Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I manufacture my own work and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the purchaser, of the commission generally charged by agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, and feel sure of my ability to do the largest portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe in warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law.

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Office Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

SAVED

After years of suffering. It has at last been proven beyond a doubt that

NASALENE

Is a positive remedy for local diseases which are the result of cold and climatic changes. Cold in the Head. Hay Fever.

CATARRH

Deafness, (caused by catarrh), are instantly relieved.

It is pleasant to use, convenient to carry. Price 50c. and $1. at all druggists.

O. T. SAGE, Warden of Sing Sing, says: "Nasalene is very beneficial."

HUNTER MEDICAL CO.,
54 E. 21st Street, N. Y.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Diseases and Nervous Diseases. They purify the Blood and give Healthy action to the entire system.

Cure DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in its section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

Corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

Between Watchung and Park avenues.

First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 234 W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, between Madison avenue and Sherman, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 303 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 9jly3

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

E. B. MAYNARD.

PRACTICAL

BARBER AND

HAIR DRESSER.

204 PARK AVE.

Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed. 11fly1

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

Beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & CO., 361 Broadway, New York.

What a Lot of Eggs the hens lay when fed a Green Cut Bone. With a dozen hens

Mann's

Green Bone

Cutter

will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 BUYS ONE. Sent on trial. 180 highest awards received. Catalogue free if you name this paper. F. W. MANN CO., Milford, Mass.

1 2 3 4 5 9 10 11 12—7 mos.

FEATHERED FRIEND.

SOME ERRONEOUS IDEAS REGARDING THE OSTRICH CORRECTED.

One Egg Equal to Eighteen of an Ordinary Fowl's—Forty Minutes Required to Boil Hard—Food Tossed in a Sack in the Neck Before It Is Swallowed.

The ostrich has been observed with interest from very early times; it has frequently been the subject of remark by African travelers; and it has been domesticated and reared in the Cape Colony for some thirty years. Yet it is remarkable how little is known about it in scientific circles, and how many misconceptions still prevail as to its nature and habits.

This article is founded on personal observations made during nine years of uninterrupted ostrich farming in the Karroo of the Cape Colony, and during travels about the country generally.

The ostrich hen lays every day, and the egg weighs about three pounds; it is a tasty and nutritious food, however prepared, very rich and excellent for making pastry and cakes. The soup is that of a fairly large one exactly held the contents of eighteen fowls' eggs. It takes about forty minutes to boil an ostrich egg hard. The period of incubation is about six weeks.

The old idea that an ostrich can only leap over a very low fence, or across but the narrowest sluit (gully), is incorrect. The birds will, when startled (never deliberately), sometimes go over a six-strand wire fence nearly five feet high, putting one foot on one of the middle wires, and striding over with the other.

Considerable misconception prevails as to the manner in which the ostrich runs. When a bird really settles itself to run it holds its head lower than usual, and a little forward, with a deep loop in the neck. The neck vibrates sinuously, but the head remains steady, thus enabling the bird, even at top speed, to look around with unshaken guidance in any direction. The wings lie along the sides about on a level with or a little higher than the back, and are held loosely just free of the plunging "thigh." There is no attempt to hold them extended, or to derive any assistance from them as organs of flight.

Even as a chick the ostrich is a powerful swimmer. I have known several birds to swim some distance down the Great Fish River when it was running fairly strong.

The ostrich feeds in a peculiar manner. It tosses the food into a sack in the upper part of the neck, and then swallows it. I have seen a bird toss fully a quart of mealies (Indian corn) into this sack before swallowing; and it is no common thing to see two "swallows" traveling down the neck at the same time with a clear interval between them; or to see one of them (if large) loose food, e. g., grain) slide back into the sack after being swallowed, if the bird lowers its head to continue feeding before the food has traveled some considerable distance down the neck. The food travels slowly and performs a complete circuit of the neck before reaching the crop. Crushed bones are greedily eaten; if too large a piece should stick in the neck, it is a simple matter to cut it out and sew the wound up again.

As the breeding season approaches a cock and hen will pair, and, having selected a site congenial to their inclinations, proceed to make a nest.

The nest is simply a hollow depression, more or less deep according to the nature of the soil. It is made by the pair together. The cock goes down on his breast, scraping or kicking the sand out backward with his feet, cutting the earth with his long and powerful nails. The hen stands by, often fluttering and clicking her wings, and helps by picking up the sand with her beak and dropping it irregularly near the edge of the growing depression.

When satisfied with their work and they are easily satisfied, often too easily) the hen begins to lay an egg in the nest every day. During the laying period the nest is often unattended, and is not slept on at night. A nest in which one hen is laying contains on the average about fifteen eggs; but she often begins to sit before she has laid her full complement. Some times she will lay four or five after beginning to sit, though not often so many. The incubating period begins the sitting; she will occasionally sit for one or two days and nights before the cock takes his turn. When sitting assumes its regular course, the hen sits from 8 or 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., and the cock from 4 p. m. to about 8 or 9 a. m. The bird whose turn it is to be on the nest keeps its seat until the other arrives to relieve it, when they at once change places.

The color of each is admirably adapted to the time spent on the nest, and furnishes interesting examples of protective coloration. It is scarcely possible to conceive a more effective disguise than the dull brownish gray of the hen for day sitting, and the black of the cock for night.—S. C. C. Schreiner, in Zoölogist.

As It Looked to Him.

People who have seen cottonwood warp when it came from the saw can appreciate a story Gene Ware tells about the first sawmill erected at Fort Scott. After the first day's sawing the owner of the mill came down from town, where he had been celebrating the "opening" with the boys. He looked over the crooked boards scattered about the yard for a moment, and then inquired with drunken gravity:

"Boysh (hic), has that lumber been measured yet?"

"It has not," replied the foreman of the mill.

"Well, when it gets still, take a (hic) corkscrew and measure it."—Kansas City Journal.

CRANKS' COLUMN.

Suggestions that Emanate from Fans of Bicycle Riders.

A department store in New York recently advertised Columbias, '96 model at $50 in quantities to suit.

The pedal mount is graceful, but it is hard on the spokes and tires, and the step mount is preferable for that reason.

New York has followed the lead of other states and prohibited wheelmen carrying children on their bicycles. It is a dangerous habit that should be stopped everywhere.

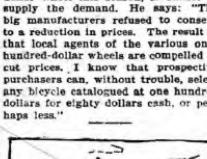
Niagara is the first county in New York to adopt a bicycle tax. The new side-path law went into effect April 2 It taxes bicycles fifty cents annually

Russia refuses to allow wheelmen to form a league, such as we have in this country. The czar and his advisers are suspicious of all leagues, believing that they will eventually be used to promote political conspiracy.

The chainless bicycle, which was expected to cut a big figure on the market this season, and in a measure revolutionize riding, has not yet materialized. A few chainless wheels have been put out, but the demand for them must be small, as only an occasional rider is found using them. It is known that some of the leading manufacturers are now at work upon the chainless type, but it is not their intention to put this pattern of wheel upon the market before '98.

It is noted that when Zimmerman outraced all comers, 66 was the accepted gear. From this the gear was gradually raised, until now the ordinary road rider must have 70, and racers are satisfied with nothing less than 86. As usual, the wheelmen are running to extremes, as they did in the matters of light wheels, drop handle bars, road racing and scorching. There will be a reaction. A bicycle for all around use is spoiled by too high gear, and cyclists will come to this conclusion eventually.

The attempts of the big manufacturers to maintain a standard scale of prices for high-grade bicycles this season has proved futile. The sale of medium-priced wheels last year served to increase the demand for cheap bicycles. A well-known dealer, in a talk with a New York Sun reporter, stated that his firm, which is handling a fifty-dollar wheel this season, is unable to supply the demand. He says: "The big manufacturers refused to consent to a reduction in prices. The result is that local agents of the various one hundred-dollar wheels are compelled to cut prices. I know that prospective purchasers can, without trouble, select any bicycle catalogued at one hundred dollars for eighty dollars cash, or perhaps less."

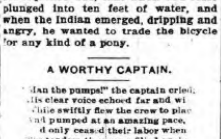


Savage Queen—Well, my cycling costum may not be exactly de rigueur, but there's one thing ah ut it—I don't have to wear any mud-guards when I wear it!

Lo, the poor Indian, does not take readily to the new; and while we have Indian horsemen, foot-runners, baseball, lacrosse, golf and polo players, the Indian bicycle expert has yet to make his appearance. In North Dakota the other day, an ambitious redman traded a horse for a bicycle, and immediately set about learning to ride. He had the usual experience of beginners, and plowed up the prairie a half dozen times with his face, but finally he got the machine under way, to his great delight. He did not notice, however, that he was going down grade on the road to the river, and when this fact became apparent, he had lost all control of the wheel. The consequence was, that wheel and rider plunged into ten feet of water, and when the Indian emerged, dripping and angry, he wanted to trade the bicycle for any kind of a pony.

A WORTHY CAPTAIN.

Man the pumps!" the captain cried,
His clear voice echoed far and wi
Idie swiftly flew the crew to plac
And pumped in an amazing pace,
It only ceased their labor when
The tandem tires were filled again.



She—Why does that piano seat first high and then low, when Miss Wilson plays it?

He—Well, you see, she is learning to ride a wheel and uses both pedals from force of habit.

HOME LIFE OF PATTI.

CRAIG-Y-NOS AND ALL ITS WONDERFUL ATTRACTIONS.

The Regular Routine of the Every Day Life of the Great Diva—How She Entertains Her Guests—The Love She Inspires from Servants.

Patti's beautiful castle, with its sixty-five rooms, is situated in a picturesque spot among the Welsh mountains, South Wales. It has been brought to a state of perfection, and so far as earthly possessions go is all one could desire.

The outside attractions are no less perfect, with gardens, conservatories and hothouses, where one can pick strawberries, a pear or a bunch of grapes any day in the year; the stables, with superb horses and carriages; the dog kennels, with the rarest breeds in the canine world; the beautiful lake, with its rowboats, and the fishing stream, where Nicolini enjoys keenest sport.

The regular routine of the home life of the great diva is so well ordered that it is rarely varied. She never drives on Sunday, believing that the coachmen and the fabliemen should have a day with their families to rest or attend one of two churches—English and Welsh, supported by her.

Patti entertains her guests royally. From the moment one leaves the station in London it seems as if the thoughtfulness and power of Patti are in evidence. On reaching Neath, twenty miles from the castle, a transfer is made from the main line to a narrow gauge road. A telegram has notified the officials that her guests are expected, and every employe becomes obsequious at once. On reaching Penwyll station, carriages and liveried coachmen and footmen are in waiting, and the beautiful drive of three miles begins, winding up and toward the castle, through magnificent scenery.

On each side of the main entrance are stationed ten men in livery—the upper house servants. Passing through this line into the spacious hall, the guests are most cordially received by Mme. Patti.

If the arrival is at 5 o'clock, as it is usually arranged to be, tea is immediately served in the summer garden, which is a beautiful room, inclosed in glass, encircled with flowers and palms, and which adjoins the conservatories.

An automatic piano plays during the service of this dainty repast. The guests are then at liberty to enjoy themselves to their liking till the dinner hour at 8 o'clock, when every one appears in full dress. Patti is always magnificently attired, and sparkling with gems. Only on state occasions is dinner served in the elegantly appointed dining-room. Patti generally prefers the summer garden, with its flowers and birds.

After this sumptuous meal every one goes to the music-room. Here the largest automatic orchestral instrument in the world plays all the operas in which Patti has sung. Oftentimes Nicolini plays on one of his priceless violins or some visiting artist contributes to the musical hour. On rare occasions Patti's divine voice is heard in some simple melody. She is especially fond of negro songs, and when she sings "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground" every eye is suffused with tears.

At 12 o'clock Patti gives the signal for retiring, and on reaching her room touches a bell, which notifies all the servants that they are to retire, and only the watchman is thereafter alert.

In every corridor a maid is stationed to obey the slightest wish of the guests. Before retiring she asks the visitors when and how their light breakfast shall be served. The menu includes every luxury, and one's meal can be ordered the same as when in a hotel.

Patti attends to her voluminous correspondence in the early morning, not appearing till the regular breakfast hour—1 o'clock—when a rare and delicate feast is spread.

Perfect liberty of enjoyment is accorded to every visitor, driving, rowing, tennis, billiards and bowling being among the recreations enjoyed. If one tires of looking at the pheasants, which are one of the hobbies of Nicolini, there is a room full of all kinds of birds—parrots who talk and sing with almost human intelligence; mocking birds, magpies and numberless canaries. Here Patti's divine voice may be heard singing some exquisite arias, which the birds try to imitate.

Whenever Patti goes out, the peasants, who fairly worship her, fall on their knees in homage, so conscious are they of the blessings scattered by her bountiful hand.

Twice every year Patti gives two concerts, one at Neath, the other at Swansea, for the benefit of charity, and always several thousand dollars are raised. All the artists who assist, sometimes twenty-five in number, are invited from London at Patti's own expense, and entertained royally at the castle. On their departure each artist is presented with some costly trinket, which is probably a souvenir of one of the most delightful experiences in life.

At the Boarding House.

First Westerner—"Pete allus was an inquisitive cuss."

Second Westerner—"Allus! I knowed him to drink a glass o' plain sody water jest to find out what it was like."—Puck.

A Passion for Investigation.

Bowie Knife Ben (almost in tears)—An' ter think that me, who carved Grizzly George all ter pieces, an' he wux the toughest nut in Bloody Gulch, should meet me match in a measly little chicken!—New York Journal.

LIKE SPARROWS AND RAVENS.

A Kansas City Sect That Gets All It Wants from God.

The Kansas City Times tells of a colony of fifty people out on Eleventh street and Troost avenue of that city, known as the Gospel Union. The head of the colony is Mr. Perry, formerly cashier of a bank in Abilene, Kan. The colony lives on faith. That is, they pray for what they want, and it always comes. Mr. Perry said to the reporter:

"We really depend on the Lord for all that we eat, drink and wear. We never know on one day just what we are going to have on the next, for we are certain that He will provide."

"You have plenty to eat, then?"

"We have more of all that we need to sustain life, but we have a great many little extras that make it pleasant. Of course we live plainly. We should do that even if we had plenty of money at our command. Some time ago a report got about that seemed to convey the impression that about all we have on our table is bread and apples. This is not true by any means. Understand me, we should not complain at all if we were compelled to subsist on bread and apples, nor, indeed, if we were left without food. The only reason, therefore, that we have for objecting to such statements is that the Lord has provided for us, and we wish to acknowledge it and give Him credit for it."

"All your contributions are voluntary?"

"Entirely so. They all come from people who believe we are doing the Lord's work, and who are prompted by Him to help us. We never take up any collections, nor ask for any donations."

"Does the money always come when you need it?"

"Yes, and what may seem strange to you, it always comes in the amounts we need. I remember one time, some time ago, I received $12. Our gas bill was due. That was $8.35. I paid it and had $3.15 left. Our water bill was due on the same day, but I did not know the amount of it. I put the $3.15 in an envelope for the purpose of paying at least a part of the water bill. When I went down to pay the water bill, what do you suppose the amount of it was? Exactly $3.15. You see, we had received exactly the money we needed for that day and no more."

"That was certainly an odd coincidence."

"There was no coincidence about it," said Mr. Perry; "the Lord knew how much we needed, even though I did not, and He sent it to us."

"Are any of the time one of our missionaries in a foreign country had spent everything he had with the exception of 5 cents. Dinner time came, and he had nothing with which to buy food. His faith remained, however. Presently a knock came to the door. A house with a letter which he had neglected to deliver when he had been to the house earlier in the day. That letter contained the remittance which the minister so sadly needed."

CHURCH TRUST IN NEW ORLEANS.

Ten Negro Organizations Give Up Their Affairs to a Church Debt Co.

New Orleans has developed a church trust. Ten colored churches of different denominations have organized so as to reduce their indebtedness, and have given themselves up in the hands of a company styling itself "The Church Debt Liquidating Company," which promises to relieve them in whole or in part from the debt with which they as well as the white churches are weighted down. The Church Debt Liquidating Company is regularly organized, the business cards of the concern announcing that M. C. Higgy is President, William C. Preston, Secretary, and Frank W. Smith, Treasurer. The company will take hold of any church debt and undertake to reduce it or wipe it out.

It began work at Spanish fort with a festival and congress of nations given under the auspices of the Free American Colonists and Charities of New Orleans, and managed by the Church Debt Liquidating Company. The entertainment continued five nights, and the financial results indicate that the company will be able to materially reduce the indebtedness of churches connected. When it is through with this work, it will take hold of another batch of churches and undertake to free them also from debt.

ASKED TO BE BURIED ALIVE.

A Russian Sect that Believes in Salvation by Suffocation.

Details have been received in London and cabled to this country from Odessa of the self-immolation of a number of the fanatical followers of Kaskolniki, a report of which was first received weeks ago. More than twenty-four bodies of persons who were buried alive have been recovered from a series of pits near Tirespol. The sect is a survival of the old dissenters, who were persecuted in Russia for two centuries. Their treatment recently aroused Tolstoi's sympathies, when thousands of them were knouted by the State. The result was that they became fiercely fanatical, and invented a doctrine of salvation by martyrdom. They are now practicing self-immolation.

Six bodies were accidentally discovered on the premises of Feodore Kovshoff, who confessed that he had walled up in his cellar nine living persons, including his wife and two young children. He declared that these he had buried the other six, while they were still alive, in a specially excavated pit eight feet deep.

In an adjoining garden, belonging to Mariwel Sokula, four bodies were discovered in a pit. Sokula says that all of them were buried alive at their own request.

LOVE CHANGES FAITH

DAUGHTER OF EX-SECRETARY BELKNAP RENOUNCES CHRISTIANITY.

Just to Marry Paul May, Who Is a Jew, Miss Belknap Gives Up Her Faith in the Divinity of Christ and Discards the New Testament.

That jolly little God of Love who laughs at locksmiths and knows not the meaning of obstacles has just won another victory. For eighteen months he has been actively engaged in superintending a love story. The complications have been many, and Cupid has been at his wit's end more than once but he has won at last, and before long Miss Belknap, daughter of the ex-Secretary of War, will become the wife of Paul May, who a year ago, was the attache of the Belgian Legation in Washington.

Both families objected to this wedding. The Belknaps because of young May's religion, he being a Hebrew.

Through the influence of his mother, Paul May was sent to Japan as a member of the Belgian Legation in that country. He was to remain there a year, with the hope that time and distance might make him forget the girl of his heart. That was what Mrs. May hoped for, but now what Cupid intended. Now that the period of probation is over. Young May is coming back to Washington and Miss Belknap has announced to Society and the world at large that she will renounce her religion and become a Jewess.

MISS BELKNAP.

To do this much preparation is necessary. She must go before three Rabbis, who will thoroughly explain to her the tenets of the Jewish religion. She must give up her faith in the Divinity of Christ and discard the New Testament, and she must submit to the bath of purification. This bath is taken in pure water in a specified place. The bather has a garment wrapped around her and two Jewish women as assistants.

As there is no synagogue in Washington, Miss Belknap and Mr. May will be married in New York.

Miss Belknap is about twenty years old, and is handsome and accomplished. She has spent much of her time abroad. In Washington, where she makes her home, she is and has always been a great society favorite. She has had many admirers, and more than once there have been rumors of engagements.

It was a case of love at first sight between Miss Belknap and Mr. May, and they would have been married long ago but for the opposition of the parents.

Sherman's First Meeting with Lincoln.

Secretary Sherman says he never will forget his first meeting with a President. It was shortly after Lincoln's inauguration, and he attended a public reception, fell into line, and waited an hour or two for a chance to shake hands with the great emancipator. "During this time," says Mr. Sherman, "I was wondering what I from the post reached to see that the contestants abided by the decision of the military court. There is no other would say when I met at last the fame my turn to be presented. Lincoln looked at me a moment, extended his hand, and said: 'You're a pretty tall fellow, aren't you?' and up here with me, back to back, and let's see which is the taller.'

"In another moment I was standing back to back with the greatest man of his age. Naturally I was quite abashed by this unexpected evidence of democracy.

"'You're from the West, aren't you?' inquired Lincoln.

"'My home is in Ohio,' I replied.

"'I thought so,' he said; 'that's the kind of men they raise out there.'"

IS IT WORTH WHILE?

Is it worth while that we battle to humble
Bearing his load on the rough road of life?
Is it worth while that we jeer at each other,
Is it worth while that we lose at each other,
In blackness of heart that we war to the knife?

God pity us all in our pitiful strife.

God pity us all as we fight each other;
God pardon us all for the triumph we feel
When a fellow goes down 'neath his load on the road,
Pierced to the heart. Words are keener than steel,
And mightier far for woe than weal.
Were it not well in this brief little journey,
On over the intervals, down into the tide,
If we give him a lift instead of a surgeon,
Ere folding the hands to be and abide
Forever and aye in dust at his side?

Look at those rowers, each striving for each other,
Look at the hands all at peace on the plain—
Man, man only, makes war on his brother,
And laughs in his heart at his peril and pain,
Shamed by the beasts that go down on the plain.

Is it worth while that we battle to humble
Some poor fellow mortal down into the dust?

God pity us all! Time oft soon will tumble
All of us together, like leaves in a gust.
Stumbled, fallen all, down into the dust.

—Joaquin Miller, in Christian at Work.

"NOTHING TO ARBITRATE."

President De Armitt Proposes Other Remedies for Coal Miners.

On the side of the mine owners is the recent unpleasantness, the chief obstacle seemed to be Mr. De Armitt of the Pittsburg coal district, president of the company which includes the Carnegie and Frick coal interests. Mr. De Armitt stoutly declared that arbitration was an impossibility, and that so far as his company was concerned there was nothing to arbitrate. Mr. De Armitt's miners had not joined in the strike, and they were employed under a contract differing considerably from the forms that generally prevails in the mining districts. Mr. De Armitt bluntly declared that the worst evils involved in the coal-mining controversy were caused by the dishonest methods of many mine owners, who use false weights and false screens in paying their men, and who also employ their stores to trade at company stores—these stores being run upon a plan which makes the miner's real wages considerably less than his nominal pay. Mr. De Armitt's plan of company stores, on the other hand, claims that it pays its men in cash, allowing them to trade where they like. Mr. De Armitt at length proposed that if 97 per cent. of the operators in the Pittsburg district would sign an agreement to abolish company stores and to adopt a uniform and honorable system of weighing and screening, the path would be cleared for arbitration with the striking miners. This proposition was at first considered unreasonable because impossible; but the assemblage of Ohio commissioners of arbitration were disposed to take a more hopeful view, and the effort was at once entered upon to secure the necessary signatures.

WILLIAM DE ARMITT.

CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE.

They Patrol the New Gold Diggings and Try to Preserve Order.

Canadian mounted police are protecting the property of Americans in the Klondyke region. The force along the Yukon has become the court for the hearing of grievances and the power to enforce its own decrees after the cases have been heard. A few weeks ago a lot of miners got into a quarrel over a claim. The mine had been left in charge of a substitute while the owners made a trip back to civilization. A crowd marched upon the substitute and drove him from the field. He hastened to the post of the mounted police and told his story. The claim was at least thirty miles inside the American line, but the soldiers made the journey and demanded the contestants appear before them with their cases. The substitute went, and from the post reached to see that the contestants abided by the decision of the military court. There is no other recognized authority in the valley but that of the soldiers, and they have apparently ruled with justice. The mounted police, which patrols the great northwest territory, numbers about 1,000 men. It is a semi-military organization. The men are all provided with two sets of uniforms, the fur garments for the terrible winters, and showy English uniforms for the summer. It appears that the soldiers have undisputed authority in the Klondyke, and their decisions are the law. The dispatch says they are frequently called into service in territory which is clearly American. They have been the only check to lawlessness in the region.

CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE.

MISUNDERSTOOD.

She—How is Holden to-day, Mr. Smith?

He—Oh, she's standing.

She—I think it's awfully mean to make her work when she has been so ill.

AN IDEAL.

Layin' in de sunshine wif a wrinkle in his ear
He jes' waits fob to-morrow wif a mind dat's free
He don't hab ter use hyp-crisy ter gain his
He don't 'pend ingratiul at de settin' ob de sun.
Almost de heaps o' flags dat he laid out an'
sole
He neber had no doubts 'bout how he'll break-
fus, dine or supe.
An' yet he lain' lazin but a no-count yaller pup.

When I beholds de carriage-folks wif all dah clothes
I doesn't go ter sighin' an' a-wishin' day was mine.
I knows dat cood old mule is safe ter drive
from day ter day;
An' de fine clothes mightn't fit me 'f I had
'em, I say.
Dese folks wif so much wealth, don't git a chance ter rest at all;
Case it's a'mighty keep 'em settin' up o'
nights a-countin' it.
It's fly sense, when I hab summed de situation
Dat darain' no one I envies but dat no-'count
Yaller, up. —The Washington Star.

AN ATTACHMENT.

Daniel Rhodes was the High Sheriff of ——— County, Massachusetts, and his good name, inherited from the father and cherished by the son, made him not only popular as an officer, but rather wealthy as a man. Why Mr. Rhodes had never got married, the ladies could not ascertain, though they talked the matter over and over very often, but almost all said there must have been some cause in his youth. (Mr. Rhodes was thirty-five at least), which was known only to himself, and perhaps one other.

One morning Mr. Rhodes was sitting in his office, when one of the deputies read off a list of executions and attachments, which he had in hand to serve, and among them was one against a lady at a distant place. The amount was not great, but enough to bring distress upon a family.

"Let me take that," said the sheriff, with some feeling; "it is out of your walk, and I will drive to the residence of the person this morning."

The modest vehicle of the officer stopped at the door of a neat dwelling house in a retired, delightful situation, where all things told of taste and economy. The sheriff opened the gate, ascended the steps of the house, and asked if Mrs. Morgan was at home.

The servant answered in the affirmative.

As Mr. Rhodes passed along the hall, he thought over the part he had to perform—how he should introduce the subject—that the debt should prove to be enormous, he should contrive to lighten the burden by his own abilities; and when he reached the door, he had conned his salutation to the lady, and his opening speech on the subject of his official call.

The servant opened the door—Mr. Rhodes entered with a bow. He blushed, hesitated, and at length took a seat, to which Miss Morgan directed him by a graceful turn of her hand.

After a few moments' hesitancy Mr. Rhodes felt that it was his business to open a conversation that would explain the subject of his visit; so he offered, by way of preface, a few remarks upon the coldness of spring.

"Yes," said Miss Morgan; "but yet, cold as the weather has been and even notwithstanding a few frosts, you see the trees have their richest foliage, and the flowers are luxuriant."

"True," said Mr. Rhodes; "it seems that though there may be a great deal of coldness, the trees will have their own way, and, in time, assert her prerogative, late, perhaps, Miss Morgan, but still the same."

Mr. Rhodes felt rather startled at his own speech, and looking up, was astonished and astounded to see Miss Morgan was blushing like one of the roses that was hanging against the window.

"We are always pleased," said Miss Morgan, "to see what we admire breaking through the chilling influences by which it is restrained, and satisfying our hopes of their ultimate disclosure."

Miss Morgan was looking directly toward the bush on which three roses were clustering in most gorgeous richness.

Mr. Rhodes put his hand into his pocket and felt of the official papers, to get a little courage from their contact.

"I have," said Mr. Rhodes, "an attachment."

Miss Morgan this time lent blushes to the rose.

The attachment, Miss Morgan, is of a distant date, and I felt that too much time already elapsed; that, indeed, instead of incurring it, as I might have done, to another, I thought that in a matter of so much delicacy it would be proper for me to come in person."

"For me, Mr. Rhodes? the attachment for me?"

"As I was saying, Miss Morgan, the attachment I have; and I felt it a matter of delicacy to come in person, thinking that my own means might be considered, if there was any deficiency in the value of this property."

"Mr. Rhodes, you seem to be rather enigmatical."

"Nevertheless," said Mr. R., "mean is speak very plainly when I say that with reference to this attachment, Miss Morgan, should you honor me so far as to accept my profession, my pecuniary means would be devoted to the—to the attachment."

"I was," said Miss Morgan, "wholly unprepared for this."

"I was afraid that was the case," said Mr. Rhodes, "and therefore I thought it more delicate to make the offer in person."

"You are very considerate, Mr. Rhodes."

Am I, then, to understand, Miss Morgan, that my proposition is agreeable to you? In other words, that it is accepted?"

"Mr. Rhodes," said the lady, with much hesitation, "I must claim a little time to think of it."

"I will call, then, on my return from the village beyond."

"Let me ask a little more time," said she; "say next week."

"Miss Morgan," said Mr. Rhodes, "the matter requires immediate answer; the attachment is of an old date, and time now is everything. My feelings are deeply interested; and may I not hope that while you are using so short a time to consider a subject which you are pleased to view as of such great delicacy with regard to yourself, you will allow my feelings to weigh with you in deciding in favor of my proposition, which, I assure you, is made after due deliberation upon my ability to perform my part of the contract."

Mr. Rhodes then took his leave, astonished at his own volubility, which, indeed, nothing could have induced but his desire to relieve one so much esteemed as Miss Morgan from present embarrassment.

Mr. Rhodes drove to a neighboring place deeply occupied with his good purposes toward Miss Morgan, satisfying himself that the pecuniary sacrifice he had proposed was due to his untold and unknown affection for her, and not beyond his means.

Miss Morgan felt a renewal of all those feelings which had rather been dormant than quenched in her bosom, and desired the advice of her married sister, who was unfortunately absent. That Mr. Rhodes had once felt a strong attachment to her she could not doubt; that he had continued to cherish, as she had done, the reciprocal feeling, she had not ventured to hope. But as it was evident that the proposition of Mr. Rhodes was not from any sudden impulse, Miss Morgan resolved to signify her assent to a proposition so worthy of consideration on all accounts.

In less than two hours, Mr. Rhodes drove up to the door again, fastened his horse, and was readmitted to the back parlor, where the lady was occupied in an earlier part of the day.

"Miss Morgan," said Mr. Rhodes, "before receiving your answer, which I trust you are prepared to give in favor of accepting my proposals, I wish to state to you that I have considered all the circumstances of my situation and yours, and find myself better able, and from some previously unconsidered matters, to keep my part of the arrangement, than I thought myself, when I ventured to make the offer; so that the kindness, if you will have that word used in this matter, is all on your side."

"Under present circumstances—I mean those of our long acquaintance and our family intercourse, though of late rather interrupted," said Miss Morgan, "and my right, by years (she added, casting a glance at a looking-glass that showed only the matured womanhood), to speak for myself, I have concluded to consider your proposal favorably."

"Consider! Miss Morgan, consider favorably! May I not hope you mean that you will accept it?"

Miss Morgan gave no answer.

"Nay, then it is accepted," said Mr. Rhodes, with a gravity that Miss Morgan thought would have brought him to her lips—her hand, at least.

"How happy you have made me," said Mr. Rhodes; "having now disposed of this matter, there are ten days allowed."

"That's very short," said Miss Morgan; "only ten days; you seem to be in a haste unusual to you, at least."

"It is the attachment, and not I, that is impersative."

"You speak rather abstractedly, Mr. Rhodes."

"But truly, very truly, Miss Morgan."

"But why limit us to ten days?"

"The attachment requires it."

"I thought," said she, smiling, "the attachment would be for life."

Mr. Rhodes looked exceedingly confused. At length he started suddenly toward the lady.

"My dear Miss Morgan, is it possible that for once in my life, I have blundered into the right path? Can I have been so fortunately misconceived?"

"If there is any mistake," said Miss Morgan, "I hope it will be cleared up immediately. I can scarcely think that Mr. Rhodes would intentionally offend an unprotected orphan, the daughter of his former friend."

Mr. Rhodes hastily pulled from his pocket his writs of attachment and showed it to Miss Morgan.

"This is certainly your name, and this property—"

"Is the disputed possession," said Miss Morgan, "of my step-father, who is no more to me, Mrs. Susan Morgan."

Mr. Rhodes stood confounded. He was afraid of the course which the matter was likely to take.

"So, Mr. Rhodes, you see the attachment was for this property. Now, it is but right, you, of course, have to claim upon my person."

"I beg your pardon, my dear Miss Morgan, I beg your pardon. You have not the property, indeed, for me to attach, but be pleased to stand down on it, if you will see—look on it, if you please—for want thereof take the body."

"But, Mr. Rhodes, the promise was extorted under a misapprehension, so that I am released."

"Not at all; you are required only to fulfil the promise just as you intended when you made it. And as to the attachment for the widow and her property, I'll serve that by deputy."

In ten days the clergyman, and not the magistrate, was called in, and the whole arrangement was consummated.

And Aunt Arabella, who was so careful about the tenth commandment, declared that it said nothing about coveting a neighbor's husband, and if it had, she did not think she should violate it.

OLD-TIME SWEETNESS GONE.

Molasses Is Now Made Into Rum and Brown Sugar Can't Be Bought.

"The old fashioned molasses is rapidly disappearing as an article of commerce," said a prominent, grocer 'and in its place have come a number of syrups, which are more costly and by no means as satisfactory, especially to the little ones, who delight, as we did when we were young, in having 'lasses on their bread. Most of the molasses goes into the distilleries, where it is made into rum, for which, notwithstanding the efforts of our temperance workers, the demand is constantly on the increase, especially in the New England States and for the export trade. The regular drinker of rum will take no other liquors in its place if he can help it. It seems to reach the spot more directly than any other dram. The darker brown sugars have also disappeared, and they are not likely to return, owing to the methods of boiling and the manufacture. Granulated sugar is of the same composition, as far as saccharine qualities are concerned, as loaf, cut loaf cube, and crushed, and differs from them only in that its crystals do not cohere. This is because it is constantly stirred during the process of crystalization. The lighter brown sugars taste sweeter than the white, for the reason that there is some molasses in them. Housekeepers have difficulty these days in finding coarse, dark sugar, which are always preferred, for use in putting up sweet pickles, making cakes, and similar uses. As they cannot get brown sugar any more, it may be well for them to remember that they can simulate brown sugar by adding a teaspoonful of molasses to each quarter of a pound of the white granulated sugar. This combination does as well in all household receipts that call for brown sugar as the article itself, and besides it saves them a great deal of hunting for brown sugar, which as said before, has disappeared from the market."

A FAIR TENNESSEE ARCHITECT.

She Designed the Women's Building of the Nashville Exposition.

Miss Sara Ward Coonley is the architect of the Woman's building of the Tennessee Exposition. She submitted her plans in competition with others, and not only were the committee unanimous in accepting them but the managers of the exposition engaged her to supervise the construction of the building.

MISS SARA WARD COONLEY.

Miss Coonley has studied along the line of architectures in other school girl days, which were not so very long ago, and has besides the art acquired the practical part of supervising construction, selecting materials and engaging labor.

Her attainments are not so difficult to acquire, as may seem to one entirely unacquainted with the profession. The occupation of designing, in its various branches affords a pleasant, lucrative and congenial undertaking for the feminine mind, and in its possibilities offers ample opportunities for the highest aspirations.

The Glorious Redwood.

The redwood, says John Muir in the Atlantic, is the glory of the Coast Range. It extends along the western slope, in a nearly continuous belt ten miles wide, from beyond the Oregon boundary to the south of Santa Cruz, a distance of nearly four hundred miles, and in massive, sustained grandeur and closeness of growth surpasses all the other timber-woods of the world. Trees from ten to fifteen feet in diameter and three hundred feet high are not uncommon, and a few attain a height of three hundred and fifty feet, or even four hundred, with a diameter at the base of fifteen or twenty feet or more, while the ground beneath them is a garden of ferns, pure-blooming lilies, gaultheria and rhododendron.

As timber the redwood is too good to live. The largest sawmills ever built are busy along its seaward border, with all the modern improvements, but so enormous the yield per acre it will be long ere the supply is exhausted. The big tree is also to some extent being made into lumber. Though far less abundant, it is, fortunately, less accessible, extending along the western slope of the Sierra in a partially interrupted belt about two hundred and fifty miles long, at a height of from four to eight thousand feet above the sea. The enormous logs, too heavy to handle, are blasted into manageable dimensions with gunpowder. A large portion of the best timber is thus shattered and destroyed, and, with the huge, knotty tops, is left in ruins for tremendous fires that kill every tree within their range, great and small.

Feminine Ways.

"I don't believe women sit around and say mean things about one another's dress as much as they used to."

"They don't. They ride around and abuse one another's wheels."—Indianapolis Journal.

DEVILFISH AND DYNAMITE.

Fiery Disappeared Together and No One Knows the Outcome of the Alliance.

Ben Connor, who has been employed in the work carried on by Col. C. P. Goodyear is deepening Brunswick Harbor, Georgia, tells a thrilling story of an adventure with an octopus that occurred while they were blasting in the harbor.

"The work was carried on with a mammoth sea harrow," said Ben, "with which the tenacious blue clay at the bottom of the bar was broken up. It is a ponderous affair, and was dragged back and forth along the channel by means of strong cables and a small steam tug, and its weight would sink the steel blades attached to the roller in the sticky conglomerate and tear it up so that the outgoing tide would wash away the loose earth and deepen the channel on the bar.

"In addition to the harrow, dynamite was used in fifty-pound charges, exploded at intervals where the hard shell and coral-like formations would not yield to the harrow. Our method of exploding the charges was very simple. We had a small reel on another tug, around which was coiled a stout cable, and around a windlass was another smaller rope and a wire for exploding the charge.

"The dynamite was fixed for exploding, and placed in an old gunny-sack and carefully lowered over the side, while the tug moved off some fifty yards, and so soon as the dynamite was safe at the bottom and we were at a safe distance away, the button was touched and the charge went off, sending up jets of water quite a hundred feet high, and frequently sending one fish to the top, where they were picked up by the men. But occasionally a charge would fail to explode, and in such an instance we would haul away on the smaller line, and tow the dynamite to the surface, and rearrange the fuse, and drop it overboard for a fresh trial.

"One day we were out near the bar working away, and had got off several charges very successfully. At last we steamed off some distance from where we had been at work and dropped a fifty-pound bundle of the explosive overboard, and after moving off to a safe distance we tried to explode it. But it did not explode, and we began to haul in the rope to which it was attached, to see what was the matter. The men who were tugging at the rope remarked that it must have become entangled in a portion of some old wreck, as it was so hard to tow in. As extra strain was put on the rope to loosen the obstruction, and we redoubled our efforts. Suddenly two great slimy arms came up out of the sea and slapped against the side of the tug, and then another reached out toward the gunwale. At the same time the bundle of dynamite, clutched in the tentacles of a gigantic devil fish, appeared on the surface.

"The men who were tugging at the rope dropped it and tumbled backward in their fright, and it looked for a moment like the devil-fish was going to come on deck or pull the entire tackle into the sea with him. His great baleful eyes gleamed angrily as he came up to the top and his slimy arms were writhing and tossing on the waves, and you never saw a lot of dynamiters as badly frightened as we.

"'Touch off the charge!' shouted the engineer. But that was not practicable, as it had already failed to explode, and, besides, it might have endangered the vessel. One of the members grabbed an axe and aimed a blow at the exposed tentacle which was writhing along the side of the tug, but his aim was bad and he struck the rope instead, and the monster slowly sank out of sight with the big charge of dynamite still clasped in his ugly arms.

"I would have given $50 to have been able to touch off that charge of dynamite. I would have enjoyed seeing the look of astonishment in the defiant eyes of that hideous devil-fish as he was being blown to atoms. But as it was we had to give it up and allow the old villain to wriggle back to his slimy lair with a valuable bundle of high explosive on which to test his digestive apparatus, and I don't know what was the ultimate result, but I rather suspect that the devil-fish died of appendicites, as we were not troubled with a similar visitation during the progress of the work.

HOT STUFF.

Press me closer, all my own!
Warms my heart for thee alone.
Every nerve responsive thrills,
Each caress my soul fulfils.
Rest and peace in vain I crave,
In ecstasy I live, thy slave.
Devoted with each promise blest,
Thou dost reign upon my breast.
Closer still, for I am thine,
Burns my heart, for thou art mine.
Thou the message, I the wire—
The furnace, thou the fire—
I the servant, thou the master.
Roaring, red-hot mustard plaster.
—Green Bay Advocate.

DEFICIENT IN FRENCH.

"By gum! These city people has got to advertising their virtues!"

THE LEAD PENCIL.

If my wife has a failure it is lack of reverence. She doesn't recognize those property rights which should inhere to the personal belongings of a husband.

I think that I was mildly reprimanding her at the time for mislaying the gimlet. I'm the most particular fellow you ever saw about keeping everything in its place.

It isn't alone gimlets, it is hammers and screw-drivers, and knives, and Lord knows what all. Why, she has even tampered with my razors!

Well, now that you understand my wife's failing—I'll admit it's her greatest one—I'll go on with the story with which it is connected.

One day last July, Jim Outhwick came into the station just as I was closing up to go to supper. Jim is the paymaster at the Vulcan mills, and a right good fellow.

"Got time?" he says; "all alone?"

"Yes," I said; "what's up?"

He flung a canvas grip on the table and said,—

"I must go down the road to-night to Ashville. There's talk of a strike among the miners, and I've got to be back at the mills by morning. I'm to offer to pay off the disaffected ones and make a big show of money. That's a bluff that generally goes. The boys'll make up their minds the company can't be scared, and they'll get into line again. There's twenty-six thousand dollars in that bag, Joe."

I looked at the bag on the table and looked at Jim.

"What do you bring it here for?" I said.

"That's easily explained," he answered. "I got word to start for Ashville just half an hour ago. The money was made up in a hurry and I didn't have time to go home. I couldn't very well stay at the mill, and I wouldn't go to the tavern. So I just thought I'd come down here and get you to stay with me until the night freight comes along. She's due at nine-thirty, isn't she?"

"Nine-thirty-five," I answered. "But I'm just off for supper."

"Oh, that's all right," he said. "I feel safe enough here. I'm armed to the teeth, you know, and there wouldn't be any danger until after dark. But you'll come back and keep me company, won't you?"

"I will if Minnie lets me off," I said. "I'm booked for cribbage with her after supper."

"You tell Minnie I'll bring her the prettiest cribbage board in Ashville if she'll lend you for a couple of hours," laughed Jim.

He took a stout old safe in the corner of the office that had nothing in it but blank way bills and reports. I unlocked it and tossed the canvas bag inside.

"There," I said, as I thrust my bunch of keys in my sack coat pocket, "that makes it a little safer."

I thought Jim looked a bit dubious over this precaution, but he laughed and said: "All right, my boy. I'll make myself comfortable until you get back."

Minnie didn't want me to go out one bit, but I told her Jim counted on me. I didn't say a word about the money, however; I knew it would worry her, and, to tell the truth, it worried me a little. I was sorry Jim brought it there, and I didn't like his talk about precautions.

Well, after supper I went out to see if the dog was all right—I've got the finest mastiff in the state—and when I got back Minnie called to me from the sitting-room,—

"Just a minute, Joe; I'm writing a note for Hattie."

Hattie is the wife of the telegraph operator, and I knew that Minnie wanted me to leave it at the house where he could get it in the morning. It was quite a number of minutes, however, before she came out with the note, and my vest and coat. It was so warm I had left them off before supper.

"Hadn't you better let the dog go with you, Joe?" she asked, as she helped me with my coat.

"No, no," I said, laughing, "he'll stay home and take care of you. I'll put the lamp in the window, though, so you'll know I'm all right." That was a great joke of ours, but Minnie didn't laugh as she usually did.

"Mind, she said, "I'll watch for it, and if it isn't there, I'll come down after you."

I'm station master at Y———. Our road is what's called the old line and travel on it is light, mostly freight. One of the stations is unassorted, there being no business for either telegraph operator or ticket agent. This leaves the station practically deserted after sundown. It is only a few minutes' walk home, however, and I feel that it's under my eye all the time. I thought of this as I walked back to the station and I didn't like the idea of all that money being about.

I found Jim with his heels on the desk, puffing away at a good cigar.

"Not an alarm," he said, in his jokeing way. "Not even a mouse."

We chatted away for an hour or more, when Jim suddenly put down his cigar and yawned heavily.

"Joe," he said, "if you don't mind I'll go out and take a little stroll."

"Go ahead," I said, "but mind you're not gone long."

After Jim stepped out I was sorry I let him go. The thought of being alone with all that money was disquieting. I followed him to the door and looked out. It was a bright night and I saw Jim slip around the corner. I knew he was after a drink. That was Jim's failing. That and gambling.

I went back and sat down. The more I thought about that money the more I didn't like the idea. What business had Jim to go away and leave all the responsibility with me. Of course, he didn't leave it all with me, but he left altogether too big a share. As I sat there grumbling a low tap on the window overlooking the platform attracted my attention. I looked up. The side of the building was in the shadow, but I could see a man's face against the pane.

"Joe," said somebody outside. I supposed it to be one of the section hands and stepped across the room.

"What is it?" I called.

"Open the window, Joe," said the voice.

I pushed it up a little.

"Is that you, Jerry?" I called.

There was no response. I put my head through the opening and looked up and down the line. Nobody was in sight. Just then I heard a slight noise behind me. I drew in my head. Something seemed to crash into my brain. Then all was dark.

When I came to I was tied in my chair, my head was sore and wet, and two men with strips of black cloth across their faces were looking down at me.

"Life's all right," said the shorter man. The tall man nodded.

"Get the keys," he said in a queer, hoarse voice.

The shorter man felt in my pockets.

"Not here!" he cried.

"They must be," said the tall man, in his hoarse voice.

"I tell you they are not. Bring the lamp."

The tall man took the lamp from the window ledge and came closer to me. But their search was in vain. The tall man placed the lamp on the table, while the other man put a revolver to my ear.

"Come!" he said, "where are those keys?"

My head was beginning to clear a little. I saw it all. My wife had taken the keys from my pocket because it was her way, and because she thought I had no further use for them all morning.

"He must have left the keys at home," said the tall man hurriedly. "Here, give him a sheet of paper and let him write a note to his wife, asking for them. The short man looked up sharply.

"I'll get them," said the tall man.

They pulled the table up to me and spread out a scrap of paper. The short man loosened the rope and let my right hand free. I reached to my vest pocket half blinded and drew out my pencil. Still in a daze I tried to put my wife's name on the sheet. The pencil refused to make a mark. I looked at it. It was dull and horribly haggled about the point. I pride myself on the fine point I put on my pencils. Again I comprehended that my wife had borrowed that very pencil to write the note to the operator's wife. I tried to scribble with the blunted thing.

"Curse you, hurry!" growled the short ruffian.

I showed the pencil point. With an exclamation of anger the short man drew out a heavy-handled knife and swiftly sharpened the pencil. As he passed it back my wandering vision caught by the lamp on the table. Heavens! It was no longer in the window! As this thought struck me I looked towards the ledge and saw there a white, scared face pressed against the pane. It was my wife.

"Write!" growled the short ruffian.

My only thought was to gain time. I knew my wife was there. I knew she would bring help.

I took the pencil in my nerveless fingers. As I did so a low growl sounded in my ear. I caught the eye of the villains, too. The short man dropped his knife on the table and turned towards the door with his revolver extended. The tall man drew himself up against the wall.

"It's only a dog," I heard whisper-ered. "Shoot to kill, Jack."

I saw the door tremble a little, I saw the short villain's arm raised and my fingers closed on the handle of the knife he had just dropped. Then as the door slowly opened I flew back my arm and threw it wildly at the man in front of me. Something yellow flew through the doorway, there was a wild scream, a heavy fall and I lapsed into unconsciousness again.

When I came around I was in bed at home, with Minnie bending over me.

"It's all right, Joe," she murmured, "they've got them both locked up safe and sound and the money is all right and the mill directors have given you one hundred dollars out of it."

"And Jim?" I asked.

"Jim?" she cried. "Why, Jim was the call man. It was all his plot to steal the money and throw the blame on you. He said he'd come to the door—don't scold—they'd have had the money, and if it hadn't been for the lead pencil I dulled—the man you stabbed told the whole story—I wouldn't have got there in time with Hector. The dog almost killed Jim before I could call him away, but I ain't so sorry, because the little man says they would have killed you if you had by any chance suspected Jim's identity."

I reached out and took Minnie's hand.

"That thousand dollars belongs to you, dear," I said brokenly.

"Well," she answered, "if you take it, Joe, you may rest assured I'll borrow a little of it, too."

Then she put her cheek against my hand and laughed.

Then she cried.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Several times during the delivery of his commencement day oration he paused and took a drink of water. His very first words were: "You mean he was very thirsty." "Yes, he was thirsty, too."—Chicago Tribune.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of OLD DR. SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. NEW YORK.

At 6 months old 35 DOSES—35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Genuine Castoria is sold in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." Ask for Box that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

FOUGHT FIRE FOR HOURS

A SICK WOMAN CARRIED FROM THE BLAZING STRUCTURE.

An Old Residential House on the Outskirts of the City Destroyed—Many Exciting Scenes at the Conflagration.

For four hours last Monday the firemen of Plainfield fought the flames that destroyed the residence of Walter C. Williams, of West Seventh street. Situated as it is just outside of the city and county line, the house was a quarter of a mile from the nearest hydrant, and the firemen were badly handicapped by the lack of water.

In the spring Mr. Williams and family moved from East Front street to their present home. They took several summer boarders which increased the number of the occupants of the house to fifteen. Mr. Williams' son, Walter Gordon Williams, is well-known as a member of the legal firm of Swackhamer & Williams. He also lives at the house. The house itself was an old but very substantially-built frame building. It is said to date back to Revolutionary times, but had been rebuilt since that time. It is located on West Seventh street, several hundred yards from Clinton avenue, and is very close to the county line which passes between the house and the barn, which is only a hundred feet from the rear of the house.

Miss Kilfedder is a young woman from Toronto who is visiting at the house. Monday she complained of not feeling well and spent most of the day in her room. She occupied one of the back rooms on the second floor. The structure had two stories and an attic, and was composed of a square main portion and a wing in the rear. Williams and his son, Walter, had been walking around the grounds and had just come in for dinner. The rest of the family and the boarders were sitting at the table beginning their evening meal. Mrs. Frances Smith, a guest from New York, occupied a room on the second floor adjoining the wing. She was very ill.

Walter Williams was passing through the hall on his way to the dining room when Miss Kilfedder, who had been dressing for dinner, screamed from the head of the stairs.

"Is the house on fire?"

"What?" exclaimed young Williams.

"I hear a crackling noise up here and it sounds like fire," responded the young woman at the head of the stairs.

Williams rushed to the side door. The sun had set but there was a glow on the trees, then he looked up and saw little tongues of flame shooting out from the wall. At that instant a young man bounded up the steps.

"Your house is on—" he panted.

"Send in an alarm," interrupted Williams, and the young man, who was John Conway, of West Seventh street, sprang on Williams' wheel and fairly flew to the nearest fire alarm box at the corner of Spooner avenue and West Seventh street, No. 37.

Williams hurried to the dining room and called out the daughter of the sick woman and told her that the house was afire. As they prepared to go to upstairs to her rescue, Mr. Williams burst into room shouting that the house was on fire. Then all was excitement. Everybody rushed about the rooms scarcely knowing what they were doing. Then the sound of the fire alarm was heard.

The noise and the smoke had apprised Mrs. Smith of her danger. She was carefully carried out of the burning building and over to one of the neighbors. The shock was a great one, however, and it was feared that it might be very serious.

Neighbors soon appeared on the scene and began to carry out the furniture. There was no wind and the house, which was solidly built, burned very slowly.

It is supposed that the fire started in the chimney, the soot catching and finally setting fire to the woodwork about the chimney. There had been some trouble several days before with the chimney, the soot falling down and catching fire. The fire spread to the roof of the wing and to the rear. When the first of the firemen reached the second story one of the rooms was all ablaze. The contents of the other rooms, however, were carried out in safety and put on the lawn.

The line of hose from the chemical engine was carried in a second story window and was used to hold the flames in check until the furniture could be saved. The fire had obtained a good foothold and had crept along the roof to the main part of the house.

The nearest hydrant was at Monroe avenue and a line of hose was laid from there, where the steamer was placed. That gave but one stream of water with which to fight the flames. Several times an old length of hose burst and had to be replaced, which necessitated the shutting off of the water.

At the start the efforts of the firemen were turned toward saving the main portion of the house. The roof of it was torn off and finally after several hours' hard work the spread of the flames was stopped. Meanwhile the rear of the house was all aflame. The reservoir of the chemical was emptied and there was no water at hand with which to fill it. The fire was beyond its control in any event. The fire gradually ate its way down and set fire to the arbor. The firemen pulled down the walls and tried to cut away the blazing beams. The blaze illuminated the scene and lighted up the surrounding country for several hours.

It was necessary to tear up the entire roof and upper walls of the front part into which the fire had crept and smouldered. That was finally extinguished at 10:20 o'clock and then the stream was turned on the wing, which was already a complete wreck. At 11:30 o'clock, the fire was out and the house was left a wreck. The only rooms that were not gutted were those on the first floor in the front part of the house and they were soaked with water.

The fire department did well despite their heavy handicaps. The house was over two miles from headquarters and the apparatus had a long run. Then it was necessary to stretch 1850 feet of hose to reach the fire. They arrived twenty minutes after the alarm sounded at 7 o'clock.

The fire proved a greater attraction to the crowd than the circus and over a thousand people gathered around the house and in adjacent fields to watch the progress of the flames. When the roof fell in, a mighty shout rose from the crowd. The run to the fire proved an exciting one. Many of the crowd came on their wheels and made a mighty procession as they sped up Seventh street. One wheelman fell at Monroe avenue and five went over him before they could turn out. Several wrecked wheels resulted. A dog was run over by the Hook and Ladder truck at Plainfield avenue. When it was seen the fire was under control, most of the spectators departed but there were some who stayed until the last.

The house was owned by Mr. Elaman, of New York.

The house was insured for $6,500 and Chief Doane estimates the damage at $3,000. The furniture and household effects were insured to the amount of $800, half of which will cover the loss.

The house has been on fire three times this year and the fire in each case was started from the defective flue which finally resulted in the destruction of the house.

MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED.

A Harmless Young Woman Missed After Being Cared For.

Warden Blore received as a prisoner at the county jail a few days ago a Polish woman, possibly 25, and quite well dressed, who gave the name of "Maggie." The police of Plainfield found her wandering about the streets of that city, where it was said she had been taken by a man from Trenton, who had probably deserted her. She could not speak a word of the English language, and could give no particular account of herself. She was a well-behaved prisoner, and caused no trouble whatever.

Her term of imprisonment expired yesterday, and Warden Blore, being unwilling to turn her adrift in a city where she knew neither man, woman nor child, telephoned to the authorities in Plainfield, but they expressed no particular desire for her return to that city. Her imperfect knowledge of the English language precluded her from accepting a position.

In the afternoon he took her to a Polander, who had lately opened a boot and shoe establishment on Elizabeth avenue. She seemed very much pleased to meet one who could talk the language of Poland, but gave very little of her life. Warden Blore did all he could under the circumstances, and early in the evening called to inquire in regard to "Maggie." To his surprise he learned that she had tarried in the place about 20 minutes, and, under pretense of going out in the avenue a few minutes, walked away. This is the story told to Warden Blore by the young man, but where she has gone no one seems to know.—Elizabeth Journal.

Look for the facts demonstrated by experience. Thousands and thousands of people suffering from the effects of impure blood have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's pills act easily and promptly on the liver and bowels. Cure sick headache.

Edward O. Clark, of Washington-ville, is sojourning at Belmar.

A Tale of Divorce.

Its Author Prostrated By Overwork.

Hammersmith is a suburb of London. Its inhabitants are interested in Mrs. Ellen B. Wayne, a young woman of literary tastes, who lost her health through overwork. Her color left her, her appetite gradually disappeared, she became sleepless, nervous and restless, she was so exhausted, that after working at her table for four consecutive hours, she fainted while writing "A Tale of Divorce." Her physician said, "she has nearly divorced body from soul, she needs iron."

Five weeks later the story was published, and Mrs. Wayne, through taking Capsuloids alone, had become one of the rosiest of English women.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price by The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

ASSAULT IN HAY FIELD

JAMES MAYER MUST NOW ANSWER TO SOMERSET GRAND JURY.

It is Charged That He Pummeled and Choked Patrick Haines and Threatened To Break the Neck of the Hired Man.

James Mayer was arrested Monday afternoon in the borough on the charge of assault and battery, preferred by Patrick Haines, and in the evening had a hearing before Recorder Thomas and was held for the Somerset County Grand Jury under $200 bonds.

It seems that last spring Haines rented a plot of a few acres in the upper end of the borough, near Raymond avenue, but previous to that time Mayer had enjoyed the privilege of utilizing the ground for his own purposes to a large extent.

Saturday, Haines was engaged in running a mowing machine on the property, when, it is alleged, Mayer appeared and ordered him to stop the work, claiming that the crop of hay belonged to him. Haines declined to pay any attention to Mayer's orders and continued the operation of the machine. Then it was, it is charged, that Mayer grabbed Haines and pulled him out of the seat on the machine and pummeled and choked him in a manner most unceremonious, humiliating and painful to the latter.

After the scrap, however, Haines continued his work of cutting the hay. Yesterday, Haines' hired man was engaged in turning the hay over to dry it out when Mayer again made his appearance on the ground, and, it is said, threatened to break the hired man's neck if he didn't get off the ground.

Haines appealed to his attorney, J. Philip Kirch, and a warrant was issued for the arrest of Mayer on the charge of assault and battery. He was arrested later on and arraigned with the above result.

Waverly Fair.

The entries for the annual fair at Waverly of the New Jersey State Agricultural Society, to open on September 5th, promise to exceed those of any previous year, especially in the speed class. The most promising feature of the fair will be the show departments for horses and cattle. James Walker, of Coldwater, Mich., has been engaged as judge.

Thos. E. N. Curtis and family, of West Eighth street, who have been enjoying vacation life at the Boiling-broke, Bath Beach, L. I., have returned home.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrhal Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

A. W. GLEASON,
Seal
Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

RAID WITH TICKETS NOW

POLICE AND LETTER-CARRIERS WORKING TO GET A BIG CROWD

There is Nothing in the Game For the Players Except the Sport and the Honor of Helping a Good Cause.

The police of this city have started a raid that is to continue until the afternoon of Labor Day. Beware of a policeman unless you have a quarter in your pocket with which to purchase a ticket for the game they are to play with the Letter-carriers. It is also advisable to look out for the Letter-carriers unless you have the funds or have already purchased a ticket. The tickets for the famous baseball game between the servants of Uncle Sam who look after the delivery of the mail and the Plainfielders who see that the ordinances of this suburban place are carried out, have been issued and all the players are trying to sell them. There isn't anything in it for them except the honor of selling the most tickets, for all the cash goes toward the new pneumatic tires for the Muhlenberg Hospital ambulance. The charitable object has already found many purchasers who will not be able to attend the game but are willing to add their mite toward such a good cause.

It was first proposed that none of the players wear special uniform to denote their side in the contest but to depend upon the knowledge of the people to distinguish the different teams. Now that the game promises to assume such large proportions, the players have adopted two uniforms that correspond in a general way with their regular uniforms while on duty. The Letter-carriers are to wear grey short pants of the usual baseball style and caps of the same color. The police are to appear in blue short pants of the kind already mentioned, black stockings and white duck yachting caps with the black band.

In giving the list of the police team, last evening, the fact was omitted that Roundsman Flynn had been chosen captain on the field, while Sergeant Kiely will assume the responsible position of manager.

The question of umpire has been bothering the minds of Sergeant Kiely and Dan Shea until they happened to settle on Councilman "Billie" Runyon. "Billie" Runyon has taken a great interest in the proposed match from the start and is now studying night and day to become thoroughly proficient in the rules of the National League. Although he is a member of the Police Board, the Letter carriers are perfectly agreed that nobody can do the job better.

It might be added for the benefit of those who have not yet encountered either a policeman or a letter-carrier that the tickets are twenty-five cents a piece and can be obtained from any letter-carrier or officer, or at the gate on the day of the game. Those who want to help a good cause along can do so by attending, while those who like to see a great game will miss a record breaker by not showing up on Labor Day afternoon. The game begins at 2:30 o'clock and will continue until all the players have been disabled or nine innings have been played, provided that happens before Old Sol gets tired and refuses to give any more light.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar for Medicine until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This sort is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

TRADE MARK

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail; or 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are ten to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

THE PEERLESS FAVORITE

The Haller & Davis Piano

BUILT AND SOLD ON HONOR

$300 and up and 5 years time. Other makes $75 and up.

THE TWAY PIANO COMPANY

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of this depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. Men succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places begging for good men, and millions of $3 a week men begging for poor places. If you are worth $50 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to make his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the higher places and thus earn better pay. During its 40 years of life, more than 40,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C. GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE NEW YORK.

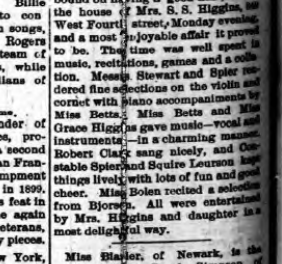
THEATRICAL.

Proctor's Theatre, Twenty-third street, New York, is in the front line of the continuous vaudeville procession with capital offering for the coming week. The bill is a kaleidoscopic whirl of fun, farce, song and dance. There are novelties, too, such as the farcical comedietta called "A Dingley Tariff Baby," written by W. H. Fuller, the cast being headed by William Harris, Bhea's leading man, who makes his vaudeville debut in the sketch. "A Modern Adromeda" is another one-act play that will be launched at the Monday performances, and the New York Miniature Comedy Company have a lively little farce to offer called "Open All Night." Kate Rooney and Frank Harding are billed for imitations and comic specialties, Mr. and Mrs. Billie Farrell have been secured to contribute their repertoire of coon songs, with dancing and cake walks. Rogers and Ryan are a laughable team of song and dance comedians, while Caswell and Arnold are comedians of the acrobatic persuasion.

Gen. Drake's Latest Scheme.

Gen. Drake, the Commander of Elizabeth's Veteran Zouaves, proposes to take his company a second time across the continent to San Francisco when the National encampment of the G.A.R. is held there in 1899. Gen. Drake accomplished this feat in 1886. He vows it shall be done again and intends taking thirty veterans, 150 guests and a band of thirty pieces.

Miss Marian Hartley, of New York, is now the guest of Miss Schuyler, of LaGrande avenue.



ELY'S CREAM BALM is a particle of Balm. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. A thorough treatment for sale at Druggists or by mail, 50 cents. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

A JOLLY TIME ALL AROUND.

Pleasant Gathering of Friends on West Fourth Street.

A party of twenty-eight persons from Washingtonville and Plainfield, bound on having a good time, met at the house of Mrs. S. S. Higgins, on West Fourth street, Monday evening, and a most enjoyable affair it proved to be. The time was well spent in music, recitations, games and a collation. Messrs. Stewart and Spier rendered fine selections on the violin and cornet with piano accompaniments by Miss Betts. Miss Betts and Miss Grace Higgins gave music—vocal and instrumental—in a charming manner. Robert Clark sang nicely, and Constable Spier and Squire Leurson kept things lively with lots of fun and good cheer. Miss Bolen recited a selection from Bjornson. All were entertained by Mrs. Higgins and daughter in a most delightful way.

Miss Blasier, of Newark, is the guest of Miss Jennie Simpson, of West Front street.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL XXX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1897. NO. 36.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

VOTE TO HAVE ARC LIGHTS

COUNCILMEN CHANGE POSITION TOWARDS BUSINESS MEN'S PETITION.

The Incandescent System in the Business Section to be Supplanted by Arc Lights Nov. 1st—Other Transactions.

Light was the most talked of subject at the regular September meeting of the City Council held last Tuesday. The supporters of the arc lights for the business portion of the city gained a point, for they succeeded in getting those previously opposed, to vote for the change, commencing with Nov. 1st. The eleven arc lights asked for by the business men of the city will displace about thirty-seven incandescent lights. Mr. Tolles presented a petition from the merchants, who asked the Council to reconsider their previous action. Owing to the fact that it was not stated in the call of the meeting, the matter could not be considered in the regular way, but a motion was made by Mr. Westphal to the effect that the committee on lights and trees be authorized to change the contract between the city and the electric light company for the eleven arc lights to displace thirty-seven incandescent lights at the price of $100 each per year. All of the members supported the motion, although Messrs. Barrows and Baker were of the opinion that after the arc light had been given a fair trial the merchants would ask the city to change back to the present method of lighting. President Dumont was also of the same opinion.

Another important matter introduced was that referring to recent action regarding the widening of Westervelt avenue. A resolution rescinding the previous action of the Council in appointing commissioners brought forth animated discussion on the subject. Mr. Barrows stated that the Council had been placed in a bad position by the Corporation Counsel. The ordinance regarding the matter was drafted by Mr. Marsh previous to his going to Europe and it was supposed that it was all right. Now that Mr. Marsh has returned he informs the Council that their method of appointing commissioners and giving notice to those affected by the widening to meet the Council and offer objections, is illegal. In his opinion, Mr. Barrows expressed himself that Mr. Marsh is not doing justice to the Council and that he should do more to aid the committees. Accordingly, the ordinance appointing commissioners was rescinded and the clerk was authorized to notify the commissioners that such action had been taken. When the matter has been advertised in the legal way further action will be taken. It was decided that the ordinance in the main is all right.

A third important matter discussed was the petition presented by the Central railroad asking the City Council for the privilege of laying two tracks for a siding from their road across North avenue, near Berckman street, to the building formerly known as the Chase Machine Works and which has been leased by a company for the purpose of manufacturing printing presses. Most of the members were opposed to grade crossings, but the ordinance introduced by Mr. Frost later in the evening seemed to dispel the objections expressed. The ordinance asks for gates, a flagman and every other precaution necessary. The matter was finally referred and the street commissioner was instructed to make a thorough examination of the location in question and report at the next meeting. There is but little doubt but what the request will be granted.

Early in the meeting a petition was received, but owing to the fact that it was not addressed to the Council nor signed by anyone it was not read by the clerk and was referred back.

A petition was received from H. G. Runkle asking for the privilege of erecting a post at 117 West Second street upon which a board could be placed advertising some property. The matter was referred. The Water Supply Company in a communication stated that they had erected four additional fire hydrants as directed. Street Commissioner Gavett reported that during the past month twenty-two sewer permits had been granted, making in all 993 granted to date. He also reported the names of a number of property owners who had failed to lay sidewalks in front of their property. Later a resolution was offered that the walks be laid by the city and that a lien be placed on the property for the payment of the work. Building Inspector Doane reported that he had granted twelve permits during the past month.

The Board of Engineers reported that W. B. Grannatt had resigned from Engine Co. No. 1, and the action had been confirmed by them. They

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

HARD AT STUDY AGAIN.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS STARTED ON ANOTHER YEAR'S WORK.

Small Boy Unable to Reason Why Time Passes So Much Slower Now—A Good Attendance of Pupils at all the Branches.

The long vacation is over, school has opened, and the small boy is once more at his desk pouring over his book and wondering why it is that time passes so much slower than it did in the summer. Tuesday morning all the public schools in the city opened for the fall term. Teachers and pupils greeted each other once more after an eventful summer.

Tuesday was spent in getting things in order. There were many new pupils who had to be assigned to classes. Some of the older ones had to make changes also. There were those who had studied hard during the past year and were ready to skip one grade while the careless ones had to remain behind. Now that the city furnishes the books, it was necessary to distribute them. There were new books which had to be stamped before they were distributed. Altogether, the day was a lively one.

Although there was more room to accommodate the children, there were more children to accommodate. The pleasant day brought out a good attendance in all grades and the new arrivals that may be expected for the next two weeks promises to fill all available space.

The High School was unusually well attended. The general improvements in the courses drew many to enter who would not otherwise have done so. The Fourth class was particularly large. The large number of pupils from out of town was also noticeable. They come from all directions and have entered all grades in the High School. The tuition at the High School is not high and the advantages now offered are many, so it is that many young people in neighboring towns, where the educational advantages are not as many, have come to Plainfield to complete their school education.

The repairs in all the buildings, except in the Washington, have been completed, and there temporary arrangements have been made. The High School and Franklin buildings have been all renovated and the woodwork oiled and cleaned by Janitor Thomas Clarkson and his assistants who have the buildings in spick and span order for the fall term.

AN INCENDIARY ATTEMPT.

Fire Fiends Applied the Torch to a Westfield Hotel—Flames Extinguished.

An attempt was made at an early hour Tuesday to burn the hotel of W. A. Ward, on Broad street, Westfield. Charles Ward, a son of the proprietor, was awakened at 3:15 o'clock by the presence of smoke in his room. Jumping hastily out of bed and looking from the window of his room he saw flames shooting along one side of the one-story addition at the back of the building, where the kitchen is located. The family was aroused and the alarm hastily given.

When the firemen reached the spot they found the shutters on two of the kitchen windows saturated with kerosene and burning fiercely. The fire, which had been burning only a few minutes, was extinguished, after burning away the shutters and the sash on one window.

The smell of kerosene was strong where the fire occurred, and the clapboards, window sills and shutters were found saturated with the dangerous oil.

The authorities will make an investigation of the matter with a view to the arrest of the guilty person.

Thrown From His Wheel.

E. W. Mills, manager of the United States Express Company's office on North avenue, was returning with a party of friends from a bicycle ride to Boynton Beach, at about 8 o'clock Monday evening. When on the Netherwood hill the tire came off the front wheel of his machine, throwing Mr. Mills to the pavement and cutting and bruising him badly about the head and the left arm. He was placed on a trolley car and taken to his home on East Fifth street, where Dr. Fritts attended to his injuries.

Charged With Being Disorderly.

Ida Miller, housekeeper for Frank Egocton, an Italian tailor, whose shop is on Liberty street near Third, was arrested Sunday charged by neighbors with being disorderly and using profane language. As neither the City Judge nor the Mayor was in the city, the woman was released upon promising to appear today for trial.

—Meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock, at the rooms of the W. C. T. U., Watchung avenue.

BEAT HIS SON'S WIFE.

THE CHARGE MADE AGAINST AN AGED COLORED MAN.

Dispute About the Ownership of a Basket Caused Bonney to Use Physical Force to Impress His Points of Argument.

Just as Patrolman Freleigh was dancing with glee at the terrific slide that Jim Saunders made for second base at the great baseball game on Labor Day afternoon, somebody told him that he was wanted at "Quality Row," the row of houseson East Sixth street, beyond Richmond street, that are inhabited by several colored families. Freleigh hastened there and found a young colored woman, Martha Somerset, wife of Lemuel Somerset, who complained that her step-father-in-law had assaulted her, struck her in the face and then thrown her off the rear stoop.

Charles Bonney, an aged resident of that quarter and heretofore a peaceful one, was the man against whom the charge was made, and so Freleigh locked him up. He came before the Judge Tuesday afternoon and his trial was set down for this morning. Martha Somerset appeared this morning in such a condition that she had to be carried all the way from her home to the court room. She claimed that her injuries were as a result of the assault.

Her story was that Mr. and Mrs. Bonney had had a little trouble over the ownership of a basket and that he had thrown the basket at his wife. Mrs. Somerset said that when she told him not to strike his wife, he turned on her and beat her, threw her off the stoop and continued to beat her. Mrs. Bonney testified substantially the same, but said that Mrs. Somerset had been having trouble with her ankle before. She did not know whether either was thrown off the stoop, or whether they merely fell off while struggling.

Bonney told his story, which was that Mrs. Somerset attacked him first. He was represented by S. S. Swackhamer. Thomas Quinn, of Judge DeMeza's law offices, represented the State in his first appearance in a criminal case. The Judge decided that the evidence was sufficient and held Bonney in $50 bail for the Grand Jury.

SAYS WIFE WON'T LIVE WITH HIM

Answers That Thomas Heywood Makes to Wife's Plea of Desertion.

Thomas Heywood, of this city, has filed an answer in the Court of Chancery bill of her wife Josephine Heywood, for divorce. The answer was drawn by Heywood's attorneys, Pope & Runyon.

Mrs. Heywood, who lives with her two children on Julian place, Elizabeth, alleged desertion in her bill, which was filed on June 29th. Heywood's answer states that he was willing to live with his wife but that she would not allow him to do so.

The defendant is a son of Rev. Thomas Heywood, of Elizabeth. He is an agent in the employ of the Metropolitan Insurance Company of this city, and boards at McVey's Hotel.

Resigned From Camp Council.

At the meeting of John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V., held last Tuesday, Charles Stephenson resigned his position as a member of the Camp Council, owing to the fact that he has secured a position in Philadelphia and has taken up his residence in that city. H. J. Martin was elected in his place. The Camp received an invitation from Phil Kearney Camp, of New Brunswick, inviting them to a camp smoker, to be held at the latter place September 24th. The invitation was accepted. There was a good attendance of the members at the meeting, and it now looks as though there was going to be renewed interest in the work of the Camp.

Dislocated His Shoulder.

Benjamin Frazee, aged thirty-five years, a resident of Oak Tree, sustained a severe injury last Monday afternoon while he was pitching hay into his barn at the above place. A cross beam became unfastened and it fell on Mr. Frazee with sufficient force to dislocate his shoulder. Mr. Frazee came to Plainfield and called on Dr. Adams who set the bone and treated the man properly.

A Daring Feat.

An interesting performance was witnessed Tuesday afternoon when a man climbed the flag-staff on the Washington School building and made some needed repairs. The feat was watched by a large number of people and they all felt better when the man had completed his task.

Grand Jurors Chosen.

The following North Plainfielders have been chosen to serve as grand jurors in Somerset county:

George W. Mundy, George S. Vail, Lewis Bird, David N. Groendyke.

JIM BABBITT'S HARD JOB

TRIED TO ARREST A DUSKY DAMSEL AND GOT THUMPED.

Lizzie Thompson Was Making Things Lively for the Colored Politician When Patrolman McCue Laid His Hand on Her.

While the policemen were battling on the baseball diamond, Monday afternoon, Lizzie Thompson and Levina Washington battled in the crowded limits of Fairchild's alley. They are both colored women who live in the precincts of that noted neighborhood and they quarreled over a small matter that arose in the course of existence in that neighborhood. Each says that the other started the trouble, but the evidence appeared to be in favor of Lizzie as the chief combatant.

While the two colored women were settling their dispute by word of mouth, and also with their hands, Special Officer Jim Babbitt tried to separate them and put them under arrest. "Oh! Lucky Jim, How I Envy Him," sarcastically sang the few sparrows near by to the tune of that popular air. Lizzie opened fire on the special and promised to make things lively for him until Patrolman McCue came to his rescue.

Babbitt had succeed in dragging the dusky offender to the head of the alley, but she was rapidly making way with his clothing, tearing his coat to shreds and ripping his shirt bosom into long slices. Jim was pluckily sticking to the job when McCue came to his assistance and the offending woman was carted in their arms to the station house and left to spend the night.

She was penitent when arraigned before Judge DeMeza Tuesday afternoon, but that did not do her any good. The Judge sentenced her to pay a fine of $25 and go to jail for sixty days as a kind of remembrance to leave Jim Babbitt or any other special officer alone.

REV. D. H. CLARE MARRIED.

Found a Life Partner in Newark When the Nuptial Knot Was Tied.

The marriage of Rev. D. H. Clare, a student at Colgate University, and Miss Alice Cadmus, of Newark, was celebrated Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride, 108 Thomas street, Newark. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Dr. Luther, pastor of the Fifth Baptist church, of Newark. Miss Emily Cadmus, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Rev. Cyrus Negus, of Hamilton, N. Y., was best man. Following the ceremony there was a reception, after which Mr. and Mrs. Clare left for Utica, where they will spend a few days. Mr. Clare will return to Colgate next week where he will complete his studies in the Theological Seminary. It will be remembered that Mr. Clare occupied the pulpit of the Park Avenue Baptist church during the absence of Rev. J. W. Richardson, the pastor, while the latter was on his vacation this summer.

Sidewalks Must Be Laid.

The resolution adopted at the meeting of the City Council last Tuesday, providing for the laying of walks in front of certain properties, was acted upon for the reason that a few property-owners have said that they would not lay walks till other people were compelled to. This attitude on the part of the owners has in no-wise lessened the improvements about the city and the Council feels compelled to make all come up to the requirements of the law. The matter has been placed in the hands of Street Commissioner Gavett who will see that the walks are laid at the earliest possible date.

Ignorance of Law Their Excuse.

The Martin Act Commissioners are now hard at work trying to complete the examinations of the taxes in the east side. Another meeting of the Commissioners was held last Tuesday in the Mayor's office. Twenty delinquents appeared and almost all had the same excuse, ignorance. Several explained that they had been to the tax collector when they bought the property and had been told that there were no taxes due. Another meeting will be held on Thursday evening.

Miss Hellwig's Instruction.

Miss Hellwig, who has been connected with Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's school for the past eight years, and besides has taught among the leading families—as shown by her list of patrons—is making engagements for the coming season. A great part of her time already being taken, those who wish to make arrangements for lessons will do well to communicate as soon as possible. Address 152 East Fifth street, corner Watchung avenue, over Hall's drug store.

—The second anniversary of the Primary Sunday-school Teachers' Union will be held next Monday afternoon in Y. M. C. A. hall.

THE CHRISTIANS AWHEEL

ENDEAVOR BICYCLE SQUAD DISBANDED FOR THE SEASON.

Last Run of the Epworth League Under the Harvest Moon Will be Held Thursday Evening—Plans for Next Summer.

The bicycle squad of the Christian Endeavor Local Union has disbanded for the season and consequently will hold no more runs. Such is the announcement of Miss Ernestine Smith, captain of the squad. The runs were given up early in the summer, when so many of the Endeavorers left town on their vacations as to make the number too small, but it was then talked of starting them again in the fall. While several of the societies in this city gave good support to the runs and visits of the squad, there were others that did not. Miss Smith has decided to make one attempt at holding other Union runs this fall but to have such of the individual societies as wish, hold runs of their own similar to the runs of the Epworth League.

The need of more organization among the wheelmen of the different societies was shown by the other runs, and now the project of the visitation will be laid over until spring, when complete arrangements may be made beforehand.

The members of the Local Union are very decided that the project shall not drop, even if it is laid aside this fall, and promise a great success for it in the spring.

Meanwhile the harvest moon is approaching and offers unequalled opportunities for evening wheeling. The members of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church have determined to take advantage of that fact and hold another run. The arrangement of the wheeling sociables has been left in the hands of the social committee, of which Miss Madeline Day is the chairman. They have chosen this evening as the night for their next eyeling sociable. Orrin H. Snodgrass has been appointed captain and will act as pace-maker. His lieutenants are not yet announced. James A. Stafford will be the bugler.

The Epworth Leaguers and their friends will wheel to Menuchen and return. The start will be made from in front of Vincent chapel at 7:30 o'clock. The full moon is on Saturday and will be just right for Thursday night.

HIS INDEX FINGER CUT OFF

A Young Lad's Foolish Attempt to Grab a Piece of Ice as the Axe Descended.

Charles Lyons, the five-year-old son of Patrick Lyons, of 311 South Second street, lost the index finger of his left hand Tuesday afternoon through the carelessness of a playmate. Shortly after 3 o'clock an ice wagon passed along the street and the children climbed upon the step and took a large piece of ice. One of the larger boys then secured a small carpenter's axe and set out to chop the cake into small pieces. Young Lyons grabbed for a piece just as the axe descended. The sharp edge fell upon his hand, and the child gave a scream of pain. As soon as his frightened playmates could look to see what had happened they discovered that the index finger was almost severed from the left hand, there being nothing but a small shred of flesh still holding it.

Dr. Simpson was summoned, and the child was ordered to Muhlenberg Hospital, where the finger was removed and the hand properly bandaged. Next morning the child was playing about the house again.

Agreeably Surprised.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hagerty, of 37 Chatham street, were agreeably surprised last Tuesday by their many friends, who tendered them a surprise. The party dropped in unaware, and enjoyed themselves in singing and dancing until midnight, when a bountiful lunch was spread before them, which they did ample justice to, after which all wended their way home, much pleased with their evening's enjoyment.

Registry Records.

The Somerset county election board has appointed the following to serve as registry boards in the borough:

First District—Asa D. Pope, J. T. Greer, John T. Case, D. J. Carney.

Second District—Edgar C. Schenck, John A. Goodell, David D. Smalley, James E. Dalley.

The following will serve North Plainfield township:

J. Worth Coddington, R. W. Vail, George Demler, Jr., George Mobus.

An Elysium for Victims of Hay Fever.

C. E. Tyler, formerly a well-known worker at Warren Mission chapel, is now stopping at Mountain Park Inn where he went to rid himself of a troublesome attack of hay fever. The air at that place seems to be just the right kind for hay fever sufferers. Mr. Tyler is almost cured and feels much better.

THE WHITTIER SCHOOL.

DESIGNATION OF THE OLD SEVENTH-DAY CHURCH BUILDING.

Martin Act Commissioners Report a Claim on Bryant School Property—New Drinking Fountain Ordered at the Washington.

Now the Martin Act Commissioners are after the Board of Education for delinquent taxes on the property now occupied by one of the public schools. So the members were informed by the secretary of the Board of Education, held in the High School building, last Tuesday. There was not much to do, however, at the meeting except confer the name of the Whittier building on the old Seventh-Day Bap ist church edifice and plan for necessary alterations in the arrangements for furnishing drinking water at the Washington school.

The bill of C. H. Rugg for $2,145.87 for coal was ordered paid.

The usual report of Collector Bird showed that $485 30 of the school taxes had been collected, which with $13.36 interest, making a total of $498.65, had been deposited in the First National Bank.

Mr. Lounsbury stated that he, as secretary of the Board, had received notice during the past month that there were taxes to the amount of $418.98 due for the years of 1878, 1879 and 1880, of the property now occupied by the Bryant School. Mr. Lounsbury said that he had appeared before the Commissioners and shown them the warranty deed the Board had obtained from the Vail estate which had formerly owned the property. He had also explained to the commissioners that if the Board was compelled to pay it they would only have to ask the city for the money, and so he thought the commissioners would probably wipe out the tax.

The committee on teachers recommended Miss Anna J. Bennett as drawing teacher and Miss Elizabeth C. Moore to fill a vacancy in the Bryant School. The Board adopted the report.

Mr. Lounsbury had more to say about the delinquent taxes. He said that Collector Bird had informed him that he had collected some $2,100 of back taxes which were adjusted by the Council before the commissioners were appointed and that about $500 of it belonged to the Board. The city had put its share in a separate account and was going to hold it there until it was settled whether the adjustment was all right, and Mr. Lounsbury recommended that the Board do likewise. Mr. Lovell made the necessary motion which was unanimously carried.

Dr. Probasco, president of the Board, remarked that the old Seventh-Day Baptist church had been converted and was first used that morning for a school. He thought every member ought to visit it at once. All had but Mr. Lovell. He then suggested that it ought to have a name and thought that the Whittier School would be a good name for it. Mr. Lounsbury explained that they had been calling it the Stillman annex. After some discussion it was unanimously agreed to call the school the Whittier building.

Messrs. Lounsbury and Abbott opened fire on a state of affairs at the Washington School which they considered very objectionable. Since the addition was put on, the rooms where the drinking water was kept were without light. Mr. Abbott spoke very strongly on the dark, damp little dungeon in which the pupils were compelled to go after a drink. It was impossible to see anything there and the children had no idea what they were drinking. Mr. Lounsbury suggested remedy by moving the sinks out into the light and placing four drinking fountains in the halls at a cost of about $280. After still further discussion the building committee was empowered to make the changes at once.

Dr. Probasco said that after all the members had seen the upper room in the Whittier building, he would like to discuss some plans for its use. One member thought it would be just the place to start a manual training department in the future. Superintendent Maxson said that it would probably be just for a drill hall for the cadets and as a room in which the pupils of that school could go through calesthenics. There were some repairs that were necessary to put it in order. Dr. Probasco remarked that it would be an excellent place for a school dance.

The finance committee reported through its chairman, Mr. Lovell, that the opinion of Cortland Parker had been obtained confirming the constitutionality of the act of the legislature allowing the change of the debt on school buildings from mortgages to bonds and said that these changes were now being made

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

BEHIND THE COUNTER

BY HELEN FORREST GRAVES.

"It must be a music box that plays at least seven tunes," said Mrs. Wrangley, "and one of them must be 'Annie Laurie;' and I can't possibly afford to give more than seventy dollars."

"I'll speak to Mr. Malcolm, the proprietor," said Miss Elson, the girl behind the counter, a little bewildered by the loud voice and the overwhelming presence of the stout lady in the seal-skin coat and the flashing diamond eardrops, who stood opposite her.

"But I'm in a hurry" said Mrs. Wrangley, imperiously. "Can't you show me some music boxes? It seems to me that you must all be very stupid here."

"I'll speak to Mr. Malcolm, ma'am," said Ella Elson, who was accustomed, minutely, to receive and endure insolence as is the "Aunt Sally" of lawn games to be bufeted and maltreated.

And Mr. Malcolm came, all smiles, to minister to the whims of the rich customer, whose carriage flashed back the sunshine at the door.

"Ma, ain't she pretty?" whispered Miss Amandina Wrangley, an overgrown girl of fourteen, leaning her elbows on the show case. "I say, ma, won't you buy me something new? You'll, you, ma? What's this? A canary! I didn't know they kept birds here."

"It is an automaton," smiled Mr. Malcolm, who had just reached down an ebony music box, inlaid with gilt beading — much to the chagrin of Miss Elson, wind up that bird. Let Miss Wrangley hear. Yes, ma'am," to the elderly lady, "this instrument has 'Annie Laurie' in its repertoire, also."

Miss Ella Elson wound up the artificial songster, set it where Miss Amandina could feast her ears and eyes on its beauty, and then turned to show backgammon boards to a new customer.

In a second—or, at least, so it would seem—there was a crash! The bird stage was overturned, the brilliant plumed songster crushed, and the solid sheet of glass that formed the top of the show case splintered into a score of broken fragments.

Mr. Malcolm's hair bristled with surprise and indignation, as he turned to view the general ruin.

"Miss Elson!" he exclaimed, wrathfully, "how did this happen?"

"I am sure, sir, I do not know," said poor Ella, who was as much frightened as at the ceiling had fallen. "I was showing this gentleman a backgammon board."

"Do not attempt to cover your faults by falsehood," sternly spoke the proprietor. "It could only have been your carelessness!"

While Miss Amandina Wrangley, the self-complacent, stood staring at the overthrow, and lacked the moral courage to confess her own guilt.

"Ma would be so cross if she had to pay for the artificial bird," said Miss Amandina to herself, "and maybe she won't buy me the music box, and, anyhow, I dare say, the shop-girl won't mind a little scolding."

"If you did not do it, Miss Elson," said Mr. Malcolm, majestically, "who did?"

"I don't know, sir," Ella answered, with varying color, "but it was not I."

"Don't contradict me," said the proprietor.

"I must speak the truth," said Ella, pleadingly. "You ask me, and ——"

"That will do," said Mr. Malcolm, waving his hand. "I am not accustomed to handy words with my employees. Go to Miss Mason. She will settle with you to date. I shall not require your services any longer."

Miss Elson turned and obeyed, although a blur seemed to come before her eyes and a cruel pain nearly oppressed the beating of her heart.

"Very proper," said Mrs. Wrangley, approvingly. "The young woman needs discipline. She seems both obstinate and stupid."

While Amandina, clinging close to her mother's side, still maintained a resolute silence.

* * * * * * * * *

The late afternoon sunshine was just fading out of the little room under the roof of a ruinous old building near the docks, where Mrs. Elson sat at work for a dealer in artificial flowers, and was making lacqueminet roses for a large order from a Bowery milliner.

She was a pale little woman,—who spent her life in a rolling-chair—she had long ago lost the use of her limbs —and on the floor beside her sat a child of eight years playing with the damaged bits of red silk discarded by her mother's quick fingers.

She looked up with an exclamation as the door opened.

"Mamma," she cried, "it's Ella!"

"Ella!" exclaimed Mrs. Elson. "Home at this time of day? My dear-est, what has happened?"

"I am discharged, mamma!" said Ella, endeavoring to speak firmly. "I have lost my situation!"

And then, clinging herself on the floor at her mother's side, she buried her face in the poor cripple's lap and burst out crying.

While all this was transpiring, something more similar still had taken place at the store where the automaton bird had sung its last cantata, and the music box that played "Annie Laurie" was being carefully packed up. Mrs. Wrangley was just turning to the door, when a stout gentleman, who had been sitting on a red velvet stool near the entrance, rose up—a ponderous individual, with fur linings to his coat collar, and a red silk pocket handkerchief tied around his neck.

"Aha!" said the stout man, with a nod.

"Why, it's Uncle Bob!" said Amandina.

"Oh, my brother!" said Mrs. Wrangley. "Why, Robert, when did you come in?"

"I've been here some time," said Mr. Robert Rudford; "I've been waiting for you to get through and recognize me. Upon my word, Serena, you're a capital hand at driving a bargain. I couldn't have bought that music-box to better advantage. Why, the shopman didn't have the shadow of a chance."

Mrs. Wrangley bit her lip, but she smiled. Since Robert was a person of too much importance not to be allowed to have his own way, even in the matter of making disagreeable remarks.

"But it wasn't quite the fair thing of you, niece Amandina," went on this terrible old gentleman, "to let that poor shop girl lose her place for your clumsiness in tipping that automaton bird over, and breaking the cover of the showcase. Was it now? Answer me honestly!"

Amandina Wrangley hung down her head.

"What!" cried Mrs. Wrangley.

"I saw it all," said the old gentleman; "I know Malcolm. I've lent him money to carry on his very business, and I shall speak to him. Don't look so frightened, niece Amandina. You're not going to be arrested. Only let it be a lesson to you through life, that you can't do a mean action without its being found out. Is this your carriage, Serena? Let me help you in."

And the next half-hour tête-a-tête with her mother was not a particularly pleasant one for Miss Amandina Wrangley.

"Just as your uncle was beginning to be a little fond of you, too!" said the indignant matron; "and now he's thoroughly disenchanted; Amandina, I couldn't believe this of you."

"But, ma," whispered Amandina, "you didn't tell the storekeeper one day when you knocked the cut-glass cologne bottle off the counter and I broke it. You said it was his business to look after his own goods. You told me——"

"Will you hold your tongue, miss?" said Mrs. Wrangley, with acerbity. "It's strange how little judgment girls have!"

After due reflection she went to Malcolm's the next day to inquire how much damage she was liable for in the matter of her daughter's carelessness, but was told that Mr. Rudford had settled all that.

"Dear, dear," said Mrs. Wrangley, "things are getting worse and worse. Your Uncle Robert is just enough of a modern Don Quixote to go chasing around town and hunt up the pert shop-miss and restore her to her place. Men are such fools where there is a pretty girl concerned."

"I don't think she's pretty a bit," said Amandina, sullenly.

"Be quiet, Amandina!" said her mother, sharply. "You've done quite enough mischief already."

Mrs. Wrangley proved a true prophet. Uncle Bob took no particular business of his own to mind, had an especial penchant for the minding of other people's affairs. He obtained Mrs. Elson's address from Mr. Malcolm, and went straight to the old house on the docks, where a dealer in marine stores occupied the ground floor, a family of Polish refugees worked in ivory on the second, and the top sheltered Mrs. Elson and her two daughters.

"My girl," he said to Ella, who sat disconsolately by the window, trying to mend little Mary's frock, "it's all right. You're to go back to Malcolm's tomorrow, just as if nothing at all had happened. It was my niece, Amandina, who broke the bird and smashed the showcase. Good gracious me!" looking around him—"you don't mean to say that you live in this little hole under the roof?"

And Mr. Rudford stared around him, and drew a prodigiously long breath.

"We are very glad, sir, to have so good a home at this," said Mrs. Elson, meekly. "Rents are high and——"

"Yes, yes," said Mr. Rudford, "I know. Dear, dear me; how unequally things are divided in this world! Now, I've got a nice little place in the country, on the line of the elevated road—a cottage with a bit of garden, and an apple tree. I'd be glad to get some responsible party to occupy it, just for the winter, to see that it don't go to wreck and ruin. I shan't expect any rent—only a little reasonable oversight. Come, what do you say?"

"We shall be so grateful," was all that Mrs. Elson could answer. But her eyes were most eloquent.

Ella went back to the store next day. Mr. Malcolm, who knew that Mr. Robert Rudford's favor was worth, made a meek apology to Miss Elson, and hoped that she would overlook any trifling asperity with which he might have spoken in the vexation of the moment. And all was serene once more.

* * * * * * * * *

"What!" Mrs. Wrangley cried. "My brother has established those upstarts, rent free, in his Harlem cottage! Now I can read it all, from beginning to end. He'll marry that shop girl as sure as fate."

But he did not. Mrs. Wrangley was mistaken for once.

"What do I want of a chit of a girl young enough to be my daughter?" said Mr. Rudford. And he married the pretty, dove-eyed little cripple instead.

An if you ever saw a tender-hearted child playing with a Dresden china doll, you can form some idea of the loving care wherewith he protected his fragile little wife from life's cares and ills.

"Sister Serena doesn't like it," said he. "Very well. I don't marry to please sister Serena, but to please myself."

Which was sound philosophy, after all.

KANSAS WIND STORMS

EXPERIENCES THAT HER CITIZENS LIVE TO RELATE.

In the Effete East the Statement that County Lines Are Moved by Cyclones May be Regarded With Suspicion, but There Are Others More Wonderful.

A Kansan abroad recently found a crowd that did not seem to appreciate his conversation concerning the conspiracy of the foreign capitalists to compel the populist farmers of Kansas to pay their honest debts, so he pulled out his stock of tornado stories, hoping to attract attention, says the Kansas City Times.

"I saw a cyclone once," said he, "that picked up a straw stack and moved it a mile and put it back, straw on straw, as it was."

Two or three of the auditors yawned and the Kansan tried it again:

"Another time," said he, "I saw a twister suck sixty gallons of molasses out of a barrel in front of a grocery store and distribute it to every family in town who had a bucket out on the back step for the milkman."

He cleared his throat and began again:

"Back in the seventies, we had a terrible cyclone in Western Kansas. It blew the cracks out of the fences, pulled a cistern out of the ground, moved a township line and changed the day of the week."

This last fusillade induced one of the listeners to speak up. He said: "I do not know much about cyclones, but once when I was at sea I saw a waterspout pick up tons of water and carry it a mile and"——

"Hold on," cried the Kansan; "if you are going to degrade the conversation to the level of a common lying contest I will retire." And he got up and walked away pompously.

Another man with an unblushing face told this story and expected people to believe it:

"I was out in Kansas last summer, and the first cyclone, of course, I went down in the cellar, like other folks. The next thing I knew the cellar went, too, rolling over and over like a silk hat. I was soon spilled out. With infinite labor I crawled back in the teeth of the wind, intending to take refuge in the hole the cellar came out of it. To my consternation, I found that that had blown away also."

A prominent Kansan is accredited with telling this:

"Tell you what's a fact. I have known it to blow twelve days and nights on a stretch and hold a sheep up against the side of a barn until he starved to death."

Probably the story which better illustrates the position of the populist farmer in Kansas than any one in recent years, is this:

Kansas Man (visiting in the East): Yes, sir. Kansas is the country for the farmers. Look at her vast prairies covered with crops so heavy that they make the whole countryside down in the middle. Look at her corn crop, so vast that it crowded township lines into the river.

Same Kansas Man (at the populist meeting in his own neighborhood)—Fellow sufferers—Dry weather. Hessian flies and goldbugs prey like vampires on the state. Our once fair state is plastered over with mortgages so heavy that we have to bore a hole through them with an augur in order to plant corn. Rouse, ye slaves!"

A country editor not far from Summerfield, just after receiving a card of thanks and a big supply of vegetables and subscription, dipped his pen in the ink and dashed this off: "When you talk about there being a better state than Kansas, every potato winks its eye, every beat gets red in the face, every onion gets stronger, every oat field sends a blade at this," said Mrs. Elson, meekly. "Rents are high and——"

"Yes, yes," said Mr. Rudford, "I know. Dear, dear me; how unequally things are divided in this world! Now, I've got a nice little place in the country, on the line of the elevated road—a cottage with a bit of garden, and an apple tree. I'd be glad to get some responsible party to occupy it, just for the winter, to see that it don't go to wreck and ruin. I shan't expect any rent—only a little reasonable oversight. Come, what do you say?"

"We shall be so grateful," was all that Mrs. Elson could answer. But her eyes were most eloquent.

Ella went back to the store next day. Mr. Malcolm, who knew that Mr. Robert Rudford's favor was worth, made a meek apology to Miss Elson, and hoped that she would overlook any trifling asperity with which he might have spoken in the vexation of the moment. And all was serene once more.

* * * * * * * * *

"What!" Mrs. Wrangley cried. "My brother has established those upstarts, rent free, in his Harlem cottage! Now I can read it all, from beginning to end. He'll marry that shop girl as sure as fate."

But he did not. Mrs. Wrangley was mistaken for once.

"What do I want of a chit of a girl young enough to be my daughter?" said Mr. Rudford. And he married the pretty, dove-eyed little cripple instead.

An if you ever saw a tender-hearted child playing with a Dresden china doll, you can form some idea of the loving care wherewith he protected his fragile little wife from life's cares and ills.

"Sister Serena doesn't like it," said he. "Very well. I don't marry to please sister Serena, but to please myself."

Which was sound philosophy, after all.

PLUCKY EDITORS.

THREE SISTERS HAVE LIVELY TIMES IN A MISSOURI TOWN.

Their Office has been Wrecked—They Have been Shot at, and Their Horse was Poisoned, but They Kept on Editing and have Never Missed an Issue.

In the little town of Maryville, Mo., three young women publish a daily newspaper. They are the daughters of a newspaper man, and have been trained to the business from the time they were little girls.

They do all the work connected with the publication of the paper. The oldest, Miss Lulu Griffin, is not yet 25 years old. Miss Lulu Griffin is the editor of the Weekly Advocate, which is also published by these young women.

These are the only two papers in the United States which are managed exclusively by girls. The three sisters do all the work, both inside and outside of the office, and keep the papers on a paying basis in competition with four others published weekly in the same town. They support their mother in it in good style, have a comfortable home, and enjoy the confidence and respect of the good people of Maryville. The Daily Review is the only daily newspaper in the Fourth Congress district outside of St. Joseph.

The girls have waded into the local campaign and made the fur fly. The papers supported the straight Democratic ticket, and during the heat of the campaign the editors became involved in a personal fight with a gentleman of Catholic priest, who stirred up the most intense bitterness against them, and, according to the young women themselves, was at the bottom of most of their troubles.

The Review and Advocate also made a vigorous war upon the saloons at this time, and the election resulted in a clean and decided victory for the young women.

On the Saturday night following the election the office of both papers was broken into, the presses were broken, rocks ripped up, and the forms on which the daily had been run off were completely destroyed, nothing being left but the chases.

The girls went to work with a grim determination not to be downed, and managed to pick up enough type that had been strewn over the floors to set up three or four columns of matter, and the Daily Review was issued on time Monday evening.

The girls kept up their warfare on the saloons, and a month later the office was again wrecked. Miss Lulu Griffin worked until midnight getting out the Weekly Advocate. She left the office with her mother, after locking the door behind her, having everything in good order. There were six forms of type on the imposing stone, two being made up of fine display type, which was intended for a special advertising edition.

When the young women went to work next morning they found everything gone. The wreckers did not stop to empty the case this time, but carried all the type and other materials away, and then ran a chisel into the cylinder of the press, so that it was temporarily ruined.

The girls moved their office into another building, scraped up a little type and set up the paper. For a press they took a roller from a sugar cane mill, fastened it upon a dry goods box, and wrapped on each side rolled it slowly backward and forward over the forms, and in that way managed to print a pretty fair sort of newspaper. They used this sugar cane press for several weeks until their cylinder press had been repaired.

One day in the following August the Griffin sisters and their mother were out driving in a two-seated surrey, drawn by a favorite family horse. It was a fine afternoon, and the girls and the family was much attached to it. During the course of their drive they stopped to listen to a street concert, when some one in the crowd threw acid upon the horse and tried to make it run away. The horse was badly damaged to control it, however, and drove home and put it in the barn. Thirty minutes later the horse died from a dose of poison.

In the following October the office was again raided. The young women locked the office door after 6 o'clock and went home. During the night the door was broken open, the type taken from the imposing stones and thrown into the street.

The young women had no trouble until the next spring, when, April 26, an attempt was made to assassinate the family. At 2 o'clock in the morning on that day some unknown person fired into Pearl Griffin's sleeping room, the shot tearing out the whole of the upper window sash and the bullets lodging in the ceiling. Almost at the same moment a shot was fired in another room, where Mrs. Griffin, the mother of the young women, was sleeping, but the aim was too low, and the bullets did no harm.

Before going to Maryville the Griffin girls ran a little weekly paper at Skidmore, Mo. One night, just before going to press, the office accidentally caught fire, and was totally destroyed together with all of its material. Miss Pearl Griffin made a railroad journey of thirty miles to a neighboring town, got enough material to set up her paper, returned home, and the Skidmore Herald was on the street that evening, only a few hours late.—Boston Journal.

The railroads of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania now carry bicycles free as baggage.

CANOVAS' GREAT POWER.

"If I Must Have King How Can He Make Me Duke?" He Said Refusing Honors.

Canovas del Castillo was the greatest political factor and power in Spain since the time of the Duke of Olivares, the favorite of King Philip IV. Canovas exercised an extraordinary control over late King Alfonso XII., who he could never forget that he owed him his crown. The fact is well known that the King never dared to contradict Canovas, and in the few instances in which he expressed opinions contrary to those of his Prime Minister the latter's angry look was enough to make the King fold. The Queen Regent inherited from her husband the same respect for the iron-handed ruler. During the life of Alfonso the Queen had a grudge against the Prime Minister, because she was jealous of the influence over her husband. She loved Alfonso passionately, and her jealousy of some ladies of the court gave rise to several scandals in the palace. Canovas always interfered, rebuking her for her conduct.

CANOVAS DEL CASTILLO.

The last scandal was about the spring of 1891. The Queen found the King promenading in the garden of the palace with one of her rivals. In a sudden fit of anger, she horsewhipped both. The news spread through the nation and the monarchy was threatened. Two hours after the event Canovas, without even announcing himself, entered the private rooms of the Queen and said to her:

"Madam, a constitutional queen has not the common rights of a wife. Your marriage was not one of love, but of state. Before your private feelings are the interests of the monarchy. To-morrow you will leave Spain for Austria, and you will await my orders in Vienna."

She did as he said. A few months later the Queen returned, and from that time on she had no other will than that of Canovas.

The man who told Canovas that he was a great poet—although his verses are really void of any poetical quality —was sure to gain his favor. He was a great scholar, he had the largest private library in Spain, he was a good historian, a great orator, and Spain's mighty ruler, but he could be satisfied only with the glories he lacked, those of the poet.

Such a man in his public life, Canovas was by a singular contrast, exactly the reverse in private life. He married, late in life, a woman much younger than himself, who is said to have had a powerful influence over him. While he was a bachelor, his valet, an old man whom he knew when he first went to Madrid as a poor student, was his tutor. When Canovas came home late he chatted with the valet while he undressed, and they slowly backward and forward over would tell him the latest gossip of the court. The old man, who belonged to the family, was much attached to it. During the course of their drive they stopped to listen to a street concert, when some one in the crowd threw acid upon the horse and tried to make it run away. The horse was badly damaged to control it, however, and drove home and put it in the barn. Thirty minutes later the horse died from a dose of poison.

In the following October the office was again raided. The young women locked the office door after 6 o'clock and went home. During the night the door was broken open, the type taken from the imposing stones and thrown into the street.

The young women had no trouble until the next spring, when, April 26, an attempt was made to assassinate the family. At 2 o'clock in the morning on that day some unknown person fired into Pearl Griffin's sleeping room, the shot tearing out the whole of the upper window sash and the bullets lodging in the ceiling. Almost at the same moment a shot was fired in another room, where Mrs. Griffin, the mother of the young women, was sleeping, but the aim was too low, and the bullets did no harm.

Before going to Maryville the Griffin girls ran a little weekly paper at Skidmore, Mo. One night, just before going to press, the office accidentally caught fire, and was totally destroyed together with all of its material. Miss Pearl Griffin made a railroad journey of thirty miles to a neighboring town, got enough material to set up her paper, returned home, and the Skidmore Herald was on the street that evening, only a few hours late.—Boston Journal.

The railroads of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania now carry bicycles free as baggage.

NEW YORK LETTER

The anxiety of the foreign grand opera singers to get to New York is not great as ever. One visit seems to confirm their fondness for the salaries here, and it is a matter of deep regret to them when the opportunities for return tour are forthcoming. Signor Leno, who failed so badly that he was hissed, is eager to get over here again. Chevalier would come if he got the chance, Anna Held has been lucky enough to have a second trial, and Lole Fuller, who belongs to their set in spite of her nationality, would in the very much to be assured of profits as great as those of her last visit here. But the golden days of high-priced engagements here have passed. Yvette Guilbert is anxious to return, but it will be as an actress—as a producing rival, moreover, of Duse and Bernhardt. The opera singers are all so eager to return here, and Mme. Lesbrech, who will be heard here this season, has been pining to get back ever since her first visit, which was more than twelve years ago. Sometime she is coming over on her own responsibility, and, unusual enough for a foreign singer, will be her own backer.

Coming Star.

One of the most important ventures of the season will be the starring tour of Miss Maud Adams. Miss Adams has won a place in the hearts of theatre-goers by her careful and conscientious acting. She has always been looked upon, however, as something inseparable from John Drew's company. Her venture as a star, therefore, is still a hazard, and she will be watched with interest in her first attempt to carry a company. J. M. Barrie's "Little Minister" is announced as her opening piece.

MISS MAUD ADAMS.

Robert Edeson will support Miss Adams this year. He is well known to the stage, and last year was a member of the Empire Theatre Stock Company. He attracted notice by his work in the English sporting comedy, "Thoroughbred." Last season he played the part of the Sergeant in "Under the Red Robe," and when the play was prolonged beyond its announced run, he took the place of Mr. Faversham as leading man when the former retired from the company.

Rivalry in Yellow Kid Journalism.

Another instance is in evidence of the intense rivalry of the "yellow" newspapers. Recently the World offered to send to Europe, for a two months' trip, with whom he pleased to take with her, the wheelwoman who was voted "most popular" in the unusual sort of coupon contest. She was to travel on a prize silver-plated tandem, also popularized by the same electorate. Next day the Journal came out with an offer to send the ten most popular bicycle riders, men and women, on a month's European trip without any conditions whatever surrounding the contest, and to give ten bicycles to the ten next in rank among the other contestants.

A Lie Between the Stock Market.

A sensational advance of nearly nine points in Manhattan was the recent feature of the stock market. The cause of the rapid rise was the publication of a story by a morning paper to the effect that former Secretary William C. Whitney, in behalf of the Metropolitan Street Railway, had made an offer to twenty to forty points above the market price for the Gould and Sage interest in the elevated road, and that the consolidation of the two companies would give them nearly a monopoly of the transportation facilities of this city.

The story bore all the indications of a fake that was put out for stock jobbing purposes, and Mr. Whitney prompted it. But Uncle Russel Sage was rather happy than otherwise. He appeared serious enough, but that is his way. He said:

"I have been much pestered with personal comment around to see me with schemes to consolidate the properties, but they are mostly promoters or brokers, and none of them appears to have any backing. They are after a commission. A man called a couple of days ago with such a plan, but I didn't think seriously of it.

"All the time that Mr. Sage was talking he was in a very merry mood. It was estimated by a broker that the rise had added from $150,000 to $200,000 to the market value of Mr. Sage's stock. Some remarks that Mr. Sage made two days before were recalled. He talked decisively of the immediate future of the stock market, saying that he was afraid the recent advance had been too rapid and that violent reaction might occur. Since those remarks Manhattan had jumped 12 points."

Who says Uncle Russel is not in it?

CYRUS THORP.

The state capitol at Albany has cost more than the palaces of Nero and Diocletian. It will at least serve to keep other states out of a similar folly.

Out Of Humor.

Editor—Mr. Cose, your jokes have not all their humor here of late. What's the trouble?

Joe Cose—I guess I'm not well. I've felt rather funny for a week past.—Philadelphia North American.

Sheriff (to trembling prisoner)—Brace up! Don't let them think you are afraid to die.

The Condemned (indignantly)—I'm not, but—sigh!—hurry and get it over. That chair looks so infernally like a dentist's.

HER FRANKNESS.

Miss Upto-Daight—I'd like to see a man kiss me!

Wyle Doates—No doubt; but I'm surprised to hear you admit it.

A MARVEL AT SIX.

CHICAGO BOY WHO IS THE MOST VERSATILE OF CHILD PRODIGIES.

He Is Especially Skilled in Music, but Seems to Know Something about Everything—Secretary Lyman Gage is His Great and Good Friend.

Of all those children who have achieved or might achieve distinction in their gifts lie in one, or at most, two directions. In versatility of talent Florizel Reuter of Chicago eclipses them all. Only six short years ago he opened his blue eyes in this big world but what wonders has he accomplished! He is first a violinist. Three years ago he began practicing upon a tiny quarter-sized instrument. Only recently has his hand grown large enough to use a half-sized violin. To-day he plays with astonishing facility such pieces as De Beriot's first and ninth concertos; "La Melancolie," Prume; twenty-third concerto, Viotti; "Petite Tambour," David, and Alard's "Faust Fantasie, and in all plays them with a correctness of intonation, accuracy and artistic abandon that leaves the hearers speechless with amazement.

He draws with remarkable accuracy pictures of ships, birds, butterflies, animals, trees and ideal beauties. He relishes with a fire and intelligence incomprehensible in one so young "Barbara Frietchie," "Sheridan's Ride,"

FLORIZEL REUTER.

Scott's "Lady of the Lake," Eugene Field's poems and whole scenes from Shakespeare's tragedies. In recitations he has had no instruction. The flash of the eye, the quivering frame, the imperious gesture, the ringing voice and the awe-inspiring tone of the whispered pathos are merely untaught nature. Developed on this line he might take high rank as an actor, for his histrionic gifts are undeniable.

He knows the names of more of the bones of the human body than many boys who have been through their physiologies. This knowledge he acquired by studying skeletons with the parts properly labeled. In geography, zoology, mythology, history, local and foreign, machinery, music or literature he is widely informed. Not but that there are branches of every subject upon which he has not yet read, but the reach of his information is amazing.

"But how did he acquire all this?" the reader will ask. Principally by reading. He forgets nothing that he reads or hears, and he is always asking questions for information. There is no mental effort expended to remember these thousand and one things. Once read or heard the facts simply stick, with no apparent effort. There is no cramming or coaching for show purposes.

One of little Florizel's best friends and admirers is Chicago's first citizen Lyman J. Gage, secretary of the treasury. Mr. Gage never wearies of the company of the wonder child, and has had him at his house many times. On one occasion, a year ago, a number of prominent men in different professions—doctors, lawyers, clergymen and newspaper men—were invited by Mr Gage to see him. A three hours' test was given him, questions bearing upon every conceivable subject. All were answered in a way that amazed the savants present. Medical examination immediately after betrayed neith or mental excitement nor physical fatigue, pulse and temperature being normal. The questions and answers were stenographically reported and written out and now form a part of the permanent record of the Society of Psychical Research in London.

It is well-nigh impossible to say which of his gifts is the greatest. Each one as it is revealed seems to outshine the others. Perhaps it is his musical talent which will excite the greatest wonder, even though in this direction there are hundreds of children remarkably gifted. His knowledge of absolute pitch is certain. With his back turned to a piano he can correctly name key struck singly or in combination. A concert he will tell the key in which a piece is being played or sung. All sounds of nature are to him musical and their pitch and quality are instantly classified. The notes of birds, the lowing of cattle or the sighing of the wind are all musical tones of definit pitch. When he hears the wind whistling down the chimney he will say "Listen! The wind is blowing in G sharp. If it has gone up to E!"—Chicago Times-Herald.

Mr. Sounder—They say that the pressure at the bottom of the ocean is tremendous.

Miss Willing—Yes, and it all goes to waste, too.

"Did Mrs. Jinks' traveling gown fit well?"

"Yes, but it cost so much she had to give up her trip and stay at home.—Chicago Record.

BIRDS PUZZLED BY KITES.

Their Curiosity Greatly Exercised by These Floating Devices.

Many amusing experiences have been the lot of the scientists who have been manipulating kites for scientific purposes. Large birds are always interested in the strange devices floating in the air and cannot quite make out what they are. Prompted by sharp curiosity, they hover around the floating kites and subject themselves to the danger of becoming entangled in the silken string and being dragged to earth.

No bird, however, has ever alighted on a kite or attacked one. While one scientist was flying a train of five kites, a couple of years ago, a large silver-tipped eagle came suddenly out of the highest air and swooped round and round the first kite, looking against the sunset sky like a huge silver ball. As the train of kites was pulled in the eagle followed, visiting one kite and then another, seeming until certain just what to do. In a few minutes, when he seemed to have decided that they were not good to eat, and he knew nothing about them, anyway, he indignantly flew off and was lost to view.

Another experience was had with a stork that came from the New Jersey side of the Hudson and flew straight for the queer object in the air. He apparently had made up his mind to go straight through it, but changed his mind and dived underneath. He went around and above it, and through a glass it could be seen that he cocked his eye at the intruder in a most comical manner. He started away a few hundred feet, changed his mind and came swooping back. He finally reluctantly went away, mystified over this queer addition to the inhabitants of the air.—Chicago News.

PAPER TELEGRAPH POLES.

Said to be Reliable and to Endure the Influence of the Weather a Long Time.

Now that a large number of telegraph lines that were put up many years ago need renewal, the announcement is timely that the latest adaptation of paper is to telegraph and telephone poles. These poles are said to be staunch and reliable, possessing a toughness which gives them exceptional weather resisting power, and durability over a long period. Such a pole ought to be extremely welcome in Oregon, where they have a bug known as the which makes its larder in the telegraph poles. Like the ant of La Fontaine, it lays in a crop of acorns for the winter, and chooses for its storehouses, by preference, the tops of cedar telegraph poles. After perforating a hole in the wood the bird inserts the nut, and drives it home with strokes of its beak. No less mischievous a pest is the Norway woodpecker, which is deluded by the humming of the telegraph wires, and thinking there is a swarm of insects inside, bores the pole through and through to reach them. It has been objected to the paper poles that they will serve but a temporary purpose, as before long all wires will be carried underground. The interior of the paper poles says this contingency does not disturb him, for by the time it arrives he will have a paper conduit to put the wires into.

THIS DOG STOPS RUNAWAY HORSES

He Bravely Jumps and Catches the Lines and Holds Them Until Help Is Near.

A gentleman who makes his home at the Hotel Berkeley is the possessor of a fine St. Bernard which deserves a gold medal. The dog has developed a strong penchant for stopping runaway horses, and the last time the stop was accomplished just in time to save a party of ladies from serious injury and perhaps worse. His master was driving down Portland avenue last Saturday when he was startled by a cry of "Look out!" He turned and was just in time to see the dog jump in front of the way of a runaway, which was tearing down the avenue. Just ahead there was a party of ladies who could not possibly escape what seemed certain death to some of them, when the dog, who had been following after, who seemed by instinct to comprehend the impending tragedy, gave a leap and caught the lines of the runaway between his teeth, his great weight bringing the frightened animal to his haunches just as he was about to strike one of the ladies, who seemed too terrified to move.—Minneapolis Times.

Rings His Bell When Hungry.

The strangest bird that ever reached the Philadelphia zoo came from Brasil. It is the bell bird, fat and pudgy, curiously marked in its plumage, and about the size of a small pigeon. Its most striking characteristic is its wonderful voice, from which it gets its name. When hungry the bird squats on its haunches, throws its square-cut bill up towards the skies and utters its peculiar resonant notes. The song is not unlike the sound produced by the striking of a hammer on an anvil, clear and ringing, so penetrating that it can be heard throughout the gardens. There is no let-up in the ties until the keeper speaks by bringing cream nuts, the food on which the bird thrives in its native forests. The creature is a great consumer, often making away with a quart of the nuts in a single day. It keeps its head always cocked in the vice-like beak. After stuffing itself it rests contentedly until the pangs of hunger are again felt, when the bell is rung.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

An Easy One.

Interlocutor—What am de diff'rence atween a queen an' a pair ob trousers?

Bone—Oh, Lawdy, Lawdy! So easy. De one pags at de bees an' de odder bags at de knees!—New York Journal

He—Why do you call that you've thrown away bachelor corn? She—Because it won't pop.

300 MILES OF GOLD.

KLONDIKE TOWNS ARE VERY LIKE EARLY TOMBSTONE.

Some Good Canadian Mining Laws—One Man Can Have but One Claim—Wages and the Chances of the Tenderfoot—The Territory Not Restricted.

A correspondent of the New York Journal writing from Dawson City says:

Unless all signs mislead, as signs have rarely mislead, not California in the days of '49, not Australia, not the prolific Rand in South Africa should rank with it.

I venture to estimate the output of gold for the season from the placers in the immediate neighborhood of Dawson at $5,000,000. Some of the enthusiastic miners here say that the product for the season will be nearer $10,000,000 than $5,000,000, but I have noticed a local inclination to brag and I want to be entirely within the facts in any information I send out from this camp of marvels.

Dawson has grown like a mushroom since the news of the richness of the mines in this neighborhood has reached the creeks where gold was found in the Yukon and its tributaries. The present population of this town is about 4,000. Men are streaming in as rapidly as their legs or the river steamers or horses will transport them. We in Dawson have a notion that by the close of the season there will be 10,000 people in the town.

And such a town! It has some of the characteristics of mining camps that Bret Harte has made into story, but it has qualities that California camps never had and never could have. The game of life is played fast, and the boisterous side of mining camps is developing as the population increases. New Dawson would match Tombstone when Tombstone was young. There are gamblers by the score, and there are dance halls by the score.

The principal source of fighting in frontier mining camps, disputes over the possession of claims, has been missing up to this time from the Klondyke region. The Canadian mining laws seem fair, and they are regarded and are enforced as well as possible by the small official force representing the Dominion Government. A section in the law prohibits a miner from "taking up" more than one claim in a neighborhood. This provision of law leads to caution in the selection of claims, and stops land grabbers from controlling all the claims in sight.

I do not mean to say that all the residents of Dawson are willing to obey the law merely because it is law, for I am certain that many of the men are worrying their brains to devise schemes to get hold of a number of claims, and would be glad to evade the rules. Miners generally work in groups, or companies, and each member of a group has an interest in all the claims worked for the joint account of himself and companions. I am told that I have mentioned shows itself in the big population of the town. There is no good reason that so many should be here, except this provision of law restraining a man to one "location." When a miner has "only one claim out of the box" he can leave before making his throw. Therefore Dawson is a base of operations for men who go out from this centre on prospecting trips.

There are no openings here for newcomers to locate claims along any of the creeks where gold placers are known to exist. All the claims on the "good ground" in this immediate vicinity have been taken up. A stranger has to get out and prospect in places of which nothing definite is known, per, of course, places just as likely to contain gold as any of the claims that have yielded the big fortunes to the miners.

Parties leave here every day on prospecting tours. When a discovery of gold is reported crowds rush out in frenzy to the place.

The thronging in of men is making an important change in the prices paid for labor. While provisions are dear, the price of labor is going down. It is known a laborer can get $20 a day for his toil, but that price was not paid to every man. The indication now is that many men who must have food and clothing will crowd the town and that the rate of wages will fall to the cost of subsistence. Flour is $8 a sack.

The weather is intensely disagreeable. The mercury has stood at 87 degrees for two hours in the shade, and this is morning. And there are mosquitoes—millions and billions of mosquitoes — voracious as wharf rats fiercely stinging. They contribute to the discomforts of living on the Klondyke.

Gold in one form or another has been found along a belt nearly three hundred miles long. By the close of the season much more will be known of the character of this belt, for the prospecting going on is thorough, the circumstances and population considered, and more definite information should result.

When I can send a trustworthy report for the guidance of persons contemplating a trip to the Yukon next Spring, I shall hurry it down. Just now not much that is definite can be said to persons not on the ground, because of the absence of available openings for stakes in any district known to be worth working.

Those who have claims on the Bonanza, the El Dorado and the Bear seem certain of immense fortunes.

I cannot truthfully say more.

A Roast in Store for Them.

The Editor's wife—Are poets poorly paid?

The Editor—They aren't paid at all but I'm living in hope that they'll get their pay ~~next hereafter~~.—Truth.

FATHER KNEIPP.

A Priest Known Throughout the World by Reason of His Water Cure.

Sebastian Kneipp was born on May 17, 1821, in Stefansried, Bavaria. He was a weak and sickly boy, and was expected to die of consumption in his youth. He became a weaver, and followed that trade until he reached his majority, when he turned to the Church and to medicine. In 1848 he began his experiments according to the ideas that have since made him noted, and succeeded first in restoring himself to health. Then he began treating the country people about him, and with a success that caused his reputation to spread rapidly. His work in this way was continued for many years without pay. A few years ago he published an account of his treatment, entitled, "My Water Cure," which made him still more widely known. He had all these years attended to his patients personally, giving them baths himself and personally directing their treatment. So great were the demands on his time that finally the Kneipp-Verein was established, supported by charity, to take charge of the work. Two years ago the Pope sent for Dr. Kneipp to come to Rome and treat him for ailments that arose from disordered stomach, and in his case Dr. Kneipp was highly successful. The Kneipp institution is now an immense affair, caring for twelve hundred patients, and with all conveniences, under the direction of twelve resident physicians.

Father Kneipp's system was introduced into this country last summer, when a sanitarium according to his methods was established in New Jersey. The chief elements of the system are application of sunshine, fresh air and water, the most striking feature is the early morning walk, bare-footed, in the dew, or even in the snow, that is required of patients. Though this has attracted the most attention, there are other more important matters insisted on, such as baths of certain kinds and frequency, the use of clothing of a sort to admit light and air, the prohibition of alcohol, and the limitation upon a meat diet.—New York Tribune.

HE ENJOYED THE BOOK.

And was Desirous of an opportunity to Read the Second Volume.

The Prussians tell a good story of an aide-de-camp to the King, Colonel Malachowski. The man was an exceedingly brave fellow, but very poor, and the King, knowing this, hit upon the following plan for presenting him with some money without wounding his feelings. He had a book hollowed out and neatly bound in morocco. In it he deposited five hundred crowns in gold and then sent it to his aide. Malachowski met the King not long after, and in response to the question "How did you like the book?" he made the following reply:

"Yes, I enjoyed the book immensely. It was a marvelously interesting story. I am more than impatient to receive the second volume."

The King was much pleased at the reply, and when the officer's birthday came around he sent him another book similar in every respect, but engraved upon the cover was the words, "This work is complete in two volumes."—Harper's Round Table.

Blind Watch-Makers.

There have been blind watch-makers. In former years there was one living at Holbeach, in Lincolnshire. His name was Rippin, and although completely blind he could take to pieces and put together again watches of most intricate construction with surpassing ease. He was robbed once of some of the tiny belongings of his trade, such as wheels, hair-springs, etc.; the thief was traced, and Rippin identified and swore to his property by the touch.

At Barnstaple, too, in the early part of the present century, there was another such prodigy. His name was William Huntley; he was born blind, and was brought up by his father, who was a clock and watch maker in that business. The inhabitants had great faith in him, and he had plenty of employment; musical clocks and watches even were repaired by him without difficulty; and it is said that in some cases where the fraudulent *had failed to discover a defect, he de*tected the fault, and set it right.—Tid-Bits.

Accomplishments of Royal Persons.

The Prince of Wales is said to have learned in his youth to make stockings. His son, the Duke of York, learned the trade of rope-making. His late cousin, the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, was a blacksmith, not yielding the palm in this respect even to Mr. Gladstone. Queen Victoria is exceedingly fond of knitting. Not many days ago she finished a woolen coverlid and presented it to the oldest and most deserving of the inmates of an asylum for disabled working women in the Isle of Wight.

Unconsciously Solved.

First Chappie—I wonder, now Cholle, how the donkey ever came to be used as the—er, emblem of stupidity.

Second Chappie (with a yawn)—Don't know. I'm sure, dear boy, must have been before our day.—Brooklyn Life.

The Business for Him.

Mother—I wonder what we can do with Johnny, he has such a way of exaggerating everything. He is always making a mountain out of a mole-hill.

Father—I think, my dear, we had better make him a real-estate agent.—New York World

UPSET BY A LEMON.

Its Remarkable Effect Upon a Band of Street Musicians.

Did you ever, in a spirit of frisksiness suck a lemon in full gaze of the members of the Electric Band, while they were engaged in rendering those weird and seductive strains for which they have become noted? Well, don't. Not before any other band, for it may not be such a scathless escape as a boy met with with figures as a principal in a story a friend relates, says the McKeesport Times.

It was when the little German band was playing for drinks before saloons and incidentally picking up some small coin of the realm at other business houses. In front of a Demmler shop they started to tear the "Wacht Am Rhine" to pieces. They fared pretty well, and had switched off to "Sweet Rosy O'Grady" when a small boy, who had evidently been put up to do the trick, made his appearance and stood near the band. He was sucking a lemon, and at his appearance a look of disgust spread over the faces of all the members of the band. One by one the musicians gradually dropped out of the tune until at last there was left only the bass horn player. He had to quit after a little while. It was raining and this, with the lemon episode, rather combined to put the bass horn player in a bad humor. He walked over to the boy, and, catching him by the ear, he said: "Vat for you come around here mit a lemon and kveer der whole tam pand? It's tough luck to shtand apout in der rain mitout vein' kveered py a poy mit dot tam lemon."

There was considerable laughter in a store near by as the German band left for other worlds to conquer. It is a fact slightly known that the presence of any one sucking a lemon in front of a band will cause a panic. The musician's mouth fills so rapidly with saliva he cannot play.

Strategic Movements.

First Boy—See here! didn't I see you running down street yesterday with Bill Bounce after you, wantin' to lick you?

Second Boy—Y-e-s.

"What did you run for?"

"I—I was only running so as to get him away from home, so his mother couldn't see him fighting; but by the time I got to the end of his house we got in sight of our house; and then, as my mother would see me if I stopped to hit him I went in, so as to be out o' temptation!"—New York Weekly.

The "Reincarnating Dago."

There is in the family of one of the leading Theosophists of Toledo a very bright 4-year-old boy who has imbibed many of the ideas of his parents. The other day he astonished his mother by saying: "I wish I were a man, so it could be a Theosophist, like papa."

"What would you do then, my son?" inquired his astonished mother.

"I would talk to people about their souls, and the reincarnating Dago," was the surprising reply. It was a short time before his mother could make out that the child meant the "reincarnating ego."—Toledo Blade.

Precaution.

"Say, missus," said Meandering Mike, "do you wanter hire anybody?"

"No."

"I don't think yer husband wants yer hire anybody, do you?"

"I'm sorry to disappoint you, but I am sure he does not."

"'Tain't no disapp'intment. I jes' wanted de assurance dat I could go ter sleep in dis next lot wit'out bein' disturbed by offers of work."—Washington Star.

To Be Congratulated.

"Yes," said the man from the West, "he was very lucky. He went to a newly discovered gold country, and in less than three weeks come home with $1,000."

"That paid him well for his time."

"N-no; it won't go so far as to say that. You see, he had the $1,000 when he started. But he was mighty fortunate to be able to hold onto it."—Washington Star.

A Rare Jewel.

"My wife," said the young man, in earnest tones, "is a jewel."

"They all say that," said the elderly man, speaking apparently to the fall.

"But I know. Of course, you won't believe it, but she watches me take my bicycle all to pieces without offering a single suggestion."—Indianapolis Journal.

Well Begun, Half Done.

First Reformer—I'm trying to write an essay on the emancipation of my sex, and I find it very hard to begin.

Second Reformer—Oh, I think that would be so easy. Why, you might begin by sharpening your pencil with your husband's razor, you know.—Detroit Tribune.

He Was No Coward.

Landlady—Don't be afraid of the beat, Mr. Jones.

Jones (a new boarder)—I am not afraid of it. I've seen twice as much beat, and it didn't scare me a bit."—New York Journal.

Candidly.

Diner (sniffing)—Waiter, I really think this egg is not fresh!

Waiter—Well, I can't answer for it; I've only been here a week.—New York Journal.

A New View.

"What a nice, kind man Nero was!"

"What? Why, the wretch waited all his life for a chance when he couldn't disturb anyone."—Truth.

It takes time to age whiskey; but it does not take long to age the man who drinks it.—Ram's Horn.

GUARDS THE BOWERY

A WEALTHY LADY IN THE SLUMS OF NEW YORK.

Practical Christian Work of Mrs. Bird—For Thirty Years She Has Been a Veritable Angel to the Poor and Distressed of the Metropolis.

At almost any hour of the day or night, in sweltering Summer heat and fierce wintry storms, denizens of the Bowery, in all stages of sin and misery, step aside to salute a brisk-walking figure, plainly but richly clad. One look will convince the untutored Bowery visitor that this distinguished woman, with her graceful, gentle manners, with a face still retaining clear marks of beauty, never sprang from the sin-cursed Bowery soil.

And yet they all know her, these wretched polyglot outcasts, thieves, jail-birds, drunkards, ragged Magdalenes of the street, and a perpetual incense of "God bless hers" goes up from their degraded hearts when the Mother of the Bowery passes by.

Mrs. Sarah J. Bird, the noted saint of the east side slums, is the New York nineteenth century successor of Paula and Fabriola, those Roman matrons of long wealth who heightened the fourth century of Christendom by deeds of historic sacrifice. Like them she places her bountiful fortune on the altar of human charity and devotes her entire time to Christian rescue work, coupled with substantial relief. She has chosen to till for the Master one of the most barren, rocky, and repulsive patches in all His vineyard.

MRS. SARAH J. BIRD.

Mrs. Bird is on the sunny side of sixty, as Dr. Holmes would say, she is "four sixty years young." She does not know how to grow old. She says she has not time to study it. Though born in Connecticut, she passed her childhood and young life on a rich Louisiana plantation, humored and petted and favored for her beauty. Her speech at times very clearly shows the peculiar Southern twang.

To any one in the habit of connecting a zealous woman worker for the Lord with angular face and frame, sharp, corkscrew curls, and a husky, bass voice, Mrs. Bird would be a revelation. Despite her years of grinding service in the charity and rescue field, her figure is plump and round, her gray hair falls in generous waves from her widow's cap, and her voice is soft and mellow as the echoes of a twilight Ave Mus.

Her home is in Montclair, N. J., a superb mansion, with stables, horses, flowers galore, and spreading lawns. This mansion she visits once a week for a very brief rest of a day. Her real home all the remainder of the year is Summerbee Settlement, a tenantly planned lower room at 200 Eldridge Street, in the very heart of the east side New York slums. There the poor and wretched, all sorts and conditions of men and women, all types of human degradation, each her immediate neighbors are squalid; dirty hordes of Hungarians, Polaks, Low Dutch, and Russian Hebrews.

It was over thirty years ago that Mrs. Bird, on the removal to Fourth, after the war, began her unpretentious rescue work with a woman's meeting at Plymouth Bethel, in Brooklyn. Seven years ago she transferred her labors to the lost women of New York, while she worked her way among the vicious, abandoned denizens of the dives and dance halls in disguise. In those days she had to adopt this course to avoid personal violence. She would go to the room of her earliest convert, don her silks and sealskins, put on a faded old calico and dingy shawl, and in the conventional slum raiment gain access anywhere she wished without a question. This is not necessary to-day.

"I give the Gospel invitation," she said recently, "to over 40,000 lost men each year. You wouldn't believe it, but every Sunday morning no less than 2,000 men come out of those cheap Bowery lodging houses, with no home, no friends, no money, and no place to go. Their rags, remorse, and degradation drive them from the crowd. I do not ask and expect no Christian sympathy, but I always have a hearty welcome for them at the Mission. Ours is the only Sunday morning service for men exclusively in this vast city. During the hottest Summer days you can see these wretched creatures sit four and five hours (lunch time included) listening quietly to the Gospel service, the hymns, and the testimony of converts. How many Christian congregations would do this on a sultry day?

"Good people sometimes think I must be throwing my life and labor away on men who are too far gone to be saved. I am content more than satisfied with the harvest."

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms--$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

DANGER LURKS HERE.

The following editorial from the New Brunswick Times is of especial moment to Plainfield:

It is doubtful if, in all the county, there is another grade crossing as dangerous as that on the Plainfield road, between Pumptown and the upper end of the Oak Tree road. The Lehigh Valley Railroad crosses the road in a hollow. Both sides of the approaches are wooded and an approaching train is almost entirely hidden from sight until it is fairly upon the crossing. The road is a much traveled one, as it is the main highway for hundreds of drivers and wheelmen. That a serious accident has not happened there in the past few years is due more to good fortune than to any other assignable cause. The matter has at last been brought to the attention of the Board of Freeholders and an effort is to be made to abolish the dangerous crossing at grade by elevating the roadway so as to pass over the tracks. This plan has been followed on the Oak Tree road just a few hundred feet down the track, and the element of danger has been very thoroughly eliminated.

WELFARE OF YOUNG MEN.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association last Thursday, the following resolution was presented by E. R. Ackerman and adopted:

Resolved, That the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Plainfield would call the special attention of the members of the Association to the benefit that will accrue to the young men of the State by the adoption of the proposed amendment to the constitution relating to lotteries and gambling, which is to be voted for on Sept. 28th, 1897. The Board would urge all members of the Association not only to vote themselves for the amendment, but to use their best efforts in bringing this important matter to the attention of their friends in order that the amendment may be overwhelmingly adopted.

MUST DIE TO GET HONOR HERE

There is at least one honor that Uncle Sam bestows that always go to dead men, and that is the use of portraits on postal and revenue stamps. In 1875 a law was passed prohibiting the use of the portraits of living men on the U. S. stamps, thus placing living men in the same position that women occupied, whether dead or alive, for no woman's portrait has ever graced a stamp belonging to the United States, postal or revenue.

TRANSFERS AND CONTRACTS.

Matters of Record From Plainfield in the County Clerk's Office.

The following property transfers have been recorded at County Clerk Howard's office, August 18th to September 4th inclusive, as published in the New Jersey Contractor and Gazette:

Michael J. Jackson, executor, to Gertrude Jackson, tract 49 East Second street, Plainfield, also one-half title to houses and lots 717, 719 and 721 East Second street, with one-half interest in place, with lots 311 and 313 Lee place, $2,300. A. D. Thompson et ux. and Frances T. Runyon to John A. Merrill, lot east side of Richmond street, Plainfield, mortgage $5,000. Morgan R. Smalley et ux. Stony Creek, to John C. Probasco, Franklin township, Hunterdon county, lot Arlington avenue, Plainfield, $200. Elston M. French, North Plainfield, to Patrick Harrington, Plainfield, lot 27, block A. French map, Plainfield, $270. Winifred S. Blanchet et ux. to DeWitte C. Flanagan, New York, lot Carleton avenue, Plainfield, mortgage $40. $1,200.

The following contracts have also been filed:

Trinity Reformed Dutch church, Plainfield, with David S. Dunavan, furnace registers, etc., E. W. Vaughn, Trinity Reformed church, Plainfield, with David S. Dunavan, furnace heating, etc., $53. Rachel A. Frazee with Charles M. Wilson, Plainfield, carpenter and mason work, double house, Plainfield, $2,000.

Services Again Resumed.

Services were again held in the Congregational church Sunday after the closing of the church for the month of August. The Sunday-school was held in the morning at 9:30 o'clock and the morning service at the regular time. Rev. C. L. Goodrich, the pastor, occupied the pulpit and preached an interesting and helpful discourse. The choir has been discontinued and Horace J. Martin will act hereafter as precentor. Mrs. B. T. Barnes has resigned her position as organist. That position was filled Sunday by Mrs. L. B. Morgan.

Mrs. George Demler Entertains.

In honor of her husband's fortieth birthday, Mrs. Demler, of Washington ville, gave a delightful party Friday evening. The pleasant rooms were crowded with guests and the time was passed in a most social manner. Unless George is an adept at "making believe" it was, as was intended, a great surprise to him. At 12o'clock a delicious lunch was served which did great credit to the pretty little hostess. All wished Mr. Demler many happy returns of the day.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

POLICE WON THE GAME

MANY LUDICROUS FEATURES TO THE GREAT BALL GAME.

The Contest Witnessed by a Thousand People Who Laughed Themselves Hoarse at the Antics of the Public Servants.

One thousand warm but enthusiastic citizens yelled themselves hoarse over the grand conflict between the Policemen of this city and Uncle Sam's Letter-Carriers Monday afternoon on the baseball diamond. Perhaps it was their superior knowledge of how to wield the club, but at any rate, the nine composed of Plainfield's "finest" succeeded in vanquishing their opponents by a score of 31 to 22. 'Twas a comedy of errors from first to last, but that was all in the game, and then eighteen tired and begrimed players departed from the field after the hardest day's work they had met for many a day.

There were few of those who turned out for the game who expected to see any astonishing fine playing, but the object, the Muhlenberg Hospital, was a worthy one; then the people wanted to laugh and they had plenty of chances. The players had a chance to laugh out of the other side of their face, for everyone was lame and stiff long before the game was half over. With grim determination they stuck to it and played. But, oh, what playing!

The fact that the Police and Letter-Carriers were to meet on the Crescents field Monday afternoon, drew many people in that direction, and even before the game began, every vacant seat was filled. Extra seats had been provided, but they were soon occupied. The crowd stood up all around the field and conservative estimators placed the number at over a thousand.

What a game it was! It would need several volumes to record all the funny happenings on that diamond *and in the field. There was a tend*ency of some of the players to get out of the way of the ball when it came at them, either in the field or at the bat.

There were several who made no errors, but most of them did not get any chance to. The base stealing was glorious and so was some of the running.

The Letter-Carriers had first bat and hammered out three runs with the assistance of several errors. Then the police rose up and went forth and did not return until they had secured nine. The blue coats took the lead and were never headed although the Carriers came within two runs of it toward the last of the game. The "cops" took another batting streak in their last inning and had things all their own way for seven runs.

McCarty was the hero of the police in a bathing jersey and blue short pants. He batted, forgot to make an error, and took his turn at catching while Flynn took a rest, and frisked around the bases in great style. The battery was Aaron Mattox, one of the specials, and Flynn. Mattox danced about, made a double play all alone and generally distinguished himself. Flynn seemed to derive great pleasure in stopping the balls on his knees and so lamed himself up that he hobbled about in a way far different from his usual jaunty walk. He held on or stopped enough balls, however, to do his duty and put out the opposing batters.

Totten, at first, ate up the balls, seldom dropping them. He batted and ran bases like a fiend. Jolly Morris Higgins did third and kept the crowd in a roar. It was great fun to see him make a home run on a one base hit and chase around the diamond as if, like Tam O'Shanter, he was pursued by goblins, and then have to go back to first. Revelle knocked him down once with a swift ball which struck the officer full in the back of the head but Higgins jumped up and ran to first like a deer and then began to inquire the cause of the laughter.

Saffron, at second, used his foot for a back stop but it did not work, so after that he interposed his body. Lunger made himself famous by being the only fielder to catch a fly. Watson, at centre, had to run once to avoid being hit by one. He also fell over the first baseman in attempting to gain first and made a delightful unintentional slide for the bag. Poor LaPorte was nearly extinguished by the shock.

But Saunders, his base running was of the kind called record-breaking. He ran once on a foul while all the crowd yelled "Go it, Jim." His strides were some of the order of those of the famous "Seven League" boots while his eyes bulged out of his head as he shot toward the base. His appearance in stealing second was such a shock to Shea that the latter refused to attempt to stop him. McCarty did the most expert foul hitting, one of his tips rapping "Billie" Runyon soundly on the crown and another catching a horse in the nose. While McCarty was catching, he delighted the crowd by running into Special Officer William Dagnall and spilling him in the dust, where the two officers rolled together.

"Patsy" Revelle twirled for the Letter-Carriers and he might have done better than he did in striking out his opponents had Shea not had such hard luck stopping his curves. Dan found catching more fun than he bargained for and he decided that a run or two less for the opponents would not be worth the amount of energy that he would have to devote to chasing the ball all around the back stop. Dan improved with time, however, and played well at the last. He took the honors in batting for his side, making two clean two-baggers.

LaPorte covered first, sometimes. After his experience with Watson he remembered the runner, sometimes to the detriment of his game. Hann, at second, had the right idea, but he was not always able to put it into execution. He was very lucky, however, in escaping from the path of several hot grounders. "Bob" Loughlin made one fine stop, but he also played tag several times with the pesky sphere. He also surprised himself by making a charming hit. Sharp, at third, was in the game. He had the faculty of catching the ball and ended several flies in that manner. He also distinguished the Policemen by touching them out when they tried to slide to third. Of course, they sometimes overran the base by about twenty feet and that somewhat aided him.

Glaentzer developed into a batter and base-stealer and succeeded in escaping, although Saffron frequently tried to arrest him. Demarest and Pierson promptly dropped the two balls that came to them as soon as they touched them, whereat the crowd unsympathetically howled. Demarest declares, however, that one ball struck the back of a mosquito and bounded off just before it was about to land in his hands.

Councilman W. N. Runyon and George O. Stevens, the popular coal dealer, umpired. They found frequent consultations unnecessary, but presided with all due dignity and refused to take off their coats and keep cool.

It wasn't any cinch to keep a detailed score of such a game, but the summary may be expected to be somewhere in the neighborhood of the following tabulations:

POLICEMEN.

	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E
McCarthy, ss, c	7	7	3	1	0	0
Totten, 1b	7	3	3	9	0	0
Saunders, rf	6	2	0	0	0	1
Watson, cf	6	1	2	3	0	1
Lunger, lf	6	2	1	1	2	0
Flynn, c, ss	5	1	1	10	1	0
Revelle, 1b	6	3	4	8	0	2
Higgins, 3b	5	4	2	1	1	0
Saffron, 2b	5	3	1	1	3	0
	52	31	14	*26	11	16

*Batter out for batting out of turn.

LETTER CARRIERS.

	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E
Glaentzer, lf	6	3	2	2	0	1
Hann, 2b	6	4	2	2	0	4
Sharp, 3b	6	4	2	0	2	4
Pierson, cf	6	3	2	0	2	1
Demarest, rf	7	2	1	0	0	1
Shea, p	6	1	2	1	3	4
LaPorte, 1b	5	2	1	2	0	2
Loughlin, ss	5	1	1	1	1	2
Revelle, p	5	1	1	4	4	5
	50	22	14	14	13	24

BY INNINGS.

Policemen.....1 4 3 2 7 *—31
Letter Carriers.....3 2 1 2 3 4 1 1—22

Earned runs—Police, 7; Carriers, 2. Two-base hits—McCarthy, 2; Shea, 1. Three-base hits—Mattox, Sheridan, Higgins, Glaentzer, Hann. Stolen bases—McCarthy, 3; Saunders, Mattox, Watson, Sheridan, Glaentzer, 2; Hann, Sharp, 4; Shea, LaPorte, 2; Loughlin, Revelle. Struck out—By Revelle, 6; by Mattox, 10. Bases on balls—By Revelle, 3; by Mattox, 5. Hit by pitched ball—Mattox, Sheridan, Pierson, Revelle, 2. Wild pitches—Mattox, 1; Revelle, 1. Passed balls—Flynn, 3; Mcdonald, 1. Double plays—Lunger and Totten. Mattox unassisted. Left on bases—Police, 9; Carriers, 10. Time of game—3 hours and 5 minutes. Umpires—Councilman Wm. N. Runyon and Geo. O. Stevens. Scorer—Chas. B. Morse.

Owing to over-crowding and bad ventilation, the air of the schoolroom is often close and impure, and teachers and pupils frequently suffer from lung and throat troubles. To all such we would say, try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For coughs, colds, weak lungs and bronchial troubles no other remedy can compare with it. Says A. C. Freed, Superintendent of Schools, Prairie Depot, Ohio: "Having some knowledge of the efficacy of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I have no hesitation in recommending it to all who suffer from coughs, lung troubles, etc." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner of Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

G. A. R. Boys Complimented.

The Buffalo Commercial, under date of August 25th, has the following complimentary words concerning Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, of Plainfield, N. J., "Isaac McCoy commanding, marched in splendid array. Fully fifty men marched shoulder to shoulder as in olden days. Among the prominent men in the post were W. W. Coriell, the president of the Second New Jersey Brigade, and Captain Wm. Hand, who has the honor of having carried one sword through twenty pitched battles. Captain Hand organized the first company in the State of New Jersey and during the rebellion was quartermaster at the headquarters of Gen. Hooker."

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT EFFERVESCENT

Has been in favor 50 years

Grows in favor every year because it does all that need be done to cure indigestion for good. Sweetens and cleanses the stomach, increases gastric juice, prevents fermentation. Equally good for young or old. All druggists. 50c. and $1.00.

942 WENT WITH GROCERS

ONLY ONE MISHAP, BUT THAT WAS A SERIOUS ONE.

Edward Jones Thrust His Arm Out of a Car Window and It was Broken at the Elbow--A Change of Cars was Necessary.

Nearly a thousand excursionists, or to be exact, 942, visited South Beach, the well-known Staten Island resort, Monday, from this city and Dunellen. It was the occasion of the annual excursion of the Grocers' Association. The day was all that could be desired, and the excursionists found the beach cool and pleasant. There were countless attractions for old and young and the day was a busy one for all.

It required two sections to carry all the passengers who gathered at the North Avenue station and at Dunellen. The start was made at 8 o'clock and several hundred friends of the excursionists gathered to see the train off. The excursion was advertised to go direct without change of cars, but it was found necessary to make a change after all. The passenger cars on the Jersey Central railroad were much larger than those on the Rapid Transit line. As the the tunnels, bridges, station platforms and other structures were built for the narrow cars, there was barely room for the Central cars to pass through and it meant serious or perhaps fatal injury to whoever put head or hand out of the window. Those in charge deemed it better to change cars to taking the risk of many accidents. So the train that went from here carried the excursionists across the Baltimore and Ohio bridge into Staten Island and to Port Richmond, where they changed cars and continued on the line of the Staten Island Rapid Transit.

Only one accident occurred to mar the pleasure of the trip down. Edward Jones, a lad of sixteen years, living at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Second street, thrust his hand out of an open window just as the train passed over the single track draw bridge over the Kill von Kull. His arm caught in the trestle work and was broken at the elbow. He was taken home at once at the railroad company's expense and had his injury looked after by a physician at the company's expense, also. It is feared that he will have to lose his arm as the bone is broken where it is thought it will not heal.

The excursion left South Beach at nine o'clock and six excursionists were left behind. The train waited for them, however, and they were brought up on another train. The last section arrived in Plainfield at 10:45 o'clock.

Financially, the excursion proved a success, and over $150 was cleared by the Grocers' Association.

BURNED TO DEATH.

The Victim, a Little Girl, Brought to this City for Interment.

A sad accident occurred at Martinsburg, W. Va., last Sunday afternoon when Hilda Helferich, aged three years and six months, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Helferich, was burned to death. The little one was put to bed at the usual hour and the parents went out for a while. When they returned they found their little daughter terribly burned and life almost extinct. In a very few minutes she died in great agony. The supposition is that the girl awakened from her sleep and securing some matches began to play with them when several of them were ignited. The burned matches were found close by. The parents brought the body to Plainfield and the funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the home of William Sharkey, of Whitewood avenue. The latter is a brother of Mrs. Helferich. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

"My boy came home late from school one day with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schall, with Meyer Bros.' Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo. "I dressed the wound, and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely. All pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Edward Petrie, of East Sixth street, has been spending a few days at Delaware Water Gap.

—For two evenings, September 16th and 17th, the American Biograph will entertain in the First M. E. church for the benefit of the Epworth League and Ladies' Aid Society. There will be thirty-five different views every evening. The instrument is the same which has been appearing at Keith's Theatre in New York and the Auditorium at Asbury Park.

CONSTANT READER:—We cannot spare the space to tell you all the merits of Fleer's Guru Kola Gum. It contains pepsin and keeps the stomach right. Send a stamp to Frank H. Fleer & Co., Philadelphia, and request them to send their booklet. Please mention this paper.—Ed.

The Difference

"I see no difference between H-O and any other oatmeal!" We know it. The difference is not to be seen. You taste, and smell, and feel the difference, though!

H-O

is different from all others, in that it is more sweet, smooth, delicate, digestible. Its preparation begins where the others leave off. It is twice cooked, once by steam, once by super-heated air. Thus half the work of digestion is done, and the system is never over-taxed or over-heated.

Be sure to get the package with the big H-O on the end.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption (Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections generally, decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 96 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

—The 10:27 morning train and 2:27 afternoon train to New York have ceased to make connections for stations on the Long Branch road. Yesterday was the last for the summer schedule.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 2:20, 5, 8:30 p. m.
Close—7 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8:30 a. m., 3 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—11:30 a. m., 1:00, and 3:20 p. m.
Close—7 a. m., 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 5:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—7:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 9:30 a. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT SEPT. 5th, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 5 34, 7 37, 8 39, 9 43, 10 39, 11 39 a. m., 12 39, 2 39, 3 39, 4 39, 5 39, 6 39, 7 39, 8 39, 9 39, 10 39, 11 39 p. m., 12 39 night. Sundays, 5 34, 7 37, 8 39, 9 43, 10 39, 11 39 a. m., 12 39, 2 39, 3 39, 4 39, 5 39, 6 39, 7 39, 8 39, 9 39, 10 39, 11 39 p. m., 12 39 night.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, at 4 00, 7 35, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00, 12 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night. Sundays, 4 00, 7 35, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night; 1 00 a. m.

Express trains leave New York at 7 00, 7 55, 8 30, 9 55, 11 55 a. m., 12 45 p. m., 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 55, 11 55 p. m., 12 45 night. Sundays, 7 00, 7 55, 8 30, 9 55, 11 55 a. m., 12 45 p. m., 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 55, 11 55 p. m., 12 45 night.

Express trains leave Plainfield for New York at 7 55, 8 30, 9 55 a. m., 12 45, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 55, 11 55 p. m., 12 45 night. Sundays, 7 55, 8 30, 9 55, 11 55 a. m., 12 45 p. m., 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 55, 11 55 p. m., 12 45 night.

Express trains for New York leave Whitehall street, 7 00, 7 55, 8 30, 9 55, 11 55 a. m., 12 45 p. m., 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 55, 11 55 p. m., 12 45 night. Sundays, 7 00, 7 55, 8 30, 9 55, 11 55 a. m., 12 45 p. m., 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 55, 11 55 p. m., 12 45 night.

Express trains for New York leave Elizabeth, 7 55, 8 30, 9 55 a. m., 12 45, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 55, 11 55 p. m., 12 45 night. Sundays, 7 55, 8 30, 9 55, 11 55 a. m., 12 45 p. m., 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 55, 11 55 p. m., 12 45 night.

Express for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 10, 8 15, 9 54, 11 09 a. m., 1 01, 2 40, 4 04, 5 05, 6 10, 7 13, 8 11, 9 54, 11 09 p. m. Sunday at 5 00, 8 15, 9 54, 11 09 a. m., 2 40, 4 04, 6 10, 7 13, 9 54, 11 09 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 7 25, 8 30, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 3 00, 4 30, 5 30, 6 45, 7 55, 9 30, 10 45 p. m. Sunday at 6 00, 8 30, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 1 30, 3 00, 4 30, 5 30, 6 45, 7 55, 9 30, 10 45 p. m.

Leave Bonnerton at 6 00, 7 35, 8 40, 9 55, 11 10 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 3 10, 4 40, 5 40, 6 55, 8 05, 9 40, 10 55 p. m. Sundays, 6 15, 8 40, 9 55, 11 10 a. m., 1 40, 3 10, 4 40, 5 40, 6 55, 8 05, 9 40, 10 55 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 6 30, 7 55, 9 00, 10 15, 11 30 a. m., 12 55, 2 25, 3 55, 5 25, 6 30, 7 45, 8 50, 10 25, 11 40 p. m. Sundays, 6 30, 9 00, 10 15, 11 30 a. m., 2 25, 3 55, 5 25, 6 30, 7 45, 8 50, 10 25, 11 40 p. m.

Leave Plainfield at 7 10, 8 15, 9 30, 10 45, 11 54 a. m., 1 35, 3 14, 4 40, 5 41, 6 46, 7 49, 8 47, 10 31, 11 46 p. m. Sundays, 7 10, 8 15, 9 30, 10 45, 11 54 a. m., 1 35, 3 14, 4 40, 5 41, 6 46, 7 49, 8 47, 10 31, 11 46 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 8 39, 9 43, 10 39, 11 39 a. m., 12 39, 2 39, 3 39, 4 39, 5 39, 6 39, 7 39, 8 39, 9 39, 10 39, 11 39 p. m., 12 39 night. Sundays, 8 39, 9 43, 10 39, 11 39 a. m., 12 39, 2 39, 3 39, 4 39, 5 39, 6 39, 7 39, 8 39, 9 39, 10 39, 11 39 p. m., 12 39 night.

Leave Hopatcong at 5 55, 7 55, 9 55, 11 55 a. m., 1 55, 3 55, 5 55, 7 55, 9 55, 11 55 p. m. Sundays, 5 55, 7 55, 9 55, 11 55 a. m., 1 55, 3 55, 5 55, 7 55, 9 55, 11 55 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Junction, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, connecting for Stations on High Bridge Branch and Lehigh Valley Railroad.

7 10 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Junction, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Shamokin, Sunbury, Lewisburg, Lock Haven, Renovo, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Hazleton, Mauch Chunk

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

UMPIRE WON THE GAME.

WEST END'S VICTORIOUS BY SEVERAL UNFAIR DECISIONS.

After the Crescents Had Victory in Their Grasp the Umpire Robbed Them of It—One of the Closest Interesting Innings.

It is not the custom of The Press to make excuses for the local players when they meet with defeat. Defeat should be fairly acknowledged by all lovers of the National game. But the defeat of the Crescents by the West End Field Club Monday morning, was not right. The trouble did not lay with the victors, who where a gentlemanly set of young fellows, but with the umpire, Philip Tippett, a young New York lawyer, whose offices are to be found at 150 Nassau street.

It was a good game, and while not strokes for either team, it was close and well played until the umpire took affairs in his own hands. Even the visitors admitted after the game that the umpiring was very poor, but explained that it was Tippett's first attempt. His decisions regarding balls and strikes were so poor that McLarty twice refused to play. His decisions at bases were equally as bad, and he robbed Cavanagh of a clean two-base hit, bringing in two runs, by calling it foul.

The Crescents managed to score three runs in the first and second innings on well-bunched hits and errors. The visitors were shut out until the sixth when they made one. With two men on bases, Will Symons was declared out on strikes that were over his shoulder. Several other attempts to score were similarly spoiled. The visitors made three runs in the eighth, and Cavanaugh tied the score on a two-base hit and an error. Symons was again declared struck out with two men on bases. In the last half of the eleventh inning, the umpire grew so wild that he was forced to withdraw in favor of Duffy. It was too late, however, for Larndon made a triple and untimely errors by Symons and Cooney and a base on balls gave the visitors four runs.

The Crescents started out with the intention of scoring, but Horn made a beautiful one-handed catch of McLarty's liner and made a double play unassisted by touching second before Lederer could return. While the score shows twelve errors for the home team, there were but few of them that had anything to do with the result for they came at times when they did not prove expensive. The visitors did certainly put up a fine game and would have made a pretty contest with the Crescents had not it been spoiled by the umpire's decisions.

There were two umpires at the start, but in the first inning, a foul tip broke Erickson's mask and drove one of the wires into his face just below the eye. He was forced to retire. It is feared he will loose his eye as a result of the accident.

The detailed score of the game was as follows:

CRESCENTS.

	A. B.	R.	B. H.	P. O.	A.	E.
Symons, rf	4	1	0	1	1	1
Callister, ss	4	0	0	2	3	1
Coon, c	5	1	0	9	2	1
Cavanagh, 1b	5	2	2	13	0	0
Collins, cf	5	0	1	2	0	0
Cooney, 2b	5	0	0	2	3	2
McLarty, p	5	0	2	1	0	2
Lederer, 3b	4	0	2	1	0	1
Medeli, lf	4	0	2	1	0	1
	42	4	13	33	14	12

WEST END FIELD CLUB.

	A. B.	R.	B. H.	P. O.	A.	E.
Mooney, rf	5	1	0	4	0	0
Horn, 2b	4	1	1	2	2	0
Bell, c	4	0	0	7	2	0
Cobb, 1b	5	0	0	2	0	0
Ryan, ss	5	0	1	1	3	1
Erickson, lf	5	0	1	5	3	1
Tabor, cf	5	0	1	1	0	0
Bobby, rf	5	1	1	1	0	1
Larndon, p	5	1	1	0	1	1
Tabor, p	5	1	1	0	1	1
	44	5	6	33	14	5

BY INNINGS.

West Ends	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	3	0	0—4
Crescents	2	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0—4

Earned runs, Crescents, 1; West Ends, 0. Two-base hits, Hollister, Cavanagh, 2. McLarty, Cobb. Three-base hit, Larndon. Sacrifice hits, Screven, Cooney, Bertis, Cobb, Tabor. Struck out, Hollister, 2; Tabor, 2; Symons, 2; balls, Of McLarty, 1; of Tabor, 2. Wild pitches, Tabor, Larndon, 2. Passed balls, Coon, Bell. Double plays, Horn, Bertis and Cobb, Horn, unassisted. Left on bases, Crescents, 8; West Ends, 10. Umpires, Edward Dickson and Mr. Duffy, of Plainfield, and Philip Tippett of New York. Time of game, three hours.

WANTED AGENTS

BOTH MEN AND WOMEN. If you are willing to work we can give you employment with GOOD PAY, and you can work all or part time. And at home or traveling. The work is LIGHT AND CLEAN. WRITE AT ONCE for terms, etc., to

THE HAWKS NURSERY COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y. 99 am

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The lovers of golf and tennis found themselves perfectly at home all day Monday and Saturday afternoon on the grounds of the Hillside Tennis Tennis and Golf Club grounds, for there was plenty to attract the supporters of these two popular games. The tennis was confined to yesterday, while golf occupied a larger part of the time. Last Saturday afternoon occurred the regular monthly handicap play and considerable interest was manifested not only by the players but by a number of spectators. J. H. P. Wharton was the fortunate one to win the honors and his score was a most excellent one. Below will be found the scores in full:

	Gross.	Handi-cap.	Net.
J. H. P. Wharton	89	0	89
W. L. Glenny	98	0	98
L. H. Van Buren	116	18	98
W. Walz	113	7	106
Carl Walz	106	6	100
H. P. Rogers	127	15	102
Howard Tracy	122	16	106
H. Talmage	124	18	106
H. L. Stockton	134	12	122
H. W. Beebe	131	7	124

Commencing Monday morning the golf tournament for the Reinhart cup was started. After two rounds of eighteen holes, medal play, the score resulted in a tie between Fred Walz and W. L. Glenney, and the tie was played off at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when Fred Walz came off victorious, winning the cup, which was previously held by J. H. P. Wharton. Mr. Walz will hold the cup until next Decoration Day, when it will again be played for. In the afternoon two rounds of eighteen holes was played to decide the contest, which resulted as follows:

	Gross.	Handi-cap.	Net.
W. L. Glenny	96	0	96
J. P. Wharton	111	2	113
Reeve Stockton	113	0	113
W. Walz	103	6	97
Carl Walz	116	6	110
A. Tracy	116	7	109
H. Rogers	118	14	104
C. Wharton, Jr	115	14	101
J. W. Sanford, Jr	113	14	99
H. Tracy	125	18	107
J. Van Buren	126	18	108
H. Talmage	133	18	115
H. L. Beebe	124	14	110
L. Walz	100	7	93
W. L. Glenny	111	0	111

A feature of the afternoon was the gathering of the fair sex at the pretty little clubhouse. Considering that many Plainfield society people are still away there was a very good attendance. Mrs. A. H. Atterbury received and she was assisted by Mrs. Irving H. Brown, Miss Dumont, Miss Coe, Miss Talmage, Miss Patton, Miss Goddard, of this city, and Miss Starr, of New York. The latter is a guest of Miss Dumont. Cooling refreshments were served and altogether the affair was a delightful one. It was nearly dark when play was concluded on the course, and it was with reluctance that the guests departed for home. Mr. Walz was the recipient of many congratulations for his excellent play and his success in winning the cup for a time at least.

Another feature of the day was the tennis tournament for the championship of the club. This attracted considerable interest and especially were the fair sex interested. The tournament was started in the morning, when George Ryder beat F. H. Goddard 6 4, 6 1; Henry Ryder beat H. West, 6 4, 6 3. The finals resulted in Henry Ryder beating Geo. Ryder 4 6, 3 6, 6 0, 6 2, 6 0 In the afternoon Carl Walz, who held the championship, met Henry Ryder for the highest honors, and the result was that the championship fell to the lot of Mr. Walz, who won after a hard fight. Owing to the fact that Mr. Ryder had been ill his playing was, no doubt, materially affected, but he played a plucky game. The former will now hold the honors for another year.

New Jersey Military Academy.

Already the home of numerous educational institutions that add credit and lustre to the town, Plainfield is again made the point of establishment of another school known as the New Jersey Military Academy, merged from Dr. Johnston's Latin School. The institution is to be under the direction of Dr. A. D. Warde, formerly superintendent of the North Plainfield Public School, who recognizes Plainfield's central location and many other advantages as important factors in the success of such a school as he intends to maintain. It will be a military school for the primary and higher education of boys and young men, giving a thorough preparation for the college, the government and scientific schools and for business. It will open September 24th.

Make the Most of Yourself.

It is the duty of every man to make the most of himself. Whatever his capacity may be, he is sure to find some place where he can be useful to himself and to others. But he cannot reach his highest usefulness without good health and he cannot have good health without pure blood. The blood circulates to every organ and tissue and when it is pure, rich and healthy it carries health to the entire system, but if it is impure it scatters disease wherever it flows. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true blood purifier. It cures salt rheum, scrofula, catarrh, dyspepsia and rheumatism because these diseases have their origin in the blood.

—Harvey Thorn, formerly of the City National Bank, has accepted a position with the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company.

PRESENTING OF CANNON

GIFT TO WESTFIELD VETERANS BY U. S. BUREAU OF ORDNANCE.

The Dedicatory Exercises Conducted by Winfield Scott Post and the W. R. C., of this City—Dr. Livermore's Remarks

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of this city, sent a delegation of about forty members, accompanied by forty members of the Woman's Relief Corps to Westfield Monday, to dedicate the two cannon presented to the Post by the United States Bureau of Ordnance, to be placed upon the soldiers' plot in Fairview cemetery.

The party arrived in Westfield at 1:30 o'clock, and were met by the reception committee and escorted to the hall in the Gilby building, where a banquet, provided by the citizens of the town, by Caterer J. J. Schmitt, was served. About 100 covers were spread. The benediction was pronounced by Past Chaplain Goodwin. When the good things had been well disposed of, S. W. Reese, who acted as master of ceremonies, made a short speech of welcome and introduced Rev. L. E. Livermore. Dr. Livermore responded to the toast "The Grand Army of the Republic."

The Grand Army merits its grand name, the speaker said, for several reasons. First, because of the grand men who composed it; secondly, because of what the soldiers of the army had accomplished; thirdly, because of its grand achievement in making our Union stand one and undivided, an answer to the question whether a republican form of government was anything more than a mere experiment; fourthly, it is grand because of its supporters and friends, not the least of whom are the members of the Woman's Relief Corps. And finally, the army is grand because of what it has done and is doing since its organization, after the close of the war, for the preservation of liberty. The members of the Grand Army are growing old. We cannot say "Long may they live." This is not possible, nor probable; but its principles can live forever, and if they do, then the Grand Army shall not have lived in vain.

Miss Anna D. Cooper, the daughter of a member of the post, read with rare artistic judgment and feeling a poem entitled "The Union Soldier."

The next toast, "The Union Volunteers," was responded to by Rev. W. C. Snodgrass. The American volunteer was a production peculiar to this country. In other great nations large standing armies were necessary to preserve the country. We do not force all our men into military service and compel women to do the rest of the labor, but when the nation needs men, they are ready to leave the stores and workshops, and become the best fighting stuff in the world. One of the fifteen greatest battles of the world was Gettysburg; one of the greatest sieges of all times was the siege of Vicksburg; the greatest march was that made by Sherman through Georgia, and as a people we can point with pride to Lookout Mountain, where the banners of heaven were mingled with the banners of the Republic, and victory came down out of the clouds. And when the war was ended the American Volunteer returned to civic life and became once more a good citizen. The war is now finished in spite of the fears of pessimists, and everywhere throughout the new south the stars and stripes are waving over every factory and mill and schoolhouse.

When the applause which followed Mr. Snodgrass' words had subsided, Col. Cole, of the 21st New York Volunteers, was introduced and spoke upon "True Comradeship."

Wherever, North or South, a soldier had fallen in defense of the old flag, there, the speaker said, was holy ground. There are no friendships like those formed among soldiers, because they are born in the presence of death. At the close of his remarks the Colonel recited "We have drunk from the same canteen." His speech was full of fire and stirred his hearers deeply.

Five-minute speeches were made by Mrs. Morse, Past Commander of the National Women's Relief Corps, by Commander McVoy, Past Commander Smith, Adjutant Morse, Past Commander Smith, Adjutant Morse, Past Commander McGue and others. Miss Cooper read another selection and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. C. Snodgrass.

The company then filed out of the building into Broad street where the two cannon were presented to the Post and dedicated with appropriate ceremonies.

They were afterward taken to Fairview Cemetery and placed in position upon the soldiers plot.

A detachment of Independent Drum Corps, of this city, accompanied the post.

A Cure for Bilious Colic.

Reuriice, Screven Co., Ga.—I have been subject to attacks of bilious colic for several years. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy is the only sure relief. It acts like a charm. One dose of it gives relief when all other remedies fail.—G. D. Sharp. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and nervous

Dyspepsia

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Fine Machinists' Tools In Stock

Gasoline and oil stoves of best makes.

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our high grade inspected Nursery Stock. Many new specialties offered this year for the first time. Exclusive territory. Liberal terms and permanent employment. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free. Handsome outfit etc. Stoppel Bros. & Thomas, Maple Avenue Nurseries, West Bridgeton, Pa.

Trusses!
Rupture!
Trusses!

Dr. Marcley has opened a branch office at No. 22 West Second street, corner Central avenue, Plainfield, for the treatment of rupture. 20 years experience and the most modern appliances warrants satisfactory results. No occasion to go to New York. Will call on any part of the city at your residence. Irreducible, difficult and complicated cases solicited. The treatment of rupture, whether scrotal or otherwise, is a study properly belongs to a surgeon of long experience in that particular line. No charge for examination or advice. Hours 9-12 a. m., 1-4 p. m. and evenings.

$1,000—By Gum!

We will give the thousand to advertise the Gum. Share in it by sending your name, address and a 2c. outside wrapper from a 5-cent package of

FLEER'S GUM Gere-Kola

Keeps the Stomach Right.

Money ready for paying out on Nov. 10, 1897.

FRANK H. FLEER & CO., Philadelphia. 9 9-15 10 7

UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES of AMERICA

Rev. L. D. BASS, D. D., Manager.

Pittsburg, Pa.; Toronto, Canada; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y.; Washington, D. C.; San Francisco, Cal.; Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo., and Denver, Col.

There are thousands of positions to be filled within the next few months.

Address as applications for circulars "TEACHERS' AGENCIES, Baltimore, Pa. 6 m

DIED.

ALLEN—At New Dover, N. J., Monday, August 2, 1897, Mabel Edna, infant daughter of John and Annie S. Allen, aged 3 months and 21 days.

RANDOLPH—In this city, Thursday, September 2, 1897, Francis A., widow of the late Simeon F. Randolph, aged 74 years.

JOHNSON—In this city, Wednesday, September 1, 1897, Elmer E., son of Elmer and Harriet Johnson, aged 11 years and 10 days.

MARRIED.

ROCKWELL-SHIVERS—On September 1st, at Christ Church, Woodbury, N. J., by Rev. H. E. Thompson, of Pittsburg, Pa., assisted by Rev. W. H. Moore, Miss Laura Shivers, daughter of David Shivers, of Woodbury, to William Locke Rockwell, of Plainfield, N. J.

Ann Collier's Sister Shot Dead.

Mrs. George S. Butters, of Concord, Mass., a sister of Ann Collier of this city, was shot and instantly killed by a drunken man who had a fancied grudge against her. Her son, Carlton C., also came into the room and was shot. The dead woman was quite well-known in this city where she had visited often. Mr. Collier went to Concord Monday.

It Saves the Croupy Children.

Seaview Va.—We have a splendid sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and our customers coming from far and near, speak of it in the highest terms. Many have said that their children would have died of croup if Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had not been given—Kellam & Curren. The 25 and 50 cents sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Bilious and Nervous Diseases. They purify the Blood and give Healthy tone to the entire system.

Cure DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES,
FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

DIME
Savings Institution
Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's
Marble and Granite Works,
30
Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

I use only the best Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I also no agents and, therefore am, enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the consumer, as the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and may soon double the large portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

SAVED

After years of suffering. It has at last been proven beyond a doubt that

NASALENE

Is a positive remedy for local diseases which are the result of cold and climatic changes. Cold in the Head. Hay Fever.

CATARRH

Deafness, (caused by catarrh), are instantly relieved.

It is pleasant to use, convenient to carry. Price 50c. and $1.00, at all druggists.

O. V. SAGE, Warden of Sing Sing, says: "Nasalene is very beneficial."

HUNTER MEDICAL CO.,
54 E. 31st Street, N. Y.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

Corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues.

First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF.

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 234 W. Front street, to 221 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 201 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 9|y7

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

E. B. MAYNARD.

PRACTICAL

BARBER AND HAIR DRESSER.

204 PARK AVE.

Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed. fly1

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

MUNN & CO., 361 Broadway, New York

What a Lot of Eggs the hens lay when fed a Green Cut Bone. With a dozen hens

Mann's Green Bone Cutter

will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 BUYS ONE. Sent on trial. 180 highest awards received. Catalogue free if you name this paper. F. W. MANN CO., Milford, Mass. 28 4 9 10 11 12—7 mos.

HOME LIFE OF PATTI.

CRAIG-Y-NOS AND ALL ITS WONDERFUL ATTRACTIONS.

The Regular Routine of the Every Day Life of the Great Diva—How She Entertains Her Guests—The Love She Inspires from Servants.

Patti's beautiful castle, with its sixty-five rooms, is situated in a picturesque spot among the Welsh mountains, in South Wales. It has been brought to a state of perfection, and so far as earthly possessions go, is all one could desire.

The outside attractions are no less perfect, with gardens, conservatories and bothouses, where one can pick strawberries, a pear or a bunch of grapes any day in the year; the stables, with superb horses and carriages; the dog kennels, with the rarest breeds in the canine world; the beautiful lake, with its rowboats, and the fishing stream, where Nicolini enjoys keenest sport.

The regular routine of the home life of the great diva is so well ordered that it is rarely varied. Shenever drives on Sunday, believing that the coachmen and the stablemen should have a day each their families to rest or attend one of two churches—English and Welsh, supported by her.

Patti entertains her guests royally. From the moment one leaves the station in London it seems as if the thoughtfulness and power of Patti are in evidence. On reaching Neath, two ty miles from the castle, a transfer is made from the main line to a narrow gauge road. A telegram has notified the officials that her guests are expected, and every employe becomes obsequious at once. On reaching Penwyllt station, carriages and liveried coachmen and footmen are in waiting, and the beautiful drive of three miles begins, winding up and toward the castle, through magnificent scenery.

On arrival at the main entrance are stationed ten men in livery—the upper house servants. Passing through this line into the spacious hall, the guests are most cordially received by Mme. Patti.

If the arrival is at 5 o'clock, as it is usually arranged to be, tea is immediately served in the summer garden, which is a beautiful room, inclosed in glass, encircled with flowers and palms, and which adjoins the conservatories.

An automatic piano plays during the service of this dainty repast. The guests are then at liberty to enjoy themselves to their liking till the dinner hour at 8 o'clock, when every one appears in full dress. Patti is always magnificent in jewels and sparkling with gems. Only on state occasions is dinner served in the elegantly appointed dining-room. Patti generally prefers the summer garden, with its flowers and music.

After this sumptuous meal every one goes to the music-room. Here the largest automatic orchestral instrument in the world plays all the operas in which Patti has sung. Oftentimes Nicolini plays on one of his priceless violins or some visiting artist contributes to the musical hour. On rare occasions Patti's divine voice is heard in some simple melody. She is especially fond of negro songs, and when she sings "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground" every eye is suffused with tears.

At 12 o'clock Patti gives the signal for retiring, and on reaching her room touches a bell, which notifies all the servants that they are to retire, and only the watchman is thereafter alert.

In every corridor a maid is stationed to obey the slightest wish of the guests. Before retiring she asks the visitors when and how their light breakfast shall be served. The menu includes every luxury, and one's meal can be ordered the same as when in a hotel.

Patti attends to her voluminous correspondence in the early morning, not appearing till the regular breakfast hour—1 o'clock—when a rare and delicate feast is spread.

Perfect liberty of enjoyment is accorded every visitor, driving, rowing, tennis, billiards and bowling being among the recreations enjoyed. If one tires of looking at the pheasants, which are one of the hobbies of Nicolini, there is a room full of all kinds of birds—parrots who talk and sing with almost human intelligence; mocking birds, magpies and numberless canaries. Here Patti's divine voice may be heard singing some exquisite arias, which the birds try to imitate.

Whenever Patti goes out, the peasants, who fairly worship her, fall on their knees in homage, so conscious are they of the blessings scattered by her bountiful hand.

Twice every year Patti gives two concerts—one in Neath, the other at Swansea, for the benefit of charity, and always several thousand dollars are raised. All the artists who assist, sometimes twenty-five in number, are invited from London at Patti's own expense, and entertained royally at the castle. On their departure each artist is presented with some costly trinket, which is probably a souvenir of one of the most delightful experiences in life.

At the Boarding House.

First Westerner—"Pete allus was an inquisitive cuss."

Second Westerner—"Afust I knowed him to drink a glass o' plain sody water jest to find out what it was like"—Puck.

A Passion for Investigation.

Bowie Knife Ben (almost in tears)—An' ter think that me, who carved Grizzly George all ter pieces, an' he was the toughest nut in Bloody Gulch, should meet his match in a measly locle chicken!—New York Journal.

5-YEAR OLD ANATOMIST.

Astonishes Chicago Physicians by His Marvelous Knowledge of Osteology.

Little D. Will Gwyn, son of Dr. Howell B. Gwyn of Chicago, is the only child who holds a certificate of proficiency in anatomy from professors of recognized medical colleges.

Though scarcely 5 years of age and no taller than a table, this little tot is perfectly familiar with the human skeleton and the work of the dissecting room. In fact he has witnessed nearly every capital operation known to surgery in the New York, Louisville, New Orleans and Chicago hospitals.

He is a marvel of precocity, and knows every bone in the human body as well as does a medical student at his final examination. That is not all. He can tell you with equal ease and accuracy everything that is to be known about the heart structure and its complex functions, so that, were it not for the sweet little face and the fresh childish smile that illuminates his bright features, and the childish prattle that follows on the heels of his wisdom, one might imagine him a little automaton of anatomical wisdom.

It is not an uncommon thing to see a child able to repeat by rote things which he does not understand, after the fashion of the parrot. Such children are frequently found. But this little one knows what he is talking about. It is a feat of the brain and tongue combined. It is seldom he is ever "stumped," even when one questions from the skeleton of the anatomy another remote and little used. When he seems to have forgotten the answer his memory gropes for the name of the particular bone or portion of the body, and no matter how hard the term is to pronounce his quick thought gets hold of it, and then he rolls it out with the ease and readiness of an old practitioner.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A PRECOCIOUS PICKANINNY.

Began Talking When a Week Old, a Statement It Is Said, That Can Be Verified.

Few will believe it possible for a three-months-old child to talk. However, such is the case, and any one can verify the truthfulness of this statement with very little trouble. The parents of the child are Richard and Frankie Pinkard, colored, living at 17 Short street, and the child has been talking since it was only a week old. Hundreds have visited the little wonder, and have left the house completely mystified at what they have seen and heard.

The child is a girl, and differs only from other babies in that it can talk as plainly and be understood as distinctly as a grown person. The voice, of course, is naturally weak, but has none of the baby prattle about it.

Some people called at the house to convince themselves of the truth of the rumors which had been circulated concerning the child. The little one seemed to enjoy the presence of the crowd for a while, but, soon tiring, turned to her mother, in a voice audible to all present: "I wish all these folks would go home, as I am tired." The callers took the hint and soon departed.—Nashville Banner.

NEW LIFE FOR OLD ROSES.

A Pretty and Dainty Use for the Queen of Flowers.

The rose jar, no matter how costly and beautiful, is a thing of the past. The up-to-date woman no longer prizes it as a receptacle for dried roses with sentiment attached to them. In its place has come the rose sachet—not the ancient form of sachet, either, with its cotton and batting and ounce of powder. It is a dainty thing made of the finest organdie or mull, beribboned and adorned with lace, just as the owner sees fit.

A pretty one shown the other day was of the finest of rose flowered organdie, with drawing strings and bows of pale green silk. The rose leaves of pink, yellow and deep red that shone through the thin stuff in the room, with their perfume were brought all the way across the continent from Tacoma. Another rose bag, for most of the new designs are in the shape of bags—was of white chiffon embroidered with buttercups, with a ruffle of the chiffon set off the sides and bottom. The roses were picked in Southern California at Christmastime for an Eastern friend. Some women are using their pretty handkerchiefs to make designs for bags, but these precious sachets are not put in the chiffonier to waste their beauty there, but are suspended by their long ribbon strings to the back of an artistic chair. When the rom is well heated they emit a delicate perfume.

The Editor's Leading Article.

It was the practice of a certain London editor some years ago, to write his leading article or articles at home the night before publication. The rest of the week he did nothing. One night his articles had not come to hand at the office. Two precious canno; 11, 12, and still no sign of an article.

There was commotion in the office, and at last a messenger was sent to the editor's house. He found him with a glass of brandy and water before him, and newspapers scattered about. There was no article written.

"What do you want?" asked the editor. "The article for to-morrow." "Didn't I send it?" "No; at least, it has not come to the office." "Give me the Times." "The Times" was found and handed to him, and with unsteady fingers he cut out one of his leading articles. This he stuck upon a sheet of paper, and then, taking up his pen, wrote at the top: "What does 'The Times' mean by this?" In that form and with that introduction it appeared next morning as the editor's leading article.—San Francisco Argonaut.

TO PRESERVE HEALTH.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS FERRET OUT NUISANCES IN TOWNSHIP

The Westfield Township Committee Also Transacts Business—Christian Citizenship League Meets—Jed Bassett's Village Choir Star," Minnie Lynde; "The Song of the Mill," Miss Brittingham; "Ben Bolt," Florence Vreeland, accompanied on the guitar by Mrs. Zeltner; "Fanny," Etta Wooding; Minuet, Hilda Green; "Tin-Maker Man," Richard Tice; "The Old Oaken Bucket," Emma Johnston. Mrs. Harry N. Taylor acted as pianist. The proceeds went into the W. C. T. U. treasury.

The Westfield Board of Health met in the town rooms and received a communication from J. H. Vail, stating that the drain connected with his property on Charles street, of which complaint had been made, was merely a cellar drain and discharged nothing but clear water. The inspector reported that John Herder, in obedience to the order of the Board, had abated the nuisance formerly existing upon his property on Central avenue. Dr. J. B. Harrison, the physician of the Board, moved, as Nathan Cook, of Park street, had filled in the objectionable hole in the rear of his property, and the suit against him be discontinued by the Board. The motion was carried. A communication was received from Mrs. H. A. Todd complaining that the sink drain in the house occupied by her on Elm street empties into the street. The owner of the property was notified to abate the nuisance. Notice was also served upon him that if the nuisances existing upon his property on Downer street were not abated within ten days a fine would be imposed. Dr. Harrison reported that the nuisance existing on Elm street in the form of bad odors could not be traced to cesspools in the vicinity. John Darsh sent in a communication stating that his property would be placed in proper sanitary condition in compliance with the Board's suggestions. The proprietors of the Baker steam laundry were ordered to connect a drain upon the premises with the sewer. Dr. Harrison reported the public schools in perfect sanitary condition.

The Westfield Township Committee met directly after the adjournment of the Board of Health. Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh was authorized to advertise for bids for the curbing of both sides of Broad street, between Elm and Prospect streets, according to the specifications already drawn up. The bids are to be received by next Friday evening, and the work will then proceed at once. Road Overseer Connoly was instructed to repair the road in front of the Worral property on Broad street near Gallows Hill. Township Clerk Ross was instructed to attend to having the call bell in Fire Chief Dennis' house connected with the alarm, so that the chief could be called up for every fire. A communication was received from G. S. Edgecomb asking the committee to repair the fence between his property and the sewer farm. Ida A. Gomes sent word that the sewer assessment on her property was $4 in excess of the proper amount. The clerk was instructed to notify Mrs. Gomes that she might remit the amount she claimed was proper, and let the amount in dispute be adjusted later. Mrs. Cynthia Stitt complained of the poor street lighting in her neighborhood, corner of Central avenue and Quimby street. Frank Bergen, special attorney in the matter of the bonds sent a duplicate of the certificate of endorsement which he had caused to be placed on each bond. Clarence Lambert sent an itemized bill of $35 for damages sustained by his ice wagon by falling into a sewer cave-in. Committeeman Harden objected to the payment of the bill and the clerk was instructed to have an estimate of the damage by a local wheelwright. The matter of damages for the loss of the cow of John Riskell, which was killed by a dog in August, 1897, was laid over until Monday morning, when the committee will meet to decide all claims of damage for the death of animals. Complaint was received that the electric street lights in different parts of the town do not burn well, many of them being out for weeks at a time. It was voted to deduct from the company's bill wherever it could be learned that a light had not been burning. Bills amounting to $1,200 were ordered paid and the Township Treasurer was authorized to discount a note for $1,500. The committee then adjourned to meet next Monday morning.

The Christian Citizenship League of Westfield held a meeting in the lecture room of the Presbyterian church last Friday. Vice-President E. L. Andrus was in the chair. A number of committees reported. The matter of electing officers to fill the vacant places was laid over until the next meeting of the League. Treasurer Anson F. Grant reported twenty-two members enrolled and $5.25 in the treasury. The question of making an organized effort in behalf of the proposed Constitutional Amendment against racetrack betting was discussed. A number of minor matters were disposed of and the meeting adjourned to reassemble at the call of the executive committee.

Jed Bassett's Village Choir gave a very successful entertainment in the Westfield Club Hall last Friday, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. There was a chorus of fifty voices and the following solos were given: "Grandma's Birthday," Alice Warncke; "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little PARTICULAR MENTION.

Horace Moore, of Central avenue, has gone away on a fishing trip.

G. P. Mellick of LaGrande avenue, is stopping at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Harry Bush, of the fire department, has returned from his ten days' vacation.

Lester Walton, of Craig place, has returned after a week's sojourn at Lake Hopatoong.

Borough Councilman Schutt and family, of Duer street, have returned from the seashore.

Charles C. Smith, of New York, is visiting his friend, Richard Betz, of Grandview avenue.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, has returned from his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Buckalew, of East Fifth street, have returned from a sojourn at Asbury Park.

Miss Jennie Quick, of East Fifth street, has returned from a visit with relatives at Basking Ridge.

A. W. Duxbury and family, of East Ninth street, have gone on their annual vacation to the seashore.

Miss Joanne Anderson, of Third place, has returned after spending two weeks at Pittsfield, Mass.

Miss Addie Weaver, of West Front street, has returned from an outing of two months in Pennsylvania.

Henry and David Haviland, of New York city, are the guests of Mrs. Mary Griffen, of East Second street.

Miss Ethel Horton, of Brooklyn, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. E. E. Anthony, of West Front street.

Miss Edith B. Little, of East Ninth street, has returned from an outing at Grandview-on-the-Hudson.

Miss Kate B. Endicott, of Park avenue, has gone to May's Landing and Atlantic City for a three weeks stay.

C. G. Little, of East Ninth street, return on Monday from Stamford, N. Y., where he has been visiting friends.

Station agent J. A. Haynes has gone on a week's vacation which he will spend at Lake Hopatcong and Annandale.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hart, of West Front street, have returned home from Ocean Grove, where they enjoyed an outing.

Mrs. Alfred Drew, of West Front street, has returned home after a visit of several weeks at Philadelphia and Gloucester.

John H. Doane and family, of LaGrande avenue, have returned from Moscow, Pa., where they spent the month of August.

Miss Alice Needham, of Jackson avenue, has returned home from Asbury Park, where she spent a portion of her vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Winthrop Travell, of West Sixth street, returned yesterday after spending their summer at Geneva and Troy, N. Y.

Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Sr., of Washington Park, who is very ill with an affection of the bronchial tubes, is reported as slightly improved.

Harry Cuming, W. Simpson and Curtis Beard, of this city, have returned from Lake Hopatcong, where they enjoyed camping out for a week.

George Lewis, of the borough, who fell some time ago and sustained serious injuries, is much improved and has about overcome the effects of his fall.

Miss Squiers, trained nurse, who has been at New Foundland, N. J., with Mrs. J. D. Runyon, returned to her home at 220 East Front street on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Day, of Central avenue, and Carroll Runyon, of East Ninth street, returned today from Nantucket, R. I., where they have been sumering.

Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools in Plainfield, has returned after spending his vacation at Grove, N. Y. His family will remain there until the first of October.

The many friends of Miss S. R. Van Winkle, of Mercer avenue, will be pleased to learn that she is greatly improved in health, after a severe illness of nearly three months.

The approaching marriage of Miss Louise Pearl Northrup, of Kansas City, Mo., to George Clifton Martin, Jr., formerly of this city, is announced to take place in the Independence M. E. church at Kansas City, Sept. 15th. They will be at home at 410 Oliver street, after Nov. 1st.

The tenth meet or general run of the Y. M. C. A. Cyclists League of Northern New Jersey will be held at Summit on the evening of September 9th. The Plainfield association will be represented. The run will leave the association building in this city at 7 o'clock.

WAS THE GIRL ABUSED?

A COMPLAINT THAT MISS WOOD WHIPPED HER WARD.

The Affair Aired in the City Court With Numerous Witnesses—Admitted That She Spanked the Recreant Child.

All has not been love and friendship up in Elm place of late. The cause of much of the complaint has been that Miss Wood has been abusing the little child that has been left in her care. Friday the trouble took such a formidable shape that complaints and counter complaints were made and City Judge DeMeza was called up n to be mediator in the matter to settle the differences between the neighbors.

Friday Roundsman Frederi k son was summoned up on Elm place to hear the stories of both parties and ended by bringing them all down to the city jail for trial. Both sides came well equipped with witnesses in the shape of members of the family. Miss Rachetta Wood was defendant in the first case with Mrs. Anna Cobb as complainant.

The substance of all the case was that Mrs. Cobb claimed that Miss Wood was beating the child that boarded with her, until the child disturbed the whole neighborhood with her screams and that when she, Mrs. Cobb, reasoned with Miss Wood, the latter called her all sorts of vile names. Now Miss Wood claims that the father of the child instructed her not to spare the rod and spoil the child and, as the child is bad at frequent intervals, she has to chastise her. She also claims that Mrs. Cobb uses all the bad language. The trouble Friday morning was merely a continuation of what had happened on other days.

The case came up for trial before City Judge DeMeza Friday afternoon. After hearing the testimony of the witnesses on both sides, the Judge decided to reserve his judgment until next Saturday morning. Those interested were notified to be present at that time.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Plainfield physicians report that there is very little illness in the city.

—Crane & Clark, hatters and furnishers, would like to show you their new stock of fall hats and neckwear.

—Now is the time to buy your children's school shoes. VanArsdale's, 127 East Front street, is showing a good variety at taking prices.

—Putnam & DeGraw have just received a stock of the latest styles of neckwear.

—The City Union of the King's Daughters wish to announce that their nurse will be in attendance at the King's Daughters' Dispensary, 136 West Front street, daily from 11 to 12 a. m., and from 5 to 6 p. m. All orders left there will receive careful and prompt attention.

—Neuman Bros., the Watchung avenue and Fifth street grocers, want the prudent housewives of Plainfield to bear in mind that on Tuesday they will have on hand 250 baskets of canning peaches, and the prices will be low and the fruit first-class, as usual; also pears, plums, melons, tomatoes and everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

—Childs & Stanley, the florists and decorators of Netherwood, owing to their largely increasing business, have opened the store at 142 North avenue, near the depot, where they will sell cut flowers, plants and funeral designs. Their flowers are all fresh daily from their hot-houses at Netherwood. Funeral designs a specialty. They respectfully request a share of the public patronage.

SAUCY TO EDITORS.

We notice that good old soul, Founder Bradley, of Asbury Park, is in a saucy attitude towards the newspapers of his domain because they have had the temerity to say things detracting slightly from the lily white reputation of the constabulary forces of the seaside resort. The founder thus pays his respects to one editor:

The exaggeration and misrepresentation in all other articles have not done as much harm as the publication. If the writer had been hired to stab Asbury Park in the back, he could not have done it more effectually. I am more afraid to-night of John Wallace, the editor, than of any miscreant in town. He has not blood out spleen. A burglar we can run down, but we can't run him down. He is fortified against us.

YOUNG MEN IN LOVE.

A talented writer is contributing a series of articles in a number of exchanges teeming with advice to young men in love. What a waste of words. A young man in love is the most perversive creature in existence. He will never heed advice concerning his affairs of heart until the strands of the nuptial knot have been severed by the terrible teasher—experience.

—Anyone wishing to take out their citizen's papers can get them on Wednesday and Friday evenings, September 8th and 10th, as the county clerk's office will remain open on the above dates to accommodate them. Application must be made not later than September 15th.

BONDS FOR LOST CHECKS

CARELESS CREDITORS MUST PROTECT THE COUNTY.

If They Do Not They Cannot Get Duplicate if the Original is Lost—Opinion on the Matter by Attorney Codington.

The board of freeholders discussed Thursday the subject of the responsibility of banks after service of notice to stop payment on checks reported as lost. The question came up on a motion of Freeholder Littell, authorizing the county collector to give a substitute check for $36.18 to Charles J. Fox, of Cranford, for a check dated August 5, and lost after its delivery.

Freeholder Littell explained that he took a batch of checks drawn to Cranford people, and among them the warrant for Mr. Fox, for the sum mentioned. He gave this check to Mr. Fox's son, who in turn handed it to his brother, Mrs. Fox was on her way to the dressmaker's, which Mr. Littell thought possibly was the reason she cannot account for the check's disappearance, for ladies on such errands have as much as one's mind can well retain. At any rate the check cannot be found.

Freeholder Farrell suggested that a bond should be given by Mr. Fox, to protect the county from the check turning up at some future time.

Director Hubbard said there have been several checks lost this year, and they may be heard from some time to the county's loss. He agreed with Freeholder Farrell that a bond should be given by every person receiving a substitute check. He said the banks cannot be held responsible if checks are cashed, even after notices have been served to stop payment.

County Collector Wood and County Attorney Codington gave an opinion in the matter of the fees collected by prosecution of persons charged with offenses by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He held that under the State law only half of the fine goes to complainant and one-half to the society. He reported that $125 in fines were collected through such suits last year, and Prosecutor Marsh has informed him that all these cases were instituted by the county. In such instances one-half should be paid to the society, and the balance retained by the county.

BOYS IN A DUEL.

Were Playing Wild West in a Truly Realistic Manner.

A party of small boys, ranging in age from six to twelve years, are in the habit of congregating in a vacant lot on Linc-in place to play. The amusement is generally of the Buffalo Bill style, the boys impersonating cow punchers and highwaymen.

On Wednesday afternoon the fun took a serious turn, when two of the lads agreed to settle a dispute by fighting a duel.

The weapons chosen were a hatchet and a club. A ring was formed and the lads fought for several minutes like true desperadoes. At last the wielder of the hatchet made a vicious stroke and wounded his antagonist upon the arm. The flow of blood scared the boys, and the duel came to a hasty end. The combatants were led home by their parents and put to bed without any supper. After the affair was over, one of the younger boys, who had accidentally watched the fight, heaved a sigh of disappointment and remarked as he lit a cigarette: "If anybody ever cut me with an axe, as that feller cut Jimmy, I'd a killed him, sure."

PREACHES AS A CANDIDATE.

Dr. Raymond May Become Pastor of a Fashionable New York Church.

Referring to the reported call that the Broadway Tabernacle congregation has extended to Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, D. D., formerly pastor of Trinity Reformed church in this city, the New York Herald says:

For some time past Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, D. D., LL. D., the president of Union University, Schenectady, who for some time past has been occupying the pulpit of the Broadway Tabernacle in New York, it has just been learned, has been doing so as a candidate. The congregation of the Broadway Tabernacle, it is reported, is satisfied with him, and he will be extended a call next week.

The officers of the church, it is said, already have tendered a call to Dr. Raymond informally. It is believed in Schenectady that he will accept, as his relations there have not been the pleasantest for the last two years.

It is understood that under Dr. Raymond's pastorate the church will sell its present edifice at Sixteenth and Thirty-fourth streets and move up town, where a much smaller structure will be built. In other words, the Tabernacle will cease to be a street popular church and will aim to become a sanctuary for the select and cultured classes. The congregation is said already to be looking forward to Dr. Raymond's pastorate with high hopes of success. The salary attached to the pastorate is $10,000 per year.

Mrs. Krymer, of West Second street, is the guest of relatives at Lebanon.

Miss Anna Marsh, of this city, went to Stroudsburg, Pa., today, to enjoy a vacation.

WORTHLESS BACK TAXES.

BOROUGH COUNCIL HEAR REPORTS OF MONEY NON-COLLECTABLE.

Councilman MacLaughlin Says That Patience Must Be Had in Making Collections—Damages in the Fire Department.

No business of unusual interest was transacted at the regular meeting of the Borough Council last Friday, but the time was occupied chiefly in considering matters of a routine nature. All of the members were present including the Mayor, and the session was opened with the usual promptness on the part of His Honor. The financial report of the clerk was presented as follows:

Borough balance, $2,536.51; lights, $961.07; roads, $994.10; fire department, $699.39; poor deficit, $515.32; paid county and State, $3,011.07; balance, $1,825.49. The sum of $218 60 was reported as having been received as fines and from licenses. Tax Collector Spencer reported having collected $174 95 since the last report.

The resignation of James D. Anderson as first assistant chief of the borough fire department was received and accepted. A communication was received from the officers of the West End Hose Company in which it was stated that at a previous meeting of the company John Bremmer was elected a member of the company and he had not yet been confirmed by the Council. In connection with this matter Mr. Rogers of the fire, water and lamp committee stated that in his opinion the membership of the company was now about completed. He offered a resolution that Mr. Bremmer be confirmed providing that the membership did not exceed twenty. The resignations of Henry Voehl and J. P. Emmons as members of Warren Engine Company were received and later were accepted.

Mr. Woolston of the street committee reported that $320 had been expended on the streets of the borough during the past month.

Mr. Schutt, of the special committee to look after the borough back taxes, stated that the committee was not yet able to offer a final report. The list from 1885 to 1888 had been completed and showed that there was $804,17 personal tax, $206.13 real estate, $812 poll, $87 dog, making a total of $1,543.17 due, and in the judgment of the committee the whole amount was worthless so far as collecting the same is concerned. Later in the evening Mr. MacLaughlin, a member of the same committee, made a few remarks in which he stated that the Council must have patience, as the task of compiling that list of back taxes is a long and tedious one. The Mayor appointed Messrs. Rogers and Burtis as additional members of the committee to assist the original members of the committee.

Mayor Wilson appointed John Duffy and S. P. Wheeler as special marshals and John Schenck as a regular marshal, and the same were confirmed by the council.

Mayor Wilson appointed W. Demarest to take the position made vacant by the resignation of J. D. Anderson, as assistant chief of the fire department.

Mr. Reed stated that the Watchung avenue commissioners guaranteed that they would have their report completed for the next meeting of the Council.

A resolution by Mr. Rogers provided for the location of an electric light on Sycamore avenue between Mercer and Willow avenues.

The fire ordinance was called up by Mr. Burtis for a third reading and was adopted. It will go into effect September 17th, 1897.

Mr. Woolston suggested that the clerk be authorized to notify the property owners on Sycamore avenue that they could not pay their assessments for the opening of the avenue. It was stated, however, property owners had agreed to pay fifty per cent of the cost and were willing to pay just as soon as the total cost is ascertained.

Mr. Rogers stated that he had been asked to report to the Council a matter concerning the condition of Park place between Mercer and Washington avenues. One good citizen, he said, had decorated his sidewalk with ashes and it had been declared a nuisance. He also spoke concerning the trees that overhang the street.

Another matter reported was that regarding the drainage of water on Myrtle avenue near Mr. Roger's house. It was decided that a culvert erected on the north side of the street would take care of the water in heavy rains. Much time was occupied in discussing the matter and as a result something will be done to remedy the matter. This concluded the business of the evening and the meeting adjourned.

Headed for the Klondike.

Word has been received from Robert G. Wyckoff, who left this city recently for the Alaskan gold fields, stating that Mr. Wyckoff is now at Seattle, from which place he will set sail next Tuesday for St. Michaels, Alaska.

Mrs. F. B. Hodge and son, Raymond, are visiting relatives at Somerville.

NEAR TO FALL POLITICS

THE DEMOCRATS ARE ENDEAVORING TO PRESERVE HARMONY.

Daly Would Like to be Governor—E. W. Crane Talked for Supreme Court Nominee—Judge Lippencott Says He Won't Stand.

The Democratic leaders are not paying much attention to either the Senatorial or Gubernatorial questions just now. They are letting events shape themselves. While the Republicans are in a family row, the Democrats are getting closer together each day, and indications are that all factions will be united when the Gubernatorial campaign opens.

The only active aspirant for the nomination is Senator Daly, of Hudson. He has begun a canvass of the State, and his friends say his candidacy is vigorously pushed. The fact that his home county is not inclined to assist him in his canvas is worrying the Senator, but he maintains that Hudson will not be a factor in the convention. He thinks the nomination will come to him without the votes of either Hudson or Essex.

The party leaders do not, for some reason, appear to take Senator Daly's candidacy seriously. They ridicule the suggestion that he has a chance for the nomination.

Supreme Court Justice Lippincott, of Hudson, could have the nomination if he would consent to stand, but he has positively declined to be considered as a Gubernatorial possibility. A strong sentiment was developed in favor of Prosecutor of the Pleas Elwin W. Crane, of Essex, and it is reported on the highest authority that his nomination has practically been decided upon.

Mr. Crane is popular in Newark, and the party leaders think he could carry Essex county. In Hudson county he has many friends, and with Justice Lippincott out of the race the vote of that county will go to him in the convention.

WIFE CAME FOR HUBBY.

The Sight of His Better-Half Angered the Plainfielder so That He Overturned the Rig.

A Plainfield man came to grief in Scotch Plains Friday, mostly as the result of an over-indulgence in stimulants. The man came to Wilcox's Hotel on Thursday night and was refused a lodging. Friday morning he came back and appeared to be in an amiable mood, although he had been drinking heavily.

About noon the proprietor of the hotel stepped into the yard for a few minutes, leaving the Plainfielder in conversation with another man in the bar-room.

Suddenly there was the sound of scuffling and blows, and when Wilcox rushed back into the barroom he saw the two men engaged in a fierce fight, punching each other unmercifully. As soon as was possible he hustled in and separated the fighters. The Plainfielder had a pair of black eyes and was otherwise badly handled. The other man, an Englishman and an expert boxer, escaped with very little injury.

A few minutes later a carriage drove up to the hotel and the wife of the Plainfielder sent word in that she was waiting to take her husband home. She had received news of his whereabouts and had come to persuade him to return with her. The sight of his wife angered the man. He jumped into the carriage, and seizing the reins and the whip, lashed the horse into a mad gallop.

When in front of the postoffice he attempted to turn the horse round, but pulled too sharply to the left. As a result the carriage overturned throwing both parties out, and damaging the wheels and dashboard of the vehicle, which had to be taken to a blacksmith shop for repairs.

The woman suffered a severe nervous shock from the experience, but luckily escaped without other injuries.

The couple engaged a livery carriage and were driven to their home in North Plainfield.

Death of Richard M. Wallace.

The death of Richard M. Wallace, of Baltimore, occurred last week, rather suddenly. He was the managing partner of the firm of Wallace Brothers, dealers in hardware and ship supplies. His brother, the other member of the firm, is Samuel Wallace, of Grove street, North Plainfield. The departed was one of the best known business men among the owners and masters of the vessels that ply the Chesapeake. He was a high Mason and he was buried with the highest Masonic honors.

Plainfield Idea a Popular One

A writer in the Newark Advertiser says:

The plan of having a bicycle squad, originated by the Plainfield local union, is being adopted by local unions in various parts of the country. Many runs to the smaller societies within a radius of fifteen miles have been enjoyed this season by the bicycle club of the Travers City, Mich., local union. Prayer meetings have been held that have been an uplift to all who have attended. The results are apparent. The societies are strengthened, a renewed spirituality manifested and the cyclists have been richly rewarded.

A COVETED STATE JOB

NEW COUNTY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS TO BE APPOINTED.

The Position Is an Honorable One and Carries With It a Salary of $1,300—Politics Cut No Figure With the Selection.

The position of county superintendent of schools in New Jersey is a much coveted one, and now that the appointment of five new ones by the State Board becomes necessary, there are a number of candidates who are trying to secure the appointment. The position is a very honorable one, and gives the occupant a high position in his community as well as in the county. It is eligible only to residents of the county for which the appointment is to be made. The salary is $1,300 yearly, with an allowance of $300 for traveling expenses. The term of office is three years. Now that the facilities for traveling are so much improved, and cheapened the allowance is more than sufficient and a careful superintendent can lay part of it aside.

This fall, vacancies occur in the counties of Bergen, Essex, Monmouth, Passaic and Salem. All of the present incumbents are anxious for a reappointment, while there is a score of other candidates in each county.

The candidates confer with the committee on education of the State Board and are examined as to their fitness to fill the position. The committee makes the nominations which are confirmed by the board. Politics cut no figure in the appointment of the county superintendents for it is excellence alone that wins the place. Last year there were nine to be appointed and of the nine men chosen the committee did not know the politics of any of them.

HIS BICYCLE SMASHED.

Wagon Ran Too Close to the Curb and the Wheel Suffered.

One of the incidents of the fire scare on East Fourth street Friday morning was the smashing of a boy's bicycle. George Voehl, Jr., the twelve-year old son of the West Front street baker, rode to the scene of the fire when the alarm was given, and stood his wheel against the curb. After mingling with the crowd for a time the lad returned to find his bicycle badly smashed. In the rush of vehicles to the fire a wagon had been driven close to the curb and struck the machine, smashing the spokes and rims of both wheels, and bending the frame up badly. When he perceived the damage that had been done, the driver of the wagon immediately whipped up his horses and vanished down the street.

CAKE-WALK AT THE HUNTERSTON.

Colored Folks Entertained the Guests With Graceful Steps.

A festive cake-walk was held at the Hotel Hunterston last Friday for the enjoyment of the guests. The scene of the walk was in the large parlors and the event afforded great amusement. The walk was led by John Taylor who impersonated the part of an old man. Following him came Miss Morris and William Wilson, who were the winners of the cake. Those who came in second and third were Miss Lizzie Lee and Mat. J. Blair, Miss Ethel Johnson and Arthur Brown. All were attired in the latest summer fashion. After the walk several selections were given by a quartette of colored men from Newark.

WIFE-BEATER PUNISHED.

Refused to Pay His Fine and Will Have to Go to Jail.

Henry Hess, of East Second street, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza, Friday morning, on the charge of being drunk and disorderly and beating his wife and children. His wife and daughter testified against him, but he refused to be sworn. He said he was not ready for trial yet and wanted the case put over. The Judge refused and sentenced him to pay a fine of $25 or go to jail for sixty days. He refused to pay the fine.

A Dunellen Complaint.

The Plainfield Board of Health has notified Mrs. Milliken that she must put down a cesspool for receiving the soapsuds from the sink, as the throwing of this water out on the ground is a menace to health. Probably their next move will be to notify the City Council that they must dig a cesspool to receive the city's sewage, which is emptied on the ground just next door to Mrs. Milliken's home. Truly, Plainfield's a great town.—Dunellen Call.

Plainfielder Takes a Wife.

The marriage of Miss Lavinia Shivers, daughter of David Shivers, of Woodbury, to William Locke Rockwell, of this city, was solemnized at Woodbury, August 25th. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. E. Thompson, of Pittsburg, Pa., assisted by Rev. A. G. Urban, of Woodbury.

Dr. Raymond's Call.

Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, D. D., formerly pastor of Trinity Reformed church in this city, and at present the president of the Union University presidency at Schenectady, N. Y., has received a call to the pastorate of the Broadway Tabernacle, in New York.

TRIO OF SILENT RIDERS.

CURIOUS CONSTABLES AND DEAF AND DUMB MEN COME IN CONFLICT.

The Heller Brothers Mistaken for Robbers Awheel and Were Stopped in an Unceremonious Manner by the Officers.

Two curious constables and three deaf and dumb wheelmen caused a lively misunderstanding last Saturday evening, near Stelton, that nearly resulted seriously. As it was, one of the cyclists was thrown from his wheel and his hand badly cut.

Although badly handicapped by the loss of the powers of speech and hearing there are no more enthusiastic cyclists in the State than Robert George and Henry Heller, who live at New Market. They learned several years ago and now are experts in directing the silent steeds. Each of the brothers owns a wheel and the silent trio constantly go forth on little excursions awheel and have very pleasant but quiet times together.

Last Saturday afternoon the three brothers went forth and rode to Newark. They returned by the way of Elizabeth, Rahway, New Brunswick and Stelton. Darkness had arrived when they left New Brunswick. It was then about 8:30 o'clock.

They were spinning along the Stelton road near the little hamlet by that name when they passed the two Stelton constables who stood beside the road. The constables had heard that the burglars who had been working in many of the surrounding towns were abroad and might visit their homes any evening. They were on the lookout for suspicious characters, and when they saw the three riders approach and dismount very carefully, without a word, they were all attention. The strangers stood by their wheels and one of them leaned over his wheel and examined it, but still not a word was heard. Then carefully the three wheelmen mounted and rode down the street toward the officers.

To the excited representatives of the law, it seemed that the time for action had come; in their minds their was no doubt but that the strangers were burglars who were even now reconnoitering with the intention of swooping down later on the defenceless villagers.

"Halt," said one of the constables as he advanced toward the wheelmen. They paid no attention.

"I want to see you," he yelled, but he might have addressed a fence post as far as his remarks having any effect.

"Get off that wheel," roared his companion and he gave one of the riders a push that landed him in the gutter. The other two dismounted at once and waved their arms wildly at the two constables. Repeated questions could not evoke an answer and at last, after pointing to mouth, ears and much shaking of heads the Heller brothers convinced the two constables that they were deaf and dumb. A piece of paper was produced and by the light of a bicycle lantern, the situation was explained by both parties.

The constables were extremely sorry at their mistake, particularly as Henry Heller had cut his hand badly in his fall when the station man hastened to his aid. They wrote an apology and then bid good evening to the three silent riders and the latter took their departure homeward.

The Hejler brothers have been telling their friends about the aventure and consider it a great joke.

Y. M. C. A. MATTERS.

Board of Directors Hear of the Work Being Accomplished.

The Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association met in regular session at the building last week. The report of the committee on religious work showed the average attendance at the men's meetings during July to be 86, and 80 during August. The membership committee proposed twelve names for membership. The rooms committee reported that estimates for covering the heating pipes in the cellar had been received, the bicycle runway repaired, and arrangements made with Trinity Reformed church for the use of the small hall on Monday and Wednesday evenings, and the large hall on Sunday mornings.

The physical director stated in his report that it was his intention to overhaul his department during September, in order to have a clean and bright start.

The general secretary's report showed that good work had been accomplished during the summer months and that much time had been spent in getting ready for the fall work.

Artistic Work.

The September number of the Century Magazine has an article called "Browning's Summers in Italy," the illustrations of which are from the pencil of George Wharton Edwards. Those who know Mr. Edwards' pictures of peasants and peasant life, will expect just such charming illustrations of Breton men and women and Breton life and legends as are found in this magazine article.

SILENCE OF SHREWD MEN

ELIZABETH JOURNAL SHOWS THE VALUE OF TROLLEY FRANCHISE.

Companies Are Capitalized With Enormous Sums With the Result of Making the Projectors Wealthy in an Easy Way.

In discussing the proposition to give up the county road to the trolley magnates without proper recompense, the Elizabeth Journal makes the following pointed observations:

"There is a world of significance in the 'cost per mile' statistics. The average cost, throughout the State, is $130,560.

"And yet the complete, thoroughly equipped road in Plainfield cost only $20,000 per mile. Some allowances must, however, be made for the fact that the Plainfield road is mostly one track.

"The cost per mile, as reported by the Consolidated Traction Company, is $202,706, and yet the Plainfield line cost less than one-tenth of that sum.

"The simple fact is that, unless extraordinary engineering feats are to be accomplished, the cost of building a trolley line, including generating buildings and everything complete, is rarely over $18,000 per mile. Including the cars, it is not over $20,000 per mile.

"The old companies count in their cost all they paid—not only in cash, but in bonds and stocks—for the old franchises. Then, not a road in this State the actual cost of building which exceeded $25,000 per mile.

"Let us suppose, for example, that a franchise has been given to some company to build a trolley line on Westfield avenue, between Elizabeth and Westfield. The whole distance is 7½ miles. The total cost, including cars and all, would not exceed $150,000. There are men in Elizabeth who will give bonds to build it for that money.

"But if the usual custom is followed, a company would be formed, would probably capitalize the project at $1,500,000, issue bonds for half the amount and stock for the other half, place a majority of the bonds where they would do the most good and sell the stock in sufficient amount, if possible, to pay for building the road.

"The result would be that the interest on the bonds placed would be paid; but the stock purchasers would reap no benefit for many years, if at all, and the whole business being thus watered out of all reason the difference between the actual cost of the road and the cost, as represented by the bonds and stocks sold, would go into the pockets of the promoters of the scheme.

"The shrewd projectors need not, if the road is successful, pay out a dollar of their own money. In a recent case before one of the courts in this State, the testimony showed that the promoters of the road did not pay a cent. They built the road entirely out of the proceeds of the sale of the stock, and pocketed the securities and the income.

"The court set the whole issue aside as fraudulent on these very grounds.

"There is no proper foundation for the assumption that the electric and other street railways in this State actually cost more than $25,000 per mile, and when ten times that amount is given as the cost, it is an outrage on the public; it shows the manner in which too many of the railway companies manage their finances.

"It shows more: It shows how extremely valuable are the franchises sought for and secured by these companies. They are so valuable that they pay big dividends on ten times their actual cost.

"This means that the people are practically robbed, for on an honest capitalization the companies could reduce fares to 3 cents, or even 2 cents, and still pay over 10 per cent. on the bona fide investment.

"If the people are wise they will allow no such jobbery to be consummated by giving Westfield avenue to capitalists who will line their pockets at the expense of the people and charge heavily for the privilege of riding over a public road."

VETERANS AT SOMERVILLE.

One Hundred Survivors of the Fifteenth Respond to the Roll-Call.

The reunion of the Fifteenth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, was held at Somerville Thursday. About one hundred of the survivors answered the roll-call. The business meeting was held in the morning at the Court-House. These officers were elected: President, Peter Gunzelman, of Newton; Vice-presidents, A. L. Whitehead, of Newark; W. H. Wyckoff, of Somerville; treasurer, W. H. Cawley, of Somerville; secretary, Col. E. V. Davis, of Newark.

At Germania Hall public exercises were held. An address of welcome was made by former Speaker James J. Bergen, to which Col. Budd, president of the association, responded. Addresses were made by Congressman Mahlon Pitney and Senator Richard S. Kuhle, of Hunterton. In the evening fireworks were set off and the bands gave open-air concerts.

The Fifteenth Regiment was organized in Somerville, Warren and Hunterdon Counties and formed part of the Sixth Army Corps.

EDUCATORS ENDORSE IT.

HIGH STATE OFFICIALS FAVOR SCHOOL SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall Makes Public Several Letters From Men Who Want to See Constitutional Amendment Ratified.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, president of the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage Association, has sent out the following letter:

School suffrage for women is no novelty in our State, and it has been found to work so well in practice that the highest officers connected with our public school system are heartily in favor of the amendment to the Constitution restoring to the mother sex the privilege of voting for school trustees.

A number of these gentlemen have been asked for their opinions, extracts from which we subjoin.

Hon. Charles J. Baxter, Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of New Jersey, writes:

"I am in favor of the adoption of the proposed amendment to the State Constitution restoring to women the right to vote for members of school boards, and I regret it does not include all cities and towns operating under special charters. I believe the ratification of this amendment will tend to the best possible election of school officers, will secure more interested, and consequently more intelligent and effective supervision of our schools, and thus prove a decided educational gain to the State. The mothers are nearer to the children, and, consequently, the nearest to the schools. It is also true that their conceptions as to suitable school environment and proper school influences are more nearly ideal."

The members of the State Board of Education have been asked for their individual opinions of the amendment. The President, Hon. James S. Hays, has signed as a citizen, not as an official, an appeal urging all good citizens to vote for the amendment.

Dr. Steven Pierson, of Morristown, member of the State Board of Education, expresses himself as heartily approving of the amendment.

Elmer C. Sherman, Superintendent for Essex county, writes:

"I am in hearty sympathy with your efforts to secure an amendment to the Constitution of our State, allowing women to vote for members of Boards of Education. It is my observation that in most cases the women are always on the side of better school advantages. Their participation in the election of school boards will, I am sure, result in a better class of citizens being elected to that responsible position."

B. Holmes, Superintendent for Union county, says that he is heartily in favor of the restoration of the privilege in question, and adds: "A mother surely considers the welfare of the child of the first importance, and it certainly is important that she should have a voice in the selection of those who are to aid in its training and education."

Rev. J. A. Mets, Superintendent for Somerset county, writes: "I most heartily favor the proposed amendment to the State Constitution for two reasons particularly: First, because it is a manifest absurdity, as well as a gross injustice to woman to grant her the right of voting upon all questions that come before school meetings, and even that of eligibility to the office of school trustee, and yet deprive her of the right to vote for the election of members of boards of education. Secondly, because, since women have the deepest interest in the matter, she of all others should have the right of saying to whom the work of supervising the education of youth ought to be entrusted."

Many other letters have been received which bear similar testimony. Since this amendment is so strongly endorsed by men specially familiar with the needs and requirements of our public school system, it would seem as if it would certainly find favor with the voters all over the State at the polls on September 28th.

Philadelphia and New York—P. & R. Two-Hour Service.

Philadelphia & Reading two-hour trains for New York leave Reading Terminal, Twelfth and Market streets, 7:30 and 8:30 a. m. Other fast trains almost every hour during the day. Engines burn hard coal; no smoke. The new Whitehall Terminal in New York City is a great convenience—connections being made direct with all elevated roads, cable cars and horse car lines, as well as ferries, for Staten Island, Brooklyn, Bay Ridge and Coney Island, practically under the same roof. Only 35 minutes to Grand Central Station from Whitehall Terminal via Third Avenue Elevated Road. Quicker than cabs and only costs 5 cents. d w

Active Endeavorers.

In the Christian Endeavor column the Newark Advertiser prints the following:

Besides supplying one day's fare for the fresh-air camp, the Park Avenue Baptist Society, Plainfield, is at work upon twenty or more dresses for the little ones. A few of the members meet at the home of the secretary to cut out and stitch together the material given by other members who are so employed during the day as to be unable to give manual help.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

March 8, 1897.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

SAYS HALL EMBEZZLED.

SERIOUS CHARGE MADE AGAINST HOTEL HUNTERSTON MANAGER.

Proprietor Hunter Has Him Arrested for Having Misappropriated Funds and Obtaining Possession of Hotel Property.

Dr. Robert Hunter, proprietor of the Hotel Hunterston has returned from his vacation and now Herbert I. Hall, who had been known as his manager, is under arrest, charged with the embezzlement of $5,000 worth of property which had been entrusted to his care as manager of the hostelry.

This paper told of the attachment which was served against the hotel in an action brought by its manager, Herbert I. Hall, to secure him against loss of funds to the amount of $5 000, which he claimed was due for salary and money advanced.

Dr. Hunter returned Monday from his vacation, spent in Canada. He found the hotel well filled with guests but creditors were clamoring at its doors. A hasty investigation was made and now the Doctor claims that his former manager exceeded his authority and has been fraudulently using the income of the hotel.

The circumstances of the case as told a reporter when he called on the Doctor in his office at the hotel, Tuesday, were that he, the Doctor, went away last June, leaving Hall in complete charge. There were a goodly number of guests at the hotel at the time, the Doctor said, sufficient, he thought, to pay all the expenses of the running of the hotel. The number of guests increased.

Dr. Hunter says that he left Hall in complete charge, although he was known as manager only. He was not to contract debts in the Doctor's name, said the latter, but was to run the hotel as best he could. When he returned Monday, the Doctor says that he found that his manager had been contracting debts all around in the name of Dr. Hunter and then had the attachment served. The Doctor claims that there were ample funds to run the place without running in debt, and the only inference that he sees possible is that Mr. Hall has been appropriating the revenue to himself.

The warrant was issued in Justice Nash's court Tuesday and Hall was arrested by Constable Mattox. He was brought before the Justice and held in $7,500 bonds to appear for examination. He was then paroled in the custody of the constable and went o the hotel. When the reporter called there, as will not be seen, but his lawyer, Walter G. Williams, appeared for him.

Hall claims that he is perfectly innocent of the charge and that an investigation will prove it groundless. He says that there was a deficiency in the revenues so that there was not sufficient to pay all the bills and that he had to write to Dr. Hunter for funds several times. While waiting, the demands became so pressing that he advanced some of his own. His reason, he says, for securing the attachment was to prevent the other creditors from doing so and thus closing the hotel.

Dr. Hunter has assumed temporary management of the hotel.

Detective Ritterbusch has purchased a new Pattee wheel for his wife.

A CRACK FOOTBALL TEAM

TOM KELLAR TO HEAD THE ORGANIZATION OF ENTHUSIASTS.

Preliminary Steps for the Approaching Season Taken Last Night — Louis Waring Will Coach the Eleven.

A number of the football enthusiasts held a meeting in the office of the Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company Tuesday night to organize. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and the young men who attended were all very anxious to football on a sound basis, this year. After a discussion of various plans, the Plainfield Athletic Association was regularly organized. Louis Darling acted as temporary chairman with Henry V. Ryder as temporary secretary. An election of officers was held and Thomas H Kellar, the well-known trap shooter and former manager of the famous old Plainfield Crescent baseball nine, was made president of the organization. Louis Darling was elected vice-president and Thomas U. Cuming secretary. Thomas U. Smith was appointed a committee to see to the scheduling of games at once. A special finance committee, consisting of Thomas U. Smith, Louis Darling and Charles B. Morse, was appointed.

The different plans for the season were talked over and a campaign arranged. The colors of the club will be maroon and black. The team will be composed of most of the same players who represented the Y. M. C. A. last year, with the addition of several more who have returned from college. The team will be coached by Louis Waring, who is well known as a football player; Augusto Salzman, Jr., who played quarter for Lehigh, and Everitt Dwight, substitute quarter on the Princeton 'varsity, whose chances for that team were lost on account of an injured knee.

It is planned to support the team on subscriptions from the lovers of the game in this city, and subscription papers will be circulated at once. If the club finds ready support from their townspeople the games will be played in this city. Martine's common, on Park avenue, has been secured, and the games will be played there. Judging from the support that has received during the last two years, the team hope for a very successful season. Rutgers 'varsity and the New Jersey Athletic Club are anxious to play the Plainfield team.

After using a 10 cent trial size of Ely's Cream Balm you will be sure to buy the 50 cent size. Cream Balm has no equal in curing catarrh and cold in head. Ask your druggist for it or send 10 cents to us.

ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City.

I suffered from Catarrh three years; it got so bad I could not work; I used two bottles of Ely's Cream Balm and am entirely well; I would not be with out it —A. C. Clarke, 341 Shawmut Ave., Boston.

—It is much better to preserve your first sight than to worry along with poor glasses waiting for your second sight, which is a condition not to be desired. Our glasses will improve and preserve your sight. Leech, Stiles & Co., at 107 East Front street, every Thursday. Hours: 10 to 4:30.

SOUGHT HYMEN AWHEEL

ROMANTIC AND EVENTFUL TRIP MADE BY FOND LOVERS.

The Tire on Groom's Wheel Was Punctured and the Wedding Party Delayed But Not Defeated in Their Nuptial Intent.

The old saying is that "the course of true love never runs smooth;" but the new version, as experienced by a Plainfield couple on Sunday last, has the added words, "when ridden over on a bicycle."

The young couple whom Cupid's wiles had brought together for Hymen to weld in life union, and whose journey to the marriage altar awheel was fraught with blissful romance and the stern aggravation of having one's tires punctured four miles from a repair shop, were Miss Minnie Scheidecker, of Plainfield avenue, and Roger Meletski, also of this city. The bicycle has figured frequently and prominently of late in many marriages, but in nearly all instances runaway ones. The marriage of the Plainfield couple, however, was not of this kind.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mohring, of the borough, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thompson, Miss Scheidecker and Robert Meletski. The bride and groom rode single wheels, while the other two couples rode tandems. The start was made Sunday morning about 9:30. While it was not definitely settled just where the ceremony would be performed, the idea seemed favorable that Rahway would be the destination and scene of the festive occasion, and so it proved to be. When the party reached a point midway between Westfield and Rahway the chain on the tandem ridden by Mr. and Mrs. Mohring broke. Then the front tire of the wheel ridden by the prospective groom was punctured. Mr. Mohring succeeded in fixing his chain after which he rode to Rahway. He secured a repair outfit and returned and doctored the flattened tire. Again the party started on their journey, and the balance of the trip was made in safety.

When Rahway was reached the party rode to the home of H. S. Barnes, who was a former employe of Mr. Mohring. The latter told Mr. Barnes that his wife's brother and Miss Scheidecker had come to Rahway for the express purpose of being joined in nuptial bliss. Mr. Barnes jumped on his wheel and hastened to the home of Rev. H. M. Lowry, the pastor of the Baptist church. It was only a few minutes when Mr. Lowry and Mr. Barnes returned.

In the meantime about fifty friends of Mr. Barnes from the neighborhood had gathered at his home to witness the ceremony, which was performed by Mr. Lowry according to the rules of the church. They received the congratulations of all after which the party of six went to a restaurant and had a wedding dinner. The four members of the party stood up with Mr. and Mrs. Meletski.

After the dinner the party rode to Woodbridge, Seawaren, Perth Amboy, Metuchen, New Brunswick and home, reaching Plainfield about 10 o'clock in the evening.

The bride was prettily dressed in dark brown cloth made especially for bicicyle riding. She succeeded admirably in riding the long distance planned, though both she and her husband are novices on the wheel.

Mr. and Mrs. Meletski will reside on West Fourth street near Clinton avenue, where the groom has a house already furnished.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrhal Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

A. W. GLEASON,
Seal Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Unidentified Suicide Buried.

A well-dressed stranger went to Bonnardsville Friday and spent the day walking about town. His body was found Saturday morning lying by the public schoolhouse, with a bullet hole in his head. By his side was a revolver with one empty chamber and an empty phial, labeled laudanum. County Physician Wagoner was unable to find anything by which to identify the man. It is believed that he committed suicide, and that he came from New York city. His body was taken to Basking Ridge, and was buried Sunday without having been identified.

Peter B. Hodge and family, of Plainfield avenue, have returned from *a few days visit with relatives in Som*erset county.

Rev. H. J. Johnston and family, of Craig place, have returned from their summer outing and Mr. Johnston will occupy the pulpit at Grace M. E. church next Sunday.

Living on Iron.

Disease Cured by Restoring the Vital Element of Life. Capsuloids, the Latest Discovery of Science Represent the Beginning of a New Epoch in the Practice of Medicine.

The most eminent physicians concede the absolute need of iron in the blood, not only to ward off anæmia, chlorosis and other diseases, but actually to maintain life which becomes extinct the instant the natural iron or Hæmoglobin is insufficient to attract the requisite amount of oxygen from the air cells of the lungs to the blood.

If you would be robust, healthy, strong, clear-brained and impervious to disease, see that your blood is rich with Hæmoglobin. A year ago this advice would have been ridiculous because no form of iron had then been discovered that could be taken up by the blood.

To-day, nineteenth century science makes it possible to infuse the blood with natural iron.

Dr. Campbell, an English physician, widely known for his scientific pursuits, has succeeded in extracting from the blood of healthy bullocks, iron or Hæmoglobin in natural form. This he has readjusted and enclosed in a soft, pointed gelatine covering to which the name Capsuloids has been given.

These little globes taken at mealtime, two or three times a day, are all that you require to cure you of any disease having its origin in the blood. They give health to the sickly child, strength to the exhausted woman, vigor to the over-worked man. In chronic ailments and diseases long supposed to be incurable the results accruing from the use of Capsuloids are almost miraculous.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 158 Fulton Street, New York City.

THE WHITTIER SCHOOL.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

in this city.

Mr. Maxson's suggestion that the grammar classes in the High School building conform with the High School in hours, having one session instead of two, was approved. So was his plan of not holding a recess at the Whittier school on account of the absence of a school yard and dismissing that school fifteen minutes earlier at noon. Mr. Maxson then spoke regarding the increase in the number of pupils, especially at the High School. Nine new teachers were employed. The Board then went into executive session.

VOTE TO HAVE ARC LIGHTS

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

asked the Council to confirm their action which was done. The reports of the city treasurer and collector were received and filed. Mr. Baker offered a resolution that $4,500 be borrowed for the general fund in anticipation of the collection of taxes.

Mr. Frost stated that the Municipal Improvement Society of which the city is a member would hold their convention soon at Nashville, Tenn., and that he expects to attend the session. The city is a member by the annual payment of $5, and Mr. Barrows offered a motion that the above sum be paid as membership fee. Mr. Frost will represent the city and will pay all of his own expenses connected with the trip. The Council then adjourned.

HURT HURDLE JUMPING.

Horse Fell and Rider Thrown in a Painful Manner—Result of Races.

Saturday afternoon on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association a very good programme was presented for the local sporting men. The first race was between horses owned by J. W. Johnson and Thomas Brantingham. The honors were won by Mr. Johnson. The time was 2:28. In the next race Mr. Hayes matched his horse against Mr. Sheppard's horse and the former won in 2:45½.

Mr. Hayes matched his horse in the third race against Mr. Darby's horse and the latter won in 2:43. The next race was between Mr. Johnson's horse and one owned by Dr. Endicott. J. Osbourne had charge of the former and Mr. Brower the latter. Mr. Johnsons, horse won in 2:40. The last race was a match between R. B. Smalley's mare and W. C. Coddington's horse. The latter won in 2:36.

During the afternoon Eugene Doule, a horseman, in the employ of Mrs. Florence Pickhardt, of this city, gave an exhibition of hurdle jumping. The horse succeeded in jumping three hurdles and when a fourth attempt was made the horse stumbled and turned a complete somersault

The rider was thrown and received an injury to his elbow, side and face, while the horse received an eye injury and was somewhat stiffened in the joints. Neither the rider nor horse was seriously injured, although Mr. Doule had to be assisted from the field.

Wise men know it is folly to build on a poor foundation. Relief obtained by deadening symptoms is short. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures and gives lasting health.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sick headache, indigestion, biliousness. All druggists. 25c.

—E. S. Hyatt and family, formerly of New Brunswick, and late of London, Eng., have, through J. T. Vail, rented the Swayze house, corner of Ninth street and First place, and will take possession at once.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar
for Medicine
until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This sort is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

TRADE MARK

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail; or 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are ten to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of this depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. Men succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places begging for good men, and millions of $3 a week men begging for poor places. If you are worth $50 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to make his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman
NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the highest places and thus earn better pay. During its 40 years of life, more than 40,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

Eastman graduates, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere, Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates. Its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C. GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE NEW YORK.

DIED WHILE VISITING.

A New York Woman Suddenly Stricken With Fatal Illness.

Elizabeth, wife of Christopher Donleavy, of New York city, died suddenly Monday morning of heart failure at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Patrick Moran, at 555 West Fourth street.

Mrs Donleavy was 49 years of age. She was spending two weeks with her relatives in this city. Her health was excellent until Sunday night when she complained of feeling ill. A physician was called but death resulted at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning. The funeral will take place on Thursday. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

Burglars Captured.

The store of E. D. Pursel, at Phillipsburg, was robbed of $500 worth of goods last Thursday night and Saturday night Detective Blackford arrested two suspicious characters at the Communipaw station of the Central Railroad. Each had two suits of clothes and had a considerable amount of jewelry in their possession. Tuesday, the goods found in their possession were identified as part of those stolen from the Phillipsburg store. This morning the two culprits were taken to Phillipsburg by the detective and arraigned before Justice Smith and held to await the action of the Grand Jury of Warren county. The prisoners gave their names as Thomas Jones and Peter Schwers.

B. O. Bowers and family, of Franklin place, who have been enjoying their annual summer vacation at Eastport, Me., have returned home.

READY FOR THE FALL TERM.

Panel of Petit Jurors Drawn for October Term.

Sheriff Kirk Tuesday drew the panel of petit jurors for the October term. Judge McCormick presided, and Clerk Gorman was assisted in the reading of the names by Deputy Sheriff Clark and B. Higgins.

There were only a few spectators. The panel comprises 54 jurors. The probabilities are that the term will be no longer than the May term, although there are not many cases pending now and few criminal charges for the grand jurors to investigate.

Among the jurors drawn were the following:

Plainfield—William R. Drake, William E. Moffit, Hugh MacDonald, Thaddeus D. Doane, Jr., Voorhees W. Laing, Chas. L. Ulrich, Andrew J. Fritz, Isaac L. MacVoy.

Westfield—Stephen Mapes, Frederick Decker, Mathias Clark.

Fanwood—James Johnson, William Terry.

Cranford—Eugene W. Austin, Gideon E. Ludlow.

THEATRICAL.

Rice's Comedians, under the direction of George Peck, will be at Music Hall for the week commencing Monday, September 13th, opening in their stellar success, "All in the Family," in which is introduced all the latest vaudeville novelties up to date. The Newark Sentinel, in speaking of the performance, said: "The company is unusually strong." Popular prices will rule, 15, 20 and 30 cents. Reserved seats on sale Friday.

THE VOL XXX.

THE NEW PRESS WORKS.

WHEN IN OPERATION THE FACTORY WILL EMPLOY ABOUT 200 MEN.

Legal Formalities to Be Gone Through With Before the Name of the Concern is Decided—Lithographing Press to be Built.

Satisfactory signs of the return of prosperity are apparent today in Plainfield and are to be seen on every side. It will now only be a matter of a few weeks before another industry will open in this city and give employment to about 200 men, most of them skilled hands. The new industry is to be a plant for the manufacture of printing presses. The name of the new concern has not yet been announced as the legal formalities necessary have not yet been completed and will not be for a week or two.

Charles Leonard, of Elizabeth, who owns the building on North avenue, formerly known as the Chase machine shop, has leased that entire plant to Messrs. Brooks, Huson and Cornwall, who will establish the new factory in this city. John Brooks is the present superintendent of the Potter Press Works, Winfield S. Huson was superintendent of the Hoe Press Works, while Mr. Cornwall is a New York man who is largely interested in the manufacture of printing presses.

Mr. Huson has been in Plainfield for several weeks and is now in charge of the factory where extensive alterations are now in progress. A new floor has been laid the entire length of the building and new partitions are being put up. The methods of supplying the power to the different parts of the building are being somewhat changed and the building is being fitted up as an up-to-date establishment.

The new company will manufacture printing presses of the most modern style after designs made by the three men interested. They will also enter into the manufacture of a new improved lithographing press in which several colors are to be used at the same time by a more simplified method to that already in use. With the new press the work of printing the colored supplements for the large New York papers will be greatly simplified, as will be that of making the colored lithographs which are so much in use in the present methods of advertising.

A Press reporter called at the factory yesterday to see Mr. Huson, but the latter was so busy that he could give but a few moments to the interview. He explained, however, that there was little to say at present as the company had not been regularly formed and all the legal proceedings necessary to such a step were being made. He did not care to say who the interested parties were, nor at what the concern was capitalized, for the present. He said that the company would manufacture improved presses and might also introduce something in the line of presses that had not yet appeared on the market. The company, he continued, would employ as many men as the building would accommodate, which he estimated at 200.

W. C. T. U. COUNTY CONVENTION.

Temperance Workers to Meet in Rahway Sept. 23d.

The annual convention of the Union County W. C. T. U. will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms in Rahway on Sept. 23d. The programme is as follows:

9:30 Devotions. Led by Miss Kerch.
Appointment of committees and pages.
Report of executive committee.
President's address.
Reports of secretary and treasurer.
Report of credential committee.
Election of officers.
Election of National delegate.
11:30 Bible reading.
Offering.
12:00 Noonday prayer.
Lunch served by the ladies of the Rahway Union.
1:30 Executive committee meeting.
AFTERNOON SESSION.
2:00 Devotions.....Mrs. F. R. Baker.
Reports of executive committee.
Reports of superintendents of departments.
Memorial service.....Mrs. T. C. Bodine.
Offering.
Report of resolution committee.
Question box.
Miscellaneous business.
Adjournment.
EVENING SESSION.
Devotions.
Singing by "The Dovetidges."
Offering.

Train leaves Plainfield 8:33; Elizabeth 9:07 a. m. Train leaves Rahway 9:40 p. m.

Hunting Sporty Game.

A party, consisting of Irving West, Howard Huntington, George VanBoskerck and Marion Ackerman, went from this city several days ago into the Adirondacks on a hunting trip. They wrote Saturday that they already had three fine bucks hanging up in the camp and expected to secure several more before they returned.

Miss L. A. Smalley, of East Front street, has returned from her summer

OPENING OF B

MARKDD THE BEGI
SECOND YEAR IN

Classes Are Provided to While the Gymnasium Iures are Attractions Th

The opening of the evening marked the club's second year in t tern, a building owned equipped especially f undertakes, Classes carpentering, pattern-ing and mechanical dr scholar is furnished w set of tools or instru bench or desk for his In addition to these individual instruction any of these branches judgment of the supe industry and applicatio desiring it has proved such special attention.

The club is also e well-furnished gym Library. In the latter good assortment of with the daily and we monthly magazines.

The classes will be h Tuesday, Thursday coach week, while W Saturdays will be devo tics and general amu club will be open each until 9:15. On class n will begin at 7:30 and o'clock, thus giving h fore and a quarter of a regular work for readi

It is hoped and exp year will be marked regular attendance where much can be lea for a life of future use cess. A knowledge of of tools will almost a man or a boy a goo hereafter the club wi employment bureau fo

It would please these ding on the work to have visited by the parent order that they might work which is being encourage the schola energy by their manife

REPELLED THE C

New Marketite C Interfering With and Held for Gr

Carl Helmerley was fore Justice of the Pe New Market, Tuesday committing assault an Constable Robert Pierce

Helmerley gave a cha upon his household go ago to William Pierce constable. The mort due and was not paid. stable was sent to take the goods by process o he appeared at the h tempted to take poss goods Helmerley becam and, it is alleged, stru several blows in the f sold him to go home an

The Justice held He $50 bonds to appear be Jury. The counsel in Page & Runyon and f Williams.

STRANGER THAN

An Illegitimate Child of by Her Husb

The murder of Jame old Stony Hill farmer w to death by a masked r day night, has broug strange story.

Mary Davis, the old was seriously injured b lived with Pitts as his h nearly fifty years.

were born in that tim was a girl named Stella pretty and anyone l would not have a susp was negro blood coursi veins.

Albert C Traphagen wealthy Newark jewele married her without a facts. The couple liv gether for some years children. Then Trap ered that Mary Davis, was his wife's mothe shocked at the discov her. Stella went to wo and some time ago a broken heart.

Traphagen three we at the Pitts home and Pitts and Mary Davis since been seen in the

—It is the intention o manic street committee steam roller out of its ters in a short time. been decided just what ets will be attended to

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16 1897. NO. 37

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

THE NEW PRESS WORKS.

WHEN IN OPERATION THE FACTORY WILL EMPLOY ABOUT 200 MEN.

Legal Formalities to Be Gone Through With Before the Name of the Concern is Decided—Lithographing Press to be Built.

Satisfactory signs of the return of prosperity are apparent today in Plainfield and are to be seen on every side. It will now only be a matter of a few weeks before another industry will open in this city and give employment to about 200 men, most of them skilled hands. The new industry is to be a plant for the manufacture of printing presses. The name of the new concern has not yet been announced as the legal formalities necessary have not yet been completed and will not be for a week or two.

Charles Leonard, of Elizabeth, who owns the building on North avenue, formerly known as the Chase machine shop, has leased that entire plant to Messrs. Brooks, Huson and Cornwall, who will establish the new factory in this city. John Brooks is the present superintendent of the Potter Press Works, Winfield S. Huson was superintendent of the Hoe Press Works, while Mr. Cornwall is a New York man who is largely interested in the manufacture of printing presses.

Mr. Huson has been in Plainfield for several weeks and is now in charge of the factory where extensive alterations are now in progress. A new floor has been laid the entire length of the building and new partitions are being put up. The methods of supplying the power to the different parts of the building are being somewhat changed and the building is being fitted up as an up-to-date establishment.

The new company will manufacture printing presses of the most modern style after designs made by the three men interested. They will also enter into the manufacture of a new improved lithographing press in which several colors are to be used at the same time by a much simplified method to that already in use. With the new press the work of printing the colored supplements for the large New York papers will be greatly simplified, as will be that of making the colored lithographs which are so much in use in the present methods of advertising.

A Press reporter called at the factory yesterday to see Mr. Huson, but the latter was so busy that he could give but a few moments to the interview. He explained, however, that there was little to say at present as the company had not been regularly formed and that the legal proceedings necessary to such a step were being made. He did not care to say who the interested parties were, or at what the concern was capitalized, for the present. He said that the company would manufacture improved presses and might also introduce something in the line of presses that had not yet appeared on the market. The company, he continued, would employ as many men as the building would accommodate, which he estimated at 200.

W. C. T. U. COUNTY CONVENTION.

Temperance Workers to Meet in Rahway Sept. 23d.

The annual convention of the Union County W. C. T. U. will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms in Rahway on Sept. 23d. The programme is as follows:

MORNING SESSION.

9:30 Devotions. Led by Miss Keron.
Appointment of committees and pages.
Report of executive committee.
President's address.
Reports of secretary and treasurer.
Report of credential committee.
Election of officers.
Election of National delegate.
10:30 Bible reading.
Offering.
10:40 Benedict prayer.
Lunch served by the ladies of the Rahway Union.
1:30 Executive committee meeting.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

2:00 Devotions.....Mrs. F. B. Baker.
Reports of executive committee.
Reports of superintendents of departments.
Memorial service.....Mrs. T. C. Bodine.
Offering.
Report of resolution committee.
Question box.
Miscellaneous business.
Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION.

Devotions.
Singing by "The Deverdiges."
Offering.

Train leaves Plainfield 8:33; Elizabeth 9:07 a. m. Train leaves Rahway 9:30 p. m.

Hunting Sporty Game.

A party, consisting of Irving West, Howard Huntington, George Vanbockerck and Marion Ackerman, went from this city several days ago into the Adirondacks on a hunting trip. They wrote Saturday that they already had three fine bucks hanging up in the camp and expected to secure several more before they returned.

Miss L. A. Smalley, of East Front street, has returned from her summer vacation.

OPENING OF BOYS' CLUB

MARKDD THE BEGINNING OF THE SECOND YEAR IN THEIR HOME.

Classes Are Provided in Manual Training While the Gymnasium and Social Features are Attractions That Draw the Boys

The opening of the Boys' Club last evening marked the beginning of the club's second year in its present quarters, a building owned by the club and equipped especially for the work it undertakes. Classes are provided in carpentering, pattern-making, moulding and mechanical drawing, and each scholar is furnished with a complete set of tools or instruments, with a bench or desk for his individual use. In addition to these regular classes, individual instruction will be given in any of these branches where, in the judgment of the superintendent, the industry and application of the scholar desiring it has proved him worthy of such special attention.

The club is also equipped with a well-furnished gymnasium and library. In the latter will be found a good assortment of books, together with the daily and weekly papers and monthly magazines.

The classes will be held on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of each week, while Wednesdays and Saturdays will be devoted to gymnastics and general amusements. The club will be open each evening from 7 until 9:15. On class nights the work will begin at 7:30 and continue until 9 o'clock, thus giving half an hour before and a quarter of an hour after the regular work for reading and exercise.

It is hoped and expected that this year will be marked by a large and regular attendance at the classes, where much can be learned to fit a boy for a life of future usefulness and success. A knowledge of the proper use of tools will almost always assure a man or a boy a good position, and hereafter the club will act as a free employment bureau for its members.

It would please those who are carrying on the work to have the club often visited by the parents of the boys in order that they might see the diligent work which is being done, and encourage the scholars to renewed energy by their manifest interest.

REPELLED THE CONSTABLE.

New Marketite Charged With Interfering With an Officer and Held for Grand Jury.

Carl Heimerley was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Storms, at New Market, Tuesday, charged with committing assault and battery upon Constable Robert Pierce, of that place.

Heimerley gave a chattel mortgage upon his household goods some time ago to William Pierce, a son of the constable. The mortgage became due and was not paid, and the constable was sent to take possession of the goods by process of law. When he appeared at the house and attempted to take possession of the goods Heimerley became very wroth, and, it is alleged, struck the officer several blows in the face. He then told him to go home and remain there.

The Justice held Heimerley under $50 bonds to appear before the Grand Jury. The counsel in the case are Pope & Runyon and Swackhamer & Williams.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

An Illegitimate Child of Pitts Deserted by Her Husband.

The murder of James C. Pitts, the old Stony Hill farmer who was beaten to death by a masked man on Thursday night, has brought to light a strange story.

Mary Davis, the old negress who was seriously injured by the murderer, lived with Pitts as his housekeeper for nearly fifty years. Four children were born in that time, one of whom was a girl named Stella. The girl was pretty and anyone looking at her would not have a suspicion that there was negro blood coursing through her veins.

Albert C Traphagen, son of the wealthy Newark jeweler, courted and married her without a suspicion of the facts. The couple lived happily together for some years and had two children. Then Traphagan discovered that Mary Davis, the old negress, was his wife's mother. He was so shocked at the discovery that he left her. Stella went to work as a servant and some time ago she died of a broken heart.

Traphagen three weeks ago called at the Pitts home and quarreled with Pitts and Mary Davis. He has not since been seen in the vicinity.

—It is the intention of the Councilmanic street committee to bring the steam roller out of its summer quarters in a short time. It has not yet been decided just what section of the city will be attended to.

PUMPKINS AND PEOPLE

SOMERSET COUNTY FAIR NOW IN FULL BLAST.

Big Exhibits of all Kinds of Agricultural Products to Entertain the Farmers and Astonish the City Folks Also.

The second annual fair of the Somerset County Agricultural Society opened Tuesday morning to the public. Sightseers came out of the farming districts of the county in their family carryalls and spent the day at the fair, looking about them with open mouths at the strange sights. Somerville sent its quota of visitors, rich and poor alike, some afoot and some in stylish turnouts, but everybody bent on a good time.

Tuesday, the opening day, was known as bicycle day. Yesterday was school day, when the children of the schools were invited. Today is politicians day, when the powers that be in a political line, the famous Republican and Democratic leaders of the county gather together. There will be speeches and something to eat.

The spirit of the fair has invaded Somerville for the week and nobody talks or thinks about much beside the fair. On arriving in Somerville, the stranger has to run the guantlet of the importuning hackmen and stage drivers, all who insist on taking everybody that comes along to the fair whether they wish to go or not, and it takes a cool head to escape from their clutches. All the way to the fair grounds the visitor is besieged by the enterprising owners of vehicles.

The first sound to greet the ear of the stranger on his approach is the sound of the squeaky organ that plays at the merry-go-round. There all the popular airs of the day, and of many days ago, are murdered with steady precision while the youthful country maids and their bashful escorts ride about on all sorts of strange creatures.

There is the exhibit of cattle, horses, swine and other domestic animals. They are not so numerous as to be thrown, but there are many valuable exhibits. A barn-like structure contains the exhibits of fancy work, art, and the like. The building is not supposed to be a headquarters for art in the district and some of the pictures might bring tears to the eyes of the man with the artistic soul, but, then, its all in the fair. The farmer is particularly interested in the exhibit of vegetables and farm products. There are monster pumpkins of fabulous size, radishes, turnips, potatoes and everything else of unusual size.

The real centre of attraction, however, is the race course. Tuesday bicycle races were held all the afternoon; yesterday and today the horse were supreme in the contests on the track. Then there are the fakirs and the sideshow men whose booths are all about the grounds. The refreshment tent is there and thither the young man and his fair one went to partake of ginger ale and other strange decoctions. The fabled red lemonade is missing.

Each attraction has its outside man who declaims about the wonders to be seen or partaken of at his own particular tent. The man with the X-ray machine and the black art show has a big brass gong with which he draws the attention of the crowd, while his assistant, a girl with bleached hair and short dresses, tells the wonders within.

While all the exhibits were not ready Tuesday, the fair was in full sway. The bicycle races began at 1 o'clock and continued at intervals until 5. F. L. O. Martin was the clerk of the course, with A. H. Serreli, T. U. Smith and William Sweeny for his assistants. Dalona Stevens, a young man from Somerville, won the honors of the day. Charles Dodd and Lindley M. Hillman shared the honors in the races for boys under seventeen. Harry Lister and Thomas A. Cuming started in the tandem race of ten miles on a strange wheel, theirs having become disabled, but fell out after one lap. Peter Simms, the colored rider from this city, captured one second.

In the two-mile scratch, Peter Simmons won first and Harry Lister rode a dead heat for second place, the place was given to Henderson, a Somerville favorite, by the judges. Paul Anderson, who graduated from the School last June, made his first appearance on the track. He fell in one race and severely injured himself but he pluckily started in the next but his injuries forced him to give up. He took second in the slow race, two men competing. Thursday will probably be about the biggest day of the fair. Hon. William D. Daly, who is prominently mentioned as a prospective Democratic candidate for Governor, will be present and deliver an address. Senator Charles A. Reed, of this city, will also be present and speak.

SIGHTS IN THE TEPEES.

INDIAN RELICS AND CUSTOMS ABOUND IN PALE FACES DOMAIN.

Indian Tea of Paughcaughnaughaupe Tribe is Picturesque and Interesting to Those Who Wend There Way There.

Considering it was the first night, the fair held on the LaGrande avenue baseball grounds under the auspices of Paughcaughnaughaupe Council, No. 34, Degree of Pocohontas, Tuesday evening, was a great success. A spacious tent is the first thing that greets the eye and, of course, everyone is anxious to look inside and at the door they find Charles Dellahunt, who receives the wampum. After entering, one is amazed at the Indian appearance of everything, for those in charge have followed closely the ideal Indian and have succeeded admirably in imitating him and his manners.

One large exhibit of Indian relics, the donation of Charles Bullman, is well worth the price of admission. The collection is a rare one and includes an Indian air-gun that required two months to make it. Then there are scales, brooms, nets, hats, and a piece of pottery 400 years old. Mrs. V. W. Nash is in charge of the exhibit and she explains to the visitors in an interesting way the various articles. In this collection is a handsome painting of a rare scene which was presented to the Council by Nemooshee Council, of Elizabeth, and one night during the week the members of the latter Council will visit the fair.

The balance of the space within the tent is arranged with booths of the most attractive Indian style. The lemonade booth is in charge of Miss Bertha Netherwood, while Miss Sadie Giles has supervision of the soda and ice cream. An Indian princess is stationed at one of the booths, where in a fascinating manner she tells those who call what their future will be. The apron booth is presided over by Miss Nash and Miss Jones. Mrs. Alberts and Mrs. Clarence Leland are in charge of the booth where all kinds of fancy articles can be purchased.

After seeing all the sights one becomes thirsty and hungry, and for this purpose a refreshment booth has been provided where coffee and sandwiches are sold by Miss Wilson and Mrs. Waldron. Mrs. Riker and Mrs. DeVine preside over the cake table, while Miss Mowinkle and Miss McLeish have charge of the candy booth.

The centre of attraction is the voting contest for the most popular motorman on the street railway. The one receiving the highest number of votes will receive a full rubber suit, including boots and hat. Miss Nash has charge of the votes and she received many last evening. It will not be known until Saturday evening who the lucky motorman is.

Commencing at 9:30 Tuesday evening dancing was continued until nearly 12 o'clock. Music is furnished by Bert Naylor, and Charles Dellahunt acts in the capacity of floor manager. The floor is a good one and will accomodate a goodly number of dancers. Mr. Dellahunt is assisted by Albert Wilson in looking after the comfort of the dancers.

V. W. Nash has general supervision of the affair, while the general committee consists of Charles Ulrich, Miss Wilson, Miss Ada Nash, Miss Mowinkle and Mrs. Waldron. The fair will be continued every night during the week and from all appearances it will be a success.

MURDERED MAN'S FUNERAL.

Officiating Minister Said Pitts' Death Showed Need of Police Protection.

The funeral of James C. Pitts, who was murdered at his home last Thursday night, was held at the Methodist Episcopal church in Summit Monday afternoon. The pall-bearers were Charles Farrow, Wm. Coggesell, Jas. M. Woodruff and Stephen R. Mullin. Rev. O. S. Ryman conducted the services. There was a big crowd present. In his sermon Mr. Ryman said the shock caused by the death of Mr. Pitts was the greatest that had ever been felt in the community. The minister made a plea for a stronger police force and urged that the Government keep out the criminals, thugs and assassins who come to our shores with almost every ship which brings passengers from Europe. Burial was in the Methodist cemetery at New Providence.

Captain Stewart and Detective Max Weil are in New York most of the time trying to find the murderer. Search is now being made for a man who formerly worked for G. Woodruff. Mrs. Davis, the colored housekeeper, who was beaten with a gambrel, is at the Memorial Hospital in Orange. It is expected that she will recover.

Frederick P. Taylor, of Grove street, is spending this week at Belmar.

TO DRAW CASH TRADE.

LOCAL MERCHANTS ORGANIZE TO GIVE CREDIT COUPONS.

The Purposes of the Association Will Be General and Mutual in Scope, But Principally to Get Cash Customers.

Eleven of Plainfield's well known merchants gathered at the store of one of their number, Tuesday afternoon, and organized the Plainfield Merchants' Association, a permanent organization, which is to look out for the privileges and rights of all local merchants who unite within its fold and decide on all questions that may call for united action on the part of the merchants. One of the present objects of the Association is to issue coupons with all the cash purchases made at the stores of the members of the organization and offer premiums for these coupons.

The meeting of Tuesday afternoon was the result of a conference between several of the members and the rest were invited to enter. There were present representatives of the following firms: A. M. Griffen, Edward White, Powlison & Jones, M. C. VanArsdale, J. Howard Leggett, William H. Sebring, James R. Blair, P. M. Demarest & Son, Woolston & Buckle, J. Hervey Doane and J. W. VanSickle. After a little discussion, the organization was regularly made and the following officers were elected: President, A. M. Griffen; treasurer, M. C. VanArsdale; secretary, J. Howard Leggett; executive committee, Edward White, L. B. Woolston and Howard Leggett; committee on advertising and premiums, George Griffen, Edward White, Bert Demarest and J. A. Powlison.

It is the purpose of the Association to rent club rooms where the members can meet, have the rooms well furnished and make it a gathering place for the merchants. It is intended to enroll all of the local merchants. All who wish to join can send their application to A. M. Griffen. The Association will be somewhat similar to the Board of Trade but with rather different objects. The observing of holidays and other questions that call for a united stand on the part of all the merchants will be acted upon by the Association.

The first object of the Association is to rent a store and offer premiums to all cash customers in the different stores. With every cash purchase, coupons will be given and they can be saved, and, after a sufficient number are obtained, presented at the store and a premium secured. It will be a rival to the present existing credit coupon company by virtue of this action.

Another meeting will be held next week when it is expected that the membership will be largely increased.

RODE OFF ON THEIR BOOTY.

Fanwood People Keeping a Sharp Watch on Their Cycles Since One Was Stolen.

The people of Fanwood and Scotch Plains are just now keeping a sharp watch on their bicycles, for they have found out that bicycle thieves are operating in that section. On Monday evening about 6 o'clock Augustus Sheelen, a grocer, whose store is on the county road at Fanwood, left his Crescent bicycle standing in front of the store while he went inside to talk with his brother, Charles Sheelen. The two men stood quite near the door, and did not see nor hear anyone outside. When the owner of the wheel went a few minutes later to get it, the machine had disappeared. None was in sight and nobody can be found who saw the wheel taken. It is thought that someone who knew that Sheelen was in the habit of coming to the store evenings and leaving his bicycle outside had lain in hiding and when the opportunity offered itself had mounted the wheel and rode away in the gathering darkness. Mr. Sheelen has offered a reward for the detection of the thief. The bicycle was of the Crescent model of 1896, and was numbered 189,480.

A Bicycle Stolen.

A Cleveland bicycle belonging to F. M. Hill was stolen near Princeton on September 10th. It was a model 20, No. 11,923, 22-inch frame, Brown racing saddle, 1¼-inch road tire, corrugated rear and smooth front; almost new and scarcely shows wear. A liberal reward is offered for the return of the wheel.

Pick Has a Word to Say.

Pick has the goods you want, and for every dollar you invest you get full value for your money. No stamps, no chromos, but value you will get. His stock of new and seasonable goods are more attractive than ever before and his prices are lower than you can buy the same quality elsewhere.

STUTTERED TO THE CADI.

PETER CUFF APPEALED TO THE JUDGE FOR HIS RASH SON.

The Younger Wooding Behave Himself Around Music Hall and Spent the Night in Jail—Father's Laughable Explanation.

A crowd of small boys invaded the entrance to the Stillman Theatre Tuesday and kept the special officer on duty there busy in chasing them out. Then two of them went across the street and kicked their heels against boxes, accompanying the noise with their voices. The officer chased them again and Patrolman McCarty stole up and grabbed two colored lads by the collar. They were locked up and arraigned before City Judge DeMeza yesterday morning.

The Judge talked very seriously to the youthful prisoners, referring to the need of prisoners there to learn to whitewash the jail buildings. The lads looked downcast, indeed, until at last Peter Cuff, father of Roy Cuff, one of the prisoners, came to the rescue. Peter was excited by the circumstances of the occasion, and the habit of stammering, with which he is afflicted at times, somewhat interfered with his efforts in behalf of his boy.

"A-a-a-all my fuf fuf-fault Judge," began the excited man as he pushed his way to the front of the court room waving his hands. "I-h-h-had no bub-bub-business to lul-lul-let him go out. I-H-he sus sus-said he had a tut tut-ticket for Mum-mum-music Hall and I-lul-lul-let him go." The old man stopped to wipe the perspiration that followed such a terrible effort and then continued. "Dud-dud-darned fef-fuf-fool, he cuc-cuc came out and gug-gug-gave away his tut-tut-ticket. Then the d-d-d-dude cuc cuc-cop came along and lul lul-locked him in."

Then Cuff retired while the Judge opened fire at him with verbal ammunition. After finishing his lecture to the young culprits, he ended by sentencing them to pay a fine of $1 each. Their names were Roy Cuff and Raymond Johnson, both fifteen years old.

RAGS ON FIRE.

The Flames Attributed to the Nibbling of Invading Rats.

At about 12:50 o'clock yesterday the neighbors discovered smoke issuing from the attic of the frame house at 47 Elm place, owned by John Burns and rented by Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Williams. A telephone message was sent to the fire department and a few minutes later a regular call was sent from box No. 14, corner of Front street and Watchung avenue.

When the firemen reached the house it was filled with smoke which issued from the attic windows and poured down the stairs in clouds. A quantity of rags in the attic were on fire. The flames were extinguished in a few minutes, and at 1:05 o'clock the fire apparatus returned. Chief Doane, who arrived promptly at the scene of the excitement, decided that the fire was caused by rats nibbling at matches, and warned the owner of the house to keep the attic in a more clean condition.

The damage did not exceed $10.

TO STUDY MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

Lincoln Councilwomen Will be Distinguished Delegates at Columbus, Ohio.

The Common Council of Lincoln, which has attracted much attention on account of its being evenly divided as to sex, has received an invitation to attend the convention of Mayors and Councilmen from all over the United States, to be held at Columbus, Ohio, September 26th next, and the three Councilwomen—Mrs. Alvira Hazard, Miss Emma Egel and Miss Mattie Moore—together with Mayor Silas D. Drake, will attend the convention. On their arrival at Columbus they will be received by the Woman's Club of Columbus. They will stop at the Chittenden Hotel. The Lincoln women will be the only representatives of the fair sex in the convention.

Miss Mattie Moore, who was chosen a member of the Council, to succeed Dr. J. B. Close, at the special election September 4th, has been made a member of the sewer, water and lights and the marshals' and license committees.

No Attempt to Commit Suicide.

Several people who witnessed the accident to Robert Rushton on the railroad Tuesday morning were inclined to think it an attempt at suicide. Mr. Hansen, his partner, says that it was purely an accident and that the injured man had no thoughts of attempting to end his life, but absentmindedly walked in front of the engine that struck him.

—Mrs. Bridget McMann, of North Plainfield, was admitted to the hospital yesterday to undergo an operation which is deemed necessary.

NOT AN ATTEMPT TO ROB.

WILLIAM PARKER, THE SUSPECT, DISCHARGED AFTER EXAMINATION.

The Colored Waiter was Simply Drunk and Erratic in His Conduct—Said That He Did Not Remember About His Actions.

With brain befuddled with the fumes of the liquor with which he had celebrated the meeting with several old friends, William H. Parker, a young colored man, performed all sorts of strange stunts that nearly landed him in State Prison for attempted burglary. Parker did attempt to enter a house on Richmond street and was arrested on the charge of attempted burglary, but his lawyer proved his innocence of any criminal intent and the charge of burglary was removed. Now Parker will have to answer for his strange proceedings under the charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Readers of this paper will remember the great excitement that was caused on Richmond street, early one morning recently, when somebody attempted to gain entrance to the house of Mrs. Elizabeth Unanaft, 209 Richmond street, through the front window and was finally frightened away by the approach of an officer. William H. Parker, a colored man who has been employed as waiter at the Brookside Sanitarium, was suspected of being the man and was arrested. The principal clews were a hat, shoe and stocking left behind by the midnight visitor, which corresponded with those worn by Parker.

Parker was remanded for examination and being unable to furnish bail, was sent to the county jail at Elizabeth where he has been languishing ever since until Friday when he was brought to this city for a hearing.

While Robert M. Clark, Jr., of Washingtonville, was on his porch basking in the moonlight Thursday, he was completely taken by surprise when a stage-load of his Plainfield friends appeared on the scene. Yesterday Mr. Clark celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his birthday in a very quiet manner, and little did he think of the surprise that was in store for him. The affair was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Cutter, assisted by Mrs. R. M. Meeker. The party upon their arrival at the house took full possession and made themselves perfectly at home. They were hospitably received by Mr. and Mrs. Clark, and the guests at once entered into the full enjoyment of an improvised programme, the principal features of which were dancing and sociability, interspersed with the serving of refreshments. Mr. Clark received the congratulations of his guests in his usual affable manner.

The proper place for the bailiff to be is in the court room. He is there to look after the jurymen and see that they are not approached by outsiders. Sheriff Runyon has been in the habit of sending the bailiff out on errands, and the result has been that the jurymen have been left to themselves. Judge Depue has issued an order that the bailiff must remain in the court room, and Sheriff Runyon will see that the order is obeyed.

It was rather late when the guests returned to their homes, but all agreed that the event was one of the most pleasant of the season. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. G. L. VanEmburgh. Mr. and Mrs. Alburtus Swaim, Mr. and Mrs. Horace. J. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steiner, Mrs. R. M. Meeker, Mr. and Mrs. G. Q. Dolliver and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Cutter.

ENTERTAINED AT CARDS.

Progressive Euchre Party Given in Honor of a Guest.

An informal progressive euchre party was given at the home of Mrs. E. H. Hannigan, of Somerset street, Saturday evening, in honor of Mrs. Hannigan's nephew, Lester Walton, who leaves for boarding school today. At euchre, the first prizes were won by Miss Bertha Thorn and Allan E. Laing. The booby prizes went to Miss Emma Buckle and Allan Wilson. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and enjoying the collation which was served.

Among those present were the Misses Eugenia Hannigan, Helen Walton, Olive Newell, Clara Woodward, Bertha Thorn, Emma Buckle, Mabelle Smith and Alice Barker, and the Messrs. Allan E. Laing, Allan Wilson, L. H. VanBuren, George Voorhees, of New Brunswick, and Mr. Nix, of Cranford.

The Price of Wheat

May or may not be governed by the price of silver. It all depends on your point of view. In one sense, the price of wheat has something to do with silver. A silver half dollar, for instance, spent at the Great Inter-State Fair, at Trenton, will aid you in producing better wheat and more of it. Amusement and recreation are worth while, but instruction is of more use to you. You get all three at the Inter-State. A day spent there in intelligent observation will make you a better farmer, a better merchant or a better housewife. The dates are September 27 to October 1st.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Percy Stewart, son of Walter E. Stewart, of West Seventh street, to Miss Eleanor Cochran, of Yonkers, N. Y. Percy Stewart is a rising young lawyer in New York and is well known in society circles in this city.

A young son arrived last Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Beekman, of East Front street.

Charles Johnson, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Newark, was the guest of friends in the city last Saturday.

THE MURDER MYSTERY.

DESCRIPTION GIVEN OF TWO MEN THOUGHT TO BE ASSAILANTS.

Believed to be Bicyclists—Was Robbed of Some Clothing After the Murder—Reward of $250—Housekeeper Recovering.

All day Friday the search of the country within several miles' radius of Stony Hill, where James C Pitts was beaten to death Thursday night by men who evidently expected to rob his home and make a big haul, went on without ceasing. Mr. Pitts, an aged resident of Summit, was murdered in the kitchen of his home. The nerve of the crime was taken to the house of Allen G. Woodruff by a negress, Mr Pitts' housekeeper, who, despite her eighty years, is a vigorous woman. She also had been assailed by the murderers of Mr. Pitts, and her skull was badly fractured. She became unconscious after reaching Mr. Woodruff's house.

The police have little to work upon. The description of the men given by the housekeeper, Mary Davis, is poor. They are divided in their beliefs. Some think that the murderers came from New York, and others that at least one of them lived near Summit.

Friday morning, about 300 yards from the house, in a field, William Kent, one of the searchers, found a black mask. It was a manufactured one, such as are used at masked balls John Pleasant found a railroad ticket from Summit to Hoboken on the apparent line of flight of the murderers It had been purchased at Hoboken about 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon The ticket had been punched by Conductor Jewell, who ran a train out of Hoboken on Thursday afternoon. A little later Theodore Fulton found a part of an excursion ticket from Hoboken to Summit. It had also been punched by Conductor Jewell. He advanced the theory that the men left the train somewhere between South Orange and Summit, perhaps Short Hills. In that event, he would have failed to get their tickets, which he would otherwise have taken up while running between Short Hills and Summit.

Charles H. Gobe, the ticket agent at Hoboken, remembers selling tickets to Summit to two men Thursday afternoon. From his description, one was a tall man, weighing about 180 pounds, and wore a very light suit. His companion was a short man, with florid face and stubby moustache. He was inclined to be stout. Conductor Jewell says two men answering these descriptions were on his late afternoon train.

Thursday night Dr. W. H. Jewell was summoned from here to go to Stony Hill to treat the injured housekeeper. He was accompanied by his son, a medical student. Midway between this place and Stony Hill they encountered two men. William Lawrence was sitting on the side of the wagon nearest the men. The men came out of the woods as the wagon was approaching, then one retired. Mr. Lawrence obtained a look at the face of the other. His description was that of the short man.

Edward Delaney, a young man who lives close to the scene of the murder, and whose house was one of the first to reach the Pitts house, also encountered the murderers. His experience was a short distance nearer the Pitts house than where Dr. Jewell and Wm. Lawrence saw the men. Delaney was riding toward his home and met the men on the road. He was commanded to dismount by the stout man. He did so and was forced to strip off his coat and vest and then his shirt and undershirt. Both of these were taken. He was given back his coat and vest and allowed to go on his way. The stout man took the most prominent part in the hold-up, his companion standing in the shade and Delaney did not see him well. Delaney says there were spots on the shirt worn by the stout man. Delaney's coat and vest would not have fitted other of the men. Deianey asserts that the men were mounted on bicycles.

The following description of the two men has been sent out:

"No. 1—Short and stout, with florid complexion, light hair, dark clothing, and derby hat."

"No. 2—Medium height and build; light clothing and hat, and dark hair and florid complexion; both supposed to be Germans."

Prosecutor Marsh, Coroner Sinclair and County Detective Keron arrived on the scene Friday afternoon and took up the case. The Coroner summoned a jury, an autopsy was made yesterday. The inquest will be held Wednesday next. Gobe assured the authorities that he would know the men if he ever saw them again. The Township Commitee has offered a reward of $250 for the arrest of the murderers, and Gov. Griggs has been asked also to offer a reward.

Mr. Pitts' only known relative is a brother, said to be a member of a community at Canandaigua Falls, N. Y. He has been notified. Mrs. Davis is resting easy and will probably recover. Her daughter, Mrs. Maria Harris, of Elizabeth, is with her.

Realty Changes.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded from Plainfield during the past week:

Irving L. Brady, assignee, to Peter J. McDonough et als., lot middle Madison avenue, 60 feet northeast of C. R. R., Plainfield, $100.

Edmund A. Embury to Wm. F. Smith, North Plainfield, lot Lyman place, $1; Richard H. McCullough et als., to John S. Hazard, Plainfield, lot 7, block D., Evons, $200.

THE CITY'S INSTRUCTORS

COMPLETE LIST OF TEACHERS IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

There Are a Few Changes, But Nearly the Same Capable Corps of Mentors Will Be in Charge of the Youth of Plainfield.

The following is a correct list of teachers employed in the public schools for the ensuing year:

High School—Ira W. Travell, principal, Greek and mathematics; Ellen E. Niles, history and literature; Mary Grace Caldwell, Latin and German; Alice M. Whitney, mathematics and English; Sara Bean, Latin and French; B. Meredith, science; George Weeks Sandford, commercial department; Anna J. Bennett, drawing.

Stillman Grammar School—Carrie B. Runyon, principal; M. Elizabeth Benedict, Mabel Maxson, pianist; Charles L. Lewis, music.

Franklin School — Jennie Davies, Anna E. Mankelow, Noel J. Bullock, principal; Elizabeth W. Kipp, assistant; Mabel Mitchell, Emma Force, Clara J. Churton, Edith Gilbert, Lottie B. Strong, Madge L. Sutphen, Grace A. Barber, Edith R. Bond, kindergarten.

Washington School—Millicent E. Humpston, principal; Anna W. Boorsaem, Jennie Owen, S. Louise Wood, Margaret B Cory, Genevieve Laning, M. Agnes Blair, kindergarten.

Bryant School—Emma V. Shattuck, principal; Ariadne Gilbert, assistant; E. E. Moore, Kate A. Remar, Helen B. Jenks, Clara Ticknor, Jessie A. Browne, Blanche A. Voorhees, Louise B. Runyon; Cora F. Cadmus, kindergarten; Josephine Petrie, pianist.

Irving School—Genevieve Petrie, principal; Eleanor P. Wilber, Anna W. Watson, Edith A. Scott, Lottie W. Stillman, Lucia N. Wood, Alice A. Lee, Hattie Filmer; Genevieve M. Schute, kindergarten; Charlotte M. Beekman, Carrie E. Randall, Lucy L. Brown.

Lincoln School—Louise Burnett, Alice Miller, Nancy M. Thomas, Agnes B. Freeman; Susie Davies, kindergarten.

Whittier School—Anna M. Day, Lena Tomlinson, Alice W. Lansing, Flora Griffin.

SOMERSET POLITICS.

Possibility That Democratic Candidates May all Come From Bridgewater.

Two candidates for Surrogate on the Democratic side, whose names are prominently mentioned, are George W. Vosseller and William S. Potter. Both are gentlemen well known in their party. The former is C. S. Hoffman's right bower in the coal business. He is the son of the late Justice Vosseller, so well known in this county. Whether he is a gold Democrat, few know. It is said that he suits either side, and therefore has good chances for the nomination.

Mr. Potter once occupied the office of Surrogate very acceptably, but he has a lounging eye on it again, so the gossips say. Any one who don't know "Billy" Potter, don't know much. He was secretary of the Fair Association for so many years that his name was a household word. The trouble is that he is too much of a gold man to suit many of the stalwarts.

It is not true that George W. Cooper, one of the Republican candidates for Surrogate, was once postmaster at Raritan. His father held that office. Mr. Cooper has never held office.

If the Democrats should nominate Sylvanus Ayres for Assembly, all of their candidates will be from Bridgewater.

HIGH-GEARED WHEEL.

A Local Cyclist Designed the Sprocket Which Gives a 153 Gear.

Charles Edward Bicknell, of this city, has a remarkable wheel. It is geared to 153, which is rather high to say the least. There are but eight teeth on his rear sprocket, but the first one has forty-three. He made the model of the front sprocket himself and had it cast out of steel. He put the new sprocket on for the first time Saturday afternoon and attracted considerable attention. His friends told him that he could not push the wheel any distance, but yesterday he rode to Newark and return and set such a pace that the wheelmen were surprised. He finds it difficult to start the machine, but once going he can't stop it. The wheel goes forty-three feet at one revolution of the pedal.

Died While Yet in His Teens.

Clifford F. Halloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Halloway, of LaGrande avenue, died at Saranac Lake this urday from consumption. He was in his nineteenth year. He was taken ill in July and confined to his home. After several weeks he was removed to one of the cottages near the Mountain Park Inn. When he was able, he was taken to Saranac Lake where he has been nearly a month. He was slowly sinking, and so his parents planned to bring him home. He was to return Monday. He had many friends in this city, particularly among the young people. He attended the Crescent Avenue church.

George Saunders, of Orchard place, is confined to his home by illness.

PIGS TO BE BANISHED.

NO MORE ARE THE GRUNTERS TO RUN WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS.

The Rooting and Snorting Swine Have Been the Bane of Netherwood People—The City Court Now Promises Relief.

No more is the gleeful squeal of master piggy to be heard in the city limits. For some time a secret crusade has been in progress against the grunter, and Saturday the last of his kind in Netherwood was ordered away. It was a result of the invasion of master piggy and his brothers and sisters over the lawn and garden of Roundsman Frederickson, as already related in.

Although it is not generally known, there is an ordinance of the Board of He lth which does not allow pigs or hogs to be kept in the city limits. Inspector Addis, of the Board of Health, has been after the pigs for some time and has gradually rid the town of almost all of them.

Mrs. Alice Peel, of Leland avenue, owns several of the grunters. They escape from their pen at frequent intervals and scour the neighborhood, so says the Roundsman. The Roundsman lives not far away and he has been roused from his hard-earned slumbers in the morning to go out and chase the pigs. Such action was not condusive to good temper or health and the Roundsman finally determined that he had stood it as long as he ought and therefore made a complaint to the City Judge. Mrs. Peel was ordered to appear before the Judge Saturday.

The trial was held and Mrs. Peel promply pleaded not guilty to allowing her pigs to run about the streets and yards of the people. Roundsman Frederickson conducted his own case and took the stand himself as first witness. He told how the pigs had visited his chicken yard and killed a number of small chickens, how they rooted up his garden and spoiled his fresh vegetables and then tore up his flower beds and ruined the flowers.

He vividly described how his wife chased the pigs while he was asleep and then, tired out, how she had aroused him and he had had to skirmish about to place the pursuit of master piggy, who was greatly enjoying the exercise.

Inspector Addis told his tale, which substantiated the statements of the Roundsman. Addis had notified Mrs. Peel to get rid of her pigs, but she had failed. Claus Peterson and Noah Terry also testified that the pigs of Mrs. Peel roamed at large. Mrs. Peel refused to be sworn, but said that she was trying to find a purchaser for her pigs. The Judge declared her guilty, but deferred sentence for two weeks, in which time he ordered Mrs. Peel to get rid of the cause of all the trouble.

DUTIFUL IN GOOD WORKS.

DEATH OF MRS. SILAS D. YERKES AFTER AN EXEMPLARY LIFE.

Her Sickness Had Not Been of Long Duration—Active in Church Work and in the Cause of Temperance—An Amiable Wife.

After a comparatively short illness, the death of Mrs. Silas Yerkes, of East Sixth street, occurred last Friday at 8:30 o'clock. To those who did not know of the serious illness of the departed, the news of her death was a great shock.

A short time ago Mrs. Yerkes went to the seashore for a rest, and while there she suffered a congestive chill. She was brought home soon afterward, and one day while sitting on the porch she sustained a stroke of paralysis which seemed to affect her whole body. She became unconscious and helpless and remained so until she passed away last Friday. The end came peacefully.

The family has not lived in Plainfield many years, but since their coming they have steadily gained a warm personal feeling of friendship from those with whom they came in contact. In the church they have been earnest, faithful workers. Mrs. Yerkes was closely identified with religious enterprises and she was a faithful member of the Crescent Avenue church. Her work in the W. C. T. U. was unceasing as her heart was in the work. She will be greatly missed in the church and Union, and particularly in the home will her absence be felt. She was a loving and dutiful wife and mother and her influence was a power, which will be a lasting remembrance in the hearts of those with whom she lived and came in contact. A husband, daughter and son survive her, and they have the sincere sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

Smashed One of His Fingers.

Saturday morning while Jacob Wagoner, of the baggage office at the North Avenue station, was handling a heavy trunk, he met with an accident whereby one of his fingers was badly smashed. He was compelled to give up work, and after having the injured member treated by a physician he went to his home, where he will be detained for a short time.

S. L. Schoonmaker and family, of Central avenue, have returned from their summer vacation.

PARTED FROM HIS WIFE

DIVORCE GRANTED TO BANKER HOWARD P. FROTHINGHAM.

His Wife Was Julia Bedlow and Their Marriage Was One of the Social Events of Plainfield About Sixteen Years Ago.

Many Plainfielders who move in good society will be surprised to learn of the fact, that a divorce has been granted to H. P. Frothingham from his wife, whose maiden name was Julia Bedlow, and when married a resident of this city. Mr. Frothingham is a millionaire broker and banker at 2 Wall street, New York city.

Mr. Frothingham is the Mayor of Mount Arlington, this State, and also a Fish and Game Commissioner of the State of New Jersey. He is a member of the Stock Exchange, very prominent in the New York Athletic Club, a trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and makes the New York Club, Fifth avenue and Thirty-fifth street, his headquarters when in the metropolis. In the Wall street district Mr. Frothingham is widely known as one of the largest lenders of money in the street. He has report ed banks and trust companies and other important financial institutions and has placed loans amounting to no less than $15,000,000 to $30,000,000 in a single day.

About sixteen years ago Mr. Frothingham married Julia Bedlow, one of the well known Bedlow family, from whom Bedlow's Island was named. The marriage was one of the social events of the season at Plainfield, and both bride and groom were warmly congratulated.

In 1887 the Frothinghams moved to Mount Arlington, where they erected a very handsome cottage a few years later and equipped it with every luxury. They, a couple were soon numbered among the most important factors in the summer colony at Lake Hopatcong. Mrs. Frothingham's beauty and charm of manner, as well as Mr. Frothingham's liberality and help in bringing about improvements in the cottage colony, led to the election as Mayor in 1891, when the borough was organized. Since then he has been elected as fast as his term expired.

About two years ago discordant notes in the family, and Mr. Frothingham left his wife and went to his cottage at Lake Hopatcong Club. His only child, Lillian, aged fourteen, is now in Europe, being educated. About a year ago Mrs. Frothingham went to California, where she and a companion, Mrs. Eaton, cut a wide swathe. Mrs. Frothingham spent money lavishly, and soon she and Mrs. Eaton became conspicuous figures at the prominent resorts in San Francisco and elsewhere. Though every effort has been made to throw a veil of secrecy about the entire affair, Mr. Frothingham to secure a divorce, it is understood that an actor was mentioned by Mr. Frothingham, and the necessary evidence procured through a certain Charles Hardwig, in California.

Mrs. Frothingham returned to Lake Hopatcong last summer with Mrs. Eaton, who remained with her until a few days ago. Once or twice during the summer Mrs. Frothingham went to Chicago and she is said to have remarked that she might soon be the wife of a Chicago lawyer.

VISITING OFFICIALS.

Bad Bank Keeper Commission Inspect the System in This City.

Last Saturday Mayor A. E. Davis, Corporation Counsel Edward Wines, P. T. Brady and George Coley, sewer commissioners of Red Bank, came to Plainfield for the purpose of inspecting the sewer system in this city. They were received by Councilmen O. H. Frost, Street Commissioner A. J. Garrett and City Clerk T. T. Mashmeyer. They arrived early in the morning and spent the greater portion of the day in town.

They were taken to the sewer farm where the system was thoroughly explained in a very satisfactory manner, and the visitors seemed to be pleased with the system. After their tour of inspection about the city, during which they visited the fire department house, and other public institutions, they were taken to the Union County Country Club by Clerk MacMurray and a spread took of a fine dinner given by Mayor Fisk. Owing to the fact that the latter was called away he was unable to be present to help entertain the visitors.

New Building for a New Industry.

Stuart Shann, of Plainfield, owns a desirable plot of ground bounded by Scott and Linden avenues and Whitman street, Rahway. He has negotiated with a firm of clothing manufacturers, of New York, for the erection of a large factory on the ground. The company offer to purchase the property entire and erect their new building, including boilers for engine, and will lease the same for a long term of years if Mr. Shann will erect the buildings. The concern would employ from 100 to 150 hands. Rahway Advocate.

—Pastor says: "Remember it is not the noise or roar of the cannon that kills, it's the grape, canister and shell."

ROBBER'S DOUBLE CRIME

MASKED MAN INVADED THE HOME OF A STONY HILL FARMER

After Killing James C. Pitts for His Money He Turned on the Aged House-keeper and Mortally Wounded Her.

A masked man, whose motive is supposed to have been robbery, burst into an isolated house in Stony Hill, not far from Summit, Thursday murdered an aged farmer and mortally wounded his housekeeper.

Stony Hill is a wild district, five miles from Scotch Plains. Few houses break the dreariness of the region, and these few are widely separated. It is seldom that a visitor finds his way to this forbidding place.

One of the dwellings on Stony Hill was the home of James C. Pitts. He was aged and lived alone with a colored woman, Mary Davis, who cooked his meals and took care of the lonesome house. Pitts was a farmer and wood cutter, and report had long been the rounds that he had accumulated considerable money. These savings, according to popular rumor, the aged man kept secreted about his house, having a distrust of banks, and anyway finding it inconvenient to journey from his home to the town where he could find safe place for his wealth.

Pitts and the Davis woman were alone in the house at 9 o'clock that night when the door was flung open and a man sprang into the room where they were sitting. The intruder was of powerful build. His face was concealed by a black mask which left not a feature to be seen.

He carried a big club, which he raised over his head as he leaped toward the old man, who in his astonishment had not attempted to move from his chair.

As the masked man reached the aged farmer he swung the club aloft and brought it down with crushing force on his victim's head. The murderer had not spoken a word and his savagery was so swift that the colored woman looked on, nerveless and speechless from terror.

The terrible blow crushed the old man's skull and stretched him dead on the floor. Yet not satisfied with his work the assassin again brought down his weapon on the dead man's head with a force that would have killed had there been life left.

Leaving his victim, the murderer then sprang at the woman. In her terror she was powerless to offer the slightest resistance to the blow which she saw descending upon her. The club fell upon her head and she sank half senseless to the floor.

She had sufficient consciousness to know that the man, evidently believing he had murdered her also, left her lying were she had fallen and began to search the house.

The woman in semi-consciousness heard him walking through the rooms throwing open drawers and closets and ransacking all places in which it seemed likely that money and valuables would be secreted.

While the robber was prosecuting his search in a distant room the woman, with returning strength, crawled from the house and crept into a thicket. There she lay in close hiding until she felt herself equal to greater effort. She had not seen the murderer come from the house, and did not know but he was still at his quest.

The woman dragged herself from the thicket across a field, and made her way to the road, along which she dragged herself, until she came to the house of the nearest neighbor, half a mile away. Her appearance startled the family, whom she aroused from their sleep.

She told of the tragedy at the Pitts house, then fell over senseless from her wound and the great effort she had made to obtain help.

The men of the household speedily armed themselves and hastened to the scene of the crime, while the women took the woman inside and did all they could for her comfort until the doctor, who had been sent for, should arrive.

PEDALED TO SUMMIT.

Wheeling Divisions of the Y. M. C. A. Had a Fine Ride Last Night.

The wheeling division of the Y. M. C. A. enjoyed a moonlight run to Summit Thursday evening. The party numbering about twenty, left the city at 8 o'clock, under command of Capt. T. A. Cummings and Lieut. E. Laing. The night was a perfect one and the association building at Summit was reached without mishap. A large number of guests from other places were present, and they were treated to a literary and musical entertainment, and to refreshments, including sandwiches, lemonade, coffee and cake.

A most enjoyable time was passed, the pleasure of which was heightened by the tact and goodfellowship of the general secretary of the Association, William Jessup, formerly assistant secretary of the Plainfield Association, and later of the Y. M. C. A. training school at Springfield.

The party left on their return trip soon after, arriving at this city about 11 o'clock.

HOBART CHIEF EXHIBIT.

VICE-PRESIDENT AND HOSTS OF LESSER LIGHTS DREW THRONGS.

"Governor's Day" Minus Griggs — First Time in Years the State's Chief Executive Has Failed to Make His Appearance.

Politicians' Hill was the centre of attraction at the big State Fair at Waverly Park Thursday. It was probably the last time that the celebrities of the political arena will congregate on the historic knoll where the directors of the New Jersey Agricultural Society have pitched their tent and welcomed their guests for thirty-nine years past. The fair grounds will in all probability be converted into a part of the Essex county park system before another year rolls around.

But the gathering Thursday will go down into history as a most notable one. The display of politicians completely overshadowed the exhibits in all the other show classes, even the road stallions, prize bulls and South-down sheep.

The principal attraction was none less than a real live Vice-President of the United States. There was a lot of disappointment when it was learned that Gov. Griggs was not to grace the affair with his presence. He was expected to accompany Vice-President Hobart, but did not. The Governor was probably made more comfortable by the fanning of the sea breezes, but he would have pleased a whole lot of his constituents had he kept the promise which the officials say he gave them to attend. Vice-President Hobart and his party, however, formed a whole show by themselves.

Much comment was made on the absence of Gov. Griggs when it was learned that he did not accompany Mr. Hobart. It was the first time in the history of the fair that the Chief Executive had absented himself from Waverly on "Governor's Day."

The Vice-President held an informal reception on "The Hill." He was surrounded by many men identified with the politics of the State. The Vice-President looked cool and natty when he entered the fair grounds, but the handshaking and backpatting which he had to undergo soon brought the perspiration, and in a very few minutes New Jersey's big man looked decidedly uncomfortable.

Both Pitney and Daly did a whole lot of work on their own respective accounts, and if Politicians' Hill could have decided the Governorship yesterday, so far as the nominations are concerned, it is probable they would have been the men.

There were other boomlets launched and fostered yesterday. John Kean, Jr., was on hand, greeting everybody cordially and ready to discuss anything from shorthorns to the weather. Congressmen Howell and Fowler, each nursing an ambition with the Executive chair at Trenton as the goal, were also on hand.

There were enough Senators and Assemblymen present to hold another extra session of the Legislature almost. The Senate was represented by Senators Francis, of Monmouth; Gould, of Sussex; Reed, of Somerset; Herbert, of Middlesex; Daly, of Hudson; President Williams, of Passaic; Ketcham, of Essex; Johnson, of Bergen, and Voorhees, of Union.

A. O. U. W.'S BIG ORATOR.

Grand Master Tate Coming to This City October 12th.

Justice Vincent W. Nash went to Newark last Thursday to attend the meeting of the grand lodge of the A. O. U. W., which met there. At the meeting it was announced that Grand Master Workman Tate, of one of the western States, would deliver eight addresses in northern New Jersey and that they were to be assigned. Tate has the reputation of being the greatest orator in the order and there was a scramble to secure dates. Through the efforts of Mr. Nash and Past Master Workman Bauersachs, who accompanied him, Plainfield secured the famous speaker for October 12th. Plainfield was the smallest of the cities that secured him. The others were Newark, Jersey City, Asbury Park, Paterson, Passaic, Hoboken and Elizabeth.

Further Church Contracts.

The consistory of Trinity Reformed church held a meeting last Friday at the residence of Fred Smith, 4 Mercer avenue. Ten members were present including the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D. The contract for painting the church after the alterations are completed, was awarded to Corriel & TenEyck, and the work of rebuilding the organ was awarded to R. Midmer & Son. Other matters relating to the remodeling of the church were discussed, and refresh ments were served by the hospitable hostess.

His Middle Finger Cut Off.

While reversing a lathe at the Scott Press Works, where he is employed, Harry Mattis, af Madison avenue, caught the middle finger of his left hand in the machinery, Thursday afternoon, and it was cut off before he could stop the machine. He was taken home and will be confined there for several weeks until the wound heals.

RUNNING MATE FOR KEAN

JERSEY REPUBLICANS TIED UP IN THE GUBERNATORIAL PROBLEM.

Too Smooth for Comfort—A Break May Come Any Day and Then Will Follow a Hot and Lively Scramble for Place.

It is not conceded, even by his own immediate friends, that John Kean is popular in every part of the State When he ran for Governor in 1892 against George T. Werts he lost his own county of Union by 632 votes. That he would have a better chance of carrying a majority of votes in a Legislature than he would of winning the popular vote of the State is the general belief in all political circles. Still, it is feared by some Republican leaders who are his friends that it would be unsafe to trust the Senatorial canvass alone in the hands of Mr. Kean.

In order to make the result sure there it is suggested that other candidates for the United States Senate be trotted out, so that the full Republican vote may be polled for legislative candidates. With this end in view, then, some of the leaders are encouraging the candidacy of Colonel William Barbour, of Bergen county, and of John F. Dryden, of Essex, for the United States Senate. Essex would then have a favorite son, and so would Bergen, so that the politicians would rally around them and make the canvass interesting.

Messrs. Dryden and Barbour can afford to pay the expenses of a campaign just as well as Mr. Kean. Each is millionaires. That is good news for the politicians, because they always like to see a campaign carried on in a business-like way.

If reports are true, Mr. Kean has already pledged to him the votes of seven of the hold-over Senators, and he expects to have the support of the Senators who will be elected this fall in the counties of Burlington and Cape May, and in Middlesex and Sussex, too, should they go Republican. This is an indication that John Kean's canvass is well under way, and that so far, at least, he is master of the situation.

While it is generally conceded in Republican circles that Mahlon Pitney has a cinch on the Gubernatorial nomination, still it is not impossible that he may have to face some stout opposition. In Essex, Hudson and Passaic counties there seems to be a suppressed feeling of opposition toward Mr. Pitney. Republicans of an independent turn of mind in those counties do not take kindly to Mr. Pitney. They look upon him as a machine candidate. Judge John Franklin Fort seems to be a favorite among them, and it would not be surprising if he was trotted out as a candidate against Mr. Pitney. Comptroller Hancock has numerous friends throughout the State, and perhaps they may insist upon the presentation of his name to the State Convention. In the event of a disagreement over Mr. Pitney the name of Mr. Hancock would most certainly throw oil on the troubled waters. Then there are Congressmen Gardner and Loudenslager, whose names will not be lost sight of when the time comes for action. While among the leaders Mr. Pitney seems to have the call, still it is not settled by any means that he will be called upon to lead the Republican hosts to victory next year. The rank and file of the party must not be ignored, or else there will be trouble.

UNDER THE HARVEST MOON.

Gospel Workers Enjoyed a Pleasant Bicycle Run to Metuchen.

With the harvest moon shining brightly down on them, sixteen members of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church enjoyed their bicycle sociable la t Thursday. While the day had been rather a warm one, the night was cool and comfortable—an ideal one for wheeling. There were few clouds, and they did not obscure the bright light of the moon which made the roads almost as light as day and made the bicycle lamps useless as far as lighting the road was concerned.

The Epworth Leaguers assembled in front of Vincent chapel and started at 8 o'clock. Frank E. Loy acted as captain and made a comfortable pace. Raymond A. McGee acted as bugler and added much to the pleasure of the party by giving the many calls as the cyclists wheeled along. There was one tandem in the party.

The party went to Metuchen by the way of Park avenue, some stopping in that town and others at Pumptown for refreshments. On the return, they did not keep together, but divided in little groups, returning home as they wished.

While it was ex pected that this was the last of the season, the success or last night's run caused the committee to plan another for a later date.

William Hagan and family, of Prospect avenue, have returned after a sojourn at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Garrett Eick, of East Third street, has returned from Massachusetts, where she has been visiting relatives.

IT WASN'T A CAT AT ALL

PATROLMAN M'CARTY'S UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE.

The Officer Saw a Supposed Feline in the Darkness and Calling "Kitty, Kitty," Started to Pet It, With a Dire End.

The brand-new uniform of Patrolman Florence McCarty is buried underground at present and its owner is wearing another, and all because of a little adventure that the officer in question had Tuesday Sept. 7th, in the neighborhood of Netherwood.

Patrolman McCarty has been on duty, of late, in the Netherwood precinct and his beat includes a portion of South avenue. The houses are not very close together on South avenue and there are several fields on either side of the station that give a suburban appearance to that place. On that evening, MacCarty was paroling his beat as usual, and felt unusually well for the baseball game had not been the trial to him that it had to some of the officers. He was walking along South avenue, this side of the station, when he noticed a little animal near the curb. At first he thought it a wandering cur but as nearer view showed that it had smooth black and white fur.

It's a cat, thought the officer, and he said "skat," but the supposed feline never moved. Again he tried to frighten it but without success. Some poor, lost, pet pussy was the officer's comment, and he approached it.

"Come kitty, kitty, kitty," he called as he stooped down to pet the feline. Suddenly the animal turned and the officer discovered that his supposed cat was a skunk. After remembering the officer, the animal disappeared.

The odor was so strong that the Boundsman would not come near McCarty and he finally went home and left his clothing in the yard. The offending suit was buried to allow the odor to depart and now the office speaks to no more stray pet cats upon his beat.

SOMERSET RATABLES.

Strange Increase in the Acreage of Several of the Townships.

The assessors from the various townships and boroughs of Somerset county, met at the Court House, Sept. 7th, for the purpose of fixing the tax rates for the year 1897. Dr. Cooley, of North Plainfield, was made chairman, and C. L. Voorhees, of Bridgewater, was elected secretary. The work of making up the ratables occupied most of the day. There is a strange increase in the acreage of Franklin township, which was 12,479 last year, and is placed at 28,509 this year, more than double what it has been placed at for several years. The acreage of Warren has been increased about 500 acres by this year's returns. There is a slight increase in the real estate valuation, and also equally small decrease in the personal. The total valuation is increased about $50,000 over the of last year. The number of polls have increased from 7,411 to 7,693. The following table shows the ratables as made up by the Board for North Plainfield borough and township:

Borough — Real estate, $1,968,000; personal estate, $278,100; total debt, $59,800; valuation taxable, $2,186,300; polls, 793; school tax, $6,092 04; county tax, $11,188 15.

Township—Acres, 5,327; real estate, $262,700; personal estate, $48,100; total debt, $15,500; valuation taxable, $290,300; polls, 142; school tax, $795.66; county tax, $1,483 06.

STOLE A TYPEWRITER.

Irving L. Brady's Office Operated in by Clever Thief.

The law office of Irving L. Brady in the First National Bank Building on Front street, was robbed in a clever manner Thursday between 12 and o'clock.

The office was locked while Mr. Brady was at his dinner, and the thief smashed a pane of glass in the door, and inserting his hand unlocked the door from the inside, and gained entrance.

Mr. Brady's Underwood type writer was carried off, but so far no other loss has been discovered. An attempt was made at the same time to gain an entrance to the law offices of W. B. McClure, which are on the same floor, but the thieves were probably frightened away.

Their Eighth Wedding Anniversary.

A pleasant event of the season was the celebration of the eighth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Smalley, Jr., which occurred last Thursday, at their home on Somerset street. The occasion was marked by a dinner which was complete in every particular. The menu comprised everything seasonable and it was served in a thoroughly pleasing manner. The bride and groom received many happy congratulations in honor of the celebration, and many happy returns of the day were extended. Among the guests, which included Newton Smalley, David Smalley, Alfred Smalley, Jedediah Smalley, Mr. Taylor, Robert Crosson, W. E. Cadmus, Arthur Cannon, George DeMeza, William Day and W. L. Smalley, Jr.,

LESS STREET EMPLOYE

NECESSARY REPAIRS HAS REDUCED THE APPROPRIATION QUICKLY.

It is Expected That the Finances Will Last Till the Streets Can Be Cleaned After the Autumn Leaves Have Fallen.

The many unexpected repairs that the street department has been called upon to make this summer has eaten up the appropriation faster than was supposed, and so it has been deemed necessary to reduce the force in the department to fit the present size of the appropriation.

The steam roller left its position on the upper end of Watchung avenue several days ago and completed the much needed improvement of Watchung avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets. The roller is now working on the upper end of Park avenue, where the rough condition had called forth many comments. There are several other streets that will be patched up in a similar manner before the regular fall work begins. Crushed stone and sand has also been used to advantage to fill up holes in the roadway.

A much-needed improvement is being made at the corner of West Fourth street and Plainfield avenue. The culvert is being enlarged to double its old capacity and the gutters in the neighborhood are being cleaned out. The storm drain at Albert street is half laid and will be completed in a few days, while the pipe for the storm drain to connect with the hollow under the Clinton avenue bridge has arrived and will be started in a few days. Street Commissioner Gavett is bringing pressure to bear on the Jersey Central railroad to grade the sidewalks under the bridge and put them in good condition.

The leaves will soon begin to fall, and that will mean a cessation in the work of cleaning the streets until they have all fallen. Last year the appropriation gave out before the work of giving the streets their regular cleaning for the winter had begun. It is expected that the finances of the street department will this year be arranged so that work can be done by the city.

ALMOST A CENTURY OF LIFE.

Death of Mrs. Anna Thorn at the Age of 96 Years.

Mrs. Anna Brown Thorn, widow of the late Jacob Thorn, died at 557 East Second street, last week, aged 96 years.

Mrs. Thorn's maiden name was Anna Payne Brown. She was born in Woodbridge of old Revolutionary stock, both her grandfathers having been officers in the Continental Army. Shortly after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Thorn took up their residence in this place. Mrs. Thorn was for many years an active member of the First Presbyterian church, but in 1875 she transferred her membership to Trinity Reformed church, where she worshipped until her last illness.

Mrs. Thorn's family is noted among other things for the long life to which all its members have attained. Several members who have died recently had all passed the 80 year mark. Two others have died within 18 months. Mrs. Sara F. Johnston, of this city, Dr. Thomas Brown, of Rochester, N. Y. The funeral services were held at the residence of Albert Thorn, son of the deceased, at 557 East Second street, at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck officiated. Interment was made in the Presbyterian Cemetery at North Plainfield.

DEATH OF JOHN LINDSAY

An Old and Well-Known Resident Passes Away.

John Lindsay, an old and well known resident of this city, died at his home 424 West Front street, at 5:40 o'clock a. m., Friday, of Bright's disease. Mr. Lindsay was in his seventieth year. He was born in Scotland, and came to this country in 1853. For thirty years he has resided in this city. He was a member of the Crescent Avenue church, where he was loved and admired for his Christian virtues.

Mr. Lindsay is survived by a wife and a step daughter, Mrs. Charles Mehlenbeck, of Somerville.

Oldest Member of the Bar.

Somerset county is honored in having the oldest member of the bar of the State of New Jersey. Theodore Frelinghuysen received his sheepskin in February, 1836. Dumont Frelinghuysen was licensed in September 1838, and with Judge John Hopper, Paterson, and William L. Terhune, Mattawan, is the next oldest lawyer of the State. Both of the Frelinghuysens have retired from active practice in which they were at one time very successful.

Death of a Former Plainfield Girl.

The many friends of Mrs. Joseph McGraw, (nee Miss Lydia Hazard,) will be pained to learn of her sudden death which occurred from heart failure at her home on Thirtieth street, New York. A husband and daughter survive her. Miss Harold was formerly a resident of this city and was the daughter of ex-Postmaster Harold, formerly of Dunellen, but now of Plainfield.

SMEDBERG PLEADS GUILTY

GRAND LARCENY CHARGE SUBSTITUTED FOR THAT OF BURGLARY.

Sentence Deferred for a Fortnight—The Prisoner Made a Natty Appearance and Acted in a Collected and Spare Manner.

In spite of Joseph D. Smedberg's attempt to break out of jail and the artful and dexterous efforts made to conceal his crime, the strong political and social influence which has been exercised in his behalf will probably result in a very light sentence.

He was arraigned last week at the special session of the Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth, and pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny. He had been accused of burglary.

He was neatly attired and was cool and collected.

Prosecutor F. C. Marsh, after announcing the charge, placed the value of the goods stolen at $500.

"Mr. Prosecutor," said the prisoner, "I did not suppose the total value was so great as $200."

Mr. Marsh explained that that was unimportant, as the theft of more than $20 worth fixed the offence as designated.

With a graceful bow Smedberg pleaded guilty to the charge.

Mr. Marsh observed that the State was very glad it could accept a plea to a charge of grand larceny rather than of burglary. The detectives had found that Smedberg did not break into the home of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Marsh, but that his entrance was effected by a key given to him by them. The Court, he said could see that Smedberg was a bright young man and he had been promised that sentence would be deferred to allow him to make a declaration of his family connections, etc.

Every article taken from the Marshalls had been recovered and returned, the prosecutor added.

Judge McCormick directed that sentence on Smedberg be deferred for two weeks.

There were many women in the court, and the general expectation was that Mrs. Smedberg would be charged with her husband as an accessory either before or after the fact.

She was not in court and it is said that she is keeping out of the State of New Jersey for fear of arrest.

Smedberg had at first strenuously denied his guilt. His attempted escape from jail was cleverly planned and his wife was ready to aid him.

The scheme was frustrated by one of his accomplices revealing the plot to Warden Blore, who caught the prisoner in the act of going to the window, where he expected to find the tools with which to set himself free.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

List of Books Added During August, 1897.

Abbott—Bird land echoes.
Blake—History of the planets.
Allsop—Practical electric light fitting.
Ball—Great astronomers.
Barnard—First steps in electricity.
Bashford—Bird's nests.
Benjamin—Intellectual rise in electricity.
" —Voltaic cell.
Bergen—Elements of botany.
Bolland—Iron founder.
" " supplement.
Bonney—Electro-plater's handbook.
" —Ice work, present and past.
Bowen—Astronomy by observation.
Britton—Illustrated flora of Northern United States and Canada.
Burt—Little nature studies.
Chapman—Birds of eastern North America.
Clough—What an engineer should know about electricity.
Dana—How to know the wild flowers.
" —Plants and their children.
Dingey—Machinery pattern making.
Elliot—North American shore birds.
Fisher—Electricity in theory and practice.
Flather, Dramometers.
Fleming—Lectures to the electrical artisan.
Furneaux—Life in ponds and streams.
Gibson—Our edible toadstools and mushrooms.
Harvey—Newfoundland in 1897.
Hawkins—Galvanometer.
Hawkins—Dynamo.
Hertz—Electric waves.
Horner—Natural history of plants.
Hulbert—The crowd.
Lowell—Mars.
Martin—Story of a piece of coal.
" —Electrical boats.
Mathews—Familiar flowers.
" —Trees and their leaves.
Maycock—Electricity and magnetism.
Meadowcroft—A. B. C. of X-ray.
Niaudet—Theory of electricity.
Nansen—Farthest north.
Noll—How to wire buildings.
Norton—Heart of oak books. vs. 4-6.
Payne—Log hunting: lessons in nature study.
Palaz—Industrial photometry.
Pope—Electric telegraph.
Prindle—Electric railway.
Rose—Pattern maker's assistant.
Scudder—Frail children of the air.
Shaler—American highways.
Slingo—Electrical engineering.
Sloane—Electricity simplified.
Smith—Economic entomology.
Statham—Architecture for general readers.
Strasburger—Botanical handbook of histology.
Stucker—Butterflies and moths of North America.
Tarr—Economic geology.
Teela—Experiments with alternate currents.
Thompson—Roentgen rays.
Trowbridge—What is electricity?
Urquhart—Dynamo construction.
Wehr—Telephone handbook.
West—American foundry practice.
" —Moulder's text book.
White—Warfare of science with theology.
Wright—Dreams of the Ice Realm.
" —Friendship of nature.
Youmans—Pioneers of science in America.

Prof. A. S. Brace Resigns.

Prof. Alfred S. Brace, of the State Normal School, at Trenton, has tendered his resignation on account of ill health. He has taught music in the Normal School for thirty-three years.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

PLAINFIELD'S GROWTH.

A casual drive about town and an observing eye should bring a cheery disposition to the men whose interests are centered here in a business way. The sound of the saw and hammer is heard on nearly every street as both modest and palatial structures tower up on vacant lots for residential purposes; and that is not all there is to be considered in forecasting improvement in trade. The other important fact is that nearly all the houses that are now habitable in Plainfield have occupants. That means that the new houses will, in many instances, be filled by newcomers and therefore mean an actual increase in the town's size and amount of business for its merchants. There is not the slightest doubt but what Plainfield is growing faster than any other town in the New Jersey surburban district. Of all the men who should be in a position to know if this statement is true there is none better qualified than E. P. Baldwin, General Passenger Agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. It is the aim and duty of Mr. Baldwin to carefully acquire information of the growth and progress of the different towns on the Central system. And in his position as the head of passenger traffic he is quickly able to discern the direction of the popular movement of seekers of suburban homes. Mr. Baldwin old a Plainfielder a short time since that this city was growing faster than any other town on the Central system. That is authoratative evidence.

WIRES A MENACE TO LIFE.

The numerous accidents, serious and otherwise, which resulted from fallen wires, charged with heavy electric currents sufficient to kill and maim, Monday evening, shows the imperative need of putting all such dangerous influences in underground subways. True, in this city, it is only proposed to treat the telephone wires in this manner at present, but the accidents of Monday night show that all overhead wires carrying, or liable to be crossed with wires that may charge them, with death dealing currents should be put out of the way of falling into paths traversed by either human or brute life. As it happened the other evening it was only the electric light wires, that dealt injury—and no proposition has been made to put these under ground—but if the telephone wires had crossed the lighting current and fallen into the road they would have been just as much of a menace as if directly charged with a heavy voltage. In view of these facts, and the fact that the telephone company stand ready to put their wires in subways, the Common Council owe it to the city, for the future protection of its people, to pave the way for the company to make this improvement at the earliest possible moment.

DEMOCRATS HAVE A CHANCE.

That the Democrats intend making contests in all those counties which elect Senators this fall, there is no doubt whatever, says our Trenton correspondent. And, perhaps, Republican over-confidence will help them to success. The Democrats want issues for the campaign, and they are looking around for them. They don't intend to make the financial question very prominent. Should the proposed Constitutional amendments be defeated at the special election on the 28th inst., which is likely, owing to Republican apathy, the Democrats expect to gain an advantage. They will try and force to the front again the old Shibboleth of equal taxation in the upper end of the State, and in the lower section the store order system abuses. They will make the general question of taxation enter largely into the campaign, and of course the Republican management of State affairs will come in for a full share of criticism and denunciation.

UNCLE SAM ALWAYS PAYS.

It is very plain to see that the mysterious work being done at West Portal is not fostered by the Government, since the hundreds of workmen are clamoring for the wages without satisfaction. The ghost, to use a theatrical expression, never fails to walk with Uncle Sam.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

We for ourselves and our patients have used Chas. H. Fletcher's in every way.

SEEMINGLY ANOMALOUS CONDITION.

Though at present Plainfield is virtually the seat of wisdom for the Woman's Suffrage Association—whose successful efforts in bringing the question of a woman's right to vote for school trustees to an issue will be determined by defeat or victory on September 28th—by reason of the residence here of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall it is a strange fact that whatever is the fate of the constitutional amendment allowing women to vote, it will not give the Plainfield woman any further suffrage at the ballot box. Plainfield is a second-class city and has a Board of Education that is chosen at the general city election. Women will be allowed only to vote for school trustees elected at regular school meetings, and Plainfield never has these. At present women at school meetings possess precisely the same rights as men, with the single exception that after voting a tax or bonding a district, they are debarred from voting for the men who are to expend the money raised to be raised by a tax or bond. At a school meeting a woman may lawfully preside as chairman, or act as secretary of the meeting, or as teller to count the votes. She may move and debate any business which may come before the meeting; in short, with the single exception named, she has at a school meeting the same rights, powers and privileges as if she were a man.

THE STONY HILL CRIME.

Crimes involving savage personal violence have occurred with great frequency in New Jersey during the past few weeks, but as a rule they have been so far removed from this particular section that Union county people have regarded them with only passive wonder and awe for their daring and viciousness. Now, however, the county officials are brought face to face with the problematic effort to capture the perpetrator or perpetrators of an offense that involves the loss of life, and possibly two, the sole incentive for committing which was the gaining of a few paltry dollars. The Pitts' murder at Stony Hill was brutal to the extreme, the promptings of a mind that must have been deadened to every sense that moves a man—not a mere mass of bone and flesh. With scarcely a tangible clew to work on, if the Union county authorities detect the guilty ones it will be to their everlasting credit.

ENDORSE THE SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT

As indorsements of the school suffrage amendment, which will be voted upon at the special election to be held Sept. 28th, the New Jersey Woman Suffragist Association has obtained the signatures of prominent men and women of this State. The names of members of the State Board of Education are conspicuous, besides those of the Superintendents of Public Instruction of thirteen different counties and of a number of cities, the Commissioners of Public Instruction, four Mayors, member of Congress, presidents of most of the women's clubs and societies of the State and of prominent clergymen. The name of Vice-President Hobart is among those who have signed.

UNCALLED FOR ARRESTS.

The police officials do not seem to exhibit a very great amount of common sense in persistently delegating Special Officer Cash to lurk about points where streets are being repaired in the endeavor to arrest the bicycle riders who may chance to ride a few feet on the sidewalk to avoid passing over the tornup part of the thoroughfare. The number of such arrests this summer run up into the scores, but what ends of justice or good government are satisfied by them is more than the average citizen can see. From all accounts it seems that Cash exercises altogether too much officiousness in the performance of what he may think is his duty.

THE ARC LIGHTS.

For once, let it be recorded in joyful letters, the Common Council has heeded the actual sentiment of the business men of Plainfield by favorable reconsideration of their petition for are lights in the business centre of the city. Notwithstanding the prophecy made by two Councilmen that the new system will eventually result in a desire to return to the present incandescent lights, there is every reason to believe that are lights will become a satisfactory and established feature of municipal improvement.

GOING BACKWARD.

Isn't the western woman who wanted to trade a bicycle for a baby carriage just a little out of joint with the times?

Death of Mr. Greene.

The death of Mrs. Caroline Brenton Greene, widow of the late Hon. William Greene, of East Greenwich, R. I., and daughter of the late Rev. Lemuel Burge and Elizabeth Frances Shaw, occurred at her home, 97 Rockview avenue, yesterday. The funeral services were held from the late residence, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Needless Headaches.

Foul stomach and fermenting food cause most headaches.

Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient

Cleanses, sweetens and strengthens the stomach. Rely on it and make headache impossible. Endorsed by physicians 50 years.

50c. and $1.00

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

NEAL GOT AWAY EASY.

WHEN WANTED BY CITY POLICE HE WAS UNDER ARREST IN WESTFIELD.

One of the Men Who Was Suspected of Holding up Henry Voss, But Couldn't be Identified—Whereabouts Now Unknown.

The authorities of this city and Westfield are now deploring the escape of a criminal who was in the clutches of the law and was allowed to go free through a misunderstanding. Last week Frank Neal, a coachman employed by Edward L. Finch, of Park avenue, was sent to take a watch belonging to Mr. Finch to the jeweler's for repairs. The watch and man did not appear and an investigation showed that Neal had skipped with the time piece. A warrant was issued for Neal, and a sharp lookout was kept for him. At about the same time a bicycle belonging to a son of Mr. Finch was stolen from the house.

When Henry Voss, the Dunellen farmer, was held up in the old railroad cut at Fanwood, a description of the men was telegraphed to the neighboring places, and two men answering somewhat to this description were arrested at Cranford and held for identification. On Thursday afternoon they were given a hearing before Justice Collins, of Westfield. Voss, the victim of the robbery, was present but could not positively identify the men. When questioned they gave their names as Frank Neal and Carl W. Johnson, of this city, and said they had been employed here as coachmen.

It was not known at Westfield that Neal was wanted for larceny in this city. During the trial two Plainfielders, who knew Neal and Johnson, but who were also ignorant of their misdeeds here, happened on the scene and identified the men as Neal and Johnson, assuring the Justice that they were "all right."

In the absence of anything to connect the men with the holdup at Fanwood, and with no knowledge of their other crimes, the Justice discharged them. They disappeared at once and have not been seen since. It is probable that Neal is many leagues away by this time and is congratulating himself upon the failure of the mill of justice to grind very fine in his case.

FELL INTO THE BRINY DEEP.

Swell Rocked the Boat and Tom Randolph Plunged Into the Raritan Bay.

Tom Randolph, whose genial face is generally to be found in Ben Crane's butcher shop on Park avenue, went fishing at Perth Amboy, Sunday, with a party of friends. All went well until Randolph seated himself on a box in the stern of the catboat and cast forth his line. A steamer passed by and the swell from it struck the boat in which the fated Randolph sat. The boat rocked, so did the box and so did Randolph. The rocking increased and Randolph promply fell over backward into the water with a yell that frightened the mermaids at their morning devotions. Other boats headed towards the place where Randolph's friends dragged him out of the briny deep and allowed him to sit in the sun, or where the sun ought to be, and dry his clothes.

A BICYCLE STOLEN.

Miss Elsberg Left Her Wheel on the Rear Steps and It Was Missing.

A bicycle was stolen from the rear of the residence of A. M. Griffin, of Prospect place, Sunday evening. It belonged to Mr. Griffin's daughter, Miss Daisy Elsberg. The wheel was left leaning against the rear steps at 7 o'clock and was not seen again. A few friends spent the evening on the piazza and in the parlor, singing and playing. No one was seen to enter the yard. When Miss Elsberg went to look for her wheel at 11 o'clock it was gone. The missing wheel was a ladies' Wolff-American, 1897 model, No. 14,341, 24 inch frame, enameled in black with rims of natural color, amber grips, Christy saddle, and equipped with cyclometer and lantern. A reward is offered for its return.

Mangled By a Train.

The terribly mangled body of James Comfort was discovered by trainmen at the Pattenburg water-tank, near Flemington Junction, Sunday morning. Comfort had been employed as track watchman at the Pattenburg tunnel, on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, for many years. It was custom*ary for firemen to dump their ashes* upon the tracks at the water-tank. It is supposed that he was engaged in shoveling away the ashes when struck by the fast midnight freight. He was married and forty years old.

DOZEN TRAMPS TAKEN IN

POLICE SWOOPED DOWN ON A TOUGH LOT ON FREIGHT CARS

Their Commissary Department Well Supplied With Various Edibles—The Whole Gang Sent to Jail for 30 Days.

'Twas half an hour after midnight, Sunday morning, when the belated pedestrians on the streets saw several of the policemen gather at the North Avenue station. A small crowd was attracted to the station and learned that the police had been notified that an approaching freight train had been taken possession of by tramps, "knights of the road," "hoboes," or whatever they might be termed. The officers who were assembled for the raid were Chief Grant, Sergeant Kiely, and Patrolmen Totten and Mattox.

A westbound freight, preceding the train for which the delegation waited, stopped a moment and two young men jumped off directly into the arms of Sergeant Kiely, who placed both under arrest. They were young men, who told plausible stories to the City Judge yesterday morning, and were released and allowed to go.

The train in question arrived at 12:40 o'clock and came to a stop at the station. It had been telegraphed that the "hoboes" were on the rear of the train and thither the policemen and the crowd went. As the train came to a standstill, Sergeant Kiely climbed up one of the freight cars and walked back to where the unbidden guests were gathered in a bunch. Most of them were asleep. Three, who had seen the waiting crowd, had slipped away before the train stopped and hidden in another part of the train.

The first man that the Sergeant spied was a tough looking character sitting on top of one of the cars. He wore an old slouch hat and a dirty red handkerchief was muffled about his face.

"Get down!" commanded the Sergeant.

"The —— I will," was the curt reply.

"Get down or I'll throw you down," responded the Sergeant and he started forward as if to execute his threat. The man climbed ruefully down, protesting that he was a brakeman and so he proved to be when the conductor was called to identify him.

The "hoboes" made no resistance when the officers ordered them to climb down. The sight of Chief Grant's revolver aided him in coming to the conclusion that resistance was impolitic. Two of them attempted to creep away on the opposite side where Chief Grant and several of the spectators were standing.

Several were asleep when Sergeant Kiely walked along the top of the cars and he had to arouse them. The sleeping "knights" were surrounded by numerous packages which belonged to the commissary department of the expedition, which they explained was bound for White House to pick peaches in the peach orchards in that vicinity. There was meat, bread, buns and a general assortment of eatables which Patrolman Totten tossed out to the officers on the platform. It was then removed to the station house.

There were six of the "hoboes" who were captured, all of whom claimed to be from Elizabeth and bound for White House. They called themselves peach-pickers, but their appearance belied their words, for a worse looking lot of characters have not visited this city for many moons. Several of them had scars of recent conflicts on their heads and bodies, while all showed several inches of depth of travel stain. They were marched over to the city jail and locked up with the creeping and crawling things to spend the remainder of the night.

Roundsman Frederickson added four to the collection of "hoboes" who were confined in the jail. Saturday afternoon, at 5 o'clock, he spied eight of them enter the town and wander out Watchung avenue. He headed them off at Fourth street and captured two. The rest fled precipitately. Sunday morning at 5 o'clock he found two more on the same street and arrested them after they failed to give a satisfactory account of themselves. They slept in the jail. Saturday night were allowed to go.

The six old-fashioned "hoboes" who were captured as already related, were sent down the road for thirty days and ordered to pay a fine of $25. Two of them were known. They were Nicholas Kirk, alias John Kane, and James McGrail, alias John Higgins. The fiery tint of the half-o'-the latter has made him an easily recognized character. The non de plumes of the others were Ernst Brandt, Joseph Connelly, Daniel Daly and George Smith.

A Cure for Bilious Colic.

Resource, Scroven Co., Ga.—I have been subject to attacks of bilious colic for several years. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy is the only sure relief. It acts like a charm. One dose of it gives relief when all other remedies fail.—G. D. Sharp. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Careful experiments made upon a healthy person show that of ordinary oatmeals 83 per cent. alone is digested. Of H-O 99.75 is digested.

The process of preparation of H-O is "peculiar to itself."

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption (Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (each different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to dedicate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

The Garwood School.

The Garwood Public School opened Monday morning with an attendance of 26 Pupils. Miss Edna J. Thomas, of Delsea, N. J., an experienced primary teacher, has charge under the supervision of the Cranford Board of Education.

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Best Route Exclusively. Incomparable Equipment and Comfort.

Stations in New York, Foot of Liberty and Cortlandt Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT SEPT. 6th, 1897.

TRAINS LEAVE AND ARRIVE AT PLAINFIELD.

Leave Plainfield for New York, foot Liberty street, 45 & 52 min. past 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 a. m., 12 noon, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 p. m., 12 night. Sunday 45 & 52 min. past 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 a. m., 12 noon, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 p. m., 12 night.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, 45 & 52 min. past 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 a. m., 12 noon, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 p. m., 12 night. Sunday (Saturdays only) 11 p. m. Sunday 45 & 52 min. past 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 a. m., 12 noon, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 p. m., 12 night.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, 45 & 52 min. past 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 a. m., 12 noon, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 p. m., 12 night

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

AHEAD OF INJUNCTION.

TROLLEY PROJECTORS STEAL A MARCH ON THEIR OPPONENTS.

Three Hundred Italians Laid the Track of the Brunswick Traction Company in front of the Field Estate Near Bound Brook.

A crisis in trolley matters was reached in Bound Brook Sunday. The Brunswick Traction Company seized a right of way in front of John R. Field's property, about one mile outside the borough limits.

The company is trying to build a trolley line between New Brunswick and Bound Brook, and had secured the right of way along the entire route except in front of the Fields and Mettler properties. About three weeks ago Mettler served an injunction upon the company, and on Saturday R. H. Brokaw, executor of the Field estate, told one of the men who worked for the Brunswick company, after the company had paid the hands off, that he was going to serve an injunction upon them at eleven o'clock Monday morning. The man went directly to Contractor Rehill and told him of Brokaw's intentions. Rehill at once telegraphed to Superintendent Hadel, of the Brunswick Traction Company, whose office is in New Brunswick, and he answered that an extra gang should be put to work Saturday night and Sunday and receive double pay, in order that the road might be put through by Monday morning.

Rehill secured the surrounding country and engaged three hundred Italians and started them to work Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock. It was then that the Bound Brook crowd began to gather, and the sight witnessed was a novel one. In the middle of the road were three hundred men working with all their might. At the gutter on either side of the road were ropes stretched along the entire property in order to keep the crowds back.

At every two feet was hung a lantern to supply the workmen with light, and pressed upon the ropes were more than two thousand persons watching the work.

By 10 o'clock the trench was dug and the ties and rails were then laid. At this juncture a beer wagon from New Brunswick arrived with five kegs of beer and 800 sandwiches. By 3 o'clock Sunday morning the beer and sandwiches had disappeared. But the men were still thirsty, and they obtained leave of absence for one hour. Then they went to the Port Reading Hotel, where they soon drank everything in sight. They didn't return to work.

Rehill then hunted for more men, and after getting forty of them began to erect poles and string wires, completing the job at 6 o'clock Sunday.

The entire line in front of the Field property is now completed and the Brunswick Traction Company is waiting for the injunction to be served.

"My boy came home late from school one day with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schall, with Meyer Bros.' Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo. "I dressed the wound, and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely. All pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

The Garwood Postmastership.

The approaching expiration of I. G Cohen's term of office as postmaster of Garwood, has aroused a lively contest for the position between David B. Lent and Frank W. Morse. Mr. Lent is a strong Republican and his application has the endorsement of all but four of the voters of Garwood, besides many citizens of Cranford and Westfield. Mr. Morse, who is a Prohibitionist, is backed by the Garwood Land Improvement Company, of which he is the resident manager.

$1,000—By Gum!

We will give the thousand to advertise the Gum. Share in it by sending your name, address and one outside wrapper from a 5-cent package of

FLEER'S GUM Pepsin Gum-Kola

Keeps the Stomach Right.

Money ready for paying out on Nov. 10, 1897.
FRANK H. FLEER & CO., Philadelphia.
9 9-16 10 7

CLEAN BATTING WON

STELTON ATHLETIC CLUB DEFEATED THE CRESCENTS.

George Francis in the Box for the Visitors—The Game Was Close, But Not Exciting—Little Kicking Done.

It must have rejoiced the heart of George Francis, the old catcher of the Somersets of Somerville, Saturday afternoon, when he was chiefly instrumental in defeating his old rivals the Plainfield Crescents. Francis was catching for the Stelton Athletic Club Saturday, when that team played in this city and defeated the Crescents by a score of 4 to 3. While the game was close throughout, it lacked the excitement of some of the games of the season.

It was clean batting that won the game for the Steltons, although there were several errors on the part of the home team. Clarence Vroom, the younger brother of Dave Vroom, the catcher, was in the box for the Crescents. He proved himself a good pitcher, although a trifle wild. He excelled his brother at the bat. Cortelyou was back at his old place at first and made two expensive errors, one of which cost the Crescents the run that tied the score. Will Symons was delayed and did not show up until the sixth inning and Duffy had to take his place. The Steltons had strengthened their team since the other game in this city and played well. While they found Vroom hard to hit, their few hits were well bunched and very timely.

The Crescents were first at bat and opened with vigor. Hollister went out at first and then Cooney lined out a single. Dave Vroom struck out, the second time this year, and his brother knocked the first ball pitched for two bases. Cooney scored on a wild pitch and Vroom followed on a wild throw to first by Letson of Collins' grounder. Lederer hit for one base, sending Collins home, but ended the inning by being caught off the second bag.

"Pa" Parrot, the first of the visitors, received his base on balls but went to sleep at first and was put out by a quick throw from Lederer.

Nothing exciting happened until the third inning, when the visitors attempted to score. Hollister threw wild to first and Cramer got his base, only to be caught napping at second. Crahan went to first on balls, J. Letson struck out, and then Parrot and Cox were given their bases on Vroom's wild pitching. Francis was next at bat, with the bases full and two men out. He hit a hot grounder to Cooney, who fielded it to home in time to catch the runner.

Singles by Francis, Deshler, C. Letson and Cramer, and a triple by Bradley, aided by a wild throw to third by Corbin, netted the visitors three runs in the sixth inning. The Crescents had three men on bases in the seventh, but two were caught off base and McBeth struck out.

In the ninth Clarence Vroom went as far as third, but an easy grounder of Symons forced Collins out at second, making the third out. Then the Stelton boys went to bat. Crahan struck out. J. Letson batted an infield ball to Corbin, who put him out. Parrot went to first on four balls and was advanced a base on a hit by Cox. Then Francis, the veteran Somervillian, went to bat and lined out the ball between Symons and Collins for two bases, while Parrot completed the circuit and made the winning run. That ended the game.

Most of the Stelton team were Rutgers boys and they played well together. There was very little kicking on either side. Edward Ericksen had so far recovered from his injuries of last Monday that he was able to umpire, and his decisions were very fair, although Vroom objected to some of them.

The attendance at the game was very small and most of the rooters were away, so there was comparatively little noise.

The detailed score was as follows:

CRESCENTS.

	A. B.	R.	B. H.	P. O.	A.	E.
Hollister, ss	4	0	1	1	2	0
Cooney, 3b	4	1	1	1	2	0
Vroom, D., c	4	1	2	9	2	0
Vroom, C., p	4	1	2	0	2	0
Collins, cf	3	1	0	2	0	0
Lederer, 2b	4	0	2	2	3	1
Corbin, 1b	4	0	1	11	0	1
Duffy, rf	3	0	0	1	0	0
McBeth, lf	3	0	0	2	0	1
Symons, lf	1	0	0	0	0	0
	35	3	7	*26	13	3

*Two men out when winning run was made.

STELTON ATHLETIC CLUB.

	A. B.	R.	B. H.	P. O.	A.	E.
Parrot, cf	4	1	0	1	0	0
Cox, ss	3	0	1	2	3	0
Francis, c	3	0	1	7	2	0
Bradley, 3b	4	1	1	3	5	0
Deshler, 1b	4	0	2	11	1	1
Letson, C., p	4	0	1	1	2	0
Cramer, lf	4	0	1	1	0	0
Crahan, r	3	0	0	0	0	2
Letson, J., rf	3	0	0	1	0	0
	32	4	8	27	14	4

BY INNINGS.

Cre-cents	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	—3
Steltons	0	0	0	0	3	0	0	1	—4

Earned runs—Crescents, 2; Steltons, 2. Two-base hit—Vroom. Three-base hit, Bradley. Sacrifice hits, Symons, Parrot. Bases on balls—Of Vroom, 6; off Crahan, 0; Hit by pitched ball, J. Letson. Struck out, By C. Vroom, 3; by Crahan, 3. Stolen bases, Cramer. Wild pitches, Crahan, 2; C. Vroom, 1. Left on bases, Crescents, 8; Steltons, 9. Time of game, One hour and thirty minutes. Umpire, Edward Ericksen, of Plainfield.

Discharged From Hospital.

James Hansen, of South Plainfield, aged three years, who was run over by a wheelman some time ago near his home, was discharged from the hospital Sunday having fully recovered from the injuries received at that time.

A TRIBUTE TO THE DEAD.

Impressive Services at the Funeral of Mrs. Silas D. Yerkes Monday Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Silas D. Yerkes was held from the Crescent Avenue church Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and there her many friends gathered to pay a farewell tribute to a faithful friend and loving mother.

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, Rev. G. K. Newell and Rev. Dr. Smith, of Georgia.

Prayer was offered and a selection of Scripture read and then each of the four ministers of the gospel spoke a few words in memory of their friend. They referred to her many good works and her loving kindness to all who knew her. Her home life was touchingly spoken of. The service was made a very impressive one. The church was filled with the many friends. There were over a hundred members present from Mrs. Yerkes' class at Hope chapel, while the members of the W. C. T. U., in which Mrs. Yerkes was one of the best workers, attended in a body.

The floral tributes were numerous and very beautiful. The casket was covered with them and others were placed about the stands on which it rested. One large floral piece, with the words, "In God's Care," came from Mr. Yerkes' class at Hope chapel.

The pall bearers were Mr. Foote, H. O. Newman, Adam Neuman, S. R. Struthers, I. W. Travell, Phillip Swain, John Leal and A. C. Maclay.

The interment was at Hillside cemetery.

CASH, THE CYCLISTS' CAPTOR.

Another Crusade Against Riders Who Venture on Sidewalks.

Park avenue, near the Baptist church, where the roadway is being repaired, was the scene of another raid on wheelmen by Patrolman Cash, Saturday afternoon. He remained in that neighborhood for several hours but only captured four victims. The smallness of their numbers was due to the small boys of the neighborhood who kept watch and warned wheelmen not to ride. The officer, for some unexplained reason, tried to drive them away, but they did not go.

Two young women and two young men were captured by Cash and ordered before City Judge DeMeza. In none of the cases did the officer's story correspond with that of the offenders. The young women, who were of respectable families in this city, were allowed to go free by the Judge. One young man was fined $1. The other, who was charged by Cash with being a leader in the crowd that warned wheelmen, will appear Wednesday morning.

THE ROOF ON FIRE.

Mrs Moncton Ascended the Roof and Threw Water on the Blaze.

A serious fire was averted Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moncton, of Washingtonville. They together with James Burke and Mr. Cooper, of this city, who were their guests, were seated in the dining room eating dinner, when Mrs. Moncton thought she heard a sound as if made by rats. At first she thought little of it, but as the noise increased she thought it best to investigate. She went upstairs and discovered that the roof was on fire and that the wood was burning fiercely. Immediately Mrs. Moncton ascended to the roof and the men secured pails with which to carry water. While Mrs. Moncton held her position the men passed water to her until the fire was extinguished. A very large hole was burned in the roof but aside from that little damage was done. The men applauded the efforts of Mrs. Moncton for her bravery and for thus saving the house from destruction.

State Christian Endeavor Convention.

The eleventh State Christian Endeavor convention is to be held at Paterson from Oct. 6th to 8th. The committee of arrangements are having the badges for the delegates woven in one of the local silk mills, for which the city is famous. The committee on entertainment is busy sending out information to the different societies throughout the State. Applications for entertainment should be made to Mrs. Louis Fox, 655 East Twenty-third street, Paterson. The final meeting of the programme committee was held on Monday afternoon of this week, and immediately the copy for the official programme was given to the printer.

Owing to over-crowding and bad ventilation, the air of the schoolroom is often close and impure, and teachers and pupils frequently suffer from lung and throat troubles. To all such we would say, try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For coughs, colds, weak lungs and bronchial troubles no other remedy can compare with it. Says A. G. Floyd, Superintendent of Schools, Prairie Depot, Ohio: "Having some knowledge of the efficacy of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I have no hesitation in recommending it to all who suffer from coughs, lung troubles, etc." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner of Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Cures

Prove the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla—positive, perfect, permanent Cures.

Cures of scrofula in severest forms, like goitre, swelled neck, running sores, blood disease, sores in the eyes.

Cures of Salt Rheum, with its intense itching and burning, scald head, tetter, etc.

Cures of Boils, Pimples, and all other eruptions due to impure blood.

Cures of Dyspepsia and other troubles where a good stomach tonic was needed.

Cures of Rheumatism, where patients were unable to work or walk for weeks.

Cures of Catarrh by expelling the impurities which cause and sustain the disease.

Cures of Nervousness by properly toning and feeding the nerves upon pure blood.

Cures of That Tired Feeling by restoring strength. Send for book of cures by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

To C. I. Hood & Co., Proprietors, Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, aid digestion. 25c.

Fine Machinists' Tools In Stock

Gasoline and oil stoves of best makes.

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front st,

Telephone Call, 6.

UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES of AMERICA

Rev. L. D. BASS, D. D., Manager.

Pittsburg, Pa.; Toronto, Canada; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y.; Washington, D. C.; San Francisco, Cal.; Chicago, Ill.; Boston, Mass.; Denver, Colorado.

There are thousands of positions to be filled within the next few months.

Address all applicants to UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES, Baltimore, Md. 8 25

Trusses!

Rupture!

Trusses!

Dr. Marcier has opened a branch office at No. 238 West Second street, corner Lincoln avenue, Plainfield, for treatment of rupture by means experience and the most modern methods, warrants satisfactory results. No occasion to go to New York for trusses. Consultation free. Cases incurable, difficult and complicated cases solicited. The treatment of rupture, whether congenital, scrotal, umbilical or properly designed by a surgeon of long experience in this particular line. No charge for examination or advice. Hours 8-12 a. m., 1-4 p. m. and evenings.

DIED.

MEYLER—At Lincoln, N. J., Tuesday, September 7, 1897, Burton E., son of Joseph and Caroline Meyler, aged 22 years.

THORN—In this city, Wednesday, September 8, 1897, Anna B., widow of the late Jacob Thorn, in her 86 year.

YERKES—At Plainfield, on the 10th inst., Elizabeth M., wife of Silas Yerkes.

LINDLEY—In this city, Saturday, September 11, 1897, John Lindley, in his 70th year.

HALLOWAY—Suddenly, at Saranac Lake, N. Y., on Saturday, September 11, 1897, Clifford Price, only son of Henry B. and Cordelia Price Halloway, in the nineteenth year of his age.

GREENE—Died in North Plainfield, on September 10, 1897, Elizabeth Greene, widow of the late Hon. Wm. Greene, of East Greenwich, R. I., and daughter of the late Rev. Lemuel Burge and Elizabeth Frances Shaw.

A CONSTABLE'S TROUBLES.

Liable to Lose His Property Because of an Arrest He Made.

A popular movement to save the property of Constable John Schindler, of Cranford, from an advertised sale by the Sheriff on October 13th, is about to be instituted. In January last Schindler was sent by a Cranford Justice to serve a warrant on a farmer, charged with the larceny of a wagon. In attempting to discharge this duty, the Constable was attacked by the farmer's household, and compelled, as he alleged, to use his club. A day or two later the wagon was returned to the owner, who withdrew the larceny charge. The farmer then brought suit for damages against Schindler, and recovered judgment for $150 and costs. Township Attorney Bergen has advised the Township Committee that it has no authority to appropriate any public money for Schindler's relief in satisfying the judgment, and the Sheriff has levied on the Constable's property.

Rev. B. Fay Mills' New Beliefs.

B. Fay Mills, the evangelist, who has been drifting away from a belief in conservative theology for some time, makes a public statement of his present beliefs, which shows that he is largely in sympathy with Unitarianism. "I now expect," he says, "to present a statement of my position to the Presbytery and association at their next meeting in September and October, and allow them to act as may seem wise to them."

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and are thus brought widely before the public with out cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free. Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. BOCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to call for same.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not handle the cheap stock that enables me to put up the work with credit to myself and please the purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction to the price of my work to the consumer. Orders for same generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon passing in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for me, and I will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock for less money. Call.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage. I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Bilious and Nervous Diseases. They purify the Blood, and give Healthy action to the entire system.

Cure DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES.

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our high grade Improved Nursery Stock. Many new specialties. Pay weekly. Pay for the first time, as well as the standard varieties of fruits and ornamentals. Outfit free. Apply at once, stating age, experience, etc. Write for terms. Address, Stone & Wellington, The Fonthill Nurseries, West Chester, Pa.

WANTED AGENTS

BOTH MEN AND WOMEN. If you are willing to work, we can give you employment with 6000 PAY, and you can work all or part time, and at home or traveling. The work is LIGHT AND EASY. WRITE AT ONCE for terms, etc., to

THE HAWKS NURSERY COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y. 9 9-23

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your furnace mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

Corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

Between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 224 W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 304 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 9 17 y1

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

E. B. MAYNARD,

PRACTICAL

BARBER AND HAIR DRESSER

204 PARK AVE.

Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed. 8 7 tf y1

E. EPHENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain, free, whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies and HAND BOOK ON PATENTS sent free. Address

MUNN & CO.,
361 Broadway, New York.

What a Lot of Eggs the hens lay when fed with Green Cut Bone. With a dozen hens Mann's Green Bone Cutter will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 SAVES YOU. Sent on trial. 180 highest awards received. Catalogue free if you name this paper. F. W. MANN CO., Milford, Mass.

12 4 9 10 11 13—7mos.

TALKING IN THEIR SLEEP.

"Yop think I am dead,"
The apple tree said.
"Because I have never a leaf to show.
Because I stood
All dry and bare
And my branches droop,
And the cold gray manses over me grow!
But I'm alive in trunk and sh ot
The buds of next May
I feel already
But I pity the withered grass at my root."

"You think I am dead,"
The quick grass said,
"Because I have parted with stem and blade!
But under the ground
I am safe and sound,
With the snow's thick blanket over me laid.
I'm all alive and ready to shoot,
Should the spring call me
Come dandelion and lance;
But I pity the flower without branch or root."

"You think I am dead,"
A soft voice said,
"Because not a branch or root I own?
I never have died,
But close I hide
In a plumy seed that the wind has sown.
Patient I wait through the long winter hours;
You will see me again—
I shall laugh at you then,
Out of the eyes of a hundred flowers."
—Edith M. Thomas.

AN APRIL FOOL JOKE.

BY ANNA DEMING GRAY.

Dinner was well under way; Mrs. Simmons' broad, kindly face had lost its anxious expression, and settled down to a more complacent look. The cabbage salad had gone around, in spite of her fears to the contrary, and she felt relieved, knowing that the supply was limited. The chops were done to a turn, and the two new boarders seemed to be enjoying their dinner.

At the table next, the gentleman was as usual deep in some narrative wherein he had been the leading actor, according to his own account, a most important and praiseworthy part. Miss Thankful Hope, at his right, was putting in the needed "Yes, sir," or "Indeed, sir," here and there. Mrs. Large, the very diminutive little widow upon the other side, was listening in admiring silence; while the two young college students were, by their manner of half doubting the general's story, leading him on and on to still more exaggerated assertions. The general's voice grew louder.

"Yes, ma'am," he said excitedly, "yes, ma'am, the left flank of our company stood just here," drawing a line on the tablecloth with his fork, "and the enemy here"—another line—"and the bullet went right through my coat sleeve, not grazing the flesh, and killed the man behind me; yes, ma'am, a most extraordinary escape."

"Then two boys do just tease the general. How unmerciful," thought Mrs. Simmons. "It ought to be stopped; same as their eating of so many biscuits; there ought to be a law against it. Young Dawson has only seven, for I counted them! Seven biscuits is enough for any man made to devour at one meal! but they do certainly get a pile of sport, aggravating of the general."

The general, next to Miss Thankful, had been a member of Mrs. Simmons' family the longest, having been with her for six years. His title was, moreover, purely accidental. The express man who had brought his trunk to the house on the morning of his arrival had spoken of him as "the general," not knowing his name, and the title had clung to him. In matter of fact he was simply Mr. Mann, a kind-hearted, pompous and rather exacting bachelor of fifty, bookkeeper in a hardware store. But everyone called him the general. The college students affirmed that if all the hair-breadth escapes and deeds of bravery which the general related of his army career be true, he deserved the title twice over.

Little Mrs. Large had found Mrs. Simmons' house a very haven of rest, in the big, bewildering city. She had come from a small country town, where most of her life had been spent, to the city, in hope of finding a position as a companion. Vain dream!

"I needed to do something," she had confided to Miss Thankful, "and I found that my music was a little old-fashioned, and my painting, too; but I am quite sure I could care for an invalid, and I have a most delightful receipt for orange jelly. I used to make it for Mr. Large in his last illness. I enjoy reading aloud, too, and Mr. Large used to often say that I had expression and a good voice. I have read Children of the Abbey to him by the hour. He liked Mrs. Hemans' verses, too, and Shelley."

So she had inserted in two of the daily papers an advertisement reading:—

"Mrs. Large—Companion. A lady of refined tastes desires the position of companion to an invalid. Reference given. Address Mrs. Large, Chicago, Box 242."

But alas! Although the advertisement had appeared for as many weeks as Mrs. Large dared afford, it met with no response—very few who answered it found her an older person than they had expected, or wanted to travel, and desired a companion who could speak French and German. So finally she grew hopeless and gave up the idea.

"I am like my music and my painting," she said a little sadly to Miss Thankful. "I am too old-fashioned; I belong to a past generation, and there seems to be nothing I can do; the world moves on so fast."

And so she had settled down as a member of Mrs. Simmons' household, content if only her meager income could be made to cover her meager expenses, and eking it out now and then by a dainty piece of embroidery for the exchange. She was the kind of a woman the general most admired. Timid and dependent, scarcely ever advancing an opinion of her own, and if she did, modifying it with—

"I have often heard my husband Mr. Large, express himself so."

This tendency was much to the general's taste.

"A fine woman," he often reflected, "No fast opinions like Miss Thankful has, but willing to defer to others. A most commendable trait in a woman."

He admired her greatly. But to-day the students had carried their teasing too far, and finally, when the subject of the first of April came up and one of the young men declared that practical joking was harmless, the general lost his temper.

"You are mistaken, young gentlemen," he said, bringing his large hand down upon the table and making the tumblers and pepper boxes knock against each other in frantic efforts to keep upright. "It is an idiotic custom, yes, sir; a practical joke is the concoction of a—of a"—he sought for a word not too violent for the presence of ladies—"of a numbskull, sir—a numbskull! I was never deceived by one in my life, never! and do not expect to be, but they do not belong to the usages of good society."

He retired more than his usual dignity from the room when he had finished, much to the relief of the students, who wanted to laugh, and Mrs. Large, who was frightened.

"Those foolish boys!" said Miss Thankful to Mrs. Crandell later, when she saw them in close and earnest conversation. "I am afraid they are going to attempt to make the general ridiculous in some way. This All-Fools' Day is a silly practice for sane and sensible people. I do hope the general will be sharp enough to see through their joke, whatever it is. He might know that saying he had never been deceived would be just all two thoughtless boys would need to lead them on."

Meanwhile the two boys were out on the veranda closely studying a scrap of paper, whereon was written:

MRS. LARGE—Dear Madam:—Meet me in the east wing of the veranda after tea. I have something to ask you, which is of much importance to us both. Please answer.

Respectfully,
JOSIAH MANN."

"There," said the leader in this not very commendable little game. "Never has been deceived, oh, no!"

"But she is such a nice, gentle little body," chided the other, "and it will be just as hard on her."

"Nonsense; she will answer the note, and so there, what a fix he will be in. Don't you see? The joke is all on him."

"I understand women pretty well, and I know she would not give the general a second look. Don't you remember how she is always quoting Mr. Large. She will bring him up sharp for writing to her at all. That's the way with those meek-looking little widows. He is sure to get the worst of it, I tell you."

The next morning little Mrs. Large was in a flutter of excitement over this same missive, and after several attempts, penned in a shaky hand the following:—

"MR. MANN:—I will come to the east wing of the veranda this evening at seven, as you desired.

LUCRETIA LARGE."

When the general received this note his astonishment was profound until dinner time, when he happened to catch a telegraphic look which passed between the students, and then the matter became plain to him. The general had been a college student himself thirty years before, and he still remembered some of their ways. And the afternoon the question of what he should say to the timid, pretty little widow was a troublesome problem. The note which had called forth the answer might have been a proposal, for all he knew. The more he thought of it the more fascinating the idea became.

"And why not?" said the general. "And why not? The thought is not a disagreeable one. It would be, I never occurred to me before. She wants to be a companion. Why not offer her a position? Though, come to think of it, I am a healthy-looking invalid." And he laughed heartily at this flight of fancy. "Lucretia, ah—rather a pretty sounding name. Lucretia, ah—Mann. And why not?"

The following morning the general did not enter the dining-room until the others were seated, and then he led Mrs. Large in and down the entire length of the entire room, with the dignity and ceremony of a gentleman of the old school. And every one present knew that this marked attention could mean but one thing. Miss Thankful was full of laughter as she watched the meeting of the two very red-faced young men opposite. The general had come out ahead, she felt sure, and she knew that her surmises were correct, when, a little later, she heard one of the students say to the other, as she passed them in the hall:—

"That's my last practical joke. I've been sorry ever since we did it, and I am glad, down to my boots, that it turned out this way."

New Use for Hops.

A new use has been discovered for hops—namely, the curing of bacon. It is found that a sprinkling of hops in the bottom of the bacon and hams when put in pickle, adds greatly to the flavor of both, and enables them to be kept an indefinite period.

One Exception.

Pat—Th' ould mare is perfict, but f'r wan exception.

Mike—What's that?

Pat—Ef yez lick 'er f'r balkin' er bitin' she'll kick lolke a son-av-a-gun.—Texas Siftings.

In Keeping.

"At least, Chollie knows how to dress. His attire is rich, but simple."

"So is Chollie."—Indianapolis Journal.

A HIGHWAYMAN.

The man in the corner, who up to this time had not moved from his seat all day, now rose and walked to the other end of the car. Zona trembled with fear. He reached under the seat and took out a small handsatchel, which he opened.

Was he going to get a revolver? No, it would be a knife. Zona put her hand to the window and made a desperate effort to open it, that she might be ready to call the guard. The man heard and turned; he came quickly forward: "Allow me," he said.

"Oh, no, thank you," said Zona hastily. She felt sure he had designed her purpose and that there was covert menace in his tone.

He settled down in his corner again, and Zona cast furtive glances at him, and always when she looked he withdrew his gaze from her.

"What a powerful, built fellow he is," went her thoughts. "What a villainous countenance. One can see he is a desperate fellow. How foolish I was to let my watch and ring be seen! I am sure he is looking at my ring."

Now the ring was a beautiful diamond, given to Zona by her mother, and Zona, with a disregard of conventionality, wore it on her finger which is usually set apart to carry the signal of engagement. Therefore, his thoughts were, "Engaged! Well, I don't wonder, she surely is the loveliest girl I ever saw. I wonder who the happy fellow is."

"I beg you pardon," he said aloud. "You look wearied. Do you go much further?"

"An Englishman wouldn't speak without an introduction," thought Zona "if he hadn't some design."

"I don't know, sir."

"You have never been in this part of the country before," he said tentatively.

She answered in brief monosyllables to this and several other remarks, and he perforce, relapsed into silence.

"He wants to make me talk and throw me off my guard," thought Zona, again attempting to open the window, and this time with success. All at once she felt a sharp sting, and a shriek from her mingled with the yell of the engine, as it gave vent to its joy of emerging into daylight again. The man was at her side.

"I beg pardon for intruding; are you hurt?" he asked anxiously.

Zona thought his anxiety was caused by fear that the guard might have heard her scream. At the same time she became conscious that the pain was in her right eye. A cinder from the open window had lodged in it.

"If you would let me," said the stranger, producing from his pocket a handkerchief, "I could remove it."

"Chloroform!" flashed through Zona's brain, and she shrieked out, "No! don't come near me."

"Poor thing!" thought the would-be Samaritan. "She must suffer dreadfully."

Then aloud, "I am sure if you would only—"

"No, I tell you," said Zona, vehemently, with a stamp of her foot.

The can subsided into his corner and Zona, with her eye fast swelling, bitterly repented her temerity in taking the journey.

"I'll never travel alone again! Oh, dear! I don't suppose I'll ever travel at all again. I have laughed at dear mamma, and thought her fussy. I ought to have considered that she knew the world better than I."

Then came a long whistle. The man in the corner rose, snatched up his satchel, the guard unlocked the door, "Newcastle, ma'am; you're at your journey's end," and he picked up her valise.

Will Zona Sheldon ever again know such a sense of relief or will any other face ever be so welcome to her as was that of the burly guard, as he made this announcement to her? She was safely on the platform, and a coachman narrowly scrutinizing the passengers, stepped up to her, saying—

"Mr. Mowbray's carriage for Miss Sheldon."

"I am she," she said in a voice which her mother would not have recognized.

"Let me have your valise, then," said the coachman, extending his hand.

He opened the door, and Zona, stepping into the carriage, sank back on the cushions and burst into hysterical tears.

The man who had been in the corner, standing with his satchel in his hand, gave a low whistle as the sight met his gaze through the window. Walking forward to the coachman he said,—

"Give me a lift, Riley; I guess I'll ride with you."

"All right, Mr. John," said the coachman, lifting up the satchel. "Come down from Edinbro, sir?"

"Not directly, Riley. Let me down at the gate, and don't tell them I've come. I want to have a bit of a joke with them."

"Hall right, sir.

"So that is the travelled young lady, who is to be bridesmaid to-morrow, and stand up with me! If I'm not mistaken, she will be in no condition to stand up."

He swung himself lightly down at the gate. The carriage was driven up to the hall. Zona was helped out and warmly greeted by her friend, Louise, while Riley, to avoid answering questions, drove away.

The first greeting over, Louise looked about her.

"Where is Riley? Didn't Cousin John come? I thought maybe he would come with you; he went down to London a few days ago."

"No, there was no one with me only a horrid—" and here hysterics again threatened her.

"My dear Zona," said Louise, noticing her agitation, "let me take you in; you are positively trembling with cold."

"Oh, yes; do let me get up-stairs a while. I had a dreadful time! I'll tell you all about it.

And in Louise's snug room the prospective bridesmaid recounted her woes, and was pitied and comforted, and assured that she should not be allowed to go back alone.

"Cousin John Pierpont, who is going to be best man, is going down, and he will see you safely back. You know, he is an American, a graduate in medicine, and has been studying in Edinburgh. He is going to spend this winter in the London hospitals, and I know you will like him. I hear a bustle now. He has come. Will you excuse me till I go down and see?"

Of course Zona would, and Louise soon ran up again.

"Yes, it is he; and now, dear, dinner is ready. Let me help you."

"Oh, Louise, dear, you must excuse me from dinner. I can't go down with this horrible black eye."

Thus Louise went down alone to dinner, where she related in full the sad journey which her friend had.

"Would she recognize the villain, do you suppose?" asked Dr. Pierpont, who had listened with much interest to Louise's recital.

"I don't know indeed," said Louise, "She says he was a tall, powerful fellow—very sinister looking."

"You had better let me see her eye, at all events," said her cousin. "If you don't she will not be fit for duty to-morrow."

"Zona," said Louise, as she came in after dinner, "Cousin John thinks you had better let him examine your eye. He says it is dangerous to let the inflammation run on, and he thinks it will be quite well to-morrow if you get a good night's rest."

"Well, if you wish it. I don't want to spoil your wedding, after all."

"Miss Sheldon, my cousin, Dr. Pierpont," said Louise as she ushered in the doctor. Zona, whose vision was much impaired by the sore eye, did not recognize him as the man in the corner. He merely bowed.

"A clean pocket handkerchief, Louise," he said cheerfully.

At the sound of his voice Zona looked up quickly. A twinkle shone in John Pierpont's eyes.

"Now, Miss Sheldon, one moment, and it is out," he said.

"What instant relief!" exclaimed Zona. "Thank you, doctor."

"You are quite welcome," he replied. "By to-morrow I hope you will have quite forgotten it."

There was little sleep that night for Zona Sheldon.

Sleep came at last, and Zona woke radiant as ever. She dressed and went into the park to settle how she should meet Dr. Pierpont. But it was settled for her; a sudden turn in the path brought her face to face with him. A moment's confusion—a flush that dyed her whole face, and then the smile on his became contagious, and she burst into a peal of merry laughter, which he echoed.

"Dr. Pierpont," she said, "I hope you will be merciful and keep my secret."

"I am not likely to tell a secret so much to my disadvantage. What was it? Villainous—"

"Please doctor," she implored, "I did not notice your looks at all. I had parted with my senses."

"Very well, then," he said. "It is a compact. You will go back to the house for breakfast and say no more about it."

Had not the whole household been absorbed in the wedding that there was a secret understanding between the compatriots which quickly ripened into intimacy.

Indeed Zona is to go back to London under your escort, John?" said Louise.

"Provided she is not afraid to travel with me," he said, with a laughing bow to Zona.

A smile was her only answer.

They were seated—the sole occupants of the compartment.

"Will you tell me one think?" said Zona. "What was it you took out of your satchel, and put in your side pocket?"

"So you don't wholly trust me, even yet," he said, with a smile. "It was a mirror. You looked at it, and such a horrified face that I thought there must be something wrong with my looks. Now will you answer me a question? Had you made up your mind what to do if the worst came to worst?"

"Yes," she said laughing. "I was going to take off my watch and ring and offer them to you, as well as my purse, if I ancied you looked at my ring, particularly."

"I did," he said, after a pause, "because you know the finger you wear it on. May I ask, Miss Sheldon, if there is any particular significance in it?"

"It was given me by my mother," she said simply.

"Then," he said, "will you give me the right to put one on that finger?"

"I am very grateful, indeed, Dr. Pierpont," said Miss Sheldon, late in the evening, as the three sat in her parlor, "that my daughter has had your company. I never feel safe to have a lady travel unattended in a compartment."

Her auditors glanced at each other and burst into uncontrollable laughter. —Atlanta Constitution.

The happiest man that walks this earth
Is he who earns his living,
Receives God's bounties with one hand,
While with the other giving.
—Dansville Breeze

DON'T CROWD.

Don't crowd! this world is large enough
For you as well as me!
The doors of art are open wide,
The temple of delight is free.
Of all earth's places, you are right
To choose the best you can,
Provided that you do not try
To crowd some other man.

Don't crowd, proud miser, your dainty silk
With gilded sons the less
Because it comes in contact with
A beggar's tattered dress!
The world was never made
For you and me alone;
A pauper has a right to tread
The path your lordship's on.

Don't crowd the good from out your heart
By fostering all that's bad,
But give to every virtue room—
Don't crowd! be glad! be glad!
Be as a flag's record such a one
That you may well be proud;
Give each fair thought room in each room,
And never try to crowd.
—Alice Cary.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

"I have brought your tea." It was the voice of the dragoon that roused me from my siesta, as he stood by my deck chair, tea-cup in hand, as wholesome a specimen of young England (five feet eleven of flannels) as you could speed any day between Port Said and the Gulf of Aden. His face showed that he was brimming over with a matter of weighty importance, so I gathered my self together and prepared to listen and advise thereof, for, between times, I was used to the confidence of subalterns.

"Fact is, I've been hard hit," began the dragoon, sitting down on the deck. "Miss Stanton?" I inquired, sympathetically, for that young woman on her way to marry a planter, had won my heart among the unappreciated masculine hearts.

"Miss Stanton! No. I mean the woman who sits next you at table, the one with the beautiful eyes."

"My cabin companion, Mrs. Trinder! She is probably going out to join her husband," I added warningly.

"Oh, no. She's a widow. Hunt of the Fourth told me all about it; he has an uncle who has a place close to old Trinder's, and he, Hunt, I mean, knew them well by sight. Old Trinder was old enough to be her father. He made a pile in cotton or something of the sort, and died last autumn."

"Well, I don't see how I can make her—"

"But if you were to ask her to tea or something of the sort—"

"And ask you to meet her, of course. I don't mind so far here at four to-morrow, but I proceeded to scribble a note to Hunt of the Fourth, in consideration of his uncle having known old Trinder.

Somehow, that tea was not a success, although the cook surpassed himself in cakes, and that subtle flavor of stewed cockroaches that pervades the ship tea was reduced to a minimum.

Hunt contributed many anecdotes of his uncle (who knew old Trinder), but Mrs. Trinder would not be drawn into conversation.

The sound of the dressing-bell broke up the party, leaving the dragoon baffled in his object, but more in love than ever. He was one of those men who take the complaint seldom, but badly; and Mrs. Trinder, with her slim figure, big eyes, sweet smile and monosyllables, was in his eyes the perfection of womanhood.

"You'll come on deck," said the dragoon, four hours later, as we steamed slowly into harbor at Aden.

I consented, for a coaling ship is not a delectable place; but, in spite of allpervading dust, Mrs. Trinder could not be induced to accompany us, and we left her surrounded by a swarm of native merchants, who, with unerring instinct, marked her as an easy prey.

The journey to the empty tanks was a jolly and dusty as ever. Having left behind the few trees, we commenced our descent, and in so doing came across the Worst-tempered Man. In the course of an eventful life it has been my misfortune to foregather with many ill-tempered mortals, but this one could give points to any two other men of my acquaintance.

He was an ill-favored, unwholesome looking individual, with puffy cheeks and watery eyes, betokening a too free indulgence in intoxicating peg. His carriage had come to grief on the road, and he was standing among the debris apostrophising. From one or two expressions borne after us on the breeze, we learned with sorrow that he was to be a fellow passenger to Bombay.

"On our return to the ship a couple of hours later, I found Mrs. Trinder sitting in her cabin among her purchases, wearing a very frightened expression on her small little thing, and about as fit to knock about the world alone as an undedged canary, having evidently been kept in a bandbox all her life.

"They've put a madman next door," she began in a low voice. "He's dreadfully violent. Listen."

A string of Hindustani invectives, mingled with blows falling on some dull substance, and exclamations of "Rahib! Sahib!" reached our ears through the partition dividing that beside the partition walls of the two cabins, and I recognised the accents of the Worst-tempered Man.

"It's only temper," I said, reassuringly, "you will get used to that sort of thing. He's beating his servant and you may be sure the 'boy' is well paid, or he wouldn't stand it. If the man swears too loudly, I'll speak to the captain."

"Beating his servant! How dreadful. Let us go up on deck."

Outside we came upon the white robed "boy" rubbing his shoulders with a smile of satisfaction upon his face.

"Sticks?" I inquired, sympathetically. The "boy" grinned.

"Sahib make plenty bobbery," he replied.

That night, leaning over the prow of the vessel, watching the glimmering fantastic lights in the phosphorescent waters, Mrs. Trinder waxed confidential, and I learned the reason of her journey.

She was unused to traveling, having never been fifty miles away from home before. Ten years ago she had loved and been beloved; but her loved one was ineligible, and her parents, fully alive to the advantage of wood, had persuaded her to marry old Trinder; he was now dead, and though he had attained a good position.

There was something touching in her simplicity, and I felt a greater interest than heretofore in the little woman, and a degree of respect for her child like fidelity.

"You have written to say you are coming?" I inquired.

"Oh, no; I could not do that; it would seem like asking him to marry me. But I know he is in Bombay; I shall see him, and then—" She broke off with a happy smile; then, after a pause, continued: "You must have thought me stupid and unsociable; but every moment of the day I am thinking of our meeting and looking forward to it! The days would not pass quicker. They are so terribly long."

Later in the evening I reported our conversation to the dragoon, and he took it distinctly bad, for the little woman excited a strange fascination over him.

The Worst-tempered Man was a source of much annoyance to the passengers generally, and especially to my cabin passenger, who fled from his vituperations. Fortunately he could always command to Hindustani, and although one could not help admiring the breadth of his vocabulary, I felt it my bounden duty to report him to the captain, who moved him to the other side of the ship, which caused no further deterioration in his temper.

One morning we were awakened with the glad tidings that Bombay was in sight. It took Mrs. Trinder little time to dress and collect her belongings, for I was up on deck when she came, where I joined her later. The passengers' luggage was being drawn up from the hold, and near the saloon companion way sat the Worst-tempered Man's servant upon the deck, looking very bruised but cheerful, counting rupees into a small canvas bag. There were a goodly number, the price of many beatings.

"So we are really there at last," began Mrs. Trinder. Then she suddenly stopped and stared at something in front of her. Following the direction of her eyes, I encountered a portmanteau, and read the inscription in white letters, "Feredun B. Davenant." Then I understood.

Coming out of the Worst-tempered Man appeared. He looked at Mrs. Trinder, and, for the first time their eyes met; a spawn of recognition broke over him.

"Is it possible?" he began.

Mrs. Trinder bowed.

"You have a time-table," I interrupted, quickly; "kindly tell me what time the evening train starts for Poonah."

Before he had answered my question Mrs. Trinder was half way down the companion, and when I went into the cabin a few minutes later she was sitting forlorn on her cabin box, the picture of disappointed hope.

"The blow had been a hard one.

"Everything seems to have come to an end," she said mournfully. "I dont know what to do or where to go."

"But I do. You will come with me to Poonah, and stay there until you have decided on your future."

Then I returned to the deck, where I found the dragoon standing by his guncase, his face gloomy and clouded.

"My leave isn't up for a week yet," he remarked, "so I'm going up country for a big shoot."

"You won't do anything of the sort, Mrs. Trinder is coming to stay with me."

"And her friend too?"

I pointed to the deckhouse, where, behind the Worst-tempered Man, peg glass in hand and profanity on his lips.

"That is he," I said.

The cloud cleared from the dragoon's face instantaneously.

"Mashallah!" he exclaimed.

Financial Nursery in Kentucky.

A newly ordained minister of Carter County, who was recently called upon to marry a certain couple, after reading the ceremony, concluded with most of the ceremony, wound up as follows: "I charge you in the name of the laws of the State of Kentucky, and the laws are laid down by Moses and G. Washington, $5 for this ceremony. I am a free-silver man, but I'll be durned if I will take any more coonskins on marriage fees."—Ashland, Ky., News.

Educational Problem.

"Some men," said Uncle Eben, "kin trin er dog ter do anyt'ing dey tells 'im an' at de same time raise de most obedientest chillun in de neighborhood."—Washington Star.

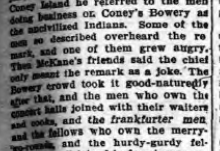
Irishman's definition of the grip. "It's a disease that keeps you sick a long time after you are well."

CONEY ISLAND BALL.

GAY TIMES AT THE DANCES OF SUBSTANTIAL CITIZENS.

An Annual Blow Out and What It Means — Conveniences for Resuscitating Fainting Ladies, and Subduing too Frisky Gents in the Task Adjacent the Ball Room.

There is but one Coney Island, although Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis each have imitations. When John Y. McKane who is now in jail, was the great boss of the original Coney Island he referred to the men doing business on Coney's Bowery as the uncivilized Indians. Some of the men so described overheard the remark, and one of them grew angry. Then McKane's friends said the chief only meant the remark as a joke. The Bowery crowd took it good-naturedly after that, and the men who own the concert halls joined with their waiters and cooks, and the frankfurter men and the fellows who own the merry-go-rounds, and the hurdy-gurdy fellows—they all joined in forming an association which they named the Bowery Indians, or Coney Island Board of Trade.



THE BAND PLAYED ELSIE FROM CHELSEA.

The Board of Trade gave a ball the other night—Tuesday night—and there was never anything like it before. There may be another like it in the hereafter, but the oldest resident of the city by the sea never saw its equal. The society reporter of the New York Sun attended in his official capacity, and following is his report: The dancing began at 9 o'clock. The fun began at midnight. The fainting began at 2 o'clock, and the fighting began at 3.

The crowd got to the hall before the band. They were in all sorts of costumes. The musicians wore black and white trousers and sweaters. Some one said they looked like prize fighters, and knew enough about Indian etiquette to leave their collars and neckties at home.

A colored man who was known to the crowd as Nigger Simpson reached the ball at 10 o'clock. He was attired in full Indian regalia, with his face painted red, and he had a crown of feathers on his head. He came armed with a little hatchet, which he called his tomahawk. Two members of the Disturbance Committee met him at the door and in disarming him one of them said: "De first man what raises trouble'll be dumped into de water tank in de rear of de hall, an' dat's no dream, eider."

"I've come for fun ter-night," said Simpson. "Deed, I don't want any trouble in mine, 'deed I don't."

"Well, den, give up yer coin an' go in," said the Chairman of the Disturbance Committee. Simpson produced a fifty-cent piece, which was the necessary "open sesame" to all comers—black, white, or otherwise."

A TIRED INDIAN.

With the "otherwise" contingent came La Belle Helene, the young woman who dances Orientally in the Streets of Cario. She was accompanied by Jim the Turk. After this couple passed the ticket-takers Mr. Batt Murphy and Miss Mainy Taylor appeared. Batt was in evening dress. Miss Taylor, who is one of the actresses in the Trocadero Concert Hall, was attired in her Sunday afternoon sacred concert costume of pink mousseline de soie, adorned with pink silk ribbons and a sky-blue lace collar. This couple were to lead the march and they knew it. They walked the length of the hall twice before finding seats at a table. Mr. Murphy called a waiter and shouted:

"Hey, Windy, bring us a quart."

Then the waiter, who had thus been addressed, said to another waiter, "Dere must be plenty of dough in de cane ringin' business," which, translated, meant that Mr. Murphy's trade was a prosperous one.

The frankfurter man from the beach, arrived at the ball at 10 o'clock. He was accompanied by Mrs. Marcy, the popcorn lady. She was attired in a new blue gingham frock and a new striped apron, with a gray bonnet with big red roses and black feathers.

Shoot-the-Chute Graham and the corsetless man's daughter were among the early ones to arrive. Big George, the tuba player at Gardner's, and his wife, who weighs 306 pounds. They were followed into the ballroom by a bunch of blondes, from Stone's Concert Hall, and a trifle of beer-slinging Indians from a Surf avenue saloon. The band was playing "Elsie from Chelsea" when this contingent arrived, and the Surf avenue folks joined in the waltz. This was at 11 o'clock. The crowd who danced sang as they were dancing, for this seems to be the proper thing to do at Coney Island social gatherings.

After the waltz there was a great deal of scrambling to get seats at the table where the fire water was served to the Indians. During the scramble one good-looking young woman known as Blanche got caught in the rush and fainted. Several men and three women carried her to the reviving annex at the rear of the ballroom.

Not being able to revive the girl by rubbing her hands and slapping her face, one woman in the crowd said:

"She's my pal; I know what's best for her. She's got a whisker fit, an' the only way to bring her around is to get her in the water tank. She'll come 'round if she gets a bath, 'cause same—hic—thing happeneded to her Sat'd'y night. Didn't, Maggie?"

"Yes," answered the girl addressed as Maggie; "she's subjected to them when she takes too much. Let's get her in the water. Will some of you gents help ter carry her into the bathhouse?"

Just about this time a man employed at the race track got into a row with a negro, and the two punched each other. They were put out of the ballroom. Then a negro woman scratched the face of a white woman, and a man with the white woman punched the negro woman. He was promptly punched by another negro woman. The young woman who had been hit tried to get back at the other, but was prevented by the members of the Disturbance Committee, who crowded in, and thus pushed them away from each other.

Then came the grand march, in which all Coney Island seemed to revel. They marched eight abreast, after marching in couples once around the hall. When they couldn't dance, sing, or shout any more, their friends called for them and took them home, for it was another day, and the city crowd was beginning to gather at the seaside. The Indians had had their day—and an awful night, too.

CONNUBIAL BLISS IN THE WEST.

"How are you, Mrs. Smith? You and your husband are well and happy, I suppose?"

"Oh, exceedingly happy. We are to be divorce d, you know."

BUSINESS MEN IN OFFICE.

They Fear the Critisms of Newspapers and Decline.

A staff correspondent of the New York Mail and Express recently interviewed Mayor Strong, and the following dialogue occurred:

"Then you don't agree with Mr. Croker's famous remark some years ago that business men have no place in public life?"

"Not at all," replied Mayor Strong. "I do not believe it necessary to have been a politician in order to make a good city officer. A competent business man will manage any city department better than a politician. The difficulty is to get business men to accept."

"They all say they can't spare the time."

"Well, that isn't always the reason," replied Mayor Strong. "I tried to induce a number of them to join with me just after I took office in giving New York City a hang-up business administration. I offered J. Harsen Rhoades and Charles Stewart Smith the place of Commissioner of Public Works, and I also asked several others of equal prominence to become the heads of departments. All of them declined, and the chief reason they gave me was that they would get so much abuse from the press. The newspapers would at once begin to pick at them and their families and make their lives generally uncomfortable. I believe that has much to do with the disinclination of many men to have anything to do with public affairs. People of independent means or of assured position in private life do not care to have themselves or their families made the subject of newspaper discussion, and so they refuse to take public office. The people thereby lose the benefit of their training and executive ability. While the newspapers are responsible for this, they exercise a great influence for good by being so alert in discovering and exposing irregularities wherever they can be found. More than one city official has been kept straight through fear of newspaper exposure. I have heard several public officers say they would do this or that if they were sure it wouldn't get in the papers, and the dread of publication has a wholesome effect."

TO REFORM AFRICA.

Heil Chatelain Proposes to Liberate Slaves and Teach Them Trades.

An expedition has just started from the United States for the Dark Continent, which was bent wholly upon the task of improving the condition of the natives of Africa. Its leader was Mr. Heil Chatelain. Several Americans accompanied him. Mr. Chatelain is of Swiss origin, and he has been in this country for some time organizing the Phil-African League. The purpose of the league is to overthrow the internal slave trade in Africa. It is estimated by Mr. Chatelain that there are fifty million slaves at the present time in that continent. He has been an indefatigable African traveler and knows whereof he speaks. His plan is to establish villages on lands conceded by the Congo State and the European governments, to be made up of free natives and rescued slaves, who are to be educated in farming and handicrafts. Each station will have its work divided into the four departments of agriculture, industry, education and medical and charitable oversight. The work is to begin on the high table-land between Benguella and Lake Nyassa. The Phil-African Liberators' League, which has undertaken to support this movement, has for its president Dr. L. T. Chamberlain and for its treasurer the Hon. Thomas L. James. The list of vice-presidents and the board of directors include many well-known names. The movement begins in a small way and without ostentation; but no work of philanthropy was ever better thought out or more competently directed.

A Naphtha Fountain.

The naphtha fountains of Baku are one of the wonderful sights of Southeastern Russia. On the peninsula that jets out from the Caspian Sea are the immense oil fields of Europe, all practically under the control of the Russian Government. Next to those of Pennsylvania, they are the largest in the world, and the city which has become a great industrial center by reason of the oil field development, is known everywhere as "The Black City." But Baku hardly deserves this title for it is always lights as day there for the great naphtha fountains of fire rise to a heighth of hundreds of feet at times and light up the country for miles and miles.

A NAPHTHA FOUNTAIN.

In the Chicago Wheat Pit.

These are days of intense excitement in grain circles. The attention o fthe country, is, of course, centered in the wheat pits of the great exchanges. With the tremendous foreign demand the prices of cereals seem to be on the jump continuously, and a scene such as that pictured here is of daily occurrence. The marvel of it all, to the outsider, is how it is possible for the brokers to keep track of sales and purchases in the midst of the excitement. But few mistakes are made, for brokers trade only on orders and after the *close of the ex*change the trades are booked and carefully compared.

IN THE CHICAGO WHEAT PIT.

TOWER FOR GREATER NEW YORK.

Triumphal Structure Which is to Outstrip That of Babylon.

As a matter of curiosity it may be mentioned that Greater New York is to have—on paper, at least—a tower which is to beat anything in the world, past or present, even the confusion-breeding structure of Babylon. William J. Frye is the architect, and F. C. Townsend is mentioned as promoter, who is said to be confident that the necessary funds will be forthcoming. He has not yet gone into figures which is a mere matter of details with him. The tower is to be 2,140 feet in height, and is to be twelve-sided, with a diameter of 200 feet for the main base, to be flanked by four pavilions which will give the entire base a diameter of 400 feet. The outer walls are to be of cement and wire cloth. In ternally the plans represent a labyrinth of steel columns, girders, beams, not a particle of wood to be employed in either construction or finish. Electric cars will reserve motor power of compressed air as to run spirally around the 100-foot central area, making a trip to the fifth floor from the ground about two and a half miles in length. From the fifth floor to the top visitors will be conveyed in an elevator. The proposed tower is to be built within the next three years somewhere in upper New York, where there is a firm rock foundation.

NEW YORK TOWER.

Neatly Turned.

Judge Jones waxed vehement in one of the courtrooms the other day. He told of his client's woes in the most thrilling way possible, and he illustrated his discourse with a series of vigorous gestures. At one climax he brought his hand down upon a law book with such force that the cover flew off and sailed through the air.

A smile ran round the courtroom, but the Judge was not in the least abashed.

"You see, your Honor," he quickly cried, "that even the dull and pulseless law books burst with indignation when they hear the story of my client's wrongs."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SUN BEATING ON THE BRAIN.

"Nuthin' bites."

"Guess I'll take an appetizer."

"Evident it done the Hiness."

"Jolly Mackerel!"

SASHES EDGED WITH FRILLS.

Lace Skirts Shaped to Fit the Hips by the Lace Maker.

(By Special Arrangement with the N. Y. Sun.)

The fichu, and especially the Marie Antoinette fichu with a succession of frills across the ends, is worn with great effect by the right woman, who understands how to arrange it coquettishly in a soft knot and fasten it in place with jewelled pins. Fichus are decidedly pretty with the low evening bodice, and they can be purchased all made of various soft materials, and the ruffles headed with a row of spangles.

A turquoise grenadine is made very pretty with a white chiffon fichu bordered with Valenciennes lace frills, a white moire vest, and lace edged frills of grenadine on the skirt. Another pretty idea is a pale blue muslin trimmed on the skirt with broad tucks alternating with insertions of Valenciennes lace to the knee. The bodice has a little coat of lace and a vest of cream net embroidered with a design in blue baby ribbon. Pretty bodices are made of white lisse bands, alternating with lace insertion sewn on with white or colored satin baby ribbon, and tucked bodices are very com*mon with the flounced skirts* and a pretty sash, the latest of which is made of hemstitched ribbon. Sashes of taffeta silk or ribbon, edged all around with a frill of chiffon or the material of the gown, and striped across the ends with lace insertion, are worn with the organdie gowns and pretty lace grenadines. The latter material is one of the choicest of the season for dressy gowns. It comes in a variety of colors, which are very effective over the silk linings. Lace dresses, too, are very fashionable, and the most elegant lace skirts are made and shaped by the lace makers to fit the hips, and fall in the fashionable fulness at the bottom, the absence of seams being a great advantage in this sort of gown. Another material which is very popular is gaze diabolique, a gauze with a coarse canvas ground and an open-work pattern. One of these gauzes in black and white is mounted on yellow silk with a very curious effect. White chiffon frills and vest are the finish.

Jones asked his wife:

"Why is a husband like dough?"

He expected she would give it up, and he was going to tell her it was "because a woman needs him," but she said it was because was "hard to get off her hands."

Then Jones was silent for the rest of the evening.

WOMAN SPY OF THE LOST CAUSE.

Eventful Life of an Odd Character in Camp and Field.

Mrs. John Mance, one of the oddest of rare characters, was found dead locked by the roadside in Clay county, Texas, recently. Here was indeed a strange and eventful life. Sixty years ago Jacob Schroder, a Pennsylvania Dutchman, emigrated to Kentucky and settled down to farming and dealing in stock. His family consisted of two sons and a daughter. By frugal habits Schroder accumulated considerable property and was known as one of the wealthiest men of this section. The daughter, Katie, had many admirers and married John M. Mance, a farmer. At the commencement of the war Mance, who was a strong Southern sympathizer, was arrested and taken to Louisville, where he died in prison. His death was caused by the cruel treatment of his captors. During the period of Mrs. Mance entered the service of the rebels in the capacity of a spy. She was of great value to the Confederates and was considered one of the most daring spies in the service. She was with Bragg, when he raided through Kentucky, and at the battle of Perryville headed a musket in the front ranks. During the war she was usually attired in male attire, unless feminine dress suited her purpose better.

Many were hear hairbreadth escapes from capture and death. One of the closest calls she ever experienced was while fording Red River, in Logan county, Ky. She had visited Russellville in search of information. An hour after her departure the Federal commander of the town, learning she was a rebel spy, dispatched a company of cavalry to capture or kill her. The troops overtook the daring woman at the river, which was bank full and fast fording, owing to recent rains. With certain death behind and a dangerous river in front she plunged into the raging torrent. When half way across the stream the Federal cavalry appeared and fired a volley at the fleeing woman. Her horse was killed and she received a wound in the shoulder. Supposing she had received her death wound, the troops left her to the mercies of the stream. She was washed against a pile of driftwood, and reached the opposite shore. She reached her command and gave information which resulted in the capture of Russellville the following week.

During her career as a scout she made oath that not until the independence of the Confederate States would she ever sleep beneath a roof. At the close of the war Mrs. Mance returned to this country, sold her little farm, and began a roaming life.

Securing a spring wagon, a horse and several head of milch cows she roamed through southern Kentucky and northern Tennessee. Wherever good grazing could be had there she would camp for an indefinite period. Her wants were few and simple, and were supplied by selling milk and butter. This she led both winter and summer. A perfect storehouse of information, but she never referred to her own life, and it was with great difficulty that this short sketch was secured.

At the time of her death she had twenty milch cows. These she had milked up to the hour of her death, finding the grim monster beckoning, she seated herself by the roadside, leaned against a tree, and was dead when discovered. She kept her oath made during the rebellion. For thirty-three years she never slept under a roof.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Tea That Makes You Thin.

Everybody knows that tea, when drunk in hot weather makes a person perspire. You have no cause for fear as long as you keep to drinking tea as procured in England; but if you don't want to waste away to a shadow, don't have anything to do with tea as they drink it in Ceylon.

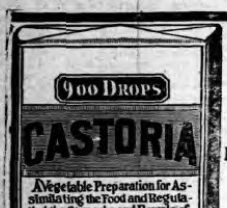
The tea-plans of Ceylon are infested with an insect known as the tea-worm. This is a most minute creature, visible only through a powerful microscope. The leaves of the tea-plant are covered with them, and you probably eat a few thousands of the creatures in a pound of tea; but they are quite harmless as received by us. In Ceylon, however, the tea is used soon after it is picked, and the insects being then alive, have a peculiar effect on persons drinking the tea.

As soon as you have drunk a cup of this tea you will begin to perspire freely, the pores of the skin remaining open till the clothes are saturated through and through. The effect is so weakening that persons have been prostrated, after only a few cupfuls, these, of course, were Europeans, the natives' constitutions being proof against it.

Napoleon would have been a dreadful failure as a racing cyclist. It is said he was so self-possessed that "not even the sound of a pistol close to his ear could make him start."

PUZZLE PICTURE.

Find the mother-in-law who has something to say and is saying it.



EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF

CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A. The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

A HOME PLAN OF STUDY

NEW FEATURE IN THE PRIMARY SUNDAY-SCHOOL METHODS.

The New Idea Helpfully Explained at the Second Anniversary of the Primary Teacher's Union by State Secretary Stultz.

Monday marked the second anniversary of the Plainfield Primary Teachers' Union and in honor of the event a programme of more than usual interest was prepared by the officers of the Union. There were about fifty members present and a number of visitors. The devotional exercises were conducted by Miss Shinn, of this city, who is closely identified with what is known as the home department. She is a faithful and zealous worker and takes a great deal of interest in Sunday-school matters. The lesson was taught by Miss Nettie Beeching, president of the Union, who held the closest attention of everyone while she explained in a very interesting manner the helpful points in the lesson for next Sunday.

The latter part of the afternoon was devoted to a helpful talk by State Secretary Stultz, of the home department work. This has been a somewhat new feature of Primary methods and those who have taken the matter up are striving to secure among all Sunday-school workers an interest in it. The plan is to interest people in the homes to take up a systematic study of the Sunday-school lessons each week and thus keep well posted on the lesson. After awhile the workers hope to be able to get the members of the home department sufficiently interested so that they will be led to attend the Sunday-school and eventually become teachers. It was along this line that Mr. Stultz talked and the many helpful suggestions he offered were eagerly noted by all present. Following the talk an informal discussion took place and this proved helpful.

After the discussion the meeting took the form of a social gathering during which refreshments were served and those present enjoyed the privilege of exchanging ideas in Sunday-school work.

TOURISTS IN A SNOW STORM.

Winter Weather Encountered in Yellowstone Park by Plainfielders.

Letters received from the Plainfield members of the party under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Railroad, now touring the Yellowstone Park, report that very cold weather for this time of year was experienced last Friday as the party reached the top of the Continental Divide. A snowstorm was encountered and snowballing was engaged in. They were also fortunate in witnessing an eruption of the "Monarch" geyser, which has remained quiescent for three years, and the "Grand" geyser, which has been quiet for thirty years.

—Next Sunday the choir of the First Presbyterian church will resume work at the services. W. E. MacClyment, organist, will have charge of the choir and will maintain its usual standard of excellence.

A. W. Haviland and family, of Rockview avenue, who are spending the summer at the Hill County Club, at Garrison's-on-the-Hudson, will return to their home on October 1st.

STAYED IN DEATH'S PATH

ROBERT RUSHTON STRUCK BY A LOCOMOTIVE TUESDAY MORNING.

Seemed to Make No Effort to Get Out of the Way, of the Oncoming Engine—His Injuries Not Likely to Prove Fatal.

As the 7:58 train sped by the North Avenue station Tuesday morning on its way to the siding, where each morning it backs up and couples on to the waiting passenger coaches, the persons standing on the depot platform were startled and horrified to see a man walk across the other tracks directly in the path of the oncoming locomotive. The man, who was Robert Rushton, of Rushton & Hansen, painters, seemed to be either totally oblivious of the impending danger of his being crushed to death, or else intent on deliberately attempting to end his life by walking in front of the locomotive.

The engineer of the locomotive, as well as the persons who were witnesses of the accident, thought that Rushton would quickly realize his danger and make an effort to get out of the way. But seemingly he did not. The engineer reversed his throttle and applied the air brakes, but the locomotive was too close to Rushton to stop before striking the man.

Though the speed of the locomotive had been greatly reduced, the pilot struck Rushton with sufficient force to throw him several feet. Before it could mangle his body the locomotive was stopped.

Several persons ran to the scene of the accident and picked up Rushton and carried him to the baggage room in the station. He did not lose consciousness. The principal injuries seemed to be several cuts in the back of the head from which the blood flowed freely.

Rushton seemed to think that he had been mortally wounded and he gave William Pearson, of Pearson & Gayle, all of the papers that he had in his pockets and told him to look after his affairs if he should succumb to the injuries.

A few minutes after he was conveyed to the hospital by Hackman Higgins, where his injuries were treated. They were found not to be serious.

Funeral of Clifford Halloway.

The funeral of the late Clifford Price Halloway was held from the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Halloway, of LaGrande avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards conducted the service and made a short address speaking of the good and manly qualities of the young man who had passed away. The casket was covered with floral tributes. The pall-bearers were all young men who had been close friends of Clifford Halloway. They were VanRensaeller Schuyler, Howard Miller, Henry W. Brower, Harold Wills, Carl L. Walz, and Stanley Hunter.

—The addition to Woolston & Buckle's store is now completed and being used.

—Perhaps you have never been able to see well. If so, we may be able to help you. It's our business. Examinations free; satisfaction guaranteed. Leech, Stiles & Co., at 107 East Front street every Thursday.

SCORE OF YEARS IN AGE

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE W. C. T. U. CELEBRATED.

Combined With the Annual Meeting Monday—Old Officers Re-elected—Reports Showed Much Work Done.

Twenty years have passed away since the Woman's Christian Temperance Union made its entry into Plainfield. Monday the Union celebrated its anniversary and at the same time held the annual meeting of the Union. The story of the past twenty years was related and the doings of the Union during the past year were especially considered from the reports that the officers presented. The officers for the ensuing year were selected and the Union planned a vigorous campaign for the coming winter.

The meeting of the Union was held in the rooms of that association all day Monday. The morning was devoted to the reading of the reports of the president, secretary and treasurer, which gave a clear idea of the work done during the year, and showed a balance in the treasury and that a large amount had been collected and devoted to the work during the past year.

The election of officers was held, and the old officers elected as follow: President, Mrs. A. E. Parse; corresponding secretary, Mrs. O. B. Leonard; recording secretary, Mrs. J. H. French; treasurer, Mrs. R. K. Case; delegates to the State convention at Trenton on October 12-15, Mrs. J. H. French and Mrs. R. K. Case; alternates, Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux and Mrs. O. B. Leonard. The vice-presidents elected were divided among the different churches as follows:

Crescent Avenue church, Mrs. S. Cahoone, Miss Yates; First Baptist, Mrs. Hugh Knox, Miss A. Boice; Seventh-day Baptist, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, Mrs. A. Maxson; Trinity Reformed, Mrs. E. C. Parse. Mrs. J. V. Honeyman; Park Avenue Baptist, Mrs. David Smalley, Mrs. C. K. Compton; Congregational, Mrs. LaBoyteaux, Miss Eda Beekman; First Methodist, Mrs. J. M. MacNaughton, Miss Jackson; First Presbyterian, Mrs. E. V. Shotwell, Mrs. R. Blair; Friends, Mrs. Col. Dietrich; Unitarian, Mrs. S. Krom; Warren chapel, Mary Mair Anna Claypool; Grace Methodist, Mrs. Jacob Voehl, Mrs. Powell; Hope chapel, Mrs. McComas.

At 12:30 o'clock an appetizing lunch was served, and at 1:30 p. m. an executive meeting was called, and the following superintendents elected: Evangelistic, Mrs. R. Blair; Juvenile Work, Miss E. Beekman; Parlor Meeting, Mrs. L. Cooley; Foreign Work, Mrs. Jacob Vohel; Purity, Mrs. A. M. Powell; Soldiers, Sailors, Firemen, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins; Mothers Meeting, Mrs. M. Winter; Literature, Mrs. S. Krom; Flower Mission, Mrs DeForest; Colored Work, Mrs. Demeris; Franchise, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson; Press, Mrs. Bullong; Sabbath Observance, Miss Shinn.

The afternoon session opened at 3 o'clock. Two very interesting letters were read from Miss Rachel Mair and Miss Arms, missionaries in Africa, and members of the W. C. T. U. A half-hour was spent in relating experiences in earning a dollar, from which was realized $31.

Entertaining and encouraging reports were read from the various departments, the substances of which were:

Loyal Temperance Legion, total number in attendance during the year, 911; flower mission, bouquets distributed to sick and soldiers, 175; Italian leaflets, 470 pages; newspapers, 200; soldiers and sailors, 1,380 pages of literature; four Gospel services for Grand Army men; two entertainments; 150 bouquets on Memorial Day; parlor meeting, two meetings addressed by Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Tomlinson.

Mrs. Tomlinson read a very interesting paper of the work accomplished during the past twenty years.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co. doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrhal Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

A. W. GLEASON,
Seal
Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Telephone Extension.

The Home Telephone Company, of Baltimore, has applied for a franchise in New Brunswick. This concern is interested in the Somerset Telephone Company, which has a large exchange in Bound Brook. The Somerset concern already has a franchise in South Bound Brook, and has made application for privilege in Franklin township, so as to connect with New Brunswick.

A Dying Man.

SAVED BY THE BLOOD OF A CALF.

Mr John Shields, of Teddington, London, whose foot was crushed under a horse's hoof while driving through a lonely lane, became unconscious and continued to lose blood and grow weaker for nearly thirty minutes before he was discovered. Blood was drawn from a calf, and injected into Mr. Shields' arm with instantaneous results. He is to-day a healthy man. It was this case that prompted Dr. Campbell to extract the Iron or Hemoglobin from bullocks blood and put it up in the form of Capsuloids, for pale and weak people. One Capsuloid represents two-thirds of an ounce of pure blood.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price by The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

THE DANGER OF APATHY.

MORAL FORCES OF THE STATE BEING STIRRED TO A SENSE OF DUTY.

Citizens' League Addresses the Voters of the State in the Effort to Forever Rid New Jersey of Race Track Gambling.

The following appeal to the citizens of New Jersey has been issued today by the State Citizens' League, signed by its president, Rev. Everard Kempshall, D. D. This address will be read in the churches, and copies have been distributed throughout the State:

"The following proposed amendment to the constitution of the State of New Jersey having been passed by two consecutive legislatures of this State, is now submitted to the people for adoption or rejection:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION, RELATING TO LOTTERIES AND GAMBLING—

Amend paragraph 3 of section VII of article IV. so as to read as follows:

2. No lottery shall be authorized by the legislature or otherwise in this State; and no ticket in any lottery shall be bought or sold within this State, nor shall pool-selling, bookmaking or gambling of any kind be authorized or allowed within this State, nor shall any gambling device, practice or game of chance now prohibited by law be legalized, or the remedy, penalty or punishment now provided therefor be in any way diminished.

"The submission of this amendment is the outcome of a determined purpose and a prolonged effort on the part of thousands of good citizens of New Jersey to rid the State forever of the evils of gambling upon race-tracks, which have so disgraced it in the past.

"If this amendment receives, at the approaching election, a majority of the votes cast, this purpose will be most effectually accomplished. It it is defeated, not only will all thus far gained be lost, but the reactionary effect of such defeat will surely bring upon the State all the evils of the past in multiplied form and increased magnitude. The possibility of such defeat exists not in the fact that a majority of the voters of New Jersey are in favor of restoring race-track gambling, but in the apathy and overconfidence of the friends of the amendment. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that every friend of this amendment who has a vote to cast should realize his personal responsibility in this matter, so that he shall be spared in case of its defeat a vain regret for having neglected to do his duty.

"Rest assured, you who are in sympathy with this effort to secure a great and permanent reform, that the owners of the race-tracks and the gamblers—being brought now to the last ditch in the long battle—will not surrender without a severe—although it may be a hidden—effort to compass the defeat of this amendment. They have the incentive of self-interest, the control of large funds, and, to a certain extent, political influence.

"The State Citizens' League makes, therefore, this its final appeal to the citizens of New Jersey—men and women—to arouse anew their former interest in this great reform; to give heart, and hand and voice to the work of getting out a strong vote, and over and above all do we earnestly entreat every qualified voter who believes that race-track gambling is essentially, and has proven itself to be, a curse to our fair common wealth, not to fail to cast his ballot for the above amendment on the 28th day of this month. We are confident that if this shall be done a great and glorious victory awaits our cause.

"EVERARD KEMPSHALL,
"President State Citizens' League."

Funeral John Lindsay.

The funeral of the late John Lindsay was held from his residence, 426 West Front street, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards. Many friends of the deceased were present. There were numerous floral offerings. The pallbears were two grandsons and two nephews of Mr. Lindsay.

Humors in the blood, boils, pimples, scrofula sores, are promptly eradicated by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the one true blood purifier, nerve tonic and health builder.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy to operate. Cure indigestion, biliousness. 25c.

—George Flammer, of Somerset street, who was employed as blacksmith in William J. Conroy's carriage factory, has accepted a good position with Finke & Co., of Newark. Mr. Flammer entered into his new duties on Monday.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar for Medicine

until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This sort is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

TRADE MARK

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail; or 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are ten to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of this depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. Men succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places begging for good men, and millions of $3 a week men begging for poor places. If you will get it—sure. The best equipment is young men can get to have who expects to make his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as to enable them to fill the highest places and thus earn better pay. During its 40 years of life, more than 40,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates and Shorthand course.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C. GAINES, President, Poughkeepsie New York.

UNABLE TO CONTROL HORSE.

James H. Kenyon Thrown Out and Severely Cut and Bruised.

A horse attached to a light buggy and driven by James H. Kenyon, took fright at a passing train in the vicinity of the gas works on East Fourth street, at 9 o'clock Monday a. m., and ran away. Mr. Kenyon was unable to control the animal which ran along Fourth street at a wild pace. When Washington street was reached, the horse attempted to turn the corner but the buggy struck the curb and overturned, throwing Mr. Kenyon out. He was picked up and taken into the house of Webster Brokaw, superintendent of the gas works, and Dr. Hedges was summoned to treat his injuries. When the physician arrived he discovered severe cuts and bruises on the injured man's head and left arm and leg. It was thought that no bones had been broken. After the wounds had been properly dressed, the patient was placed in a hack and driven to his home at 425 Kensington avenue.

After running a short distance from the scene of Mr. Kenyon's injuries the horse was captured. The buggy was badly damaged.

Her Ninety-Fifth Birthday.

Mrs. Cook, mother of W. R. Cook, celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday on Sunday at her home on East Fifth street. A large number of friends called during the day and found her well and hearty. She received a number of bouquets from her friends.

L. L. Manning has returned from a business trip to Philadelphia.

A LOCAL Disease Climate Affection

Nothing but a local remedy or change of climate will cure it. Get a well-known pharmaceutical remedy.

Ely's Cream Balm

It is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at once. Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation. Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. No Mercury. No injurious drug. Full size 50c. Trial Size 10c. at Druggists or by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM Gives Relief at once

COLD IN HEAD

Delay in Getting Tramps to Work.

The question as to whether the city or the county shall pay the overseer who will have charge of the tramps who are set to work in Middlesex county has been raised by Mayor Williamson, of New Brunswick. Until this question is settled it is not likely that the chain gang will be set at work. There are now four tramps in the Middlesex county jail at New Brunswick sentenced to work in the chain gang.

It Saves the Croupy Children.

Seaview Va.—We have a splendid sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and our customers coming from far and near speak of it in the highest terms. Many have said that their children would have died of croup if Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had not been given.—Pellam & Curren. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1897. NO. 38.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

THE DAILY PRESS MEDAL.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION ALL-AROUND CHAMPION.

The Games Will be Held on Friday Afternoon, October 1st, and Hot Contests will be Made by the Participants.

Athletics have again temporarily taken possession of most of the spare time of the boys at the Plainfield High School. Tuesday afternoon the members gathered together for the first time since the summer vacation and made plans for the fall season.

The regular routine of duties at the High School are now in full sway, so the annual meeting of the athletic association was called for yesterday afternoon. The retiring president, Geo. Proctor Smith, was present, and presided over the meeting. The most important part of the meeting was the election of officers, who hold office for the year.

The election resulted as follows: President, Carroll L. Bunyon; first vice-president and manager of general athletics, Lindley M. Hillman; second vice-president and manager of the baseball team, Arthur Lederer; third vice-president and manager of the football team, Albert Finch; fourth vice-president and manager of the hockey team, Henry W. Brower; secretary, Elwood Davis; treasurer, Wm. A. DeLong, Jr. Harry Cuming was elected captain of the bicycle squad.

It has been the custom of the association to hold a closed meet in the fall at which the championship of the school shall be decided. All the events are handicapped and everybody is given a chance to show what they can do. The members were unanimously in favor of continuing the practice and it was decided to hold a meet during the fall.

A representative of The Daily Press was present and offered the Daily Press medal to the association for the all-round championship to be decided at the field day. The Daily Press medal has been offered for the last three years and has been a great stimulus to the young athletes. The association accepted the invitation and extended a vote of thanks to The Daily Press.

Arrangements were then made for the games. It was decided to hold the games on the afternoon of Friday, October 1st, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The following events were selected: 100 yards dash, 220 yards dash, 440 yards run, putting the shot, throwing the hammer, throwing the discus, running high jump, running broad jump, three legged race, one mile bicycle race and one-third mile walk. The games will be held at the Crescent Oval. There was considerable discussion as to whether the pole vault should be included in the list of events, but it was decided that it should be left out, as it was not an event in which most of the students could compete.

The arrangements of the field day were left in the hands of a committee composed of William A. DeLong, Jr., chairman; Henry W. Brower and Lindley M. Hillman. The handicappers chosen were: Thomas A. Cuming, George Proctor Smith and Charles Burdette Morse.

A decided change was made regarding the admission of visitors. A limited number of complimentary tickets will be issued by the committee and distributed among the members of the association to be given by them to their family and friends. The rest of the spectators will be charged 25 cents each at the gate. The money will be used to cover the expenses of the meet.

The games are open only to students in the Plainfield High School. Entries will close with William A. DeLong, Jr., on Tuesday, September 28th, at 1 p. m.

Vestibules for Trolley Cars.

The vestibules for the Plainfield street cars are now being made at Robert & Hubbard's mill. It is hoped to have them completed before real cold weather sets in. The improvement will be a great benefit to the motormen who heretofore have been obliged to withstand the cold blasts of winter unprotected.

Inspecting Roads.

State Commissioner of Roads Budd was in Middlesex county Tuesday inspecting some of the roads of that county. In company with the members of the road committee of the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders he inspected several roads in the vicinity of New Brunswick, and was well pleased with them.

City Election December 7th.

The city election will be held on Tuesday, December 7th. At that time seven new councilmen will be elected. Mayor Fisk will have another year to serve, this being his second year in office.

BABY CRIED FOR AN APPLE.

Neighbor Thought It Was Being Abused and a Policeman Was Summoned.

A dear little innocent baby nearly caused a pitched battle between several residents of West Third street, Tuesday. Patrolman Flanagan had to take a hand, trot the baby around and order the excited ones to their homes. Then came the customary complaints and arrests.

The case came before City Judge DeMeza for trial Wednesday. Mrs. Anna Robinson, colored, was the prisoner. Her tongue wagged at both ends, and so did that of the complainant, Mrs. Peter McDonough, who lives next door.

The cause of all the trouble was a little white baby that was brought by its nurse to Mrs. Robinson's house on West Third street. The baby wanted an apple and Mrs. Robinson thought it might give the child colic and therefore took it away. The baby screamed and cried until Mrs. McDonough was assured that it was receiving harsh treatment and protested. A bombardment of phrases was begun and only quelled when Patrolman Flanagan arrived at the request of Mrs. McDonough.

After the officer had decided that there was nothing the matter with the baby, he departed, telling the arguers to go home. The quarrel was continued later, however, and names were called. Mrs. McDonough threw a dish of dirty water on her neighbor and all was excitement.

After hearing the contradictory testimony, the Judge reserved his decison for two weeks from Saturday morning and will look into the matter closely.

THESE WOMEN WANT TO VOTE.

An Address Sent Out by the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs, in which many Plainfield women are active, is actively at work for the proposed amendments to be voted on next Tuesday. At a meeting in Englewood Tuesday an appeal to the separate women's clubs was drafted, to be sent out. Referring to the female suffrage amendment the address says:

"The amendment restoring to women the right to vote for school trustees is of vital importance to the welfare of our children. It is warmly indorsed by our highest school author ities, as well as by a great number of our best and most prominent citizens. The delegates present at the Englewood meeting of the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs voted in its favor without a dissenting voice. We ask you, in the name of the little children, in the name of our sons and daughters, to bestir yourselves and to prevent this great evil and disgrace—the defeat of those amendments—from coming upon us."

JUSTICE NASH OPPOSED.

Says That He Does Not Favor the Constitutional Amendments.

It was rumored that the Republican county committee was to issue a call regarding the new amendments to the State Constitution, but there has been no meeting so far. The local workers still are on the move. In Elizabeth, however, great apathy is shown by the Republican politicians and others as well.

There is a movement against the amendments in this city, and although it has taken no organized form, there are several who are working against it on the quiet. Justice Nash, one of the well known Second ward Republicans, has expressed himself as being against all the amendments.

AT THE REQUIRED HEIGHT.

Trinity Reformed Church Successfully Elevated Five and a Half Feet.

Henry & Johns, the building movers, succeeded Wednesday in raising the edifice of Trinity Reformed church to the required elevation of five and a half feet above its old foundation. Their work has been done in such a manner as to give ample evidence of their ability in this line. There are forty-five jack screws under the structure, which is 61x92 feet. The building was not damaged in the least. Seaman Williams & Co. will now put on an extra force of bricklayers in order to get the building on its permanent foundation as soon as possible.

Laying Dust With Oil.

The roadbed of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the vicinity of New Brunswick was treated to a coating of oil Tuesday in accordance with the new method recently adopted by that company to lay the dust along its line. It is expected that one treatment will last for at least four months. The cost of oiling the tracks in this manner is understood to be about thirty dollars a mile.

UNDER A FLORAL ARCH.

MARRIAGE OF MISS LAURA VAN NEST TO WILLIAM S. SMITH, JR.

Ceremony Performed at the Home of the Bride's Parents, Rev. J. O. McKelvey Officiating—Guests Who Witnessed Union Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Van Nest, of Woodland avenue, took place the marriage of their daughter, Miss Laura Van Nest, and William C. Smith, Jr., son of former Councilman William C. Smith, of Grandview avenue. These two popular young people were united in marriage by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, in the presence of the relatives and near friends of the contracting parties.

The parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was artistically decorated with flowers, while a beautiful arch of flowers was arranged in one part of the room where the interested parties and officiating clergyman stood.

The bride was gowned in blue cloth trimmed with white satin and chiffon, and in her hand was a beautiful bouquet of white roses. The bridemaid, Miss Ella VanNest, sister of the bride, wore a gown of green cloth trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The flower girls, Alice Sharkey and Mary Smith, were prettily gowned in white, and both carried baskets of flowers. The best man was Arthur Smith, brother of the groom.

As the bridal party entered the parlor the Mendelssohn wedding march was rendered by Miss Jennie Smith, sister of the groom. Congratulations were showered on the happy couple after the ceremony which was followed by a reception and a wedding supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were the recipients of many useful and costly presents as tokens of esteem and high regard. They have taken up their residence on Fairview avenue in a house owned by Mr. Smith and which is already furnished.

Those who were present at the festive occasion included William C. Smith, Sr., and family, Gilbert H. VanNest and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Sharkey, Mr. and Mrs. S. Sharkey, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sharkey, Mrs. Bird, the Misses Bird, Mrs. Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gaskill, Mrs. William VanSyckel, Miss Randolph, Mrs. VanHorn, Miss VanHorn, Mrs. L. B. Mulford, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Smalley, Mr. and Mrs. Boss, Mrs. Summers, Miss Summers, of Plainfield and North Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. George Prall, of Somerville; Mrs. Fred Blazier, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sutton, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Mary Waltts, of Keyport.

NOTED SPEAKERS TO BE THERE.

Arrangements for State Endeavor Convention Are Being Perfected.

The final meeting of the programme committee of the Eleventh State C. E. convention, to be held at Paterson, October 6th to 8th, was held last week. Among the prominent speakers, from outside of the State, will be the following: Rev. F. E. Clark, D. D., Boston; Rev. Maltbie D. Babcock, D. D., Baltimore; Rev. Wayland Hoyt, D. D., Philadelphia; Rev. W. J. Hawsha, D. D., New York; Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., Philadelphia, and Rev. W. G. Puddefoot, South Framingham, Mass.

The entertainment of the delegates will be almost wholly in private families. It is necessary that the entertainment committee, Mrs. Louis Fox, 665 East Twenty-third street, chairman, should be notified as soon as possible.

New Jersey has about 1,075 societies, including Young People's and Juniors, with a total membership of 57,500.

PLEASANTLY SURPRISED.

Thirty of Miss Mowinkle's Friends Paid Her an Unexpected Call.

Miss May Mowinkle was given a pleasant surprise party by about thirty of her young friends at her home, 312 East Third street, Tuesday evening.

The conspirators assembled at the residence of Mrs. Ira Bikes, 139 Central avenue, and then proceeded to the home of Miss Mowinkle, who was completely surprised. She recovered her faculties after a few minutes, however, and proved a charming hostess. The evening was passed in playing games of various sorts and dancing, and at a late hour refreshments, consisting of cake, lemonade, cocoa and fruit, were served. Miss Mowinkle received a number of beautiful remembrances of the anniversary from her guests.

Misses Edith and Nellie Wallace, of Sixth avenue, New York, will attend the Arion ball to be given in the Cycle Academy next month.

Mrs. Clarence Smock, of Red Bank, is visiting Plainfield relatives.

THE HOBO HISTORIAN.

WARD M'ALLISTER HAMILTON IS THE AUTHOR OF "TRAMPDOM."

History of the Wanderings of an Up-to-Date Hobo Who Used His Spare Time to Record Important Points of Tramp Life.

The Plainfield authorities did not appreciate the fact, Tuesday, that they were entertaining an author at the city jail. If they did, perhaps, he might have had a chance to spread his manuscripts before their wondering eyes. The police did not appreciate the versatile achievements of Ward MacAllister Hamilton. They thought that if he was a "hobo" it was not possible for him to delve in the literary line.

When Ward MacAllister Hamilton was arrested Monday night in the icehouse of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, he was taken to the station house, and before he was consigned to his cell, he was ordered to empty his pockets. He turned out great packages of manilla paper and several dozen stubs of pencils. When Sergeant Kiely started to look over them, the prisoner became angry, indeed, and demanded that his personal property be left alone.

Tuesday afternoon Hamilton was taken to Elizabeth in the custody of Chief Grant to serve his sentence of sixty days in the county jail. Hamilton had his papers stowed in every pocket and he missed one train for the reason that he could not carry it all at first and had to find new hiding places.

When Warden Blore searched the prisoner before turning him over to the bath, he found a large package tied to the hobo's leg.

"What's that?" demanded the warden.

"Only some paper," said the prisoner, and he slowly removed it. The package proved to be a thick roll of manilla paper of the same kind that filled his pockets. These sheets were covered, however, with fine writing.

Several sheets of paper contained an essay entitled "Why I'm a tramp." In them, the writer plainly stated what his reasons were for continuing to remain in the army of "hoboes."

There were nearly a hundred sheets covered with fine writing and they composed Hamilton's masterpiece, "Trampdom." It was a history of the wanderings of this up-to-date hobo and included a number of chapters on the code of life of tramps, system of signaling and signs for gate posts and the like. The story was well told and made very interesting reading. Sheriff Kirk was in the office at the time and he joined Warden Blore, Chief Grant and several reporters in looking over the pages of the wonderful composition. It all showed Hamilton to be a well educated man after all.

As he was being searched, Hamilton said in reply to a question of one of the reporters, that he was going to be an author when he was free once more and that some day he would be a famous one.

Hamilton is a colored man, five feet seven and a half inches in height, with an intelligent face. He wrote in his treatise on his reasons for being a tramp that he loved the life and would not give it up.

FAVORS WOMAN'S VOTE.

School Superintendent Maxson Wants to See Women Recognized.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall received the following letter from H. M. Maxson, the superintendent of the city schools, in lieu of his presence in person at the meeting held Monday night at Mr. Wells' house on Washington avenue:

Mrs. Hall, Dear Madam:—If I am not present this evening, it is not because I do not sympathize with the cause, but for the reason that I cannot be in two places at the same time.

I shall vote for the school amendment and urge my friends to do so, as occasion offers. I only wish that its passage would confer the power of voting for school officers upon the women in the cities of the State, as well, for I consider the mothers to be interested and watchful for the welfare of their children above all other citizens.

If I am not there at 8:30 please accept my regrets that I am detained elsewhere.

Sincerely yours,
H. M. Maxson.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 16th, 1897.

Practicing New Hymns.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will meet in the Sunday-school room of that church this evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of practicing the hymns in the books recently purchased and for general sociability. Refreshments will be served by the social committee. The members of the church and congregation are cordially invited.

Praying for Amendment.

A meeting for prayer that the amendment to the Constitution to prohibit race-track gambling may be passed will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building every night this week at 9 o'clock.

TO WED DESPITE THE LAW.

Nuptial Event Arranged for Westfield Will Take Place in Brooklyn.

Miss Eva Kelley, daughter of Frank P. Kelley, of Westfield, was married to Charles D. Kells, at the latter's home in Brooklyn, yesterday. The marriage was to have taken place at the bride's home in Westfield, and invitations were sent out and all arrangements were made in accordance with that plan.

A few days ago Rev. William H. Ruth, of the Westfield Methodist church, who was to perform the ceremony, looked up the new marriage law, and found to his consternation that as one of the parties to the marriage lived out of the State, the license must be served five days in advance of the ceremony.

Mr. Kells, on being informed of this fact by the pastor, made a trip to Elizabeth and interviewed County Clerk Howard to learn weather the marriage could not be performed on the day set. He was told that there was no way in which the five days rule could be evaded, and rather than postpone the marriage, the couple decided to be married in Brooklyn.

APPRENTICES TALKED TO.

Young Artisans Impressed With Educational Ideas at the Y. M. C. A.

The reception given to the apprentices of this city at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday, was largely attended. The guests met in the small hall on the second floor of the building and were addressed by George E. Schull, Jr., A. Clemens and Stephen Cahoone, on "The Educational Needs of Plainfield and how the Y. M. C. A. will try to meet them this winter."

After the addresses, which were listened to with much interest, the audience adjourned to the large auditorium, down stairs, where a musical and literary entertainment was given. Fred VanEps gave two banjo solos, accompanied by Prof. W. E. MacClymont, on the piano. Both numbers were heartily encored. Frank O. Bristol gave a number of humorous recitations amusing the audience exceedingly. After the musical and literary programme, refreshments were served, and a social hour followed.

I. W. Travell also delivered an address to the apprentices. The ladies in charge of the refreshments were Mrs. J. W. Gavett, Mrs. Roger F. Murray and Mrs. S. R. Struthers.

ALL DEALERS ASKED TO JOIN.

Merchants' Association Make Vigorous Efforts for New Members.

Yesterday there was sent to merchants in this city an application blank for the Plainfield Merchants' Association. The present members of that association are now planning for an active campaign. They claim that the Board of Trade did not accomplish its purpose, but that a Merchants' Association would be of great benefit to all the local merchants and their customers. There are many matters in which the merchants could take united action and push their individual business as much as ever.

The application blanks are being sent to all the merchants who have not already joined, and it is expected that almost all will be united in the ranks of the association.

COMMANDER SAND'S SUCCESSOR.

Will Probably be Samuel G. Hayter, of Bloomfield, Who is Now Acting.

By the death of Immanuel Sands, department commander of the Grand Army of New Jersey, Senior Vice-Department Commander Samuel G. Hayter, of Bloomfield, is now acting department commander, and in all probability the position will be made permanent at the next meeting of the council of administration, to be held next month.

Mr. Hayter is well known in Grand Army circles, and is a past commander of William S. Pierson Post, G. A. R., of Bloomfield. He is now one of the letter carriers in Bloomfield.

Very Penitent Next Morning.

John L. Sullivan, no relation, however, of the famous John L., was arrested Thursday afternoon on Madison avenue for being dead drunk. Patrolman McCue locked him up until he recovered from the effects of his spree. Next morning Sullivan was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza and was very penitent. His previous good conduct saved him and the Judge suspended sentence.

To Study in Boston.

John W. Beekman, who has been filling the position of assistant secretary at the Y. M. C. A., will leave on Saturday to take up his studies at the Boston Polytechnic Institute. His place at the Y. M. C. A. will be filled by Robert W. Davis, of East Fifth street.

PAST MASTERS WORKED.

MASTER MASON DEGREE CONFERRED IN AN IMPRESSIVE MANNER.

Jerusalem Lodge Entertained Representatives From Sister Societies in Many Sections — Sociability After Business.

An unusually interesting communication was held Tuesday evening by Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M. The spacious hall was crowded by the members and their visitors, who had been attracted on this occasion to witness the impressive ceremonies of the Master Mason Degree, conferred by the Past Masters of this lodge by special invitation from Worshipful Master Stephen Beeching.

The Lodges represented were: Anchor Lodge, No. 149, of Plainfield; Orient Lodge, No. 289, of Philadelphia; Atlas Lodge, No. 125, of Westfield; Eastern Star Lodge, No. 103, of Bound Brook; Lafayette Lodge, of Dalton, Mass.; Hiram Lodge, of Washington, D. C.; Star of Hope Lodge, of Brooklyn; Delaware Lodge, No. 52, of Phillipsburg; Northampton Lodge, No. 234, of Virginia; Corinth Lodge, No. 100, of South Orange; Anthem Lodge, No. 769, of Brooklyn; Burlington Lodge, No. 32, of Burlington; Millbury Lodge, of Millbury, Conn.; and Union and Crown Lodge, No. 103, of Glasgow, Scotland.

The work was rendered in an excellent manner, which proved that the old-timers have not yet forgotten how to do masonic work. The musical part of the ceremonies, rendered by W. H. McClymont and Elmer Runyon, of Anchor, No. 149, were impressive and sublime. At the close of the ceremonies a collation was served in the banquet hall by the stewards of the lodge, who exhibited great ability and activity in the capacity of caterers by serving so large an assembly in so short a time with the numerous courses. They certainly deserve credit. After satisfying the inner man and the customary after dinner cigar was lighted, witty remarks and humorous stories were indulged in, and a pleasant hour spent generally.

GUARDING AGAINST WRECKERS.

Pennsylvania Railroad Company's New Plan of Policing Its Tracks.

The tramp problem has become a serious one for the Pennsylvania Railroad. The company fears that the hoboes, emboldened by their success in holding up wayfarers, will turn their hand to train wrecking. Steps have been taken to forestall any such action, and the company is arranging for a special patrol system to thoroughly police its lines, especially at night.

A checking system will be employed, the trackwalkers being used as the patrols. Each trackwalker will be supplied with a bundle of checks. He will be given a district to police touching at each end of the district of another patrol. The beats are so arranged that he will, on arriving at the end of his beat, encounter the patrolman on his next beat. They will exchange checks, each check being indorsed with the time of the meeting and any other information of importance. These checks are then to be carried to the signal tower at the opposite end of the beat. These checks, after being filed, are at once wired into the Jersey City office. In this manner the main office at Jersey City is in constant connection with every part of the line. Any attempt directed at the safety of passengers or freight is certain of discovery, and on its discovery immediate steps can be taken to capture and punish those guilty of it.

Thanked For His Services.

In connection with the funeral services of the late Emanuel Sands, department commander of the G. A. R., which were held in Jersey City Monday, the following letter was received Tuesday by W. C. Smith, Sr., of Grandview avenue:

Dear Comrade—I desire to personally thank you for the labor which you performed so successfully in arranging all the details for the interments of our G. A. R. column yesterday. It was a remarkable tribute of respect to our departed commander.

Yours in F. C. and L.,
S. G. Hayter,
Senior Vice Commander.

Plans of Veterans to Hold a Fair.

It was decided at the meeting of the Sons of Veterans Tuesday evening to conduct a fair at an early date, which will probably be before Thanksgiving. The committee appointed to arrange for the fair consists of G. H. Bedford, Edgar E. T. Smith, Raymond Mosher, H. S. Thatcher, John Naylor, Chas. Graves, Fred Sutton and Frank Clarkson. The committee will meet next Monday evening for the purpose of perfecting plans for the fair.

City Park is Beginning to Assume the look of a real park at last. Nice winding paths are staked out and some of them have already been graded. By next year Plainfield will have a park which it need not be ashamed of.

THE G. E.'S AT PATERSON

PROGRAMME ARRANGED FOR THE STATE CONVENTION.

Plainfielders Will Take an Active and Prominent Part in the Services—Many Noted Speakers Will be Present Then.

The eleventh annual convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, which will be held at Paterson, October 6th, 7th and 8th, promises to be even more largely attended than any of the preceding annual meetings. The reception committee has received application for accommodations for delegations from each of the local unions, and few societies in the State will be unrepresented. The session will be held in the Young Men's Christian Association hall, the First Baptist and Market Street Methodist churches.

The convention committee has just completed the following programme for the three days' session:

Y. M. C. A. Building, Wednesday—Christian citizenship report, Rev. W. E. Davis, Lebanon, N. J.; Christian citizenship address, Merrill E. Gates, LL.D., president Amherst College; address on Sabbath observance, D. J. Burrell, D. D., New York city, a trustee of the United Endeavor Society; welcomes, Rev. F. E. Miller, D. D.; Rev. E. W. Thompson, of Paterson; convention sermon, Rev. Maltby D. Babcock, D. D., Baltimore; appointment of committees.

First Baptist church, Wednesday evening—Welcome, Rev. J. W. Brougher, Paterson; convention sermon, Rev. Wayland Hoyt, D. D., Philadelphia, a trustee of the United Endeavor Society; appointment of committees. Thursday a. m.—Committee conferences; denominational rallies. Thursday afternoon—Junior rally, blackboard exercise, Miss Struble, Trenton; exercise by the children; J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., at First Baptist church.

Y. M. C. A. Building, Thursday night—President's annual address. Rev. Dr. J. Clement French, Newark; Bible study, Rev. Hugh B. MacCauley, Freehold; reception by the State officers.

First Baptist church, Thursday night—Bible study, by Rev. Dr. W. J. Harsha, of New York; president's annual address, Rev. Dr. J. Clement French; reception by State officers at Y. M. C. A.

Market Street Methodist church, Thursday night—Annual address by Rev. Dr. C. E. Brett, first vice-president State Christian Endeavor Union; address by Rev. Dr. J. W. Chapman; reception by State officers at Y. M. C. A.

Y. M. C. A. Building, Friday a. m.—Reports of press department, Rev. G. H. Ingham, Trenton; correspondence report, W. R. Ward, M. D., Lyons Farms; missionary report, Miss A. B. Spangenberg, Plainfield; foreign missionary address, Rev. Dr. F. J. Stanley, Atlantic City.

First Baptist church, Friday a. m.—Junior report, Rev. A. W. Spooner, D. D., Camden; home missionary address, Rev. Dr. W. G. Puddefoot, New York city; address, Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman.

Y. M. C. A. Building, Friday afternoon—Evangelistic report, Rev. F. B. Everitt, Trenton; address, Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman.

First Baptist church, Friday afternoon—Address, Rev. Luther R. Dyott, of Newark; evangelistic report, Rev. F. B. Everitt, Trenton.

Y. M. C. A. Building, Friday night—Address, Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, Boston, president of World Union of Christian Endeavor; consecration service, led by Dr. Clark.

First Baptist church, Friday night—Address by Mrs. Ballington Booth, Montclair; consecration service, led by Mrs. Booth.

Market Street Methodist church, Friday night—Address by Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman; consecration service, led by Dr. Chapman.

The usual denominational rallies will be held on Thursday morning as follows: Presbyterian, Rev. Sylvester Beach, Bridgeton; Baptist, Rev. Frank Smith, Somerville; Congregational, Rev. Charles A. Savage, Orange; Reformed, Rev. P. T. Peckman, New Brunswick; Methodist Protestant, Rev. J. W. Trout, Elizabeth; Methodist Episcopal, Rev. F. K. Bloom, Jersey City; Seventh-Day Baptist, Rev. Dr. A. E. Main, Plainfield; Church of Christ, Rev. Wm. Hainer, Irvington; Lutheran, Rev. Carton Bannister, Ramsey; African Methodist, Rev. J. W. Roundtree, Trenton.

A new feature will be the committee conferences to be conducted by the following Endeavorers: Evangelistic, Rev. F. B. Everitt, Trenton; junior, Rev. Dr. A. W. Spooner, Camden; district secretaries, Miss Ida B. Stephens, Hackettstown; lookout, Rev. W. D. Stultz, Bridgeton; prayer meeting, M. P. Stevens, East Orange; social, flower and calling, Miss Lottie Taylor, Newark; missionary, Rev. Dr. Walter Brooks, Trenton; society presidents, Mrs. P. J. Colter, Montclair; union officers, F. L. Connett, Bloomfield; good literature, Rev. F. J. Goodwin, Glen Ridge; Bible study, Rev. Hugh B. MacCauley, Freehold.

The music committee will provide special music at each session and a large chorus choir will lead the singing.

DESPERATE TRAMP'S ACT

STABBED A WOMEN WHO REFUSED TO GIVE HIM MONEY.

The Outrage Committed on Mrs. A. Moebius in New Market Just at Dusk Friday Night—He made His Escape.

Scarcely a day has passed during the past month but what an outrage has been perpetrated in some part of Middlesex county by a tramp, and Friday night the quiethamlet of New Market was the fated point of operation of one of these worthless characters.

Just about 6 o'clock a coal train passed through the town on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and a few minutes after a hard looking character, togged out in rags and tags, with a scrubby growth of beard on his face, a husky voice, and, in fact, all the attributive appearances of a typical tramp, came ambling towards the little depot that serves the patrons of the railroad in that section. The fellow lurked about the depot platform for sometime in a listless manner, casting furtive glances around about every few seconds as if fearful of the appearance of an officer of the law.

Not far from the depot and fronting the railroad tracks sets a modest little house, occupied by A. Moebius, the village barber, and wife. It was halfpast six o'clock and Mrs. Moebius was busily engaged in preparing the evening meal for her husband when she heard a vigorous knock at the back door.

As Mrs. Moebius opened the door a burly-looking man stepped forward and planted his form in the aperture. In a flash it that was fast fading into darkness Mrs. Moebius discerned the features of a man whose very sight brought terrorizing fears that his purpose of calling was no good one. The stranger did not stammer or hem in making his purpose evident, but in a threatening tone of voice made his demands.

"Say, mum, I'd like to have some money from you. I'm dead broke and I know you kin help me," said the tramp.

"I haven't got any money to spare for you," said Mrs. Moebius in a tremulous voice.

"Well, I can't help what you ain't got to spare. I wan't some money, d'ye hear?" responded the stranger, and Mrs. Moebius noticed that he moved his fingers as though he was clasping something in their grasp.

"I tell you, sir, I haven't got any money for you, and I order you to leave this property," replied Mrs. Moebius, summing all her courage and putting on a bold front.

"You won't give me any money, eh? Well, then, I'll show you you'd better," exclaimed the tramp in a menacing tone.

He had hardly got the words out of his mouth when he made a lunge forward and Mrs. Moebius saw the flash of a blade in a big jack knife. The fellow raised his arm and brought it down with force over the breast of Mrs. Moebius. The razor-like blade cut through the dress of Mrs. Moebius, but was prevented from entering the flesh by the point striking on a corset steel.

Mrs. Moebius gave a piereing scream and staggered backward. The tramp quickly closed the knife blade and with an oath ran hastily down the road. Miss Moebius then hastened to the barber shop of her husband on the other side of the pond and hysterically told of the brutal attack she had been subjected to. She was so confused that she could scarcely talk intelligible, and a minute after her arrival at the barber shop she fell in a faint. There was only one or two in the shop at the time, and with the attention that she demanded and the faint description she had given of the man and his actions there was no attempt made to follow the desperado.

After several minutes it was found that Mrs. Moebius did not revive and Dr. Witford was sent for. He treated her, but it was 10 o'clock before she fully regained her senses and then her nerves were almost shattered. She spent a very uncomfortable night, but Saturday appeared to be all right.

There is no clew to the identity of the man that committed the outrage.

GEESE FOR PRIZES.

Local Wing Shots Had a Fine Time at Percy Ohl's Farm.

About thirty prominent sportsmen and their friends enjoyed Thursday afternoon at Percy C. Ohl's farm. There was, with the other amusements, a shooting match at live birds, two geese being the prizes. Charles Smith carried off the honor of the day by killing seven straight. Chas. Lister with one miss got the other goose. Quite a number of the contestants got five. The birds were an extra strong and good lot, which, with the wind blowing hard, made the marksmanship worthy of favorable comment.

The refreshments and edibles were very much enjoyed. The entertainment was given under the auspices of Henry Haurand.

Amusements of various kinds were continually in order. The performance of Capt. T. Keller and his Dutch soldier in the drill and manual of arms was particularly funny and heartily applauded.

NUPTIAL EVENTS COME WITH AUTUMN'S TIME.

At Hymen's Altar the Chain of Cupid's Love is Welded in Life Union.

Two Marriages, the First of the Fall Season, Interest Society Circles—Whiton-Newton Nuptials Consummated Amid Fine Floral Decorations and Select Company—Miss Udelle, the Violinist, Becomes the Wife of Clarence Smith, of Newark.

One of the prettiest weddings of the year was that of Miss Adeline Pritchard Newton and John Milton Whiton, both of this city, which took place September 15 at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George H. Goddard, 905 East Ninth street. Miss Newton has been for several years one of the principals of the Scribner-Newton School on La-Grande avenue, and has a wide circle of friends in this city; Mr. Whiton is one of New York's prominent insurance men.

Mrs. Goddard's beautiful home was charmingly arranged for the occasion. The ceremony took place in the large hall in the centre of the house, where it could be viewed by the guests in the surrounding rooms. The large staircase was a mass of blooming clematis vines, with great bunches of hydrangeas, tied with ribbons, on each handling. About the spot where the bridal party were to stand, the vines were festooned into a sort of bower, from the top of which hung a marriage bell of white marguerites, with a clapper of golden rod. The drawing room was decorated with pink roses, the library with red flowers, and the dining room with golden rod.

As the wedding was to be a very quiet one, only a few guests were present, including the relatives and intimate friends of both parties, and the teachers and a few of the older pupils from the Scribner Newton School.

The ceremony took place at half-past seven. The bridal party came down the broad staircase together, the two ushers, Newton and Frederick Goddard, nephews of the bride, leading, followed by the maid of honor, Miss Harriet Goddard, a niece of the bride, in a gown of white mull with pale yellow ribbons. Next came the bride and groom, together, Miss Newton wearing a very handsome gown of white moire, trimmed with white lace and silver embroidery, and decorated with orange blossoms. The Episcopal marriage service was read by Rev. Mr. Newton, of Colorado, an Episcopal clergyman and a brother of the bride. Miss Newton was given away by her mother.

After the ceremony, relatives and friends crowded around to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Whiton, after which a delightful little supper was served from an improvised supper room on the broad piazza.

After the supper, an informal dance was begun by the younger guests, in the midst of which Mr. and Mrs. Whiton took their departure. Dancing and social intercourse continued until late in the evening, and the wedding was pronounced by all one of the prettiest and most cosy and homelike ever witnessed in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiton received a large number of very handsome gifts, which were shown to the guests in one of the upper rooms. The display of cut-glass was specially attractive, one table being devoted to that alone; the beautiful gifts were shown to the best advantage by the warm light of a banquet lamp in the centre of the table, and by the soft glow of color from a great bowl of roses placed among them. There were also handsome gifts of silver, pictures, books, embroidery, and many other things.

The music was furnished by P. Ludwig Conde. The Lohengrin Wedding March was played during the entrance of the bridal party, and the Mendelssohn Wedding March at the close of the ceremony.

With the waning harvest moon peeping in at the window, a charming home wedding was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Lewis, of 925 Watchung avenue, September 15 when their sister, Miss Nelly Sperry Udelle, was united in marriage to Clarence W. Smith, of Newark. Miss Udelle is a charming young woman, favorably known in musical circles as a talented violinist. Her husband holds a responsible position at the Tradesmen's National Bank in New York.

The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock in the parlor, beneath a festoon of streamers made of oak leaves. The room was artistically decorated with oak leaves and pink and white asters. The Rev. Robert Tupper, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, of Philadelphia, the old pastor of the bride, officiated. The bride was given away by Mr. Lewis. The wedding march was played by Frank J. Smith.

The bride was gowned in white brocaded satin, trimmed with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white bride roses. She was accompanied by her bridemaid, Miss Carrye Moore, of Brooklyn. Miss Moore's gown was of cream brocaded silk. She carried pink roses.

The best man was Howard S. Smith, of Newark, brother of the groom. Nearly a hundred relatives and friends of the couple were present from Plainfield, New York, Brooklyn, Newark, Philadelphia, and Cleveland, O. The wedding supper was afterwards served and the newly-married couple drove away for the station amid a generous shower of rice and old shoes. They left on a two weeks' wedding trip. On their return they will reside at 905 Watchung avenue, where Mrs. Smith will establish her musical studio.

The wedding gifts were many and included many useful and valuable articles.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home to their friends on Wednesday, Oct. 6th, at 925 Watchung avenue.

Among the guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Lyle, Miss Myra Lyle, Mrs. J. S. Vinson, Miss Linda DeMott, Mr. and Mrs. J. Coventry Smith, Miss Miriam Smith, Miss Ada Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Jerolemon, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lewis, Miss Mabel Hopler, Mrs. Eva Chandler, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Bert Mandeville, Mr. and Mrs. Will Osmun, Miss Tillie George, Miss Amy Bolton, Mrs. Fanny Harrison, Fred Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. Ross, Miss Edith Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fulcher, Arthur Woodford, all of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Moon, of Brooklyn; Miss Sarah A. Palmer, of Cleveland, O.; Alfred B. Edes and Frank J. Smith, of New York; Charles Beling, James R. Wright and Will Burggs, fellow employes at the bank in New York; and Mrs. Robert Dryden, Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Pierson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnson, Harry Johnson, Herbert Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Middleditch, Charles King, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Runyon, Miss Annie Wyckoff, Miss May D. Thompson, Miss Elizabeth Fish, Fred K. Fish, Jr., Lambert H. Fish, Mrs. J. W. Richardson, E. Herbert Bohnell, William Samuel Loizeaux, Paul Loizeaux, Miss Hazen, Miss Grace Hazen and Mrs. Willard, all of Plainfield.

GAVE A DANCE TO HELP TREASURY.

Though Conducted on Business Principals Plenty of Pleasure Abounded.

The annual dance under the auspices of the German Beneficial Society was held last Thursday in Saenger and Turner Hall. The attendance was large. Every year this society takes this opportunity of raising funds for their treasury to help carry on their good work, and the way in which their many friends assist them by their presence is gratifying. Music was furnished by Frank Conde, who was also floor manager. The officers of the society served as a committee, and consisted of President, Max Menzenbach; secretary, Paul Postler; treasurer, Antione Stenzenberger, Oswalt Schwensky, F. Gombeitz and Fred Conde. The latter was in charge of the refreshments. The affair was one of the best ever held by the society and a goodly sum will be realized therefrom.

THE BOYS ORGANIZE.

Idea is to Give Practice in How to Conduct a Meeting.

The members of the Boys' Club organized into a club last Friday, with John Cline, president, Joseph Galbraith, vice-president, and Clarence Walden, secretary. The president appointed Wilbert Bentlif, Nelson Peterson and John Honan as a committee on improvements, and Wm. Reynolds, Frank Sprague and R. Higgins as a committee on amusements. After the business a general discussion took place and many suggestions were given. The members were invited to submit to the committee on improvements suggestions for an emblem for the club. The club will hold its meetings Wednesday evenings at 8 o'clock. The idea of this club is to get the co-operation of the boys and to give them some practice in conducting meetings.

Death of Caroline Tice.

The death of Miss Caroline Tice, aged 72 years, occurred Thursday at the home of her nephew, Albert Crane, 138 Grove street. The deceased had been ill for a long time and her death was not wholly unexpected. The funeral was held last Sunday afternoon from the above address at 2:30

SAYS HIS NERVES WERE SHOCKED.

Trouble Between Robinson and a Former Mayor Finds Its Way to Court.

A suit for $2,000 damages was begun Thursday in the Union County Circuit Court by Peter P. Robinson, of this city, against former Mayor Lewis V. Randolph. Robinson sues because of the alleged cruel beating on July 26th of a horse owned by him. The plaintiff says he was sitting at the time in a wagon to which the horse was attached and that his nerves suffered a severe and painful shock by the action of Randolph. The horse was valued at $100.

WOMEN'S RIGHT TO VOTE.

MRS. HALL TALKS FOR SUCCESS OF CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

Since it is the Women Who Are to Have the Greatest Interest in the Schools They Should be Privileged to Select Trustees.

"Where children were chiefly taught at home, it might have been well to tell mothers to stay at home and take care of their children." But now that they nearly all go to school, the mother's care should surely follow them." These words, written by a progressive woman physician, are warmly seconded by many New Jersey men and women, who are anxious for the passage of the proposed amendment to the State Constitution, giving full school suffrage to the women of the State. This amendment, which will be voted upon September 28th, is as follows:

"Every female citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of the State one year and of the county of which she claims her vote five months next before said meeting, shall be entitled to vote at any school meeting, held in any school district of the State in which she may reside, for members of boards of education and all other school officers that now are or hereafter may be elected at such meetings."

The women of Plainfield, being desirous of helping along the passage of the amendment, a meeting was called for 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, in the club room of the Y. M. C. A. building, at which meeting, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., all women interested should be addressed on the subject by Mrs. Florence Howe Hall.

Mrs. Carman Parse, president of the W. C. T. U., presided, and opened the meeting by a short Scripture reading, after which prayer was offered by Miss Clementine Yates. Mrs. Parse then introduced Mrs. Hall, who spoke in a very practical and interesting way.

She said, in beginning her talk, that all present would readily agree with her in the statement that the majority both of the educators and the educated in our public schools are women. Among the teachers, the women far outnumber the men, and statistics show that about three girls to one boy are graduated from our institutions of learning. Therefore, it should follow naturally that women should have a voice in school management, and besides, who is so fit to take charge of the affairs of the child's school life as the mother who has taught him his first lessons, and has had the care of his whole early training?

This amendment brings forward no new idea, and will give no new rights or privileges to women, but will simply restore to them the right to vote at school meetings for the election of members of boards of education. This right was granted to them by the Legislature of 1887, and was used by women in increasing numbers and with decided benefits to the schools until November, 1894, when the Supreme Court decided that it was contrary to the Constitution for women to vote for school trustees. The right of women to vote upon all other questions that come before school meetings, such as the voting of a tax, or authorizing the issuing of bonds, was wholly unaffected by the decision of the Supreme Court, and is still possessed by the women of our State. The women of Cranford and of South Orange, have by their efforts, secured appropriations for proper school accommodations for the children of their towns. It is also the law of New Jersey that women can hold the position of school trustee, and a number are doing so in various parts of the State at the present time, having been elected thereto by the votes of men. Many people who are opposed to women's suffrage as a whole, approve of school suffrage, having seen it successfully tried. Moorestown is one place where women have done much for the schools, and the Board of Education of that town numbers almost always at least one woman among its number.

Women at school meetings possess at the present time exactly the same rights as men, with the single exception that after voting a tax or bonding a district they are debarred from voting for the men who are to expend the money voted to be raised. These school meetings are not held in cities; we have none here. But the election on this amendment, which will take place on September 28th, will cover the whole State. It will not confer the vote on Plainfield, but on the rural districts, and therefore will help to settle the question for the whole State.

"The race-track amendment is to be voted upon at the same time as our own," said Mrs. Hall. "We are told that the gamblers are hard at work, though very quietly, to defeat the amendment, and every lover of righteousness needs to be up and doing, lest the race-track gang get possession of the State again. This amendment, however, is likely to be more in the minds of the people than our own. Let us use our influence to get our pastors to preach on this matter of school suffrage, and let us induce every voter we can to vote for the amendment. If we wake up on the Wednesday morning, and find that it has gone by default, we shall wish we had been more active in the matter. It is a duty we cannot afford to neglect. It is the children of our State who are concerned, and it is the duty of every mother in the State to do the best for the schools that are really the homes of the children during a greater part of their waking hours."

In closing, Mrs. Hall read a number of letters from distinguished men and women, giving the most hearty approval of the amendment, and urging strong efforts in its behalf. She also emphasized the fact that this amendment, if not passed now, cannot be even brought up again for five years.

LUNCHED, LISTENED, CHATTED

Edibles and Sociability Formed a Good Combination at This Event.

A lunch-box social occupied the attention of a large number of people who attended the First Church of Christ last Thursday. The affair was given for the benefit of the Sunday school and an encouraging amount was realized. In the form part of the evening a programme was presented consisting of an address by Superintendent Staats, recitation by Miss Woolley reading by Miss Mabel Wilkins; recitations by B. W. Hand and Etta Staats, and vocal solos by B. W. Hand and Henry Staats. B. W. Hand and Superintendent Staats had charge of selling the lunch boxes, and everyone brought a good price. A social part followed, when the lunch was partaken of.

CHANGE IN BICYCLE TRADE.

Thomas A. Cuming Succeeds W. L. Price as Manager of the Eldridge Bicycle Co.

A change is soon to be made in the management of one of the leading bicycle stores in this city when the complete charge of the store is to pass into the hands of a bustling young Plainfielder, who will conduct the establishment on radically different plans from those of the past year. Walter L. Price has resigned his position as manager of the Eldridge Bicycle Company to go in business for himself in Newark, and Thomas A. Cuming, of Putnam avenue, has accepted the position.

Mr. Cuming is well known in this city, where he has resided for six years. He graduated from the High School in 1893, and then took a year months' course in Coleman's Business College in Newark. He acted as bookkeeper and afterwards as stenographer for several New York firms, and then entered the employ of the Densmore Typewriter Company and finally became outside salesman. His contract with that company expired August 1st.

Mr. Cuming is one of the oldest and most experienced riders in the State, and has ridden a wheel for many years and has been everywhere in this part of the country that wheelmen go. He made quite a reputation for himself as a racer both on track and road where he won numerous races. He is an enthusiastic member of the L. A. W. and the Crescent Wheelmen.

It is Mr. Cuming's intention to run the business on a much broader scale than heretofore and introduce all the modern methods. The interests of his customers will be carefully studied and the most liberal inducements will be offered. The Eldridge Company is in its seventh year and has the largest capital of any retail cycle concern in the United States. Mr. Cuming will assume full charge on October 1st.

THE POSTMASTERSHIP.

City Clerk MacMurray and Fred MacDonald The Most Active Candidates.

Already the wires are beginning to tighten through the preliminary efforts of the candidates for the Plainfield postmastership. The term of office of Postmaster Hetfield does not expire until the first of next June, but there are already several—nay, many—who are anxious to secure that position when the next incumbent for that office is appointed. Of course, he will be a Republican who will get that valuable plum.

There are already a dozen candidates in the field, but the two who have been most prominently spoken up to the present day are City Clerk J. T. MacMurray and J. Fred MacDonald. The time for lively work has not come yet, but it is said that the city clerk is securing names on a petition asking that he may be appointed to the position. His chances are said to be good, and he is credited with having some of the leading Republicans in the city at his back.

It seems almost certain that Mr. MacDonald is another candidate and will make a strong effort for the place.

Another name, that of a prominent citizen of the Second ward who has played an important part in the recent National election, is mentioned, but there is no affirmation given to the rumor.

GLAD HAND GIVEN TO ALL

POLITICIANS' DAY AT THE SOMERSET COUNTY FAIR.

Farmers of Agriculturists Were There in Force in the Sights—Senator Reed on the Rostrum and Received Applause.

The politicians divided the honors with the pumpkins at the Somerset County Fair Thursday. Pretty near all the big and little fry of both parties were there to look wise and shake hands. It was a strange man, indeed, who passed within the gates of the fair and did not see some acquaintance. It seemed that the whole of Somerset county had given up work for the day and had congregated to take in the sights. Though there were several hundred people there who wore creased pants and attend pink teas, the crowd was distinctly an agricultural one. Boiled shirts and store clothes were donned by men whose calloused hands and sunburned visages showed plainly their pursuits on farm fields; calico gowns and Sunday bonnets set off the features of the rural belles. The Johnnies, Solons, Scales and Samanthas of the elders were there, too. They rode on the merry-go-round, heard the band play, caused their elders for five cents and drank red lemonade.

During one of the intervals between the heats of the horse races Senator Reed was introduced to the crowd and made a brief speech. It consisted of a few good-natured remarks and the Senator received vigorous applause from his agricultural constituents. Senator Daly, of Hudson county, about the biggest man in the Democratic party in the State just now, was also introduced to the crowd. He told of the greatness of the farmers and also was given the glad hand.

The racing events were all good. The 2:18 trotting and pacing purse, $80, was won by May Fair, owned by W. Fred Quimby, of Elizabeth, with Carrie W., owned by R. J. Jennings, of Newark, second. The time was 2:20¼, 2:20¼, 2:20¼ and 2:22.

The three minute trotting class, purse $300, was won by Barre, owned by Elwood Smith, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., in three straight heats. Ellideon, owned by Charles Gathers, of Newark, took second money. The time was 2:21¼, 2:22¼ and 2:21¼.

The 2:24 trotting and pacing purse, $300, was won by Albertiva, owned by William Block, of Newark, in three straight heats. Leota C., owned by Elwood Smith, took second money. The time was 2:25¼, 2:22¼ and 2:22¼.

UNLUCKY SPOT FOR WHEELS

Third Theft of a Bicycle Left in Front of the City National Bank.

Harry S. Potter has no more faith in the saying that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. Potter lives in Mt. Pleasant and has, until Thursday, owned a Pierce wheel on which he rode frequently to Plainfield. Thursday morning he came to Plainfield and left his wheel in front of the City National Bank building, while he went inside to see McNabb & Clark, the lawyers. It was only the other day that Clark had warned him against leaving his wheel outside. It will be remembered that Robert M. Clark and Edward O. Clark had their Crescent wheels stolen from in front of that same building, and so Potter quoted the old proverb about the lightning never striking twice in the same place.

When Potter came out of the building soon after 11 o'clock his wheel was missing and he has not had a glimpse of it since, although he has been looking for it.

William Sweeney, of W. K. McClure's law offices, claims to have seen the thief. He says he was standing across the street when a young man of medium height, dressed in a dark coat and white ducks, came up to the wheel and rode off on it. He did not stop to put on clips. The stranger wore a golf cap.

The stolen wheel was a Pierce Special, maroon enamel, full nickel forks, 1897 model, No. 35,918, Kimball handlebars, which are very narrow, Brown saddle, Palmer tires, 76 gear.

Birthday Party.

Last Friday a birthday party was given at the residence of Mr. Leahy in honor of Miss Kitty Leahy, it being her nineteenth birthday. Games and dancing were the order of the evening. Among those present were: Miss Minnie Welch, Minnie Callahan, Kitty Duffy, Annie Oleary, Kitty and Mary Leahy, Mr. and Mrs. Oleary, Mr. and Mrs. James Strapp, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O'Reilly, Mr. and Mrs. J. Leahy, Messrs. Vail, Reynolds, Heidbury, Southard, Callahan, Duffy, Miss Sarah Morrison. At midnight all departed wishing the hostess many happy returns of the day.

Burnett Property Sold.

The sale of the real estate owned by the late Henry Burnett, of Washingtonville, was held Thursday afternoon. The estate consists of a homestead and twenty-three acres of ground, and was bought in by the widow for $1,200. Another tract of land, 40 acres, brought $165. The property averaged about $10 an acre.

100 MEN CHASED THIEVES

CULPRITS CAUGHT AFTER SEVERAL BLOCKS HAD BEEN RUN.

Two Farmers Took a Bicycle Lamp but Were Detected and Run to Earth by an Indignant Crowd—Held for Trial.

Pursued by fully a hundred angry men on foot, a horse, with buggy attached, dashed up Watchung avenue last Friday soon after ten o'clock, while between the two men who occupied the seat was the cause of all the trouble, a bicycle lantern.

But to begin at the beginning. Joseph Neill, of East Second street, went down town with a party of friends, that evening, and together they stopped at Findlay's saloon on East Second street. Neill rode his wheel and left it in the vestibule. While Neill and his friends were in there, two strangers entered.

Neill thought their actions were suspicious and he watched. They hung around the wheel for a few moments, and then one of them guarded the door while Neill claims, the other removed the lamp.

When Neill saw the lamp disappear, he called to his friends and made a break to the door. Those around him heard the words "bicycle" and "thief," and they forthwith started after. The news spread like lightning and fifty men went dashing up the street. In the meantime the two strangers had jumped into a wagon and started down Second street at a breakneck speed, running their horse. Neill headed the pursuers, and passersby heard the yells and joined in the chase.

"Stop, there. Stop, there," yelled the pursuers. It was thought that a wheel had been stolen and every wheelman was only too glad of the chance to run to earth one of the dreaded bicycle thieves. The pursued and pursuers turned into Watchung avenue.

The chase came to an end very soon. Patrolman Myers was on duty in front of the Cycle Academy and heard the yells. He ran toward the railroad bridge and met the galloping horse in the road. The driver pulled the animal to one side but the officer made another jump and finally grabbed the animal.

Neill came up and explained the situation while the crowd gathered around and glared ominously at the pair of captives.

Patrolman Mattox came up and assisted in locking up the men, who first handed back the lantern which lay between them.

The men gave their names as John B. Peaney and Timothy Ingram, both of whom live near Park avenue beyond the Lehigh Valley Railroad crossing. Peaney owned the rig and works for his father, while Ingram has a family and farms on his own account.

They admitted they were drunk and Peaney said he took the lantern but did not mean to steal it.

They were fined $10 by City Judge DeMeza for reckless driving and then held for the grand jury in $50 bail by Justice Nash on the charge of grand larceny. They pleaded not guilty to the latter charge.

REALTY CHANGES.

Plainfield Property Transfers Recorded With County Clerk.

The New Jersey Contractor and Gazette publishes the following property transfers recorded at County Clerk Howard's office Sept. 10th to 17th, inclusive:

Sarah Ann Hart to Levi E. Hart, Westfield first tract, Park avenue, Fanwood; second tract, 11 acres, North Plainfield, first mortgage. Plainfield Trust Co., trustee, Catalina, N. Y., to John F. McIntyre, Plainfield, lot Broadway and Tenth street, Plainfield, $7,500; Annie Carmichael to Lydia Baker and Almeda Baker, N. Y., lot East Second street, adjoining Mary Williams, Plainfield, $1; Mary A. Mosher et al., Brooklyn, to Hannah D. Cairns, Jersey City, lot Fifth street, Baker estate, Plainfield, $2,750; F. B. Horn, Westfield, to John Fox, North Plainfield, lot 6, block 2, Oakland, $1; Watson Whittlesey et ux., to Charles Hook, Plainfield, lot 32, block C, Netherwood, $187.50; Central N. J. Land Improvement Company to Charles H. Hand, Plainfield, lot northwest corner East Sixth and Berckman streets, Plainfield, $900; W. H. Hicks, former sheriff, to Wm. Hall, Jr., trustee, lots 2 and 3, block 0, Charity Hard property, Plainfield, $750.

The following contract has also been filed:

H. M. Marsh, Plainfield, with John B. Milliken, Dunellen, mason and carpenter work, two-story frame dwelling, LaGrande avenue, Plainfield, $1,619.

A CHILDREN'S FAIR.

Successful Event Conducted for a Worthy Institution.

The children's fair for the benefit of The Daisy Field's Home and Hospital for Crippled Children, of Englewood, N. J., was held Saturday afternoon, at 323 Carelton avenue. The fair was originated by two little girl—Kate H. Tiemann and Henrietta L. Work. At the sale they were assisted by their little friends, Fannie Anthony, of Hackensack, May Emerson, of Brooklyn, Nina Sampson and Antoinette Hill. Clement Morgan kindly acted as ticket taker.

The net sum of seventy dollars realized for the Home testifies to their industry and the kindness of their many friends.

Frank Nelson, of Arlington avenue has returned from a visit of several weeks at Lakewood, N. Y.

PULPIT APPEALS TO STAMP OUT GAMBLING.

Local Ministers Raise Their Voices to Dispel Apathy Towards the Constitutional Amendments.

Pastors Exhorted Their Congregations to Vote and Work for the Amendment Prohibiting the Legislature From Legalizing Race-Track Gambling—It Is a Great Moral Issue.

From pulpits all through the State, Sunday, ministers made strong appeals for the support of the anti-gambling Constitutional amendment at the special election September 28. Below are given some of the arguments of Plainfield pastors:

The Christian's Duty.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, while one of Plainfield's most earnest evangelical preachers, is a very strong advocate of good citizenship, and Sunday morning he delivered an unusually stirring sermon on the Constitutional amendment relating to race-track gambling. His text was Philippeans 1; 27, the margin of the revised version: "Behave as citizens worthily of the gospel," and his sermon was in part as follows:

History has proved that the church and the State must be kept separate, but Christianity and the State should never be separated. No part of life is really secular; all of it is sacred, and our duties to the State are holy duties. We cannot separate the cause of religion from the cause of morality, and it is purely a moral issue which is to come before us on the 28th of September.

If the anti-gambling amendment to the Constitution becomes a law, it is beyond the power of any legislature to change it. You remember the disgraces of the past; you have not ceased to tingle with indignation at the thought of what made men say of our State that nothing so vile as New Jersey should be tolerated in the Union, or anywhere near the Union. Then the State rose up and cast out the unclean thing. Most of us then settled down in contented quiet, but not so with the Citizen's League. They have secured the passage of this amendment in the Legislature twice in succession, and on the 28th it comes before the people, who have then an opportunity to strike a tremendous blow against a terrible evil.

Gambling is one of the great vices that are blocking the way of the Church of God, corrupting the youth of the nation, breaking up homes, and ruining hundreds of thousands. In one guise or another, its evil influence is felt in almost every class. The essential sin of gambling is that it is the getting of something for nothing, against the owner's will; it is really the same as stealing. And it has behind it the passion of greed, the most overpowering passion of the human heart, before which neither honor, love, nor the soul itself can stand. Race-track gambling is an especially flagrant form of evil.

If the amendment should not be carried, all thus far gained would be lost, and the evils of the past would be brought upon us in magnified power. And there is a great danger that it will be lost. Its enemies are very active; they have the incentive of self-interest, and they have the control of large funds. While good men sleep, evil men scheme and plan; the friends of righteousness are too indifferent. This will be a special election, and at special elections the vote is al ways light. But this is a chance to vote for the right, pure and simple. It is not likely that a majority of the people approve of race-track gambling; the danger is that moral men will not take the trouble to register and vote. It is a plain and simple duty, but one upon which great results depend. If a board of savage barbarians were to descend upon our land, to destroy our homes and ill use our wives and daughters, everyone of us deserving the name of man would take a musket and go out against them. But now a danger threatens us, and there is no need to take a musket; all we need to do is to go and vote. We know the terrible results of this evil. If the amendment should be lost, no man who neglected to register and vote could hold himself guiltless of the blood of soul's. God grant that on the coming test day, we may all "behave as citizens worthily of the gospel."

The Evils Depicted.

The sermon preached by Rev. H. J. Johnston last Sunday at Grace M. E. church was one of the most forcible and powerful of the Sunday discourses. The sermon had to do with the coming election on the proposed amendment to the constitution regarding lottery and gambling. There was a large number of people present to hear it. Mr. Johnston took for his text, Matthew 16-26: "What Shall a Man Give in Exchange for his Soul," and his first point was that of self interest as against false self-interest, and quoted as instances of fatal self-care, Lot, Ahab, Gehazi, Judas and the rich fool who was going to build larger barns for his goods and then take life easy. In reference to true self-care Mr. Johnston said that a person must look to self the real number one. Too many look out for number two as what he is doing.

In the second place the speaker said, "Every man has his price. The temptations felt by some would not trouble others. It seems very strange that men will stake their all on gambling, but we no doubt appear just as strangely to the men who do that very thing. Peter was not tempted by gold or silver, but the ridicule of a little girl was his price. On the other hand, Judas would probably have boxed the little girl's ears if he had been tempted in that way, but he fell down before the glitter of money. Politicians would die for their country or for Old Glory, and yet they are doing just what Judas did. The weak spot in a man is his price and their is a tag on each and the devil knows the tag."

In the last place Mr. Johnston spoke of the irreclaimable soul and the would-be purchaser, as one interested in all "sales." He then drew a vivid picture. It was a game of chess with the evil one near by. At the table was seated the man who had staked his all on the game, while beside him was the skillful player, his opponent. The gradual loss of property, friends and honor was pictured in a realistic manner and it came home to the hearts of all present as a wonderful lesson. The final scene "Checkmated," was very impressive. Continuing Mr. Johnston said: "No price can heed can buy back the soul, and what can a man give in exchange for his soul? What has he left? There is significance in the fact that Paul committed his soul to God for safekeeping."

In conclusion Mr. Johnston read the proposed amendments and applied his discourse to the evils depicted, and the need of Christians caring for their own souls, refusing to sell, and thus caring for the souls of others.

A Moral, Not Political, Question.

Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church, spoke Sunday morning with no uncertain sound on the subject of the Constitutional amendment, to be decided by public vote next week. He did not consider the subject from the standpoint of politics, but of morality. With the strong words of the prophet Amos for his text, "Hate the evil and love the good and establish judgment in the gate; it may be that the Lord God of hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph," he briefly outlined the history of the ten tribes whose sin led to their downfall and whose sad fate might have been averted by their allegiance to truth and justice. A few bold strokes pictured the shame of New Jersey when in 1893 legalized gambling caused the overflow of corruption from adjacent cities and States, until the people arose in their power and repealed the law. He explained that the passing of the Constitutional amendment would settle forever the question that may otherwise be a menace to morals and cause a political struggle year after year.

The Crime of Indifference.

"The Crime of Indifference: The Anti-Gambling Amendment," was the subject of a very interesting sermon preached by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church last Sunday. It was in accordance with the request of the Citizens' League of the State that all ministers call the attention of the congregation to the amendment to the State Constitution relating to the race tracks and gambling. Rev. Mr. O'Donnell read the appeal of the Citizens' League during the first part of the service.

He began his discourse by asking whether indifference was a crime, and went on to argue that it was. A man, he said, who was indifferent to the interests of his community was a drag to the community, and while guilty of no positive act, he was negatively guilty. The man who neglects the interests of his family and home is criminal. A man who had been utterly indifferent to the result of the struggle in Revolutionary times would have been considered as great a traitor to his country as Benedict Arnold was.

The remedy, Mr. O'Donnell pointed out, was to be zealous in all good works, there must be rivalry in doing good. He pointed out the better work done in school and in business where there was rivalry of a friendly nature. The idea of true citizenship is not to try to escape all the work possible, but to vie with each other in doing good work.

He spoke of the great chance that was now offered to rid the State of a great evil, according to the appeal of the Citizens' League. They had appealed, he said, to the State pride. Then he told something of the State and its history and how much there was to be proud of.

He spoke of the conflict between the good citizens and the gamblers that had raged for the past years and how the final fight was now at hand. The carrying of the amendment meant a final defeat for the forces of the gamblers and race-track element. It was the duty, he continued, of all good citizens to cast their ballot for the amendment and also to lead others to do the same. He advised them to use printers' ink, and to get speakers and do anything else to wake up the indifferent ones to the realisation of the important issue at stake. And, he said, when the amendment was carried, then they could look up to God and thank him that they had a share in the defeat of evil-wishers of the commonwealth.

THREE IN THE FIGHT NOW

SOMERVILLE STREETS MUCH IN DEMAND BY TROLLEY CAPITALISTS.

Somerset Traction Company, Composed of Local Capitalists, the Latest Applicants—Cash Consideration Demanded.

With two syndicates of capitalists already striving to get the right of way through Somerville for a trolley road, a third has now appeared upon the scene to complicate the decision of the Bridgewater Township Committee. The new applicant is the Somerset Traction Company, composed of local capitalists. At the last meeting of the Committee they formally made application for the right of way through the town.

They were represented by Alex. C. Young, of Hoboken, who asked the Committee to defer action on the other applications until that of the company he represented could be properly brought before them.

It was stated by Chairman Gulick that the Committee had decided to demand a cash consideration of $5,500, to be paid to the city before the franchise became operative, and to bind the successful company to commence work within 35 days, and have the road in operation within four months of the date of granting the franchise. Both companies agreed to the demand, and the Brunswick Company agreed to macadamize the road from Somerville to Bound Brook, 28 feet wide, providing it was allowed to place its tracks in the middle of the roadway. After the applications of the Philadelphia and New York and the Brunswick Companies had been amended to comply with the new conditions, they passed their second reading, and further action was deferred until Wednesday, September 22d, at 2 p. m.

Hon. J. J. Bergen, Dr. Chichester and John C. Shaw all spoke in the interests of the New York and Philadelphia Company, setting forth its claims to the right of way.

Mr. Shaw in a brief address said that the application of the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company was really the only one before the Committee. *They had the number of con*sents necessary to obtain the franchise, while the New Brunswick Traction Company had presented no consents, and it was well known that they could not obtain them.

The Brunswick Company was represented by Lawyer Weigel, of New Brunswick.

The Somerset Traction Company agree to construct as good a macadam roadway along its tracks as either of the other companies.

ELECTION BOARDS.

Those Who Will Officiate at the Special and Regular Elections.

The officials who will act at the polls in the various wards and townships at the special election on Sept. 28th and the general election of Nov. 2d, were appointed at the recent meeting of the County Board of Elections of Union county, and are as follows in this city and neighboring towns,

Plainfield—First Ward—First district—G. W. Moore, R.; Jno. H. Tier Jr., R.; J. J. Rafferty, D.; Michael Delaney, D. Second district—Guillermo Toro, R.; Bertell Barnes, R.; William Gioak, D.; John Angleman, D.

Second Ward—First district—J. H. Doane, R.; Armstrong Mulford, R.; H. W. Marshall, D.; Frank Vosseller, D. Second district—Edward Willis, R.; Fred J. Smith, R.; J. W. Guttridge, D.; John Reid, D.

Third Ward—B. Frank Coriell, R.; Jacob C. Kirkner, R.; Joseph Sheppard, D.; Frank McInerney, D.

Fourth Ward—First district—James Huntington, R.; Charles VanWinkle, R.; H. B. Flynn, D.; J. H. Searing, D. Second district—W. B. Ayres, R.; J. B. Martin, R.; T. A. McCarthy, D.; Edward McCue, D.

Westfield—First district—Geo. W. Cox, R.; Matthias Clark, R.; F. R. Pennington, D.; Thomas O'Neill, D. Second district—Charles E. Smith, R.; Howard P. Manning R.; L. C. Thies, D.; J. H. Lambert, D.

Mountainside—Joseph C. Mulford, R.; Charles G. Brown, R.; J. H. Edwards, D.; Frank T. Youngs, D.

Fanwood Township—J. E. Goodman, R.; George Johnston, R.; Clarence Lambert, D.; John Radin, D.

Fanwood Borough—Henry Kyte, R.; Horace G Young, R; L. S. Ashley, D.; G. F. Carter, D.

Thought She Saw a Suspicious Man.

Last Saturday evening about 8:30 Mrs. Myers, of East Front street, sent a messenger for a policeman as she thought she saw someone about her place acting very suspiciously. When the policeman arrived no one was to be found and everything was quiet and orderly in that neighborhood.

MARITAL BLISS NON EST

HENRY CLARK GOT HIS WIFE THROUGH AN ADVERTISEMENT.

Married Three Months Ago and Now Their Trials Are Aired in Court—Wife Couldn't Live on 50 Cents a Week.

After three months of experience Henry Clark's matrimonial dream has proven a decided failure. The alleged trouble was that Mrs. Clark could not live on fifty cents a week.

Three months ago Henry Clark was a bachelor. He saw his friends marries on every side and his past sixty years had been fraught with troubles. He dreamed of a happy home and a neat wife to keep it for him, and so he set forth to have the dream come true. Not knowing any eligible women that suited him, nor having the inclination or courage to pass through all the intricacies of a courtship, he inserted an advertisement in the personal column of a New York paper and waited. A reply came and a woman of thirty-five came to see him. The appearances suited the aged suitor and they were promptly married and went to live on Somerset street.

The details of the matrimonial dream did not turn out as Clark had expected them to and there was trouble between the couple. It continued until Friday when Mrs. Clark made a complaint to the police that her husband would not support her and City Judge DeMeza was called in to hear the story.

The trial was held Saturday a. m. Mr. and Mrs. Clark appeared and neither appeared in a good humor. She claimed that her husband would only give her fifty cents a week on which to run the household and care for herself. He retorted that she received $3 a week. The couple fought numerous verbal battles before the Judge could silence them and then he pronounced the husband guilty and held him under $100 bonds to pay her $4 a week.

FRED O. BALL MARRIED.

POPULAR YOUNG MAN TAKES A WIFE IN BUFFALO.

Miss Cornelia Mueller the Bride's Name—The Ceremony Performed in Her Home Which Was Decorated For the Event.

The Buffalo Express on Friday contained the following concerning the marriage of a popular Plainfield young man and a Buffalo belle:

An interesting autumn wedding was that of Miss Cornelia Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Mueller, of Elmwood avenue, and Fred Ossian Ball, of Plainfield, which took place at 9:30 o'clock last night. Rev. Henry Stevens Catley, of Middleport, N. Y., performed the ceremony. The house was lavishly decorated throughout with ferns and pink asters. Miss Clara Diehl, a friend of the bride, presided at the piano, playing the wedding march as the bridal party entered the parlor. Miss Louise Frances Mueller was the maid of honor and Miss Evelyn Doyle and Miss Jessie May Barnes, of Point Chautauqua, the maids. The ushers were William Percy Lloyd, Stanley R. Ketchum and Walter H. Barnes. The bridegroom was assisted by his brother, Bert C. Ball, of Erie, Pa.

The bride was gowned in cream brocade satin trimmed with ruchings of bridal veiling. She wore a long tulle veil and carried a loose bouquet of bridal roses. The maid-of-honor wore white organdie over white. The low cut bodice was edged with pink rosebuds and she wore pink rosebuds and white aigrettes in her hair. The maids were rose pink organdie with similar rosebud garnishings. The bride's gifts to her maids were old Spanish mahogany treasure boxes lined with a bit of the wedding gown.

The groom gave his men handsome illustrated copies of "The Vicar of Wakefield." To his bride he gave a ring set with two large diamonds.

A reception to relatives and friends followed the ceremony. The bride's table was decorated with maidenhair fern and pink verbenas. The centre-piece, which was specially pretty, was the gift of several of the bride's friends. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ball left on a wedding trip to Boston and along the coast of Maine. After December 1st they will be at home at Plainfield, N. J."

LOCAL G. O. P. NOT ACTIVE YET.

It Is Their Intention, Though, to Try and Poll a Big Vote for Amendments.

So far the local Republicans have taken no action regarding the proposed amendments to the State Constitution, which are to be voted upon September 28th. It is understood on good authority, however, that they will make an extra effort to poll a large vote on that day. The sentiment of the party here is in favor of the amendments. The county executive committee of the Republicans is preparing to send out a circular relating to the amendments and urging all voters to turn out and support the measures.

Many Travelers This Summer.

Baggagemaster Garretson at the North Avenue station says that he has handled more baggage this summer than before in five years.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

PREPARED TO DEFEND THEMSELVES.

A number of Union county bicycle riders, men of mature age and habits, have applied to the authorities for license to carry revolvers, and in most cases the licenses have been granted. If road agent's attempt to hold up these armed men there will certainly be shooting, and very probably bloodshed. The number of attempts by burly negroes, vicious tramps and professional footpads to hold up and rob bicycle riders, after dark, has become quite too great to be overlooked. Moonlight rides have become more or less dangerous, unless the bicycles go in such numbers as to practically assure safety. Within the past few weeks a number of rides have been abandoned, particularly by ladies, for very fear of being attacked by these vicious road agents. It seems to be impossible to identify any of them and bring them to justice in the ordinary way, and therefore the privilege of carrying arms for protection has been asked for and granted. The serious wounding of a few of the rascals who attack bicycle riders would do much toward inducing them to quit the business. —Elizabeth Journal.

WORK MUST FOLLOW WORDS.

The urgent appeals from church pulpits all through the State yesterday concerning the success of the anti gambling Constitutional amendments will do much towards dispelling the apathy that has seemed likely would infect the moral forces of the State to such an extent that the race-track interests would defeat the amendment at the special election September 28th. It is generally recognized, though, that the gambling influences will be brought into play in their strongest details when the issue comes to the ballot box, and that means that the moral elements must not rest content with drawing word pictures of the disgraceful practices and damaging results that may follow its defeat, or indulging in admonition inspired by high ideals of the duties that all moral men owe to their consciences and their State's reputation. With their forces marshalled on election day prepared to work as sincerely at the polls as the ministers expounded truthfully yesterday, there will be no doubt of the victory of this very important proposition of Constitutional government.

ACTIVE MORAL INFLUENCES.

The interest and determination of Plainfield's substantial and respected citizens to do their duty towards paying the way for the victory of the anti-gambling Constitutional amendment is evidenced in the letters published on the first page of this paper. It is gratifying to contemplate that on the very eve of the decisive balloting day the apathetic inclination that seemed to burden the moral element is being supplanted by agitation that will, to a large extent, stir good citizens to a sense of duty in voting to forever crush out the curse that once blighted the State's fair name, and would probably become a reality again if left to the discretion of a Legislature who might act at the behest of the influences that were once intrenched at Trenton. But as The Press cautioned the leaders yesterday, they must not stop with the mere depiction of the evils possible and probable if the amendment is defeated; to use a trite phrase, to clinch the argument into effect they must work with the same energy on election day in urging citizens to vote that they imperfervor to their admonition now.

UTILITY OF THE CORSET.

The utility of the corset has been demonstrated. In Plainfield, N. J., a tramp the other day assaulted a woman with a knife. The knife struck one of the steel ribs of her corset and broke. Thereupon the tramp fled. Let nothing more be said against the corset.—Rochester Union.

A GOOD WORD FOR ROGER.

Roger F. Murray, of Plainfield, is rapidly coming to the front in the race for the Assembly nomination. He is one of the active, brainy young Republicans of that city, and will, if nominated, make a winning fight and prove a valuable representative.—Rahway Advocate.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. In use for over 30 years.

CHECK BETTER THAN A WHIPLASH.

It is a common understanding that next to a man losing his collar button under a bed there is nothing more aggravating than a balky horse. But let that suspicion be diverted otherwise now. Truthfully newspapers record the fact that Former Governor Flower, of New York, was driving through the campus of Cornell University behind an equine that is sometimes possessed of a spirit to plant its hoofs solidly on the ground and not move till its own perversive will is inclined that way. Fortunately, let it be said in this case for the treasury of the University, the horse came under one of these balky spells across within a shadow of one of the college buildings. Mr. Flower may be onto the ways of the politicians, but the balky horse was out of his class, even though its sudden determination bore close resemblance to the attitude of certain politicians. Awaiting a change in the horse's disposition, the Former Governor adjourned his person from the carriage to the college building. There he became so impressed with the work of the college that he wrote out a check for $5,000 to be used in assisting the institution. Then he returned to the presence of the balky horse and without a second chirp the animal resumed its progress, presumably unconscious of its worth to the University. The moral of this instance, of course, is that hereafter irate horsemen will derive better results from balky horses by writing checks for philanthropic purposes rather than applying the whip as an inducement for the contrary critter to start.

PRISON LOGIC AND ENTERPRISE.

John Myers, the Union county prisoner, who came near getting out of State prison Tuesday, is just a sample of what ambitious men we have in this bailiwick. However, it seems that John found it easier to get in prison than to get out. When detected just as he was about to gain his liberty, the audacious prisoner philosophically said to his captor: "It's your place to keep me and it's my place to get away if I can." That, indeed, is simple and truthful reasoning. The least that can be said of Myers, his actions and his logic, is that he adds a spirit of brilliancy in enterprise and thought to the jail birds of Union county.

WHISKEY THE CAUSE.

It appears that Brooklyn bridge jumpers are a drug in the market so far as commercial purposes in the museum line are concerned. No. 24 did the act Tuesday. We are inclined to believe that the only effective law against the continuance of this foolish practice is the test advocated by the Prohibitionists, since whiskey is the thing that spurs most of the leapers to do the act. The Prohibitionists are at liberty to use this argument without credit.

NOT PLEDGED.

The New York Tribune is the authority for the statement that neither Senator Voorhees nor Senator Reed are pledged to vote for any certain man for the United States Senate.

A LOW DOWN DEAL.

It, as hinted, the Citizens' Union candidate for Mayor of Greater New York should withdraw from the canvass, it would assuredly be a Low down deal.

NO LONGER FRIENDS.

The coal dealer and the ice cream merchant are no longer friends. This weather wasn't made to suit both of them.

FALL ELECTIONS.

Democratic Chances in Assembly Elections Are Better Than Last Year.

Six State Senators will be elected in November, from Cape May, Burlington, Middlesex, Passaic, Sussex and Hunterdon counties. Five of these are now represented by Republicans, and one (Hunterdon) by a Democrat. The Republicans have eighteen of the twenty one Senators now and could lose all the elections this Fall and still have a majority. Cape May, Burlington and Passaic have normal Republican majorities, while the others have been Democratic in the long run. The Republicans hope to carry Middlesex and possibly Sussex this fall, besides their own, and will make a fight for Hunterdon, too. The Democrats had only four Assembly-man last year. This year they hope to gain two in Bergen, seven in Hudson, three in Middlesex, with possible success elsewhere. If their hopes hold good they would still have only twenty four out of the sixty members. To the Legislature, in any ordinary contest, the Democrats should win in Essex and Somerset. Essex is the pivotal county, and with the present outlook it will decide the politica complexion of the Legislature every year for many years to come. It is this fact which has made it appear strange that Essex Republicans have not asserted the county's right to preference more vigorously in the recent past.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

Saves the Stomach;

Harsh, irritating laxatives tax it. Tarrant's Seltzer is a delicious, foaming draught that rids the stomach and bowels of foul accumulations. Aids digestion, clears the head and increases energy. Can't harm; can't help but help.

Sold by druggists for 50 years. 50c. and $1.

A PUMPTOWN LICENSE?

THE APPLICATION ENCOUNTERS OPPOSITION FROM NEARBY PEOPLE.

John J. Smith, Proprietor of the Wheelmen's Rest, is The Applicant—Opponents Say it Would Draw Rough Characters.

A great ado is being raised by the people who live in Metuchen and the vicinity of "Pumptown" over the attempt of John J. Smith, proprietor of the wheelmen's rest at that point, to secure a liquor license from the Middlesex County Court. When the matter was first considered last week by Judge Strong, Louis Campbell, Smith's nearest neighbor, opposed the granting of the license. He said it was a new place and not necessary, as there were two hotels within a mile and a half on the Metuchen road, two at South Plainfield and a fifth, a clubhouse at the north of that vicinity, near the Plainfield line. When this house was built last spring it was given out by the applicant's wife that only soft drinks would be sold. Her husband had retired from the liquor business, having closed up his New York wholesale business and sold his Perth Amboy Hotel. Now he applied at the first term of court for a license. There is plenty of singing and shouting there on Sunday nights.

Howard MacSherry represented the applicant. He asked Mr. Campbell if he was not a relative of Ellis Campbell, who had a few minutes previous been granted a license for the clubhouse which is but a mile or so distant from Smith's place, and if that was not his reason for opposing this application.

Mr. Campbell said he was a relative, but had not entered the clubhouse but once in seven years. This man had already deceived them, and if he was given a license and promised to keep a first-class place it was fair to presume that he would deceive them again.

There was a remonstrance against the granting of the license and two petitions favoring it. The signers to the remonstrance sets forth that the place is not needed and that it would be a gathering place for the rough characters from Plainfield, Metuchen and New Brunswick.

One petition certifies that the signers have known the applicant for several years and have always found him to be an honest, capable and worthy business man and recommends him to the citizens of Metuchen as a man who understands the management of a first-class hotel.

The matter was postponed two weeks, when both sides will have witnesses in court.

GRABBED A WOMAN.

Drunken Caper of Mike Duncko Sends Him to Jail for Six Months.

While on her way to church last Monday Mrs. E. J. Perrin, of 87 Grandview avenue, was insulted by an intoxicated man. She was walking along Elm place when a man made a sudden lunge at her, striking her. She screamed. The man ran away. Valentine Utzinger was behind her and called Special Officer Geise, who lived close by. Geise found Michael Duncko hiding between two of the houses in the street.

Duncko was later identified as the assailant of Mrs. Perrin and locked up. He was drunk at the time. His home is on Elm place.

Monday Duncko was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza and convicted. Mrs. Perrin, her companion and Mr. Utzinger appeared against him. Duncko, who is an old offender, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and go to jail for 50 days. In sentencing him the Judge said that the city must protect its women at any cost.

Owing to over-crowding and bad ventilation, the air of the schoolroom is often close and impure, and teachers and pupils frequently suffer from lung and throat troubles. To all such we would say, try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For coughs, colds, weak lungs and bronchial troubles no other remedy can compare with it. Says A. C. Freed, Superintendent of Schools, Prairie Depot, Ohio: "Having some knowledge of the efficacy of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I have no hesitation in recommending it to all who suffer from coughs, lung troubles, etc." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner of Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Elected Chairman.

J. P. Laire was Sunday elected chairman of the executive committee of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school to fill the vacancy caused by he resignation of John H. Van Winkle.

MAINTAIN STATE HONOR.

PUBLIC MEETING OF CITIZENS' LEAGUE TO BE HELD SUNDAY.

Prominent Citizens Urge a Rush an Event and it Will Be Held in Music Hall—A Number of Influential Men Will Speak.

As the time grows nearer for the special election next Tuesday to vote on the Constitutional amendments, the moral elements are becoming more active in stirring the people to a sense of duty towards the anti-gambling amendment. The following letters explain themselves:

Col. Mason W. Tyler, President of the Plainfield Branch of the State Citizens' League:

Dear Sir—A proposed amendment to our State Constitution, providing that no pool selling, bookmaking, or gambling of any kind shall be authorized within this State, has been passed by two consecutive Legislatures, and is submitted to the people for their votes on the 28th of this month.

Believing that the passage of this amendment is in the interests of public morality, we respectfully urge you to call a public meeting of our citizens at some convenient time and place, when the matter may be duly considered. Respectfully yours,

A. Gilbert,
George W. Rockfellow,
J. W. Johnson,
B. O. Bowers,
W. R. Richards,
Ernest L. Walz,
Albert H. Mdman,
Albert H. Atterbury.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 16th, 1897.

To Ernest L. Walz, Erskine M. Rodman, Albert H. Atterbury, Alexander Gilbert, Geo. W. Rockfellow, J. W. Johnson, B. O. Bowers, W. R. Richards:

Gentlemen—I am this day in receipt of your note of date September 16th instant, calling for a meeting to discuss a proposed amendment to our State Constitution, to be submitted to a popular vote on September 28th instant, and providing that no pool selling, bookmaking or gambling of any kind shall be authorized within this State.

No more important question has ever been submitted to the people of the State of New Jersey. The issue is clear cut and at the very foundation of our free institutions. If we are to be governed by gamblers, we are not a free people. There is too much Revolutionary blood running in the veins of New Jersey's sons to allow them to quietly submit to any such usurpation. The battle was really fought and won four years ago, but the people must now set the matter forever at rest by recording in their Constitution that gamblers shall not rule the State of New Jersey.

In response to your suggestion, I have issued a call for a public meeting, copy of which is herewith enclosed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Mason W. Tyler.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 20th, 1897.

To the Voters of the City of Plainfield:

Notice is hereby given that a public meeting, under the auspices of the Plainfield Branch of the Citizens' League, will be held at Stillman Music Hall, on Sunday afternoon, September 26th, at 4 o'clock, to consider the pending proposed amendment to our State Constitution, to the effect that no pool selling, bookmaking, or gambling of any kind shall be authorized within this State. All persons interested in maintaining the honor of our State are invited to attend.

Yours, etc.,

Mason W. Tyler,
President of the Plainfield Branch of the State Citizens' League.

TROLLEY LINE BLOCKED.

Fight of George W. Metlar Against Brunswick Company Continued by Wife.

The construction of the line of the Brunswick Traction Company, between New Brunswick and Bound Brook, received another unexpected setback Monday, and again work was temporarily abandoned. It is practically a continuation of the fight which is being waged against the corporation by George W. Metlar, since the objector in this instance is his wife, Catherine Metlar. The writ of certiorari ordering a cessation of the work was obtained on Saturday before Chief Justice Magie, and is returnable October 4th.

When the first writ was argued before Judge Ludlow, recently, the traction company obtained an order permitting the continuation of the work except along the property of Mr. Metlar. This did not prevent the building of the line along some property owned by Mrs. Metlar, and Edward W. Hicks, counsel for the Metlars, at once took the matter into the court with the result as stated.

As yet there is apparently no disposition on the part of the trolley company or Mr. Metlar to make any compromise. The work of building the line from New Brunswick to Metuchen is nearly completed, and in less than three weeks cars will probable be running over that part of the line.

"My boy came home late from school one day with his head badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schall, with Meyer Bros.' Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo. "I dressed the wound, and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely. All pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Valuable Horse Dead.

"Baron Rose," the $2,000 trotter belonging to Robert Fairbairn, of Westfield, died at the Somerset County Fair grounds last Thursday night. The horse trotted one heat in the 2:22 class and was then taken ill in its stall. An operation was performed and it was found that the horse had a cancer of the stomach. The animal died during the night in great agony.

Your Idea is that oatmeal is oatmeal—there can't be much difference.

But there can!

Even in ordinary oatmeals there can be a difference—good oats and good milling are better than lean and shrivelled oats and poor milling.

But oatmeal may be something more than a matter of fat groats and smart millers.

The oat in its natural state is the most nutritious of grains, but it must be adapted to man's physical needs. The starch cells—the indigestibility—must be broken.

Steam cooking will break the cells, change starch into sugar, make the indigestible digestible.

And there is such an oatmeal, steam-cooked.

H-O

is the name.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption (Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general debility and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results so astounding that they must be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

—Friday afternoon the members of the Junior Epworth League of Grace M. E. church will hold their first fall meeting. It is earnestly hoped that there will be a large attendance.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 9:40, 11:30 a. m., 2:00, 5, 5:30 p.m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—6:40, 11:30 a. m., 4:00, and 9:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:00 p. m. Close—2:00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 9:15 a. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT SEPT. 5th, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield at 6 34, a. m., 7 29, 8 20, 9 20, 10 20, 11 20, 12 20, 1 20, 2 20, 3 20, 4 20, 5 20, 6 20, 7 20, 8 20, 9 20, 10 20, 11 20 p. m., 12 01 night. Sundays, 12 20, 1 20, 2 20, 3 20, 4 20, 5 20, 6 20, 7 20, 8 20, 9 20, 10 20, 11 20 p. m., 12 01 night.

Leave New York from Liberty street, foot of Liberty street, at 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 15, 1 15, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night. Sundays (5 to 12 except Saturdays only) 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night. Sunday only 5 00 p. m.

Leave New York from Whitehall street at 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night. Sundays (5 to 12 except Saturdays only) 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night. Sunday only 5 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 47, 6 58, 7 55, 8 55, 9 55, 10 55, 11 55 a. m., 12 55, 1 55, 2 55, 3 55, 4 55, 5 55, 6 55, 7 55, 8 55, 9 55, 10 55, 11 55 p. m. Sundays, 8 55, 9 55, 10 55, 11 55 a. m., 12 55, 1 55, 2 55, 3 55, 4 55, 5 55, 6 55, 7 55, 8 55, 9 55, 10 55, 11 55 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 15, 7 55, 8 25, 9 25, 10 25, 11 25 a. m., 12 25, 1 25, 2 25, 3 25, 4 25, 5 25, 6 25, 7 25, 8 25, 9 25, 10 25, 11 25 p. m. Sundays, 8 25, 9 25, 10 25, 11 25 a. m., 12 25, 1 25, 2 25, 3 25, 4 25, 5 25, 6 25, 7 25, 8 25, 9 25, 10 25, 11 25 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield at 6 40, 8 10, 9 04, 11 00 a. m., 1 00, 2 11, 4 56, 6 10, 8 21 p. m. Sundays, 9 04, 11 00 a. m., 2 11, 4 56, 6 10, 8 21 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 6 05, 7 40, 8 34, 10 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 41, 4 26, 5 40, 7 51 p. m. Sundays, 8 34, 10 30 a. m., 1 41, 4 26, 5 40, 7 51 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND RARITAN.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 8 10, 9 04 a. m., 1 00, 2 11, 4 56, 6 10, 8 21 p. m. Sundays, 9 04 a. m., 2 11, 4 56, 6 10, 8 21 p. m.

Leave Raritan at 6 05, 7 40, 8 34, 10 30 a. m., 12 30, 4 05, 7 05 p. m. Sundays, 8 34, 10 30 a. m., 12 30, 4 05, 7 05 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 8 40 a. m., 12 05, 5 15 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Sunbury, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

7 10 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Sunbury, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, Manitoba and Upper Lakes, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Binghamton, with buffet parlor car to Scranton.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Canandaigua, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

1 01 p. m.—For Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Canandaigua, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Canandaigua, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

4 56 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Canandaigua, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations. Buffet parlor car to Scranton.

6 10 p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Canandaigua, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Canandaigua, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations. Buffet parlor car to Scranton.

EASTWARD.

8 40 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

9 04 a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, High Bridge Branch for Hackettstown, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Tannersville, Wind Gap, Nazareth and Harrisburg.

11 55 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

5 15 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 25 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

Trains leave Plainfield for Somerville at 8 40 a. m., 12 05, 5 15 p. m.

Trains leave Somerville for Plainfield at 6 40, 8 10, 11 00 a. m., 2 11, 6 10 p. m.

Trains leave Somerville for Raritan at 6 05, 7 40, 8 34, 10 30 a. m., 12 30, 4 05, 7 05 p. m.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 9 21, 9 35, 10 27 a. m., 1 35, 4 21, 6 27 p. m. Sundays, 9 21 a. m., 4 21 p. m.

Ocean Grove, 11 05 a. m., 12 10 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 9 21, 9 35, 10 27 a. m., 1 35, 4 21, 6 27 p. m. Sundays, 9 21 a. m., 4 21 p. m.

For Bayonne, Bosch, 8 18, 10 27 a. m., 1 35, 4 21, 6 27 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 9 35 a. m., 1 35 p. m.

For Pemberton, 9 21, 10 27 a. m., 1 35, 4 21, 6 27 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 4 17, 6 04, 9 40, 11 30 a. m., 2 00, 4 17, 6 04, 9 40 p. m., 12 01 night. Sundays, 4 17, 6 04, 9 40, 11 30 a. m., 2 00, 4 17, 6 04, 9 40 p. m., 12 01 night.

Leave Philadelphia, Market street wharf, 4 00, 6 40, 8 40, 10 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night. Sundays, 4 00, 6 40, 8 40, 10 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night.

Leave Philadelphia, Chestnut street wharf, 9 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 3 00, 5 00, 7 00 p. m. Sundays, 9 00 a. m., 5 00 p. m.

Leave Philadelphia, South street wharf, 9 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 3 00, 5 00, 7 00 p. m. Sundays, 9 00 a. m., 5 00 p. m.

Leave Philadelphia, Walnut street wharf, 9 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 3 00, 5 00, 7 00 p. m. Sundays, 9 00 a. m., 5 00 p. m.

Leave Philadelphia, Kensington depot, Delaware avenue and Shackamaxon street, 9 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 3 00, 5 00, 7 00 p. m. Sundays, 9 00 a. m., 5 00 p. m.

Leave Philadelphia, Broad street station, 9 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 3 00, 5 00, 7 00 p. m. Sundays, 9 00 a. m., 5 00 p. m.

Leave Philadelphia, Baltimore and Ohio depot

Raised makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

DEFEAT ENDED SEASON.

CRESCENTS LOST THEIR GAME IN THE FIRST TWO INNINGS.

Young MacLaughlin in the Box, But No Experienced Pitcher Was There For the Last Two Innings—The Score in Detail.

The baseball season of 1897 came to an end in Plainfield Saturday afternoon, when the Plainfield Crescents suffered defeat at the hands of the Riverdale Field Club, a strong team from upper New York. The game was won by the visitors by a score of 9 to 7 after a snappy exciting game.

Had the first two innings been left out, the game would have easily been won by the home team. As it was the Crescents did not have any pitcher for the first inning and when Warrie MacLaughlin was put in it took him an inning to get used to the team, his mates and the rest of the circumstances. After that he settled down to work and the visitors made but one more hit off him. The home team played a stiff, uphill game and made a desperate effort to capture the game after all, but their chances were lost when Vroom failed to stop the third strike on Lindsay and allowed two men to score on what should have been the third out.

Clarence Vroom was to pitch, but for some reason he could not come and the Crescents found themselves without a pitcher. The beginning of the game was delayed until it looked as if darkness would arrive before it was over, and Chas. Collins was put in the box. Meanwhile Warren MacLaughlin, the left-handed twirler for the Somersets, who lives in North Plainfield, was sent to the dressing-room to get into a uniform and prepare to take Collins' place as soon as possible.

The visitors were first at bat and opened the battle with a vim. Singles by Smith and Tooker, and errors by Hollister and Symons, a wild throw by "Pa" Parrott, of Rutgers varsity, who was taking Collins' place at centre, and two bases on balls combined to give the visitor three runs. The Crescents failed to score in their half of the inning. In the next inning Mac was in the box and but one hit, a double, was made off him, but a base on balls, and expensive errors by Hollister, MacLaughlin and Cooney, together with a passed ball allowed four of the visitors to cross the plate.

With the score 7 to 0, the Crescents braced up and Mac made the first run. There ought to have been two runs or more, but for a foolish attempt to steal second on the part of Lederer. Bodain lost the ball in the woods in right field and completed the circuit of the bases, scoring the only run of the visitors until the ninth. The Crescents had three on bases, with two out, but Lederer could not bat safely and they made no runs.

In the fifth inning, the local players waked up and made things lively for Terry, of the Montclair Athletic Club, who was pitching for the Riverdales. Symons and Hollister went to first on wild throws to first. Vroom sacrificed, advancing them a base each and then Symons scored on an error by third base. Collins hit safely and Hollister scored. Cooney was hit on the shoulder. Lederer went to first on another wild throw and then Mac and Corbin batted out singles, Collins and Cooney scoring in the meantime. With the bases filled, MacBeth batted a grounder to third who caught Lederer at the plate. Symons ended the inning by going out at first. Four runs were made.

A hit by Hollister and a dropped throw by Tooker at first allowed Hollister to make the circuit of the bases. One run was added to the Crescents' score.

In the ninth, Mac gave two of the visitors their first on four balls with two men out. He struck out Lindsay but the ball passed Vroom and rolled clear into the road, two men scoring in the meantime. MacLaughlin added a solitary run to the Crescents' score in their half of the last inning and the game was over.

Terry pitched for the visitors until the eventful fifth when Lindsay took his place. The visitors were as gentlemanly set of fellows as are to be found on the diamond today. They make no kicks and played a fair honest game that was much to be commended. They all spoke very highly of the Crescents and could not say to much in praise of Erickson as umpire. They characterized him as the fairest umpire they had met this season. They all want to play here again next season.

The detailed score was as follows:

CRESCENTS.

	A. B.	R.	B. H.	P. O.	A.	E.
Symons, rf	4	1	0	0	0	1
Hollister, ss	5	2	1	2	3	2
Vroom, c	4	0	0	1	1	0
Collins, p, cf	5	1	2	3	0	0
Cooney, 2b	3	1	0	0	3	1
Lederer, 1b	4	0	1	2	0	1
Parrott, cf	0	0	0	0	0	1
Corbin, c	4	1	1	12	0	0
McBeth, lf	5	0	1	0	0	0
MacLaughlin, p	3	0	1	1	2	1
	41	7	10	27	12	9

RIVERDALE FIELD CLUB.

	A. B.	R.	B. H.	P. O.	A.	E.
Hardie, ss	5	1	0	2	5	1
Smith, 3b., lf	5	2	2	1	2	1
Tooker, lf	5	1	1	18	0	3
Corbin, c	4	2	0	0	2	0
Terry, p., 2b	3	2	0	0	2	0
Lindsay, 1b	5	0	2	9	0	0
Burns, rf	4	0	0	1	1	0
Bodain, cf	4	0	1	0	0	1
Pickhardt, 2b	3	1	0	3	0	0
	37	10	4	27	13	8

BY INNINGS.

Riverdale F. C.....3 1 0 0 0 0 5—10
Crescents.....0 1 0 0 4 1 0 0 1— 7

Earned runs—Crescents, 0; Riverdales, 1. Two-base hits—Collins, Smith. Home run—Bodain. Sacrifice hits—Vroom, MacBeth. Stolen bases—Hollister, 2; Smith, 2; Snyder, Terry. Hit by pitched ball—Cooney, Terry. Passed balls—Collins, 2; by MacLaughlin, 3; by Terry, 1; by Lindsay, 2. Struck out—By Collins, 01; by MacLaughlin, 2; by Terry, 2; by Lindsay, 1. Double play—Burns and Tooker. Left on bases—Crescents, 12; Riverdales, 5. Time of game—1 hour, 35 minutes. Umpire—Edward Erickson, of Plainfield.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL RALLY.

Congregationalists Gather to Start Afresh For the Winter Season.

Sunday was Rally Sunday for the Sunday-school of the Congregational church. The afternoon session of the school was resumed after the summer change to the morning, and it was marked by an increase in the attendance. A rally service was held during the afternoon, for which special music and an interesting address were arranged. All the old members of the school were back invigorated and refreshed with their summer outing and ready to begin the year's work with renewed energy. Then there were new recruits.

Joseph A. Robinson, the superintendent, presided at the rally service. There were a number of visitors present. An instrumental trio, composed of Mrs. B. T. Baines, organist; Mrs. M. E. Dwight, pianist; and P. Ludwig Conde, violinist, rendered two selections, Nocturne, by Matys, and Serenade, by Gounod, during the service An impressive solo, "The Ninety and Nine," was sung by Charles L. Lewis. The opening prayer was made by W. D. Murray. A map exercise and review was conducted by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, assisted by Harold Nomer, Edward Suffren, Marion Dwight, Hattie Wainwright, Edwin Weseman and Agnes LaBoyteaux.

The address of the afternoon was made by Rev. E. Morris Ferguson, of Trenton, secretary of the State Sunday-school Association. He impressed his hearers with the fact that while everything could not be learned in a lifetime, all should do what they could to reach that end. He asked them not to be always learners of God's truths but to teach what they knew to others as well.

The church was artistically decorated for the occasion with various cultivated flowers.

MAY REMOVE THE KINDERGARTEN.

Plan to Remedy the Overcrowding of the Borough School Building.

At the special meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education last Monday, called for the purpose of considering ways and means for the accommodation of the increased number of scholars, it was stated that in the kindergarten forty-six children could be seated, and there are ninety-one of them enrolled. In grades one and two of the primary department there are fifty-two more children than can be seated. The condition of affairs was reported and the matter was referred to the building committee and they are to report at a meeting to be held next Monday night. It is likely, as was reported yesterday, that the kindergarten department will be located outside of the school building.

Says He Was Held up.

Clarence Demarest, of Park avenue, claims to have been held up on Park avenue, Thursday evening at 10 o'clock, and robbed of 35 cents in change. He says that he was riding home and was passing between Holly's Corners and Avon Park when he noticed a rope stretched across the road. He says that he dismounted and that two strange men sprang at him and emptied his pockets of what change he had.

A Cure for Bilious Colic.

Resource, Screven Co., Ga.—I have been subject to attacks of bilious colic for several years. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the only cure relief. It acts like a charm. One dose of it gives relief when all other remedies fail.—G. D. Sharp. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

HOLDUPS IN CITY LIMITS

HIGHWAYMEN STOPPED TWO BOYS AND A MAN IN NETHERWOOD.

Irving DeHart Took Flight When Accosted and Outfooted the Desperadoes—Money, Not Watches, Was Their Quest.

Within the city limits, last Monday, two boys and a man were held up by supposed tramps who concealed their identity under slouch hats. Three suspicious characters were afterwards arrested and it was supposed that they were implicated in the attempts at highway robbery but there was no evidence to that effect and they were allowed to go this morning.

Irving DeHart is a bright little lad living at 908 South Second street. He sings in the choir of St. Stephens church on Ravine road, Netherwood. Last evening, Irving was going to attend the evening service at the church. It was 7:30 o'clock as he passed up South avenue. There are several open fields just at the foot of Netherwood hill on South avenue, and Irving was passing them, walking in the middle of the road, when he noticed two men standing by the gutter.

As the lad came up, one of the men pu lled his slouch hat over his face and started for the boy.

"Hey there. Stand!" gruffly said the highwayman.

"What for?" asked the lad as he kept moving down the road.

"Stand!" repeated the stranger.

"I won't," retorted the boy.

"Stand, or I'll shoot yer," yelled the man, and then the boy broke into a run. He ran up the hill and into Woodland avenue, with the two men pursuing closely. Fear lent wings to the lad's feet and he held his own until the thick woods at the corner of LaGrande and Woodland avenues was reached and the men disappeared in its shades. The lad hurried on to the church and told his story.

Not far behind DeHart was Arthur Drake, who lives at 725 West Third street, and also sings in the choir. He was also bound for St. Stephens church. As he was passing the dense woods on Woodland avenue, near Ravine road, the same place where DeHart's pursuers disappeared, two men sprang out of the bushes and grabbed him by the arm. The lad has had an abscess on one arm and one of the men seized him roughly at that place. Fright and pain left the lad speechless.

"Gimme your money," demanded one of the highwaymen. Then they searched the lad's pockets and found a watch, but no money. Then the lad begged them not to take his watch and they replied that they wanted money, not watches. After satisfying themselves that there were no coins about the lad's person, he was allowed to go. It was so dark and he was so frightened that he could give no description of the men.

John Childs was walking along Belvidere avenue, soon after 7:30 o'clock, and had just crossed LaGrande avenue, when a man jumped out of the bushes and grabbed for his arm.

"What do you want?" asked Childs, who has the sight of only one eye, and could not see very plainly.

"I want money," was the gruff reply.

"I haven't got any," exclaimed Childs as he bolted in the direction of the Hotel Hunterston, a block away. When he reached the hotel he looked about, and his pursuers had disappeared. He continued on his way to St. Stephens church.

It was in the neighborhood of 9 o'clock when Patrolman Cash saw three men, drawn to the scene by the wear, walking down Richmond street.

He arrested them for suspicious characters and lodged them in the stationhouse over night. It was supposed that they were the highwaymen.

DeHart was positive that one of the men was his acquaintance of Sunday night, but of the other two victims he could not identify form or voice. The three men, two of whom were English sailors, James Pimlett and Frank Miller, and one a lad of seventeen, Thomas Wilson, of New York, told straightforward stories which showed that they had not been in the vicinity of the holdup. They were allowed to go by the Judge.

Just in His Teens.

Last Saturday evening John Gray, of Grant avenue, celebrated the thirteenth anniversary of his birthday. A few of his intimate friends were present to help him enjoy the occasion, which was a pleasant one. All sorts of games were played to pass the evening, and refreshments were served just before the guests departed for their homes. All joined in wishing their host many happy returns of the day.

It Saves the Croupy Children.

Scaview Va.—We have a splendid sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and our customers coming from far and near, speak of it in the highest terms. Many have said that their children would have died of croup if Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had not been given.—Kellam & Ourren. The 25 and 50 cents sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Pure

Blood means sound health. With pure, rich, healthy blood, the stomach and digestive organs will be vigorous, and there will be no dyspepsia. Rheumatism and Neuralgia will be unknown. Scrofula and Salt Rheum will disappear. With pure

Blood

Your nerves will be strong, and you'll sleep sound, sweet and refreshing. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood. That is why it cures so many diseases. That is why so many thousands take it to cure disease, retain good health, prevent sickness and suffering. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Fine Machinists' Tools In Stock.

Gasoline and oil stoves of best makes.

A. M. GRIFFEN,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

Trusses! Rupture! Trusses!

Dr. Marsler, has opened a branch office at No. 828 West Second street, corner Central avenue, Plainfield, for the treatment of rupture. 30 years experience and the most modern appliances warrant satisfactory results. No occasion to go to New York when we can get treatment at home. Frequently difficult cases successfully treated. Consultation and examination free. Call or address, Dr. Marsler, 828 West Second street, Plainfield, N. J.

UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES of AMERICA

Rev. L. D. HASS, D. D., Manager.

Pittsburg, Pa., Toronto, Can., Chicago, New Orleans, La., New York, N. Y., Washington, D. C., San Francisco, Cal., Chicago, Ill.: St. Louis, Mo., Denver, Colorado.

There are thousands of positions to be filled during the next few months.

Address all applicants to UNION TEACHERS' AGENCIES, Salisbury, Pa. 6 28

MARRIED.

In Scotch Plains, on Sunday, September 19, by Rev. Edward H. True, rector of All Saints Church, Miss Lillian Lenover, of Roselle Park, and Mr. Charles Fenwood, of Plainfield.

DIED.

FENTON—At New London, Connecticut, on Sunday, September 19, 1897, Josiah Fenton, aged 67 years.

TICE—In North Plainfield, Thursday, September 16, 1897, Caroline Tice.

DUNLAP—In this city, on Sunday, September 19, 1897, Mary M., widow of the late William H. Dunlap, aged 56 years and 7 months.

A CHRISTIAN WOMAN DEAD.

Mrs. Mary M. Dunlap Succumbs to the Ravages of Consumption.

After a long illness with consumption, Mary M. Dunlap, widow of the late William H. Dunlap, died at her home, 925 East Fifth street, Sunday. The deceased had been a patient sufferer and was willing to go when the time came. She was a faithful member of Trinity Reformed church where she attended when able. She leaves two daughters and two sons. One of the latter lives in the west, and the others reside in this city. The funeral services were held from the house Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. Interment was in the family plot at Millstone, Somerset county.

The Price of Wheat

May or may not be governed by price of silver. It all depends on your point of view. In our sense, the price of wheat has something to do with silver. A silver half dollar, for instance, spent at the great Inter-State Fair, at Trenton, will aid you in producing better wheat and more of it.

Amusement and recreation are worth while, but instruction is of more use to you. You get all three at the Inter State. A day spent there is intelligent observation will make you a better farmer, a better merchant or a better housewife.

The dates are September 27th to October 1st.

—The work of building the foundations for the new Sycamore avenue bridge is now well under way. Great progress is also being made in macadamizing the street on both sides of the brook.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
H. C. FOX, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

I have just put Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally charged by agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and partner doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business as the highest, next to religion, and good material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will need in building up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law.

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Bilious and Nervous Diseases. They purify the Blood and give Healthy action to the entire system.

Cure DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES.

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our high grade Improved Nursery Stock. Many new specialties offered this year for the first time, as well as the standard varieties of fruits and ornamentals. No previous experience necessary. We pay weekly. Write for terms. Stone, Bro. & Thomas, Eagle Avenue Nurseries, West Chester, Pa.

WANTED AGENTS

BOTH MEN AND WOMEN. If you are willing to work, we can give you employment with GOOD PAY, and you can work all or part time, and at home or traveling. The work is LIGHT AND EASY. WRITE AT ONCE for terms, etc., to

THE HAWKS NURSERY COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y. 9 9 cm

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your ware mending to us. The Best Tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very last of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tin ware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approved Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues.

Elegant Glass Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF.

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 234 W. Front street, to 241 West Front street, opposite east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 9 25 y

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

E. B. MAYNARD.

PRACTICAL

BARBER AND HAIR DRESSER

204 PARK AVE.

Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed. 12 7 tf

PATENTS

35 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain, free, whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

Beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies and HAND BOOK ON PATENTS sent free. Address

MUNN & CO.,
361 Broadway, New York.

What a Lot of Eggs the hens lay when fed on Green Cut Bone. With a dozen hens will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 BUYS ONE. Sent on trial. 1900 highest awards received. Catalogue free if you name this paper. F. W. MANN CO., Milford, Mass. 2 5 4 9 10 11 12—7 mos.

Mann's Green Bone Cutter

$1,000—HELP YOURSELF.

We will give away $1,000 to make this advertisement true. Simply do it. Send your name, address and an outside wrapper from a five-cent package of

FLEER'S GUM PEPSIN GURU-KOLA

It keeps the stomach right.

The money will be yours November 10, 1897.

FRANK H. FLEER & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

NEW YORK LETTER.

While trust combinations have kept the price of coal up, and the wholesalers, commission dealers and retailers' profits have pressed heavily on the poor consumer, it has long been recognized that there has been still another source of loss—namely, shortage in weight. Many coal dealers have secured a large share of trade by means of cut prices, which they have been able to maintain by giving only 1,700 or 1,800 pounds to the ton, instead of 2,000 pounds, the legal weight. They have sold the same kind of coal as dealers giving honest weight, and consequently have caught the trade of unsuspecting customers who have had no opportunity of getting their coal weighed.

The late Legislature, however, passed a law which seems well designed to drive the short-weight coal dealer out of the market. By the provisions of this law any purchaser of coal in New York city is permitted to have his coal weighed and a certificate of weight furnished him by paying to the driver of the vehicle fifteen cents a ton for the payment of the weighmaster's fee, provided the scale selected for the weighing shall not be more than a half-mile distant from the place of loading or delivering the coal.

Mayor Strong has designated thirty-eight weighing stations for the accommodation of the public. The weighmasters are each required to furnish bonds in the $500 to keep their scales in perfect condition, and to furnish duplicate certificates stating the names of the customers and dealer, together with the exact weight of the coal.

Old Trinity's Wealth.

The Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity parish, New York city, tells the Church Economist that many efforts had been made to the Trinity corporation to purchase the old St. Paul's churchyard on Broadway, between Fulton and Vesey streets, for business purposes. Several years ago, the Stock Exchange tried to buy it, and more recently a great railroad corporation made advances for the property. "But it will not be sold," said Dr. Dix, "at least not while the persons now in control of Trinity's affairs are alive. No valuation in dollars and cents has ever come to us for that property. It is prized and guarded from a sentiment of reverence and love."

This remark of the distinguished rector of Trinity, is significant, in view of the suggestion advanced at a recent assembling of clergymen in this city that if Trinity would dispose of some of its valuable unproductive property it would be enabled to enlarge its field of usefulness, especially in the matter of helping other churches. More than six Protestant Episcopal churches in this country have received financial aid from Trinity corporation. The city assessors, in placing a pro forma valuation upon St. Paul's churchyard, made an estimate of $1,750,000. It would probably bring much more than that at an open sale. Trinity Church and churchyard, opposite the head of Wall street, on Broadway, is valued by the city officials at $4,000,000. That makes nearly $6,000,000 of unproductive property in the financial centre of the metropolis.

From Opening Oysters to Affluence.

John O'Neill, the restaurant man who died last week leaving property that has been estimated as worth from $500,000 to $1,000,000, illustrated the success that man be achieved by doing little things well and making good friends. Mr. O'Neill came to New York from Ireland, a mere boy, about thirty years ago, with no capital except his character and his willingness to work. Mr. O'Neill secured work in a restaurant, and he was fortunate enough to attract the attention of Algernon Sullivan and several other well-known men who patronized the place. The young Irishman opened oysters for them, and he did so well that they advised him to open an oyster house of his own. They aided him in a more substantial way, also, and when O'Neill's oyster house—and a little place it was—opened, a number of distinguished New Yorkers were among its first patrons. As success came to him Mr. O'Neill bought the site of the present oyster house, and from time to time enlarged it. It was said at the time of his death that no restaurant proprietor in this city numbered as many distinguished men among his friends as John O'Neill. Judges, lawyers, writers, artists, and politicians frequented O'Neill's cafe, because "John was a good fellow."

For One Big Library.

On the site of the old Fifth Avenue reservoir, at Fortieth and Forty-second streets, New York, will erect a public library building, to cost $1,700,000, and to hold 4,000,000 books. The plan will be selected by a competition, no time limit for which close to-morrow, in which 100 architects are engaged. There is some dissatisfaction over the conditions of the competition a number of the prominent local architects declined to participate. The building contemplated will measure about 225 feet by 250, will be set back about 75 feet from Fifth avenue and about 50 feet from the side streets. It will be fireproof throughout. It is intended that the book stacks and reading rooms will be susceptible of enlargement to a capacity of 4,000,000 volumes, without disturbing the rest of the building. When finished the Astor, Lenox and Tilden Libraries will thus be joined in one corporate body.

CYRUS THORP.

Mr. Dullnose—Don't you think that Mr. Beech-nut has a countenance which grows on one?

Mr. Gaswell—I'll admit that his countenance is known on Mr. Street.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Five o'Clock Tea.

No style of dress offers such a wide field for the display of personal taste and fancy, as the five o'clock tea gown. For the most part, soft, clinging woolen materials are used for the purpose, and are richly trimmed with lace, ribbon, or any other fashionable trimming. At present the Empire style is most favored and its flowing amplitude of material is very becoming to most figures. The robe is made of yellow crape, the bodice shows the short postillion cut, and the sleeves are half long, and arranged in narrow over wrapping tucks; a dark red velvet jacket slashed back and front, and with rounded espaulette entirely bordered with gold braid, worn over the short waist. Wings broad lace are set direct on the high Medicis collar, and the becoming sleeve frills are of similar lace. The finely pleated skirt is set direct on to the waist, a loose sash of light blue crepe de chine with long ends and bows being tied over the joining. A tortoise shell comb inlaid with gold is stuck in the hair.

A FIVE O'CLOCK TEA GOWN.

Toilette With Pleated Basque.

A model toilette of natural-colored crimped muslin, now so fashionable, is mounted on mauve taffetas. White machine-made embroidery is used on full front of bodice—also to be made by hand—composed of sprigs and single scattered leaves between.

TOILETTE WITH PLEATED BASQUE.

Famous Bed Hangings.

The hangings of the bedstead indicated in the illustration come from the Phillipine Islands, and report has it that they were worked by the order of Don Alphonso XII. for presentation to his wife Mercedes, subsequently coming into the possession of the Duchess of Santona. They are embroidered on cream satin with a floral design in colored silks, and amid the foliations are dragons worked in gold thread, showing a curious and happy wedding of Chinese and Spanish traditions.

FAMOUS BED HANGINGS.

THE CHINESE CRIMINAL CODE.

The Draconian Criminal Code of the Flowery Kingdom.

Parricide is considered only one degree less culpable than treason, and is punished as a crime of the deepest dye, such a violation of the ties of nature being held to be evidence of the most unprincipled depravity. Any person convicted of a design to kill his or her parents or ancestors, whether a blow be struck or not, is liable to suffer death by being beheaded. If the murder is actually committed, all the parties concerned therein, whether principals or accessories, if related to the deceased as above mentioned, suffer death in a slow and painful manner, being cut into a thousand pieces. If the criminal dies in prison an execution similar in mode takes place on his body.

Murder in all cases is punished by decapitation. When committed with the design of afterward mangling the body and distributing the limbs of the deceased for magical purposes, not only is the offender executed but all the inmates of his house, although innocent of the crime are perpetually banished. Persons giving information of such offenses are brought to justice receive a reward of twenty ounces of silver from the Government.

All persons rearing venomous animals, or preparing drugs of a poisonous nature, for the purpose of murder, are beheaded, their property confiscated, and their family banished, even if no person is actually killed by such means.

The use of abusive language is very sternly repressed, especially if the offended person happens to be the husband or ancestor of the offender. The Code says: "Opprobrious and insulting language, having naturally a tendency to produce ill-will and enmity, this book of laws expressly provides for its prevention and punishment."—From The Green Bag.

AN UNWRITTEN LAW.

Useful Knowledge for Travelers Crossing the Ocean the First Time.

At the end of a trip every passenger on a transatlantic steamer is supposed to give fees. It is an unwritten law, but as binding as the English constitution. The amount to be given always worries the novice, who dreads giving too little, and usually begrudges giving too much. From $5 to $10 dollars and a half to the man who waits on you at table, says Robert Luce in his book entitled, "Going Abroad," and a like amount to the man or woman who takes care of your stateroom, he or she will be disappointed if not much and no more is expected; if more is given, you are thought generous, but no benefit accrues to you, and often but slight benefit to the recipient, for frequently the receipts of all the stewards are pooled at the end of the trip, and then divided equitably. So, in making a large gift, you but present so much money to the whole body of stewards. The deck steward usually receives a small fee from those who have called upon him for services. When there is a band, it is customary to take up a collection for its benefit. The men who frequent the smoking-room usually make up a purse for the smoking-room steward, but that is wholly a matter of generosity. All in all, probably the majority of passengers give between five and ten dollars; married couples give between them little more than single passengers. And more is given on the outward than on the homeward trip, after novices find that feeling is not all the American, in matter of business and not of kindness. Steward's fees are included in the passage money on a few boats, but your steward would probably feel unhappy if he didn't get at least a dollar extra.

A DOG AS LEGATEE.

Old John A. Spooner of Chicago, Has Left by Will, $1,700 to His Pet Dog.

There is a dog called Rover in Chicago, which can say in plain English: "I own property." It is only by heir to an estate should he live long enough. The deed constituting him the sole legatee of John A. Spooner was executed a few days ago by Attorney E. E. Ellis, son, and it has now been filed away until Spooner's death.

Spooner is an old seafaring man, who has also been a tramp, a fisherman, and an oysterman. During the course of a long life he accumulated $1,700. This money he has now left by will to his dog Rover, naming the Guarantee Title and Trust Company, of Chicago, as trustee. After the death of Rover the money is to go to the sister of the testator, living in England.

Spooner discovered the dog when the latter was little more than a pup, while in the habit of expectorating on the floors of street cars or of using profanity in public leads me to think that they have got a very good start."—Washington Star.

Rover had a tin can tied to his tail and whined so piteously at Spooner that the latter took pity upon him and made him his companion.

Since that day Rover and Spooner have been inseparable, sharing each other's food and bed when sleeping out of doors, and occupying the same room when putting up at city lodging houses. —New York Journal.

Popocatepetl's Rabbits.

One would hardly look for a new species of rabbit high up on the side of a great volcanic mountain. Yet Dr. C. H. Merriam has recently described just such an animal, which was discovered at an elevation of 10,000 feet, on the flank of Popocatepetl, the "mountain that smokes," near the city of Mexico. It is remarkably small does not jump like an ordinary rabbit but runs on all fours, possesses no tail, has short ears, and lives on the grass covering the slopes of the mountain below the region of snow and volcanic sand.

"Bertie, you cruel boy, how can you hear your baby sister cry?"

"Why, that's easy—every body in the block can."—Truth.

TOYS OF INDIAN CHILDREN.

They Have Much the Same Desires As Do Those in Civilization.

An article on "Home Life Among the Indians" is written for the "Century" by Mrs. Alice C. Fletcher. The author says: Playthings are improvised by the Indian youngster with the small power of invention. Fine war-bonnets are made from cornhusks, at the expense of much time and labor, and everything that children see is modeled in clay; dishes, pipes, ponies, whole villages, show the imitative faculty while coffins with a bit of glass set in the lid covering a pinched-up baby indicate their keen observation of new customs. Dolls vary as much as the children and their surroundings. Stone babies are not uncommon among the Alaskans, dull enough in appearance but evidently responsive in the fancy of the small Northwesterner. Dollies made of fawnskin, with painted eyes and cheeks and real hair, having hands with wonderfully tapering fingers, and clad in gala garments and moccasins fitting well their diminutive feet, are the delight of the children of the plains. One woman who was skilful in the manufacture of dolls, made a pair for me, but refused to duplicate them, because she had already used nearly all her own hair in the construction of dolls. Hobby horses for boys are as universal as dolls for girls. The sunflower stalk, with one nodding blossom left on the end, is a favorite pony. In their races the boys ride one stalk and trail two or three others after them as "fresh horses," thus increasing the dust and excitement of the play.

ARMED FOR EMERGENCIES.

How Nansen's Quickness of Thought Saved Him from Assailants.

When Fridtjof Nansen was a young student he attended a ball and danced with many partners. Returning long after midnight through the streets to his lodgings he heard loud outcries from a woman who was struggling with two ruffians. In another moment the woman broke away from them and ran toward the spot where Nansen was standing. The two men were close behind her in hot pursuit.

Nansen was an athlete full of courage and vigor and put himself on guard as the men approached. He allowed the woman to pass him, and when the infuriated pursuers to halt, standing directly in their way, and hitting out first at one and then at the other. The ruffians, angered by this unexpected attack, turned resentfully upon the rescuer and would have overpowered him and possibly murdered him, if he had not shown presence of mind. Drawing himself to his full height and throwing back his coat collar so as to expose the cotillion favors which he had worn during the ball, he sternly asked them if they knew who he was.

The two assailants, awed by his manner, and supposing him to be a royal officer, were at once cowed. They apologized roughly for not recognizing him, dropped their arms and sneaked off in the opposite direction from that which the woman had taken.—Youth's Companion.

STOMACH CLEANING.

A Sponge Put in the Stomach and Made to Revolve at Any Desired Speed.

Stomach-cleaning companies may soon be organized on the same plan that window-cleaning companies now operate in our cities, writes George B. Waldron in The Illustrated American. The work of purifying that all-important organ is done by means of an instrument called a sponge, which consists of a small sponge attached to a spiral steel wire cable enclosed in a tube. The patient swallows the sponge and a portion of the tube. The turning of the cable causes the sponge to revolve at a speed that may be desired. By pushing or pulling the cable various portions of the inner wall of the stomach may be operated upon. Dr. Turck has introduced a new element into the process in Edison fluoroscope. This instrument he puts to his eye, and by means of the X-rays is able to follow the progress of the sponge along the wall of the stomach and to direct the operation. Strangely enough, the process caused no discomfort to the patient, though it was continued for more than an hour.

An Odious Companion.

"I don't think there is any doubt about the Indians progressing in civilization," remarked the professor.

"I haven't had very extensive opportunities for observation," replied the prim old lady, "but the fact that none of the Indians I ever saw were in the habit of expectorating on the floors of street cars or of using profanity in public leads me to think that Dead to the World.

"You have ruined my life," he said bitterly, just after she had broken the engagement. "My ambition is dead. I go to seek everlasting oblivion."

Then he became Vice President of the United States, and was never heard of again.—New York Journal.

A Trick of the Bank of France.

When a suspicious looking person approaches one of the tellers in the Bank of France a private signal is given to a concealed photographer and in a few seconds the suspected individual is secretly photographed.

Twenty-Six Children in Thirty-One Years.

Marion Vanderpool and wife are the parents of twenty-six children, the youngest being about 5 years old. The couple are about 50 years old, and have been married 31 years, and the wife has never given birth to twins, triplets, quartets, or quintets. Most of the children are living.—Corbin, Ky., News.

THE ANDREE BALLOON HOUSE.

It May Never Again Cover the Balloon for Which It Was Built.

The entire civilized world is waiting anxiously for news from Dr. Andree, whose balloon trip toward the North Pole was started last month. The picture herewith given shows the house in which the balloon was built. Although this balloon may be regarded as being almost every respect a novelty, the most striking characteristic is the guiding and steering apparatus. This apparatus, to describe it in brief, consists mainly of guiding ropes of different lengths, the shortest being about 1,000 feet, and the longest about 1,300 feet in length. These ropes hang from the bearing-ring just above the car and drag along the earth or ice. The idea of having different lengths of rope is that in case one of them got foul of some object, the others should run free. These guiding ropes drag after the balloon, and are shifted by the voyager as he wills, so that their weight and hold on the balloon shall affect its course in one direction or another. It was Dr. Andree's intention to keep about 500 feet above the earth—that is, of course, on the average; for it is obvious that when the weather is bright and warm the balloon would ascend a little, while when it is dull and colder it would come nearer the earth. Still, the guiding-ropes are intended to prevent its ascending above a certain altitude.

THE ANDREE BALLOON-HOUSE.

The car is, however, the most interesting part of the whole aerial vessel. It is only about 5 feet deep and a little over 6 feet in diameter. It is covered with a lid of basket-work, and in the lid there is a trap-door to allow the explorers to pass through. One man sleeps at a time, while the others are at work and at watch. The question of the hour is: "What has become of Andree and of his balloon?"

Admiral Beardslee.

Admiral Beardslee, who has just been superseded by Admiral Miller at Honolulu, is expected to make an interesting report to the Secretary of the Navy on Hawaiian affairs.

Lester A. Beardslee is one of the picturesque characters of the navy. He was born at Little Falls, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1836. Receiving a common school education, he was appointed acting midshipman March 3, 1855.

After being promoted to passed midshipman, June 20, 1856, he was detailed for special service on the steam frigate Merrimac. His promotions to be master and lieutenant followed soon afterward. On July 16, 1863, he was made lieutenant commander and was attached to the monitor Nantucket. He participated in the attack of the ironclad fleet upon the defenses of Charleston Harbor, April 7, 1863, and in the capture of the Confederate steamer Florida, at Bahia.

ADMIRAL BEARDSLEE.

In November, 1880, Commander Beardslee got his captain's commission and with it at last leave of absence for two years. He commanded the receiving ship Franklin during 1883 and 1884, when he was transferred to the steam frigate Powhatan. Later he was stationed at the torpedo station and on the receiving ship Vermont. From 1891 to 1894 he commanded the naval station at Port Royal, S. C. On August 24, 1894, Capt. Beardslee was transferred to the Pacific station. He was made commodore June 27, 1893, and rear admiral March 1, 1895.

A Decorated Pillowcase.

The cushion is 6 1-4 inches long each way across, covered with tea-green

A DECORATED PILLOW-CASE.

corded silk, and trimmed with frill of the same 1-2 inches deep, requiring straight double strips, folded over in halves and gathered twice with herding.

140 ABOVE ZERO.

EMPLOYES OF SUGAR REFINERIES WORK IN THAT TEMPERATURE.

Dante's Inferno Almost Equalled in Some Parts of the Sugar Houses—Many Men Fall from Exhaustion During the Heated Term.

Of all the hot places it is the privilege of many to enter sugar refineries are undoubtedly the hottest. In the tall structures along the river front in Brooklyn can be seen daily hundreds of men to whom a temperature made as has driving in most New Yorkers to despair would be a godsend. Every morning till night these men labor in rooms the temperature of which seldom falls below 140.

In all the tales of suffering from the heat that come from the large cities of the country none are more distressing than those from the sugar houses. It may be an element in the business that men should literally be roasted to death in order to carry it forward. The capitalists who conduct refineries know that such is the case. They declare that their establishments cannot be shut down during the excessively hot months of the summer, and they add that they keep the buildings as cool as possible for the men.

This is one instance, however, in which it seems incredible that human beings can long survive the heat imposed upon them. The man engaged in this industry get through the winter months with considerable difficulty, owing to the heat, and when the summer sun returns they find themselves working in terrible furnaces, such as a modern Dante's inferno might show the windows wide open, and resort to mechanical devices to keep cool, but the effort is vain. Few men can hold their own against a temperature of 140, even when no exertion is required by them. Much more intolerable is that engaged in the laborious work of a sugar refinery go about their duties and long survive the intense heat.

The department of the Brooklyn refineries in which the sugar is crystallized would be regarded by most persons as extremely hot, yet it is very comfortable when compared with the temperature in other departments. Here the sugar is poured into a semi-liquid state in metal cones, which act as filters or coolers. The heat is very oppressive, and many employes drop down while at work despite the fact that their dress consists only of light overalls and heavy shoes. The cones into which the sugar is poured stand on their narrow ends in racks all about the floor, and the workmen stand over them in the heat radiating from the hot sugar. Even in the coldest winter of the year and with the windows all open the men here cannot wear thin underskirts with comfort. Streams of perspiration run down their backs as they bend over their work. To add to their discomfort the air in the room is moist and steamy.

But wearing as it is the work on the lower floors, it is in the upper stories of the refineries that the extreme measure of suffering is to be found. There the temperature stays regularly in the vicinity of 140 degrees and over. It is on these floors that workmen fall exhausted day after day. Some revive on being taken to a window, while others are able only to get to their homes. But the collapse of one or two or a half dozen men in the afternoon no longer is regarded as a matter worth mentioning. It has come to be considered as merely incidental to the business.

The majority of the employes in these departments of the big refineries are Poles and Hungarians, who are able to become sugar refiners as soon as they land in this country, and they try to adapt themselves to the conditions they find in the factories. Those who seem able to stand the work are sent to the top floor, where are great vats, with cooling pipes passing between them. In these vats the sugar is boiled. The men stand over the vats stirring the sugar with long sticks. On all sides are big tanks, and each of these radiates an intense heat.

When to the closeness of the room and the heavy work are added all the other discomforts of the work, it becomes little wonder that the men drop in their tracks from day to day. They look pale and careworn, all of them; their feet stick to the sugar covered planks as they walk between the vats, and their garments are covered with perspiration. I am told that as many as eight unfortunates have succumbed to the heat in a single alley in one afternoon, and that four men fell where they stood in the next alley.

One floor of the refineries is cool, and it is covered by the big heads of the great vats which are filled below. The feet of the workmen have to become accustomed to the heat of this floor before the men can endure it. The bases of these filters are two floors below, where they are placed so close together that the men can barely have room to bring coal for the furnaces. Here air is almost unknown, and clothing a burden. The men from furnace to furnace with their loads of coal perspiration drips from every pore of their half nude bodies. The only opportunity to get air is when they are waiting for a new load of coal outside.

And for all of the toiling and suffering in this intense heat the men are paid from $1.44 to $1.95 for a day's work of from twelve to fifteen hours.—New York Herald.

The View of It.

"Why don't you work? Why do you go around begging?"

"Well, mum, if you think beggin' isn't work just try it."—Judge.

NEW GOLD DIGGINGS.

HOW THEY WERE DISCOVERED—FORTUNES MADE WITH EASE.

The Biggest Field Yet Found According to Reports—Laborers Receive Fifteen Dollars a Day With Board, and Work Guaranteed One Hundred Days.

Among the people who have recently returned from the new Klondyke gold mines are men who had been for more than ten years facing the dangers and hardship of the frozen North in the hope of making a rich find, and signally failed. Now they come back with fortunes stored in their gripsacks and stories of untold millions to be picked up in the country of which so little is known. The new Eldorado lies just across the Alaska boundary in British territory. It is of recent discovery, but already there are at least three thousand people on the ground, and more are flocking in that direction.

The discovery of the Klondyke region presents a story that is uncommonly interesting. Around Forty-Mile Camp, on the Yukon, is a tribe of Indians, known as the Slickers, and with them is a man, who, years ago, was known as George Cormack, but who is now called "Slick George." In September last, at the head of a party of Indians, he left that post near Forty-Mile Camp and started in a southerly direction, saying that he intended to find a new gold field before his return. He came back two weeks later and startled the miners with the announcement that forty miles away there was gold to be found in plenty. The streams abounded with the yellow metal, and all that was needed was for something to pick it up. Many persons flocked to the place, and in time the word reached Forty-Mile Camp that untold riches could be had on the Klondyke of Bonanza Creek, and its tributaries. Men who had failed at the former camp immediately packed up their belongings and set out for the new fields. It was a hard and trying journey, but that was nothing with the promise of millions at the end of the route.

The following is an extract from a letter received by the steamer Excelsior, which arrived from Alaska, a short time ago. It was sent from the Klondyke region by a prominent and wealthy young business man of San Francisco to his brother in this city:

"The excitement on the river is indescribable and the output of the new Klondyke district is almost beyond belief. Men who had nothing last fall are now worth a fortune. One of my wife's former fancy squads fell in his claim, and is going out with $40,000 in dust. One-quarter of a claim is now selling at from $15,000 to $50,000. The estimate of the district given is thirteen miles, with an average value of $500,000 to the claim. Some are valued as high as $1,000,000 each. At Dawson sacks of dust are thrown under the counters in the store for safe keeping.

"Some of the stories are so fabulous that I am afraid to repeat them, for fear of being suspected of the infection. Labor is $15 a day and board, with one hundred days' work guaranteed; so you can imagine how difficult it is to hold employes.

"If reports are true, it is the biggest place discovery made in the world, for though other diggings have been found quite as rich in spots, no such extent of discovery has been known which prospected and worked so high right through."—New York Tribune.

Sadly Mothers-In-Law.

The son-in-law can speak to her only when they are 50 or 100 feet apart at the top of his voice to make himself heard. If he meets her suddenly he must turn his head and if possible cover his face. Unless he happens to have his shield with him, however, his whole wardrobe may consist of a displeased expression of countenance and a loin-cloth. He will then turn his back and get away as fast as possible. The mother-in-law herself generally turns her back and kneels under a bush or behind a rock, as if hiding from him. Neither he nor mother-in-law ever mentions the other's name. The origin of this remarkable custom is unknown.

The theory that etiquette belongs only to high society among civilized people is generally held, but it is a mistaken one. It is among barbarous tribes that it is carried to the highest perfection. The Kaffirs have a most intricate code, well illustrated in the ceremonies necessary in all dealings, a man has with his mother-in-law in Kaffir society. After a Kaffir marries he is never allowed to speak familiarly to his wife's mother or look her in the face. When he wishes to speak to her he must get away fifty or a hundred yards from her—so far that he is obliged to shout.

Sightless Woman Farmer.

There lives in Oak Hill, Tex., a blind girl who has from a few acres of land cultivated by herself, cleared about $200 each season for several years by the growing for sale of vegetables. She began with no capital and an unfenced piece of uncultivated land. There is now a neat fence about her domain, a well and pump in the centre, and she has, in addition to purchasing these, paid for a piano and hack to take her vegetables to the market, which is twenty miles from her home. Each evening during the dry season she waters a certain number of plants until she has gone over the entire piece, when she begins and goes over it again in the same way. Insect life she detects from her acute sense of hearing, and grass and weeds are easily distinguished from plants by the sensitive fingers of the blind gardener.—New York Journal.

Embroidered Case.

The case here shown is intended for a traveller's "Guide Book," and has also a separate pocket for railway ticket, note book, visiting cards, etc. The ornamentation should signify the country for which the traveller is bound, and a sprig of pomegranate embroidered on front and back of the case, declares its place of destination. A piece of butcher-blue linen 6 3-4 inches high and 10 1-4 inches long across is required for the case, yet stuff must be allowed for the turnings in at the seams, as also for the pockets —these are 4 inches large—into which the cover of the book is slipped. An extra pocket 2 inches large is set on to one of these, and a pencil slipped beside it into a linen sheath, made of double stuff like the leather strings 3-8 of an inch wide and 5 1-2 inches long, set on to the front edges of the case. The embroidery is worked with fine soft white cotton. Brown sateen is laid on for the initial letters and edged with fourfold pomegranate-red thread fastened down with buttonhole stitches made wide apart; the contours of the letters being worked with blue cotton, and knot stitches in the same color giving the fillings. Dull-green is used for the stalks, the veins of the leaves and the line of chain-stitches bordering the embroidery on the outside, which are interrupted by small leaves starting from the flowers done in leaf stitch and edged with satin stitch of a duller shade. The buds and blossoms are executed with two shades of pomegranate-red.

EMBROIDERED CASE.

Genius and Night.

Godebski, the most famous of European sculptors, has placed on exhibition in one of the German art galleries his greatest work "Genius and Night." It is regarded by critics as the century's greatest achievement in marble, and has lifted its creator into the ranks of the immortals. The idea typified is the aspiration of Genius striving after the perfect, reaching out his spiritualized being to heights untrod before, when in the midst of triumph death in the shape of earthly night grapples with and conquers him. It is, after all, simply the story of life, told again, in an ideal way.

An Historical Headquarters.

One of the historical structures at Regonville is about to be torn down, and with it goes an interesting landmark of the war of 1870-71. This is the famous building in which Emperor William I. slept after the battle of

AN HISTORICAL HEADQUARTERS.

Oravelate. Near it is the structure occupied by Napoleon on the night of August 15. All the furnishings of the former building are being kept as historical relics, even to the bed in which the aged Emperor slept.

A criminal from the rural districts, who had heard all about the appeals to the Supreme Court, and who had been convicted of a penitentiary offence, was asked by the judge if he had anything to say.

"I jest wants ter ax one question, Judge."

"Well, sir?"

He stooped down—picked up his slouch hat from the floor, as though ready to depart, and said:

"Whar 'bouts is this here Supreme Court at?"—Atlanta Constitution.

SKYWARD ON A KITE.

A MAINE INVENTOR SOARS UPWARD ON AN AIRSHIP.

Wind Is the Motive Power—He Remains Poised in Air at Will and Might Ascend to Any Height He Pleased—He Cannot, However, Descend at Will.

Charles H. Lamson of Portland, Me. has demonstrated to the world that he has invented a life-airship which is capable of raising a man from the ground to almost any height and sustaining him in the air. The weak point in his invention is that while he can raise himself with his kite at will, he cannot lower himself. But this defect he hopes soon to remedy.

The demonstration of his kite's powers was made in the presence of a number of well-known scientists who have taken much interest in the study of aerial navigation, and they all agree that the results Mr. Lamson has attained are of great interest and value. They look upon Mr. Lamson's achievement as a distinct step forward towards the accomplishment of practical aerial navigation.

Exactly what this last laborer in the field of aeronautics has done is to prove that it is possible for a man to ascend in the air on a kite, taking his seat while the kite remains stationary on the ground and then rising easily and safely with it on its upward flight. Men have been sustained on kites before, but in all previous cases the kite has first been sent up into the air and the rider afterwards hauled up to it by means of pulleys and ropes.

THE KITE-AIRSHIP.

Mr. Lamson's kite sails away with its passenger, and if he could make it come down when he wanted to, aerial flight would be, at least, a partial success.

The kite weighs about 100 pounds, and its rider sits in a boat-shaped car, which is suspended from between the two sets of box kites. Attached to the bottom of the car are two bicycle wheels, by means of which the kite can be moved along the ground without danger of breaking the structure. The sails are so placed that when the supporting surfaces are folded down the kite may be moved about by one man.

Mr. Lamson has made two ascensions, rising each time about fifty feet from the ground and remaining poised in the air for fully half an hour each time. He intends to add to his kite a feature which will make it possible for the rider in the car to raise and lower it at will so that it will either ascend or descend at his pleasure. He will do this by passing a cord around the bowsprit of the machine and attaching one end of it to the forward sail, while the other end passes through the pulley in the guiding line and back into the rider's hands. Mr. Lamson refuses to say just what he thinks may be developed from this airship-kite of his, but he believes it will be possible for a man to ascend to almost any height in the air and remain there as long as he wishes and then descend to the ground in safety by pulling on the cord, which will be attached to the forward sail.

Last year Congress appropriated a certain sum of money to be expended in experiments with kites by the Blue Hill (Mass.) Meteorological Station and at this point, the kites furnished by Mr. Lamson are being used. They are sent up into the clouds a thousand feet or more above the earth, and have instruments attached to them for recording the temperature and the direction of the air currents and other interesting data.

A Flood Sufferer.

"You a sufferer by the recent big floods? Get away with you!" said the stern lady. "You have been hanging around town here all this winter and spring."

"But I am, lady, indeed I am," protested Mr. Dismal Dawson. "I got to thinkin' of all that water, an' it made me that sick 'n' weak that I ain't been even able to ask for work."

A PARIS SUGGESTION.

CURRENT COMMENT.

That Kentucky judge who justifies the taking of human life by talking of "unwritten law" is playing with fire in a state which is quite noted for the desire of its people to shoot on sight provocation.

An insurance company for umbrellas and canes has been organized in London, and it will issue policies on other articles easily mislaid or lost. Of course, it will look up lost articles, and may make it uncomfortable for those whose absence of mind takes the form of collecting umbrellas.

In the New York city directory the Smiths still retain a long lead. They number 2,113, the Browns coming next with 1,562. There are 1,495 Millers, 1,210 Murphys, 1,102 Meyers, 1,086 Johnsons, 1,074 Kellys and 1,006 Cohens. No other name reaches the thousand mark.

Secretary of the Navy Long says he cannot make Washington seem like home, and it always appears as if he were there only temporarily. The Secretary is credited with a desire to Americanize the United States navy before his term of office expires. His idea refers simply to the crews, which are now largely composed of aliens.

When Prof. Roentgen announced his discovery of the X ray, eighteen months ago, his films were exposed for two hours. Now a radiograph is taken in three or four minutes. Prof. Roentgen used a preparation of barium, which costs $1.25 a grain, but Edison found that the tungstate of calcium, costing a ninth as much, answers the purpose. No doubt other important improvements in the process will be made during the next year.

During the past four months the Ohio penitentiary has paid all its running expenses, and has a surplus of $2,250.65. It is an object lesson to other states. Criminals are better off when fully employed, and state prisons should not be a burdensome tax upon the people. The cost of sending the rogues and villains there is enough; they should be made to pay for their board, and lodging, and the fact that one state is doing it in a humane way is encouraging.

There will be no trouble about Britain's annexation of the Solomon Islands. Annexation is that country does not mean the same thing as it does in this one. The Solomon Islanders will not become, in any sense, rulers of Great Britain. They will not be admitted to citizenship, with a chance to cast the deciding vote in a close election. They will be tributaries, governed by an English official, in whose appointment they will have no voice, and their chief privilege under the empire on which the sun never sets will be to contribute their share of the taxes. Ther is nothing dangrous to Great Britain in the British style of annexation.

"It may be that we are approaching a period of government by groups," Edwin Fleming, the Buffalo editor, said. He was talking of the divisions in the House and Senate, especially in the Senate. In the latter body the lines which divide gold Democrats, silver Democrats, Populists, Silverites, silver *Republicans and sound money Republi*cans grow more distinct. The old demarcation between the two great parties, the Republicans and the Democrats is fading. Each group manifests increasing determination to maintain its identity. There is no fusion in the former sense. There are combinations and alliances for specific and limited purposes. When the end is gained the temporary partnership dissolves. What was once known as the party vote is strangely infrequent. Even before the tariff schedules the old alignments can not be maintained.

Either the Andree polar expedition is the boldest and bravest exploit man has ever attempted, or it is a piece of incomprehensible foolhardiness. To find the North Pole by means of a balloon is one of those transcendental scientific feat of which the ordinary layman has no right to express an opinion. All he can do is to ask questions. If the winds blow long and hard enough to take these hardy adventurers to the Pole, what is to blow them back again? However, this is childishness. The true scientific spirit, when the Pole is in question, does not ask to come back if he can only reach the terra incognita. It is content to write Eureka, put it in a bottle, and die.

Offensive alliances now being in order, the latest is an alliance of Canada and Mexico to flank the United States. The Evening Post points out that unless something is done with our tariff-making Senate this is sure to come about and then, with Japan and Spain unites against us, the ironclads of one sweeping the Atlantic and those of the other mopping up the Pacific, we will never when it is too late that we hurt Spain's feelings. The financial experts of the Post think that the effectual way to stop all this is to cease building a navy of our own. A kindly exhibit of friendly helplessness on our part would disarm all these peoples.

A Parisian Sideboard.

This large decorative sideboard was designed by M. Charles Plumet, the famous Paris architect, and forms part of a complete dining-room suite for a modern residence. A sideboard is intended to hold china, and china is heavy, so strong cupboards with doors have been constructed for its reception. For silver, knives, etc., three drawers have been set apart over the mantel which forms part of the sideboard. In order to prevent an ungraceful effect resulting from this simple combination, the artist has placed over the doors a few shelves of elegant design, destined for pottery, so much in vogue. These shelves are surmounted by a large mirror, in several panes and this forms an effective background for whatever may be placed before it. Finally, to avoid all appearance of heaviness, the two cupboards have recessed spaces beneath, and are sustained by cabriole supports.

A Parisian mantlepiece.

New Style Bedroom Furniture.

The roomy and comfortable bed is carved in rich polished walnut, and the light and graceful treatment of the head and foot gives a delightful play of light and shade. The outlines are elegant though simple, and, set off by the beautiful cowrier embroidered in appliqua in delicate shades and gold thread on a green watered silk, strike one as being peculiarly happy. The wardrobe is in the same style as the bed, and has, to the right and left, two panels of bevelled glass above drawers fitted with gilt-bronze mounts. These mirrors serve to reflect the objets d'art and little feminine fancies which may be placed amid the irregular and picturesque shelving. One cannot but admire the skill displayed in the arrangement of the pediment, the harmonious sweep of its arch, and the graceful way in which it springs from the system of shelves on each side.

New Style bedroom Furniture.

At Washington Park, Chicago.

One of the greatest races of the year was the meeting between Azra, Star Pointer and Joe Patchen, at Washington Park, and the picture shows the last-named horse starting on his warming up gallop. All three heats of the race were identical, and the story of it is the story of all. From a spectacular standpoint it was the greatest harness horse race between two horses in the history of the sport, as at no time during the race were they half a length apart. While McClary and Pointer had the pole, they allowed Ames and his black stallion to do all the racing. When Patchen went to the quarter in 30½ seconds Pointer did the same, and when he went there in 32 seconds the bay horse were no faster. At times the black horse would be in front by a length, but always on striking the stretch Pointer would take a head and neck the best of it, and with Driver McClary sitting perfectly still, with a strong hold on his horse and his whip sticking straight up, he would maintain this short advantage to the finish, while the handsome black, encouraged by Ames' voice, his whip and the lines, struggled desperately, but hopelessly beaten, alongside.

Pacing at Washington Park.

"I don't think you will be able to please me."

"I'm afraid not, madam. We haven't anything in stock small enough for you."

"I think, after all, you had better send me a couple of dozen pairs."

Gifted Amateur—Yaas, I'm wedded to my art, don't ye know.

Candid Critic—Then you must find that marriage is a failure.

"Does your husband make you a weekly allowance?"

"No, but I have to make daily allowances for him."

WASHINGTON NOTES.

During the close of the session the odor of lemons pervaded the entire Senate wing of the Capitol. It was the season of apollinaris lemonade at the Senate as well as the season of tariff debate. The lemonade was made downstairs and carried in buckets through the corridors into the cloak rooms, where two big bowls were kept constantly replenished, one on the Republican and one on the Democratic side. The beverage was very popular with the Senators, and also with the page boys and other employees, and when the first bowl of the summer was opened, one of the youngsters drank twenty-four glasses of it during one day's session. A hard and fast rule was promulgated that no boy should drink more than four glasses a day. No restriction, however, was placed on the habits of Senators.

Some Senate Traditions.

"It is astonishing," said a member of the Senate, at the last session, "how many traditions have accrued to the Senate which date back to its origin, have recently been disregarded, and how many old customs have disappeared. When I took my seat, seven years ago, quill pens were still in general use, and no one ever thought of employing a blotter—that was altogether too modern and commonplace. The ink was dried with sand thrown from boxes, which were supplied to every desk.

"To-day the only man in the Senate who uses a quill pen is Senator Morrill of Vermont, and he is too old to be converted to anything so Philistine as a steel point. As to the sand boxes, a few of them are still in use, but I predict that before many years have gone by they will be preserved only as curiosities."

The Senator attributed this ignoring of traditions to the presence of so many young men in the upper house. He said that can hardly be appreciated unless one compares the directory of to-day with those of ten or fifteen years back. Formerly it was rare for a man to be promoted to the Senate under forty-five, while the list distinctly shows any number of men between the ages of forty and fifty, and a number under forty.

Senator Marion Butler is the baby of the Senate, being only thirty-three. Penrose is thirty-seven and Cannon thirty-eight. Pritchard, Carter, Chilton, McBride and Kyle are all under forty-five, while Wellington, Mantle, Fairbanks, Lodge, Wilson, Turner, Hansbrough, Wolcott, Rawlins, Mason, Clay and Clark are between forty-five and fifty. The same condition prevails in the lower house. The members of each Congress seem to be younger than their predecessors, and it is evident that the voters of the United States do not consider it a crime to be a young man.

Teller at the White House.

Senator Henry M. Teller of Colorado, not slightly under the weight of 67 years, slowly walked into the White House on a recent morning with a doubtful air, like a sheep reluctantly going to the fold. He was dressed in a Prince Albert coat—the same style coat, in fact, that he wore on June 17, 1896, when he made his dramatic exit from the St. Louis Convention—dark trousers, calfskin shoes, and a plug hat, and carried a cane. It has been many a long day since Senator Teller entered the White House, and he walked as cautiously as though he were treading on broken glass or century plants. Every old attache of the White House recognized the Colorado Senator as he ambled through the corridor on his way to the main stairway. At the foot of the stairs he met several Senators who gazed at him in astonishment and marvelled at his presence in the White House. True, they said, Mr. Teller has the same right to visit the White House as any free-born American, but it seemed strange to them to see him there at this time.

It is only two days over a twelve-month that Mr. Teller was on the warpath. The occasion was the meeting of the Committee on Resolutions of the St. Louis Republican Convention. Mr. Teller was a member of that committee. It was well known that he favored the free coinage of silver, and, therefore, when he made the following remark it was not surprising:

"The time has come when I shall be obliged to leave the Republican party if it declares for the single gold standard."

From that day to this Mr. Teller has been a political wanderer on the face of the earth. The Senators who met Mr. Teller at the foot of the White House stairs were present at the St. Louis Convention, and the action of Mr. Teller and his colleagues, Cannon, Dubois, Hartman et al., was fresh in their memories. They pictured in their mind's eye the Colorado Senator, with flushed face, grizzly beard, and husky voice, standing on the Speaker's rostrum in Convention Hall, appealing in impassioned tones for the adoption for the free-coinage clause in the platform. They could see the man who had been conspicuous in Republican counsels for a third of a century slowly descend into the body of the convention, and, amid hisses and catcalls, file down the main aisle and out of the convention, followed by men of his ink, never to return. SENATOR.

Wendell Phillips once, when he was interrupted by an unfriendly audience, stopped short and began talking in a low voice to the men at the reporters' table. Some of the auditors, becoming curious, called "Louder." Whereupon Mr. Phillips straightened himself up and exclaimed: "No right on, gentlemen, with your noise. Through these pencils"—pointing to the reporters—"I speak to forty million people."

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

WOMAN'S RIGHT TO VOTE

STATE SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT BAXTER FAVORS THEIR CLAIM.

Believes that the Interest in School Affairs Would Be Greatly Increased—Rev. Dr. Richards on Race-Track Gambling.

The parlor meeting held at the home of Henry Wells, No. 80 Washington avenue, last Monday, for the purpose of discussing the coming election for the proposed amendments to the constitution, was a great success, and to use the words of the chairman of the meeting it was a "Select audience, brilliantly enlightened." The meeting was called to order by Mr. Wells, and Charles W. McCutchen was chosen chairman. The latter accepted the honor with thanks, but professed his inability to say very much owing to the fact that he was not well posted concerning the subject under consideration. The chairman introduced as the first speaker, Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church. The reverend stated that the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield were always ready to stand together on questions of moral issue. He then said that the most forcible stafement that could be made concerning the subject under discussion was to take a retrospective view of the legislation in this State during the past few years. The doctor then reviewed the history relative to the acts of the Legislature and the people on gambling and about the race-tracks. He showed conclusively that thus far right had made a decided improvement and won the day. He thought that the election of a race-track starter to the Legislature was a contemptuous piece of business and an insult to the decent people of New Jersey. He spoke of the great uprising a few years ago when the people of this State congregated at Trenton for the purpose of holding a mass meeting to agitate the issues that confronted them. As a result the corrupt office-holders were swept away and the pernicious law on the statute books was also wiped out. The last step was now about to be taken and he hoped it would be a final step that will forever settle the matter of gambling and lottery.

At this point the proposed amendments were read by David P. Hall for the enlightenment of those present. The next speaker was State Superintendent of Schools Charles J. Baxter. This speaker was very pronounced in his views concerning school suffrage for women, that being his theme. He did not think that petty politics should enter school matters, and was of the opinion that women should be given the privilege of voting as they have petitioned. He was opposed to the one-man power and thought that if women were elected to membership on school boards it would be impossible for such a thing to occur. He said that at present there are 5,620 teachers in the schools of this State and of this number 729 are male and 4,841 female. He said that there should be more male teachers for they have the vital force and power to rule. He felt that there is a lack of interest manifested on the part of the citizens of this State in school matters and things pertaining to education. He urged more interest on the part of all.

The next speaker, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, was enthusiastically received by all. This ardent and faithful worker in the cause of suffrage for women gave a brief talk urging all to extend the interest of the movement on foot, and to substantiate her position as to right, read a number of letters from school superintendents throughout the State in which everyone expressed the idea that school suffrage for women would be a good thing and gave instances of what it had done in certain localities.

D. P. Hall was the next speaker, and he spoke more especially on the legal status of the coming election regarding the peculiarity of the tickets to be used. He said that the race track men and their supporters in the State had been alive and awake for some time past and would put forth every effort to defeat the law of good morals and government. He urged that every voter vote the straight ticket and that the women see to it that their husbands do so. He thought that there was danger to be feared in cities where the proposed amendment regarding suffrage does not apply, for the citizens are likely to show an indifference and not vote.

The chairman then called on S. St. John McCutchen, president of the North Plainfield Board of Education, who spoke briefly concerning school suffrage for women. He stated that it would be a good thing to have women on the school boards and to have a law allowing women to vote in school matters. He thought there was a better field for women where their genius and their work could be exhibited.

Rev. Mr. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls church, spoke briefly about the direct influence of woman being needed in school matters, and said what is a house without a woman. He favored strongly school suffrage for women.

At this time Mr. Hall read a letter from Superintendent H. M. Maxson, of the Plainfield schools, in which the latter expressed deep regrets that he could not be present.

In closing, the chairman and Assemblyman W. R. Codington both made a few remarks favoring strongly the proposed amendments. The latter said that for two years he had had the pleasure of voting against the race-track and gambling, and he felt sure that the people of the State would effectually stamp out these modern evils.

After a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Wells for the use of his house the meeting adjourned.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
Lucas County.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrhal Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

A. W. GLEASON,
Seal
Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

ASLEEP IN AN ICEHOUSE.

A CHILLY NIGHT IT WAS BUT IT DIDN'T BOTHER HAMILTON.

He is an Up-to-Date Hobo Who Takes Things as They Come—A Saucy Word to Judge DeMeza Got Him Thirty Days More.

Ward McAllister Hamilton lived on the western prairies once. There they used to fight fire with fire. Being somewhat of a philosopher in his humble way Hamilton believed in fighting cold with ice. That was the reason that, last Monday, he picked out the icehouse of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, located near Grant avenue, on West Front street, for his lodging place for the night.

Hamilton came into the world with very bright prospects. He visited many parts of this country, but as his age increased so did his troubles, and Hamilton finally degenerated into a "hobo" of the first rank. Hamilton has always been proud and he now boasts of being the most up-to-date "hobo" on the road. He claims to be the "Ward McAllister of hoboism."

In all his travels, Hamilton never struck Plainfield until last night. He was fascinated with the place, but not its police force. He came from the direction of Somerville, where he has been studying municipal government and county fairs. It was chilly when Ward reached Plainfield and he wrapped his rags around him and bolted for the big icehouse. The icehouse was partially filled with the salt straw used in packing the ice for shipping and in a heap of that Mac found his bed.

Patrolman Vanderweg was on duty in that precinct and he spotted Friend Hamilton and marched him off to jail during the night. Hamilton growled at being disturbed but the powerful hand of the law brought him along all the same and he spent the night in one of the cells.

Roundsman Flynn felt rather sorry for the man locked up in the damp chilly cell on such a cold night and asked him if he was cold. Hamilton immediately ordered Flynn to a place where the cold does not trouble and blankets are at a discount.

After that, nobody disturbed the weary wanderer's slumbers.

Tuesday morning Hamilton was arraigned before the City Judge on the charge of vagrancy. He was was defiant and sullen and would talk little.

"I sentence you to the county jail for thirty days," remarked the Judge.

"Ugh! I don't care a —— for that," promptly replied the up-to-date "hobo."

"I'll make it sixty days," said Judge DeMeza. "And if you open your mouth again like that, I'll make it ninety." Hamilton was silent, and defiantly marched back to his cell satisfied that his lodging was provided for two months at least.

A BLUE LINER'S MISHAPS.

Express That Was in the Skillman Collision Ran Into a Train at Trenton Junction.

It seems as though the Royal Blue Line train, of which Charles Clapp is the engineer, and Frank Webster, of North Plainfield, is baggage-master, is fated. It is well remembered that this train met with a bad accident at Hopewell last Spring, and not a great while after the same train picked up a heavy plank on the roadbed after passing Bound Brook and the accident was not discovered until the train reached this city.

The last mishap to this train occurred Saturday night last when the train was near Trenton Junction. A stop was made at the Junction to let off passengers. The Junction had just been left behind when the crash came.

It happened that a freight train on a siding had backed up and got over on the main east-bound track just in time to run into the Blue Liner engine. The side of the cab on the engine of the latter train was taken away and the fireman received several slight injuries. Frank Webster, baggagemaster, was at the time lifting a trunk to place it on top of some others, and his left shoulder was badly wrenched. The injuries were not so serious as to detain him from work. Neither were those of the fireman. The rear part of the freight train was quite badly wrecked. When the Blue Liner train reached Bound Brook another engine was secured to take the train to Jersey City.

Who can fail to take advantage of this offer. Send 10 cents to us for a generous trial size or ask your druggist. Ask for Ely's Cream Balm, the most positive catarrh cure. Full size 50 cents.

ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N.Y. City.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since a boy, and I never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Samuel H. Edwards, of Carthage, N. Y., who is soon to take up his residence on Lee-rande avenue, has been the guest of Joseph E. Morse, of Franklin place.

Capsuloids.

Dr. Campbell's Wonderful Method of Restoring Natural Iron to the Blood, and Thus Curing Disease, Successfully Introduced in America.

Capsuloids, the great medicine which has cured thousands in London, England, and which is endorsed and prescribed by the most eminent English physicians, has come to America. It is not a patent or secret medicine. Capsuloids are little, soft gelatine globes of pure gelatine filled with the only natural iron yet discovered. This iron is exactly the same as the iron in your blood when healthy, and is not like the iron in ale, pills or mixtures that you have ever taken. The well-known London physician, Dr. Campbell, found that iron medicine disagreed with almost everybody, and after a series of experiments discovered that the iron in human blood, which is called Hæmoglobin, is identical with the iron in the blood of cows and bullocks. A means of extracting this natural iron or Hæmoglobin from the blood of healthy bullocks was discovered. It was re-dissolved, enclosed in a covering of pure gelatine in the form of a small pointed globe, known to physicians as Capsuloids. Many experiments made by Dr. Campbell and other London physicians demonstrated that when a Capsuloid was swallowed, the gelatine covering melted in a minute, and the dissolved iron or Hæmoglobin passed directly into the blood vessels, and within a few minutes was giving richness and color to the fluid of life, increasing the strength of all the nerves and tissues of the body.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

PUNTS AND KICKS NOW.

FOOTBALL SEASON WILL OPEN IN A SHORT TIME.

Plainfield Expects to Have a Crack Team That Will Hold Its Own With Any of the Amateurs in the State.

The opening of the football season is near at hand and on Saturday afternoon, October 2d, the Plainfield boys will line up on the gridiron for their first game of the season. Practice will begin this week and all the preparations are being made for a strong team to represent Plainfield on the gridiron.

A meeting of the Plainfield Athlectic Association, an organization composed of lovers of the sport with Thomas H. Kellar at the head, was held last Monday at the office of the Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company on North avenue. There were some twenty-five young men who attended the meeting and almost all were candidates for positions on the team. Much interest was manifested and everybody wanted to do all they could to make a strong team of the team along to a successful point.

The financial part of the team, the most important part, was reported on by the finance committee and it was shown that by plenty of hustling, the club could be placed on a firm financial footing. A regular canvass will be made of the town and all the members will assist. If the citizens all subscribe, Plainfield will have a team of which all can be proud and which will be able to hold its own with those of the larger cities in this part of Jersey and New York.

It was decided to begin practice on Thursday night in the vacant field on Westervelt avenue, on the Plainfield side of the brook. Practice will be by electric light. Several large 50-candle power lamps will be placed in the field, backed by reflectors, and connection made with the light circuit of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company. The field is a level one and will serve as a place for the night practice of signals and team play. The candidates below can will turn out on Saturday afternoon for a little practice. There will be a meeting of the association and the first practice at this field on Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Everyone who plays football is invited to attend the practice, for the association will pick the eleven best players they can find, and they wish to have plenty to select from.

At the meeting on Thursday night definite arrangements will be made regarding the location of the field where the team is to play. The choice lies between two fields, one on the line of the trolley and the other is Martine's common. It is probable that a captain will also be chosen.

NEW JERSEY DAY.

Ceremonies For Its Celebration at Nashville.

The commissioners appointed by Governor Griggs to represent New Jersey at the Tennessee Exposition now being held at Nashville have arranged the programme for "New Jersey Day," which occurs October 7th. Most of the commissioners will go to the exposition for that day. Gov. Griggs cannot attend, and Gen. James F. Rueling, the president of the commission, will in his stead respond for the State to the address of welcome by the Governor of Tennessee.

Jeremiah O'Rourke, of Newark, and W. H. Bodine, of Williamstown, will also make addresses, and a Mr. Atkinson, a Jerseyman residing in Kentucky and employing there 1,000 coal miners, will speak for New Jersey men in the south.

The commissioners will hold another meeting on the 24th instant.

Miss Nellie Breen, of Elizabeth, is visiting at the home of former Councilman and Mrs. V. L. Frazee, of West End Park.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar
for Medicine
until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This sort is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail; or 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are ten to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hand labor? Half of this depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. Men succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places begging for good men, and millions of $5 a week men begging for poor places. If you are worth $50 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to make his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman
NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the higher places and thus earn better pay. During its 40 years of life, more than 40,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand Departments.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C. GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE, NEW YORK.

THE DEALER'S FAVORITE
The Haller & Davis Piano
BUILT AND SOLD ON HONOR
$300 and up
and 3 years' time
Other makes $150 and up
Improvements $225 and up
Free music lessons
THE TWAY PIANO COMPANY
88 FIFTH AVE.

CANDIDATES IN UNION COUNTY.

Republicans and Democrats Who Are Anxious to Go to the Legislature.

It is now asserted that the Assembly nominees on the Republican ticket this fall in Union county will be J. Martin Ball, of Springfield; Roger Murray, of Plainfield, and Robert Houston, of Elizabeth. These are the men, it is said, whose candidacy is most favored by the party leaders. An attempt, however, will be made to turn down Ball, but he claims it won't succeed. His opponents want James R. Ferguson, of Cranford, to secure the nomination.

Ex-Freeholder Houston wants to be Sheriff next year, but he will take the Assembly nomination as a stepping stone to the higher honor.

Benjamin L. Lawrence, president of the Union County Democratic Club, is being pushed for the Assembly nomination on that side, and Alderman John J. Gardiner, of Elizabeth, has also Legislative aspirations. William Wolfskiel is also spoken of. So far these are the only three names mentioned in Democratic circles.

Health Means a perfect condition of the whole system. Pure blood is essential to perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood and thus gives health and happiness.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic and liver medicine. Price 25c.

Mrs. Dr. Grant has returned to this city where she will take up her residence.

THEATRICAL.

"A Broadway Girl," which will appear at Music Hall, on Friday, Sept. 24th, is a musical farce comedy which is brimful of good things, that are new and up-to-date, not a worn or threadbare feature are introduced from the rise to the fall of the curtain. From the time the performance begins laughter reigns supreme, and yet it is comedy that has a plot, and a purpose, with a cleverly written story, interpreted by a good, strong and clever company headed by Ed. Rogers and Ed. Ryan, who are ably assisted by Nellie Franklyn, Harry Edwards, Daisy Kerner, John Fields, Jr., Ryer sisters, Chas. H. Corman, Edith Chapman and others. No pains or expense have been spared in making "A Broadway Girl" the foremost farce comedy of the season. New and original music, songs, dances, specialties and big acts are introduced throughout the play, and an enjoyable evening is promised to those who will witness this matchless performance.

The performances of "A Stranger in New York" at the Garrick Theatre, New York, have been attended by large audiences. The stay of the farce at this house will be short, on account of previous engagements, but it is likely to be removed to another theatre. Harry Gilfoil has found much favor with his song in the first act and his imitations in the last.

Mr. and Mrs. Seeley Edsall, of Sandford avenue, have returned from Delaware Water Gap, where they have been spending the summer.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL XXX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1897. NO. 39.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

AMENDMENTS DEFEATED

The Vote Was Light and Little Interest Manifested.

MAJORITIES FOR ALL IN THIS CITY.

In the Big Cities the Vote was Overwhelmingly Against the Amendments—Took But a Short Time To Make the Count—Results in City, Borough and Other Towns of Somerset County.

Just as was predicted in Tuesday's issue the vote at the special election to determine the fate of the Constitutional amendments was light. In some of the districts in this city the count was completed in less than an hour after the polls closed, and had it not been for the delay in the first district of the Second ward, where a mistake was made at the start so as necessitating a partial recount, all the records would have been filed with the City Clerk before 10 o'clock.

A few men loitered around the polls, but there was no particular interest as to the result. It was remarkable how few persons regarded the result with importance.

The majority in the State against the anti-gambling amendment will be about 8,000.

The results in the city, borough and other towns in this immediate vicinity were as follows:

Plainfield.

ANTI-GAMBLING AMENDMENT.

	For.	Against.
1st Ward, 1st district	164	105
1st Ward, 2d district	57	22
2d Ward, 1st district	247	63
2d Ward, 2d dis rict	29	13
3d Ward, 1st district	230	79
3d Ward, 2d district	149	129
4th Ward, 1st dist	87	60
	967	471

Majority for amendment—496.

GOVERNOR'S POWER.

	For.	Against.
1st Ward, 1st district	161	108
1st Ward, 2d district	53	19
2d Ward, 1st district	349	61
2d Ward, 2d district	29	13
3d Ward, 1st district	337	81
3d Ward, 2d district	151	127
4th Ward, 2d district	98	51
	978	460

Majority for amendment—518.

SCHOOL SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT.

	For.	Against.
1st Ward, 1st district	326	141
1st Ward, 2d district	43	31
2d Ward, 1st district	315	95
2d Ward, 2d district	23	20
3d Ward, 1st district	106	122
3d Ward, 2d district	330	136
4th Ward, 2d district	74	73
	790	640

Majority for amendment—150.

North Plainfield Borough.

ANTI-GAMBLING AMENDMENT.

	For.	Against.
First district	170	63
Second district	95	93
	265	156

Majority for—119.

SCHOOL SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT.

	For.	Against.
First district	199	73
Second district	134	105
	333	178

Majority for—55.

GOVERNOR'S POWER.

	For.	Against.
First district	153	98
Second district	80	80
	233	178

Majority for—55.

North Plainfield Township.

In North Plainfield Township 34 votes were cast, of which number 23 were against the amendments and 11 for them. Early in the day the ballot box became unruly and refused to work. After that the cover of the box had to be raised and the tickets were placed in the box that way.

Scotch Plains.

Election was very quiet at Scotch Plains, only 86 votes being cast out of a registration of 310. The anti gambling amendment received 48 in favor and 89 against. The amendment relating to Governor's appointments received 46 for and 43 against. The Woman's Suffrage amendment received 40 for and 49 against.

Dunellen.

At Dunellen the total vote was 169. For the race-track amendment 100 votes were cast and against it 56; 195 votes were deposited for the Governor's amendment and 51 against. The amendment for woman suffrage was 87 in favor as against 69 in the negative. There were 6 rejected ballots.

Westfield.

The vote of Westfield and Mountainside was about one half of the registration. On the first amendment it was 423 for, and 108 against; and for the third amendment, 389 for, and 142 against.

Fanwood.

In Fanwood a light vote was cast. It was for amendment one, 19 for and 34 against; for number two, 17 for and 37 against, and for number three, 19 for and 15 against.

The County.

In Elizabeth the majority against the amendments was 2,300, and in the county it was between 1,500 and 1,800 in the negative.

Results in Other Counties

Trenton gives a majority of over 2,901 against the race track amendment, 1,600 against the ad interim appointment amendment, and over 2,200 against woman suffrage. The returns from the townships will reduce the

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

NEW IDEA IN TRICYCLES.

W. E. BROCK HAS A WONDERFUL COMBINATION OF FORCES.

The Power is Exerted by Both Legs and Arms—High Gear and Great Speed Attained—Known as the Bi-Tricycione.

The bicycle has held the principal place among the mechanical devices for propelling man along the surface of the earth by his own exertions. Now W. E. Brock, of Mountain avenue, has completed an invention, after years of experimenting and work, that he claims will become the machine for the next generation. An inspection of the machine shows to anyone acquainted with the bicycle and its workings that Mr. Brock has discovered a wonderful combination of forces that will propel his machine at speed unequalled by the present bicycle. Besides speed, the machine has many other advantages to recommend it.

The machine is now known as the Bi-Tricycione. It can be adapted as a three-wheeled or a two-wheeled machine, but the one now in use by Mr. Brock has three wheels, as the loss of the use of one of his limbs has made a two-wheeled machine rather hard for him to handle. Tuesday afternoon a reporter called at Mr. Brock's home and was shown the machine and heard a complete explanation of its workings besides seeing it in practical use.

The principal around which it is evolved is completely different from that of the bicycle. The power is exerted by both arms and legs. The former grasp a handle that slides to and fro, while the latter work on pedals that rise and fall just contrary to the movements of the handle. The motion of the rider is somewhat similar to that of a rower. The feet are pressed down as the hands are drawn toward the body and vice versa.

The handle is really a large lever but by an ingenious arrangement of movable fulcrums and levers, the stroke is only long enough as to be easily made by the arms. The pedals which rise and fall together are connected with the handle in such a manner as to exert the power needed at the movable fulcrum of the handlever and they are, at the same time, connected with the sprocket wheel by another crank similar to the one from the hand lever. From the large sprocket wheel the power is transmitted to the rear wheel through an ordinary bicycle chain.

One feature of the machine is the large gear which can be used without inconvenience to the rider. Mr. Brock is now using a 155 gear with which he is able to climb the highest hills with comparative ease. Another feature is the great amount of power that can be applied in a moment and can be used to suddenly stop or start the machine.

The steering is done through the seat which the rider turns the direction as he wishes to go. The seat is connected with the front wheel or wheels by steel rods.

The machine weighs 30 pounds equipped with the one front wheel. The two front wheels are placed side by side and are held in place by braces which can easily be unbolted but add eight pounds more in weight to the machine. The weight of the wheel, however, could be materially reduced by changes in the construction of the machine which would not injure the strenghth or efficiency of the machine in the slightest.

Mr. Brock has made no time tests with the machine but he has held his own on the road with bicycles without much exertion.

Y. M. C. A. EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS.

The Winter's Work to be Inaugurated Friday Evening.

The opening of the educational department of the Y. M. C. A., will take place in the Association Hall on Friday evening. Former Mayor Gilbert will deliver an address, Miss Mary Lucky will recite a number of recitations, and P. L. Conde will render violin solos.

An excellent evening's entertainment has been planned, and the committee in charge has extended a general invitation to all association members and to their friends of both sexes, to be present and enjoy the event.

Coming on Their Wheels.

Twelve students from the Drew Theological Seminary at Madison will attend the meeting of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church on Friday evening. After the business part of the meeting a sociable will be held in which the young men will assist. They will ride over on their wheels.

—Bartlett pears, canning and table plums and peaches in perfection are now in stock at Neuman Bros. Prices lowest in the city.

MRS. FLORENCE HOWE HALL.

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS DEFEATED; NOT DISHEARTENED.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall Tells a Reporter Her Views of the Election and What Will Follow.

A reporter of this paper called yesterday morning upon Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, president of the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage Association, and succeeded in getting an interview on Tuesday's election.

"To what do you mostly attribute the defeat of the Constitutional amendments, Mrs. Hall?" was asked.

"There were two principal causes, I believe," was the reply. "First there was apathy. The church people, on whom we largely depended, have just returned from their summer vacation and the ministers have not yet had time to get thoroughly into harness again. The date was surely a bad one for an election of this character."

"And what was the second factor in defeat, Mrs. Hall?"

"The second cause of defeat was in my belief the general misunderstanding of the amendments which seemed to prevail. Take the school suffrage amendment for example. It is a fact that many voters supposed that this conferred upon women the right to vote at all elections, when in reality it referred only to the election of school trustees in townships. I heard a man say yesterday that he had voted against the suffrage amendment because he did not like the idea of women going to the polls on election day. When the real meaning and purpose of the amendment were explained, he felt sorry that he had not voted the other way.

"Then there was a misunderstanding as to the effect which the election would have on future legislation. In Newark and other large cities circulars were issued urging the defeat of the amendments on the ground that if they were passed any alteration of the Constitution would be prohibited for five years. As a matter of fact it does not matter whether the amendment is carried or lost, as the law says that amendments cannot be submitted to the people oftener than once in five years."

"What about the future, Mrs. Hall?" asked the reporter.

"Well, I can say but little as yet on that point. We feel, however, that the work in favor of woman suffrage has not been lost altogether. Our efforts have educated the women themselves to a realization of the advantages of the ballot, and we have also in our correspondence with school officials led them to express almost unanimously their belief that it would be an excellent thing for women to have a part in the government of schools. We shall probably soon issue a booklet on the work of women in the public schools, with special reference to our own State."

BOX OF PAPERS SECURED

THIEVES WHO ROBBED E. L. GIFFORD LEFT IT IN THE ROAD

Found by J. Wierenga Early Monday Morning and Secreted in Bushes Till Night When They Were Given to Owner.

The identity of the burglars who entered the residence of E. L. Gifford, on Park avenue, Sunday evening, still remains a mystery, but the box of valuable papers that they stole has been returned to their owner after passing through a series of adventures that makes their return seem all the more surprising to Mr. Gifford.

J. Wierenga, Jr., of Randolph road, was on his way to the Scott Press Works early Monday morning and was crossing a field in the rear of Mr. Gifford's house by the path that leads to the cross road. He found a tin box broken open and its contents of papers scattered about the path. He looked at one of them and saw that they were probably of a valuable nature, so he collected them and hid them in the bushes close by. During the day the underbrush was being burned off in that field and the fire came within three feet of the hiding place of the papers. The police searched the fields in the neighborhood but could not find the papers which they were confident the thieves had thrown away.

In the evening Wierenga was reading The Daily Press when he saw the account of the robbery and the loss of the papers. He went to Mr. Gifford's house, and, to the surprise of the latter, informed him that if he would bring a lantern he might have his papers. Mr. Gifford and Wierenga went forth and the papers were found uninjured. Only a few silver trinkets were missing from the box. Mr. Gifford was greatly delighted at the find and will reward the finder.

DOG'S BRUTAL ATTACK.

THOMAS MARLEY, AN ACTOR, BADLY BITTEN ABOUT THE FACE.

The Dog Broke Loose From Its Fastenings and Went Yelping Along the Street to Where Marley Was for an Attack.

Tuesday night after the performance given in Music Hall by the Katie Emmett Company, Thomas Marley, a member of the troupe, was returning from the theatre when a beagle hound owned by Henry Voehl, of Front street, attacked him in a ferocious manner. Mr. Marley was talking to a policeman when the dog, who had broken his chain, came tearing down the street yelping and growling as though mad.

When the animal saw the two men standing on the street he attacked Marley. The latter fought hard to release himself from the dog's grasp and he was assisted by the policeman. After the battle an examination proved that Marley's face was badly bitten and lacerated. His clothes were also torn. From the wounds blood flowed profusely.

Acting upon the advice of the officer, Marley went to the home of Dr. Long and the latter cauterized the wounds. Next morning a policeman shot the dog.

It was not generally considered that the dog was mad, but being of a high temperament and gaining liberty his fierce actions are in a measure accounted for.

Yesterday Mr. Marley informed a Press representative that he does not intend to let the matter drop but that he will take it into court. Mr. Marley returned to New York this morning.

SAWED THEIR CELL BARS

HIGHWAYMEN ESCAPE FROM MIDDLESEX COUNTY JAIL.

Desperadoes Made a Daring Attempt at Wholesale Jail Delivery—Leaders Were Only Able to Get Away.

Two dangerous highwaymen escaped at 9 p. m. Tuesday from the jail at New Brunswick. Their escape was part of a plot at wholesale jail delivery. Good luck was all that prevented it.

Samuel Scudder is awaiting trial for highway robbery and assault with intent to kill. He was the leader of a gang that attacked two young men, Henry Dunham and Jacob Bigler, and after robbing them, shot young Dunham.

Scudder's cellmate was Charles Aspinwall, leader of another gang that held up George Dondaro and robbed him of considerable money.

It is New Brunswick's custom to put the prisoners in a chain gang and set them at repairing roads. While out on this work either Scudder or Aspinwall got a small steel saw. They promptly smuggled it into the jail and set about planning an escape. They were generous with their new found hopes of liberty, and let all the prisoners in the upper tier into the secret.

First they sawed the bars of their cell window, which opens on the jail yard. Then the saw was lent to the inmates of the other cells, who did likewise, cutting away the bars until only a hair's breadth of steel held them in place. Finally, when all was done, the word was passed to wait for the signal, smash the bars and all break for freedom.

The time came Tuesday. Aspinwall and Scudder were to get out first and then give the signal; all were to follow.

But a passer-by saw them jump. He tore into the jail.

"Escape! Escape!" he yelled. "I saw it!"

Cell No. 16 was empty. There dangled the rope that told the story. They searched the other cells in haste. Every bar was found to be sawed nearly through in the same way. It was the work of a moment to get the other prisoners in other cells where they could do no harm.

Then a general alarm was sent out all over the State of New Jersey. But Aspinwall and Scudder were safe. The only clue that came in was a report that they had been seen on a freight train at Elizabeth an hour after their escape.

THE CITY HALL SITE.

East Second Street and Watchung Avenue Said to Have Been Chosen.

For a long time the people of Plainfield have been wondering what has become of the City Hall boom, and they have almost began to think that nothing will come of the talk heard sometime ago. A reporter had a conversation with a prominent Plainfielder yesterday who assured him that the committee in charge of the matter are moving, although very slow. When asked if the question and place of erecting a City Hall were practically settled, the Plainfielder gave the reporter every assurance that they were. As far as can be learned the site chosen is that located on the corner of Watchung avenue and East Second street, that being considered the most desirable. It is quite likely that before the present Council closes the work for this year something will be said or done regarding this great improvement. However, it has been intimated that the Council may wait until after the city election before doing anything.

Former Plainfielder Married.

Miss Margaret Donnelly, formerly of this city, was married to William Duncan, a member of the police force of Long Island City, at the home of Miss Donnelly's parents, Twenty sixth street and Eighth avenue, New York last Tuesday. After the reception the couple left for their home in Long Island City which had been furnished by the groom.

Linden Soon to Have Gas.

The town of Linden, just outside of Elizabeth, is soon to be illuminated by gas. The work of laying three miles of gas pipe is now being pushed rapidly under the direction of Contractor Thomas Doud, of this city, who has the contract.

Entertained a Few Friends.

Miss Julia Betts, of Fairview avenue, entertained a few of her friends at her home last Tuesday. The time passed very pleasantly with music, singing and dancing. An informal supper was served during the evening.

—Miss Josephine M. Robb's dancing class will reopen for the fall and winter at Miss Scribner and Miss Green's School, on LaGrande avenue, Wednesday, October 20th.

SMEDBERG STAYS IN JAIL

At the End of Six Months He Will Be Free.

ESCAPES GOING TO STATE PRISON.

Arraigned in County Court Yesterday and a Strong Plea for a Light Sentence by His Counsel, Senator Voorhees—County Prosecutor Marsh Did Not Object.

Joseph Duncan Smedberg, the confessed thief of the Marshall diamonds, will not go to State prison after all. Instead, he will serve his term of imprisonment in the county jail, yesterday, he was sentenced to the Union County Court in Elizabeth to be confined in jail for six months, less one day. By a State law, terms of less than six months are served in the county jail instead of in State prison.

From the very beginning on June 20th, when the diamonds of H. W. Marshall were stolen from his residence on East Fifth street, there has been great interest taken in the case. It has been a sensational one from the start, the romance that was part of the earlier life of Smedberg, his attempts at defence, the remarkable recovery of the stolen articles, the clever way in which Mrs. Smedberg was led to give away the plot by Fred Stack, the attempt of the prisoner to break jail and his final confession have all attracted unusual interest.

The charge against Smedberg was burglary but he claimed that entrance was gained by false keys and not by breaking in and so the charge was changed to grand larceny, to which he pleaded guilty. He has now been awaiting sentence which has been adjourned on several occasions. This morning, however, he was brought before Judge McCormick.

State Senator Foster Voorhees appeared for the prisoner and made a very eloquent plea in his behalf. He presented a number of letters from influential men, including one from an assistant rector in this city, telling of his previous good character. Senator Voorhees told that it was his first offence and that all the stolen articles had been returned to their owner. He said that Smedberg had been led to the thefts through the influence of others, hinting that there was someone else who had planned them.

Prosecuting Attorney Marsh had little to say and made no request for a heavy sentence. He called attention to the fact that Smedberg had saved the State considerable expense by pleading guilty, and that the State knew of no other crime that he had committed.

Judge McCormick made a lengthy speech to Smedberg in which he said that he had first been inclined to make an example of him, but on hearing all the circumstances he now decided that his troubles had begun with his marriage. The Judge expressed an opinion that the wife should have also been arraigned for the same offence. He sentenced Smedberg to go to jail for six months less one day.

PURSUED BY A BICYCLE COP.

Colored Man Gave Roundsman Flynn a Hard Race for Several Blocks.

Out from the shadow into the bright space under the electric light on East Front street, near MacDonald's store, shot a rider leaning far over his handle bars. There was a lamp on in front of his wheel, but it was not burning.

"Go it, Scoot!" yelled his companion in the rear who had a light. Roundsman Flynn was leaning on his wheel at the curb when the dusky rider flashed by. In an instant, the officer was on his wheel and in pursuit.

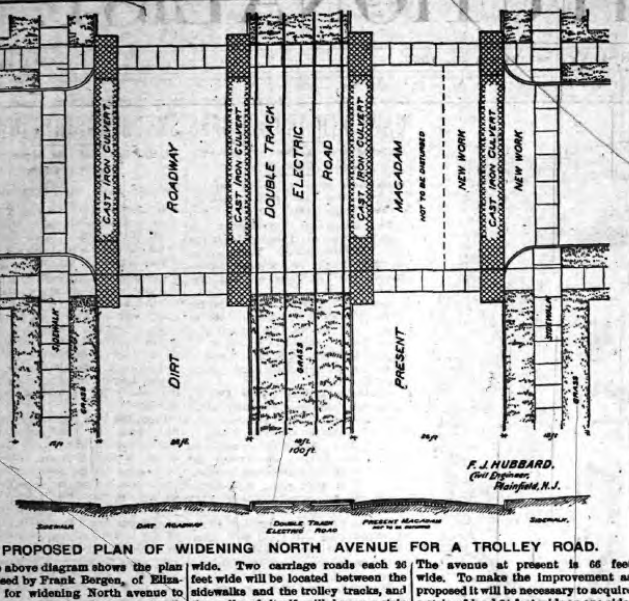
East Front street is now in good condition and the two riders fairly flew with the policeman a hundred feet in the rear. Then Flynn showed the advantage of his training on a wheel and began to overhaul the stranger without a light. Slowly he crept up until at Farragat avenue, his front wheel had lapped the rear wheel of the stranger.

"Halt," called the officer and pursuer and pursued sat up and slackened their pace. Then the dusky rider, who give his name as Elsworth Broome, a smiling young colored man from Mountainside, and his friend returned to the station house, where Sergeant Kiely allowed them to go after leaving $5 in cash and a silver watch as security for their return next morning.

Yesterday, Grooms appeared before City Judge DeMeza and was fined $2.

Fenney Getting Along Nicely.

James Feeney, of the West End, who was so badly burned at Potter's Press Works, Monday night, is now doing nicely at the Hospital. Clarence Bouard, who lost two fingers and a thumb at the Pond Tool Works, is also doing well.



PROPOSED PLAN OF WIDENING NORTH AVENUE FOR A TROLLEY ROAD.

The above diagram shows the plan proposed by Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, for widening North avenue to 100 feet and constructing a street railroad on it by the county, to be leased to some person or corporation for operation. If the plan is carried out the sidewalks will be each 15 feet wide. Two carriage roads each 26 feet wide will be located between the sidewalks and the trolley tracks, and the railroad itself will be on a strip 18 feet wide, with curbs on each side, thus permitting rapid transit without danger. The upper part of the cut illustrates a street crossing. The avenue at present is 66 feet wide. To make the improvement as proposed it will be necessary to acquire a strip of land 34 feet wide on one side.

A public meeting will be held in the court house in the city of Elizabeth on Thursday evening, September 30th, at 8 o'clock, to consider the suggestion.

ONE STUDENT LESS NOW

RUTGERS COLLEGE LOSES A FRESHMAN BECAUSE OF A HAZING.

He Started Out for an Evening Stroll But Didn't Get Back Till After Midnight—Suddenly Decided to go to His Home.

Fresh from the quiet town of Somerville, with ambitions for his life at Rutgers College, Frank C. Lane had his aspirations dimmed and for some reason apparently found New Brunswick anything but a desirable town to stay in. At all events, according to a story told by one of the Rutgers College men, he made a brief stay there.

Young Lane, so the story goes, reached New Brunswick the day before college opened. He made some purchases of clothing and engaged a room temporarily in Hertzog Hall.

Lane took it into his head to see something of the quaint old college town on the banks of the Raritan, about which he had heard so much, and that evening he sallied forth. The ruins of the theatre building were somewhat of a curiosity to the young man, and he expressed great surprise when he learned that they had been permitted to stand unmolested for eighteen months. After walking around the town he wended his way back to his temporary quarters.

While walking through Hamilton street several collegians one said to have met Lane, and, without the formality of an introduction, announced that they, too, were verdant freshmen, and therefore classmates of the young man from Somerville. Just what happened from then until young Lane reached his room at midnight, cannot at present be ascertained.

That he was hazed there is apparently little doubt, but just what course of treatment the young man was compelled to go through no one seems willing to disclose, and young Lane is not in town to explain.

Whether young Lane feared that he would have to undergo more such treatment if he remained in New Brunswick or whether he reached the conclusion that after all he did not want a college education, is not known. He left the city on the first train the following morning, and that is the reason the freshman class at Rutgers only numbers forty-eight instead of forty-nine men.

Central's Improvements.

The Central Railroad has broken ground for a new house at the Bridge street crossing, in Somerville and other extensive alterations will be made in the switches, which will cost between $4,000 and $5,000. The tracks are to be so arranged that all the switches are to be operated from the tower, and the Flemington trains can be switched on to the South Branch road without going on to the main tracks. All drilling will be done off the main tracks.

Manager Willey's New Venture.

George H. Willey, in addition to his duties as the manager of Stillman Theatre, is also director and manager of the Faulkner Comic Opera Company, which is now booked for nearly the entire season of 1898-99.

A Big Policeman.

John Adams Gross, six feet two inches in height, has been appointed a special policeman at Lincoln.

Fred Ross, of Park place, spent Sunday at Neshanic.

A DOG SLAYER ABROAD.

Killed a Constable's Hound and Was Put Under Arrest by the Owner.

Robert Walpole and his son, Linus, of Scotch Plains, went fishing in the upper Passaic river, near Summit, on 5 pr. Rd., and while they were enjoying the sport a shot rang out and a valuable hound dog belonging to the younger man, gave a leap or two and fell dead. A moment later a man with a shotgun in his hands came out of the woods and stood surveying them coolly. When the Walpoles started to approach him he slipped a fresh shell into his gun and made a threatening gesture.

The elder Walpole, who is a constable, parleyed with the man for a time and then showing his badge, placed him under arrest. When arraigned before Justice of the Peace Kelley, of Summit, the man gave his name as John Kendal, and admitted that he had killed a number of dogs in a similar manner, of late. The land upon which the shooting occurred does not belong to Kendal. He was held for examination, and left his shot gun as security for his reappearance when wanted.

GOOD INVESTMENTS.

Prosperous Shares in the Plainfield Building and Loan Association.

The semi-annual report of the second, third, and fourth and fifth series of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association have just been completed and they show plainly the advantages that were claimed for them when started. The second series has $71,-142.08 assets and liabilities, showing that each $121 paid is now worth $193.50; the third series has assets and liabilities to the amount of $21,011.06, showing that each $84 paid is worth $130.75; the fourth series has $16,383.16 assets and liabilities, showing each $36 paid to be worth $40.79; the fifth series has $12,049.43 assets and liabilities, showing each $16 paid in to be worth $21.51. The sixth series will soon be started and from the above figures it can readily be seen that to buy some of its stock will be a good investment.

One More Barber Shop in Town.

The barber shop on Park avenue about to be vacated by Edward Maynard will be continued as such by Mr. Butler, who has been in the employ of Mr. Maynard. The latter has decided to open a barber shop on North avenue in the store adjoining Woolston & Buckle's paint store. Mr. Butler has made many friends since he came to this city and he will no doubt receive a large patronage. Mr. Maynard is also well known, and his shop on North avenue will be thoroughly up-to-date. Improvements will also be made in the Park avenue shop by the owner of the building.

Death of a Young Lady.

The death of Miss Jennie Shepard, aged 20 years, occurred Sept. 21st at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Shepard, Flemington, of lung trouble. The deceased was formerly a resident of North Plainfield, and her mother is a daughter of the late Stephen Pangborn, who was a resident of this city. The funeral services was held from the house at Flemington Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

THIEVES IN SHOE STORE

DETECTED BY PATROLMAN M'CARTY, BUT MADE THEIR ESCAPE.

Gained an Entrance Through a Rear Door, But Nothing of Value Was Taken—No Clew to Who the Offenders Might Be.

A daring attempt at burglary was committed Thursday evening at 10:30 when an entrance was effected in the rear part of the shoe store owned by William Schloss, on West Front street. From all appearance there were two men implicated in the burglary. When Patrolman McCarty passed the store at that time he noticed that someone was inside the store, but they were behind the desk and he was unable to see their faces. He at once went through a near-by alley to the rear of the store thinking that he could catch the thieves. The men evidently heard footsteps and in quick order made their escape through several yards to Madison avenue, where they disappeared into Second street. At the time there were a few persons on Madison avenue and they saw two persons running very fast but, of course, they knew not the cause.

Soon afterward Patrolman McCarty blew three rounds on his police whistle. This brought Sergeant Kiely to the spot and an investigation of the place was made. By this time a small crowd had been attracted by the police whistle.

Investigation proved that the thieves had broken open one of the shutters to the window in the rear and had then pried the window open. They had not been in the place very long for nothing of any consequence has been missed. It is believed that the thieves are the same ones that broke into Barnes' grocery store, on West Front street, a few weeks ago.

GROCERY STORE BURGLARIZED.

Barnes Brothers Robbed of a Small Amount of Stock.

Thieves Thursday night forced an entrance into the grocery of Barnes Brothers, at 330 West Front street, by breaking a pane of glass and drawing the bolts to the back door. The intruders tampered with the safe, unscrewing the caps upon its door hinges and then ransacked the entire store. It is not possible to tell how much was stolen, but a quantity of groceries, including a large cheese, was carried away. There is every indication that the thieves were amateurs.

Director in a Bank Note Company.

David Prescott Hall, of Madison avenue, is one of the directors of the Frank Lee Bank Note Company which has just been incorporated in New York State by the consolidation of the Franklin Bank Note Company and the Homer Lee Bank Note Company. The new company will do business at New York city, London, Eng., and Ottawa and Montreal, Canada. The capital stock of the company is $100,-000.

Death of Capt. Oliver S. Ogden.

Capt. Oliver B. Ogden, one of the oldest watermen of Elizabeth, died Thursday at his residence, 45 West Grand street, aged eighty-one years. Captain Ogden from 1840 to 1860 ran a vessel daily from Elizabeth to New York.

MORE TROLLEY DELAY.

FIGHT FOR RIGHT OF WAY STILL GOES ON IN SOMERVILLE.

Three Sets of Capitalists Want the Franchise and Each Claim to Have the Advantage—No Action Till October 4th.

The trolley fight is still on in Somerville—three sets of capitalists seeking the right of way. Wednesday, Sept. 22d the Township Committee gave another hearing to the representatives of the applicants, but nothing definite was done.

Walter Behill presented a plan for dividing up the amount which the macadam was estimated to cost. Several others spoke, and when all had concluded Mr. Wiegel handed up a number of revocations of property owners who had granted their consents to the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company. These revocations amounted to about 3,000 feet. The New York Company had a majority of feet last week, and as they were the only company that had a majority, they felt confident that they would get a franchise. They claimed that the consents were irrevocable, but as no one seemed ready to decide that point, no company seemed to have a majority of the consents.

For the Somerset Traction Company, a local syndicate, Former Senator Keys said: "I must state that I am not in a position to present its application and consents today. I am in possession, however, of a charter that gives me the legal right to break ground at once for a railway on the public highways. I have been advised by a lawyer to go ahead and break ground. But, gentlemen, I am here to represent the interest of my constituents and Somerset county and do not want to fight either the Committee or the rival companies. In two weeks I will be in a position to show you that the Somerset Traction Company have the majority of consents, and if the Committee will then grant me the franchise, I will agree to break ground in forty-eight hours, and will build road according to the demands of the Committee. I am not here to jolly the Committee, I mean business, and will be in a position to file my bonds at the end of two weeks, but do not intend to tie up my money while this consent business is in dispute."

Superintendent Radel of the Brunswick Traction Company, ventured the opinion that the Committee acted wisely in postponing final action for two weeks as it would give either one company or the other an opportunity to clinch their consents, and knock the other fellow out.

Mr. Bergen, in behalf of the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company protested against further delay. The company [illegible] ary with it all. They have [illegible] invested a great deal of [illegible] If they were not now to be [illegible] to build they wanted to know.

The Committee adjourned the trolley matter for further consideration on October 4th.

MINERVA'S PEACH FESTIVAL.

Rathbone Sisters Conduct a Successful Affair.

Washington Hall on West Second street was well filled last Friday, when the members of Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters, gave a peach and ice cream festival, accompanied by dancing. The evening was just suited to the affair and the attraction was a strong one. The music for dancing was furnished by Sam. Frazee, and everyone indulged freely in the popular amusement. Mrs. Andrew Cox was in charge of the ice cream, while Mrs. Haberis dispensed the cake and peaches. The floor manager was Walter Higgins, and J. B. Higgins had charge of the soft drinks. The committee who arranged the affair consisted of Mrs. Bowman, chairman; Mrs. Mattis, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. Haberis and Mrs. Cox. Of course the dancing was a feature, but the various tables did good business, and a gratifying amount of money was received by the women.

KERWIN ARRESTED AGAIN.

Alleged That He Sold Beer Illegally to George W. Gulanski.

Lawrence Kerwin, who keeps a beer bottling establishment at Guinea Egg Pond, was arrested last Friday by Roundsman Frederickson on the charge of selling beer from his wagon without an order. The complaint alleges that he sold twelve pints of beer to George W. Gulanski, of Richmond street, on May 8th.

Kerwin was released on bail and appeared before City Judge DeMeza this morning, and was held in $100 bail for trial on Oct. 8th.

Fifty-two Indictments.

The Middlesex County Grand Jury completed its labors Friday afternoon and presented to Justice Collins fifty-two indictments. The jury was discharged with the thanks of the Court.

Miss Harriett G. Lounsbury, of Washington Heights, has returned home after a visit with her friend, Miss Fannie Western, of Washington avenue.

A COBWEB SOCIABLE.

Participants Endeavored to Untangle Thread Wound in a Mystifying Way.

Those who attended the "Cobweb Social" held at Warren chapel last Thursday, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, had a good time. There was a goodly number of people present, and the rain without did not in the least mar the pleasures of those within. The president of the society, Theodore Chamberlain, was in charge, and the forepart of the evening was devoted to the rendition of a programme consisting of remarks by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the chapel; recitations by Helen Woolley and Frank Bach; piano solos by Miss Cortwright; and vocal solos by Mrs. Andrew Stiglitz. Each number was well rendered and won hearty applause from the audience.

At the close of the programme the president announced that all were cordially invited to participate in the "Cobweb" part of the entertainment. The folding doors were then rolled back and the sight that attracted the eyes of all was the large cobweb that encircled the room. It was made of thread and was wound about in a very mysterious manner. Several of those present entered the web and started to wind up the thread. Miss Kohler was the first to complete her task and Miss Dolly Bolsterli was a close second. Others followed closely after and in a little while the thread was all put back on the spools. The scheme afforded a great deal of amusement for all. After this part of the evening's entertainment was completed refreshments were served by the social committee and the balance of the time was spent in social chat. The affair will be repeated October 24th, when prizes will be offered to the ones who come out first in clearing up the cobweb.

ADARTED FOR SCHOOL NEEDS.

Improvements That Have Been Made in the New Jersey Military Academy.

Now that the New Jersey Millitary Academy has been thoroughly started under the supervision of Dr. A. D. Warde, a word or two about this new institution may not be amiss. A Daily Press reporter called at the school and found Dr. Warde very much at home in his new quarters. The latter escorted his guest about the school and explained in an interesting manner the details of work.

Every room has been handsomely papered and painted, every nook and corner is as clean as wax. The school rooms are located on the second floor, the first floor being devoted exclusively for the purpose of a reception room and chapel. The appointments in every room are perfect. On the first floor near to be found one of the most complete laboratories. The school rooms are not crowded. At present there are fourteen scholars in the school and excellent work is being done.

Dr. Warde has associated with him Adrien Lacasse, B. A., a graduate of the University of Paris, also of the Berlitz school of Languages, of Washington. He will have charge of the language department, while Dr. Warde will attend to the instruction in mathematics and science. In a short time elocution, modern and ancient languages will be added, and at present arrangements are being made for a commercial course with shorthand and typewriting.

As regards the languages the smallest pupil is taught conversation in French and does not have to wait to enter a high school before taking it up. In the grammar department the scholars are learning to talk properly as well as write. Good progress is being made in all of the branches.

On early days Dr. Warde will give a musical recital at the academy, and a professor of high standing will give a number of selections on the piano.

Mrs. Sands Extends Thanks.

The following letter has been sent to Frank O. Cole, Assistant-Adjutant General Department New Jersey, G. A. R., by Mrs. Emanuel Sands, wife of the late Department Commander of the order:

My Dear Sir—Will you kindly convey to my husband's comrades the thanks of his wife and children. May God in His infinite mercy clear the lives of those brave men who have shown their courage so often on field and deck, and their tender sympathy to us on Monday when all seemed so dark. The patient, unwearied fatigue involved in this long and tollsome march testified a spirit of devotion and love which words are inadequate to portray. We earnestly hope and ardently pray that the lives of our husband's comrades may long be spared that those they leave here upon earth may be cheered and comforted as we were by their soldierly devotion.

Mrs. Emanuel Sands.

Arranging for a Public Meeting.

A meeting of Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., was held last Thursday. One candidate was initiated. Theo. Grant outside Watchman V. W. Nash and Past Master Bauersachs made short addresses regarding the public meeting which is to be held in this city under the auspices of the Grand Lodge. A committee was appointed to co-operate with Columbia Lodge in arranging for the meeting. The committee consisted of Edward Mosher, George W. Clark and Wm. Newcorn.

LIVING WHIST CARDS.

TO BE THE PRINCIPAL FEATURE OF THE SPIELKARTENFEST.

How the Dance Is Arranged—Miss Lila Agnes Stewart, Who Gave the Last Kirmess, Will be in Charge Again.

After a recess for the summer months, the Ladies Auxiliary of the Muhlenberg Hospital held another meeting yesterday afternoon. It was the regular monthly meeting and the customary reports were received. The principal object of interest, however, was the Spielkartenfest, which is to be given in the Cycle Academy during November for the benefit of the hospital. It is under the charge of the auxiliary and the board of governors.

The Spielkartenfest is to be given under the direct supervision of Miss Lila Agnes Stewart, who so successfully conducted the Kirmess two years ago. Miss Stewart came to Plainfield Friday afternoon and was the guest of Mrs. J. M. VanBuren, of Central avenue. She met the members of the auxiliary and then, during the evening, held a long conference with Mrs. VanBuren regarding the details of the affair.

There seems to be a general idea taken idea about the Spielkartenfest. As the name implies, the principal feature of it will be a dance of living playing cards, but the affair will also include a number of other dances, all of which will be different, however, from those of the Kirmess. The Spielkartenfest proper will last about twenty-five minutes and it really a game of whist played with living cards, "living whist." Fifty-two young people will be costumed so as to represent the different cards in the pack. Then there will be the court jester, who shuffles the pack and deals the cards, the pages and the four players who are to meet in this wonderful game. They will consist of four well-known players of this vicinity, two from this city and two from the borough. One hand will be played each night and the winners will be those that score the most during the week.

Miss Stewart has just conducted a Kirmess at Nyack which proved more than successful. The town went wild over it and Miss Stewart has been engaged to return there a year from next June for another; in the meantime a building will be constructed especially to hold it in, as the present accommodations there were far too small to take care of the crowd that attended or attempted to attend.

ENDEAVORERS ELECT OFFICERS.

Park Avenue Church Society Planned for Fall Work.

The Junior Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church met for the first time this fall Friday afternoon, elected officers, selected committees, and planned for the fall work. The attendance was large and very gratifying to the superintendent, Mrs. W. B. Lowry, who saw in it the promise of an active season.

The election of officers was held and resulted as follows: President, Florence Cuming; vice-president, Harry Thompson; secretary, Violet VanWinkle; treasurer, Nellie Giles. The committees were chosen as follows: Lookout committee, Hazel DeLong, chairman; Retta Nash, Tilly Fisher, Florence Cuming and Charles Hafryer; prayer-meeting, Harper Thompson, chairman; Nina Sampson, Susie Freeman, Irving VanWinkle, Violet VanWinkle; missionary, May Mitford, chairman; Grace Temple, Florence Smalley, Olivia Male and Nellie Giles; social, Marion Shotwell, chairman; Bessie Teneyck, Elsie Cramer, Viola Hellyer, Charles Kent, and Marion Dickenson; sergeants, Van Shotwell, chairman; Autumn DeLany, Walter VanWinkle, Ethel VanWinkle, Lillian Cuming and Howard Freeman.

PRINCE OF ENTERTAINERS.

An Opportunity for Plainfielders to Hear Marshall P. Wilder.

Plainfielders will be glad of an opportunity to hear the funny little man, Marshall P. Wilder, termed by ex-President Grover Cleveland "the prince of entertainers." Mr. Wilder will be in Plainfield, at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, on September 30th.

Those who have enjoyed Mr. Wilder's entertainment do not need to be reminded of the pure quality and delicacy of his humor, but we would say to those who have not heard him, that his impersonifications, while acting of the most mirth-provoking description, are exceptionally refined and the fact that he is indorsed by the clergy, statesmen, leaders of society and press of both England and America, is a guarantee of this statement.

In his impersonations Mr. Wilder uses no costumes, depending upon frequent changes of the voice, facial expressions and a disarrangement of his hair to produce varied effects. As his selections are from memory, which in connection with his fine stage presence, and the absence of anything to display see the most refined, render the entertainment most pleasing and gratifying to those before whom he appears.

HOSPITAL BED ENDOWED.

Policemen and Letter-Carriers Will Support it by an Annual Ball Game.

The practical results of the Labor Day baseball game between the Letter-Carriers and the Policemen is to-day apparent. Some time ago, Councilman William N. Runyon sent the proceeds of the game, $252.16 in all, to E. H. Ladd, Jr., treasurer of the Muhlenberg Hospital Board, with the request that if possible, the money be used to endow a bed in the hospital as the rubber tires for the ambulance, for which the money was first intended, was donated by others.

Saturday evening, a meeting was held at the station-house and the Policemen and Letter-Carriers gathered together and heard Mr. Ladd's response. He thanked them for the donation and suggested that a bed, to be called the "Letter-Carriers' and Policemen's Bed," be endowed for a year and asked that someone be selected to designate who shall occupy the bed. He also said that if the game was made an annual feature the annual endowment would be gratefully received.

Sergeant Kiely was made chairman of the meeting and Robert Loughlin secretary. It was decided to endow the bed as suggested and Chief G. W. Grant and Postmaster Hetfield were selected to name the occupant of the bed. It was also decided to make the Labor Day game an annual event.

A COON DODGER.

A Title Conferred By Reason of Agility in Escaping Thrown Tomatoes.

Irving Jackson, an odd character who was taken to the county jail a few days ago from Plainfield, on a charge of being disorderly, and who is aged about 21 years, prides himself on the fact that he is a coon "dodger." When brought to the jail he carried a cane, and sported a fall overcoat. The term "coon dodger" was too deep for Warden Blore, and he was unfamiliar with the term. Jackson was asked what it meant, and he said it was a degree that had been conferred on him for his ability to dodge tomatoes. It was his mission to erect a himself behind a canvas at county fairs, and poking his head out of an aperture in the canvas, would remain it suddenly when ripe tomatoes were thrown at it, the charge being five cents for each person so practicing.

Jackson told the warden that he had an extraordinary season at the Waverly State Fair grounds, and that he had not been struck once, although he had experienced a number of very narrow escapes. Jackson went to the Somerset County Fair a few days ago, and there achieved great success.

When he returned to Plainfield, however, he got into difficulty, and this got him into the county jail, where he is spending his time.

TRIED TO WHIP AN OFFICER.

Didn't Succeed, Though, and Was Landed in a Rookery Cell.

Charles Jenkins and Henry Russell are colored men employed by Captain Head. Both are usually quiet and well behaved. Thursday they came down town and partook too freely of Jersey lightning, with the usual result. Jenkins became fighting drunk. After being put out of a downtown saloon, they went up to Willis' place on West Third street. They ordered drinks and acted in a disorderly manner that Patrolman Flanagan was called to assist them to the door.

Jenkins objected and started in for a fight but the officer subdued his prisoner with his "billie." When he dragged Jenkins out in the open air, he was quickly surrounded by a crowd of colored men. Flanagan blew his whistle and Patrolman McCarty, who was off duty and happened to be in the neighborhood, answered. The prisoner was dragged to jail. Russell was arrested later for being drunk and disorderly. Sherman Jenkins was arrested for attempting to rescue his brother, but the evidence conclusively proved that he acted as a very orderly citizen and made no attempt at rescue.

When arraigned before City Judge Dellea, Friday morning, the elder Jenkins was fined $25, and Russell $10, while the peaceful Jackson was discharged.

Drove Over a Steep Embankment.

Charles Johnson, of Dunellen, met with a bad accident last Thursday at Washingtonville while he was driving home. It was between 8 and 9 o'clock and the night being very dark he was unable to see the road very far ahead. Suddenly his wagon and horse went over a steep embankment and he was thrown out into a ditch. The wagon was thoroughly wrecked, but the horse escaped uninjured, so did Mr. Johnson. Mr. Johnson succeeded in securing another wagon to get home and the broken one was brought to J. F. Homan's repair shop on Somerset street, where it is now being fixed up.

Murdered By An Unknown.

The coroner's inquest in the murder of Mr. Pitt was concluded in Sumbit Thursday. The verdict was that some person or persons unknown committed the murder.

TO SAVE THE PALISADES

WOMEN'S CLUBS WILL TRY TO PRESERVE THE FAMOUS CLIFFS.

The National Park Plan Cannot be Accomplished—Project for a Driveway Along the Shore of the Hudson River.

The New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, an organization made up of seventy-two literary, educational and philanthropic bodies scattered throughout the various towns of the State, and with which Plainfield clubwomen are prominently identified, has taken up the question of preserving the Palisades, and Sept. 23d upward of sixty members of the Federation went on a tour of inspection up the Hudson. The trip was made on Harrison B. Moore's yacht, the Marietta, and naturally took on some of the characteristics of a social excursion. But this did not prevent the subject from being seriously considered from half a dozen points of view.

A meeting of the Federation will be held in Camden in October, when some definite plan of action will be decided upon.

The tour of inspection included the stretch of the Palisades between Fort Lee and Nyack. The party listened to brief addresses on the work by Miss Celia Gaines, president of the federation; Mrs. John Gifford, Joseph Lamb, F. P. Albert, George F. Kunz, Colonel Loomis Langdon and General W. C. Stryker.

Miss Gaines explained that the work of the federation was undertaken in absolute disinterestedness, and that its aims were purely esthetic and patriotic. The members hoped, she said, first through education and then through legislation to eventually succeed in saving the Palisades.

Through the other speakers it developed that the attempt to preserve the Palisades by having the federal government convert the part under consideration into a national park is considered to have failed. As Mr. Albert said: "The military park scheme is dead, and the sooner this fact is accepted the better."

His plan is to have the States of New York and New Jersey unite in condemning a narrow strip from the base of the cliffs down to the river. Here he would construct a driveway along the river edge from Fort Lee to Piermont, a distance of thirteen miles. The land for this purpose, it is estimated, could be purchased for $300,000 or $400,000. With this driveway, it is held, the task of preserving the face of the Palisades would be greatly simplified, and the problem would almost solve itself.

It was thought that it was probable that the federation would decide in favor of this plan, but at present it is committed to nothing definite.

LADIES ENTERTAINED.

A Pleasing Programme Given at Grace M. E. Church.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Grace M. E. church, a pleasing sociable was held in the church last Friday, at which time there was present a goodly number of people. Rev. H. J. Johnston, the pastor, was in charge and announced the numbers on the programme which consisted of two vocal solos by Joseph Moon, a reading by Miss Bertha Stevens, and a recitation by Miss Bertha Whitney. The programme was not a lengthy one but what was lost in that respect was made up in quality. Especially noteworthy were the recitation given by Miss Whitney. This talented woman was at her best and the audience fully appreciated her efforts, as well as those of the others who took part. After the programme Mr. Johnston announced that the next number would be a chorus and the mouth-organ would be the principal part. All quickly took the hint and talked until everyone reached a point where hunger and thirst was paramount. Then it was that the committee, in charge of Mrs. John Valiant, president, served cake and coffee in abundance to all. The rest of the time was passed in genuine sociability. When those present departed for their homes they all agreed that they had enjoyed themselves immensely.

Racing at the Driving Park.

Last Saturday afternoon there were two cards on the programme presented at the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association track. The first race was entered by Thomas Brantingham, D. Darby and W. A. Coddington. The former won the race in 2:35. The second event was engaged in by A. Lockhin, Mr. Hayes and N. B. Smalley. The latter won the event in 2:43. There was a fair sized crowd present and all seemed to enjoy the races although there was a little disappointment regarding the shortness of the programme.

A Lay Reader Dead.

Charles S. Lewis, aged fifty-six years, a former resident of Clinton avenue, died at Pelham, N. Y., on Saturday, after an illness lasting about two years. Mr. Lewis was a lay reader in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, and held a position of trust in the Bank of Commerce, New York. He leaves a wife.

A SMITH HALED TO COURT

AN ECHO OF THE GREAT FAMILY PICNIC HELD AT PLUCKAMIN.

Isaiah, the Patriarch, Accused of Assaulting a Photographer, Who Wants $100 Damages—Many Smiths at the Trial.

A desultory echo of the all-around good time enjoyed by the famous Smith family of New Jersey at Pluckamin last month was heard in Justice Kitchen's court at Somerville yesterday afternoon, when the patriarch of the tribe, Isaiah Smith, was haled to the Dogberry in the suit for $200 damages instituted by John Rider, a Somerville photographer, ejected from the picnic grounds by the patriarch. Mr. Smith appeared in court smiling and confident, and appeared highly elated over the fact that he was first man to be defended by the second woman lawyer of New Jersey, Miss Mary Steele. It was Miss Steele's maiden effort in open court and she threw all her talents into the defense of the case.

Photographer Rider testified that on the day of the Smith family reunion he pitched his tent on the land of Mr. Perry, near the Smith picnic grounds. He was ordered off the place by Isaiah Smith, president of the society. He was about to leave when President Smith became so enraged at his slow movements that he upset his tent and wrecked his entire outfit. A lamp was overturned and set fire to the contents. A coat and hat belonging to his sister, Miss Rebecca Rider, were burned, and many valuable articles were ruined.

Rider's story was substantiated by a number of witnesses. His counsel attempted to prove that Isaiah Smith had no legal right to eject him from the place.

Mrs. Perry testified that she owned the land occupied by Rider at the time of the alleged assault. This year she was absent from home, and no agreement was made. She would have agreed to allow the society their former privilege if she had been home.

Isaiah Smith took the stand and denied Rider's story of his violent actions and the assault. He said that the lamp that set fire to the tent had been dropped as he was handing it to Rider.

Several members of the Smith family testified to the rules and regulations of the society, excluding venders, etc.

Justice Kitchen reserved his decision. The trial was largely attended by Smiths from Peapack, New York, Brooklyn and elsewhere.

SHOOTING AT LIVE BIRDS.

Scores Made at The Independent Gun Club Event.

Friday afternoon the members of the Independent Gun Club had an interesting shoot on their grounds in North Plainfield. The first part of the afternoon was devoted to shooting live birds. The following members shot at fifteen birds and made the score opposite their names: Coddington, 10; Reed, 14; Darby, 13; Keller, 15; C. Lister, 11; Henry Haurand, 11; Sunderman, 10. Scott Terry shot at ten birds and made a score, with W. Terry shot at the same number of birds and scored 6. Following the live bird shooting there were three sweepstakes at clay targets. The scores were as follows: First event—Coddington, 10; Keller, 10; Haurand, 7; Darby, 6; Reed, 6. Second event—Kellar, 10; Coddington, 9; Darby, 7; Lister, 7; Stephenson, 6; Reed, 4. Third event—S. Terry, 10; Haurand, 9; Sunderman, 9; Darby, 8; Keller, 8; Lister, 8; Wheeler, 8; Smalley, 8; Stephenson, 5; Coddington, 4. F. X. Nufer acted as referee, and Charles Maltby was scorer.

PRESBYTERIAN RALLY.

Resumption of Afternoon Sessions Marked by Special Exercises.

Yesterday was Rally Day for the Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue church, and special services were held in the church in the afternoon. Rally Day marked the resumption of the afternoon service for the Sunday-school after meeting in the morning during the summer months. The attendance was large and there was much enthusiasm shown. The church choir was present and sang several times while Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the church, made an interesting address. The church was handsomely decorated with flowers. Dr. Carman had charge of the decorations.

Patrolmen Organize.

The patrolmen of this city met at Patrolman Totten's house last Friday evening and organized a Patrolmen's Benevolent Association. State President Keely, of Jersey City, and Vice-President and Secretary Sanderson, of Newark, were present and installed the following officers: President, W. R. Mattox; vice-president, J. E. Totten; secretary, H. W. Fraleigh; treasurer, G. Lunger. After the business was completed, they adjourned to Rogers' restaurant, where a course dinner was served in honor of the visiting officers.

—John H. VanWinkle, Jr., of Duer street, has been appointed a notary public of New Jersey by Governor Griggs.

COURT'S QUICK DECISION

REMARKABLE ATTITUDE OF A MINISTER TOWARD AN AGED AUNT.

Rev. J. B. Cleaver Indicted a Fourth Relative to Release Him From a $1,000 Debt—Taken to Court and Must Pay Debt.

Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, well known to many citizens, has just been defeated in an action brought against him in the Court of Chancery by an aged aunt of his, named Harriet J. Cleaver, living in the small village of Brandon, Vt.

He was owing her on promissory notes some $1,500—nearly all she had in the way of property to live on. He had paid her interest semi annually, but she was 81 years old and feeble and unacquainted with business. She had made a will in January, 1896, in which the defendant was not mentioned, and visiting her in June, 1896, he prevailed upon her to give up his notes and to receive in exchange therefor a bond conditioned to pay her interest semi annually as long as she lived and on her death principal to belong to Mr. Cleaver.

The old lady did not understand the transaction, it is said, owing to her age, feebleness and lack of business knowledge, and she relied on the statements made at the time that the bond would be better for her. He further told her to tell no one about the matter, and she did not for several weeks, when she told some of her friends who explained to her that she had given up her property to him. She then wrote him a number of letters, pleading with him to return her notes and she would give up his bond, but he made no reply, because, as he stated on the witness stand, "he did not want any more child's play."

The case was argued before Vice-Chancellor Henry C. Pitney last Friday by William M. Stillman for the complainant, Mr. Cleaver being defended by two Newark lawyers, Gerald R. Cushman and Frank C. Wilcox.

Decision was rendered by the court immediately on the close of the argument, for $1,503, interest and costs, he making a long and exhaustive and extremely able analysis of the large amount of testimony that had been taken, and stating that he would in this case give judgment and order execution immediately against the defendant, as he believed the facts and proofs brought out justified him in this somewhat unusual procedure.

EUCHRE THEIR PASTIME.

Miss Fannie Western's Home Filled With a Jolly Set of Young People.

Miss Fannie Western, of Washington avenue, gave a delightful progressive euchre party at her home last Friday, in honor of two friends from New York. The first part of the evening was spent at euchre, in which the first prizes were won by Mrs. F. E Buckingham and John H. VanWinkle, Jr. The winners of the second prizes were Miss Harriet G. Lounsbury and Robert Terrill. Miss Ethel Marsh and Roland Western received the consolation prizes. The remainder of the evening was spent in singing and dancing and the enjoyment of the refreshments that were served toward the close of the evening. There were solos by Charles Western and Charles Ritchie.

The guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. B. B Western, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Western, Miss Harriet G. Lounsbury, Miss Bertha Hall, Miss Emma Hall, Miss Ethel Marsh, Mrs. F. E. Buckingham, Brereton Platt, Robert Terrill, John H. VanWinkle, Jr., Charles Ritchie, Charles Western and Roland Western.

RAHWAY RIVER POLLUTION.

The Water of an Inky Hue Because of Dye Stuffs Thrown Into It.

A movement to prevent the further pollution of the branch of the Rahway river originating in the mountains back of Springfield, and flowing through South Orange, Millburn, Springfield, Cranford and Rahway, was set on foot Thursday. Game Warden Jones, of Roselle, upon receiving notice that the fish were being poisoned by the dyes discharged into the river by the various Orange, Millburn and Springfield hat and woolen manufactories, visited those towns yesterday and verified the complaint. He then directed the offenders to dispose of their refuse elsewhere than in the river, and all, with the exception of Berg & Co., he says, promised to do so. The water passing through Cranford for several days past has been of an inky hue, and so thick with dye stuffs that boats have been discolored. As this water is the source of Rahway's supply, the Board of Health of that city is expected to take vigorous action in the matter.

Holdup in the Borough.

Last Saturday night at 12 o'clock T. B Penton's coachman, of Rockview avenue, was held up by a highwayman on the Giraud avenue bridge while he was on his way home, but through some clever management he succeeded in getting away from his would-be antagonist. The highwayman gave chase, but failed to run fast enough to catch the coachman. The latter is unable to give any description of his pursuer and says that he would not know him if he should see him again. The police have been notified.

BURGLARS NOT IDLE.

RESUME OPERATIONS IN PRIVATE DWELLING AND SCHOOL.

E. L. Gifford's House on Park Avenue Entered and Robbed of Cash and Other Valuables in the Early Part Sunday Night.

The burglar has resumed operations in Plainfield. Sunday night he paid a visit to the residence of E. L. Gifford, of 946 Park avenue, and stole some $25 in cash, a few silver trinkets, and a strong box of papers, valuable only to the owner.

Mrs. Gifford is away on her summer outing and so Mr. Gifford and his young son have been keeping house, with the servant to look after the meals. Sunday the servant went away for the day and Mr. Gifford, his son and a young man from New York who was visiting them, took their meals at a local restaurant. It was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon when Mr. Gifford left his house while his friend and son followed in half an hour. They went down town to attend the mass meeting, took supper at the restaurant and after spending the evening with friends, returned home at 9:30 o'clock to find the servant, waiting on the front piazza. When they entered the house, they found that there had been strangers there during their absence.

Mr. Gifford's house is next to a vacant lot and the windows of the library face on that side On the ground under the windows are the footprints of two men showing how one assisted the other to climb up to the window. A jimmy with an edge two inches wide had been used and the burglars had tried to force up the entire frame work on the window but without success. Then the jimmy had been put under the lower sash and the catch had been snapped and the window forced up. It was through this open window that the burglars gained entrance and it was the open window that was first noticed by the occupants of the house on their return.

The burglars made their way about the first floor by the light of matches, their course being easily followed by the matches they dropped. The rug in the dining room had been set on fire, evidently by a lighted match that they had dropped, but the burglars extinguished the flames before they spread.

Then the unbidden guests went up stairs. They broke into a desk belonging to Mr. Gifford's son. There was nothing there of value. A toy bank belonging to the baby had been robbed of its contents, about a dollar. A tin box belonging to Mrs. Gifford had been smashed by several blows from the jimmy and its contents emptied on the bed. Twenty-five dollars in cash and some silver trinkets were taken from it. A strong box, belonging to Mr. Gifford, contained some deeds and policies, very important to him but of no value to anyone else. There was a handle on the box and a combination lock that made it hard to open. That was carried away by the burglars. A brand-new Iver-Johnson revolver and fifty cartridges for it were taken from the bureau drawer. In another room there was hundreds of dollars worth of solid silver which was not molested. It was evident that the burglars wanted money or weapons.

The burglary was committed before 9:30 o'clock. There is no trace as to the identity of the burglars. They departed by the front door leaving it open. Mr. Gifford thought that his son had neglected to close it when he left. Two men had been noticed hanging about the Park avenue bridge on Saturday night. They disappeared on the appearance of the watchman. Last spring the house next door was entered. It was then occupied by Mrs. Wyckoff.

BURGLARS IN MINERVA'S TEMPLE.

Prof. Leal's School Entered and Ransacked Friday Night.

After ransacking private dwellings and stores galore in this vicinity during the last few months, thieves on Friday night selected Prof. Leal's preparatory school as a field for operation. The fact that the building had been broken into and turned topsy-turvy by the depredators was not discovered till Monday, when Ben Johnson, the janitor, arrived to put the place in order for the resumption of study Monday.

It was found that the burglars had gained an entrance by breaking a window pane in the rear of the building and then turning the catch, easily raised the window and climbed into one of the classrooms. Nearly every desk in the studyroom was opened and ransacked. Tablets, pencils and other school supplies were stolen, but so far as is known, nothing of very great value was missed.

The thieves also entered the laboratory and left it in a state of confusion. There is no clew to the perpetrators.

Honesty.

Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, last Monday evening delivered a very logical, interesting discourse on the subject of "Honesty" to a good-sized congregation, and held the closest attention of his hearers throughout the entire discourse.

BEES IN A SMOKESTACK.

A Swarm of Honey-Makers Caused Scott's Engineer Great Anxiety.

When engineer Dave Sisk of Scott Press Works blew the ten minute signal Saturday morning he was surprised to notice that his steam guages did not respond as promptly as usual when his fires were under full draught. Something was wrong, and Dave's face assumed an unusually stern and worried expression as the minute hand on the time recorders indicated the approach of 7 o'clock—the hour when his faithful ponderous engines were to be started on their regular spin. Hasty examination revealed an awful truth.

His draughts were not working right and the coal laid in his furnaces as though it were resting in cold storage. The tall chimney stood in its usual place and as Dave glanced appealing toward its crown he was dumfounded to discover a swarm of honey bees had taken possession of the great tower—presumely for the winter. A broad grin overcame those worried features—Dave was not to be bluffed at this late hour. The furnaces were filled with shavings and in another moment a dense smoke rolled out of the chimney mingled with the swarm of bees which had evidently located in the chimney during the night in such numbers as to almost block the flues. After being forced from what they had taken for very comfortable winter quarters, the bees seemed greatly exercised and very reticent to give up their abode. They hung around the crowning of the chimney very defiantly for several hours and then gradually disappeared. It was a remarkable incident and attracted considerable attention to say nothing of the engineer's anxiety for a few moments at a critical time.

THE BAPTISTS' RALLY.

First Church Sunday-school Make a Show of Forces for Future Work.

The annual Rally Day exercises of the members of the First Baptist church Sunday-school were held Sunday afternoon in the lecture room of the church, and like all previous ones they were very interesting. The decorations, consisting of a large American flag and some flowers, were very effective.

The programme consisted of an opening selection by Howard Case, pianist, and P. J. Ludwig Conde, violin; a contralto solo by Miss Ward. A special feature was the remarks by the officers of the school. L. H. Bigiow, Jr., spoke regarding the Christian Endeavor Society; Miss Julia Shinn had for her subject the home department of the Sunday-school, while Mrs. J. A. Powlison, superintendent of the primary department, spoke of her work. Superintendent R. K. Case gave a brief talk concerning the school in general, while Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes made a few remarks of an appropriate nature. An interesting number was the recitation "The Seed is the Word," by Beulah VanWinkle. During the afternoon a vocal duet was given by Miss Harris and Mrs. Ward, accompanied by Howard Case on the piano. "Our Shining Song" was the subject of a recitation given by Edith Gaunt.

Superintendent Case stated that according to the report of the secretary there was 350 scholars present and he hoped the number would steadily increase.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company has received the first consignment of the Cleveland chainless wheel which can now be seen at its salesrooms.

The bicycle racing season is almost at an end and soon the cracks will be out on the track trying for the different records against time. Those who do not try for records will be included in the pacing teams. As far as Plainfield has been concerned, the racing season has not been a successful one. There was but one race meet held here this year, and while the racing was of an excellent quality, the audiences was so poor as to deter the Crescent Wheelmen from any further attempts at race meet promoting. Now the track lies idle and the lovers of racing go elsewhere to enjoy a meet.

The Metuchen Recorder editorially complains about the conduct of some of the bicycle riders who pass through that town, and asks: "The League of American Wheelmen, properly enough, have organized to protect their interests, and have local consuls in all important places. It would seem to be one of their highest interests to see to it that brutes and blackguards be put out and kept out of their guild, and an important duty of the local consul ought to be to investigate such occurrences and report the miscreants for expulsion." If upon investigation, the offending wheelmen are found to be members of the league, undoubtedly prompt action will be taken, but at the same time the L. A. W. should not be held responsible for the actions or conduct of the "large army of wheelmen" who are not identified with the L. A. W.

G. F. Brown, of Grove street, is able to be out again after a short illness.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

RULES OF SIDEWALK AND ROAD.

The congestion of traffic on city streets is evolving a series of road rules, sometimes having the force of a city ordinance, and of street etiquette, out of which may grow in time a comprehensive code, under which may be defined the right of the bicyclist as against the truckman, and the right of the humble pedestrian as against them both. One of the latest practical suggestions in this line of street etiquette comes from Chicago, where a card is published bearing on one side the ordinance giving the right of way to street cars, and on the other a picture showing the proper position for vehicles left standing on the street. When the vehicle is backed up against the curbstone the horse should be turned so as to stand looking in the direction the cars are going—not coming—on the nearest railway track. Then should the horse start forward as a car passes, the car will hit the shafts from behind and no great damage is likely. If, on the other hand, the car strikes a shaft pointing in the opposite direction, the shaft will run into the car, and a smashup and probable injury to passengers is the result. The suggestion is of even more importance in cities where passengers are allowed to ride on the footboards of the cars, in which position they run the risk of being impaled on a wagon shaft.

DEARTH OF SHIRTMAKERS.

The fact that the Huntington Shirt Company was forced to remove their factory from this city on account of their being unable to procure skilled help—or even hands that might in time become such—has been a matter of wonder to many business men. But it seems that even in the great city of Newark a similar condition of affairs exist. Referring to the fact, The Sunday Call says:

Shirt manufacturers, who recently opened a factory in Newark, have advertised in vain for women to make shirts, offering wages of from $6 to $9 a week. They need a hundred hands, but only about a dozen have applied for work, and meanwhile orders cannot be filled. In these hard times one would suppose the factory could be crowded with operators in a day, but the fact is that the making of shirts calls for skilled labor, and every shirt manufacturer here and elsewhere finds the same difficulty in getting workers. Women will not, or cannot, qualify themselves to make shirts as they ought to be made.

BOUND TO COME THIS WAY.

It is said that nothing will be done toward extending the trolley system from Plainfield this week before spring. When our line is completed from New Brunswick by way of Metuchen to Perth Amboy, our word for it, Plainfield and Metuchen cannot be long held apart.—Metuchen Recorder.

The Burlington county Republican convention, Saturday, was preceded by a fight between four men for the Senatorial nomination, but when it came to a vote the contest simmered down to Joshua E. Burton, of Moorestown, and M. C. Matlack, of Mt. Holly. Burton was nominated on the first ballot by a vote of 97 to 91.

The tax rate in Plainfield this year will be $2.63 on the hundred. This is more than double the rate in Somerville. Plainfieiders had better sell out and come to Somerville. We have a healthier town and all the improvements that Plainfield enjoys without paying nearly so much for it.—Somerville Democrat.

For the man of modest means, the loan and savings associations are the greatest financial institutions ever established; and to the credit of Plainfield she maintains several that for stability and prosperity are not excelled by any in the state.

Just three months from last Saturday Christmas will be here. Santa Claus will be at the same old stand, just as liberal—to the rich man's child—as ever.

The New York newspapers teem with advice about saving the Palisades, but the New Jersey women are doing the actual work.

Screen doors are called down all over town. Any house having them in use now must be a fly place, indeed.

By George (Henry) the Bryan Democrats seem to think they will win the Greater New York Mayoralty.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac Simile Wrapper Chas. H. Fletcher is on every bottle

THE ELECTION.

However energetic many people may have labored for the success of the anti-gambling Constitutional amendment and however much they may deplore its defeat at the special election yesterday, the result does not by any means indicate that New Jersey is again to be cursed by the practices that would have been made impossible by the inculcation of the anti gambling clause in the Constitutional government—in direct sympathy with which all legislation must be enacted. The purpose of the amendment, of course, was to put it beyond the power of the Legislature to legalize such horse racing as was once in vogue, but the indifference of the people in the cause of morality should become so pronounced that insidious influences should gain a foothold at Trenton and nullify the laws that now exist wholly by the grace of the Legislature itself, and which it could wipe out at any time if so inclined. An attempt, however, to return to the old days of race track gambling in New Jersey will be met by an array of opposition—the nucleus of which is represented in the minority vote of Tuesday—that would doubtless bury it again as it did four years ago. As we view the result yesterday, there are two factors that are responsible for the light vote in favor of the amendment. The first and fore most was the apathetic feeling among thousands of voters who, if they had gone to the polls at all, would have voted in favor of the amendment. The other is the element who are opposed to gambling practices, but averse to a Constitutional clause so sweeping in effect, not only to the race-track issue but even to the church "grab-bag," and which further serves to relieve citizens of a sense of responsibility towards electing none but men of unquestioned integrity and good morals to the Legislature. If it comes to an issue of electing legislators favorable either one way or the other these elements would affiliate with the affirmative voters of yesterday, making an overwhelming majority in the State.

We are convinced of the fact that New York may be the greatest city in the new world, but how often is she dependent on demure little Jersey for its sand that. Even the walking delegates in the great metropolis have duties to perform the other day simply because New Jersey was on the map. As a result of trouble between the proprietors of an elevator factory in Watsessing, a general strike was ordered on a big office building being constructed on Broadway. About 250 men stopped work because a Jersey elevator was to be put into the structure.

The young lady who occupied a center aisle seat in Music Hall last Tuesday and forcibly but politely requested a couple of young men, who persisted in running out between each act, to remain in their seats till the last act was over, is made of the right stuff. And more than that: she removed her hat during the performance. She was a consistent young woman.

Sheriff Kirk would be strictly in it if he was a New York city Republican just at present inasmuch as his business is that of a bridge builder, but still to bridge the turbulent stream of factional fights would perhaps be more than the Sheriff would care to undertake.

The tramp who saw the wood pile but wouldn't saw the wood is gone one better by the tramp who saw the prison bars part and left the Middlesex jail officials wondering how he sawed without being seen.

Up to-date Passaic burglars use ladders to gain entrance to private dwellings. Indeed, there is always opportunity for men to go higher in every occupation.

The excellent likepess of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall published on the first page of today's paper is printed through the courtesy of the New York World.

Bound Brook's tax rate this year is $1.75, a share of which goes to pay the sewer debt. Other tax rates in this vicinity are Dunellen, $2.35; Perth Amboy, $2.56, New Brunswick, $2.60; Summit, $2.92; Passaic, $3.00.

Pulled up Grade Stakes.

A number of reckless youngsters have pulled out the grade stakes in the last-out paths of the city park, and now it will be necessary to have the work surveyed again, entailing double expense for the Women's Town Improvement Association. It is probable that Contractor Forristyl will be appointed a special officer to see to it that such acts are not repeated.

It Saves the Croupy Children.

Scaview Va.—We have a splendid sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and our customers coming from far and near, speak of it in the highest terms. Many have said that their children would have died of croup if Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had not been given—Kellam & Ourren. The 25 and 50 cents sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Rescues Club to Resume Work.

The first meeting of the Rescues Club for the season of 1897-98 will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning next at the home of the president, 829 Park avenue. The subject will be "Vacation Experiences." A cordial invitation is extended to every member.

Makes Health Captive.

Health comes from harmonious action of the digestive organs. Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient makes the stomach right; it lightens the work of the kidneys, liver and bowels. Nature needs no other aid.

50 cts. and $1.00. All druggists.

SCOTCH LAD HATES HOME.

NOR DOES HE LIKE THE LIFE OF A CABIN BOY.

Willie Barr Makes a Second Escape From an Ocean Steamer and Comes to Plainfield—Incorrigible and Must Stay in Jail.

Although William Clark Barr perfers to live in free America, next Saturday he sails for his home in Scotland. Barr is the fourteen-year-old lad that ran away from one of the Anchor Line steamers several weeks ago and came to this city. This paper told the story of the lad's experiences at the time and how he had been placed on board the ship because the school board in his Scottish home found him incorrigible.

He was cabin boy on the steamer and was to remain there for some time, but he ran away and came to see John Cashman, of McDow-il street, in this city, who is a friend of his father's. Cashman took him back to the steamer and left him there after keeping him in Plainfield for over a week. While in Plainfield, he sent the lad to school, but the boy had a falling out with the janitor and there was trouble. He afterwards returned to school and continued there without trouble. The story as related in this paper ended with his arrival on the steamer again.

Saturday noon the steamer was to sail for Glasgow. In the rush and hurry that always precedes the departure of a big ocean liner, the lad, without hat or coat, ran down the gangway and disappeared in the crowd. The steamer sailed and the officers have no idea what has become of their cabin boy, whose cap and coat still hung on a peg. Willie made his way to the Liberty street ferry, told a plaintive tale to a man there and the man bought the lad a ticket to Plainfield. So, late Saturday evening, Willie landed in Plainfield in his seaman's togs, without hat or coat, and went to the West End to find his friends there. The house was closed and Willie picked out a resting place under Magie's front piazza on McDowell street.

Last Sunday the Cashmans were greatly surprised to see the lad walk in. They consulted Chief Grant in regard to the matter and the Chief took the boy in hand and locked him up. Monday City Judge DeMeza was consulted and it was decided to commit the boy to Elizabeth until Friday to keep him safe, and then the Captain will take him over to the Anchor Line steamer that sails on Saturday and turn him over to the officers of that ship.

The lad marched into court with the true seaman's walk, but when he heard that he was to go back to the ship, he wept and begged that he be allowed to stay. He promised Mrs. Cashman that he would be good, but she refused to take him back. He said that he was well treated on board the steamer, but wanted to stay in America.

KITES TO PREDICT WEATHER.

Mr. Eddy, of Bayonne, Says He Can Forecast Changes in Temperature.

William A. Eddy, of Bayonne, the kite expert, has announced that he can foretell changes in temperature by means of his kites. Mr. Eddy sends up two kites of his own make to an altitude of fifteen or eighteen hundred feet. At night a lantern fixed to the ground line at the lower kite makes it possible to determine the altitude exactly. To the upper kite is fastened a registering thermometer.

When this thermometer shows a difference in temperature of ten or more degrees from one on the ground Mr. Eddy says he can foretell exactly the weather conditions for the succeeding forty-eight hours. If less than ten degrees' difference is shown his predictions are approximate.

A Cure for Bilious Colic.

Resources, Screven Co., Ga.—I have been subject to attacks of bilious colic for several years. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the only sure relief. It acts like a charm. One dose of it gives relief when all other remedies fail.—G. D. Sharp. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

David Bowden Got the Contract.

At a meeting of the Common Council of Lodi, Bergen county, held last Monday, bids were received for the grading and macadamizing of several streets in the borough. There were nine bids, all very close. The contract was awarded to David Bowden, of this city, and the estimated cost is $15,000. The work is to be started at once.

Real Estate Changes.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded in the County Clerk's office during the past week:

Susannah A. Phillips et ux., to Minnie Stryker, Plainfield, lot Mariners avenue, 150 feet southeast of Dunellen avenue, $1,000; Wm. V. Mundy et ux., to Louis Mohring, North Plainfield, lot Fifth street, Plainfield, mortgage $1,800, $2,000.

THE JEWISH NEW YEAR.

ROSH HASHANA BEGAN WITH THE SUNSET LAST SUNDAY.

Hebrews Throughout the Whole World Observed the Event—The Beginning of the 5,658th Year in the Hebrew Calendar.

As soon as the first three stars become visible in the firmament last Sunday Rosh Hashana, or the Jewish New Year, was ushered in. This means to the 10,000, 00 Jews throughout the world the beginning of a series of festal days, lasting almost an entire month. No matter how indifferent to the traditional tenets of Judaism the modern Israelite may have become, or how deeply his whole mind and soul may be engrossed in his business, on two of these days at least—Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement—he will be found worshipping in temple or synagogue, unless he is entirely alienated from the faith of his fathers and ancestors.

Rosh Hashana occurs on the first day of the month of Tishri, and the Hebrew chronology recorded Sunday night the 5,658th year since the first day of creation, when Elohim said "let there be light." Now there is some controversy in the Talmud as to the time of the year when these words were utered. Rabbi Joshua fills several pages to prove that the year really begins in Nisan, which is in the spring, when life and vegetation assume their empyonic bloom. Rabbi Eleazar, however, opposes him with an equal number of pages in favor of Tishri, maintaining that the creation must begin with the formation of the germ, which occurs in the autumn. Rabbi Eleazar retained the fruits of victory, for the date of Rosh Hashana remained undisturbed.

The principal features of the Rosh Hashana liturgy were that night the singing of the thirteen articles of the Jewis Creed, compiled by Maimonidas, and Mo n 'say for four and a half hours, the reading of many psalms and prayers. Most impressive of all is the blowing of the seafar, or ram's horn which refers to the judgment which God is supposed to render on this day. It is blown to call forth terror from the wicked and unrepentant, and to inspire rejoicing in the repentant and virtuous.

The stores of all local Hebrew merchants were closed Monday in honor of the New Year.

TO RELIEVE OVERCROWDING.

Borough Board of Education Will Probably Move the Kindergarten.

A special meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education was held last Monday in the school building for the purpose of considering methods and means for relieving the present overcrowded condition of the school. It was reported by the building committee that they had come under the advisement the basement of the German Reformed church, Warren chapel, Grace M. E. church and one or two other places. The committee did not report anything definite, however, and thought it best for the Board to consider the matter as a whole. The committee was continued for the purpose of ascertaining figures for rental, etc., and a special meeting will again be held very soon to decide in the matter.

"My boy came home late from school one day with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schall, with Meyer Bros.' Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo. "I dressed the wound, and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely. All pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

Sons of Veterans Fair.

A meeting of the Sons of Veterans fair committee was held last Monday. Edward P. T. Smith was chosen as chairman of the committee, Frank Clarkson secretary, and Raymond McVoy treasurer. Raymond McVoy and Charles Graves were appointed a committee on rooms, and the matter of printing was left in charge of H. S. Thatcher and George Bedford. The securing of music was left to Fred Sutton and John Naylor. It was decided to hold the fair during the first week in November.

IS IT A SUSTAINER?

How much manual labor do you think you do in a day? A post-man averages about 353 footfalls. An ordinary laborer 350 tons. A very hard day's work would be 400 tons. A clerk or bookkeeper may fall as low as from 15 to 20 tons. At Weston's recent walk to Albany, 150 miles, in 60 hours, we calculate his work was no less than 1005 footfalls, and his food consisted entirely of

H-O

Oatmeal. As an ideal sustainer, H-O meets every demand.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption (Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

—The death of Miss Minnie R. Mahoney, occurred in Bound Brook Tuesday. She lived in New Haven, Conn., and will be buried there. She was a daughter of Col. John H. Mahoney, and a sister of John Mahoney, of Westfield.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:25, 9:45, 11:20 a. m., 2:20, 5, 5:30 p. m. Close—7:25, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 2:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA.

Arrive—8:30 a. m., 1:55 and 3:20 p. m. Close—7:25, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 2:30 p. m. Through mail for West and South, close 2:30 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—2:30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9 to 10:30 a. m. Mail closes at 4:30 p. m.

J. M. HEYFIELD, P. M.

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT SEPT. 26, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 45, 6 45, 8 00, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 01 night. Sunday at 5 45, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m., 12 01 night.

